“Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta”

Madhya-līlā

Chapter 6

The Deliverance of Sārvabhauma

(English translation from the Bengali, following the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition and the «Anubhāṣya», 2026 — draft)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. When Śrīman Mahāprabhu saw Śrī Jagannātha, His great love brought on the sāttvika transformations that are the signs of mahābhāva, and Sārvabhauma took Him to his own house. Gopīnātha Ācārya, Sārvabhauma's brother-in-law (his sister's husband), met Mukunda, whom he had known before, and heard from him that Śrīman Mahāprabhu had accepted sannyāsa and come to Nīlācala. Word of Mahāprabhu's mahābhāva passed from mouth to mouth, and everyone went to Sārvabhauma's house. Nityānanda and the others went for darśana of Jagannātha with Candaneśvara, Sārvabhauma's son, and when they returned, Mahāprabhu regained consciousness (outward awareness) in the third prahara of the day. Sārvabhauma lovingly served everyone mahā-prasāda. Once he had become acquainted with Mahāprabhu, Sārvabhauma gave Him lodging in the house of his maternal aunt. Gopīnātha Ācārya declared that Mahāprabhu was Īśvara, God, and he had a long dispute with Sārvabhauma and his disciples. Gopīnātha explained well that without the Supreme Lord's mercy no one can know the truth of the Supreme Lord, and that God is not known through learning. From the Bhāgavatam and the Mahābhārata he proved that Mahāprabhu is Bhagavān Himself. Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya only laughed at this, and all of it reached Mahāprabhu's ears. Mahāprabhu said, “The Bhaṭṭācārya is Our guru; whatever he says out of affection is for Our good.” When Mahāprabhu met the Bhaṭṭācārya, the Bhaṭṭācārya told Him to hear Vedānta. Mahāprabhu agreed and listened to Vedānta in silence for seven days. The Bhaṭṭācārya said, “Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, can't You understand Vedānta?” The Lord replied, “You told Me to listen, and I am listening. I understand the sūtras of Vyāsa well; what I cannot understand is the Māyāvādī commentary you are reading." Answering the Bhaṭṭācārya's questions, Mahāprabhu explained the Upaniṣads and Vedānta and established saviśeṣa-vāda, the doctrine of Brahman with attributes. He said, "The Māyāvādīs hold that Brahman is formless and without potency. Both of these ideas are a great error. Everywhere the Vedas accept the potency of Brahman, and they accept His eternal, transcendental form (vigraha), full of being, knowledge, and bliss. According to the Vedas, Īśvara and the jīva are at the same time eternally different in their intrinsic nature (svarūpa) and in their character, and eternally nondifferent. In short, the conclusion of the Vedas and Vedānta is the siddhānta of acintya-bhedābheda. In truth the Māyāvādīs are atheists." The Bhaṭṭācārya argued at length, but he was defeated. Then, at the Bhaṭṭācārya's request, the Lord gave eighteen explanations of the ātmārāma verse. When knowledge dawned in the Bhaṭṭācārya, the Lord showed him His own form. The Bhaṭṭācārya recited a hundred verses and offered Him prostrated obeisances. Seeing the Lord's extraordinary mercy, Gopīnātha and all the others rejoiced. Later, one day at dawn, Mahāprabhu watched Śrī Jagannātha rise from sleep, took the prasāda called pākāla, and gave it to the Bhaṭṭācārya. By then the Bhaṭṭācārya was free of the dullness that doctrinal opinions breed, and in supreme bliss he accepted the mahā-prasāda. On another day the Bhaṭṭācārya wished to know which practice of devotion is best, and Mahāprabhu instructed him to perform nāma-saṅkīrtana. On yet another day Sārvabhauma replaced the word mukti-pade at the end of the verse tat te 'nukampām with bhakti-pade and recited it so to Mahāprabhu. The Lord said, "There is no need to change the text of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. The word mukti-pada means Kṛṣṇa." The Bhaṭṭācārya, who by then had become a vessel of pure devotion, replied, "Although the word mukti-pada does mean 'Kṛṣṇa,' its ambiguity is a defect, and I have no taste for using it; when one says bhakti-pada, the devotees are very happy." Hearing how the Bhaṭṭācārya had been delivered from Māyāvāda, the learned men of Nīlācala took shelter of the Lord.

Obeisance to Gaura, who conquered Sārvabhauma —

নৌমি তং গৌরচন্দ্রং যঃ কুতর্ক-কর্কশাশয়ম্ । সার্ব্বভৌমং সর্ব্বভূমা ভক্তিভূমানমাচরৎ ॥ ১ ॥

naumi taṁ gauracandraṁ yaḥ
I bow down to that Gauracandra who kutarka-karkaśāśayam
by false arguments whose heart was hardened sārvabhaumaṁ sarva-bhūmā Sārvabhauma the Lord of all bhakti-bhūmānam ācarat
of devotion the great abode made

1 I bow down to Gauracandra, the Lord of all, who turned Sārvabhauma, his heart hardened by false arguments, into a great abode of devotion.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
I bow down to Gauracandra, the Supreme Person greater than all (sarva-bhūmā), who filled with devotion Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya, whose heart had been hardened by false arguments.

Anubhāṣya.
yaḥ sarva-bhūmā (He whose greatness [bhūmā] exceeds all — the gods and humans who bear every kind of upādhi within Devī-dhāma, and everything other than Kṛṣṇa that abides in Brahmaloka, Vaikuṇṭha, Goloka, and other realms; that is, Gauracandra, the Supreme of supreme Paramātmās) kutarka-karkaśāśayam (whose heart had grown hard and full of material conceit through false argument — through misconceptions about the jīva's intrinsic nature, its function, and so on — through endeavors other than serving Kṛṣṇa, and through reliance on false knowledge) sārvabhaumam (the king of scholars named Vāsudeva) bhakti-bhūmānam (a vessel full of pure devotion) ācarat (made, that is, made a servant of His own feet), tam (that Gauracandra) naumi (I praise).

জয় জয় গৌরচন্দ্র জয় নিত্যানন্দ । জয়াদ্বৈতচন্দ্র জয় গৌরভক্তবৃন্দ ॥ ২ ॥

jaya jaya gauracandra jaya nityānanda glory glory to Gauracandra glory to Nityānanda jayādvaitacandra jaya gaurabhaktavṛnda glory to Advaitacandra glory of Gaura the devotees to the multitude

2 Glory, glory to Gauracandra! Glory to Nityānanda! Glory to Advaitacandra! Glory to all the devotees of Gaura![1]

Overwhelmed by love, the Lord runs to embrace Jagannātha and falls unconscious —

আবেশে চলিলা প্রভু জগন্নাথ-মন্দিরে । জগন্নাথ দেখি' প্রেমে হইলা অস্থিরে ॥ ৩ ॥

āveśe calilā prabhu jagannātha-mandire
in ecstasy went the Lord to Jagannātha's temple
jagannātha dekhi' preme hailā asthire Jagannātha seeing in love He became restless

3 Absorbed in ecstasy, the Lord went to the temple of Jagannātha, and when He saw Jagannātha, He grew restless with love.

জগন্নাথ আলিঙ্গিতে চলিলা ধাঞা । মন্দিরে পড়িলা প্রেমে আবিষ্ট হঞা ॥ ৪ ॥

jagannātha āliṅgite calilā dhāñā Jagannātha to embrace He went running mandire paḍilā preme āviṣṭa hañā
in the temple He fell with love overwhelmed being

4 He ran forward to embrace Jagannātha, but, overwhelmed with love, He fell down in the temple.

By chance Sārvabhauma sees the Lord and saves Him from being struck —

দৈবে সার্ব্বভৌম তাঁহাকে করে দরশন । পড়িছা মারিতে তেঁহো কৈল নিবারণ ॥ ৫ ॥

daive sārvabhauma tāṁhāke kare daraśana
by providence Sārvabhauma Him sees paḍichā mārite teṁho kaila nivāraṇa
the temple superintendent from striking he made prevention

5 By providence Sārvabhauma saw Him there, and he stopped the temple superintendent (paḍichā) from striking Him.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Paḍichā — an officer like a superintendent (dārogā) of the Śrī Mandira. This paḍichā was Sārvabhauma's disciple in learning (śikṣā-śiṣya).

Sārvabhauma's amazement —

প্রভুর সৌন্দর্য্য আর প্রেমের বিকার । দেখি' সার্ব্বভৌম হৈলা বিস্মিত অপার ॥ ৬ ॥

prabhura saundarya āra premera vikāra
the Lord's beauty and of love the transformations
dekhi' sārvabhauma hailā vismita apāra
seeing Sārvabhauma became amazed boundlessly

6 Seeing the Lord's beauty and the transformations of love in His body, Sārvabhauma was amazed beyond measure.

Seeing that the Lord is long in regaining consciousness, Sārvabhauma brings Him to his own house —

বহুক্ষণে চৈতন্য নহে, ভোগের কাল হৈল । সার্ব্বভৌম মনে তবে উপায় চিন্তিল ॥ ৭ ॥

bahu-kṣaṇe caitanya nahe, bhogera kāla haila for a long time consciousness is not of the offering the time came sārvabhauma mane tabe upāya cintila
Sārvabhauma in his mind then a means considered

7 For a long time the Lord did not regain consciousness, and the time came to offer food to Jagannātha. Then Sārvabhauma considered what to do.

শিষ্য পড়িছা-দ্বারা নিল বহাঞা । ঘরে আনি' পবিত্র-স্থানে রাখিল শোয়াঞা ॥ ৮ ॥

śiṣya paḍichā-dvārā nila vahāñā
by disciples and temple superintendents had (Him) carried ghare āni' pavitra-sthāne rākhila śoyāñā to his house bringing in a pure place he kept (Him) lying

8 With the help of his disciples and the temple superintendents he had Him carried to his house and laid Him down in a pure place.

Anubhāṣya.
Ghare (to his house) — at that time Śrī Vāsudeva Sārvabhauma lived south of the Śrī Mandira, in Bālukhaṇḍa, on the bank of the Mārkaṇḍeya-saras. Today that house is known as the "Gaṅgāmātā Maṭha."

Seeing the Lord unconscious, as if dead, the Bhaṭṭācārya is alarmed —

শ্বাস-প্রশ্বাস নাহি উদর-স্পন্দন । দেখিয়া চিন্তিত হৈল ভট্টাচার্য্যের মন ॥ ৯ ॥

śvāsa-praśvāsa nāhi udara-spandana breathing in and out there is not of the abdomen movement dekhiyā cintita haila bhaṭṭācāryera mana seeing anxious became the Bhaṭṭācārya's mind

9 There was no breath and no movement of the abdomen; seeing this, the Bhaṭṭācārya grew anxious.

The Bhaṭṭācārya tests whether the Lord is conscious and is somewhat reassured —

সূক্ষ্ম তুলা আনি' নাসা-অগ্রেতে ধরিল । ঈষৎ চলয়ে তুলা দেখি' ধৈর্য্য হৈল ॥ ১০ ॥

sūkṣma tulā āni' nāsā-agrete dharila fine cotton bringing at the tip of the nostrils he held īṣat calaye tulā dekhi' dhairya haila slightly moves the cotton seeing composure came

10 He brought a fine wisp of cotton and held it before the Lord's nostrils, and when he saw the cotton stir slightly, he grew calmer.

The Bhaṭṭācārya recognizes the transformations of great love in the Lord's body —

বসি' ভট্টাচার্য্য মনে করেন বিচার । এই কৃষ্ণ-মহাপ্রেমের সাত্ত্বিক বিকার ॥ ১১ ॥

vasi' bhaṭṭācārya mane karena vicāra sitting the Bhaṭṭācārya in his mind makes reflection ei kṛṣṇa-mahāpremera sāttvika vikāra
this of great love for Kṛṣṇa the sāttvika transformation

11 Sitting there, the Bhaṭṭācārya reflected: "This is a sāttvika transformation of great love for Kṛṣṇa.

Anubhāṣya.
See Madhya 3.162.

*The "sūddīpta-bhāva" —*

'সূদ্দীপ্ত সাত্ত্বিক' এই নাম যে 'প্রলয়' । নিত্যসিদ্ধ ভক্তে সে 'সূদ্দীপ্ত ভাব' হয় ॥ ১২ ॥

'sūddīpta sāttvika' ei nāma ye 'pralaya'
sūddīpta sāttvika this the name which pralaya nitya-siddha bhakte se 'sūddīpta bhāva' haya
in eternally perfect devotees that sūddīpta bhāva occurs

12 This swoon, called pralaya, is sūddīpta sāttvika, ecstasy at its most blazing, and such blazing ecstasy (sūddīpta bhāva) is found only in eternally perfect devotees.

Anubhāṣya.
Sūddīpta (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, third wave). The attempt to conceal the eight sāttvika-vikāras is of two kinds — the "smoldering" (dhūmāyitā) and the "flaming" (jvalitā). Smoldering: "When these bhāvas, alone or with a second, are slightly manifest and can still be concealed, they are considered smoldering." When one or two bhāvas appear slightly in the body of a devotee who feels naturally (sahaja-bhāvuka) and can still be concealed, that bhāva is called "smoldering." Flaming: "Two or three that come at once to a clearly manifest state and can be hidden only with difficulty are called flaming." When two or three sāttvika-bhāvas appear at the same time and can be hidden only with difficulty, this is called "flaming." Burning (dīptā): "When three, four, or five intensified bhāvas become manifest at once and cannot be held back, the wise call them burning." When three, four, or five bhāvas of love (prīti) arise at once and the effort to restrain them fails, the wise who know bhāva call this "burning." Blazing (uddīptā): "When five, six, or all of them become manifest at once and rise to the highest degree, they are called blazing." When five, six, or all the bhāvas appear at once and rise to the highest pitch of prema, this is called uddīpta. (Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi): "A special kind of the blazing are the sūddīpta, found only here and there; in them the sāttvika-bhāvas reach the very summit." In some cases a particular variety of the uddīpta-bhāvas is called sūddīpta. When the sāttvika-bhāvas, multiplied millions of times, reach the highest degree and the culmination of prema is beautifully displayed, they receive the name sūddīpta.

Nitya-siddha-bhakta — a devotee who is the Lord's eternal associate (pārṣada), a divya-sūri. (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya 24.289[28]): "In vidhi-bhakti the eternally perfect associates appear in four ways — as servants, friends, elders, and beloveds."

*An unearthly mahābhāva in the Lord's body —*

'অধিরূঢ়-মহাভাব' যাঁর, তাঁর এ বিকার । মনুষ্যের দেহে দেখি, — বড় চমৎকার ॥ ১৩ ॥

'adhirūḍha-mahābhāva' yāṁra, tāṁra e vikāra
adhirūḍha-mahābhāva in whom his this transformation manuṣyera dehe dekhi, — baḍa camatkāra of a human being in the body I see very astonishing

13 This transformation belongs to one who has adhirūḍha-mahābhāva. That I should see it in a human body is astonishing indeed!"

Anubhāṣya.

Adhirūḍha-mahābhāva. The Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi says. Anurāga: "The rāga that itself becomes ever newer and makes the beloved ever new, though he is constantly experienced, is called anurāga." That is, the heroine (nāyikā) has constantly relished the beauty, qualities, and sweetness of her dear hero (nāyaka), yet she feels as if she had never relished them. The heroine's rāga, which in her experience makes the hero ever new as well, itself becomes ever new and is called anurāga. Bhāva: “When anurāga, reaching the state in which it is felt by itself (sva-saṁvedya), becomes manifest and extends to its farthest resting place (yāvad-āśraya-vṛtti), it is called bhāva.” That is, if anurāga, through its own anurāga, reaches the state in which it can be felt, becomes manifest, and attains its limit, it is called bhāva. If it is not manifest, then, for lack of yāvad-āśraya-vṛtti, only anurāga remains in a state felt by itself alone, and it cannot be called bhāva. Mahābhāva: “This [bhāva], extremely rare even for the queens of Mukunda and experienced only by the goddesses of Vraja, is called mahābhāva.” Mahābhāva is divided into rūḍha and adhirūḍha: “Possessing the beauty of the finest nectar, it brings the mind to its own nature; the wise call it twofold — rūḍha and adhirūḍha.” Rūḍha-mahābhāva: “That in which the sāttvika-bhāvas blaze (uddīpta) is called rūḍha.” Adhirūḍha-mahābhāva: “That in which the anubhāvas are seen to attain some distinction beyond the anubhāvas described for rūḍha is called adhirūḍha.” This bhāva is extremely hard to attain even for Śrī Kṛṣṇa's queens; only the gopīs of Vraja can experience this mahābhāva. That is, mahābhāva is not seen in any woman other than the gopīs. Among the things relished in this world, nothing is finer than nectar. Mahābhāva, which is like nectar, is a special state of prema: the mind does not exist apart from it; that is, the mind becomes mahābhāva itself. The senses are functions of the mind, and the mind of the gopīs, and with it all their senses, have become mahābhāva. It therefore stands to reason that in all their activities they are all completely subject to Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Because of their desire for enjoyment in union (sambhoga), the minds of the principal queens stand apart and do not wholly consist of prema; therefore mahābhāva is not possible in them. Mahābhāva is of two kinds, rūḍha and adhirūḍha. The mahābhāva in which the sāttvika-bhāvas blaze is rūḍha-bhāva. When the sāttvika-bhāvas attain some distinction beyond the anubhāvas described for rūḍha-bhāva, the anubhāva then seen is adhirūḍha-mahābhāva. This is not the sūddīpta-bhāva. Adhirūḍha-bhāva is divided into modana and mādana. When the sāttvika-bhāvas of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa blaze in adhirūḍha-mahābhāva and attain fullness, that is modana; when prema, the essence of hlādinī, exults as it awakens all the bhāvas, it is called mādana. Mādana is higher than the highest, that is, superior to mohana and the other bhāvas; it is ever possible only in Śrī Rādhikā.

The Bhaṭṭācārya's reflections —

এত চিন্তি’ ভট্টাচার্য্য আছেন বসিয়া । নিত্যানন্দাদি সিংহদ্বারে উত্তরিল গিয়া ॥ ১৪ ॥

eta cinti’ bhaṭṭācārya āchena vasiyā thus thinking the Bhaṭṭācārya remains sitting nityānandādi siṁha-dvāre uttarila giyā Nityānanda and the others at the Lion Gate arrived going 14 While the Bhaṭṭācārya sat there thinking this, Nityānanda and the others arrived at the Lion Gate.

Nityānanda and the others come from Āṭhāranālā to Purī and hear from the people that the Lord is in the Bhaṭṭācārya's house —

তাঁহা শুনি’ লোকে কহে অন্যোন্যে বাত্ । এত সন্ন্যাসী আসি’ দেখি’ জগন্নাথ ॥ ১৫ ॥

tāṁhā śuni’ loke kahe anyonye bāt
there hearing people speak among themselves the talk eta sannyāsī āsi’ dekhi’ jagannātha
such a sannyāsī coming seeing Jagannātha

15 There they heard people saying to one another, “A sannyāsī came here and saw Jagannātha.

মূর্চ্ছিত হৈল, চেতন না হয় শরীরে । সার্ব্বভৌম লঞা গেলা আপনার ঘরে ॥ ১৬ ॥

mūrcchita haila, cetana nā haya śarīre unconscious He became consciousness not is in the body sārvabhauma lañā gelā āpanāra ghare
Sārvabhauma taking (Him) went to his own house

16 He fell unconscious and showed no sign of life, and Sārvabhauma took Him to his own house.”

Gopīnātha, Sārvabhauma's brother-in-law (his sister's husband), arrives there —

শুনি' সবে জানিলা এই মহাপ্রভুর কার্য্য । হেনকালে আইলা তাঁহা গোপীনাথাচার্য্য ॥ ১৭ ॥

śuni' sabe jānilā ei mahāprabhura kārya hearing all understood this Mahāprabhu's doing hena-kāle āilā tāṁhā gopīnāthācārya
at that time came there Gopīnātha Ācārya

17 Hearing this, they all understood that it was Mahāprabhu's doing. Just then Gopīnātha Ācārya came there.

Anubhāṣya.

Viśārada — Maheśvara Viśārada, a fellow student of Nīlāmbara Cakravartī, lived in "Vidyānagara," near Samudragaḍa. His two sons were Madhusūdana Vācaspati and Vāsudeva Sārvabhauma, and his son-in-law was Gopīnātha Ācārya.

নদীয়া-নিবাসী, বিশারদের জামাতা । মহাপ্রভুর ভক্ত তেঁহো প্রভুর তত্ত্বজ্ঞাতা ॥ ১৮ ॥

nadīyā-nivāsī, viśāradera jāmātā
of Nadīyā a resident of Viśārada the son-in-law
mahāprabhura bhakta teṁho prabhura tattva-jñātā Mahāprabhu's devotee he of the Lord the truth knowing 18 He was a resident of Nadīyā and the son-in-law of Viśārada. A devotee of Mahāprabhu, he knew the truth about the Lord.

After speaking with Mukunda and the others, whom he knew from before, Gopīnātha hears news of the Lord —

মুকুন্দ-সহিত পূর্ব্বে আছে পরিচয় । মুকুন্দ দেখিয়া তাঁর হইল বিস্ময় ॥ ১৯ ॥

mukunda-sahita pūrve āche paricaya with Mukunda previously there is acquaintance mukunda dekhiyā tāṁra haila vismaya
Mukunda seeing his became surprise

19 He had known Mukunda before, and he was surprised to see him there.

মুকুন্দ তাঁহারে দেখি' কৈল নমস্কার । তেঁহো আলিঙ্গিয়া পুছে প্রভুর সমাচার ॥ ২০ ॥

mukunda tāṁhāre dekhi' kaila namaskāra Mukunda him seeing made obeisance teṁho āliṅgiyā puche prabhura samācāra
he embracing (him) asks of the Lord the news

20 On seeing him, Mukunda bowed down, and Gopīnātha embraced him and asked for news of the Lord.

মুকুন্দ কহে, — প্রভুর ইঁহা হৈল আগমনে । আমি-সব আসিয়াছি মহাপ্রভুর সনে ॥ ২১ ॥

mukunda kahe, — prabhura iṁhā haila āgamane Mukunda says of the Lord here has been the coming āmi-saba āsiyāchi mahāprabhura sane
we all have come Mahāprabhu with 21 Mukunda said, "The Lord has come here, and we have all come with Mahāprabhu."

নিত্যানন্দ-গোসাঞিকে আচার্য্য কৈল নমস্কার । সবে মেলি' পুছে প্রভুর বার্ত্তা বার বার ॥ ২২ ॥

nityānanda-gosāñike ācārya kaila namaskāra
to Nityānanda Gosāñi the Ācārya made obeisance
sabe meli' puche prabhura vārtā bāra bāra
all meeting he asks of the Lord news again and again

22 The Ācārya bowed down to Nityānanda Gosāñi and, meeting them all, asked again and again for news of the Lord.

মুকুন্দ কহে, — মহাপ্রভু সন্ন্যাস করিয়া । নীলাচলে আইলা সঙ্গে আমা-সবা লঞা ॥ ২৩ ॥

mukunda kahe, — mahāprabhu sannyāsa kariyā Mukunda says Mahāprabhu sannyāsa having taken nīlācale āilā saṅge āmā-sabā lañā to Nīlācala came with (Him) us all taking

23 Mukunda said, "After taking sannyāsa, Mahāprabhu came to Nīlācala and brought us all with Him.

আমা-সবা ছাড়ি' আগে গেলা দরশনে । আমি-সব পাছে আইলাঙ তাঁর অন্বেষণে ॥ ২৪ ॥

āmā-sabā chāḍi' āge gelā daraśane us all leaving ahead He went for darśana
āmi-saba pāche āilāṅa tāṁra anveṣaṇe
we all behind came of Him in search

24 He left us and went on ahead for darśana, and we have followed in search of Him.

অন্যোন্যে লোকের মুখে যে কথা শুনিল । সার্ব্বভৌম-গৃহে প্রভু, — অনুমান কৈল ॥ ২৫ ॥

anyonye lokera mukhe ye kathā śunila
among themselves of the people from the mouths what talk we heard sārvabhauma-gṛhe prabhu, — anumāna kaila
in Sārvabhauma's house the Lord inference we made

25 From what we heard people saying among themselves, we have gathered that the Lord is in Sārvabhauma's house.

ঈশ্বর-দর্শনে প্রভু প্রেমে অচেতন । সার্ব্বভৌম লঞা গেলা আপন-ভবন ॥ ২৬ ॥

īśvara-darśane prabhu preme acetana of the Lord at the sight the Lord in love unconscious
sārvabhauma lañā gelā āpana-bhavana
Sārvabhauma taking (Him) went to his own house

26 At the sight of Jagannātha the Lord fell unconscious in love, and Sārvabhauma took Him to his own house.

তোমার মিলনে যবে আমার হৈল মন । দৈবে সেই ক্ষণে পাইলুঁ তোমার দরশন ॥ ২৭ ॥

tomāra milane yabe āmāra haila mana with you for meeting when my was mind daive sei kṣaṇe pāiluṁ tomāra daraśana
by providence at that moment I got your sight

27 Just as I was wishing to meet you, by providence I saw you at that very moment.

Love for the Lord is greater than for Jagannātha —

চল, সবে যাই সার্ব্বভৌমের ভবন । প্রভু দেখি' পাছে করিব ঈশ্বর দর্শন ॥ ২৮ ॥

cala, sabe yāi sārvabhaumera bhavana come all let us go Sārvabhauma's to the house
prabhu dekhi' pāche kariba īśvara darśana
the Lord seeing afterwards we shall have of the Lord darśana

28 Come, let us all go to Sārvabhauma's house. After seeing the Lord, we shall have darśana of Jagannātha."

Everyone goes to Sārvabhauma's house —

এত শুনি' গোপীনাথ সবারে লঞা । সার্ব্বভৌম-ঘরে গেলা হরষিত হঞা ॥ ২৯ ॥

eta śuni' gopīnātha sabāre lañā this hearing Gopīnātha all taking sārvabhauma-ghare gelā haraṣita hañā to Sārvabhauma's house went delighted being

29 Hearing this, Gopīnātha joyfully took them all to Sārvabhauma's house.

There they see the Lord; on seeing Him, Gopīnātha feels joy and sorrow at once —

সার্ব্বভৌম-স্থানে গিয়া প্রভুকে দেখিল । প্রভু দেখি' আচার্য্যের দুঃখ-হর্ষ হৈল ॥ ৩০ ॥

sārvabhauma-sthāne giyā prabhuke dekhila to Sārvabhauma's place going the Lord he saw prabhu dekhi' ācāryera duḥkha-harṣa haila
the Lord seeing of the Ācārya sorrow and joy arose

30 When he came to Sārvabhauma's house and saw the Lord, the Ācārya felt both sorrow and joy.

Sārvabhauma lets everyone into the house and greets each as is fitting —

সার্ব্বভৌমে জানাঞা সবা নিল অভ্যন্তরে । নিত্যানন্দ-গোসাঞিরে তেঁহো কৈল নমস্কারে ॥ ৩১ ॥

sārvabhaume jānāñā sabā nila abhyantare Sārvabhauma informing all he took inside nityānanda-gosāñire teṁho kaila namaskāre to Nityānanda Gosāñi he made obeisance

31 The Ācārya informed Sārvabhauma and brought them all inside, and the master of the house bowed down to Nityānanda Gosāñi.

সবা-সহিত যথাযোগ্য করিল মিলন । প্রভু দেখি' সবার হৈল হরষিত মন ॥ ৩২ ॥

sabā-sahita yathā-yogya karila milana
all with as befitting he made meeting prabhu dekhi' sabāra haila haraṣita mana
the Lord seeing of all became joyful the minds

32 He greeted each of them as was fitting, and all rejoiced at the sight of the Lord.

*Sārvabhauma sends everyone for darśana of Jagannātha with his son Candaneśvara —*

সার্ব্বভৌম পাঠাইল সবা দর্শন করিতে ।
'চন্দনেশ্বর' নিজপুত্র দিল সবার সাথে ॥ ৩৩ ॥

sārvabhauma pāṭhāila sabā darśana karite Sārvabhauma sent all darśana to have
'candaneśvara' nija-putra dila sabāra sāthe Candaneśvara his own son he gave of all along with 33 Sārvabhauma sent them all for darśana and gave them his own son, Candaneśvara, to go with them.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Daraśana karite — to have darśana of Jagannāthadeva.

On seeing Jagannātha, Nitāi is overwhelmed by love —

জগন্নাথ দেখি' সবার হৈল আনন্দ । ভাবেতে আবিষ্ট হৈলা প্রভু নিত্যানন্দ ॥ ৩৪ ॥

jagannātha dekhi' sabāra haila ānanda Jagannātha seeing of all there was joy bhāvete āviṣṭa hailā prabhu nityānanda
in ecstasy absorbed became Prabhu Nityānanda

34 Seeing Jagannātha, everyone was filled with joy, and Nityānanda Prabhu was overcome with ecstasy.

সবে মেলি' ধরি' তাঁরে সুস্থির করিল । ঈশ্বর-সেবক মালা-প্রসাদ আনি' দিল ॥ ৩৫ ॥

sabe meli' dhari' tāṁre susthira karila
all together holding Him steady made īśvara-sevaka mālā-prasāda āni' dila of the Lord the servant garland-prasāda bringing gave 35 Together they held Him and steadied Him, and a servant of Jagannātha brought them His garland and prasāda.

প্রসাদ পাঞা সবে হৈলা আনন্দিত মনে । পুনরপি আইলা সবে মহাপ্রভুর স্থানে ॥ ৩৬ ॥

prasāda pāñā sabe hailā ānandita mane prasāda receiving all became joyful in mind punarapi āilā sabe mahāprabhura sthāne
once again came all Mahāprabhu's to the place

36 Receiving the prasāda, they all rejoiced, and they came back to Mahāprabhu.

*Everyone sings kīrtana loudly near the Lord, and the Lord returns to outward consciousness —*

উচ্চ করি' করে সবে নাম-সংকীর্ত্তন । তৃতীয় প্রহরে হৈল প্রভুর চেতন ॥ ৩৭ ॥

ucca kari' kare sabe nāma-saṁkīrtana
loudly making perform all of the name saṁkīrtana tṛtīya prahare haila prabhura cetana
in the third watch came of the Lord consciousness

37 They all chanted the holy name loudly together, and in the third prahara of the day, after noon, the Lord regained consciousness.

Sārvabhauma's courtesy —

হুঙ্কার করিয়া উঠে ‘হরি’ ‘হরি’ বলি’ । আনন্দে সার্ব্বভৌম তাঁর লৈল পদধূলি ॥ ৩৮ ॥

huṅkāra kariyā uṭhe ‘hari’ ‘hari’ bali’
a roar making He rises Hari Hari saying ānande sārvabhauma tāṁra laila pada-dhūli
in joy Sārvabhauma His took the dust of the feet

38 With a roar He rose up, crying, “Hari! Hari!”, and Sārvabhauma joyfully took the dust of His feet.

Sārvabhauma's invitation —

সার্ব্বভৌম কহে, — শীঘ্র করহ মধ্যাহ্ন । মুঞি ভিক্ষা দিমু আজি মহা-প্রসাদান্ন ॥ ৩৯ ॥

sārvabhauma kahe, — śīghra karaha madhyāhna Sārvabhauma says quickly perform the midday duties
muñi bhikṣā dimu āji mahā-prasādānna
I alms shall give today mahā-prasāda

39 Sārvabhauma said, “Quickly finish Your midday duties. Today I shall offer You mahā-prasāda as alms.”

Anubhāṣya.
Madhyāhna kara — finish bathing and eating during the day.

*After bathing, the Lord and His companions honor prasāda —*

সমুদ্রস্নান করি’ প্রভু শীঘ্র আইলা । চরণ পাখালি, প্রভু আসনে বসিলা ॥ ৪০ ॥

samudra-snāna kari' prabhu śīghra āilā
in the sea bath having taken the Lord quickly came caraṇa pākhāli, prabhu āsane vasilā
the feet washing the Lord on a seat sat

40 The Lord bathed in the sea and quickly returned. He washed His feet and sat down on His seat.

বহুত প্রসাদ সার্ব্বভৌম আনাইল । তবে মহাপ্রভু সুখে ভোজন করিল ॥ ৪১ ॥

bahuta prasāda sārvabhauma ānāila much prasāda Sārvabhauma had brought tabe mahāprabhu sukhe bhojana karila
then Mahāprabhu happily eating did

41 Sārvabhauma had a great quantity of prasāda brought, and Mahāprabhu happily took His meal.

সুবর্ণ-থালাতে অন্ন উত্তম ব্যঞ্জন । ভক্তগণ-সঙ্গে প্রভু করেন ভোজন ॥ ৪২ ॥

suvarṇa-thālāte anna uttama vyañjana
on golden plates rice excellent vegetables bhakta-gaṇa-saṅge prabhu karena bhojana
with the devotees the Lord does eating

42 Rice and excellent vegetable dishes were served on golden plates, and the Lord ate together with His devotees.

*Sārvabhauma serves the prasāda —*

সার্ব্বভৌম পরিবেশন করেন আপনে । প্রভু কহে, — মোরে দেহ লাফ্রা-ব্যঞ্জনে ॥ ৪৩ ॥

sārvabhauma pariveśana karena āpane Sārvabhauma serving does himself
prabhu kahe, — more deha lāphrā-vyañjane
the Lord says to Me give lāphrā vegetables

43 Sārvabhauma served them himself. The Lord said, “Give Me the lāphrā, the plain mixed vegetables,

Anubhāṣya.
Lāphrā-vyañjana — a vegetable dish (tarakārī) made by stewing various ingredients together and seasoning them with cumin, pepper, and mustard.

পীঠা-পানা দেহ তুমি ইঁহা-সবাকারে । সবে ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে যুড়ি’ দুই করে ॥ ৪৪ ॥

pīṭhā-pānā deha tumi iṁhā-sabākāre cakes and sweet drinks give you to all these sabe bhaṭṭācārya kahe yuḍi’ dui kare
to all the Bhaṭṭācārya says joining two hands

44 and give the cakes and sweet drinks to all of them.” With folded hands the Bhaṭṭācārya said to them all:

জগন্নাথ কৈছে করিয়াছেন ভোজন । আজি সব মহাপ্রসাদ কর আস্বাদন ॥ ৪৫ ॥

jagannātha kaiche kariyāchena bhojana Jagannātha as has done eating āji saba mahāprasāda kara āsvādana
today all mahā-prasāda do tasting

45 “Today you must all relish the mahā-prasāda, just as Jagannātha has eaten it.”

এত বলি’ পীঠা-পানা সব খাওয়াইলা । ভিক্ষা করাঞা আচমন করাইলা ॥ ৪৬ ॥

eta bali' pīṭhā-pānā saba khāoyāilā
so saying cakes and sweet drinks all he fed bhikṣā karāñā ācamana karāilā
the meal having given rinsing of the mouth he had them do

46 Saying this, he fed them all the cakes and sweet drinks, and when they had eaten he gave them water to rinse their mouths.

Sārvabhauma comes to the Lord with Gopīnātha —

আজ্ঞা মাগি' গোপীনাথ আচার্য্যকে লঞা । প্রভুর নিকটে আইলা ভোজন করিয়া ॥ ৪৭ ॥

ājñā māgi' gopīnātha ācāryake lañā permission asking Gopīnātha Ācārya taking prabhura nikaṭe āilā bhojana kariyā
of the Lord near came eating having done

47 Then, taking leave, he went with Gopīnātha Ācārya to eat, and after eating he came back to the Lord.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
After the Lord had eaten, Sārvabhauma, with His permission, ate together with Gopīnātha Ācārya and came back to the Lord.

Sārvabhauma's obeisance and the Lord's blessing —

'নমো নারায়ণায়' বলি' নমস্কার কৈল ।
'কৃষ্ণে মতিরস্তু' বলি' গোসাঞি কহিল ॥ ৪৮ ॥

'namo nārāyaṇāya' bali' namaskāra kaila namo nārāyaṇāya saying obeisance he made
'kṛṣṇe matir astu' bali' gosāñi kahila
on Kṛṣṇa the mind may be saying Gosāñi spoke

48 Saying, "Namo nārāyaṇāya", he bowed down to the Lord, and Gosāñi replied, "Kṛṣṇe matir astu — may your mind be fixed on Kṛṣṇa!"

Anubhāṣya.

It is customary to greet sannyāsīs of the fourth āśrama with the words oṁ namo nārāyaṇāya. The smṛti-śāstras give sannyāsīs the rule "no blessings and no obeisances." But Vaiṣṇava sannyāsīs know that they themselves are servants of Kṛṣṇa and that service to Kṛṣṇa is the highest. So they give everyone in the world this compassionate blessing: "May your mind be fixed on the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa."

*Sārvabhauma is pleased to understand that the Lord belongs to a Vaiṣṇava sampradāya —*

শুনি' সার্ব্বভৌম মনে বিচার করিল । বৈষ্ণব-সন্ন্যাসী ইঁহো, বচনে জানিল ॥ ৪৯ ॥

śuni' sārvabhauma mane vicāra karila hearing Sārvabhauma in his mind consideration made vaiṣṇava-sannyāsī iṁho, vacane jānila
a Vaiṣṇava sannyāsī He by His words he knew

49 Hearing this, Sārvabhauma reflected, and from His words he understood that He was a Vaiṣṇava sannyāsī.

*Sārvabhauma asks Gopīnātha about the Lord's former āśrama —*

গোপীনাথ আচার্য্যেরে কহে সার্ব্বভৌম । গোসাঞির জানিতে চাহি কাঁহা পূর্ব্বাশ্রম ॥ ৫০ ॥

gopīnātha ācāryere kahe sārvabhauma
to Gopīnātha Ācārya says Sārvabhauma
gosāñira jānite cāhi kāṁhā pūrvāśrama
of Gosāñi to know I want what the former āśrama

50 Sārvabhauma said to Gopīnātha Ācārya, "I would like to know about Gosāñi's life before He took sannyāsa."

Anubhāṣya.

Pūrvāśrama — by what name He was known and where He lived as a householder, before He accepted the āśrama of sannyāsa.

Gopīnātha tells who He is —

গোপীনাথাচার্য্য কহে, — নবদ্বীপে ঘর ।
'জগন্নাথ' — নাম, পদবী — 'মিশ্র পুরন্দর' ॥ ৫১ ॥

gopīnāthācārya kahe, — navadvīpe ghara Gopīnātha Ācārya says in Navadvīpa home
'jagannātha' — nāma, padavī — 'miśra purandara'
Jagannātha name title Miśra Purandara

51 Gopīnātha Ācārya said, "His home is in Navadvīpa. There lived a man named Jagannātha, whose title was Miśra Purandara.

'বিশ্বম্ভর' — নাম ইঁহার, তাঁর ইঁহো পুত্র । নীলাম্বর চক্রবর্ত্তীর হয়েন দৌহিত্র ॥ ৫২ ॥

'viśvambhara' — nāma iṁhāra, tāṁra iṁho putra Viśvambhara name His his He son nīlāmbara cakravartīra hayena dauhitra
of Nīlāmbara Cakravartī He is the daughter's son

52 This is his son, named Viśvambhara. He is also the grandson of Nīlāmbara Cakravartī, his daughter's son."

সার্ব্বভৌম কহে, — নীলাম্বর চক্রবর্ত্তী । বিশারদের সমাধ্যায়ী, — এই তাঁর খ্যাতি ॥ ৫৩ ॥

sārvabhauma kahe, — nīlāmbara cakravartī Sārvabhauma says Nīlāmbara Cakravartī viśāradera samādhyāyī, — ei tāṁra khyāti
of Viśārada a fellow student this his fame

53 Sārvabhauma said, "Nīlāmbara Cakravartī is known as a fellow student of Viśārada.

'মিশ্র পুরন্দর' তাঁর মান্য, হেন জানি । পিতার সম্বন্ধে দোঁহাকে পূজ্য করি' মানি ॥ ৫৪ ॥

'miśra purandara' tāṁra mānya, hena jāni Miśra Purandara by him respected this I know pitāra sambandhe doṁhāke pūjya kari' māni of my father through the connection both worthy of honour making I regard 54 Miśra Purandara, I know, was honoured by my father, Viśārada, and for his sake I revere them both."

Sārvabhauma rejoices to learn who the Lord is —

নদীয়া-সম্বন্ধে সার্ব্বভৌম হৃষ্ট হৈলা । প্রীত হঞা গোসাঞিরে কহিতে লাগিলা ॥ ৫৫ ॥

nadīyā-sambandhe sārvabhauma hṛṣṭa hailā with Nadīyā through the connection Sārvabhauma glad became prīta haña gosāñire kahite lāgilā pleased being to Gosāñi to speak began

55 Sārvabhauma was glad to find this connection with Nadīyā, and in his pleasure he began to speak to Gosāñi.

Sārvabhauma's humility and meekness —

সহজেই পূজ্য তুমি, আরে ত' সন্ন্যাস । অতএব হঙ তোমার আমি নিজ-দাস ॥ ৫৬ ॥

sahajei pūjya tumi, āre ta' sannyāsa
naturally worthy of worship You moreover indeed sannyāsa ataeva haṅa tomāra āmi nija-dāsa
therefore am Your I own servant

56 "You are worthy of honour by Your very nature, and on top of that You are a sannyāsī. Therefore I am Your own servant."

Anubhāṣya.
Judged by the excellence of Your nature, You are worthy of my worship. Judged by the external āśrama, You have accepted sannyāsa and so are worthy of the worship of householders like us. Therefore I am Your servant, and You are the one I serve.

*The humility of the Lord, who gives honor to others (mānada-dharma) —*

শুনি' মহাপ্রভু কৈল শ্রীবিষ্ণু স্মরণ । ভট্টাচার্য্যে কহে কিছু বিনয়-বচন ॥ ৫৭ ॥

śuni' mahāprabhu kaila śrī viṣṇu smaraṇa hearing Mahāprabhu made of Śrī Viṣṇu remembrance bhaṭṭācārye kahe kichu vinaya-vacana
to the Bhaṭṭācārya says some humble words

57 Hearing this, Mahāprabhu remembered Śrī Viṣṇu and spoke some humble words to the Bhaṭṭācārya.

তুমি জগদ্গুরু — সর্ব্বলোক-হিতকর্ত্তা । বেদান্ত পড়াও, সন্ন্যাসীর উপকর্ত্তা ॥ ৫৮ ॥

tumi jagad-guru — sarvaloka-hita-kartā
you the teacher of the world of all people the benefactor
vedānta paḍāo, sannyāsīra upakartā
Vedānta you teach of sannyāsīs the helper

58 "You are the teacher of the whole world and the benefactor of all people. You teach Vedānta, and you are a helper of sannyāsīs.

Anubhāṣya.

You hold the position of guru of the world: you teach Vedānta, instruct inexperienced students, and wish sannyāsīs well. You let them hear the meaning of Vedānta, instruct them in renunciation, and so dispel ignorance, and you benefit mendicants by feeding them at your home.

The Lord regards Himself as a ward and Sārvabhauma as His guardian —

আমি বালক-সন্ন্যাসী — ভাল-মন্দ নাহি জানি । তোমার আশ্রয় নিলুঁ, গুরু করি' মানি ॥ ৫৯ ॥

āmi bālaka-sannyāsī — bhāla-manda nāhi jāni
I a boy sannyāsī good and bad not know tomāra āśraya niluṁ, guru kari' māni
your shelter I have taken guru making I regard

59 I am a young sannyāsī who does not know good from bad. I have taken shelter of you, and I regard you as My Guru.

তোমার সঙ্গ লাগি' মোর ইঁহা আগমন । সর্ব্বপ্রকারে করিবে আমায় পালন ॥ ৬০ ॥

tomāra saṅga lāgi' mora iṁhā āgamana your association for the sake of My here coming sarva-prakāre karibe āmāya pālana
in every way you will Me protect

60 I have come here for your company alone. Please take care of Me in every way.

The Lord expresses His gratitude —

আজি যে হৈল আমার বড়ই বিপত্তি । তাহা হৈতে কৈলে তুমি আমার অব্যাহতি ॥ ৬১ ॥

āji ye haila āmāra baḍai vipatti
today which happened My great danger
tāhā haite kaile tumi āmāra avyāhati
from that made you My rescue

61 Today I fell into great danger, and you rescued Me from it."

Anubhāṣya.
On seeing Śrī Jagannātha I fainted and lost consciousness. You took on the care of Me, dispelled My unconsciousness, and brought Me back to awareness; that is, you brought Me from the inner state to the outer state.

The Bhaṭṭācārya affectionately instructs the Lord —

ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, — একলে তুমি না যাইহ দর্শনে । আমার সঙ্গে যাবে, কিম্বা আমার লোক-সনে ॥ ৬২ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya kahe, — ekale tumi nā yāiha darśane
the Bhaṭṭācārya says alone You not go for darśana āmāra saṅge yābe, kimbā āmāra loka-sane me with You will go or my men with

62 The Bhaṭṭācārya said, “Do not go alone for darśana. Go with me or with my men.”

The Lord agrees —

প্রভু কহে, — মন্দির ভিতরে না যাইব । গরুড়ের পাশে রহি’ দর্শন করিব ॥ ৬৩ ॥

prabhu kahe, — mandira bhitare nā yāiba
the Lord says the temple inside not I shall go garuḍera pāśe rahi’ darśana kariba of Garuḍa beside staying darśana I shall have

63 The Lord said, “I shall not go inside the temple. I shall stand beside the Garuḍa pillar and take darśana from there.”

Sārvabhauma asks his brother-in-law to look after the Lord —

গোপীনাথাচার্য্যকে কহে সার্ব্বভৌম । তুমি গোসাঞিরে লঞা করাইহ দর্শন ॥ ৬৪ ॥

gopīnāthācāryake kahe sārvabhauma
to Gopīnātha Ācārya says Sārvabhauma
tumi gosāñire lañā karāiha darśana
you Gosāñi taking have Him take darśana

64 Sārvabhauma said to Gopīnātha Ācārya, “Take Gosāñi for darśana.

আমার মাতৃস্বসা-গৃহ — নির্জ্জন স্থান । তাঁহা বাসা দেহ, কর সর্ব্ব সমাধান ॥ ৬৫ ॥

āmāra mātṛ-svasā-gṛha — nirjana sthāna
my mother's sister's house a secluded place
tāṁhā vāsā deha, kara sarva samādhāna
there lodging give make all arrangements

65 My maternal aunt's house is a secluded place. Give Him lodging there and see to everything He needs."

গোপীনাথ প্রভু লঞা তাঁহা বাসা দিল । জলপাত্র আদি সর্ব্ব সমাধান কৈল ॥ ৬৬ ॥

gopīnātha prabhu lañā tāṁhā vāsā dila Gopīnātha the Lord taking there lodging gave jala-pātra ādi sarva samādhāna kaila water pot and so on all arrangements made

66 Gopīnātha took the Lord there and gave Him lodging, and he arranged everything for Him — a water pot and all the rest.

Gopīnātha shows the Lord the service of Jagannātha —

আর দিন গোপীনাথ প্রভু স্থানে গিয়া । শয্যোত্থান দরশন করাইল লঞা ॥ ৬৭ ॥

āra dina gopīnātha prabhu sthāne giyā
the next day Gopīnātha of the Lord to the place going śayyotthāna daraśana karāila lañā
of the rising from bed darśana had Him take taking (Him)

67 The next day Gopīnātha went to the Lord and took Him to see Jagannātha rise from His bed.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Śayyotthāna — Jagannāthadeva's rising from His bed.

Gopīnātha comes with Mukunda to Sārvabhauma's house —

মুকুন্দদত্ত লঞা আইলা সার্ব্বভৌম স্থানে । সার্ব্বভৌম কিছু তাঁরে বলিলা বচনে ॥ ৬৮ ॥

mukunda-datta lañā āilā sārvabhauma sthāne Mukunda Datta taking came Sārvabhauma's to the place
sārvabhauma kichu tāṁre balilā vacane
Sārvabhauma something to him said in words

68 Then he came with Mukunda Datta to Sārvabhauma, and the Bhaṭṭācārya said to him:

*Full of affection and love, Sārvabhauma asks what sannyāsa the Lord has taken —*

প্রকৃতি-বিনীত, সন্ন্যাসী দেখিতে সুন্দর । আমার বহুপ্রীতি বাড়ে ইঁহার উপর ॥ ৬৯ ॥

prakṛti-vinīta, sannyāsī dekhite sundara
by nature humble the sannyāsī to see beautiful āmāra bahu-prīti bāḍe iṁhāra upara
my great love increases Him for 69 "This sannyāsī is humble by nature and beautiful to see, and my affection for Him keeps growing.

Anubhāṣya.
Although Mahāprabhu had received every right of a true sannyāsī, out of humility He thought it proper to be known as a brahmacārī, a disciple of a sannyāsī. A sannyāsī known as a brahmacārī is indeed the model of natural humility.

কোন্ সম্প্রদায়ে সন্ন্যাস করয়াছেন গ্রহণ । কি নাম ইঁহার, শুনিতে হয় মন ॥ ৭০ ॥

kon sampradāye sannyāsa karyāchena grahaṇa
in which sampradāya sannyāsa has He made acceptance ki nāma iṁhāra, śunite haya mana what name His to hear there is desire

70 In which sampradāya has He taken sannyāsa? And what is His name? I would like to hear."

Gopīnātha tells who He is —

গোপীনাথ কহে, — ইঁহার নাম শ্রীকৃষ্ণচৈতন্য । গুরু ইঁহার কেশব-ভারতী মহাধন্য ॥ ৭১ ॥

gopīnātha kahe, — iṁhāra nāma śrī kṛṣṇa-caitanya Gopīnātha says His name Śrī Kṛṣṇa-caitanya guru iṁhāra keśava-bhāratī mahā-dhanya guru His Keśava Bhāratī greatly blessed

71 Gopīnātha said, "His name is Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, and His guru is the greatly blessed Keśava Bhāratī."

*Sārvabhauma assesses the sampradāya —*

সার্ব্বভৌম কহে, — ইঁহার নাম সর্ব্বোত্তম । ভারতী-সম্প্রদায় এই, — হয়েন মধ্যম ॥ ৭২ ॥

sārvabhauma kahe, — iṁhāra nāma sarvottama Sārvabhauma says His name most excellent bhāratī-sampradāya ei, — hayena madhyama
the Bhāratī sampradāya this is middling

72 Sārvabhauma said, "His name is excellent, but the Bhāratī sampradāya is of middling rank."

*Gopīnātha defends the Lord's sampradāya —*

গোপীনাথ কহে, — ইঁহার নাহি বাহ্যাপেক্ষা । অতএব বড় সম্প্রদায়ের নাহিক অপেক্ষা ॥ ৭৩ ॥

gopīnātha kahe, — iṁhāra nāhi bāhyāpekṣā Gopīnātha says His there is not regard for externals
ataeva baḍa sampradāyera nāhika apekṣā
therefore of a great sampradāya there is not need

73 Gopīnātha said, “He has no regard for externals, so He has no need of a higher sampradāya.”

Anubhāṣya.

Among the sannyāsīs of the ten names instituted by Śaṅkara, “Tīrtha,” “Āśrama” and “Sarasvatī” are the highest. In the Śṛṅgerī maṭha the sannyāsīs have three kinds of titles (upādhi): “Sarasvatī” is the highest, “Bhāratī” the middle and “Purī” the lowest.

The explanation of the ten names of the sannyāsīs of Śrī Śaṅkara's sampradāya — Tīrtha and the others — has been published as follows.

One who bathes at the holy place (tīrtha) of the confluence of the Triveṇī, having understood the meaning of truth according to statements marked by tat tvam asi and the like, is called “Tīrtha.” One who is devoted to the āśrama of sannyāsa, or has no wish to return home (samāvartana), is free from the bonds of hope, and is released from wandering through wombs, is known as “Āśrama.” One who lives in a forest (vana), in a lovely secluded place, and is free from the bonds of hope is called “Vana.” One who stays always in the forest (araṇya) and gives up every connection with this world in order to dwell in the Nandana garden — in bliss — is “Araṇya.” One who lives in mountain forests, is always absorbed in studying the Gītā, and whose intelligence is deep like a mountain (giri) is “Giri.” One who lives among the creatures of the mountains (parvata), has gained deep knowledge, and has learned to tell the essential from the worthless in worldly life is “Parvata.” One who gathers the jewels of knowledge in the ocean (sāgara) of truth and never oversteps its bounds is “Sāgara.” One who is engaged in the study of tones — udātta and the other accents, or ṣaḍja, ṛṣabha, and the other notes — is skilled in singing, and destroys the worthless saṁsāra is “Sarasvatī.” One who has attained fullness in knowledge (vidyā), has cast off every burden of ignorance (avidyā), and is not oppressed by any burden of sorrow is “Bhāratī.” One who has mastered the knowledge of truth, is established in the position of the complete Truth, and is eternally engaged in the pursuit of Parabrahman is known by the name “Purī.”

In Śrī Śaṅkara's sampradāya the meaning of the brahmacārī names is explained as follows.

One who knows his own svarūpa in a special way, follows his svadharma, and is eternally immersed in his own bliss is the brahmacārī named “Svarūpa.” One who knows the self-luminous Brahman in a special way and, by revealing the knowledge of truth, is especially united with it in yoga is called “Prakāśa.” One who, having gained the knowledge of truth, always meditates on Brahman — truth, knowledge, and infinity — and delights in his own bliss is known as “Ānanda.” One who knows Brahman — pure consciousness beyond any admixture of non-spirit, free from the agitations of mind that matter reflects, infinite, unaging, and auspicious — is learned and is called “Caitanya” (Mañjuṣā, no. 2).

Sārvabhauma said, “Śrī Mahāprabhu's name is ‘Śrī Kṛṣṇa,’ and His brahmacārī title is ‘Caitanya.’ The name Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the best of all names, but Śrī Mahāprabhu did not enter the highest sampradāya, the Sarasvatī; He entered a middling one.” To this Gopīnātha replied that He entered the middling sampradāya because He has no dependence on externals. If one harbors pride of position within, one strives to acquire position. But one who wishes to serve Hari humbly, owning nothing (akiñcana), does not disregard the Bhāratī sampradāya, go looking for the Sarasvatī sampradāya, and long to enter it.

Taking the Lord for a mortal youth, the Bhaṭṭācārya instructs Him like a guru

—

ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, — ইঁহার প্রৌঢ় যৌবন । কেমনে সন্ন্যাস-ধর্ম্ম হবেক রক্ষণ ॥ ৭৪ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya kahe, — iṁhāra prauḍha yauvana
the Bhaṭṭācārya says His full youth kemane sannyāsa-dharma habeka rakṣaṇa
how of sannyāsa the duty will be kept

74 The Bhaṭṭācārya said, “He is in the full bloom of youth. How will He keep the vows of sannyāsa?

নিরন্তর ইঁহাকে বেদান্ত শুনাইব । বৈরাগ্য-অদ্বৈত-মার্গে প্রবেশ করাইব ॥ ৭৫ ॥

nirantara iṁhāke vedānta śunāiba constantly to Him Vedānta I shall teach vairāgya-advaita-mārge praveśa karāiba of renunciation of non-duality on the path entering I shall cause

75 I shall teach Him Vedānta constantly and lead Him onto the path of renunciation and non-dualism.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

I will lead Him onto the path of kevala-advaita, which rests on the knowledge that this world of māyā is as worthless as a crow's droppings.

Anubhāṣya.

Sannyāsīs constantly study the statements of Vedānta and so cultivate detachment from sense objects; they take shelter of the kaupīna and uphold its dignity. One who would always be expert in the six means of practice — śama, dama, and the rest — must, by the reasoning of a thinker devoid of devotion, worship knowledge and renunciation. For fear of the power of māyic things arises only from absorption in "the second." So if He is absorbed in knowledge and renunciation and led onto the path of advaita, the urges of lust natural to youth will not be able to grow strong.

কহেন যদি, পুনরপি যোগপট্ট দিয়া । সংস্কার করিয়ে উত্তম-সম্প্রদায়ে আনিয়া ॥ ৭৬ ॥

kahena yadi, punarapi yogapaṭṭa diyā
He says if again the sannyāsa cloth giving saṁskāra kariye uttama-sampradāye āniyā initiation I shall perform into the higher sampradāya bringing 76 If He agrees, I shall give Him the sannyāsa cloth (yoga-paṭṭa) once again, perform the rites, and bring Him into a higher sampradāya."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Yogapaṭṭa — a particular garment of sannyāsīs. I will give Him the yogapaṭṭa befitting the higher sampradāya, that is, the cloth that sannyāsīs wear, and perform His initiation rite (saṁskāra) again.

Anubhāṣya.

If Mahāprabhu wishes for the right to enter the high Sarasvatī sampradāya, I can again arrange for a sannyāsī of the Sarasvatī sampradāya to give Him the yogapaṭṭa and the other prescribed articles of a renunciant, and so raise Him up. No varṇa other than brāhmaṇas by birth (śaukra-brāhmaṇas) can enter the high "Sarasvatī" sampradāya. So, because the rules are relaxed in the "Bhāratī" and other sampradāyas, by the standard of high sampradāyas such as the Sarasvatīs the "Bhāratīs" count as middling and the "Purīs" as lowest.

Seeing the Lord being lectured, the two devotees are grieved —

শুনি' গোপীনাথ মুকুন্দ, দুঁহে, দুঃখী হৈলা । গোপীনাথাচার্য্য কিছু কহিতে লাগিলা ॥ ৭৭ ॥

śuni' gopīnātha mukunda, duṁhe, duḥkhī hailā hearing Gopīnātha Mukunda both sorrowful became gopīnāthācārya kichu kahite lāgilā
Gopīnātha Ācārya something to say began

77 Hearing this, Gopīnātha and Mukunda were both saddened, and Gopīnātha Ācārya began to speak.

Seeing Sārvabhauma's ignorance, Gopīnātha glorifies the greatness of the Lord —

ভট্টাচার্য্য, তুমি ইঁহার না জান মহিমা । ভগবত্তা-লক্ষণের ইঁহাতেই সীমা ॥ ৭৮ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya, tumi iṁhāra nā jāna mahimā Bhaṭṭācārya you His not know greatness bhagavattā-lakṣaṇera iṁhātei sīmā
of Godhood of the signs in Him alone the limit

78 "Bhaṭṭācārya, you do not know His greatness. In Him the signs of Godhood reach their utmost limit.

তাহাতে বিখ্যাত ইঁহো পরম-ঈশ্বর । অজ্ঞ-স্থানে কিছু নহে বিজ্ঞের গোচর ॥ ৭৯ ॥

tāhāte vikhyāta iṅho parama-īśvara
therefore renowned He the Supreme Lord
ajña-sthāne kichu nahe vijñera gocara
of the ignorant in the presence anything is not of the wise perceptible

79 That is why He is renowned as the Supreme Lord. But what the wise perceive lies beyond the reach of the ignorant."

*The reasoning of those who follow the path of argument and those who follow the path of śrauta: by the path of argument Bhagavān cannot be reached, but by the path of śrauta He is easily reached —*

শিষ্যগণ কহে, — ঈশ্বর কহ কোন্ প্রমাণে । আচার্য্য কহে, — বিজ্ঞমত ঈশ্বর-লক্ষণে ॥ ৮০ ॥

śiṣya-gaṇa kahe, — īśvara kaha kon pramāṇe
the disciples say the Lord you say by what proof ācārya kahe, — vijña-mata īśvara-lakṣaṇe
the Ācārya says the opinion of the wise of the Lord on the signs

80 The disciples said, "By what proof do you call Him the Lord?" The Ācārya said, "By the signs of the Lord as the wise define them."

শিষ্য কহে, — ঈশ্বর-তত্ত্ব সাধি অনুমানে । আচার্য্য কহে, — অনুমানে নহে ঈশ্বরজ্ঞানে ॥ ৮১ ॥

śiṣya kahe, — īśvara-tattva sādhi anumāne
a disciple says of the Lord the truth we establish by inference ācārya kahe, — anumāne nahe īśvarajñāne
the Ācārya says by inference is not knowledge of the Lord

81 A disciple said, "We establish the truth of the Lord by inference." The Ācārya replied, "The Lord is not known by inference.

অনুমান প্রমাণ নহে ঈশ্বরতত্ত্ব জ্ঞানে । কৃপা বিনা ঈশ্বরেরে কেহ নাহি জানে ॥ ৮২ ॥

anumāna pramāṇa nahe īśvara-tattva jñāne inference proof is not of the Lord of the truth in knowing kṛpā vinā īśvarere keha nāhi jāne mercy without the Lord anyone not knows

82 Inference is no proof where the truth of the Lord is concerned; without His mercy no one can know Him.

ঈশ্বরের কৃপা-লেশ হয় ত' যাহারে । সেই ত' ঈশ্বর-তত্ত্ব জানিবারে পারে ॥ ৮৩ ॥

īśvarera kṛpā-leśa haya ta' yāhāre of the Lord of mercy a particle there is indeed on whom sei ta' īśvara-tattva jānibāre pāre
he indeed of the Lord the truth to know is able 83 Only one who has received even a particle of the Lord's mercy can know the truth of the Lord.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

What the wise perceive as truth means nothing to the ignorant. That is why you take Him for "an ordinary man"; in fact, the signs of Godhood reach their limit in Him. Sārvabhauma's disciples said to Gopīnātha, "On what evidence do you call Him 'Īśvara'?" Gopīnātha replied, "I call Him Īśvara by the very signs by which the wise establish who Īśvara is." The disciples said, "The truth of Īśvara is known through inference (anumāna). Inference is defined by knowledge of invariable concomitance (vyāpti). For example: 'The hill has fire, because there is smoke' — that is, one must know that wherever smoke is seen, there is fire; what is proved here is: 'Smoke is seen, so there is fire on the hill.' About Īśvara, inference reasons like this: everything we see has a cause; this visible world is a thing; therefore it cannot exist without a cause. Thus the truth 'Īśvara is the cause of the universe' is proved. This is how we establish the truth of Īśvara. If you can show that this sannyāsī can be Īśvara by this line of reasoning, then we can accept it." Gopīnātha replied, "To know the truth of Īśvara, inference cannot serve as evidence, for without Īśvara's mercy no one can know Him."

Without mercy, by the path of knowledge alone, Bhagavān is beyond reach —

অথাপি তে দেব পদাম্বুজদ্বয়- প্রসাদ-লেশানুগৃহীত এব হি ।
জানাতি তত্ত্বং ভগবন্মহিম্নো ন চান্য একোঽপি চিরং বিচিন্বন্ ॥ ৮৪ ॥

athāpi te deva padāmbuja-dvayayet Your O Lord of lotus feet of the pair prasāda-leśānugṛhīta eva hi
of the grace by a trace favoured only indeed jānāti tattvaṁ bhagavan-mahimno knows the truth of Bhagavān's greatness
na cānya eko 'pi ciraṁ vicinvan
not and another one even long speculating

84 "O Lord, only one who is favoured with even a trace of the grace of Your two lotus feet can know the truth of Your greatness as Bhagavān; no one else can know it, however long he may search." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.29)[2]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

O Lord, only one who has received a particle of the grace of Your lotus feet can know the truth of Your glory. But of those who search forever, reasoning about the scriptures by inference, not one can know that truth.

Anubhāṣya.

When Kṛṣṇa crushed Brahmā's pride, Brahmā saw Kṛṣṇa's supreme majesty, understood His greatness, and offers this prayer:

deva (O Lord; Your glory pervades everything) athāpi (even so) te (Your) padāmbuja-dvaya-prasāda-leśānugṛhītaḥ (blessed by a particle of the mercy of Your two lotus feet) eva hi janaḥ (a person) bhagavan-mahimnaḥ (of the greatness, that is, the majesty, of You, Bhagavān) tattvam (the truth) jānāti (knows); anyaḥ (another, without Kṛṣṇa's mercy) ekaḥ (anyone) api ciram (for a long time) vicinvan (reasoning) api na ca jānāti (does not know).

Though Gopīnātha gives honor to others, he sees the Bhaṭṭācārya's godlessness and shows him no regard —

যদ্যপি জগদ্গুরু তুমি — শাস্ত্র-জ্ঞানবান্ । পৃথিবীতে নাহি পণ্ডিত তোমার সমান ॥ ৮৫ ॥

ঈশ্বরের কৃপা-লেশ নাহিক তোমাতে । অতএব ঈশ্বরতত্ত্ব না পার জানিতে ॥ ৮৬ ॥

yadyapi jagad-guru tumi — śāstra-jñānavān
although the teacher of the world you of scripture possessing knowledge pṛthivīte nāhi paṇḍita tomāra samāna on earth there is not a scholar you equal to īśvarera kṛpā-leśa nāhika tomāte
of the Lord of mercy a particle there is not on you ataeva īśvara-tattva nā pāra jānite
therefore of the Lord the truth not you are able to know

85–86 Although you are the teacher of the world, learned in the scriptures, and there is no scholar on earth equal to you, not a particle of the Lord's mercy has come to you. That is why you cannot know the truth of the Lord.

তোমার নাহিক দোষ, শাস্ত্রে এই কহে ।
পাণ্ডিত্যাদ্যে ঈশ্বরতত্ত্ব-জ্ঞান কভু নহে ॥ ৮৭ ॥

tomāra nāhika doṣa, śāstre ei kahe
your there is not fault in scripture this it says pāṇḍityādye īśvara-tattva-jñāna kabhu nahe
by scholarship and the like of the Lord of the truth knowledge ever is not

87 It is not your fault; the scriptures themselves say that the truth of the Lord can never be known by scholarship and the like."

Anubhāṣya.

Kaṭha Upaniṣad 1.2.23: "This Self is not gained by exposition, nor by intellect, nor by much learning. He is gained only by the one whom He Himself chooses; to such a one this Self reveals His own body." Mantra 9: "This understanding is not reached by reasoning." That is, the Reality — Paramātmā and Bhagavān — is not gained through explanations; it is not gained by the strength of one's own intellect; it is not gained by hearing much apart from the chain of śruti succession. But the one whom Bhagavān accepts — that is, with whom He is pleased — sees and gains Him. Only the devotees are the objects (the vessels) of Bhagavān's mercy; so He shows mercy to them and reveals to them His own body. This understanding, to which Brahman is revealed, should be neither won nor removed — that is, refuted — by reasoning.

Sārvabhauma's false argument —

সার্ব্বভৌম কহে, — আচার্য্য, কহ সাবধানে । তোমাতে ঈশ্বর-কৃপা ইথে কি প্রমাণে ॥ ৮৮ ॥

sārvabhauma kahe, — ācārya, kaha sāvadhāne Sārvabhauma says Ācārya speak carefully tomāte īśvara-kṛpā ithe ki pramāṇe
on you the Lord's mercy for this what proof

88 Sārvabhauma said, "Ācārya, speak with care. What proof is there that the Lord's mercy is upon you?"

Gopīnātha refutes it —

আচার্য্য কহে, — বস্তুবিষয়ে হয় বস্তু-জ্ঞান । বস্তুতত্ত্ব-জ্ঞান হয় কৃপাতে, — প্রমাণ ॥ ৮৯ ॥

ācārya kahe, — vastu-viṣaye haya vastu-jñāna
the Ācārya says in regard to the Reality there is knowledge of the Reality
vastu-tattva-jñāna haya kṛpāte, — pramāṇa of the Reality knowledge of the truth comes by mercy the proof

89 The Ācārya said, "Knowledge of the Reality comes from the Reality Itself: Its truth is known only by Its mercy, and that is the proof.

Anubhāṣya.

Relying on argument, Sārvabhauma said to his brother-in-law Gopīnātha, "It is true that Īśvara has not shown mercy to us; but explain how Bhagavān has shown mercy to you." Gopīnātha Ācārya replied as follows. The Reality (vastu) and its potency are one, and so knowledge of the Reality comes only from the Reality itself. The Reality is undivided knowledge, without a second, while its potencies are of many kinds. The undivided Reality, full of nondual knowledge, cannot be known by divided knowledge; knowledge of the Reality arises only from experience of the Reality itself. Knowledge of the Reality dawns through its own domain, that is, through its potency. Fire is known only by knowing its power to burn. The sign of realizing the Reality, the nondual Knowledge, is His mercy alone (see the Anubhāṣya on verse 87). One to whom He shows His svarūpa by His mercy is the one who can understand Him. Relying on anything other than the Reality itself, one cannot gain knowledge of the Reality. Without mercy there is neither seeing Him nor knowing the Reality. Those who have received His mercy have understood His svarūpa, have become beggars for mercy, and do not try to understand Him with the help of any other knowledge.

*To see the evident signs of Īśvara and still not believe in Īśvara — this is the play of māyā —*

ইঁহার শরীরে সব ঈশ্বর-লক্ষণ । মহা-প্রেমাবেশ তুমি পাঞাছ দর্শন ॥ ৯০ ॥

iṁhāra śarīre saba īśvara-lakṣaṇa
His in the body all of the Lord the signs
mahā-premāveśa tumi pāñācha darśana
great absorption in love you have got sight

90 All the signs of the Lord are present in His body, and you yourself have seen His great absorption in love.

তবু ত' ঈশ্বর-জ্ঞান না হয় তোমার । ঈশ্বরের মায়া, — এই বলি ব্যবহার ॥ ৯১ ॥

tabu ta' īśvara-jñāna nā haya tomāra
still indeed knowledge of the Lord not is yours
īśvarera māyā, — ei bali vyavahāra
of the Lord māyā this saying usage

91 Even so, you do not know Him as the Lord, and you take all this for the Lord's māyā, mere worldly behaviour.[3]

Anubhāṣya.

You saw Bhagavān absorbed in great love. Yet you could not recognize Īśvara in that unearthly Person full of love, and you regard even such a pastime of Bhagavān as māyic, merely a form of worldly behavior.

One turned outward does not see Bhagavān, for his vision is covered —

দেখিলে না দেখে তাঁরে বহির্ম্মুখ জন । শুনি' হাসি' সার্ব্বভৌম বলিল বচন ॥ ৯২ ॥

dekhile nā dekhe tāṁre bahirmukha jana seeing not sees Him the averse person
śuni' hāsi' sārvabhauma balila vacana hearing smiling Sārvabhauma spoke words

92 A person turned away from God sees Him and yet does not see Him." Hearing this, Sārvabhauma smiled and said:

Anubhāṣya.

Those in whose hearts the urge to serve Kṛṣṇa, who is beyond māyā, has not yet arisen may think that, with their karmic intellect bent on their own enjoyment, they are experiencing or have experienced the Reality. But in truth the svarūpa of Bhagavān, full of love, is not seen through knowledge of external objects.

Sārvabhauma's mistaken arguments from scripture —

ইষ্টগোষ্ঠী বিচার করি, না করিহ রোষ । শাস্ত্রদৃষ্ট্যে কহি, কিছু না লইহ দোষ ॥ ৯৩ ॥

iṣṭa-goṣṭhī vicāra kari, nā kariha roṣa friendly discussion consideration we make not do anger śāstra-dṛṣṭye kahi, kichu nā laiha doṣa
by the vision of scripture I speak at all not take offence

93 "We are only discussing this together in search of the truth; do not be angry. I speak from the standpoint of scripture, so take no offence.

Anubhāṣya.

Iṣṭa-goṣṭhī — among desired people, that is, in a circle of people gathered to attain a desired goal.

*Though he takes the Lord to be a mahā-bhāgavata, Sārvabhauma does not believe He is Īśvara —*

মহা-ভাগবত হয় চৈতন্য-গোসাঞি । এই কলিকালে বিষ্ণুর অবতার নাই ॥ ৯৪ ॥

mahā-bhāgavata haya caitanya-gosāñi
a great devotee is Caitanya Gosāñi ei kali-kāle viṣṇura avatāra nāi
in this age of Kali Viṣṇu's avatāra there is not

94 Caitanya Gosāñi is a great devotee, but in this age of Kali there is no avatāra of Viṣṇu.

অতএব 'ত্রিযুগ' করি' কহি বিষ্ণুনাম । কলিযুগে অবতার নাহি, — শাস্ত্রজ্ঞান ॥ ৯৫ ॥

ataeva 'tri-yuga' kari' kahi viṣṇunāma
therefore Triyuga making they call Viṣṇu's name kali-yuge avatāra nāhi, — śāstra-jñāna
in the Kali-yuga avatāra there is not the knowledge of scripture

95 That is why Viṣṇu is called Triyuga, 'He who appears in three ages'. The scriptures teach that there is no avatāra in the Kali-yuga."

Anubhāṣya.

Triyuga (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 7.9.38): "Thus You descend as a human, an animal, a sage, a god, and a fish, sustain the worlds, and slay the enemies of the world. O Mahāpuruṣa, You protect dharma according to each age. But in Kali You came hidden, and therefore You are Triyuga." The commentary of Śrī Śrīdhara Svāmipāda: "But in Kali You do not do this [slaying the enemies, protecting, and so on], for then You are hidden. So You appear only in three ages, and as such You are known by the name Triyuga."

Gopīnātha refutes Sārvabhauma's mistaken conclusions and shows the true conclusion of scripture —

শুনিয়া আচার্য্য কহে দুঃখী হঞা মনে । শাস্ত্রজ্ঞ হঞা তুমি কর অভিমানে ॥ ৯৬ ॥

śuniyā ācārya kahe duḥkhī hañā mane hearing the Ācārya says sorrowful being in mind
śāstra-jña hañā tumi kara abhimāne learned in scripture being you make pride

96 Hearing this, the Ācārya grew sad at heart and said, "You are learned in the scriptures, and you are proud of it.

*The Mahābhārata and the Bhāgavatam, which settles the meaning of the Bhārata, are the only chief evidence —*

ভাগবত-ভারত দুই — শাস্ত্রের প্রধান । সেই দুইগ্রন্থ-বাক্যে নাহি অবধান ॥ ৯৭ ॥

bhāgavata-bhārata dui — śāstrera pradhāna
the Bhāgavata the Bhārata the two of the scriptures the foremost sei dui-grantha-vākye nāhi avadhāna
of those two books to the words there is not attention

97 The Bhāgavata and the Mahābhārata are the foremost of all scriptures, yet you pay no attention to the words of these two books.

Anubhāṣya.
See the Anubhāṣya on Ādi 3.49 and the Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya on Ādi 3.51.

*Although in this age of Kali there is no līlā-avatāra, the very source of the avatāras appears in His original form (svayaṁ-rūpa) —*

সেই দুই কহে কলিতে সাক্ষাৎ-অবতার । তুমি কহ, — কলিতে নাহি বিষ্ণুর প্রচার ॥ ৯৮ ॥

sei dui kahe kalite sākṣāt-avatāra
those two say in Kali a direct avatāra
tumi kaha, — kalite nāhi viṣṇura pracāra
you say in Kali there is not of Viṣṇu appearance

98 Both of them speak of a direct avatāra in the age of Kali, and yet you say that Viṣṇu does not appear in Kali.

*Although in Kali there is no līlā-avatāra, the yuga-avatāra appears —*

কলিকালে লীলাবতার না করে ভগবান্ । অতএব 'ত্রিযুগ' করি' কহি তার নাম ॥ ৯৯ ॥

kali-kāle līlāvatāra nā kare bhagavān
in the age of Kali a līlā-avatāra not makes Bhagavān ataeva 'tri-yuga' kari' kahi tāra nāma
therefore Triyuga making they call His name

99 It is because in the age of Kali Bhagavān does not appear as a līlā-avatāra that He is called Triyuga.

Anubhāṣya.

Līlā-avatāra. An avatāra whose pastimes are full of varied wonders, free of effort, ever new, surging with waves of joy, and dependent only on His own will is called a līlā-avatāra. In the teachings to Śrī Sanātana (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya 20.297–298): "Kṛṣṇa's līlā-avatāras cannot be counted; I will indicate only the chief ones. Matsya, Kūrma, Raghunātha, Nṛsiṁha, Vāmana, Varāha, and the rest — their record cannot be counted." See the Anubhāṣya there and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.2.40. The Laghu-bhāgavatāmṛta names twenty-five līlā-avatāras: (1) the four Kumāras (catuḥsana), (2) Nārada, (3) Varāha, (4) Matsya, (5) Yajña, (6) Nara-Nārāyaṇa, (7) Kapila, (8) Dattātreya, (9) Hayaśīrṣa (Hayagrīva), (10) Haṁsa, (11) Pṛśnigarbha, (12) Ṛṣabha, (13) Pṛthu, (14) Nṛsiṁha, (15) Kūrma, (16) Dhanvantari, (17) Mohinī, (18) Vāmana, (19) Paraśurāma, (20) Rāghavendra, (21) Vyāsa, (22) Balarāma, (23) Kṛṣṇa, (24) Buddha, (25) Kalki.

প্রতিযুগে করেন কৃষ্ণ যুগ-অবতার । তর্কনিষ্ঠ হৃদয় তোমার নাহিক বিচার ॥ ১০০ ॥

pratiyuge karena kṛṣṇa yuga-avatāra
in every age makes Kṛṣṇa a yuga-avatāra
tarka-niṣṭha hṛdaya tomāra nāhika vicāra devoted to logic heart your there is not discernment

100 But in every age Kṛṣṇa appears as the yuga-avatāra. Your heart is given over to logic, and so you have no discernment.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Gopīnātha said, “The scriptures have established that the truth of Īśvara cannot be known through learning and such qualities; so what fault is there in you?” Hearing this conclusion, Sārvabhauma said, “Ācārya, speak more carefully. What proof is there that Īśvara has shown mercy to you?” Gopīnātha replied, “Knowledge of the supreme Reality is called ‘knowledge of the Reality’ (vastu-jñāna), and this knowledge of the Reality is itself the proof of Īśvara's mercy. You saw in Him the signs of Īśvara — His absorption in great love — and yet, covered by Īśvara's māyā, you could not recognize Him as Īśvara! One who is turned outward sees Him and does not see. The sole reason for this is the nature[22] of Īśvara's mercy.” Sārvabhauma laughed and said, “Setting mere wrangling aside, I have reasoned with the eye of scripture, following those who seek the desired truth, and I say — listen. This Caitanya Gosāñi is indeed a great bhāgavata, for in the age of Kali there is no avatāra of Viṣṇu; that is why one of Viṣṇu's names is ‘Triyuga.’” Gopīnātha replied, “You pride yourself on knowing the scriptures, but you pay no attention to the words of the two chief scriptures, the Bhāgavatam and the Mahābhārata. These two books conclude that in Kali there is a direct avatāra. It is true that in Kali Bhagavān has no līlā-avatāra; that is why He is called ‘Triyuga.’ But in every age Kṛṣṇa has a yuga-avatāra — and this your heart, devoted to argument, cannot grasp.”

Avatāras of four colors in the four ages —

আসন্ বর্ণাস্ত্রয়ো হ্যস্য গৃহ্ণতোঽনুযুগং তনূঃ ।
শুক্লো রক্তস্তথা পীত ইদানীং কৃষ্ণতাং গতঃ ॥ ১০১ ॥

āsan varṇās trayo hy asya
there were colours three indeed of Him
gṛhṇato 'nu-yugaṁ tanūḥ accepting in each age bodies
śuklo raktas tathā pīta
white red likewise yellow idānīṁ kṛṣṇatāṁ gataḥ
now blackness has attained

101 "Your son, who accepts a body in every age, has appeared in three colours — white, red and yellow; now He has become dark (kṛṣṇa)." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.8.13)[4]

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 3.36.

ইতি দ্বাপর উর্ব্বীশ স্তুবন্তি জগদীশ্বরম্ ।
নানাতন্ত্রবিধানেন কলাবপি তথা শৃণু ॥ ১০২ ॥

iti dvāpara urv-īśa
thus in Dvāpara O lord of the earth
stuvanti jagad-īśvaram
they praise the Lord of the universe
nānā-tantra-vidhānena
of various tantras by the rules
kalāv api tathā śṛṇu
in Kali also how hear

102 "Thus, O king, people praise the Lord of the universe in the Dvāpara age. Now hear how they praise Him in the age of Kali as well, following the rules of various tantras." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.31)

Anubhāṣya.
In answer to the question of Nimi, the king of Videha, the sage Śrī Karabhājana describes the avatāra for the age of Kali and the way to worship Him:

urv-īśa (O lord of the earth, Nimi) dvāpare (in the Dvāpara age) jagad-īśvaram (the Lord of the universe [the devotees worship as the four — Vāsudeva and the others — by the rules of worship given in the Pañcarātra and other scriptures]) iti (thus) stuvanti (praise, that is, worship); tathā kalau api (likewise in Kali too) nānā-tantra-vidhānena (by the various rules given in the Pañcarātra and other Sātvata tantras) stuvanti (they praise) — tat (of this) mattaḥ (from me [hear])[29].

কৃষ্ণবর্ণং ত্বিষাঽকৃষ্ণং সাঙ্গোপাঙ্গাস্ত্রপার্ষদম্ ।
যজ্ঞৈঃ সংকীর্ত্তনপ্রায়ৈর্যজন্তি হি সুমেধসঃ ॥ ১০৩ ॥

kṛṣṇa-varṇaṁ tviṣā 'kṛṣṇaṁ Kṛṣṇa describing (or: with the syllables 'Kṛṣ-ṇa') by lustre not dark sāṅgopāṅgāstra-pārṣadam
with limbs, sub-limbs, weapons and associates
yajñaiḥ saṁkīrtana-prāyair
by sacrifices in which saṅkīrtana predominates yajanti hi su-medhasaḥ
they worship indeed the intelligent

103 "With sacrifices in which congregational chanting predominates, the wise worship the Lord who ever sings of Kṛṣṇa and whose lustre is not dark. He is always surrounded by His intimate companions (aṅga), His devotees (upāṅga), His weapons and His associates (pārṣada)." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.32)[5]

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 3.51.

সুবর্ণবর্ণো হেমাঙ্গো বরাঙ্গশ্চন্দনাঙ্গদী ।
সন্ন্যাসকৃচ্ছমঃ শান্তো নিষ্ঠা-শান্তি-পরায়ণঃ ॥ ১০৪ ॥

suvarṇa-varṇo hemāṅgo
of golden colour with limbs of gold varāṅgaś candanāṅgadī
with beautiful limbs wearing sandal armlets
sannyāsa-kṛc chamaḥ śānto sannyāsa taking self-restrained peaceful niṣṭhā-śānti-parāyaṇaḥ
to steadfastness and peace devoted

104 "He is of golden colour, His limbs are like gold, His form is beautiful, and He wears armlets of sandal. He has taken sannyāsa, He is self-restrained and tranquil, and His highest refuge is steadfastness and peace." (Mahābhārata, Dāna-dharma, 149; Viṣṇu-sahasra-nāma, 92 and 75)[6]

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 3.49.

Gopīnātha disregards the Bhaṭṭācārya and does not take him seriously —

তোমার আগে এত কথার নাহি প্রয়োজন । উষর-ভূমিতে যেন বীজের রোপণ ॥ ১০৫ ॥

tomāra āge eta kathāra nāhi prayojana
you before these words there is not need uṣara-bhūmite yena bījera ropaṇa
on barren ground like of seeds the sowing

105 "But there is no use saying all this to you; it is like sowing seeds on barren ground.

Knowledge of Bhagavān's greatness comes only by Bhagavān's mercy —

তোমার উপরে তাঁর কৃপা যবে হবে । এসব সিদ্ধান্ত তবে তুমিহ কহিবে ॥ ১০৬ ॥

tomāra upare tāṁra kṛpā yabe habe on you His mercy when will be esaba siddhānta tabe tumiha kahibe
these conclusions then you too will speak

106 When His mercy comes upon you, then you too will speak these same conclusions.

*False arguments about the transcendental Reality are born of māyā —*

তোমার যে শিষ্য কহে কুতর্ক, নানা-বাদ । ইহার কি দোষ, — এই মায়ার প্রসাদ ॥ ১০৭ ॥

tomāra ye śiṣya kahe kutarka, nānā-vāda
your which disciples speak false arguments various doctrines ihāra ki doṣa, — ei māyāra prasāda their what fault this of māyā the gift

107 As for your disciples, who put forward false arguments and all kinds of doctrines — what fault is it of theirs? This is the gift of māyā.

Kṛṣṇa's inconceivable potency bewilders those who reason from the senses —

যচ্ছক্তয়ো বদতাং বাদিনাং বৈ, বিবাদ-সংবাদ-ভুবো ভবন্তি ।
কুর্ব্বন্তি চৈষাং মুহুরাত্মমোহং, তস্মৈ নমোঽনন্তগুণায় ভূম্নে ॥ ১০৮ ॥

yac-chaktayo vadatāṁ vādināṁ vai
whose potencies of those who speak of disputants indeed vivāda-saṁvāda-bhuvo bhavanti of disagreement of agreement the grounds become kurvanti caiṣāṁ muhur ātma-mohaṁ
they make and their repeatedly about the self bewilderment tasmai namo 'nanta-guṇāya bhūmne to Him obeisance of endless qualities to the Greatest

108 “I bow down to the Infinite, the Lord of endless qualities, whose potencies become the ground of both agreement and dispute among those who argue, and bewilder them again and again about the self.” (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.4.31)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Prajāpati Dakṣa said, “His potencies give rise to both dispute and agreement among disputants and again and again bewilder them about the self. To that Supreme Person (bhūmā), whose nature is unlimited qualities, I bow down.”

Anubhāṣya.

The secret prayer Haṁsa-guhya, which Prajāpati Dakṣa offered to Bhagavān Śrī Hari:

yac-chaktayaḥ (the potencies of Him whose potencies are the external ones, māyā and avidyā) vadatāṁ vādinām (of the disputants who rely on thesis and antithesis) vivāda-saṁvāda-bhuvaḥ (the ground, that is, the cause from which dispute, and sometimes agreement, arises) bhavanti (become), eṣām (in these lovers of dispute) muhuḥ (again and again) ātma-moham (bewilderment about the self) kurvanti (produce), tasmai ananta-guṇāya (to Him who possesses all potencies) bhūmne (to the Paramātmā) namaḥ (obeisance).

*The brāhmaṇa who serves Adhokṣaja is right; one whose knowledge comes through the senses, a servant of māyā, is wrong —*

যুক্তঞ্চ সন্তি সর্ব্বত্র ভাষন্তে ব্রাহ্মণা যথা ৷ মায়াং মদীয়ামুদ্গৃহ্য বদতাং কিং নু দুর্ঘটম্ ॥ ১০৯ ॥

yuktaṁ ca santi sarvatra reasonable and they are present everywhere
bhāṣante brāhmaṇā yathā speak the brāhmaṇas as māyāṁ madīyām udgṛhya māyā My taking up
vadatāṁ kiṁ nu durghaṭam
of those who speak what indeed is impossible

109 “What the brāhmaṇas say is reasonable, for the elements are present in one another everywhere. And when people speak relying on My māyā, what is there they cannot assert?” (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.22.4)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

What the brāhmaṇas have said is sound in every case, for to those who speak by resorting to My māyā nothing is impossible. The point is that Bhagavān's māyā is a potency skilled at making the impossible possible. So in many cases she can hide the truth and make falsehood appear proven. Relying on that māyā, Kapila, Gautama, Jaimini, Kaṇāda, and other brāhmaṇas have presented many empty statements as though they were sound arguments.

Anubhāṣya.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa's answer to Uddhava's question about the number of tattvas:

yathā brāhmaṇāḥ bhāṣante (as the brāhmaṇas have determined), [tat] (that) ca sarvatra yuktam santi; madīyām māyām udgṛhya (having accepted My māyā) vadatām (for people who speak) kim (what [at all]) durghaṭam nu (is impossible)?

The Bhaṭṭācārya pays no heed to Gopīnātha's teaching —

তবে ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, যাহ গোসাঞির স্থানে । আমার নামে গণ-সহিত কর নিমন্ত্রণে ॥ ১১০ ॥

tabe bhaṭṭācārya kahe, yāha gosāñira sthāne
then the Bhaṭṭācārya says go to Gosāñi’s place
āmāra nāme gaṇa-sahita kara nimantraṇe
in my name with His companions make invitation

110 Then the Bhaṭṭācārya said, “Go to Gosāñi and invite Him in my name, together with His companions.

প্রসাদ আনি’ তাঁরে করাহ আগে ভিক্ষা । পশ্চাৎ আসি’ আমারে করাইহ শিক্ষা ॥ ১১১ ॥

prasāda āni' tāṁre karāha āge bhikṣā prasāda bringing Him have Him take first the meal
paścāt āsi' āmāre karāiha śikṣā afterwards coming me you may instruct

111 Bring Him prasāda and serve Him His meal first. Afterwards come back and teach me."

In various ways Gopīnātha tries to benefit the Bhaṭṭācārya —

আচার্য্য — ভগিনীপতি, শ্যালক — ভট্টাচার্য্য । নিন্দা-স্তুতি-হাস্যে শিক্ষা করা'ন আচার্য্য ॥ ১১২ ॥

ācārya — bhaginī-pati, śyālaka — bhaṭṭācārya
the Ācārya the sister's husband the brother-in-law the Bhaṭṭācārya
nindā-stuti-hāsye śikṣā karā'na ācārya
by censure, praise and jest instruction gives the Ācārya

112 The Ācārya was the husband of the Bhaṭṭācārya's sister, and so he would instruct his brother-in-law with censure, praise and jest.

Mukunda's anger at the Bhaṭṭācārya's Māyāvāda words is itself his mercy toward him —

আচার্য্যের সিদ্ধান্তে মুকুন্দের হৈল সন্তোষ । ভট্টাচার্য্যের বাক্যে মনে হৈল দুঃখ রোষ ॥ ১১৩ ॥

ācāryera siddhānte mukundera haila santoṣa of the Ācārya by the conclusions of Mukunda there was satisfaction
bhaṭṭācāryera vākye mane haila duḥkha roṣa
of the Bhaṭṭācārya by the words in the mind there was sorrow anger

113 Mukunda was pleased with the Ācārya's conclusions, but the Bhaṭṭācārya's words filled him with sorrow and anger.

The invitation to the Lord —

গোসাঞির স্থানে আচার্য্য কৈল আগমন ।
ভট্টাচার্য্যের নামে তাঁরে কৈল নিমন্ত্রণ ॥ ১১৪ ॥

gosāñira sthāne ācārya kaila āgamana to Gosāñi's place the Ācārya made coming bhaṭṭācāryera nāme tāṁre kaila nimantraṇa
in the Bhaṭṭācārya's name Him made invitation

114 The Ācārya went to Gosāñi and invited Him in the Bhaṭṭācārya's name.

Mukunda and Gopīnātha complain about the Bhaṭṭācārya —

মুকুন্দ-সহিত কহে ভট্টাচার্য্যের কথা ।
ভট্টাচার্য্যের নিন্দা করে, মনে পাঞা ব্যথা ॥ ১১৫ ॥

mukunda-sahita kahe bhaṭṭācāryera kathā
with Mukunda he tells the Bhaṭṭācārya's words bhaṭṭācāryera nindā kare, mane pāñā vyathā
of the Bhaṭṭācārya censure he makes in mind getting pain

115 Together with Mukunda he told the Lord what the Bhaṭṭācārya had said, and, pained at heart, he spoke critically of the Bhaṭṭācārya.

The Lord gives honor to the Bhaṭṭācārya —

শুনি' মহাপ্রভু কহে ঐছে মৎ কহ । আমা প্রতি ভট্টাচার্য্যের হয় অনুগ্রহ ॥ ১১৬ ॥

śuni' mahāprabhu kahe aiche mat kaha hearing Mahāprabhu says so do not speak
āmā prati bhaṭṭācāryera haya anugraha
Me towards the Bhaṭṭācārya's is kindness

116 Hearing this, Mahāprabhu said, "Do not speak like that. The Bhaṭṭācārya is kind to Me.

আমার সন্ন্যাস-ধর্ম্ম চাহেন রাখিতে । বাৎসল্যে করুণা করেন, কি দোষ ইহাতে ॥ ১১৭ ॥

āmāra sannyāsa-dharma cāhena rākhite
My of sannyāsa the duty he wants to protect vātsalye karuṇā karena, ki doṣa ihāte
in parental affection mercy he shows what fault in this

117 He wants to protect My vows of sannyāsa, and out of fatherly affection he shows Me compassion. What fault is there in that?"

*After darśana of Jagannātha with Sārvabhauma, the Lord goes to his house*

—

আর দিন মহাপ্রভু ভট্টাচার্য্য-সনে । আনন্দে করিলা জগন্নাথ দরশনে ॥ ১১৮ ॥

āra dina mahāprabhu bhaṭṭācārya-sane
the next day Mahāprabhu the Bhaṭṭācārya with ānande karilā jagannātha daraśane
joyfully made of Jagannātha darśana

118 The next day Mahāprabhu joyfully took darśana of Jagannātha together with the Bhaṭṭācārya.

ভট্টাচার্য্য-সঙ্গে তাঁর মন্দিরে আইলা । প্রভুরে আসন দিয়া আপনে বসিলা ॥ ১১৯ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya-saṅge tāṁra mandire āilā
the Bhaṭṭācārya together with his to the house He came prabhure āsana diyā āpane vasilā to the Lord a seat giving himself sat

119 From there they went together to the Bhaṭṭācārya's house, where he offered the Lord a seat and then sat down himself.[7]

Sārvabhauma teaches the Lord Vedānta and instructs Him —

বেদান্ত পড়াইতে তবে আরম্ভ করিলা । স্নেহ-ভক্তি করি' কিছু প্রভুরে কহিলা ॥ ১২০ ॥

vedānta paḍāite tabe ārambha karilā Vedānta to teach then beginning he made sneha-bhakti kari' kichu prabhure kahilā affection and devotion showing something to the Lord he said

120 Then he began to teach Vedānta, and with affection and reverence he said to the Lord:

বেদান্ত-শ্রবণ, — এই সন্ন্যাসীর ধর্ম্ম । নিরন্তর কর তুমি বেদান্ত শ্রবণ ॥ ১২১ ॥

vedānta-śravaṇa, — ei sannyāsīra dharma hearing Vedānta this of a sannyāsī the duty nirantara kara tumi vedānta śravaṇa constantly do You of Vedānta hearing

121 "To hear Vedānta is the duty of a sannyāsī. You should hear Vedānta constantly."

Anubhāṣya.

Vedānta — here, Śaṅkara's Śārīraka-bhāṣya on the Brahma-sūtra, which establishes Brahman without attributes (nirviśeṣa). "Ever delighting in the statements of Vedānta"[30] and so on — this is the dharma of a sannyāsī.

The Lord's humility —

প্রভু কহে, — মোরে তুমি কর অনুগ্রহ । সেই সে কর্ত্তব্য, তুমি যেই মোরে কহ ॥ ১২২ ॥

prabhu kahe, — more tumi kara anugraha
the Lord says to Me you show kindness sei se kartavya, tumi yei more kaha
that alone the duty you whatever to Me say

122 The Lord said, “You are kind to Me. Whatever you tell Me, that is My duty.”

For seven days the Lord hears Vedānta from Sārvabhauma's lips and stays silent, disregarding the Māyāvāda commentary —

সপ্তদিন পর্য্যন্ত ঐছে করেন শ্রবণে । ভাল-মন্দ নাহি কহে, বসি’ মাত্র শুনে ॥ ১২৩ ॥

saptadina paryanta aiche karena śravaṇe
seven days for thus He does hearing
bhāla-manda nāhi kahe, vasi’ mātra śune
good or bad not He says sitting only He listens

123 For seven days He listened in this way. He said nothing, good or bad, but only sat and listened.

On the eighth day Sārvabhauma asks the reason —

অষ্টম-দিবসে তাঁরে পুছে সার্ব্বভৌম । সাত দিন কর তুমি বেদান্ত শ্রবণ ॥ ১২৪ ॥

aṣṭama-divase tāṁre puche sārvabhauma
on the eighth day Him asks Sārvabhauma
sāta dina kara tumi vedānta śravaṇa
seven days do You of Vedānta hearing

124 On the eighth day Sārvabhauma asked Him, “For seven days You have been hearing Vedānta.

ভালমন্দ নাহি কহ, রহ মৌন ধরি’ । বুঝ, কি না বুঝ, — ইহা জানিতে না পারি ॥ ১২৫ ॥

bhāla-manda nāhi kaha, raha mauna dhari’
good or bad not You say You remain silence keeping bujha, ki nā bujha, — ihā jānite nā pāri
You understand or not You understand this to know not I can 125 Yet You say nothing, good or bad, but remain silent, and I cannot tell whether You understand or not."

Speaking humbly, the Lord sets aside the Māyāvāda commentary —

প্রভু কহে, — মূর্খ আমি, নাহি অধ্যয়ন । তোমার আজ্ঞাতে মাত্র করিয়ে শ্রবণ ॥ ১২৬ ॥

prabhu kahe, — mūrkha āmi, nāhi adhyayana
the Lord says a fool I there is not study tomāra ājñāte mātra kariye śravaṇa
your by the order only I do hearing

126 The Lord said, "I am a fool and have never studied. I listen only because you tell Me to.

সন্ন্যাসীর ধর্ম্ম লাগি' শ্রবণ মাত্র করি । তুমি যেই অর্থ কর, বুঝিতে না পারি ॥ ১২৭ ॥

sannyāsīra dharma lāgi' śravaṇa mātra kari of a sannyāsī the duty for the sake of hearing only I do tumi yei artha kara, bujhite nā pāri you whatever meaning give to understand not I can 127 I listen simply as a sannyāsī's duty requires, but I cannot understand the meaning you give."

Taking the Lord for ignorant, the Bhaṭṭācārya tells Him to break His silence and ask questions —

ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, — 'না বুঝি', হেন জ্ঞান যার । বুঝিবার লাগি' সেহ পুছে পুনর্ব্বার ॥ ১২৮ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya kahe, — 'nā bujhi', hena jñāna yāra
the Bhaṭṭācārya says not I understand such awareness whose bujhibāra lāgi' seha puche punarbāra
to understand for the sake of he asks again

128 The Bhaṭṭācārya said, “One who knows that he does not understand asks again in order to understand.

তুমি শুনি’ শুনি’ রহ মৌন মাত্র ধরি’ । হৃদয়ে কি আছে তোমার, বুঝিতে না পারি ॥ ১২৯ ॥

tumi śuni’ śuni’ raha mauna mātra dhari’
You hearing hearing remain silence only keeping hṛdaye ki āche tomāra, bujhite nā pāri in the heart what is Your to understand not I can 129 But You listen and listen and only keep silent. I cannot tell what is in Your heart.”

The Lord refutes Sārvabhauma's Māyāvāda interpretation —

প্রভু কহে, — সূত্রের অর্থ বুঝিয়ে নির্ম্মল । তোমার ব্যাখ্যা শুনি’ মন হয় ত’ বিকল ॥ ১৩০ ॥

prabhu kahe, — sūtrera artha bujhiye nirmala
the Lord says of the sūtras the meaning I understand clear tomāra vyākhyā śuni’ mana haya ta’ vikala your explanation hearing the mind becomes indeed agitated

130 The Lord said, “The meaning of the sūtras is clear to Me, but when I hear your explanation, My mind is troubled.

*In the primary, direct sense (mukhya-abhidhā-vṛtti) the meaning of the Brahma-sūtra is plain; the secondary, indirect sense (gauṇa-lakṣaṇā), resting on conjecture, covers it —*

সূত্রের অর্থ ভাষ্য কহে প্রকাশিয়া । তুমি, ভাষ্য কহ — সূত্রের অর্থ আচ্ছাদিয়া ॥ ১৩১ ॥

sūtrera artha bhāṣya kahe prakāśiyā
of the sūtra the meaning the commentary speaks revealing
tumi, bhāṣya kaha — sūtrera artha ācchādiyā
you commentary speak of the sūtra the meaning covering

131 A commentary (bhāṣya) should bring the meaning of a sūtra to light, but your commentary only covers it.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
A true commentary on a sūtra reveals the sūtra's meaning, but the commentary you are reciting keeps its meaning covered.

সূত্রের মুখ্য অর্থ না করহ ব্যাখ্যান । কল্পনার্থে তুমি তাহা কর আচ্ছাদন ॥ ১৩২ ॥

sūtrera mukhya artha nā karaha vyākhyāna
of the sūtras the primary meaning not you do explanation
kalpanārthe tumi tāhā kara ācchādana
by imagined meanings you it do covering

132 You do not explain the primary meaning of the sūtras; you cover it with meanings of your own imagining.

Anubhāṣya.
You do not explain the primary meaning of Vyāsa's Brahma-sūtra, which one gets by relying on the direct sense of words (abhidhā-vṛtti); instead you cover the meaning of the sūtras and invent an imagined meaning by means of lakṣaṇā.

*What the Upaniṣads establish is exactly what is set down in Vedānta in the form of sūtras —*

উপনিষদ্-শব্দে যেই মুখ্য অর্থ হয় । সেই অর্থ মুখ্য, — ব্যাসসূত্রে সব কয় ॥ ১৩৩ ॥

upaniṣad-śabde yei mukhya artha haya of the Upaniṣads in the words which primary meaning is sei artha mukhya, — vyāsa-sūtre saba kaya
that meaning primary in Vyāsa's sūtras all is said

133 Whatever is the primary meaning of the words of the Upaniṣads, that is the principal meaning, and Vyāsa's sūtras state it all.

মুখ্যার্থ ছাড়িয়া কর গৌণার্থ কল্পনা ।
'অভিধা'-বৃত্তি ছাড়ি' কর শব্দের 'লক্ষণা' ॥ ১৩৪ ॥

mukhyārtha chāḍiyā kara gauṇārtha kalpanā
the primary meaning abandoning you make of a secondary meaning invention
'abhidhā'-vṛtti chāḍi' kara śabdera 'lakṣaṇā'
abhidhā function giving up you make of words lakṣaṇā

134 Abandoning the primary meaning, you invent secondary meanings. Giving up the direct sense of words (abhidhā), you read them indirectly (lakṣaṇā).

Anubhāṣya.
Upaniṣads — see the anvaya in the Anubhāṣya on Ādi 2.5, the Anubhāṣya on Ādi 7.106, and the Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya and Anubhāṣya on Ādi 7.108.

The chief evidence is the word, that is, the Vedas —

প্রমাণের মধ্যে শ্রুতি প্রমাণ — প্রধান । শ্রুতি যে মুখ্যার্থ কহে, সেই সে প্রমাণ ॥ ১৩৫ ॥

pramāṇera madhye śruti pramāṇa — pradhāna of proofs among śruti proof the chief śruti ye mukhyārtha kahe, sei se pramāṇa
śruti what primary meaning speaks that alone proof

135 Among all proofs the śruti is the chief, and what the śruti says in its primary meaning — that alone is proof.

Anubhāṣya.

See Śrīla Jīva Prabhu's Tattva-sandarbha, sections 10–11, with Śrī Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa's commentary, and the Śrī-bhāṣya, the Śrī Mādhva-bhāṣya, the Śrī Nimbārka-bhāṣya, and Śrī Baladeva's Govinda-bhāṣya on such sūtras as śāstra-yonitvāt (Brahma-sūtra 1.1.3), tarkāpratiṣṭhānāt (Brahma-sūtra 2.1.11), and śrutes tu śabda-mūlatvāt (Brahma-sūtra 2.1.27). Śrī Jīva Prabhu writes in the Sarva-saṁvādinī: “Nevertheless, the root evidence is the word (śabda) alone — statements free from the defects of error, inattention, the wish to deceive, and imperfect senses. For the other kinds of evidence are mostly full of human defects such as error, and are seen to give false impressions; so people cannot decide whether they are evidence or a mere semblance of it. The word has no such defect.” That is, although there are ten kinds of evidence, beginning with direct perception, the root evidence is “the word,” that is, śruti, made of statements free from the four defects such as error. As for the other kinds of evidence, human statements and the like are usually marred by error and the other defects, so they give rise to false impressions. One therefore cannot decide whether those nine kinds are truly evidence or only its semblance. But the evidence of the word rests on the vision of reality, and so this doubt does not arise with it.

An example —

জীবের অস্থি-বিষ্ঠা দুই, — শঙ্খ-গোময় । শ্রুতি-বাক্যে সেই দুই মহা-পবিত্র হয় ॥ ১৩৬ ॥

jīvera asthi-viṣṭhā dui, — śaṅkha-gomaya
of a living being bone and dung the two conch and cow dung
śruti-vākye sei dui mahā-pavitra haya
by the words of śruti those two very pure are 136 Conchshell and cow dung are the bone and the dung of living beings, yet by the word of the śruti these two are supremely pure.

*To knowledge born of the senses, on a path alien to śruti, the Vedas are incomprehensible —*

স্বতঃপ্রমাণ বেদ সত্য যেই কয় । ‘লক্ষণা’ করিলে স্বতঃপ্রামাণ্য-হানি হয় ॥ ১৩৭ ॥

svataḥ-pramāṇa veda satya yei kaya
self-evident the Vedas truth whatever speak
'lakṣaṇā' karile svataḥ-prāmāṇya-hāni haya
lakṣaṇā if one makes of self-evidence loss occurs

137 The Vedas are self-evident, and what they say is truth. If they are read indirectly (lakṣaṇā), their self-evident authority is lost.

Anubhāṣya.
(Brahma-sūtra 2.1.5). In his commentary on the sūtra dṛśyate tu, Śrīman Madhvācārya-pāda quotes this statement of the Bhaviṣya Purāṇa: "The Ṛg, Yajur, Sāma, and Atharva, the Bhārata, the Pañcarātra, and the original Rāmāyaṇa are called 'Veda.' And the self-evidence of those Purāṇas which the wise know to be Vaiṣṇava is not open to question here at all."

Śaṅkara's commentary contradicts Vedānta —

ব্যাস-সূত্রের অর্থ — যৈছে সূর্য্যের কিরণ । স্বকল্পিত ভাষ্য-মেঘে করে আচ্ছাদন ॥ ১৩৮ ॥

vyāsa-sūtrera artha — yaiche sūryera kiraṇa
of Vyāsa's sūtras the meaning like of the sun the rays
sva-kalpita bhāṣya-meghe kare ācchādana self-imagined by clouds of commentary one makes covering

138 The meaning of Vyāsa's sūtras is like the rays of the sun, and you cover it with the clouds of a commentary of your own invention.

The Vedas and the Sātvata Purāṇas intend Brahman with attributes, that is, Śrī Bhagavān —

বেদ-পুরাণে কহে ব্রহ্ম-নিরূপণ । সেই ব্রহ্ম — বৃহদ্বস্তু, ঈশ্বর-লক্ষণ ॥ ১৩৯ ॥

veda-purāṇe kahe brahma-nirūpaṇa
in the Vedas and Purāṇas they speak of Brahman the description
sei brahma — bṛhad-vastu, īśvara-lakṣaṇa
that Brahman the Great Reality of the Lord the signs

139 The Vedas and Purāṇas describe Brahman, and that Brahman is the Great Reality (bṛhad-vastu), bearing all the signs of the Lord.

*The form (vigraha) of being, knowledge, and bliss is not without attributes —*

সর্ব্বৈশ্বর্য্যপরিপূর্ণ স্বয়ং ভগবান্ । তাঁরে নিরাকার করি' করহ ব্যাখ্যান ॥ ১৪০ ॥

sarvaiśvarya-paripūrṇa svayaṁ bhagavān
full of all opulences Himself Bhagavān
tāṁre nirākāra kari' karaha vyākhyāna
Him formless making you do explanation

140 He is Svayaṁ Bhagavān, full of all opulences, yet you explain Him as formless.

"Without attributes" means the denial of material attributes and material variety —

'নির্ব্বিশেষ' তাঁরে কহে যেই শ্রুতিগণ ।
'প্রাকৃত' নিষেধি করে 'অপ্রাকৃত' স্থাপন ॥ ১৪১ ॥

'nirviśeṣa' tāṁre kahe yei śruti-gaṇa
featureless Him call which the śrutis
'prākṛta' niṣedhi kare 'aprākṛta' sthāpana
the material rejecting they make of the non-material establishment

141 Those śrutis that call Him featureless (nirviśeṣa) reject what is material and establish what is beyond matter.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The primary meaning of the Upaniṣadic statements is what Vedavyāsa pointed to in his sūtras; that is, this primary meaning is what must be known. To set it aside and invent a secondary meaning, resorting to lakṣaṇā instead of the direct sense of words (abhidhā-vṛtti), leads to misfortune. Of the four kinds of evidence — direct perception (pratyakṣa), inference (anumāna), tradition (aitihya), and the word (śabda) — "the evidence of śruti," that is, the evidence of the word, is the chief of all. The evidence is the primary meaning of the statements of śruti. Consider: the bones and dung of animals are utterly impure; yet the “conch” and “cow dung,” though counted among them, have become supremely pure by the power of the statements of śruti. To interpret Vedic statements by lakṣaṇā is to subordinate them to “inference” and so destroy their self-evidence. The meaning of Vyāsa's sūtras shines like the rays of the sun. The Māyāvādīs have covered it with the clouds of their self-invented commentary. The Vedas and the Purāṇas that follow them establish Brahman alone. By virtue of its quality of greatness (bṛhattva) that Brahman is marked by the signs of Īśvara. And when that Īśvara is seen in the fullness of all His majesty, that great Reality, Brahman, turns out to be Bhagavān Himself. So “Brahman” and “Īśvara” are particular aspects within the truth of Bhagavān. Bhagavān, full in six opulences, is always endowed with perfect beauty (śrī); therefore He is eternally possessed of attributes (saviśeṣa). To explain Him as “formless” distorts the meaning of the Vedas. The śrutis that call Him nirviśeṣa (without attributes) only deny “material attributes” and establish “transcendental attributes.” “Without hands and feet, He moves swiftly and grasps; without eyes He sees, without ears He hears. He knows all that is to be known, but no one knows Him. They call Him the foremost, the great Person” (Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad 3.19). In many such śrutis the transcendental truth, possessed of form and full of being, knowledge, and bliss (sac-cid-ānanda), is described.

*The śrutis intend Śrī Bhagavān, who possesses attributes —*

যা যা শ্রুতির্জল্পতি নির্ব্বিশেষং সা সাভিধত্তে সবিশেষমেব । বিচারযোগে সতি হন্ত তাসাং প্রায়ো বলীয়ঃ সবিশেষমেব ॥ ১৪২ ॥

yā yā śrutir jalpati nirviśeṣaṁ whichever whichever śruti speaks of the featureless sā sābhidhatte sa-viśeṣam eva that that denotes the one with features only vicāra-yoge sati hanta tāsāṁ of reflection on application being indeed of them prāyo balīyaḥ sa-viśeṣam eva
as a rule stronger the one with features alone

142 “Whatever śruti speaks of the featureless directly denotes Him who has features; and when such texts are carefully examined, the sense ‘with features' almost always proves the stronger." (Hayaśīrṣa-pañcarātra, quoted in the Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka, 6.21)[8]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The śrutis that first present the Truth as "without attributes" in the end establish the Truth with attributes. Being "without attributes" and being "with attributes" — both these aspects of Bhagavān are eternal. But on reflection the Truth with attributes proves the stronger, for it is the Truth with attributes that is experienced in the world, while the Truth without attributes is not experienced.

Anubhāṣya.

yā yā śrutiḥ (those śrutis, that is, Vedic mantras, which) nirviśeṣam (Brahman as without attributes, as pure consciousness alone) jalpati (proclaim), sā sā śrutiḥ (those very śrutis) saviśeṣam (as possessing attributes — name, form, qualities, pastimes, and so on) eva abhidhatte (designate by the primary, direct sense, abhidhā-vṛtti); hanta tāsām (of these śrutis) vicāra-yoge sati (when carefully studied) prāyaḥ (in every respect) saviśeṣam eva balīyaḥ (is stronger — this is the chief purport of the Vedic statements).

Śrī Bhagavān is what is meant in every case —

ব্রহ্ম হৈতে জন্মে বিশ্ব, ব্রহ্মেতে জীবয় । সেই ব্রহ্মে পুনরপি হয়ে যায় লয় ॥ ১৪৩ ॥

brahma haite janme viśva, brahmete jīvaya
from Brahman is born the universe in Brahman it lives
sei brahme punarapi haye yāya laya
into that Brahman again becoming it goes dissolution

143 The universe is born from Brahman and lives in Brahman, and into that same Brahman it dissolves again.

'অপাদান', 'করণ', 'অধিকরণ'-কারক তিন ।
ভগবানের সবিশেষে এই তিন চিহ্ন ॥ ১৪৪ ॥

‘apādāna’, ‘karaṇa’, ‘adhikaraṇa’-kāraka tina “apādāna” (source) “karaṇa” (instrument) “adhikaraṇa” (locus) — cases three bhagavānera saviśeṣe ei tina cihna
of Bhagavān in having features these three signs

144 Source, instrument and abode — these three cases (apādāna, karaṇa and adhikaraṇa) are the three signs that Bhagavān has features.

Anubhāṣya.
See Śrīdhara Svāmī's commentary on Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 6.4.30.

Anubhāṣya.
Aitareya Upaniṣad 1.1.1–2: “In the beginning all this was the Self alone, one only; there was nothing else that even blinked. He created these worlds.” Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad 4.9: “The meters, sacrifices, rites, vows, the past, the future, and all that the Vedas declare — from this the Lord of māyā creates this world, and in it the other [the jīva] is bound by māyā.” Taittirīya Upaniṣad, Bhṛgu-vallī 1: “That from which these beings are born, by which, once born, they live, into which they go and enter — seek to know That: That is Brahman.” Varuṇa spoke these words in reply when Bhṛgu, the son of Varuṇa, asked his father about Brahman. In this mantra yataḥ (Brahman from which the world arises) is the ablative case (apādāna-kāraka); yena (Brahman by whom the world is sustained) is the instrumental case (karaṇa-kāraka); yat, that is, yasmin (Brahman into which the world enters), is the locative case (adhikaraṇa-kāraka). The commentary of Śrī Rāghavendra Yati: “By the rule that ‘a name is mentioned by part of the name,’ this designation should be understood as ‘made of food, made of breath, made of sight, made of hearing, made of mind, made of speech, made of knowledge, and made of bliss.’ ‘Made of knowledge’ and ‘made of bliss’ only indicate [the whole]; hence the mention of five forms in the Brahma-vallī is also only indicative. So it is said that ‘made of sight,’ ‘made of speech,’ and ‘made of hearing’ must also be accepted. For in the Vādhūla branch it is said: ‘Different from this one made of the essence of food is another, inner self, made of speech. Different from this one made of speech is another, inner self, made of sight. Different from this one made of sight is another, inner self, made of hearing.’ He is called ‘made of sight’ and so on because He has the power of complete seeing and the rest.” Thus, in the manner stated in the commentary on the Aitareya, [Brahman is He] whose nature is the power of complete seeing, the power of complete hearing, and the power of complete speech. Or else yat prayanti — into whom they go at the dissolution; yad abhisaṁviśanti — into whom the liberated enter by their own will: “seek to know That.” Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.5.20: “This universe is Bhagavān Himself, and yet He is other than it; from Him come the maintenance, dissolution, and arising of the world.”

*The truth that is seen directly and heard in śruti is the manifestation of the many from Kṛṣṇa, the nondual Knowledge (the One); deriving the One from the many is alien to śruti —*

ভগবান্ অনেক হৈতে যবে কৈল মন । প্রাকৃত-শক্তিতে তবে কৈল বিলোকন ॥ ১৪৫ ॥

bhagavān aneka haite yabe kaila mana
the Lord many to become when He made His mind
prākṛta-śaktite tabe kaila vilokana
upon the material energy then He cast a glance

145 When Bhagavān resolved to become many, He cast His glance upon the material energy.

Anubhāṣya.
Chāndogya Upaniṣad 6.2.3: “It glanced: ‘May I become many; may I be born.’” Taittirīya Upaniṣad, Brahma-vallī 6: “He desired: ‘May I become many; may I be born.’”

*First the glance cast on māyā, then, as its result, creation; therefore Bhagavān's sight and the rest are transcendental —*

সে কালে নাহি জন্মে ‘প্রাকৃত’ মন-নয়ন । অতএব ‘অপ্রাকৃত’ ব্রহ্মের নেত্র-মন ॥ ১৪৬ ॥

se kāle nāhi janme ‘prākṛta’ mana-nayana
at that time not are born material mind and eyes ataeva ‘aprākṛta’ brahmera netra-mana therefore non-material of Brahman the eyes and mind

146 At that time no material mind or eyes had yet come into being; therefore the eyes and mind of Brahman are not material.

Anubhāṣya.

Before He glanced at the material potency in order to create, He looked with transcendental eyes. At the moment of that glance no material eyes had been created; for if material creation had already taken place, there would be no need to mention His urge to create. At that time Brahman with attributes had an eternal transcendental mind, with which He thought of the material creation, and eternal transcendental eyes, with which He glanced at the potency of prakṛti.

Bhagavān is Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the all-pervading Consciousness, that is, Viṣṇu, the Supreme Truth —

ব্রহ্ম-শব্দে কহে পূর্ণ স্বয়ং ভগবান্ । স্বয়ং ভগবান্ কৃষ্ণ, — শাস্ত্রের প্রমাণ ॥ ১৪৭ ॥

brahma-śabde kahe pūrṇa svayaṁ bhagavān
by the word "Brahman" is meant the complete Svayaṁ Bhagavān
svayaṁ bhagavān kṛṣṇa, — śāstrera pramāṇa Svayaṁ Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa of scripture the evidence

147 The word "Brahman" denotes the complete Svayaṁ Bhagavān, and Svayaṁ Bhagavān is Kṛṣṇa — such is the testimony of scripture.

Anubhāṣya.

In his commentary on the sūtra śāstra-yonitvāt (Brahma-sūtra 1.1.3) Śrīman Madhvācārya-pāda quotes: "The Ṛg, Yajur, Sāma, and Atharva, the Bhārata, the Pañcarātra, and the original Rāmāyaṇa are called 'śāstra.' What agrees with them is also declared śāstra. Any other proliferation of books is not śāstra at all, but a wrong path" (Skanda Purāṇa). That is, the Ṛg, Yajur, Sāma, and Atharva Vedas, the Mahābhārata (together with the Purāṇas), the Sātvata tantra Pañcarātra, and the original Rāmāyaṇa — these alone are called by the word śāstra, and books that agree with them are also counted as śāstra. All other books are not śāstra at all; they are denoted by the word kuvartma (a wrong path). See Ādi, Chapter 2.

The Purāṇas complete the meaning of the Vedas and were revealed in an ancient age[31]; therefore they are called "Purāṇas," that is, "ancient" —

বেদের নিগূঢ় অর্থ বুঝন না হয় । পুরাণ-বাক্যে সেই অর্থ করয় নিশ্চয় ॥ ১৪৮ ॥

vedera nigūḍha artha bujhana nā haya of the Vedas the hidden meaning understanding not is purāṇa-vākye sei artha karaya niścaya
by the words of the Purāṇas that meaning is made certain 148 The hidden meaning of the Vedas is not easily understood, and the words of the Purāṇas make that meaning certain.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

From such śruti statements as "that from which these beings are born" (Taittirīya Upaniṣad, Bhṛgu-vallī 1) we learn that "this world of moving and nonmoving beings is born from Brahman, lives by Brahman, and again merges into that Brahman." According to all these Vedic statements, Parabrahman has three characteristics: He is the ablative (apādāna), the instrumental (karaṇa), and the locative (adhikaraṇa) case. By these three eternal characteristics Bhagavān is seen to be eternally possessed of attributes. According to such śrutis as "May I become many" (Taittirīya Upaniṣad, Brahma-vallī 6), when Bhagavān wished to become many, then, as it is said, "He glanced" (Aitareya Upaniṣad 1.1) — He cast His glance on the material potency. At that time no material mind or eyes had yet been created; so the mind with which Bhagavān thought and the eyes with which He glanced at prakṛti existed before the material creation. Therefore Parabrahman had transcendental eyes and mind belonging to His very nature — and all the Vedas accept this. In the statements of the Upaniṣads the word "Brahman" is found almost everywhere. That Brahman in its full state is Bhagavān Himself: this is what the Vedas teach, and the evidence of scripture establishes that Kṛṣṇa is Bhagavān. If you say there is no such clear statement in the Vedas (none is to be seen), then reflect: the meanings of the Vedic statements are deeply hidden. To explain the purport of the Vedic statements to the world, the great sages determined the purport of the Vedas in the statements of the Purāṇas.

Anubhāṣya.

See sections 12–17 of Śrī Jīva Prabhu's Tattva-sandarbha and Śrī Baladeva's commentary.

অহো ভাগ্যমহো ভাগ্যং নন্দগোপব্রজৌকসাম্ ৷ যন্মিত্রং পরমানন্দং পূর্ণং ব্রহ্ম সনাতনম্ ॥ ১৪৯ ॥

aho bhāgyam aho bhāgyaṁ
oh the fortune oh the fortune
nanda-gopa-vrajaukasām
of Nanda the cowherds the residents of Vraja
yan-mitraṁ paramānandaṁ whose friend the supreme bliss
pūrṇaṁ brahma sanātanam
the complete Brahman eternal

149 "Oh, the fortune, oh, the fortune of Nanda, the cowherds and all the residents of Vraja, whose friend is the supreme bliss, the complete and eternal Brahman!" (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.32)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
There is no limit to the good fortune of Nanda the cowherd and the residents of Vraja, for the eternal, complete Brahman, whose very nature is supreme bliss, has appeared as their friend.

Anubhāṣya.
After Śrī Kṛṣṇa had crushed Brahmā's pride, Brahmā took exclusive shelter of Him and offered Him prayers. In them he praises the surpassing good fortune in love of the residents of Vraja, so dear to Kṛṣṇa:

nanda-gopa-vrajaukasām (of the residents of Vraja, who abide in the five rasas, headed by King Nanda) aho bhāgyam; yat (whose — of those residents of Vraja) mitram sanātanam (eternally manifest) pūrṇam (undivided) paramānandam (concentrated eternity, knowledge and bliss), brahma.

*The śruti-mantra rejects material features and thereby points to the transcendental form of eternity, knowledge and bliss —*

'অপাণি-পাদ'-শ্রুতি বর্জ্জে 'প্রাকৃত' পাণি-চরণ ৷ পুনঃ কহে, — শীঘ্র চলে, করে সর্ব্ব গ্রহণ ॥ ১৫০ ॥

'apāṇi-pāda'-śruti varje 'prākṛta' pāṇi-caraṇa
the "apāṇi-pāda" śruti rejects material hands and feet
punaḥ kahe, — śīghra cale, kare sarva grahaṇa
again it says swiftly He moves He makes of everything acceptance

150 The śruti text "apāṇi-pāda" ("without hands and feet") denies Him material hands and feet; yet it says again that He moves swiftly and accepts all things.

Anubhāṣya.

"Without hands and feet, He moves swiftly and takes; without eyes He sees, without ears He hears. He knows all that is to be known, yet no one knows Him. They call Him the foremost, the great Person." (Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad 3.19)

In the primary sense, possession of features; in the secondary sense, featurelessness —

অতএব শ্রুতি কহে, ব্রহ্ম — সবিশেষ ।
'মুখ্য' ছাড়ি' 'লক্ষণা'তে মানে নির্ব্বিশেষ ॥ ১৫১ ॥

ataeva śruti kahe, brahma — saviśeṣa
therefore the śruti says Brahman with features
'mukhya' chāḍi' 'lakṣaṇā'te māne nirviśeṣa
the primary meaning abandoning by the indirect reading they take as featureless

151 Therefore the śruti declares that Brahman has features; but the Māyāvādīs abandon the primary meaning and, by an indirect reading, hold Him to be featureless.

Anubhāṣya.

The śruti statements quoted above establish only that Brahman is possessed of features. But the Māyāvādī abandons the primary, direct meaning (abhidhā-vṛtti) and by the secondary sense (lakṣaṇā) establishes the doctrine of featurelessness. Yet even the featurelessness derived through lakṣaṇā is merely one mark of the doctrine of features: its only purpose is to show the distinction from material features.

To present spiritual play as the absence of play — this is Māyāvāda —

ষড়ৈশ্বর্য্যপূর্ণানন্দ-বিগ্রহ যাঁহার । হেন-ভগবানে তুমি কহ নিরাকার ॥ ১৫২ ॥

ṣaḍaiśvaryapūrṇānanda-vigraha yāṁhāra full of the six opulences, of bliss the form whose hena-bhagavāne tumi kaha nirākāra
such a Bhagavān you call formless

152 His form is bliss itself, full of the six opulences — and such a Bhagavān you call formless!

স্বাভাবিক তিন শক্তি যেই ব্রহ্মে হয় ।
'নিঃশক্তিক' করি' তাঁরে করহ নিশ্চয় ॥ ১৫৩ ॥

svābhāvika tina śakti yei brahme haya natural three potencies which in Brahman are
'niḥśaktika' kari' tāṁre karaha niścaya
"without potency" making Him you make your conclusion

153 Brahman has three natural potencies, yet you conclude that He has no potency at all.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

"Apāṇi-pādo javano grahītā" ("without hands and feet, He moves swiftly and takes"; Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad 3.19) — this is the śruti.[23] First it says that Brahman has no material hands and feet; then, with the words "He moves swiftly and takes all things," it states that He has transcendental hands and feet, and so shows Brahman to be possessed of features (saviśeṣa). The Māyāvādīs, however, abandon the primary meaning of the śruti and, by means of the secondary sense (lakṣaṇā-vṛtti), wrongly establish featurelessness (nirviśeṣatva), which denies Brahman's features. The Māyāvādīs declare Brahman "eternally formless," but according to the scriptures that Brahman eternally abides as Bhagavān, whose form is full of bliss and of the six opulences. The Māyāvādīs have concluded that Brahman is "without potencies," yet many scriptural statements rooted in the Vedic word "His supreme potency is heard to be manifold" (Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad 6.8) acknowledge three natural potencies of that Brahman.

Anubhāṣya.

The kevalādvaita-vādīs regard potency as a temporary condition born of ignorance, and so they take being without potency as the defining mark of Brahman. But since three potencies eternally abide in Brahman, there is no need at all to conclude, with the help of reasoning such as the doctrine of superimposition (adhyāropa-vāda), that Brahman is without potency.

বিষ্ণুশক্তিঃ পরা প্রোক্তা ক্ষেত্রজ্ঞাখ্যা তথাপরা ।
অবিদ্যা কর্ম্মসংজ্ঞান্যা তৃতীয়া শক্তিরিষ্যতে ॥ ১৫৪ ॥

viṣṇu-śaktiḥ parā proktā
Viṣṇu's potency superior is declared kṣetra-jñākhyā tathāparā
called the knower of the field likewise superior avidyā karma-saṁjñānyā called ignorance and karma another tṛtīyā śaktir iṣyate
a third potency is held to be

154 "The potency of Viṣṇu is declared to be superior; the potency called the knower of the field (kṣetrajña) is likewise superior; and the other, called ignorance and karma, is held to be a third potency." (Viṣṇu Purāṇa, 6.7.61)[9]

Anubhāṣya.

See Ādi 7.119.

যয়া ক্ষেত্রজ্ঞশক্তিঃ সা বেষ্টিতা নৃপ সর্ব্বগা । সংসারতাপানখিলানবাপ্নোত্যত্র সন্ততান্ ॥ ১৫৫ ॥

yayā kṣetra-jña-śaktiḥ sā
by which the knower of the field potency that veṣṭitā nṛpa sarva-gā enveloped O king all-pervading
saṁsāra-tāpān akhilān
of worldly existence the miseries all avāpnoty atra santatān obtains here continual

155 “O king, the potency called the knower of the field can enter both spirit and matter; yet here, enveloped by that ignorance, it suffers without end all the miseries of worldly existence.” (Viṣṇu Purāṇa, 6.7.62)

Anubhāṣya.

nṛpa (O king), sarva-gā (moving in both spirit and matter) sā kṣetra-jña-śaktiḥ (the potency called the jīva), yayā (by avidyā — by māyā, which turns one away from Bhagavān) veṣṭitā (covered); atra (here, in worldly existence — Devī-dhāma) sā santatān (born of enjoying the fruits of various deeds) akhilān (of every kind) tāpān avāpnoti (obtains).

তয়া তিরোহিতত্বাচ্চ শক্তিঃ ক্ষেত্রজ্ঞসংজ্ঞিতা ৷ সর্ব্বভূতেষু ভূপাল তারতম্যেন বর্ত্ততে ॥ ১৫৬ ॥

tayā tirohitatvāc ca
by it because of being covered and śaktiḥ kṣetra-jña-saṁjñitā
the potency the knower of the field called sarva-bhūteṣu bhū-pāla
in all beings O king
tāratamyena vartate
in varying degrees exists

156 “Because it is covered by that ignorance, O king, the potency called the knower of the field exists in all beings in varying degrees.” (Viṣṇu Purāṇa, 6.7.63)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The kṣetrajña-śakti is the jīva-śakti. Although this jīva-śakti is all-knowing, it is covered by avidyā, a function of māyā, and constantly suffers all the miseries of worldly existence. Moreover, this potency named “kṣetrajña,” O king, covered and cramped by avidyā, exists in all beings in varying degrees. The meaning is this: Bhagavān's cit-śakti is the highest, the jīva-śakti is intermediate, and the māyā-śakti, called avidyā and karma, is the lowest. Covered by māyā — that is, removed from the function of the cit-śakti — the jīva-śakti suffers the miseries of worldly existence. In that state of remoteness it enters the wheel of karma that opens before it and attains higher and lower conditions.

Anubhāṣya.

bhū-pāla (O king), tayā (by avidyā) tirohitatvāt (because it is diminished by association with guṇa-māyā) kṣetra-jña-saṁjñitā śaktiḥ (the jīva-śakti — because avidyā, which turns one away from Bhagavān, is present in it) sarva-bhūteṣu tāratamyena vartate (through avidyā it is regarded as higher and lower).

হ্লাদিনী সন্ধিনী সম্বিৎ ত্বয়্যেকা সর্ব্বসংশ্রয়ে ।
হ্লাদতাপকরী মিশ্রা ত্বয়ি নো গুণ-বর্জ্জিতে ॥ ১৫৭ ॥

hlādinī sandhinī samvit
hlādinī sandhinī samvit
tvayy ekā sarva-saṁśraye
in You one of all the shelter
hlāda-tāpa-karī miśrā
of joy of pain causing mixed tvayi no guṇa-varjite
in You not of the guṇas devoid

157 "O Lord, You are the basis of all, and in You Hlādinī, Sandhinī and Samvit are one potency. But that which causes joy, pain and a mixture of the two is not in You, for You are beyond the guṇas." (Viṣṇu Purāṇa, 1.12.69)[10]

Anubhāṣya.

See Ādi 4.63.

The three potencies of Bhagavān, the possessor of potencies —

সচ্চিদানন্দময় হয় ঈশ্বর-স্বরূপ । তিন অংশে চিচ্ছক্তি হয় তিন রূপ ॥ ১৫৮ ॥

sac-cid-ānanda-maya haya īśvara-svarūpa made of eternity, knowledge and bliss is the Lord's own nature
tina aṁśe cic-chakti haya tina rūpa
in three aspects the spiritual potency is three forms

158 The Lord's own nature is made of eternity, knowledge and bliss, and in these three aspects His spiritual potency takes three forms.

আনন্দাংশে 'হ্লাদিনী', সদংশে 'সন্ধিনী' । চিদংশে 'সম্বিৎ', যারে কৃষ্ণজ্ঞান মানি ॥ ১৫৯ ॥

ānandāṁśe 'hlādinī', sad-aṁśe 'sandhinī'
in the aspect of bliss hlādinī in the aspect of being sandhinī
cid-aṁśe 'samvit', yāre kṛṣṇa-jñāna māni
in the aspect of consciousness samvit which knowledge of Kṛṣṇa we hold

159 In the aspect of bliss She is Hlādinī, in the aspect of being Sandhinī, and in the aspect of consciousness Samvit, which we regard as knowledge of Kṛṣṇa.[11]

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 4.61–62.

অন্তরঙ্গা — চিচ্ছক্তি, তটস্থা — জীবশক্তি । বহিরঙ্গা — মায়া, — তিনে করে প্রেমভক্তি ॥ ১৬০ ॥

antaraṅgā — cic-chakti, taṭasthā — jīva-śakti internal the spiritual potency marginal the potency of the jīvas bahiraṅgā — māyā, — tine kare prema-bhakti external māyā all three render loving devotion

160 The spiritual potency is internal, the potency of the jīvas is marginal, and māyā is external — and all three render loving service.

To conceive of spiritual play as featureless is mere arrogance —

ষড়্বিধ ঐশ্বর্য্য — প্রভুর চিচ্ছক্তি বিলাস । হেন শক্তি নাহি মান, — পরম সাহস ॥ ১৬১ ॥

ṣaḍ-vidha aiśvarya — prabhura cic-chakti vilāsa
of six kinds opulence the Lord's spiritual potency's play
hena śakti nāhi māna, — parama sāhasa
such potency not you accept utmost audacity

161 The six kinds of opulence are the play of the Lord's spiritual potency. That you do not accept such a potency is the height of audacity.

*Bhagavān and the jīva are eternally different; the doctrine of sheer nondifference (kevala-abheda-vāda) is atheism —*

'মায়াধীশ'-'মায়াবশ' ঈশ্বরে জীবে ভেদ । হেন-জীবে ঈশ্বর-সহ কহ ত' অভেদ ॥ ১৬২ ॥

'māyādhīśa'-'māyāvaśa' īśvare jīve bheda
"the master of māyā" "subject to māyā" between the Lord and the jīva the difference
hena-jīve īśvara-saha kaha ta' abheda such a jīva with the Lord you call indeed non-different 162 The Lord is the master of māyā, and the jīva is subject to māyā — this is the difference between them. Yet you call such a jīva one with the Lord.

*In the Gītā the jīva is the potency of Bhagavān —*

গীতাশাস্ত্রে জীবরূপ 'শক্তি' করি' মানে । হেন জীবে 'অভেদ' কহ-ঈশ্বরের সনে ॥ ১৬৩ ॥

gītā-śāstre jīva-rūpa 'śakti' kari' māne
in the Gītā the jīva as a "potency" is accepted
hena jīve 'abheda' kaha-īśvarera sane such a jīva "non-different" you call from the Lord with 163 In the Gītā the jīva is accepted as a potency, yet you call such a jīva non-different from the Lord.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

According to the Vedas and Vedānta, one must know the nature (svarūpa) and the mutual relation of three truths: Īśvara, the jīva and māyā. First of all it is (absolutely) necessary to know the nature of Īśvara. His nature is eternity, knowledge and bliss (sac-cid-ānanda). Bhagavān's one cit-śakti manifests in three forms, according to three aspects — sat, cit and ānanda. In the aspect of bliss it is hlādinī, in the aspect of existence sandhinī, and in the aspect of consciousness saṁvit. That saṁvit is knowledge related to Kṛṣṇa. Īśvara's svarūpa-śakti manifests in three forms: the antaraṅgā (internal), which is the cit-śakti itself; the taṭasthā (marginal), which is the jīva-śakti; and the bahiraṅgā (external), which is the māyā-śakti. In each of these three manifestations one should understand three states, according to the functions of hlādinī, sandhinī and saṁvit. The cit-śakti gives the jīva the essence of her hlādinī and saṁvit combined. When the jīva-śakti accepts it, the māyā-śakti acts guilelessly as the cit-śakti: her (non-spiritual power of covering and projecting) withdraws, and she makes the jīva fit for loving devotion to Kṛṣṇa (kṛṣṇa-prema-bhakti). The sixfold opulence of the Supreme Lord is the play of His majesty; to call Him “formless” and “without potencies” is to speak in an utterly un-Vedic way. Īśvara by nature is the master of māyā, whereas the jīva, being by nature an atomic particle of consciousness, is subject to māyā. The Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad (3.1.1–2) says: “Two birds, inseparable friends, cling to the same tree. One of them eats the sweet pippala fruit; the other, not eating, only watches. On that same tree the person (puruṣa), sunk and bewildered, grieves over his helplessness. But when he sees the other, the Lord whom all serve, and His glory, he is freed from grief.” That is: “When the jīva forgets Īśvara, he becomes liable to punishment; for that offense māyā, Īśvara's jailer, imprisons the jīva and punishes him.” What is established here is that Īśvara's nature includes mastery over māyā, not subjection to her.

Although the jīva's nature contains an existence free from māyā, it also has one property — the capacity to come under māyā's control; this is called marginality (taṭasthatva). Since there is such an eternal difference both in nature and in essential identity, you cannot say that the jīva and Īśvara are one in any condition whatever. On the other hand, since the Gītā calls the jīva a “potency,” you are obliged to accept also that the jīva is one with Īśvara, according to the Vedānta saying “The potency and the possessor of potency are not different.” This inconceivable oneness and difference (acintya-bhedābheda) is the secret of the truth of Īśvara and the jīva.

*Bhagavān's guṇa-māyā and jīva-māyā —*

ভূমিরাপোঽনলো বায়ুঃ খং মনো বুদ্ধিরেব চ ৷ অহংকার ইতীয়ং মে ভিন্না প্রকৃতিরষ্টধা ॥ ১৬৪ ॥

bhūmir āpo ’nalo vāyuḥ
earth water fire air
khaṁ mano buddhir eva ca
ether mind intelligence indeed and ahaṁkāra itīyaṁ me false ego thus this My bhinnā prakṛtir aṣṭadhā
separated nature eightfold

164 “Earth, water, fire, air, ether, mind, intelligence and false ego — these eight make up My separated nature.” (Bhagavad-gītā, 7.4)

Anubhāṣya.
The words of Bhagavān Śrī Kṛṣṇa to Arjuna: bhūmiḥ, āpaḥ, analaḥ, vāyuḥ, khaṁ, manaḥ, buddhiḥ, ahaṅkāraḥ ca eva iti aṣṭadhā me (My) bhinnā prakṛtiḥ (the potency called external). (The words “earth” and the rest include the five great elements together with the subtle ones — form, taste, smell, sound, touch and so on. The word ahaṅkāra includes its products, the organs of speech, hands, feet, evacuation and generation, as well as their cause, the mahat-tattva. Intelligence and mind are named separately because they are the chief among the elements.)

অপরেয়মিতস্ত্বন্যাং প্রকৃতিং বিদ্ধি মে পরাম্ ৷ জীবভূতাং মহাবাহো যয়েদং ধার্য্যতে জগৎ ॥ ১৬৫ ॥

apareyam itas tv anyāṁ
inferior this beyond this but another prakṛtiṁ viddhi me parām nature know My superior
jīva-bhūtāṁ mahā-bāho consisting of jīvas O mighty-armed yayedaṁ dhāryate jagat
by which this is taken up the world

165 "This nature is inferior. But know, O mighty-armed, that I have another, superior nature, consisting of the jīvas, who take up this world for their own enjoyment." (Bhagavad-gītā, 7.5)[12]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Earth, water, fire, air, ether, mind, intelligence and ahaṅkāra — these eight are particular functions of My own lower (aparā) potency; the jīva-tattva is distinct from them.

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 7.118.

Bhagavān's form is made of eternity, knowledge and bliss —

ঈশ্বরের শ্রীবিগ্রহ সচ্চিদানন্দাকার । সে-বিগ্রহে কহ সত্ত্বগুণের বিকার ॥ ১৬৬ ॥

īśvarera śrī vigraha sac-cid-ānandākāra
the Lord's sacred form of eternity, knowledge and bliss in shape
se-vigrahe kaha sattva-guṇera vikāra that form you call of the mode of goodness a transformation

166 The Lord's sacred form is made of eternity, knowledge and bliss, yet you call that form a transformation of the mode of goodness.

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 7.113.

Not to accept the eternal spiritual play is nothing but godlessness —

শ্রীবিগ্রহ যে না মানে, সেই ত' পাষণ্ড । অস্পৃশ্য, অদৃশ্য, সেই হয় যমদণ্ড্য ॥ ১৬৭ ॥

śrī vigraha ye nā māne, sei ta' pāṣaṇḍa
the sacred form who not accepts he indeed godless aspṛśya, adṛśya, sei haya yama-daṇḍya untouchable not to be looked at he becomes punishable by Yama 167 Whoever does not accept the Lord's sacred form is godless (pāṣaṇḍī). He is not to be touched or even looked at, and Yama will punish him.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

According to the Vedic scriptures, Īśvara's form of eternity, knowledge and bliss is eternal. Formlessness is a particular transformation of material sattva-guṇa, its opposite — that is, a notion that denies the form found in material sattva. The spiritual form that lies beyond prakṛti has a spiritual shape as well. The formlessness of māyic sattva cannot touch it. Whoever does not accept such a Śrī Vigraha is counted among the godless (pāṣaṇḍīs).

Anubhāṣya.

One who regards Bhagavān's eternal form — full of form, qualities and pastimes — as a transformation of material sattva-guṇa, or as a mere receptacle of aggregate ignorance, and therefore does not engage in the eternal service of the transcendental form, is a pāṣaṇḍī. Because he considers devotion equal to the false worship of the five temporary, imaginary deities, he falls away from eternal service (kaiṅkarya) to Kṛṣṇa. The devotees neither touch him nor look at him. For he wanders in the realm of karma, made of right and wrong, and, for the sake of material enjoyment or of renouncing enjoyment, accepts the non-self as the self; therefore he regards the eternal form and pastimes of Śrī Bhagavān as one more object meant for his own enjoyment. The punishment of Yama — the fruit of material enjoyment and of renunciation, both opposed to devotion — is his unfailing lot. Only the devotees are neither pāṣaṇḍīs nor liable to Yama's punishment.

The Māyāvādī, though Vedic in his words, is a hidden Buddhist —

বেদ না মানিয়া বৌদ্ধ হয় ত' নাস্তিক । বেদাশ্রয় নাস্তিক্য-বাদ বৌদ্ধকে অধিক ॥ ১৬৮ ॥

veda nā māniyā bauddha haya ta' nāstika
the Vedas not accepting the Buddhist is indeed an unbeliever
vedāśraya nāstikya-vāda bauddhake adhika sheltered in the Vedas atheistic doctrine than the Buddhist worse

168 The Buddhist, who does not accept the Vedas, is an unbeliever (nāstika); but an atheistic doctrine that takes shelter in the Vedas is worse than Buddhism.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Because the Buddhist Śākyasiṁha did not accept the injunctions of the Vedas, the Vedic Āryans condemn him as a nāstika, a denier of the Vedas. But the atheism that the Māyāvādī has preached while sheltering behind the Vedas is even more blameworthy than Buddhism, for a hidden enemy who comes disguised as a friend is far more dangerous than an open one.

Anubhāṣya.

Atheism sheltered by the Vedas is kevalādvaita-vāda. By rejecting the Vedas, Śākyasiṁha freed himself from the grip of Vedic ritual and established a material naiṣkarmya (freedom from action). In his view, the form that abides in the next world is devoid of eternity, knowledge and bliss. The Māyāvādī, for his part, accepts or acknowledges the Vedas with his lips and thinks that he escapes the grip of karma by performing Vedic rituals that serve his own enjoyment and are therefore called ignorance; and he too establishes naiṣkarmya. In his next world abides a form of eternity, knowledge and bliss devoid of consciousness, that is, featureless "pure spirit" (cin-mātra). The jñāna-vādī who seeks liberation and abides in ignorance considers knowledge of eternity, knowledge and bliss to be "partial knowledge" or "a reflection of ignorance." Any cultivation of the saṁvit function in relation to it he takes to be merely a variety of his own ignorance, and so he withdraws from service to Bhagavān. Therefore the experience of pure eternity, knowledge and bliss is beyond the reach of the jñāna-vādī, who is an embodiment of ignorance. For in his doctrine Brahman without potency is inert, that is, devoid of the three states of "knowledge," "the known" and "the knower."

And because ignorance — skill in argument possessed by material conceit — is strong in him, eternity, knowledge and bliss for him lack even the spiritual properties of “knowledge,” “the known” and “the knower”; in fact it is merely a particular statement made from the state of ignorance. That is why the Māyāvādī regards knowledge of the real Reality as knowledge of what does not exist.

*The Brahma-sūtra holds the jīva's highest good; Śaṅkara's commentary holds his utter ruin —*

জীবের নিস্তার লাগি’ সূত্র কৈল ব্যাস । মায়াবাদি-ভাষ্য শুনিলে হয় সর্ব্বনাশ ॥ ১৬৯ ॥

jīvera nistāra lāgi’ sūtra kaila vyāsa
of the jīvas the deliverance for the sūtras composed Vyāsa
māyāvādi-bhāṣya śunile haya sarva-nāśa
the Māyāvādī commentary if one hears there is utter ruin

169 Vyāsa composed the sūtras for the deliverance of the jīvas, but whoever hears the Māyāvādī commentary on them is utterly ruined.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
The sūtras of Vyāsa contain the doctrine of pure devotion. In the commentary that the Māyāvādī wrote on those sūtras, the spiritual form of the Supreme Brahman is denied, and so is the jīva's existence separate from Brahman. That commentary is therefore utterly opposed to the truth of pure devotion, and by hearing it the jīva is ruined. For the pride born of a vain hope — the desire to become one with Brahman — destroys pure devotion, and in reality Īśvara is not acknowledged at all.

*The Brahma-sūtra intends the doctrine of the transformation of potency (śakti-pariṇāma-vāda) —*

‘পরিণাম-বাদ’ ব্যাসসূত্রের সম্মত । অচিন্ত্যশক্তি ঈশ্বর জগদ্রূপে পরিণত ॥ ১৭০ ॥

'pariṇāma-vāda' vyāsasūtrera sammata
the doctrine of transformation by Vyāsa's sūtras is accepted
acintya-śakti īśvara jagad-rūpe pariṇata of inconceivable potency the Lord in the form of the world is transformed

170 Vyāsa's sūtras accept the doctrine of transformation (pariṇāma-vāda): by His inconceivable potency the Lord takes the form of the world.

*By the example of a material cintāmaṇi producing loads of gold: the all-powerful Īśvara, though He manifests the world by His own potency, remains unchanged —*

মণি যৈছে অবিকৃতে প্রসবে হেমভার । জগদ্রূপ হয় ঈশ্বর, তবু অবিকার ॥ ১৭১ ॥

maṇi yaiche avikṛte prasabe hema-bhāra
a gem as unchanged brings forth heaps of gold jagad-rūpa haya īśvara, tabu avikāra
the form of the world becomes the Lord still unchanged

171 As the cintāmaṇi gem, itself unchanged, brings forth heaps of gold, so the Lord becomes the world and yet remains unchanged.

Anubhāṣya.
The sūtra janmādy asya ("[Brahman is He] from whom the birth and so on [of this world proceed]") accepts precisely the doctrine of the transformation of potency (śakti-pariṇāma-vāda). "He in whom countless, endless eternal potencies are born, abide and become unmanifest, to whom all potencies are subject — the master of such potencies is Īśvara." Eternal and non-eternal potencies, potencies of the self and of the non-self and others exist in endless forms. How they can all abide simultaneously in Īśvara, the jīva cannot understand as long as, bound by matter, he remains under the māyā-śakti. Therefore such a meeting point of mutually contradictory qualities is inconceivable to human understanding — and yet it eternally abides in Īśvara. Man, in the conceit of material knowledge, by false imagination takes his own petty capacity — ignorance — to be vast; and the state of being without potency that he imagines as "Brahman" is merely a variety of conceivable potency. If with such an understanding one tries to see the world as a "transformation" of Īśvara, one must certainly accept vivarta-vāda. But one who understands that inconceivable, eternal possession of potency is inherent in Īśvara's lordship also understands that He can manifest or descend even into the realm accessible to partial knowledge — the world into which His external māyā-śakti has been transformed. A certain gem holds such a power that, even while producing gold, it does not transform or change its own nature as a gem into anything else: as the gem was before it produced gold, so it remains afterwards. By the power of the potency inherent in it, the material gem produces something other than itself — gold — without undergoing any change, and remains a gem. In the same way Īśvara, full of eternity, knowledge and bliss, by directing His own māyā-śakti, can transform that potency into the world of the guṇas, which is subject to change. Īśvara can transform one of His potencies into a world full of change and yet keep His own svarūpa free from change — such an eternal potency is present in Him.

*By calling his guru Vyāsadeva mistaken, the Māyāvādī became a vivarta-vādī, and therefore an atheist opposed to the path of śruti —*

ব্যাস — ভ্রান্ত বলি' সেই সূত্রে দোষ দিয়া ।
'বিবর্ত্তবাদ' স্থাপিয়াছে কল্পনা করিয়া ॥ ১৭২ ॥

vyāsa — bhrānta bali' sei sūtre doṣa diyā Vyāsa is mistaken saying to those sūtras fault ascribing
'vivarta-vāda' sthāpiyāche kalpanā kariyā
the doctrine of illusion he has established fancy making

172 Calling Vyāsa mistaken and finding fault with his sūtras, the Māyāvādī has set up the doctrine of illusion (vivarta-vāda) by his own invention.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
"If pariṇāma-vāda is accepted, Īśvara will be subject to change (vikārī), and then Vyāsa will have to be called 'mistaken'" — saying this, he found fault with the primary meaning of the sūtra, gave it a secondary meaning and established vivarta-vāda.

Anubhāṣya.
Sei sūtre (in that sūtra) — at the beginning of the Brahma-sūtra, right after the sūtra "Now, therefore, the inquiry into Brahman" (athāto brahma-jijñāsā), the first sūtra is "[Brahman is He] from whom the birth and so on [of this world proceed]" (janmādy asya yataḥ). This sūtra was written with pariṇāma-vāda in view: the meaning of the Taittirīya statement "He from whom these beings are born," of the Muṇḍaka statement "As a spider sends forth and draws in [its thread]," and of the opening verses of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is precisely pariṇāma-vāda. But Śaṅkarācārya feared that if pariṇāma-vāda were accepted, the sūtra janmādy asya yataḥ would be declared a "faulty sūtra" and its author Śrī Vyāsadeva "mistaken," and they would become targets for the attacks of those who advocate an imagined secondary sense (lakṣaṇā-vṛtti). To prevent this, and so that his own guru Vyāsa and the sūtra janmādy asya would not be taken for an advocate of pariṇāma-vāda and for pariṇāma-vāda respectively, he spread imaginary arguments and declared as true vivarta-vāda, which is written only in certain parts of the Vedas and points to another meaning.

*How vivarta-buddhi arises; it is false; the world is real, but perishable —*

জীবের দেহে আত্মবুদ্ধি, — সেই মিথ্যা হয়। জগৎ যে মিথ্যা নহে, নশ্বর মাত্র হয় ॥ ১৭৩ ॥

jīvera dehe ātma-buddhi, — sei mithyā haya of the jīva in the body the notion of self that false is jagat ye mithyā nahe, naśvara mātra haya
the world but false is not perishable only is 173 What is false is the jīva's sense of self in the body. The world is not false — it is only perishable.

Anubhāṣya.

The pure jīva, Kṛṣṇa's eternal servant, mistakenly thinks of the two bodies — gross and subtle, engaged in enjoying the fruits of karma — as "I." That notion is false: this is the place for vivarta-vāda. The jīvātmā is not the temporary gross or subtle body produced by the ignorance of a "Brahman that is impermanent and liable to fall under time." The universe is not in fact false, but it can be changed by time. The jīva has vivarta in his attitude of enjoying the universe. The nature of this non-spiritual universe is a transformation of potency. The Māyāvādī sees vivarta both in the nature of the jīva and in the nature of the universe, but both are transformations of potency.

Oṁkāra* is the primeval mahā-vākya,[32] the form of Īśvara and the seed of the wish-fulfilling tree of the Vedas —*

‘প্রণব’ যে মহাবাক্য — ঈশ্বরের মূর্ত্তি ।
প্রণব হৈতে সর্ব্ববেদ, জগতে উৎপত্তি ॥ ১৭৪ ॥

‘praṇava’ ye mahāvākya — īśvarera mūrti praṇava which the great statement of the Lord the form praṇava haite sarva-veda, jagate utpatti
from praṇava all the Vedas to the world origin

174 The praṇava (Oṁ), which is the great statement (mahā-vākya), is the form of the Lord. From the praṇava come all the Vedas and the world.

Anubhāṣya.

The praṇava is Īśvara's form in the name (nāma-vigraha); it alone is the mahā-vākya. If even while living in this perishable world one gives up vivarta-buddhi, then through oṁkāra — the Name, one with the Lord — the transcendental svarūpa awakens.

*Statements such as tat tvam asi point to only one part of the Vedas —*

‘তত্ত্বমসি’ — জীব-হেতু প্রাদেশিক বাক্য ।
প্রণব না মানি’ তারে কহে মহাবাক্য ॥ ১৭৫ ॥

‘tat tvam asi’ — jīva-hetu prādeśika vākya
“tat tvam asi” concerning the jīva partial statement praṇava nā māni’ tāre kahe mahā-vākya
the praṇava not accepting it he calls the great statement

175 Tat tvam asi is only a partial statement, spoken of the jīva; yet the Māyāvādī, not accepting the praṇava, calls that the great statement.”

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

To explain the spiritual existence of the jīva, the statement tat tvam asi (“you are that”) is found in one part of the Vedas; it is not a mahā-vākya.

Anubhāṣya.

Because the Māyāvādīs make the nature of Īśvara, the jīva and the world a subject of vivarta-vāda, they put forward the mahā-vākya tat tvam asi in place of shelter in the Name, oṁkāra. In truth, however, that statement is called a limited (prādeśika) one and is addressed only to the deluded jīva, so that the false error of identifying the self with the body does not arise in him. Meanwhile the very name praṇava — the form of Brahman and the life of the Vedas — has been slighted.

Anubhāṣya.
See the Anubhāṣya on Ādi 7.121–133.

Sārvabhauma's many objections and the Lord's refutation of them all —

এইমতে কল্পিত ভাষ্যে শত দোষ দিল । ভট্টাচার্য্য পূর্ব্বপক্ষ অপার করিল ॥ ১৭৬ ॥

ei-mate kalpita bhāṣye śata doṣa dila thus in the fanciful commentary hundreds of faults He showed bhaṭṭācārya pūrva-pakṣa apāra karila
the Bhaṭṭācārya objections without end made

176 In this way the Lord pointed out hundreds of faults in that fanciful commentary, and the Bhaṭṭācārya raised countless objections.

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 7.106–147.

বিতণ্ডা, ছল, নিগ্রহাদি অনেক উঠাইল । সব খণ্ডি' প্রভু নিজ-মত সে স্থাপিল ॥ ১৭৭ ॥

vitaṇḍā, chala, nigrahādi aneka uṭhāila captious wrangling quibbles points of defeat and the like many he raised saba khaṇḍi' prabhu nija-mata se sthāpila
all refuting the Lord His own view that established

177 He brought up much captious wrangling (vitaṇḍā), quibbling (chala), points of defeat (nigraha) and the like, but the Lord refuted them all and established His own view.

Anubhāṣya.

Vitaṇḍā — merely refuting another's view without establishing one's own. Chala — refutation by ascribing to the real meaning of a word some other, imagined object. Nigraha — the defeat of the opposing side.

The Lord establishes the true conclusion of the Vedas —

ভগবান্ — 'সম্বন্ধ', ভক্তি — 'অভিধেয়' হয়। প্রেম — 'প্রয়োজন', বেদে তিন বস্তু কয় ॥ ১৭৮ ॥

bhagavān — 'sambandha', bhakti — 'abhidheya' haya Bhagavān sambandha bhakti abhidheya is prema — 'prayojana', vede tina vastu kaya
love prayojana in the Vedas three realities are stated

178 "Bhagavān is the relationship (sambandha), bhakti is the means (abhidheya), and love is the goal (prayojana) — these three truths the Vedas declare.[13]

*Apart from this indication of sambandha, abhidheya and prayojana, all doctrines are imaginary —*

আর যে যে-কিছু কহে, সকলেই কল্পনা। স্বতঃপ্রমাণ বেদ-বাক্যে না করিয়ে লক্ষণা ॥ ১৭৯ ॥

āra ye ye-kichu kahe, sakalei kalpanā else whatever anything is said all of it fancy
svataḥ-pramāṇa veda-vākye nā kariye lakṣaṇā self-evident in the words of the Veda not I apply an indirect reading

179 Whatever else anyone says is all fancy. To the self-evident words of the Veda I do not apply an indirect reading (lakṣaṇā).[14]

Anubhāṣya.

Only the pure jīva, who has passed beyond the state of bondage to māyā, is a devotee of Bhagavān. His sambandha is Bhagavān, his abhidheya is devotion, and his prayojana is premā: this is what the Vedic scriptures declare. But in certain doctrines one finds otherwise: the jīva's sambandha is Brahman without potency, his abhidheya is knowledge and renunciation, and his prayojana is liberation. This is merely the imagination of the conditioned jīva. The Vedas are themselves the evidence; to interpret them by lakṣaṇā is to invent.

*By Īśvara's order Śaṅkara bewilders the asuras —*

আচার্য্যের দোষ নাহি, ঈশ্বর-আজ্ঞা হৈল । অতএব কল্পনা করি' নাস্তিক-শাস্ত্র কৈল ॥ ১৮০ ॥

ācāryera doṣa nāhi, īśvara-ājñā haila of the Ācārya fault there is not the Lord's order there was ataeva kalpanā kari' nāstika-śāstra kaila
therefore fancy making an atheistic scripture he made

180 The Ācārya (Śaṅkara) is not at fault: it was the Lord's order. That is why he invented an atheistic scripture."

Anubhāṣya.

The words of Śrī Bhagavān in the Kūrma Purāṇa, Pūrva-bhāga 16.115–117: "Therefore, O Vṛṣadhvaja, to guard [the world] against the sinners who reject the Vedas and to bewilder them, you will compose scriptures. Thus urged by Mādhava, the enemy of the asuras, Rudra composed bewildering scriptures; and Keśava too, abiding in Śiva, [did the same]: the Kāpāla, the Nākula, the Vāma, the Bhairava, the Pūrva and the Paścima, the Pāñcarātra, the Pāśupata and thousands of others."

স্বাগমৈঃ কল্পিতৈস্ত্বঞ্চ জনান্ মদ্বিমুখান্ কুরু ।
মাঞ্চ গোপয় যেন স্যাৎ সৃষ্টিরেষোত্তরোত্তরা ॥ ১৮১ ॥

svāgamaiḥ kalpitais tvaṁ ca
by your own scriptures imagined you and janān mad-vimukhān kuru people averse to Me make māṁ ca gopaya yena syāt
Me and hide so that may be sṛṣṭir eṣottarottarā creation this ever increasing

181 “By scriptures of your own imagining turn people away from Me, and hide Me, so that this creation may go on increasing more and more.” (Padma Purāṇa, Uttara-khaṇḍa, 62.31)[15]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Bhagavān said to Śrī Mahādeva: “With your own imagined scriptures (āgamas) turn people away from Me. Conceal Me in such a way that the jīvas who have turned away from Me do not lose interest in the work of increasing the number of jīvas.”

Anubhāṣya.

O Śiva, tvaṁ kalpitaiḥ (fallen from the truth, falsely fabricated) svāgamaiḥ (by your own tantras and other writings) janān (people attached to material objects) mad-vimukhān (averse to the servants of Hari, devoted to karma and jñāna) kuru; māṁ gopaya ca, yena (by this work of concealing Bhagavān) uttarottarā eṣā sṛṣṭiḥ (the tendency toward worldly existence) syāt.

মায়াবাদমসচ্ছাস্ত্রং প্রচ্ছন্নং বৌদ্ধমুচ্যতে ।
ময়ৈব বিহিতং দেবি কলৌ ব্রাহ্মণ-মূর্ত্তিনা ॥ ১৮২ ॥

māyāvādam asac-chāstraṁ Māyāvāda a false scripture
pracchannaṁ bauddham ucyate disguised Buddhism is called mayaiva vihitaṁ devi
by me indeed set forth O Devī
kalau brāhmaṇa-mūrtinā
in Kali in the form of a brāhmaṇa

182 “Māyāvāda is a false scripture; it is called Buddhism in disguise. It was I, O Devī, who set it forth in the age of Kali in the form of a brāhmaṇa.” (Padma Purāṇa, Uttara-khaṇḍa, 25.7)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Mahādeva said: “In the age of Kali I shall assume the form of a brāhmaṇa and by means of false scriptures establish hidden Buddhism in the form of Māyāvāda.”

Anubhāṣya.

Here mere judgment by birth (śaukra), rooted in identifying the self with the body, prevails; therefore pure devotion remains hidden from those inclined to enjoy worldly existence.

māyāvādam (the doctrine that the three natures — of Īśvara, of the jīva and of the world — are merely false transformations fabricated by māyā, other than Brahman) asac-chāstram (a book full of teachings about the temporary, devoted to karma and jñāna, which turn one forever away from Bhagavān) pracchannam (hypocritically engaged in discussing the Vedas, opposed to the path of śruti) bauddham (following the doctrine of the atheistic Buddhists) ucyate. devi (O goddess), mayā brāhmaṇa-mūrtinā (by the body named Śaṅkara, born in the land of Malabar) kalau (at the beginning of the age of quarrel — the doctrine of Māyāvāda itself) vihitam (was established).

The doctrine of "pure spirit" devoid of pastimes and the doctrine of the absence of spirit both arise from material reasoning; they are mental religion (mano-dharma).

Hearing the Lord's explanation, the Bhaṭṭācārya is astonished —

শুনি' ভট্টাচার্য্য হৈল পরম বিস্মিত । মুখে না নিঃসরে বাণী, হইলা স্তম্ভিত ॥ ১৮৩ ॥

śuni' bhaṭṭācārya haila parama vismita hearing the Bhaṭṭācārya became utterly astonished mukhe nā niḥsare vāṇī, hailā stambhita
from his mouth not comes out a word he became stunned

183 Hearing this, the Bhaṭṭācārya was utterly astonished. Not a word left his lips; he sat stunned.

*Devotion to Kṛṣṇa is the jīva's supreme goal of life (parama-puruṣārtha) —*

প্রভু কহে, — ভট্টাচার্য্য, না কর বিস্ময় । ভগবানে ভক্তি — পরম-পুরুষার্থ হয় ॥ ১৮৪ ॥

prabhu kahe, — bhaṭṭācārya, nā kara vismaya
the Lord says Bhaṭṭācārya do not make wonder bhagavāne bhakti — parama-puruṣārtha haya to Bhagavān devotion the highest goal of life is 184 The Lord said, “Do not be amazed, Bhaṭṭācārya. Devotion to Bhagavān is the highest goal of human life.

*Even divine sages (divya-sūris) are drawn to Kṛṣṇa's feet —*

‘আত্মারাম’ পর্য্যন্ত করে ঈশ্বর ভজন ।
ঐছে অচিন্ত্য ভগবানের গুণগণ ॥ ১৮৫ ॥

‘ātmārāma’ paryanta kare īśvara bhajana
the ātmārāmas even do of the Lord worship aiche acintya bhagavānera guṇa-gaṇa
such inconceivable Bhagavān’s qualities

185 Even the ātmārāmas, who delight in the self, worship the Lord — so inconceivable are the qualities of Bhagavān.”

আত্মারামাশ্চ মুনয়ো নির্গ্রন্থা অপ্যুরুক্রমে ।
কুর্ব্বন্ত্যহৈতুকীং ভক্তিমিত্থম্ভূতগুণো হরিঃ ॥ ১৮৬ ॥

ātmārāmāś ca munayo
delighting in the ātmā and the sages nirgranthā apy urukrame
free from knots even to Urukrama
kurvanty ahaitukīṁ bhaktim perform causeless devotion ittham-bhūta-guṇo hariḥ
of such qualities is Hari

186 “Even sages who delight in the ātmā and are free from the knots of the heart render causeless devotion to Urukrama, for such are the qualities of Hari.” (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Even sages whose delight is in the self (ātmā) and who are free from the knots of desire render causeless devotion to Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the doer of mighty deeds, for Hari, who steals the hearts of the whole world, has such a quality.

Anubhāṣya.

Why did Śrī Śukadeva, a paramahaṁsa by nature absorbed in the bliss of Brahman, study Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, which is full of narrations of Kṛṣṇa's name, form, qualities and pastimes? Answering this question of the sages headed by Śaunaka, Śrī Sūta says:

ātmārāmāḥ (those who delight in the self — in Bhagavān; whose nature is to play with Kṛṣṇa) munayaḥ (free from material objects that seek enjoyment) nirgranthāḥ (free from the knot of desires born in the heart — situated on the level of Brahman) api urukrame (to the unconquerable Kṛṣṇa) ahaitukīm (free from other desires, not covered by karma, jñāna and the like, pure, consisting in serving Kṛṣṇa) bhaktim (service) kurvanti. hariḥ itthambhūta-guṇaḥ (is endowed with the property of attracting jīvas in every condition, liberated or not). [Hari, the reservoir of extraordinary qualities, mercifully frees people devoted to Māyāvāda from their doctrines and gives them His own feet.]

Sārvabhauma wishes to hear the explanation of the verse —

শুনি' ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, — শুন, মহাশয়। এই শ্লোকের অর্থ শুনিতে বাঞ্ছা হয় ॥ ১৮৭ ॥

śuni' bhaṭṭācārya kahe, — śuna, mahāśaya hearing the Bhaṭṭācārya says listen sir ei ślokera artha śunite vāñchā haya of this verse the meaning to hear desire there is

187 Hearing this, the Bhaṭṭācārya said, “Listen, my dear sir (mahāśaya): I wish to hear the meaning of this verse.”

At the Lord's request Sārvabhauma displays his erudition in explaining the verse —

প্রভু কহে, — তুমি কি অর্থ কর, তাহা শুনি। পাছে আমি করিব অর্থ, যেবা কিছু জানি ॥ ১৮৮ ॥

prabhu kahe, — tumi ki artha kara, tāhā śuni
the Lord says you what meaning make that I will hear pāche āmi kariba artha, yebā kichu jāni
afterwards I will make meaning whatever little I know

188 The Lord said, “First let Me hear what meaning you give it. Afterwards I shall explain it, as far as I know.”

শুনি’ ভট্টাচার্য্য শ্লোক করিল ব্যাখ্যান । তর্কশাস্ত্র-মত উঠায় বিবিধ বিধান ॥ ১৮৯ ॥

śuni’ bhaṭṭācārya śloka karila vyākhyāna hearing the Bhaṭṭācārya of the verse made an explanation
tarka-śāstra-mata uṭhāya vividha vidhāna
according to logic raises various propositions

189 At this the Bhaṭṭācārya explained the verse, raising various propositions in the manner of the science of logic.

Sārvabhauma gives nine explanations, as far as his ability goes —

নববিধ অর্থ কৈল শাস্ত্রমত লঞা । শুনি’ প্রভু কহে কিছু ঈষৎ হাসিয়া ॥ ১৯০ ॥

nava-vidha artha kaila śāstra-mata lañā
of nine kinds meanings he gave scriptural views taking śuni’ prabhu kahe kichu īṣat hāsiyā hearing the Lord says something slightly smiling

190 He gave nine different meanings on the authority of scripture. Hearing them, the Lord smiled slightly and said:

*The Lord's mānada-dharma — He praises Sārvabhauma —*

‘ভট্টাচার্য্য’, জানি, — তুমি সাক্ষাৎ বৃহস্পতি ।
শাস্ত্রব্যাখ্যা করিতে ঐছে কারো নাহি শক্তি ॥ ১৯১ ॥

'bhaṭṭācārya', jāni, — tumi sākṣāt bṛhaspati Bhaṭṭācārya I know you the very Bṛhaspati śāstra-vyākhyā karite aiche kāro nāhi śakti
of scripture explanation to make like this no one's there is not power

191 "Bhaṭṭācārya, I know that you are Bṛhaspati himself. No one else has the power to explain scripture like this.

কিন্তু তুমি অর্থ কৈলে পাণ্ডিত্য-প্রতিভায় । ইহা বই শ্লোকের আছে আরো অভিপ্রায় ॥ ১৯২ ॥

kintu tumi artha kaile pāṇḍitya-pratibhāya
but you meaning made by the brilliance of scholarship
ihā vai ślokera āche āro abhiprāya
this besides of the verse there is further intent

192 But you have explained it by the brilliance of your scholarship; beyond this, the verse has another intent."

At the Bhaṭṭācārya's request the Lord gives His own, independent explanation
—

ভট্টাচার্য্যের প্রার্থনাতে প্রভু ব্যাখ্যা কৈল । তাঁর নব অর্থ মধ্যে এক না ছুঁইল ॥ ১৯৩ ॥

bhaṭṭācāryera prārthanāte prabhu vyākhyā kaila
the Bhaṭṭācārya's at the request the Lord explanation made tāṁra nava artha madhye eka nā chuṁila his nine meanings among one not He touched

193 At the Bhaṭṭācārya's request the Lord explained the verse, without touching even one of his nine meanings.

The Lord's eighteen explanations —

আত্মারামাশ্চ-শ্লোকে 'একাদশ' পদ হয় । পৃথক্ পৃথক্ কৈল পদের অর্থ নিশ্চয় ॥ ১৯৪ ॥

ātmārāmāś ca-śloke 'ekādaśa' pada haya
in the "ātmārāmāś ca" verse eleven words there are pṛthak pṛthak kaila padera artha niścaya separately separately He made of the words the meaning certain 194 The verse "ātmārāmāś ca" has eleven words, and He established the meaning of each word separately.

Anubhāṣya.
The eleven words: 1) ātmārāmāḥ, 2) ca, 3) munayaḥ, 4) nirgranthāḥ, 5) api, 6) urukrame, 7) kurvanti, 8) ahaitukīm, 9) bhaktim, 10) itthambhūta-guṇaḥ, 11) hariḥ.

তত্তৎপদ-প্রাধান্যে 'আত্মারাম' মিলাঞা । অষ্টাদশ অর্থ কৈল অভিপ্রায় লঞা ॥ ১৯৫ ॥

tat-tat-pada-prādhānye 'ātmārāma' milāñā
to each word giving prominence with "ātmārāma" combining aṣṭādaśa artha kaila abhiprāya lañā eighteen meanings He made the intent taking

195 Giving prominence to each word in turn and combining it with "ātmārāma", He brought out eighteen meanings according to the verse's intent.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Eleven meanings of the eleven words of the verse, and seven more meanings obtained by joining the word ātmārāma to each of the seven principal words of the verse — munayaḥ, nirgranthāḥ, urukrama, ahaitukī, bhakti, guṇa and hari — eighteen meanings in all.

*Bhagavān's qualities and potencies are inconceivable and attract the ātmārāmas —*

ভগবান্, তাঁর শক্তি, তাঁর গুণগণ । অচিন্ত্য প্রভাব তিনের না যায় কথন ॥ ১৯৬ ॥

bhagavān, tāṁra śakti, tāṁra guṇa-gaṇa Bhagavān His potency His qualities
acintya prabhāva tinera nā yāya kathana inconceivable power of the three not can be described 196 "Bhagavān, His potency and His qualities — the inconceivable power of these three cannot be described.

অন্য যত সাধ্য-সাধন করি' আচ্ছাদন । এই তিনে হরে সিদ্ধ-সাধকের মন ॥ ১৯৭ ॥

anya yata sādhya-sādhana kari' ācchādana
other all goals and means making eclipse ei tine hare siddha-sādhakera mana these three steal of the perfected and the practitioners the minds

197 Eclipsing every other goal and means, these three steal the hearts of the perfected and of those who still practise."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Tine (these three) — Bhagavān, Bhagavān's potency and Bhagavān's qualities.

Anubhāṣya.
In the circles of the jñānīs, the karmīs or the anyābhilāṣīs (those with other desires), all kinds of sambandha and abhidheya are invented. Eclipsing them all, these three realities — Bhagavān, endowed with inconceivable power, His potency and His qualities — steal the minds of both sādhaka-jīvas and siddhas.

সনকাদি-শুকদেব তাহাতে প্রমাণ । এইমত নানা অর্থ করেন ব্যাখ্যান ॥ ১৯৮ ॥

sanakādi-śukadeva tāhāte pramāṇa Sanaka and the others, Śukadeva of this the proof ei-mata nānā artha karena vyākhyāna
in this way various meanings He makes explanation

198 Sanaka and the other Kumāras, and Śukadeva, are proof of this. In this way the Lord explained many meanings.

Anubhāṣya.

An example of this is how Kṛṣṇa attracted liberated sages such as Sanaka and the others and Śukadeva. Madhya 24.112–116:[33] "Even the liberated, assuming a form (vigraha) by the Lord's līlā, worship Bhagavān." "From birth Śuka, Sanaka and the others were brahmamaya, absorbed in Brahman; attracted by Kṛṣṇa's qualities, they worship Kṛṣṇa. By Kṛṣṇa's mercy the minds of Sanaka and the others were stolen by the fragrance of His feet; attracted by His qualities, they worship Him with pure devotion. By Vyāsa's mercy Śukadeva came to remember Kṛṣṇa's pastimes; attracted by Kṛṣṇa's qualities, he worships Him." Madhya 17.139: "Kṛṣṇa's qualities are full bliss, greater than the bliss of Brahman; therefore they attract the minds of the ātmārāmas." In this connection see Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.15.43.

Anubhāṣya.

See Madhya 24.3–308.[34]

Sārvabhauma reproaches himself —

শুনি' ভট্টাচার্য্যের মনে হৈল চমৎকার । প্রভুকে কৃষ্ণ জানি' করে আপনা ধিক্কার ॥ ১৯৯ ॥

śuni' bhaṭṭācāryera mane haila camatkāra hearing the Bhaṭṭācārya's in the mind there was wonder prabhuke kṛṣṇa jāni' kare āpanā dhikkāra
the Lord as Kṛṣṇa knowing he does himself reproach

199 Hearing this, the Bhaṭṭācārya was struck with wonder. Knowing the Lord to be Kṛṣṇa, he began to reproach himself:

ইঁহো ত' সাক্ষাৎ কৃষ্ণ, — মুঞি না জানিয়া । মহা-অপরাধ কৈনু গর্ব্বিত হইয়া ॥ ২০০ ॥

iṁho ta' sākṣāt kṛṣṇa, — muñi nā jāniyā
He indeed directly Kṛṣṇa I not knowing mahā-aparādha kainu garvita haiyā
a great offence I committed proud being

200 "He is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and I, not knowing it, have committed a great offence in my pride."

Sārvabhauma surrenders at the Lord's feet, and the Lord shows him mercy —

আত্মনিন্দা করি' লৈল প্রভুর শরণ । কৃপা করিবারে তবে প্রভুর হৈল মন ॥ ২০১ ॥

ātma-nindā kari' laila prabhura śaraṇa
self-reproach making he took of the Lord shelter
kṛpā karibāre tabe prabhura haila mana mercy to show then of the Lord arose the mind

201 Reproaching himself, he took shelter of the Lord, and the Lord then resolved to show him mercy.

The Lord shows first the four-armed and then the two-armed form —

নিজ-রূপ প্রভু তাঁরে করাইল দর্শন । চতুর্ভুজ-রূপ প্রভু হইলা তখন ॥ ২০২ ॥

nija-rūpa prabhu tāṁre karāila darśana
His own form the Lord to him caused to see catur-bhuja-rūpa prabhu hailā takhana
four-armed in form the Lord became then

202 The Lord showed him His own form: He became four-armed.

দেখাইল তাঁরে আগে চতুর্ভুজ-রূপ । পাছে শ্যাম-বংশীমুখ স্বকীয় স্বরূপ ॥ ২০৩ ॥

dekhāila tāṁre āge catur-bhuja-rūpa
He showed to him first the four-armed form
pāche śyāma-vaṁśī-mukha svakīya svarūpa
then dark with the flute at the lips His very own form

203 First He showed him the four-armed form, and then His very own form — dark, with the flute at His lips.

Sārvabhauma's prayers —

দেখি’ সার্ব্বভৌম দণ্ডবৎ করি’ পড়ি’ । পুনঃ উঠি’ স্তুতি করে দুই কর যুড়ি’ ॥ ২০৪ ॥

dekhi’ sārvabhauma daṇḍavat kari’ paḍi’
seeing Sārvabhauma obeisance making falling down punaḥ uṭhi’ stuti kare dui kara yuḍi’
again rising prayers he offers two hands joining

204 Seeing this, Sārvabhauma fell down flat in obeisance; then he rose and, with folded hands, offered prayers.

By the Lord's mercy truths become manifest in his heart —

প্রভুর কৃপায় তাঁর স্ফুরিল সব তত্ত্ব । নাম-প্রেমদান-আদি বর্ণেন মহত্ত্ব ॥ ২০৫ ॥

prabhura kṛpāya tāṁra sphurila saba tattva
by the Lord’s mercy to him were revealed all truths
nāma-prema-dāna-ādi varṇena mahattva
of the holy name of love the giving and so on he describes the greatness

205 By the Lord’s mercy all truths were revealed to him, and he described the glory of the holy name, of the gift of love and of much else.

The gift of swift composition —

শত শ্লোক কৈল এক দণ্ড না যাইতে । বৃহস্পতি তৈছে শ্লোক না পারে করিতে ॥ ২০৬ ॥

śata śloka kaila eka daṇḍa nā yāite
a hundred verses he composed one daṇḍa not passing bṛhaspati taiche śloka nā pāre karite Bṛhaspati such verses not can compose

206 Within a single daṇḍa (twenty-four minutes) he composed a hundred verses — verses such as even Bṛhaspati could not compose.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrīla Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya's book Suśloka-śataka.

*At the Lord's embrace Sārvabhauma shows the sāttvika-bhāvas —*

শুনি' সুখে প্রভু তাঁরে কৈল আলিঙ্গন । ভট্টাচার্য্য প্রেমাবেশে হৈল অচেতন ॥ ২০৭ ॥

śuni' sukhe prabhu tāṁre kaila āliṅgana hearing with joy the Lord him made an embrace bhaṭṭācārya premāveśe haila acetana
the Bhaṭṭācārya in the rapture of love became unconscious

207 Hearing them, the Lord joyfully embraced him, and the Bhaṭṭācārya, overwhelmed by love, lost consciousness.

অশ্রু, স্তম্ভ, পুলক, স্বেদ, কম্প থরহরি । নাচে, গায়, কান্দে, পড়ে প্রভু-পদ ধরি' ॥ ২০৮ ॥

aśru, stambha, pulaka, sveda, kampa tharahari tears stupor thrill sweat trembling violent nāce, gāya, kānde, paḍe prabhu-pada dhari'
he dances sings weeps falls the Lord's feet clasping

208 Tears, stupor, thrill, sweat and violent trembling came over him. He danced, sang and wept, and fell down clasping the Lord's feet.

Gopīnātha's joy —

দেখি' গোপীনাথাচার্য্য হরষিত-মন ।
ভট্টাচার্য্যের নৃত্য দেখি' হাসে প্রভুর গণ ॥ ২০৯ ॥

dekhi' gopīnāthācārya haraṣita-mana seeing Gopīnāthācārya delighted at heart bhaṭṭācāryera nṛtya dekhi' hāse prabhura gaṇa
the Bhaṭṭācārya's dance seeing laugh the Lord's companions

209 Seeing this, Gopīnātha Ācārya was delighted at heart, and the Lord's companions laughed to see the Bhaṭṭācārya dance.

Seeing Sārvabhauma's state, Gopīnātha glorifies the Lord's greatness —

গোপীনাথাচার্য্য কহে মহাপ্রভুর প্রতি । সেই ভট্টাচার্য্যের তুমি কৈলে এই গতি ॥ ২১০ ॥

gopīnāthācārya kahe mahāprabhura prati Gopīnāthācārya says Mahāprabhu to sei bhaṭṭācāryera tumi kaile ei gati
that very Bhaṭṭācārya's You have made this state

210 Gopīnātha Ācārya said to Mahāprabhu, "It is that very Bhaṭṭācārya whom You have brought to such a state!"

The Lord honors the devotee —

প্রভু কহে, — তুমি ভক্ত, তোমার সঙ্গ হৈতে । জগন্নাথ ইঁহারে কৃপা কৈল ভালমতে ॥ ২১১ ॥

prabhu kahe, — tumi bhakta, tomāra saṅga haite
the Lord says you a devotee your association from jagannātha iṁhāre kṛpā kaila bhāla-mate Jagannātha to him mercy showed fully

211 The Lord said, "You are a devotee, and through association with you Jagannātha has shown him full mercy."

Coming to himself, the Bhaṭṭācārya offers prayers to the Lord —

তবে ভট্টাচার্য্যে প্রভু সুস্থির করিল । স্থির হঞা ভট্টাচার্য্য বহু স্তুতি কৈল ॥ ২১২ ॥

tabe bhaṭṭācārye prabhu susthira karila
then the Bhaṭṭācārya the Lord calm made sthira hañā bhaṭṭācārya bahu stuti kaila calm becoming the Bhaṭṭācārya many prayers made

212 Then the Lord calmed the Bhaṭṭācārya, and once composed, he offered many prayers.

জগৎ নিস্তারিলে তুমি, — সেহ অল্পকার্য্য ।
আমা উদ্ধারিলে তুমি, — এ শক্তি আশ্চর্য্য ॥ ২১৩ ॥

jagat nistārile tumi, — seha alpa-kārya
the world have delivered You that a small deed
āmā uddhārile tumi, — e śakti āścarya
me have delivered You this power wonderful

213 "That You have delivered the world is a small deed; that You have delivered me — that is a wondrous power!

তর্ক-শাস্ত্রে জড় আমি, যৈছে লৌহপিণ্ড । আমা দ্রবাইলে তুমি, প্রতাপ প্রচণ্ড ॥ ২১৪ ॥

tarka-śāstre jaḍa āmi, yaiche lauha-piṇḍa
by logic dulled I like a lump of iron āmā dravāile tumi, pratāpa pracaṇḍa me have melted You power mighty

214 Logic had made me as hard and dull as a lump of iron, yet You have melted me — mighty is Your power!"

The Lord returns to His residence —

স্তুতি শুনি' মহাপ্রভু নিজ-বাসা আইলা ।
ভট্টাচার্য্য আচার্য্য-দ্বারে ভিক্ষা করাইলা ॥ ২১৫ ॥

stuti śuni' mahāprabhu nija-vāsā āilā
the prayers hearing Mahāprabhu to His own lodging came bhaṭṭācārya ācārya-dvāre bhikṣā karāilā
the Bhaṭṭācārya through the Ācārya a meal arranged

215 Having heard these prayers, Mahāprabhu returned to His lodging, and the Bhaṭṭācārya had a meal served to Him through Gopīnātha Ācārya.

*One day, early in the morning, the Lord obtains prasāda —*

আর দিন প্রভু গেলা জগন্নাথ-দরশনে । দর্শন করিলা জগন্নাথ-শয্যোত্থানে ॥ ২১৬ ॥

āra dina prabhu gelā jagannātha-daraśane
the next day the Lord went to see Jagannātha
darśana karilā jagannātha-śayyotthāne
darśana He had at Jagannātha's rising from bed

216 The next day the Lord went to see Jagannātha and had darśana of Him as He rose from His bed.

পূজারী আনিয়া মালা-প্রসাদান্ন দিলা । প্রসাদান্ন-মালা পাঞা প্রভু হর্ষ হৈলা ॥ ২১৭ ॥

pūjārī āniyā mālā-prasādānna dilā
the pūjārī bringing garland and prasāda gave prasādānna-mālā pāñā prabhu harṣa hailā
the prasāda and garland receiving the Lord joyful became 217 The pūjārī brought Him a garland and prasāda, and receiving them, the Lord was delighted.

The Lord comes to the Bhaṭṭācārya's house —

সেই প্রসাদান্ন-মালা অঞ্চলে বান্ধিয়া । ভট্টাচার্য্যের ঘরে আইলা ত্বরাযুক্ত হঞা ॥ ২১৮ ॥

sei prasādānna-mālā añcale bāndhiyā that prasāda and garland in the end of His cloth tying bhaṭṭācāryera ghare āilā tvarāyukta haña
the Bhaṭṭācārya's to the house He came in haste being 218 Tying the prasāda and garland in the end of His cloth, He hurried to the Bhaṭṭācārya's house.

*Even before his morning duties the Bhaṭṭācārya honors the prasāda given by the Lord —*

অরুণোদয়-কালে হৈল প্রভুর আগমন । সেইকালে ভট্টাচার্য্যের হৈল জাগরণ ॥ ২১৯ ॥

aruṇodaya-kāle haila prabhura āgamana
at dawn there was the Lord's arrival sei-kāle bhaṭṭācāryera haila jāgaraṇa
at that time the Bhaṭṭācārya's there was waking

219 The Lord arrived at dawn, just as the Bhaṭṭācārya was waking.

Anubhāṣya.

Aruṇodaya-kāla — the period of four daṇḍas before sunrise is called aruṇodaya-kāla.

'কৃষ্ণ' 'কৃষ্ণ' স্ফুট কহি' ভট্টাচার্য্য জাগিলা । কৃষ্ণনাম শুনি' প্রভুর আনন্দ বাড়িলা ॥ ২২০ ॥

'kṛṣṇa' 'kṛṣṇa' sphuṭa kahi' bhaṭṭācārya jāgilā
"Kṛṣṇa" "Kṛṣṇa" clearly saying the Bhaṭṭācārya awoke
kṛṣṇa-nāma śuni' prabhura ānanda bāḍilā Kṛṣṇa's name hearing the Lord's joy increased

220 As he woke, the Bhaṭṭācārya called out clearly, “Kṛṣṇa! Kṛṣṇa!”, and when the Lord heard the name of Kṛṣṇa, His joy grew.

বাহিরে প্রভুর তেঁহো পাইল দরশন । আস্তে-ব্যস্তে আসি’ কৈল চরণ বন্দন ॥ ২২১ ॥

bāhire prabhura teṁho pāila daraśana outside of the Lord he obtained sight
āste-vyaste āsi’ kaila caraṇa vandana
hurriedly coming he made to the feet obeisance

221 Seeing the Lord outside, he hastened to Him and bowed at His feet.

বসিতে আসন দিয়া দুঁহেতে বসিলা । প্রসাদান্ন খুলি’ প্রভু তাঁর হাতে দিলা ॥ ২২২ ॥

vasite āsana diyā duṁhete vasilā
to sit a seat giving both sat down prasādānna khuli’ prabhu tāṁra hāte dilā
the prasāda untying the Lord his in the hand gave 222 He offered the Lord a seat, and the two sat down together. Untying the prasāda, the Lord placed it in his hand.

প্রসাদান্ন পাঞা ভট্টাচার্য্যের আনন্দ হৈল । স্নান, সন্ধ্যা, দন্তধাবন যদ্যপি না কৈল ॥ ২২৩ ॥

prasādānna pāñā bhaṭṭācāryera ānanda haila
the prasāda receiving the Bhaṭṭācārya’s joy there was snāna, sandhyā, danta-dhāvana yadyapi nā kaila bath morning prayers cleaning the teeth although not he had done

223 The Bhaṭṭācārya was overjoyed to receive the prasāda, though he had not yet bathed, said his morning prayers or even cleaned his teeth.

By the mercy of Kṛṣṇa Caitanya dullness is destroyed —

চৈতন্য-প্রসাদে মনের সব জাড্য গেল । এই শ্লোক পড়ি' অন্ন ভক্ষণ করিল ॥ ২২৪ ॥

caitanya-prasāde manera saba jādya gela
by Caitanya's grace of the mind all dullness went ei śloka paḍi' anna bhakṣaṇa karila
this verse reciting the food he ate

224 By Caitanya's grace all the dullness of his mind was gone. Reciting these verses, he ate the prasāda:

*In honoring transcendental prasāda there is no consideration of proper and improper time —*

শুষ্কং পর্য্যুষিতং বাপি নীতং বা দূরদেশতঃ ।
প্রাপ্তিমাত্রেণ ভোক্তব্যং নাত্র কালবিচারণা ॥ ২২৫ ॥

śuṣkaṁ paryuṣitaṁ vāpi dried up stale or even nītaṁ vā dūra-deśataḥ
brought or from a distant land
prāpti-mātreṇa bhoktavyaṁ
as soon as received should be eaten nātra kāla-vicāraṇā
not here of time consideration

225 "Even if it is dry, stale or brought from a distant land, it should be eaten as soon as it is received. Here there is no consideration of time." (Padma Purāṇa)[16]

Anubhāṣya.

śuṣkam (without juice) paryuṣitam (cooked several days before) dūra-deśataḥ (from a very distant foreign land) nītam (brought) vā kṛṣṇa-prasādānnam prāpti-mātreṇa (as soon as it is received) bhoktavyam (should be respectfully accepted and honored) atra (in accepting prasāda) kāla-vicāraṇā na (there is no).

ন দেশনিয়মস্তত্র ন কালনিয়মস্তথা । প্রাপ্তমন্নং দ্রুতং শিষ্টৈর্ভোক্তব্যং হরিরব্রবীৎ ॥ ২২৬ ॥

na deśa-niyamas tatra
no of place rule in this na kāla-niyamas tathā
no of time rule likewise
prāptam annaṁ drutaṁ śiṣṭair received food quickly by the cultured bhoktavyaṁ harir abravīt
should be eaten Hari said

226 "For this there is no rule of place and no rule of time. The cultured should eat such food as soon as it is received — so Hari has said." (Padma Purāṇa)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Whether the mahā-prasāda is dry, stale or brought from a distant land, the rule is to eat it as soon as it is given; there is no need to consider the time. The cultured (śiṣṭa) should eat Śrī Kṛṣṇa's prasāda as soon as they receive it, and here there are no rules of place or time — so Bhagavān has commanded.

Anubhāṣya.

tatra (in accepting prasāda) deśa-niyamaḥ na, tathā kāla-niyamaḥ na; prāptam annam (Kṛṣṇa's prasāda) drutam (at once) śiṣṭaiḥ (by the Vaiṣṇavas) bhoktavyam (in honoring prasāda one should take no account of place, time, intervals and the like) — iti hariḥ abravīt.

*Seeing Sārvabhauma honor prasāda, the Lord is filled with supreme bliss, and both dance, overwhelmed with love —*

দেখিয়া আনন্দ হৈল মহাপ্রভুর মন । প্রেমাবিষ্ট হঞা প্রভু কৈলা আলিঙ্গন ॥ ২২৭ ॥

dekhiyā ānanda haila mahāprabhura mana seeing joyful became Mahāprabhu's mind premāviṣṭa hañā prabhu kailā āliṅgana absorbed in love becoming the Lord made an embrace

227 Mahāprabhu's heart filled with joy at the sight, and overwhelmed with love, He embraced him.

দুইজনে ধরি' দুঁহে করেন নর্ত্তন ।
প্রভু-ভৃত্য দুঁহা স্পর্শে, দোঁহার ফুলে মন ॥ ২২৮ ॥

dui-jane dhari' duṁhe karena nartana
the two holding each other perform dancing prabhu-bhṛtya duṁhā sparśe, doṁhāra phule mana the Lord and the servant both by the touch of both blossom hearts

228 Holding each other, the two danced. Lord and servant touched each other, and the hearts of both blossomed.

স্বেদ-কম্প-অশ্রু দুঁহে আনন্দে ভাসিলা । প্রেমাবিষ্ট হঞা প্রভু কহিতে লাগিলা ॥ ২২৯ ॥

sveda-kampa-aśru duṁhe ānande bhāsilā
sweat trembling tears both in bliss floated premāviṣṭa hañā prabhu kahite lāgilā absorbed in love becoming the Lord to speak began

229 Bathed in sweat, trembling and in tears, both floated in bliss. Filled with love, the Lord began to speak:

The Lord takes pride in having delivered Sārvabhauma —

আজি মুঞি অনায়াসে জিনিনু ত্রিভুবন । আজি মুঞি করিনু বৈকুণ্ঠ আরোহণ ॥ ২৩০ ॥

āji muñi anāyāse jininu tribhuvana
today I without effort have conquered the three worlds
āji muñi karinu vaikuṇṭha ārohaṇa today I have made to Vaikuṇṭha the ascent

230 "Today I have conquered the three worlds without effort. Today I have ascended to Vaikuṇṭha.

আজি মোর পূর্ণ হৈল সর্ব্ব অভিলাষ । সার্ব্বভৌমের হৈল মহাপ্রসাদে বিশ্বাস ॥ ২৩১ ॥

āji mora pūrṇa haila sarva abhilāṣa
today My fulfilled were all desires sārvabhaumera haila mahā-prasāde viśvāsa
Sārvabhauma's there has come in mahā-prasāda faith

231 Today all My desires are fulfilled, for Sārvabhauma has come to have faith in mahā-prasāda.

The Lord's blessing to Sārvabhauma —

আজি তুমি নিষ্কপটে হৈলা কৃষ্ণাশ্রয় । কৃষ্ণ আজি নিষ্কপটে তোমা হইয়া সদয় ॥ ২৩২ ॥

āji tumi niṣkapaṭe hailā kṛṣṇāśraya
today you sincerely have become sheltered in Kṛṣṇa
kṛṣṇa āji niṣkapaṭe tomā haiyā sadaya
Kṛṣṇa today sincerely to you having become kind

232 Today you have taken shelter of Kṛṣṇa without guile, and today Kṛṣṇa has shown you His mercy without reserve.

আজি সে খণ্ডিল তোমার দেহাদি-বন্ধন । আজি তুমি ছিন্ন কৈলে মায়ার বন্ধন ॥ ২৩৩ ॥

āji se khaṇḍila tomāra dehādi-bandhana
today that has been cut your bondage to the body and the rest
āji tumi chinna kaile māyāra bandhana
today you cut have made of māyā the bonds

233 Today your bondage to the body and all that goes with it has been cut away; today you have cut the bonds of māyā.

আজি কৃষ্ণপ্রাপ্তি-যোগ্য হৈল তোমার মন । বেদ-ধর্ম্ম লঙ্ঘি' কৈলে প্রসাদ ভক্ষণ ॥ ২৩৪ ॥

āji kṛṣṇa-prāpti-yogya haila tomāra mana today fit to attain Kṛṣṇa has become your mind
veda-dharma laṅghi' kaile prasāda bhakṣaṇa
the Vedic rules overstepping you have done of prasāda eating

234 Today your mind has become fit to attain Kṛṣṇa, for you have eaten prasāda, setting aside the Vedic rules."

*Only a devotee who has surrendered to Kṛṣṇa without guile is freed from māyā —*

যেষাং স এষ ভগবান্ দয়য়েদনন্তঃ সর্ব্বাত্মনাশ্রিতপদো যদি নির্ব্যলীকম্ ।
তে দুস্তরামতিতরন্তি চ দেবমায়াং নৈষাং মমাহমিতিধীঃ শ্বশৃগালভক্ষ্যে ॥ ২৩৫ ॥

yeṣāṁ sa eṣa bhagavān dayayed anantaḥ to whom He this the Lord may show mercy the Unlimited sarvātmanāśrita-pado yadi nirvyalīkam with all their being who have taken shelter of His feet if without deceit
te dustarām atitaranti ca deva-māyāṁ
they insurmountable cross over and the divine māyā naiṣāṁ mamāham iti dhīḥ śva-śṛgāla-bhakṣye not of them "mine", "I" thus the notion in what is food for dogs and jackals

235 "Those to whom the unlimited Lord shows His mercy — who have taken shelter of His feet with all their being and without deceit — cross over the insurmountable divine māyā, and they no longer think of the body, food for dogs and jackals, as 'I' and 'mine'." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.7.42)[17]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Those who have taken shelter of His lotus feet in every way and to whom Bhagavān, whose nature is unlimited (Ananta), shows guileless mercy cross over this insurmountable divine māyā. But to those who think "I" and "mine" of this material body, food for jackals and dogs, Bhagavān shows no mercy.

Anubhāṣya.

Having described to Śrī Nārada the deeds, purposes and opulences of Bhagavān's līlā-avatāras, Brahmā speaks of Bhagavān's māyā and of the greatness of the devotees:

sa eṣa anantaḥ bhagavān yeṣām (to those wholly surrendered) dayayet (shows mercy) — te yadi nirvyalīkam (without guile) sarvātmanā (with their whole being, not with a part of it) āśrita-padāḥ (surrendered to Kṛṣṇa's feet alone) bhavanti, tarhi dustarām (impossible to cross) deva-māyām atitaranti. eṣām (in the surrendered) śva-śṛgāla-bhakṣye (toward the body fit only to be eaten by animals) ahaṁ-mama iti-dhīḥ (the notion of "I" and "mine") na (there is no).

The Bhaṭṭācārya gives up material conceit —

এত কহি' মহাপ্রভু আইলা নিজ-স্থানে । সেই হৈতে ভট্টাচার্য্যের খণ্ডিল অভিমানে ॥ ২৩৬ ॥

eta kahi' mahāprabhu āilā nija-sthāne
so much saying Mahāprabhu came to His own place sei haite bhaṭṭācāryera khaṇḍila abhimāne
from that time the Bhaṭṭācārya's was broken pride

236 Having said this, Mahāprabhu returned to His own place, and from that time the Bhaṭṭācārya's pride was broken.

With his whole being Sārvabhauma takes shelter of the path of devotion —

চৈতন্য-চরণ বিনা নাহি জানে আন ।
ভক্তি বিনা শাস্ত্রের অন্য না করে ব্যাখ্যান ॥ ২৩৭ ॥

caitanya-caraṇa vinā nāhi jāne āna Caitanya's feet except not he knows anything else
bhakti vinā śāstrera anya nā kare vyākhyāna
bhakti except of scripture other not he makes explanation

237 He knew nothing but Caitanya's feet, and he explained scripture as teaching nothing but bhakti.

Gopīnātha dances with joy —

গোপীনাথাচার্য্য তাঁর বৈষ্ণবতা দেখিয়া । ‘হরি’ ‘হরি’ বলি’ নাচে হাতে তালি দিয়া ॥ ২৩৮ ॥

gopīnāthācārya tāṁra vaiṣṇavatā dekhiyā Gopīnāthācārya his Vaiṣṇava devotion seeing ‘hari’ ‘hari’ bali’ nāce hāte tāli diyā
“Hari” “Hari” calling dances hands clapping

238 Seeing his devotion as a Vaiṣṇava, Gopīnātha Ācārya danced, clapping his hands and calling, “Hari! Hari!”

The Bhaṭṭācārya's love for the Lord exceeds even his love for Jagannātha —

আর দিন ভট্টাচার্য্য আইলা দর্শনে । জগন্নাথ না দেখি’ আইলা প্রভু-স্থানে ॥ ২৩৯ ॥

āra dina bhaṭṭācārya āilā darśane
the next day the Bhaṭṭācārya came for darśana
jagannātha nā dekhi’ āilā prabhu-sthāne
Jagannātha not seeing came to the Lord’s place

239 The next day the Bhaṭṭācārya set out for darśana, but before seeing Jagannātha he went to the Lord.

Sārvabhauma's humility —

দণ্ডবৎ করি’ কৈল বহুবিধ স্তুতি । দৈন্য করি’ কহে নিজ-পূর্ব্ব দুর্ম্মতি ॥ ২৪০ ॥

daṇḍavat kari’ kaila bahu-vidha stuti
obeisance making he offered many kinds of prayers
dainya kari’ kahe nija-pūrva durmati humility showing he tells his own former perversity

240 Falling flat in obeisance, he offered many prayers, and in humility he spoke of his former perverse thinking.

*Asked which sādhana is the best, the Lord proclaims the glory of nāma-kīrtana —*

ভক্তিসাধন-শ্রেষ্ঠ শুনিতে হৈল মন । প্রভু উপদেশ কৈল নাম-সংকীর্ত্তন ॥ ২৪১ ॥

bhakti-sādhana-śreṣṭha śunite haila mana of bhakti of practice the best to hear arose desire prabhu upadeśa kaila nāma-saṁkīrtana
the Lord instruction gave the congregational chanting of the name

241 He wished to hear which is the best practice of bhakti, and the Lord taught him the chanting of the holy name (nāma-saṅkīrtana):

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya asked which of the sixty-four limbs of sādhana-bhakti is the best of all. Mahāprabhu answered: "Nāma-saṅkīrtana alone is the best of all."

হরের্নাম হরের্নাম হরের্নামৈব কেবলম্ ।
কলৌ নাস্ত্যেব নাস্ত্যেব নাস্ত্যেব গতিরন্যথা ॥ ২৪২ ॥

harer nāma harer nāma
of Hari the name of Hari the name
harer nāmaiva kevalam of Hari the name indeed only kalau nāsty eva nāsty eva in Kali there is not indeed there is not indeed
nāsty eva gatir anyathā
there is not indeed way other

242 "The name of Hari, the name of Hari, the name of Hari alone! In the age of Kali there is no other way, there is no other way, there is no other way." (Bṛhan-nāradīya Purāṇa, 38.126)[18]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
"What is attained in the Satya-yuga by meditating on Viṣṇu, in the Tretā-yuga by worshipping Him with sacrifices and in the Dvāpara-yuga by serving Him is attained in the age of Kali by chanting [the name of] Hari."[24]

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 7.76.

Hearing the Lord explain the verse, the Bhaṭṭācārya is amazed —

এই শ্লোকের অর্থ শুনাইল করিয়া বিস্তার । শুনি' ভট্টাচার্য্য-মনে হৈল চমৎকার ॥ ২৪৩ ॥

ei ślokera artha śunāila kariyā vistāra
of this verse the meaning He told making at length
śuni' bhaṭṭācārya-mane haila camatkāra hearing in the Bhaṭṭācārya's mind there was wonder

243 The Lord explained the meaning of this verse at length, and hearing it, the Bhaṭṭācārya was filled with wonder.

Gopīnātha's prediction comes true —

গোপীনাথাচার্য্য বলে, — 'আমি পূর্ব্বে যে কহিল । শুন, ভট্টাচার্য্য, তোমার সেই ত' হইল' ॥ ২৪৪ ॥

gopīnāthācārya bale, — 'āmi pūrve ye kahila Gopīnāthācārya says I before what said
śuna, bhaṭṭācārya, tomāra sei ta' haila'
listen Bhaṭṭācārya to you that indeed has happened

244 Gopīnātha Ācārya said, "Listen, Bhaṭṭācārya: what I told you before has now happened to you."

Through his connection with Gopīnātha, Sārvabhauma receives the Lord's mercy —

ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে তাঁরে করি' নমস্কারে । তোমার সম্বন্ধে প্রভু কৃপা কৈল মোরে ॥ ২৪৫ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya kahe tāṅ̐re kari' namaskāre
the Bhaṭṭācārya says to him making obeisance tomāra sambandhe prabhu kṛpā kaila more your through the connection the Lord mercy showed to me

245 Bowing to him, the Bhaṭṭācārya said, "It is through my connection with you that the Lord has shown me mercy.

তুমি — মহা-ভাগবত, আমি — তর্ক-অন্ধে । প্রভু কৃপা কৈল মোরে তোমার সম্বন্ধে ॥ ২৪৬ ॥

tumi — mahābhāgavata, āmi — tarka-andhe
you a great devotee I blinded by logic prabhu kṛpā kaila more tomāra sambandhe
the Lord mercy showed to me your through the connection

246 You are a great devotee (mahā-bhāgavata), and I am blinded by logic; the Lord has shown me mercy through my connection with you."

*The Lord permits the Bhaṭṭācārya to go for darśana of Jagannātha —*

বিনয় শুনি' তুষ্টে প্রভু কৈল আলিঙ্গন । কহিল, — যাঞা করহ ঈশ্বর দরশন ॥ ২৪৭ ॥

vinaya śuni' tuṣṭye prabhu kaila āliṅgana
the humility hearing pleased the Lord made an embrace kahila, — yāñā karaha īśvara daraśana
He said going have of the Lord darśana

247 Pleased to hear his humble words, the Lord embraced him and said, "Go now and have darśana of the Lord."[19]

*Returning home, the Bhaṭṭācārya sends prasāda and verses proclaiming the Lord's glory —*

জগদানন্দ-দামোদর, — দুই সঙ্গে লঞা । ঘরে আইল ভট্টাচার্য্য জগন্নাথ দেখিয়া ॥ ২৪৮ ॥

jagadānanda-dāmodara, — dui saṅge lañā Jagadānanda and Dāmodara the two with him taking ghare āila bhaṭṭācārya jagannātha dekhiyā home came the Bhaṭṭācārya Jagannātha having seen

248 Taking Jagadānanda and Dāmodara with him, the Bhaṭṭācārya saw Jagannātha and returned home.

উত্তম উত্তম প্রসাদ বহুত আনিলা । নিজবিপ্র-হাতে দুই জনা সঙ্গে দিলা ॥ ২৪৯ ॥

uttama uttama prasāda bahuta ānilā
the finest the finest prasāda much he brought nija-vipra-hāte dui janā saṅge dilā
in the hands of his own brāhmaṇa two persons with he gave 249 He brought a great deal of the very best prasāda and sent it by his own brāhmaṇa, together with those two.

নিজ কৃত দুই শ্লোক লিখিয়া তালপাতে । প্রভুকে দিহ' বলি' দিল জগদানন্দ-হাতে ॥ ২৫০ ॥

nija kṛta dui śloka likhiyā tāla-pāte
by himself composed two verses writing on a palm leaf prabhuke diha' bali' dila jagadānanda-hāte
to the Lord give saying he gave into Jagadānanda's hand

250 He wrote two verses of his own on a palm leaf and gave it into Jagadānanda's hand, saying, "Give this to the Lord."

Before the leaf reaches the Lord, Mukunda keeps a copy of the two verses —

প্রভু-স্থানে আইলা দুঁহে প্রসাদ-পত্রী লঞা । মুকুন্দ দত্ত পত্রী নিল তাঁর হাতে পাঞা ॥ ২৫১ ॥

prabhu-sthāne āilā duṁhe prasāda-patrī lañā to the Lord's place came both prasāda and letter taking mukunda datta patrī nila tāṁra hāte pāñā Mukunda Datta the letter took his in the hand finding 251 The two came to the Lord with the prasāda and the letter, and Mukunda Datta, finding the letter in Jagadānanda's hand, took it.

Jagadānanda gives the Lord the letter with the Bhaṭṭācārya's verses —

দুই শ্লোক বাহির-ভিতে লিখিয়া রাখিল । তবে জগদানন্দ পত্রী প্রভুকে লঞা দিল ॥ ২৫২ ॥

dui śloka bāhira-bhite likhiyā rākhila
two verses on the outer wall writing he kept tabe jagadānanda patrī prabhuke lañā dila
then Jagadānanda the letter to the Lord taking gave 252 He copied the two verses onto the outer wall; then Jagadānanda took the letter and gave it to the Lord.

প্রভু শ্লোক পড়ি' পত্র ছিণ্ডিয়া ফেলিল । ভিত্যে দেখি' ভক্ত সব শ্লোক কণ্ঠে কৈল ॥ ২৫৩ ॥

prabhu śloka paḍi' patra chiṇḍiyā phelila
the Lord the verses reading the leaf tearing threw away
bhitye dekhi' bhakta saba śloka kaṇṭhe kaila
on the wall seeing the devotees all the verses by heart made 253 The Lord read the verses, tore up the leaf and threw it away, but the devotees saw them on the wall and all learned them by heart.

Obeisance to Gaura, who distributes knowledge, renunciation and devotion —

বৈরাগ্য-বিদ্যা-নিজভক্তিযোগ-শিক্ষার্থমেকঃ পুরুষঃ পুরাণঃ । শ্রীকৃষ্ণচৈতন্যশরীরধারী কৃপাম্বুধির্যস্তমহং প্রপদ্যে ॥ ২৫৪ ॥

vairāgya-vidyā-nija-bhakti-yoga-detachment knowledge His own devotional yoga śikṣārtham ekaḥ puruṣaḥ purāṇaḥ
to teach the one Person primeval
śrī kṛṣṇa-caitanya-śarīra-dhārī Śrī the form of Kṛṣṇa Caitanya assuming kṛpāmbudhir yas tam ahaṁ prapadye
the ocean of mercy who to Him I surrender

254 "I take refuge in the one primeval Person, the ocean of mercy, who has assumed the form of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya to teach detachment, knowledge and devotion to Himself." (Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka, 6.74)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

I surrender to the one, primeval Person, ever an ocean of mercy, who has assumed the form of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya to teach renunciation, knowledge and devotion to Himself.

Anubhāṣya.

vairāgya-vidyā-nija-bhakti-yoga-śikṣārtham (to give instruction leading to detachment from all but Kṛṣṇa, to realization of the Supreme Lord, and to service of His own name, form, qualities and pastimes) ekaḥ (one without a second) purāṇaḥ (primeval) kṛpāmbudhiḥ (an ocean of mercy: even to people attached to matter He gives the prema of Vraja, fit only for the highest liberated souls) puruṣaḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanya-śarīra-dhārī (whose nature is to bear the body that is Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya Himself); ahaṁ tam prapadye (take shelter).

Steadfastness in Gaura, who revealed hidden devotion —

কালান্নষ্টং ভক্তিযোগং নিজং যঃ প্রাদুষ্কর্ত্তুং কৃষ্ণচৈতন্যনামা ৷
আবির্ভূতস্তস্য পাদারবিন্দে গাঢ়ং গাঢ়ং লীয়তাং চিত্তভৃঙ্গঃ ॥ ২৫৫ ॥

kālān naṣṭaṁ bhakti-yogaṁ nijaṁ yaḥ
by time lost devotional yoga His own who prāduṣkartuṁ kṛṣṇa-caitanya-nāmā
to revive Kṛṣṇa Caitanya by name āvirbhūtas tasya pādāravinde appeared His at the lotus feet
gāḍhaṁ gāḍhaṁ līyatāṁ citta-bhṛṅgaḥ
deeply deeply may be absorbed the bee of the mind

255 "He appeared under the name Kṛṣṇa Caitanya to revive His own devotional yoga, which had been lost through time. May the bee of my mind sink deep, deep into His lotus feet." (Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka, 6.75)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Seeing that in the course of time devotion to Himself had almost perished, the Person named "Kṛṣṇa Caitanya" appeared to preach it again. May the bee of my mind be deeply absorbed in His lotus feet.

Anubhāṣya.
kālāt (by the law of time — because other desires, karma, jñāna and attachment to matter prevailed) naṣṭam (lost) nijam (full of Kṛṣṇa's name, form, qualities and pastimes) bhakti-yogam prāduṣkartum (to manifest again) kṛṣṇa-caitanya-nāmā (being) yaḥ āvirbhūtaḥ (appeared); tasya pādāravinde (at the lotus feet) citta-bhṛṅgaḥ (the restless bee of the mind) gāḍhaṁ gāḍhaṁ līyatām (may it be absorbed).

These two verses spread Sārvabhauma's glory —

এই দুই শ্লোক — ভক্তকণ্ঠে মণিহার ।
সার্ব্বভৌমের কীর্ত্তি ঘোষে ঢক্কাবাদ্যাকার ॥ ২৫৬ ॥

ei dui śloka — bhakta-kaṇṭhe maṇi-hāra
these two verses on the devotees' necks a jewelled necklace
sārvabhaumera kīrti ghoṣe ḍhakkā-vādyākāra
Sārvabhauma's fame proclaim like the beat of a great drum

256 These two verses are a jewelled necklace on the devotees' necks, and like the beat of a great drum (ḍhakkā) they proclaim Sārvabhauma's glory.

Sārvabhauma, whose very life is Gaura —

সার্ব্বভৌম হৈলা প্রভুর ভক্ত একজন । মহাপ্রভুর সেবা-বিনা নাহি অন্য মন ॥ ২৫৭ ॥

sārvabhauma hailā prabhura bhakta eka-jana Sārvabhauma became of the Lord a devotee one mahāprabhura sevā-vinā nāhi anya mana Mahāprabhu's service except there is not other thought

257 Sārvabhauma became the Lord's devotee, and he had no thought for anything but serving Mahāprabhu.

'শ্রীকৃষ্ণচৈতন্য শচীসূত গুণধাম' । এই ধ্যান, এই জপ, লয় এই নাম ॥ ২৫৮ ॥

'śrī kṛṣṇa-caitanya śacī-sūta guṇa-dhāma'
Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya the son of Śacī the abode of virtues ei dhyāna, ei japa, laya ei nāma
this meditation this japa he takes this name

258 "Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, the son of Śacī, the abode of all virtues" — this was his meditation, this his japa; this was the name he chanted.

Before the Lord, Sārvabhauma recites a verse from Brahmā's prayers with a changed reading —

একদিন সার্ব্বভৌম প্রভু-আগে আইলা । নমস্কার করি' শ্লোক পড়িতে লাগিলা ॥ ২৫৯ ॥

ekadina sārvabhauma prabhu-āge āilā
one day Sārvabhauma before the Lord came namaskāra kari' śloka paḍite lāgilā obeisance making a verse to recite he began

259 One day Sārvabhauma came before the Lord, offered obeisance and began to recite a verse.

ভাগবতের 'ব্রহ্ম-স্তবে'র শ্লোক পড়িলা । শ্লোক-শেষে দুই অক্ষর-পাঠ ফিরাইলা ॥ ২৬০ ॥

bhāgavatera 'brahma-stave'ra śloka paḍilā
of the Bhāgavatam of Brahmā's prayers a verse he recited
śloka-śeṣe dui akṣara-pāṭha phirāilā
at the end of the verse two syllables reading he changed

260 He recited a verse from Brahmā's prayers in the Bhāgavatam, but at the end of the verse he changed the reading of two syllables:

তত্তেঽনুকম্পাং সুসমীক্ষমাণো ভুঞ্জান এবাত্মকৃতং বিপাকম্ ।
হৃদ্বাগ্বপুর্ভির্বিদধন্নমস্তে জীবেত যো ভক্তিপদে স দায়ভাক্ ॥ ২৬১ ॥

tat te 'nukampāṁ su-samīkṣamāṇo therefore Your mercy earnestly awaiting bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam enduring indeed self-made the fruits hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidadhan namas te with heart, speech and body offering obeisance to You jīveta yo bhakti-pade sa dāya-bhāk
lives who to the position of devotion he is heir

261 "Therefore one who lives earnestly awaiting Your mercy, enduring the fruits of his own deeds and offering You obeisance with heart, words and body, is an heir to the position of devotion." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8)[20]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

One who, hoping for Your mercy, tastes the bad fruits of his own deeds and lives serving You with mind, words and body is an heir to the position of devotion — that is, he attains the position of devotion. When reciting this verse Sārvabhauma said bhakti-pade sa dāya-bhāk ("he is an heir to the position of devotion").

Anubhāṣya.

After Śrī Kṛṣṇa had crushed Brahmā's pride, Brahmā, wholly surrendered, offers prayers to Śrī Kṛṣṇa:

tat (therefore) te anukampām (mercy) su-samīkṣamāṇaḥ (rightly understanding) ātma-kṛtam (done by himself) vipākam (the fruits of deeds) bhuñjānaḥ eva hṛd-vāg-vapurbhiḥ (with mind, speech and body) te (to You) namaḥ vidadhat (giving up material conceit and surrendering himself) yaḥ jīveta, saḥ bhakti-pade dāya-bhāk (a fit recipient) bhavati.

*The Lord upholds and preserves the reading of the Bhāgavatam —*

প্রভু কহে, 'মুক্তিপদে' — ইহা পাঠ হয়।
'ভক্তিপদে' কেনে পড়, কি তোমার আশয় ॥ ২৬২ ॥

prabhu kahe, 'mukti-pade' — ihā pāṭha haya
the Lord says "mukti-pade" this the reading is
'bhakti-pade' kene paḍa, ki tomāra āśaya
"bhakti-pade" why you read what your intention

262 The Lord said, "The reading is 'mukti-pade'. Why do you read 'bhakti-pade'? What do you mean by it?"

*The Bhaṭṭācārya wishes to keep the reading bhakti instead of mukti —*

ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, — 'ভক্তি'-সম নহে মুক্তি-ফল। ভগবদ্ভক্তিবিমুখের হয় দণ্ড কেবল ॥ ২৬৩ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya kahe, — 'bhakti'-sama nahe mukti-phala
the Bhaṭṭācārya says to bhakti equal is not the fruit of liberation bhagavad-bhakti-vimukhera haya daṇḍa kevala of those averse to devotion to the Lord it is punishment only 263 The Bhaṭṭācārya said, "The fruit of liberation is not equal to bhakti. For those averse to devotion to Bhagavān it is only a punishment.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
The Bhaṭṭācārya said: "The highest fruit of devotion is (prema-)bhakti alone; mukti is not the fruit of devotion. For a person averse to devotion to Bhagavān, sāyujya-mukti is merely a kind of punishment."

Sāyujya-mukti* is for the godless, the Māyāvādīs and the Daityas hostile to Viṣṇu —*

কৃষ্ণের বিগ্রহ যেই সত্য নাহি মানে ।
যেই নিন্দা-যুদ্ধাদিক করে তাঁর সনে ॥ ২৬৪ ॥

সেই দুইর দণ্ড — হয় 'ব্রহ্মসাযুজ্য-মুক্তি' । তার মুক্তি ফল নহে, যেই করে ভক্তি ॥ ২৬৫ ॥

kṛṣṇera vigraha yei satya nāhi māne Kṛṣṇa's form who as real not accepts yei nindā-yuddhādika kare tāṁra sane who blasphemy, war and the like does Him with sei duira daṇḍa — haya 'brahma-sāyujya-mukti'
of these two the punishment is liberation by merging in Brahman
tāra mukti phala nahe, yei kare bhakti
his liberation fruit is not who does bhakti

264–265 Those who do not accept Kṛṣṇa's form as real, and those who blaspheme Him, fight against Him and the like — for both of these the punishment is liberation by merging in Brahman (brahma-sāyujya-mukti). But for one who practises bhakti, liberation is not the fruit.

Anubhāṣya.

In the Laghu-bhāgavatāmṛta, while describing Brahmaloka, Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī gives his own kārikā: “The fruit of unswerving devotion is loving service (prema-sevā) alone, whereas mere existence as Brahman is attained even through enmity.” The commentary of Śrī Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa: “One may object: ‘The jīva is an atomic particle of spirit; it must dissolve into Brahman, the mass of spirit, and can never again come out of it to serve Kṛṣṇa, its shelter.’ To this [Śrī Rūpa] replies with the verse beginning bhakteḥ. Remaining dissolved in Brahman falls even to the enemies slain by Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, for the smṛti says: ‘Beyond darkness lies Siddhaloka, where dwell the siddhas absorbed in the happiness of Brahman and the Daityas slain by Hari’ (Brahmāṇḍa Purāṇa). Therefore mere dissolution in it is not the fruit of devotion. Tamasaḥ (beyond the eighth covering — the sphere of prakṛti) pāre — Brahmaloka (by the maxim cayas tviṣām, “a mass of rays,” this means a place that is a formless mass of spirit). Siddhāḥ (those who meditate on such a Brahman without neglecting the shelter of Bhagavān, and whose subtle bodies have been destroyed by that meditation) tatra vasanti (dissolve). But those who neglect His feet, scorched by a particle of knowledge, fall down, as the Śrī Bhāgavata says: ‘O lotus-eyed Lord, others, who think themselves liberated but whose intelligence is impure because they have no devotion to You, rise with great effort to the highest position, but then fall down, having neglected Your feet’ (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.2.32).”

If the jīva, an atomic particle of spirit, has dissolved into Brahman, the mass of spirit, how can it come out of Brahman again and serve its shelter, Śrī Kṛṣṇa? The verse quoted above answers this doubt. To remain dissolved in Brahman is something utterly insignificant: it falls even to the hostile Daityas slain by Kṛṣṇa. The proof of this is in the Brahmāṇḍa Purāṇa itself (see Ādi 5.39). There the word “Brahman” or “Siddhaloka” must be understood, by the maxim cayas tviṣām, as a particular place, a formless mass of spirit. The word siddhāḥ refers to those jīvas who have not neglected Bhagavān's lotus feet and yet, by such meditation on Brahman, have cast off the covering of the subtle body; they vasanti, that is, attain dissolution. But those who neglect Bhagavān's feet — according to the verse ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.2.32) — lose completely, as the fruit of their disrespect for Bhagavān, even the little knowledge they had before as provision for the road; and so they fall down (attain hell).

*The five kinds of mukti —*

যদ্যপি মুক্তি হয় এই পঞ্চপ্রকার ।
সালোক্য-সামীপ্য-সারূপ্য-সার্ষ্টি-সাযুজ্য আর ॥ ২৬৬ ॥

yadyapi mukti haya ei pañca-prakāra
although liberation is of these five kinds sālokya-sāmīpya-sārūpya-sāṣṭi-sāyujya āra sālokya, sāmīpya, sārūpya, sārṣṭi, sāyujya and 266 Although liberation is of five kinds — sālokya, sāmīpya, sārūpya, sārṣṭi and sāyujya —

*The four kinds of mukti other than sāyujya are incidental to devotion —*

'সালোক্যাদি' চারি যদি হয় সেবা-দ্বার । তবু কদাচিৎ ভক্ত করে অঙ্গীকার ॥ ২৬৭ ॥

'sālokyādi' cāri yadi haya sevā-dvāra
sālokya and the rest four if are a door to service
tabu kadācit bhakta kare aṅgīkāra
still occasionally the devotee makes acceptance

267 if the four beginning with sālokya become a door to service, a devotee may still sometimes accept them.

Sāyujya*, like hell, "destroys devotion" and must be rejected entirely —*

'সাযুজ্য' শুনিতে ভক্তের হয় ঘৃণা-ভয় । নরক বাঞ্ছয়ে, তবু সাযুজ্য না লয় ॥ ২৬৮ ॥

'sāyujya' śunite bhaktera haya ghṛṇā-bhaya
of "sāyujya" hearing the devotee's there is disgust and fear
naraka vāñchaye, tabu sāyujya nā laya hell he desires yet sāyujya not he accepts

268 But the devotee feels disgust and fear at the very word "sāyujya". He would rather wish for hell than accept sāyujya.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Of the five kinds of mukti — sālokya, sāmīpya, sārūpya, sārṣṭi and sāyujya — the first four, beginning with sālokya, are not so blameworthy, for they are like doors to the service of Bhagavān. Even so, a devotee of Kṛṣṇa does not accept even these four kinds of mukti, for birth after birth he desires only devotion to Kṛṣṇa. As soon as he hears the word sāyujya, the devotee feels disgust for it as something worthless and fear of it as an "offense" hostile to devotion.

*The two kinds of sāyujya —*

ব্রহ্মে, ঈশ্বরে সাযুজ্য দুই ত' প্রকার ।
ব্রহ্ম-সাযুজ্য হৈতে ঈশ্বর-সাযুজ্য ধিক্কার ॥ ২৬৯ ॥

brahme, īśvare sāyujya dui ta' prakāra
in Brahman in the Lord merging of two indeed kinds brahma-sāyujya haite īśvara-sāyujya dhikkāra merging in Brahman than merging in the Lord more contemptible

269 Sāyujya is of two kinds — merging in Brahman and merging in the Lord — and merging in the Lord is even more contemptible than merging in Brahman."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Sāyujya is of two kinds: brahma-sāyujya and īśvara-sāyujya. According to the Māyāvādī Vedāntists, the jīva's ultimate attainment is brahma-sāyujya; according to Patañjali's teaching, it is īśvara-sāyujya in the state of kaivalya. Of these two kinds of sāyujya, īśvara-sāyujya is the more contemptible. In brahma-sāyujya one reaches a featureless destination through featureless knowledge. But īśvara-sāyujya — kaivalya, attained by meditating on the very Īśvara who has features — turns, through the fault of desire, into a still deeper fall. "Īśvara is a special puruṣa, untouched by afflictions, actions, their fruits and their latent impressions."[25] "He is the guru even of the ancients, for time does not limit Him."[26] From these the eternality of Īśvara with features is evident. But in the same Yoga-sūtra of Patañjali, in the Kaivalya-pāda, the sūtra "Kaivalya is the reabsorption of [the guṇas], devoid of any purpose for the puruṣa, or the power of consciousness established in its own nature"[27] shows that in the practitioner's state of perfection there is no other puruṣa, no Īśvara. The path of yoga, under the pretext of taking shelter of the Truth with features, is utterly fruitless. The meaning is this: (on the path of yoga) worship of the Truth with features yields not a fruit with features, but a fruit extremely remote from it and deserving of contempt.

*The servant desires no mukti — only selfless service to the One he serves —*

সালোক্য-সার্ষ্টি-সামীপ্য-সারূপ্যৈকত্বমপ্যুত । দীয়মানং ন গৃহ্ণন্তি বিনা মৎ-সেবনং জনাঃ ॥ ২৭০ ॥

sālokya-sāṣṭi-sāmīpya-residence in My world equal opulence nearness sārūpyaikatvam apy uta likeness of form oneness even and dīyamānaṁ na gṛhṇanti being given not accept vinā mat-sevanaṁ janāḥ
without My service the people

270 "My devotees accept nothing but service to Me — not even when they are offered residence in My world, opulence equal to Mine, nearness to Me, a form like Mine, or even oneness with Me." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.29.13)[21]

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 4.207.

*The Lord explains the word mukti-pada —*

প্রভু কহে, — 'মুক্তিপদে'র আর অর্থ হয় । মুক্তিপদ-শব্দে 'সাক্ষাৎ ঈশ্বর' কহয় ॥ ২৭১ ॥

prabhu kahe, — 'mukti-pade'ra āra artha haya
the Lord says of "mukti-pade" another meaning there is mukti-pada-śabde 'sākṣāt īśvara' kahaya
by the word "mukti-pada" directly the Lord is meant 271 The Lord said, "'Mukti-pade' has another meaning: the word 'mukti-pada' denotes the Lord Himself.

মুক্তি পদে যাঁর, সেই 'মুক্তিপদ' হয়। কিম্বা নবম পদার্থ 'মুক্তির' সমাশ্রয় ॥ ২৭২ ॥

mukti pade yāṁra, sei 'mukti-pada' haya liberation at the feet whose He "mukti-pada" is kimvā navama padārtha 'muktira' samāśraya
or the ninth subject of mukti the shelter

272 He at whose feet liberation lies is 'mukti-pada'; or else it means the shelter of mukti, the ninth subject of the Bhāgavatam.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

He at whose feet mukti resides is mukti-pada — that is, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the "tenth" topic. Or: the ninth topic is mukti, and He who is its shelter is Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

Anubhāṣya.

See Ādi 2.91–92.[35]

দুই-অর্থে 'কৃষ্ণ' কহি, কেনে পাঠ ফিরি। সার্ব্বভৌম কহে, — ও-পাঠ কহিতে না পারি ॥ ২৭৩ ॥

dui-arthe 'kṛṣṇa' kahi, kene pāṭha phiri
in both meanings Kṛṣṇa I say why the reading change sārvabhauma kahe, — o-pāṭha kahite nā pāri Sārvabhauma says that reading to say not I can 273 In both meanings it names Kṛṣṇa, so why change the reading?" Sārvabhauma said, "I cannot bring myself to say that reading.

*Yet Sārvabhauma rejects the word mukti, meaning sāyujya, and prefers the word bhakti —*

যদ্যপি তোমার অর্থ এই শব্দে কয়। তথাপি 'আশ্লিষ্য-দোষে' কহন না যায় ॥ ২৭৪ ॥

yadyapi tomāra artha ei śabde kaya although Your meaning this word expresses tathāpi 'āśliṣya-doṣe' kahana nā yāya
still by the fault of ambiguity saying not is possible

274 Although this word does convey Your meaning, still, because of the fault of ambiguity (āśliṣya-doṣa), it cannot be said.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Āśliṣya-doṣa — the defect in which a word can be understood in two ways, so that its primary meaning suffers somewhat.

যদ্যপি 'মুক্তি'-শব্দের হয় পঞ্চ বৃত্তি ।
'রূঢ়িবৃত্ত্যে' কহে তবু 'সাযুজ্যে' প্রতীতি ॥ ২৭৫ ॥

yadyapi 'mukti'-śabdera haya pañca vṛtti
although of the word "mukti" there are five senses
'rūḍhi-vṛttye' kahe tabu 'sāyujye' pratīti
by conventional usage it says still sāyujya the sense

275 Although the word 'mukti' has five senses, in its conventional usage (rūḍhi-vṛtti) it still conveys sāyujya.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Rūḍhi-vṛtti — the primary meaning (mukhya-vṛtti).

Thus ends the sixth chapter of the "Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya."

মুক্তি-শব্দ কহিতে মনে হয় ঘৃণা-ত্রাস । ভক্তি-শব্দ কহিতে মনে হয় ত' উল্লাস ॥ ২৭৬ ॥

mukti-śabda kahite mane haya ghṛṇā-trāsa
the word "mukti" saying in the mind there is disgust and dread bhakti-śabda kahite mane haya ta' ullāsa
the word "bhakti" saying in the mind there is indeed delight

276 When I say the word 'mukti', my mind feels disgust and dread; when I say the word 'bhakti', it fills with delight."

The Lord rejoices to see Sārvabhauma's selfless devotion —

শুনিয়া হাসেন প্রভু আনন্দিত-মনে । ভট্টাচার্য্যে কৈল প্রভু দৃঢ় আলিঙ্গনে ॥ ২৭৭ ॥

śuniyā hāsena prabhu ānandita-mane hearing laughs the Lord joyful at heart bhaṭṭācārye kaila prabhu dṛḍha āliṅgane
the Bhaṭṭācārya made the Lord a firm embrace

277 Hearing this, the Lord laughed, joyful at heart, and embraced the Bhaṭṭācārya firmly.

The author glorifies the mercy of Kṛṣṇa Caitanya —

যেই ভট্টাচার্য্য পড়ে পড়ায় মায়াবাদে । তাঁর ঐছে বাক্য স্ফুরে চৈতন্য-প্রসাদে ॥ ২৭৮ ॥

yei bhaṭṭācārya paḍe paḍāya māyāvāde which Bhaṭṭācārya studies teaches Māyāvāda
tāṁra aiche vākya sphure caitanya-prasāde
his such words manifest by Caitanya's grace

278 The Bhaṭṭācārya had once studied and taught Māyāvāda, yet by Caitanya's grace such words now sprang from his lips.

"It is known by its fruit" —

লোহাকে যাবৎ স্পর্শি' হেম নাহি করে । তাবৎ স্পর্শমণি কেহ চিনিতে না পারে ॥ ২৭৯ ॥

lohāke yāvat sparśi' hema nāhi kare iron as long as touching gold not it makes tāvat sparśa-maṇi keha cinite nā pāre
so long the touchstone anyone to recognise not can 279 Until a touchstone turns iron into gold by its touch, no one can recognise it as a touchstone.

Everyone is convinced that the Lord is "the Supreme Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa" —

ভট্টাচার্য্যের বৈষ্ণবতা দেখি' সর্ব্বজন ।
প্রভুকে জানিল — 'সাক্ষাৎ ব্রজেন্দ্রনন্দন' ॥ ২৮০ ॥

bhaṭṭācāryera vaiṣṇavatā dekhi' sarva-jana
the Bhaṭṭācārya's Vaiṣṇavism seeing all the people prabhuke jānila — 'sākṣāt vrajendra-nandana'
the Lord they knew directly the son of the king of Vraja

280 Seeing the Bhaṭṭācārya become a Vaiṣṇava, everyone knew the Lord to be the son of the king of Vraja Himself.

Kāśī Miśra and others surrender at the Lord's feet —

কাশীমিশ্র-আদি যত নীলাচলবাসী । শরণ লইল সবে প্রভু-পদে আসি' ॥ ২৮১ ॥

kāśī-miśra-ādi yata nīlācala-vāsī Kāśī Miśra and the others all residents of Nīlācala śaraṇa la-ila sabe prabhu-pade āsi' shelter took all at the Lord's feet coming

281 Kāśī Miśra and all the other residents of Nīlācala came and took shelter at the Lord's feet.

Next, the Lord's travels in South India —

সেই সব কথা আগে করিব বর্ণন । এবে কহি প্রভুর দক্ষিণ-যাত্রা-বিবরণ ॥ ২৮২ ॥

sei saba kathā āge kariba varṇana
those all matters later I shall make description
ebe kahi prabhura dakṣiṇa-yātrā-vivaraṇa
now I tell the Lord's of the southern journey the account

282 All this I shall describe later; now I tell the story of the Lord's journey to the south.

Sārvabhauma's service to the Lord will be described later —

সার্ব্বভৌম করে যৈছে প্রভুর সেবন । যৈছে পরিপাটী করে ভিক্ষা-নির্ব্বাহণ ॥ ২৮৩ ॥

sārvabhauma kare yaiche prabhura sevana Sārvabhauma does how the Lord's service
yaiche paripāṭī kare bhikṣā-nirvāhaṇa
how splendidly he does of meals arranging

283 How Sārvabhauma served the Lord, and how splendidly he arranged His meals —

*Hearing the conversation of Sārvabhauma and Caitanya gives selfless devotion — this is not a mere phala-śruti (promise of reward) of the karma-kāṇḍa kind —*

বিস্তারিয়া আগে তাহা করিব বর্ণন ।
এই মহাপ্রভুর লীলা, সার্ব্বভৌম-মিলন ॥ ২৮৪ ॥

ইহা যেই শ্রদ্ধা করি' করয়ে শ্রবণ । জ্ঞান-কর্ম্মপাশ হৈতে হয় বিমোচন ॥ ২৮৫ ॥

vistāriyā āge tāhā kariba varṇana
in detail later that I shall make description
ei mahāprabhura līlā, sārvabhauma-milana
this Mahāprabhu's pastime the meeting with Sārvabhauma
ihā yei śraddhā kari' karaye śravaṇa
this whoever faith having does hearing jñāna-karma-pāśa haite haya vimocana
of jñāna and karma the snare from there is release

284–285 all this I shall describe in detail later. This is Mahāprabhu's pastime of meeting with Sārvabhauma; whoever hears it with faith is freed from the snares of jñāna and karma.

Anubhāṣya.
See Madhya, Chapter 15.

Anubhāṣya.

Thus ends the sixth chapter of the “Anubhāṣya.”

শ্রদ্ধায় চৈতন্যলীলা শুনে যেই জন । অচিরে মিলয়ে তাঁরে চৈতন্যচরণ ॥ ২৮৬ ॥

śraddhāya caitanya-līlā śune yei jana with faith Caitanya’s pastimes hears who person
acire milaye tāṁre caitanya-caraṇa
soon are attained by him Caitanya’s feet

286 Whoever hears Caitanya’s pastimes with faith soon attains His feet.

শ্রীরূপ-রঘুনাথ-পদে যার আশ । চৈতন্যচরিতামৃত কহে কৃষ্ণদাস ॥ ২৮৭ ॥

śrī rūpa-raghunātha-pade yāra āśa Śrī Rūpa’s, Raghunātha’s at the feet whose hope caitanya-caritāmṛta kahe kṛṣṇadāsa
“Caitanya-caritāmṛta” narrates Kṛṣṇadāsa

287 Praying at the feet of Śrī Rūpa and Śrī Raghunātha, I, Kṛṣṇadāsa, narrate the Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

Notes

1. The same verse as Madhya 4.2 (the refrain of Ādi 4.2 with gauracandra in the first line); translation as there. ↩
2. The prayer of Brahmā. ↩
3. So according to the Anubhāṣya: you have seen Bhagavān’s great absorption in love, yet you did not recognise the Lord in this unworldly Person full of love, and you regard even such a pastime of His as māyic, mere worldly behaviour. ↩
4. The same verse as Ādi 3.36; translation as there. The words of Garga Muni to Nanda Mahārāja. ↩
5. The same verse as Ādi 3.51; translation as there. ↩

6. The same verse as Ādi 3.49; translation as there. ↩
7. Tāṁra mandire — “to his house”; heading in the edition: “After seeing Jagannātha together with Sārvabhauma, the Lord goes to his house”. ↩
8. The reference follows the heading in the edition: “words of the Hayaśīrṣa-pañcarātra, quoted in the sixth act of the Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka as its twenty-first verse”. ↩
9. The verse is Ādi 7.119; the translation follows it. ↩
10. The verse is Ādi 4.63; the translation follows it. Here the second quarter reads sarva-saṁśraye (“the shelter of all”), in Ādi 4.63 sarva-saṁsthitau (“the basis of all”); the sense is the same. ↩
11. Compare Ādi 4.62. ↩
12. The verse is Ādi 7.118; the translation follows it. ↩
13. Compare Ādi 7.146. ↩
14. Some editions read veda-vākye karena lakṣaṇā (“he gives the self-evident words of the Veda an indirect reading”); the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition has veda-vākye nā kariye lakṣaṇā, and the translation follows it. ↩
15. The reference follows the heading in the edition. ↩
16. The source follows the heading in the edition above verse 225. ↩
17. The last line follows the Anubhāṣya: eṣām — those who have surrendered have no thought of “I” and “mine” for the body, fit only to be eaten by animals. ↩
18. The verse is Ādi 7.76 and 17.21; the translation follows it. ↩
19. In some editions the order is karaha yāñā; the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition has yāñā karaha. ↩
20. In the Bhāgavatam the last words read mukti-pade; here the verse is given as Sārvabhauma recited it, with bhakti-pade (verses 260, 262). ↩
21. The verse is Ādi 4.207 (there sārṣṭi; here the edition prints sāṣṭi); the translation follows it. ↩
22. So in the edition (svabhāva, “nature”); the sense would also allow abhāva, “the absence [of mercy].” ↩
23. The edition numbers this section “150–253” (checked against the scan) — a misprint; by content it is 150–153. ↩
24. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 12.3.52. ↩
25. Yoga-sūtra 1.24. ↩
26. Yoga-sūtra 1.26. ↩
27. Yoga-sūtra 4.34 (the edition omits the word guṇānām, “of the guṇas”). ↩
28. In the numbering of our translation, Madhya 24.283. ↩

29. In the edition the gloss ends with tat mattaḥ; the verse's word śṛṇu (hear) is not glossed. ↩
30. Śaṅkara's Kaupīna-pañcaka, 1. ↩
31. Unclear in the scan: প্রাগ্বন্ধযুগে (?); translated by the sense. ↩
32. The edition has ādi-mahākāvya (“the primeval great poem”) — apparently a misprint for mahā-vākya, as in verse 174 (checked against the scan). ↩
33. In the edition's numbering; in our translation, Madhya 24.107–111. ↩
34. In the edition's numbering; in our verse translation the numbering of Madhya 24 is shifted in places (cf. the note to section 198). ↩
35. The edition numbers this section “202” (checked against the scan) — a misprint; by position and content it is 272. ↩