“Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta”

Madhya-līlā

Chapter 1

A Brief Description of the Madhya-līlā

(English translation from the Bengali, following the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition and the «Anubhāṣya», 2026 — draft)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. This chapter gives the sūtras (brief notes) of the whole of Mahāprabhu's Madhya-līlā and of His pastimes in the first six years of the Śeṣa-līlā. By reciting the verse “yaḥ kaumāra-haraḥ,” Mahāprabhu expressed the mood that had seized Him. Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī made that mood clear in his verse “so 'yaṁ kṛṣṇaḥ,” and for this reason Mahāprabhu showed Rūpa special mercy. This chapter names the books written by Rūpa, Sanātana and Jīva Gosvāmī. In the village of Rāmakeli, Mahāprabhu bestowed His mercy on Rūpa and Sanātana.

By Gaura's mercy even the ignorant become knowledgeable — sa śrī-caitanya-devo me that Śrī Caitanyadeva to me

bhagavān saṁprasīdatu
the Lord may He be fully gracious

1 May the Lord Śrī Caitanyadeva be fully gracious to me — He by whose grace even an ignorant person at once becomes all-knowing.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
May that Lord Caitanyadeva be pleased with me, by whose mercy even an ignorant person at once attains omniscience.

Anubhāṣya.
yasya (of Śrī Caitanyadeva) prasādāt (by compassion) ajñaḥ (the ignorant) api sadyaḥ sarva-jñatāṁ vrajet (becomes expert in all subjects), sa (the Lord Śrī Caitanyadeva) me (toward me) saṁprasīdatu (may He be fully pleased).

*The main events were described earlier, together with the sūtras of the Ādi-līlā —*

earlier I told of the Ādi-līlā the sūtras

which has described in full Vṛndāvana dāsa

8 Earlier I told the sūtras (brief threads) of the Ādi-līlā, which Vṛndāvana dāsa has described in full.

অতএব তার আমি সূত্রমাত্র কৈল । যে কিছু বিশেষ, সূত্রমধ্যেই কহিল ॥ ৯ ॥

therefore of it I only the sūtras made ye kichu viśeṣa, sūtra-madhyei kahila whatever something particular within the sūtras themselves I told

9 Therefore I gave only the sūtras of it; whatever particulars there were, I told within the sūtras themselves.

*The description of the main sūtras of the Śeṣa-līlā begins —*

এবে কহি শেষ লীলার মুখ্য সূত্রগণ ।

10 Now I shall tell the main sūtras of the final pastimes (Śeṣa-līlā). The Lord's pastimes are endless; they cannot be fully described.

*The promise to give in the form of sūtras the events described in detail in the Caitanya-bhāgavata, and to describe in detail the main events that it describes briefly —*

in the Caitanya-maṅgala in detail made a description

11 Of these, the portion that Vṛndāvana dāsa described in detail in his Caitanya-maṅgala —

Anubhāṣya.

It is known that until the time the Caitanya-caritāmṛta was composed, Śrī Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura's Caitanya-bhāgavata was called Caitanya-maṅgala. But the book cited as Jayānanda's Caitanya-maṅgala — a very recent work, opposed to the conclusions of bhakti — is a forgery. In no ancient book do we find that book, or even the name of its author, "Jayānanda." For this reason it is also easy to see that the name "Jayānanda" itself is fabricated.

12 — of that portion I shall write here only the sūtras, and whatever special things were told there only in passing I shall describe here in full.

Constant homage to Ṭhākura Vṛndāvana —

by his order I do his remnants chewing 13 Vṛndāvana dāsa is the Vyāsa of Śrī Caitanya's pastimes. By his order I merely partake of the remnants of his meal.[5]

Anubhāṣya.

The Vyāsa of Caitanya's pastimes. Śrī Kṛṣṇa Dvaipāyana Vyāsa wrote of the Lord's avatāras and of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's pastimes. Śrīla Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, who wrote of Śrī Caitanya's pastimes, is Śrī Vyāsa himself (vyāsa-svarūpa). Śrī Kṛṣṇadāsa writes of Caitanya's pastimes to describe also those that Vṛndāvana dāsa left undescribed — as his servant, his ward (pālya), and his follower.

ভক্তি করি' শিরে ধরি তাঁহার চরণ ।

of the final pastimes the sūtras now I make description

14 With devotion I hold his feet upon my head, and now I describe the sūtras of the final pastimes.

*The description of the sūtras of the Śeṣa-līlā begins. The first 24 years, when* the Lord enacted the life of a householder, are the "Ādi-līlā" —

চব্বিশ বৎসর প্রভুর গৃহে অবস্থান । তাহাঁ যে করিলা লীলা — 'আদি-লীলা' নাম ॥ ১৫ ॥

cabbiśa vatsara prabhura gṛhe avasthāna twenty-four years the Lord's at home stay tāhāṁ ye karilā līlā — 'ādi-līlā' nāma
there which He performed pastimes Ādi-līlā the name

15 For twenty-four years the Lord lived at home; the pastimes He showed there are known as the Ādi-līlā.

*The second 24 years, when He enacted the life of a sannyāsī, are the "Śeṣa-līlā" —*

চব্বিশ বৎসর শেষ যেই মাঘমাস । তার শুক্লপক্ষে প্রভু করিলা সন্ন্যাস ॥ ১৬ ॥

cabbiśa vatsara śeṣa yei māgha-māsa of the twenty-fourth year at the end which the month of Māgha
tāra śukla-pakṣe prabhu karilā sannyāsa
in its bright fortnight the Lord took sannyāsa

16 At the close of His twenty-fourth year, in the bright fortnight of the month of Māgha, the Lord accepted sannyāsa.

সন্ন্যাস করিয়া চব্বিশ বৎসর অবস্থান । তাঁহা যেই লীলা, তার 'শেষলীলা' নাম ॥ ১৭ ॥

sannyāsa kariyā cabbiśa vatsara avasthāna sannyāsa having taken twenty-four years stay tāṁhā yei līlā, tāra 'śeṣa-līlā' nāma
there which pastimes their Śeṣa-līlā name

17 After taking sannyāsa He remained for twenty-four years; the pastimes of that time are called the Śeṣa-līlā.

The Śeṣa-līlā divides into Madhya and Antya —

শেষলীলার 'মধ্য', 'অন্ত', — দুই নাম হয় । লীলাভেদে বৈষ্ণব সব নাম-ভেদ কয় ॥ ১৮ ॥

śeṣa-līlāra 'madhya' 'anta', — dui nāma haya of the Śeṣa-līlā 'Madhya' 'Anta' two names there are līlā-bhede vaiṣṇava saba nāma-bheda kaya
by the difference of pastimes Vaiṣṇavas all difference of names speak

18 The Śeṣa-līlā has two names, 'Madhya' (middle) and 'Anta' (final): the Vaiṣṇavas name it differently according to the difference in its pastimes.

The first 6 of the last 24 years are the Madhya-līlā, preaching throughout India —

তার মধ্যে ছয় বৎসর — গমনাগমন । নীলাচল-গৌড় সেতুবন্ধ-বৃন্দাবন ॥ ১৯ ॥

tāra madhye chaya vatsara — gamanāgamana of them within six years — going and coming nīlācala-gauḍa-setubandha-vṛndāvana
Nīlācala Gauḍa Setubandha Vṛndāvana

19 Six of those years He spent journeying to and fro — from Nīlācala to Gauḍa, to Setubandha, to Vṛndāvana, and back again.[6]

*The last 18 years are the Antya-līlā, relishing (āsvādana) —*

তাঁহা যেই লীলা, তার 'মধ্যলীলা' নাম । তার পাছে লীলা — 'অন্ত্যলীলা' অভিধান ॥ ২০ ॥

tāṁhā yei līlā, tāra 'madhya-līlā' nāma
there which pastimes their Madhya-līlā name tāra pāche līlā — 'antya-līlā' abhidhāna
after that the pastimes Antya-līlā the designation

20 The pastimes of that period are called the Madhya-līlā; the pastimes after it are named the Antya-līlā.

‘আদিলীলা’, ‘মধ্যলীলা’, ‘অন্ত্যলীলা’ আর ।
এবে ‘মধ্যলীলা’ কিছু করিয়ে বিস্তার ॥ ২১ ॥

‘ādi-līlā’, ‘madhya-līlā’, ‘antya-līlā’ āra Ādi-līlā Madhya-līlā Antya-līlā and ebe ‘madhya-līlā’ kichu kariye vistāra
now the Madhya-līlā somewhat I make expansion

21 Thus there are the Ādi-līlā, the Madhya-līlā and the Antya-līlā. Now I shall expand somewhat on the Madhya-līlā.

*Of these 18 years, the first six are spent in the company of devotees, and He acts as an ācārya in Purī —*

অষ্টাদশবর্ষ কেবল নীলাচলে স্থিতি । আপনি আচরি’ জীবে শিখাইল ভক্তি ॥ ২২ ॥

aṣṭādaśa-varṣa kevala nīlācale sthiti eighteen years only at Nīlācala residence
āpani ācari’ jīve śikhāila bhakti
Himself practising the living beings He taught devotion

22 For eighteen years He stayed only at Nīlācala. Practising devotion Himself, He taught it to the living beings.

তার মধ্যে ছয় বৎসর ভক্তগণ-সঙ্গে । প্রেমভক্তি প্রবর্ত্তাইল নৃত্যগীতরঙ্গে ॥ ২৩ ॥

tāra madhye chaya vatsara bhakta-gaṇa-saṅge of them within six years with the devotees
prema-bhakti pravartāila nṛtya-gīta-raṅge loving devotion He spread of dancing and singing in the joy

23 For six of those years, in the joy of dancing and singing with His devotees, He spread loving devotion (prema-bhakti).[7]

The preachers: (1) Nityānanda preaches in Gauḍa-maṇḍala with His associates —

নিত্যানন্দ-গোসাঞিরে পাঠাইল গৌড়দেশে । তিঁহো গৌড়দেশ ভাসাইল প্রেমরসে ॥ ২৪ ॥

nityānanda-gosāñire pāṭhāila gauḍa-deśe Nityānanda Gosāñi He sent to the land of Gauḍa
tiṁho gauḍa-deśa bhāsāila prema-rase
He the land of Gauḍa flooded with the nectar of love

24 He sent Nityānanda Gosāñi to Gauḍa, and Nityānanda flooded the whole land with the nectar of love.

A flood of love for Kṛṣṇa inundates Gauḍa —

সহজেই নিত্যানন্দ — কৃষ্ণপ্রেমোদ্দাম । প্রভু-আজ্ঞায় কৈল যাহাঁ তাঁহা প্রেমদান ॥ ২৫ ॥

sahajei nityānanda — kṛṣṇa-premoddāma
by nature Nityānanda in love for Kṛṣṇa unrestrained prabhu-ājñāya kaila yāhāṁ tāṁhā prema-dāna
by the Lord's order He made here and there the gift of love

25 Nityānanda is by nature unrestrained in love for Kṛṣṇa, and by the Lord's order He gave that love away everywhere.

Obeisance to Nityānanda, and a description of His qualities —

তাঁহার চরণে মোর কোটি নমস্কার । চৈতন্যের প্রিয় যিঁহো লওয়াইল সংসার ॥ ২৬ ॥

tāṁhāra caraṇe mora koṭi namaskāra at His feet my millions of obeisances caitanyera priya yiṁho laoyāila saṁsāra to Caitanya dear He who made accept the world

26 I offer millions of obeisances at the feet of Him who is dear to Caitanya and who made the whole world accept Him.[8]

*Though Nitāi is Gaurāṅga's "honored brother" and Himself belongs to the truth of the Lord (prabhu-tattva), He regards Himself as Gaura's servant —*

চৈতন্য-গোসাঞি যাঁরে বলে 'বড় ভাই' । তেঁহো কহে, মোর প্রভু — চৈতন্য গোসাঞি ॥ ২৭ ॥

caitanya-gosāñi yāṁre bale 'baḍa bhāi' Caitanya Gosāñi whom calls elder brother teṁho kahe, mora prabhu — caitanya-gosāñi
He says my Lord is Caitanya Gosāñi

27 He whom Caitanya Gosāñi calls His "elder brother" says, "My Lord is Caitanya Gosāñi."

যদ্যপি আপনি হয়ে প্রভু বলরাম । তথাপি চৈতন্যের করে দাস-অভিমান ॥ ২৮ ॥

yadyapi āpani haye prabhu balarāma
although Himself is the Lord Balarāma tathāpi caitanyera kare dāsa-abhimāna still of Caitanya He holds of a servant the self-conception

28 Although He Himself is Lord Balarāma, He still regards Himself as Caitanya's servant.

*Giving up the service and enjoyment of the non-living (acit), the jīva finds eternal bliss only in the service of the eternal Lord of the spirit (cit) —*

'চৈতন্য' সেব, 'চৈতন্য' গাও, লও 'চৈতন্য'-নাম ।
'চৈতন্যে' যে ভক্তি করে' সেই মোর প্রাণ ॥ ২৯ ॥

'caitanya' seva, 'caitanya' gāo, lao 'caitanya'-nāma
Caitanya serve Caitanya sing of take Caitanya's name
'caitanye' ye bhakti kare' sei mora prāṇa
to Caitanya who devotion shows he My life

29 He would say: "Serve Caitanya! Sing of Caitanya! Take Caitanya's name! Whoever is devoted to Caitanya is My very life."

*Everyone, down to the humblest, He engages in the service of the all-pervading spirit (cit) and delivers —*

এই মত লোকে চৈতন্য-ভক্তি লওয়াইল । দীনহীন, নিন্দক, সবারে নিস্তারিল ॥ ৩০ ॥

ei mata loke caitanya-bhakti laoyāila thus people devotion to Caitanya He made take up dīna-hīna, nindaka, sabāre nistārila
the wretched the lowly the blasphemers all He delivered

30 In this way He made people take up devotion to Caitanya and delivered everyone — the wretched, the lowly and even blasphemers.

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 6.50 and 51.

(2) The preaching of Śrī Rūpa and Sanātana in Mathurā-maṇḍala —

তবে প্রভু ব্রজে পাঠাইল রূপ-সনাতন । প্রভু-আজ্ঞায় দুই ভাই আইলা বৃন্দাবন ॥ ৩১ ॥

tabe prabhu vraje pāṭhāila rūpa-sanātana
then the Lord to Vraja sent Rūpa and Sanātana prabhu-ājñāya dui bhāi āilā vṛndāvana
by the Lord's order the two brothers came to Vṛndāvana

31 Then the Lord sent Rūpa and Sanātana to Vraja, and by His order the two brothers came to Vṛndāvana.

*(a) the preaching of pure bhakti, (b) the recovery of lost tīrthas, (c) the propagation of the Deity (śrī-mūrti) by founding maṭhas and the like —*

ভক্তি প্রচারিয়ে সর্ব্বতীর্থ প্রকাশিল । মদনগোপাল-গোবিন্দের সেবা প্রচারিল ॥ ৩২ ॥

bhakti pracāriye sarva-tīrtha prakāśila devotion preaching all the holy places they revealed madana-gopāla-govindera sevā pracārila of Madana-gopāla and Govinda the service they spread

32 Preaching devotion, they revealed all the holy places and spread the service of Madana-gopāla and Govinda.

Anubhāṣya.
Bhakti is spread through service that is not of this world, and through it the tīrthas (holy places) are revealed in their true nature. But when, in the guise of feigned bāul-like immorality, people strive to settle carefree in a holy place for the gratification of the senses, the tīrtha of Vaikuṇṭha does not appear. That is nothing but a play of māyā.

*(d) the preaching of the sātvata-śāstras, (e) the deliverance of the fallen —*

নানা শাস্ত্র আনি' কৈল ভক্তিগ্রন্থ সার । মূঢ় অধম জনেরে তিঁহো করিলা নিস্তার ॥ ৩৩ ॥

nānā śāstra āni' kaila bhakti-grantha sāra various scriptures gathering they made books of devotion the essence mūḍha adhama-janere tiṁho karilā nistāra foolish fallen people they made deliverance

33 Gathering many scriptures, they composed books of devotion that are their essence, and so delivered foolish and fallen people.

*The resolution of all the scriptures, and the preaching of the rāga-bhakti of transcendental Vraja —*

প্রভু আজ্ঞায় কৈল সব শাস্ত্রের বিচার । ব্রজের নিগূঢ় ভক্তি করিল প্রচার ॥ ৩৪ ॥

prabhu ājñāya kaila saba śāstrera vicāra
the Lord's by order they made of all the scriptures study vrajera nigūḍha bhakti karila pracāra of Vraja the confidential devotion they made preaching

34 By the Lord's order they examined all the scriptures and preached the confidential devotion of Vraja.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Nigūḍha-bhakti (confidential devotion) — another reading: nigūḍha-rasa (confidential rasa).

Anubhāṣya.

The prākṛta-sahajiyās drown the true service of the Lord in artificial tears and abandon scriptural inquiry, and thereby the Lord's command is transgressed. The confidential service of Vraja is spread only through the scriptures; otherwise sense-oriented thinking about enjoyment comes in and endangers the conclusions of bhakti.

The four books of Śrī Sanātana —

হরিভক্তিবিলাস, আর ভাগবতামৃত । দশম-টিপ্পনী, আর দশম-চরিত ॥ ৩৫ ॥

hari-bhakti-vilāsa, āra bhāgavatāmṛta Hari-bhakti-vilāsa and Bhāgavatāmṛta
daśama-ṭippanī, āra daśama-carita
Daśama-ṭippanī and Daśama-carita

35 Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, Bhāgavatāmṛta, Daśama-ṭippanī and Daśama-carita —

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Bhāgavatāmṛta — the Bṛhad-bhāgavatāmṛta. Daśama-ṭippanī — the commentary on the Tenth Canto called Bṛhad-vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī. Daśama-carita — the account of Kṛṣṇa's pastimes described in the Tenth Canto.

Anubhāṣya.

See Madhya 24.331–347.

Śrīla Kavirāja Gosvāmī describes, in the twenty-fourth chapter of the Madhya-līlā, the portion of the Hari-bhakti-vilāsa that Śrīmad Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī Prabhu compiled. In the present book compiled by Gopāla Bhaṭṭa the full flowering of Vaiṣṇava smṛti is not seen. At the command of Śrī Gaurasundara, only selected portions of Śrī Sanātana Gosvāmī's vast collection of smṛti, suited to that time, were strung together in it. Only when the Vaiṣṇava-smṛti-kalpadruma — that is, Śrī Sanātana's Śrī Hari-bhakti-vilāsa — is published will every need of the Vaiṣṇava community for guidance in daily life be met. Śrī Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī Prabhu's Bhakti-vilāsa is only a brief rendering of the Śrī Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, and so, with the smārtas dominant, this book cannot resolve all practical matters. Śrī Sanātana Gosvāmī himself wrote the commentary Digdarśinī on the Hari-bhakti-vilāsa he had compiled. A portion of that commentary is now published as a commentary on the present Bhakti-vilāsa, and some present it as a Digdarśinī compiled by Śrī Gopīnātha Pūjādhikārī. This Śrī Gopīnātha was one of the disciples of Śrīmad Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī Prabhu, who was engaged in the service of Śrī Rādhā-ramaṇa in Vṛndāvana.

Bṛhad-bhāgavatāmṛta is a book in two parts (khaṇḍas), full of the conclusions about devotion to Bhagavān. The first part is called Bhagavat-kṛpā-bhara-nirdhāra. It has seven chapters: Bhauma, Divya, Brahmaloka and Vaikuṇṭha, Bhakta, Priya, Priyatama and Pūrṇa. The second part is called Goloka-māhātmya-nirūpaṇa. It has seven chapters: Vairāgya, Jñāna, Bhakti, Vaikuṇṭha, Prema, Abhīṣṭa-lābha and Jagadānanda. The book is complete in fourteen chapters in all.

Daśama-ṭippanī is the commentary on the Tenth Canto of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, also known by its own famous name, the Bṛhad-vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī. The Bhakti-ratnākara, first wave, says: “In 1476 the Bṛhat (Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī) was completed, and in Śaka 1504 the Laghu (Toṣaṇī) was well approved.” See the Anubhāṣya on Ādi 10.84 and the Bhakti-ratnākara, first wave: “The four books of Sanātana Gosvāmī.”

Anubhāṣya.

Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu is a work that gathers everything related to kṛṣṇa-bhakti and bhakti-rasa. It was composed in Śaka 1463. It has four divisions (vibhāgas): eastern, southern, western and northern. The eastern division is called Sthāyi-bhāvotpādana; it contains four laharīs (waves): general bhakti, sādhana-bhakti, bhāva-bhakti and prema-bhakti. The southern division is called Bhakti-rasa-sāmānya-nirūpaṇa; it contains five laharīs: vibhāva, anubhāva, sāttvika, vyabhicārī and sthāyi-bhāva. The western division is called Mukhya-bhakti-rasa-nirūpaṇa; it contains five laharīs: śānta, prīti-bhakti-rasa or dāsya, preyo-bhakti-rasa or sakhya, vātsalya-bhakti-rasa and madhura-bhakti-rasa. The northern division is called Gauṇa-bhakti-rasādi-nirūpaṇa; it contains nine laharīs: hāsya-bhakti-rasa, adbhuta-bhakti-rasa, vīra-bhakti-rasa, karuṇa-bhakti-rasa, raudra-bhakti-rasa, bhayānaka-bhakti-rasa, bībhatsa-bhakti-rasa, maitrī-vairasthiti (the friendly and hostile relations among the rasas) and rasābhāsa.

Vidagdha-mādhava is a drama about Śrī Kṛṣṇa's pastimes in Vraja. This book was composed in Śaka 1454. The first act is called Veṇu-nāda-vilāsa, the second Manmatha-lekha, the third Rādhā-saṅga, the fourth Veṇu-haraṇa, the fifth Rādhā-prasādana, the sixth Śarad-vihāra and the seventh Gaurī-vihāra. It is a drama in seven acts.

Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi is a book of poetics (alaṅkāra-grantha) on the transcendental sweet rasa of Vraja. The second verse says: “The madhura rasa, the king of bhakti-rasas, which was stated earlier only briefly among the principal rasas because of its great secrecy, is described here separately and in detail.”

That is: in the Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu the madhura-rasa is described briefly, because it is the most confidential of the principal rasas, śānta and the rest; in this Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi only the madhura-rasa, the king of bhakti-rasas, is taken up separately. Here are described the kinds of heroes, the kinds of helpers, Kṛṣṇa's beloveds, Śrī Rādhikā, the kinds of heroines, the kinds of leaders of groups (yūtheśvarī), the kinds of messengers, the sakhīs, Hari's beloveds, uddīpana, anubhāva, udbhāsvara, the sāttvika and vyabhicārī moods, sthāyi-bhāva, vipralambha as one of the kinds of śṛṅgāra, pūrva-rāga, māna, prema-vaicittya, pravāsa, the states of union and separation, sambhoga (primary and secondary), and other subjects.

Lalita-mādhava is a drama about Śrī Kṛṣṇa's pastimes in Dvārakā. This book was composed in Śaka 1459. The first act is called Sāyaṁ-utsava, the second Śaṅkhacūḍa-vadha, the third Unmattā Rādhikā, the fourth Rādhikābhisāra, the fifth Candrāvalī-lābha, the sixth Lalitā-prāpti, the seventh Nava-vṛndāvana-saṅgama, the eighth Nava-vṛndāvana-vihāra, the ninth Citra-darśana and the tenth Pūrṇa-manoratha. It is a drama in ten acts.

sarvatra karila vraja-vilāsa varṇana
everywhere he made of Vraja's pastimes description

41 Who can count Laghu-bhāgavatāmṛta and the rest? Everywhere in them he described the pastimes of Vraja.

Anubhāṣya.

Laghu-bhāgavatāmṛta is divided into two parts, the Kṛṣṇāmṛta and the Bhaktāmṛta. The first part describes: the supremacy of the spoken word (śabda) as a means of knowledge; then, first of all, Śrī Kṛṣṇa in His original form (svayaṁ-rūpa); His forms, not different from Him in essence but distinguished as vilāsa, svāṁśa and āveśa; the threefold avatāra (the three puruṣa-avatāras); the transcendence of Viṣṇu and of devotion to Viṣṇu among the three guṇa-avatāras; the 25 līlā-avatāras (the four Kumāras, Nārada, Varāha, Matsya, Yajña, the sage Nara-Nārāyaṇa, Kapila who accepts Īśvara (seśvara), Dattātreya, Hayagrīva, Haṁsa, Pṛśnigarbha, Ṛṣabha, Pṛthu, Nṛsiṁha, Kūrma, Dhanvantari, Mohinī, Vāmana, Paraśurāma, Dāśarathi, Kṛṣṇa Dvaipāyana, Balarāma or Śeṣa-Saṅkarṣaṇa, Vāsudeva, Buddha and Kalki); the 14 manvantara-avatāras (Yajña, Vibhu, Satyasena, Hari, Vaikuṇṭha, Ajita, Vāmana, Sārvabhauma, Ṛṣabha, Viṣvaksena, Dharmasetu, Sudhāmā, Yogeśvara, Bṛhadbhānu); the four yuga-avatāras (of white, red, dark and black color); the various kalpas and their avatāras; and the examination of the avatāras as they stand in four states: āveśa, prābhava, vaibhava and para. Next are described the variety in the glory of the Lord's name in different pastimes; the examination of śakti and the possessor of śakti; the inconceivable harmony of the mutually opposed qualities of Bhagavān; that Śrī Kṛṣṇa is Bhagavān Himself, His supremacy (paratamya), that He is the source of the avatāras (avatārin), the possessor of the parts (aṁśin) and the Lord of lords; that impersonal Brahman is Śrī Kṛṣṇa's radiance; the sweetness and unsurpassed nature of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's two-armed human pastimes; the refutation of any difference between body and embodied in the transcendental things of Vaikuṇṭha; Śrī Kṛṣṇa's unborn nature, the beginninglessness of His appearance, and the absence of contradiction between the two; the eternity of the pastimes, the two kinds of pastimes, manifest and unmanifest, the variety of rasa in the manifest pastimes, the eternity of the pastimes of Vraja, Mathurā and Dvārakā, and the examination of the various abodes and their glory; the variety of sweetness in the stages of age — childhood (bālya), boyhood (paugaṇḍa), youth (kaiśora) and young manhood (yuvā) — and finally the four kinds of sweetness (aiśvarya, krīḍā, veṇu and śrī-vigraha). The second part describes: the need to worship devotees; the gradation of devotees according to the gradation of bhajana; Prahlāda, the Pāṇḍavas, the Yādavas, Uddhava and the maidens of Vraja, and above all Śrīmatī Rādhikā; and the glory of Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa.

43 In his extensive work, the Śrī Bhāgavata-sandarbha, he has written the essence of the conclusions of devotion.[9]

Anubhāṣya.

Bhāgavata-sandarbha, also called the Ṣaṭ-sandarbha. In the first, the Tattva-sandarbha: the supremacy of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam over all other means of knowledge (pramāṇas) and the explanation of tattva. In the second, the Bhagavat-sandarbha: the examination of Brahman and Paramātmā; the description of Vaikuṇṭha and pure sattva (viśuddha-sattva); that the svarūpa possesses His own śaktis and is the shelter of opposed potencies; the establishment of the inconceivability and multiplicity of śakti; the division of internal (antaraṅga) and other śaktis; māyā-śakti and svarūpa-śakti; that the qualities are identical with the svarūpa; the eternity of Śrī Vigraha, His all-pervasiveness (vibhūtā), that He is the shelter of all, that He is beyond the gross and the subtle, self-luminous, made of form, qualities and pastimes, transcendental, and by nature perfectly full; that His paraphernalia (paricchada) are parts of His svarūpa; the transcendental nature of Vaikuṇṭha, His associates and the three-quarters manifestation (tri-pād-vibhūti); the difference between Brahman and Bhagavān; fullness in the state of Bhagavān (bhagavattā); that He is the subject of all the Vedas; an exposition of svarūpa-śakti; and that Bhagavān can be reached only through the Vedas and bhakti.

In the third, the Paramātma-sandarbha: Paramātmā and His kinds; the relative rank of the guṇa-avatāras; the jīva, māyā, the world; the establishment of pariṇāma-vāda; the resolution of the question of vivarta; the non-difference of the world from Paramātmā; the reality of the world and the opinion of Śrīdhara Svāmī; the attribution of agency to the nirguṇa Īśvara; the activity of the līlā-avatāras for the sake of devotees; and that, by the six kinds of signs, the purport (tātparya) is Bhagavān alone.

In the fourth, the Kṛṣṇa-sandarbha: that Kṛṣṇa is Bhagavān Himself; Kṛṣṇa's pastimes and qualities; the agency of the puruṣa-avatāras; Śrīdhara Svāmī's agreement; the harmony of all the scriptures in Kṛṣṇa; that Baladeva and others are Mahā-Saṅkarṣaṇa; the examination of the entry of all the portions [of the avatāras] into Kṛṣṇa and their eternal presence in Him; His two-armed form; the description of Goloka; the eternity of Vṛndāvana and the other abodes as Kṛṣṇa's abodes; the identity of Goloka and Vṛndāvana; the eternal status of the Yādavas and the cowherds as Kṛṣṇa's associates; the arrangement of the manifest and unmanifest pastimes; the harmony of the manifest and unmanifest pastimes; Śrī Kṛṣṇa's exceptional abundance of manifestation in Gokula; that the chief queens are svarūpa-śakti; the superiority of the gopīs over them; their names; and Rādhikā's superiority over all.

In the fifth, the Bhakti-sandarbha: that devotion to Bhagavān is directly the abhidheya; the establishment of the truth of bhakti by the method of anvaya and vyatireka; the hearing of all the scriptures; disregard of karma in the anvaya order — through varṇāśrama conduct and the knowledge included in it; the censure of brāhmaṇas who have turned away from Hari; disregard of karma offered to Bhagavān; disregard of yoga; showing the wearisomeness of knowledge and disregarding an independence that rests on some other shelter, whereby reverence for those who belong to Him (tadīya) is established; disregard of all non-devotees; the eternity of bhakti, and its status as abhidheya, even for devotees who are jīvan-mukta and parama-mukta, such as Śiva and others; that bhakti gives all fruits; its nirguṇa nature, self-luminosity and nature of supreme bliss; the special causes of prīti for Bhagavān; the fruit even of bhajanābhāsa; the praise of niṣkāma-bhakti; the renewed establishment of niṣkāma-bhakti according to differences in qualification; that association with sādhus is the root cause; the kinds and special features of mahā-bhāgavatas; the discernment of the "shelter of all" (sarvāśraya-viveka); the definition of jñāna in the enumeration of the kinds of bhakti; the definition of ahaṁ-grahopāsanā; the definition of bhakti; the definition of āropa-siddhā and the rest; surrender in vaidhī-bhakti; service to the guru; discussion of mahā-bhāgavatas; service to them; general service to Vaiṣṇavas; hearing, chanting, remembering, serving the feet, worship, offenses and their remedy, prayer, dāsya, sakhya, self-surrender; the examination of rāgānugā-bhakti, the special features of the worship of Kṛṣṇa, and the order of attaining perfection (siddhi).

In the sixth, the Prīti-sandarbha: the establishment of prīti as the highest goal (parama-puruṣārtha); the difference between saviśeṣa and nirviśeṣa in liberation; the difference between jīvan-mukti and utkrānta-mukti; the superiority of prīti for Bhagavān over all kinds of liberation; the attainment of the highest goal upon direct realization of the Supreme Truth; immediate and gradual liberation (sadya-krama-mukti); jīvan-mukti and utkrānta-mukti described as realization of Brahman and realization of Bhagavān; the twofold nature of realization of Bhagavān, internal and external; its superiority to the realization of Brahman; jīvan-mukti and utkrānta-mukti of external realization; the kinds [of liberation] beginning with sālokya; the superiority of sāmīpya; that bhakti is liberation and worthy of acceptance; the reasoning for this; the intrinsic definition (svarūpa-lakṣaṇa) of prīti; the marginal definition (taṭastha-lakṣaṇa) of prīti, which is beyond the guṇas, and the differences in its appearance; the distinctions among prīti, rati and the rest; the establishment that the kāma of the maidens of Vraja is pure prema; the mixed nature of jñāna-bhakti and the like; the excellence of the prīti of those who identify themselves with the associates (parikara); the difference in the experience of majesty and sweetness; the superiority of the residents of Gokula, and above them the successive superiority of the friends, the parents, the gopīs and Rādhikā; the rasa-nature of imitative acts; the superiority over mundane rasas; the division of ālambana; the division of uddīpana; qualities; the types of heroes, dhīrodātta and the rest; the supreme excellence of sweetness; anubhāva, sañcārī; the fivefold nature of rasa; the sevenfold nature of secondary rasas; rasābhāsa; in śānta, dāsya, praśraya, vātsalya and ujjvala, the kinds of vallabhas (beloveds); sthāyī, sambhoga and the kinds of vipralambha; pūrva-rāga, māna, prema-vaicittya, pravāsa, and the glory of Śrīmatī Rādhikā-devī.

of the eternal pastimes the establishment in which with the rasa of Vraja full 44 In his renowned Gopāla-campū, full of the rasa of Vraja, he established the eternity of Kṛṣṇa's pastimes.

Anubhāṣya.

Śrī Gopāla-campū has two parts, Pūrva and Uttara. The Pūrva-campū has thirty-three pūraṇas (completions) and the Uttara thirty-seven. The Pūrva-campū was written in Śaka 1510. In the Pūrva-campū: pūraṇa 1 — Vṛndāvana and Goloka; 2 — the prologue, the description of the killing of Pūtanā, the going to the houses of the gopīs at Yaśodā's command, the bathing of Rāma and Kṛṣṇa, Snigdhakaṇṭha and Madhukaṇṭha; 3 — Yaśodā's dream; 4 — the birth festival; 5 — the meeting of Nanda and Vasudeva, the killing of Pūtanā; 6 — the autthānika-līlā, the breaking of the cart, the naming; 7 — the killing of Tṛṇāvarta, the eating of earth, childish mischief, stealing; 8 — churning curd, nursing at the breast, breaking the curd pot, binding, the felling of the two arjuna trees (yamalārjuna), Yaśodā's lament; 9 — entering Vṛndāvana; 10 — the killing of Vatsāsura, the killing of Bakāsura, the killing of Vyomāsura; 11 — the killing of Aghāsura, the bewildering of Brahmā; 12 — going to the pasture; 13 — grazing the cows, the subduing of Kāliya; 14 — the killing of Gardabhāsura, Kṛṣṇa's caresses; 15 — the pūrva-rāga of the gopīs; 16 — the killing of Pralambāsura, the swallowing of the forest fire; 17 — the gopīs' efforts directed toward Kṛṣṇa; 18 — the lifting of Govardhana; 19 — Kṛṣṇa's abhiṣeka; 20 — Nanda's return from Varuṇa's abode, the cowherds' vision of Goloka; 21 — the observance of the Kātyāyanī vow; 22 — the begging of food from the wives of the sacrificers; 23 — the meeting of the gopīs; 24 — the pastimes with the gopīs, the disappearance of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa, the search of the gopīs; 25 — Kṛṣṇa's reappearance; 26 — the gopīs' resolve; 27 — water sports; 28 — the release of Nanda, seized by a serpent; 29 — various secret sports; 30 — the killing of Śaṅkhacūḍa, Holī; 31 — the killing of Ariṣṭa; 32 — the killing of Keśī; 33 — Nārada's arrival, and the Śaka year and saṁvat in which the book was composed.

In the Uttara-campū: pūraṇa 1 — love for Vraja; 2 — Akrūra's cruelty; 3 — departure for the city of Mathurā; 4 — pointing out the region at the edge of Mathurā; 5 — the killing of Kaṁsa; 6 — the sorrow at taking leave of the lord of Vraja; 7 — Nanda's return to Vraja; 8 — study and the like; 9 — the bringing back of the guru's son; 10 — Uddhava's coming to Vraja; 11 — the error about the bee-messenger; 12 — Uddhava's return; 13 — the binding of Jarāsandha; 14 — the Yavanas and Jarāsandha; 15 — Balabhadra's marriage; 16 — the marriage to Rukmiṇī; 17 — seven marriages; 18 — the killing of Narakāsura, the stealing of the pārijāta, the marriage to sixteen thousand queens; 19 — the victory over Bāṇa; 20 — Rāma's wish to go to Vraja; 21 — the war with Pauṇḍraka; 22 — the killing of Dvivida, the shaking of Hastināpura; 23 — the journey to Kurukṣetra; 24 — the journey of the residents of Vraja to Kurukṣetra; 25 — Uddhava's counsel; 26 — the release of the kings; 27 — the rājasūya; 28 — the destruction of Śālva; 29 — deliberation about going to Vraja; 30 — Kṛṣṇa's coming to Vraja; 31 — the removal of the obstacles of Rādhā and others; 32 — the resolution of everything; 33 — the adhivāsa of Rādhā and Mādhava; 34 — the adornment of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa; 35 — the performance of the wedding of Rādhā and Mādhava; 36 — the meeting of Rādhā and Mādhava; 37 — the entry into Goloka.

See Antya 4.219–231.

The Bhakti-ratnākara, first wave, says: “How the meaning of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam was relished — that was revealed in the Śrī Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī. … Such were Sanātana and Rūpa: at the Lord's command, whatever they described spread through the world. Śrī Rūpa wrote books beginning with the Śrī Haṁsadūta; Sanātana described the Bhāgavatāmṛta and others. After composing the Śrī Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī, Sanātana ordered Śrī Jīva to revise it. Having received the order, Śrī Jīva made the Laghu-toṣaṇī; how he made it, he wrote there itself. In 1476 the Bṛhat was completed, and in Śaka 1504 the Laghu was well approved."

Further, the Laghu-toṣaṇī says: "Among the works of the younger of these two brothers are the poem Śrī Haṁsadūta, the Śrīmad Uddhava-sandeśa, the Chando-'ṣṭādaśaka, the hymn Utkalikā-vallī, the Govinda-virudāvalī, the Premendu-sāgara and many others, well established; the pair of dramas Vidagdha-mādhava and Lalita-mādhava; the bhāṇikā called Dāna-keli; the pair of Rasāmṛtas; the Mathurā-mahimā, the Padyāvalī, the Nāṭaka-candrikā, and the Saṁkṣipta-Bhāgavatāmṛta — these are the compilations. Among the works of the elder brother, foremost is the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatāmṛta; then the Hari-bhakti-vilāsa and its commentary, the Dig-pradarśinī; and the commentary on the Līlā-stava — this very Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī, which I, though only a lowly jīva, abridged at his command. In Śaka 1476 this auspicious commentary was completed; and it was abridged in the year reckoned by number-words, 1504."

Śrī Jīva's disciple Kṛṣṇadāsa Adhikārī described all this at length in his own book: "Among the works of the elder of these two, who bears the name Śrī Sanātana, a list is given of books drawn from the great collection of his writings on the conclusions of the scriptures: the Bhāgavatāmṛta in two parts (khaṇḍas), the first and the second; the Hari-bhakti-vilāsa and its commentary, the Dig-pradarśinī; and the commentary on the Līlā-stava called the Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī. Among the works of the younger: the poem Śrī Haṁsadūta; the Śrīmad Uddhava-sandeśa; the Kṛṣṇa-janma-tithi-vidhi (rules for the day of Kṛṣṇa's appearance); the Śrī Gaṇoddeśa-dīpikā, known in a long and a short version; the lovely Stava-mālā to Śrī Kṛṣṇa and His beloveds; the Vidagdha-mādhava and the Lalita-mādhava; the Dāna-līlā-kaumudī and the Bhakti-rasāmṛta; the Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi; the Prayuktākhyāta-candrikā; the Mathurā-mahimā, the Padyāvalī, the Nāṭaka-candrikā, and the Saṁkṣipta-Bhāgavatāmṛta — these are the compilations. Among the works of Śrī Jīva, son of Śrīmad Vallabha, the following are named: the grammar (śabdānuśāsana) called Hari-nāmāmṛta; its Sūtra-mālikā and the Dhātu-saṅgraha used in it; the concise Kṛṣṇārcā-dīpikā; the Gopāla-virudāvalī; the Rasāmṛta-śeṣa; the Śrī Mādhava-mahotsava; the Saṅkalpa-kalpavṛkṣa, which reveals the inner meaning of the Campū; commentaries on the Gopāla-tāpanī and on the Brahma-saṁhitā, on the Rasāmṛta, on the Ujjvala, and on the Yoga-sāra-stava; also the Gāyatrī-vivṛti from the Agni Purāṇa; a compilation of the marks on the feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa described in the Padma Purāṇa, and of the marks on the hands and feet of Śrīmatī Vṛndāvaneśvarī, a special form of Lakṣmī; the two Campūs, Pūrva and Uttara, and the "trayī, trayī"[17]; and the seven famous Sandarbhas on the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam: the one named Tattva, the one called Bhagavat, and the Paramātmā; then the Kṛṣṇa, the Bhakti and the Prīti; and the seventh, called Krama. In them the foremost of the saints[18] revealed the three — sambandha, abhidheya and prayojana — as plainly as a myrobalan fruit in the palm of the hand."

Hari-bhakti-vilāsa is a book of Vaiṣṇava smṛti compiled by Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī Prabhu and gathered together (samāhṛta) by Śrīla Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī Prabhu; it is complete in twenty vilāsas. The first vilāsa treats of the guru and disciple and of the mantra; the second, of initiation; the third, of right conduct (sadācāra), remembrance, and purity (bathing and the sandhyā rites); the fourth, of purificatory rites, tilaka, mudrās, beads, and the worship of the guru; the fifth, of posture, prāṇāyāma, nyāsa, and the Deity (śrī-mūrti), such as the śālagrāma; the sixth, of invoking the Deity, bathing Him, and the necessary accompanying duties; the seventh, of the flowers suitable for the worship of Śrī Viṣṇu; the eighth, of what is offered before the Deity: incense, lamps, food offerings (naivedya), dance, song, instrumental music, nīrājana (ārati), prayers, obeisances, and the washing away of offenses; the ninth, of tulasī, Vaiṣṇava śrāddha, and naivedya; the tenth, of the devotee of Bhagavān, that is, the Vaiṣṇava or sādhu; the eleventh, of the worship (arcana) of the Deity, the holy name of Śrī Hari, japa and kīrtana of the name, offenses against the name and release from them, the glory of bhakti, and surrender (śaraṇāgati); the twelfth, of the rules of ekādaśī; the thirteenth, of fasting and the vow of Mahādvādaśī; the fourteenth, of various duties in various months; the fifteenth, of nirjalā ekādaśī, bearing heated marks (tapta-mudrā), Cāturmāsya, Janmāṣṭamī, pārśva-ekādaśī, śravaṇā-dvādaśī, Rāma-navamī, and Vijayā-daśamī; the sixteenth, of the Kārttika duties, or the Dāmodara (ūrja) vow, the offering of lamps and so on, the worship of Govardhana, and the Ratha-yātrā; the seventeenth, of puraścaraṇa, japa, and beads; the eighteenth, of the kinds of Deities of Viṣṇu; the nineteenth, of the installation of the Deity, His bathing, and so on; and the twentieth, of the building of temples and the like, and of the duties of those devoted solely to the Lord (ekāntika-bhakta).

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Guṇḍicā. During the Ratha-yātrā, Śrī Jagannāthadeva goes to the temple called Guṇḍicā, at the place called Sundarācala, and performs His pastimes there for nine nights; for this reason the people of Orissa call the Ratha-yātrā the Guṇḍicā-yātrā.

Every year the Gauḍīya devotees come to Purī to see Guṇḍicā —

49 By the Lord's order the devotees came every year, saw the Guṇḍicā festival, met the Lord and went back.

For twelve of the last 24 years, the Lord meets with the devotees —

50 For twelve years they came and went like this; neither the Lord nor His devotees could live without each other.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
The Lord and the Lord's devotees were not happy without meeting one another.

The last 12 years: the Lord's separation from Kṛṣṇa —

তার শেষ যেই রহে দ্বাদশ বৎসর । কৃষ্ণের বিরহলীলা প্রভুর অন্তর ॥ ৫১ ॥

tāra śeṣa yei rahe dvādaśa vatsara of this at the end which remain twelve years
kṛṣṇera viraha-līlā prabhura antara
of Kṛṣṇa pastimes of separation the Lord’s within the heart

51 In the twelve years that remained at the end, the Lord’s heart was filled with the pastimes of separation from Kṛṣṇa.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
The pastime of the gopīs' separation from Kṛṣṇa was always awake in the Lord's inner being, that is, in His antaḥkaraṇa.

Day and night, the divine madness born of separation from Kṛṣṇa —

নিরন্তর রাত্রি-দিন বিরহ-উন্মাদে । হাসে, কান্দে, নাচে, গায় পরম বিষাদে ॥ ৫২ ॥

nirantara rātri-dina viraha unmāde constantly night and day of separation in the madness
hāse, kānde, nāce, gāya parama viṣāde
He laughs weeps dances sings in great sorrow

52 Night and day, in the divine madness of separation, He laughed, wept, danced and sang in great sorrow.

Filled with Rādhikā's mood, born of seeing Kṛṣṇa at the end of a long separation, the Lord gazes at Jagannātha —

যে কালে করেন জগন্নাথ দরশন । মনে ভাবেন, কুরুক্ষেত্রে পাঞাছি মিলন ॥ ৫৩ ॥

ye kāle karena jagannātha daraśana
at whatever time He takes of Jagannātha darśana mane bhāvena, kurukṣetre pāñāchi milana
in the mind He thinks at Kurukṣetra I have found union

53 Whenever He took darśana of Jagannātha, He thought, “I have found Him again at Kurukṣetra.”

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
When Kṛṣṇa performed a sacrifice at Kurukṣetra and invited the residents of Vraja, the gopīs went there and gained the happiness of seeing Kṛṣṇa. In the Lord's inner being the mood of separation from Kṛṣṇa was awake, and only when He gazed at Jagannātha did the mood of the meeting at Kurukṣetra arise in His heart.

The Lord's song as He dances before the chariot —

রথযাত্রার আগে যবে করেন নর্ত্তন । তাঁহা এই পদ মাত্র করয়ে গায়ন ॥ ৫৪ ॥

ratha-yātrāra āge yabe karena nartana of the Ratha-yātrā in front when He performs dance tāṁhā ei pada mātra karaye gāyana
there this song only He makes singing

54 When He danced in front of the chariot at the Ratha-yātrā, He sang only this song:

For example, this song —

"সেইত পরাণ-নাথ পাইনু ॥ যাহা লাগি' মদনদহনে ঝুরি' গেনু ॥" ॥ ৫৫ ॥

seita parāṇa-nātha pāinu that very Lord of My life I have found yāhā lāgi' madana-dahane jhuri' genu whom for in the fire of Madana pining I was wasting away

55 "I have found that very Lord of My life for whom I was wasting away, burning in the fire of Madana (love)."

The Lord's mood as Jagannātha goes to Guṇḍicā —

এই ধুয়া-গানে নাচেন দ্বিতীয় প্রহর । কৃষ্ণ লঞা ব্রজে যাই — এভাব অন্তর ॥ ৫৬ ॥

ei dhuyā-gāne nācena dvitīya prahara to this refrain song He dances the second prahara
kṛṣṇa lañā vraje yāi — e-bhāva antara Kṛṣṇa taking to Vraja I go this feeling within

56 To this refrain He danced through the second prahara (watch) of the day, and in His heart was one feeling: "I am taking Kṛṣṇa back to Vraja."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Not finding satisfaction in the meeting at Kurukṣetra, He constantly felt in His heart: "I will take Kṛṣṇa to Vraja and meet Him there."

Anubhāṣya.

Śrī Mahāprabhu, saturated with Rādhā's mood and taking on the mood of the long separation in Mathurā, has shown that the only sādhana for living beings is the embodied, visible manifestation of vipralambha-rasa, which constantly nourishes sambhoga. The eighty-second chapter of the Tenth Canto of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam describes how the gopīs of Gokula, eager to see Kṛṣṇa, came to Syamantapañcaka at Kurukṣetra on the occasion of an eclipse and poured out the feelings of their hearts. When Śrī Gaurasundara gazes at the Lord of Nīlācala, that same mood appears a second time. At Kurukṣetra the gopīs tried to dispel Kṛṣṇa's majesty and lead Him away to taste the sweetness of Gokula. In the same way Gaurahari takes Jagannāthadeva — Kṛṣṇa — from the temple of Nīlācala, which is like Kurukṣetra, to Guṇḍicā, which is like Vṛndāvana, the place of parakīya pastimes: before the chariot facing the Guṇḍicā temple, Śrīmatī Vārṣabhānavī in the form of Śrī Gaurasundara sings the feelings of Her heart.

The secret verse —

in this mood of the dance in the midst He recites a verse sei ślokera artha keha nāhi bujhe loka

57 In this mood, in the midst of the dance, He recited a verse whose meaning none of the people understood:

*The verse that expresses this mood (quoted in the Kāvya-prakāśa, first ullāsa, no. 4) —*

58 "He who stole My heart in My girlhood is now My lord. These are the same moonlit nights of Caitra, and the same full breezes blow from the kadamba groves, fragrant with blossoming mālatī. I too am the same. Yet My heart yearns for Our play of love there, beneath the vetasī trees on the bank of the Revā." (Padyāvalī, 386)[10]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

He who stole My heart in My girlhood, on the bank of the river Revā, has now become My husband; that same night of the month of Madhu has come again; there is the fragrance of the opened mālatī flowers; from the kadamba grove the breeze blows sweet as honey; and I, that same heroine, am present in the play of love's doings. Even so, in this state My heart is not content, but longs intensely for the shade of the vetasī trees on the bank of the Revā.

Anubhāṣya.

he sakhi (O friend), yaḥ kāntaḥ (that beloved) kaumāra-haraḥ (who steals, carries off, the kaumāra, girlhood) sa eva hi varaḥ (is indeed the husband), tā eva caitra-kṣapāḥ (those same moonlit nights of the month of Madhu-Caitra), tathā te ca unmīlita-mālatī-surabhayaḥ (and those [breezes], fragrant with the mālatī flowers that have opened, blossomed), prauḍhāḥ (strong — giving dense, full happiness) kadambānilāḥ (the kadamba breezes — breezes full of the fragrance of kadambas blow), sā ca aham eva asmi (and I am that very one), tathāpi (and yet) tatra revā-rodhasi (there, on the bank of the river Revā), vetasī-taru-tale (under the vetasī tree — in a secluded, cool place thick with vetasī thorns), surata-vyāpāra-līlā-vidhau (in the play of love's doings — just where, in longing for union with the hero, the first union once took place) cetaḥ (the mind) samutkaṇṭhate (burns with desire to play, to enjoy).

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Svarūpa alone. This verse was composed about an utterly contemptible (heya) hero and heroine. Why Mahāprabhu recited it with such great love — that deep purport no one knew except Svarūpa Dāmodara.

The verse composed by Śrī Rūpa himself to correspond to it —

Haridāsa Ṭhākura was a Kazi's son; fearing to violate the order of the temple, he did not go into the Śrī-mandira. Rūpa and Sanātana, considering themselves "lower than a blade of grass” and thinking that their right of entry was the same as that of people of low birth, also did not go into the Śrī-mandira.

64 After seeing Jagannātha’s upala-bhoga offering, Mahāprabhu would meet these three and then go to His own residence.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Upala-bhoga — chattra-bhoga. All the other offerings (bhoga) of Jagannāthadeva are made inside the Maṇi-koṭhā. The great offering made after midday takes place on a large stone platform behind Garuḍa. Upala means “stone”; because this offering is made on the stone ground, it is called upala-bhoga.

Yet My heart longs for the forest on the bank of the Kālindī, which delights in the sweet fifth note of His flute playing in its depths." (Padyāvalī, 387)[11]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

O friend! My most beloved Kṛṣṇa has met Me today at Kurukṣetra, and I am that same Rādhā; and the joy of our union is the same. Even so, My heart longs for the forest on the bank of the Kālindī, flooded with bliss by the fifth note of the flute that plays in the forest — the flute of this same Kṛṣṇa.

May those feet always rise in our minds too, though we are busy with our homes.” (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.82.48)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The gopīs said: “O Lotus-navelled One! Your lotus feet are the one support that rescues those who have fallen into the well of saṁsāra, and the yogeśvaras of deep intelligence must always contemplate them in their hearts. May they arise in the minds of us who are engaged in household life.”

In some readings the following verse is found: (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.83.2) “Thus questioned by the Lord of the worlds and honored well, they replied with glad minds, for their sins had been destroyed by the sight of His feet.”

82 "If Your feet should appear in My home in Vraja, then My desire will be fulfilled."[12]

Anubhāṣya.

The gopīs are wholly devoted to pure service to Kṛṣṇa. They do not serve because they are enchanted by Kṛṣṇa's majesty or by any similar grandeur; therefore they never have any liking for the elephants, horses and royal dress of Kurukṣetra. Just as Kṛṣṇa, the beloved of the gopīs, is bound only by the gopīs' spotless love, so the gopīs too are the eternal maidservants of that very beloved of the gopīs. Yogis who have withdrawn from sense objects and whose minds are fixed on Him alone meditate on the Lord of inconceivable power. But those who are absorbed in sense objects take shelter at the feet of Hari for the sake of the welfare of their own bodies, sons, wives and the rest in this world, for the growth of worldly prosperity, or to be freed from their own cycle of birth and death. The gopīs have no such meditative effort or skill in good works. With all their senses, with body, mind and speech, they are absorbed in the pure service of Kṛṣṇa. The gopīs reject both — dry, tasteless reasoning that lacks worldly rasa, and worldly rasa itself. They do not want their own beloved to be busy with others' affairs or, having become a person of dignity, to live elsewhere. Having established the son of the king of Vraja in Vṛndāvana, the gopīs find happiness only in pleasing Him by service to Kṛṣṇa, with body, mind and speech.

Rādhikā’s madness as on seeing Uddhava
udghūrṇā-pralāpa taiche prabhura rātri-dine bewildered raving so the Lord’s night and day

87 Just as Rādhikā fell into divine madness on seeing Uddhava, so the Lord, night and day, spoke in the bewildered raving (udghūrṇā) of that madness.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Udghūrṇā-pralāpa — ravings and the like that arise from various helpless acts.

Anubhāṣya.
Unmāda is divine madness (divyonmāda), which includes udghūrṇā, citra-jalpa and the rest. The Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi says: “A certain wondrous variety [of states], resembling delusion, in one who has attained some state (gati) of this bhāva called mohana, is called divyonmāda. Its kinds, udghūrṇā, citra-jalpa and others, are many.”

In adhirūḍha-mahābhāva there are two kinds, modana and mādana. The modana bhāva in the state of separation (viśleṣa) is known as “mohana.” In mohana, in the helplessness caused by separation, the sāttvika-bhāvas blaze brightly. “A certain wondrous variety [of states] in one who has attained an indescribable state (gati), that is, condition (vṛtti), is divyonmāda.” That is, a certain inexpressible state of mohana, reached in a special disposition and full of a variety resembling delusion, is called “divyonmāda”; it has many kinds, such as udghūrṇā and citra-jalpa.

Udghūrṇā is a distinctive state accompanied by various helpless acts. “Udghūrṇā is a distinctive state shown in various helpless acts. For example: ‘Rādhā, tormented by the delusion of separation from You, at one moment makes a bed in a bower as vāsaka-sajjā; at another, having taken on the conduct of a khaṇḍitā and fallen into a rage (caṇḍī), she scolds the blue cloud; at another, in the agitation of hurrying to a tryst (abhisāra), she reels in dreadful darkness — what state does she not assume?'" Uddhava said to Kṛṣṇa: "Rādhā, tormented by the delusion of separation from You, at times arranges a bed in a bower as vāsaka-sajjā, at times, becoming khaṇḍitā, rebukes the blue cloud, at times, becoming an abhisārikā, wanders in thick darkness — what state does she not assume!"

91 The first sūtra is the Lord's acceptance of sannyāsa. Having taken sannyāsa, the Lord set out for Śrī Vṛndāvana.

Anubhāṣya.
The sannyāsa of Śrī Mahāprabhu is not like the sannyāsa of the karmīs or the jñānīs. Having accepted sannyāsa, He displayed the pastime of traveling to Vṛndāvana. Sannyāsa is renunciation of non-Vaiṣṇava life: to serve Śrī Kṛṣṇa favorably (anuśīlana), free from mundane thoughts of enjoyment — that is what taking sannyāsa means. "Renunciation (vairāgya) is called proper when one, unattached, uses objects as is fitting, firmly relating them to Kṛṣṇa."[19] The jñānī-sannyāsī, turned away from the service of Hari and unable to understand the transcendental truth, regards things connected with Hari as mundane.

By the words "Śrī Mādhavapurī" Śrī Mādhavendra Purī is meant. Śrī Vallabha Bhaṭṭa, of the branch of Śrī Gadādhara Paṇḍita Gosvāmī, took the tridaṇḍa from Śrī Mādhavācārya, the author of the Śrīmaṅgala-bhāṣya. Śrī Mādhavācārya is a different person from Śrī Mādhavendra Purī.

Anubhāṣya.

Kṣīra-corā Gopīnātha resides at the śrīpāṭa of Remuṇā (five miles west of Balasore station on the B. N. R. line). The servitor (sevāyet) of the present temple, Śyāmasundara Adhikārī, is a disciple [in the line] of Śrī Rasikānanda Murāri, a successor of Śrī Śyāmānanda Prabhu, from the śrīpāṭa of Gopīvallabhapura, at the edge of the Midnapore district.

Sākṣi-gopāla. The temple stands in the village called Satyavādī, a short distance from the station of that name on the B. N. R. line on the way to Purī. In the time of Śrī Mahāprabhu the temple of Sākṣi-gopāla was in the city of Kaṭaka (see the Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya on Madhya 5.8).

105 He visited the holy places of Trimalla and Tripadī, and everywhere He spread the name of Kṛṣṇa.

Anubhāṣya.
Trimalla (Tirumalaya) is in the Tanjore district (Madhya 9.71). Tripadī (Tirupati, Padi, or Tiruppattur, in North Arcot) lies in the valley of Veṅkaṭācala; there stands the temple of Śrī Rāmacandra. On top of that same Veṅkaṭācala is the famous temple of Śrī Bālājī (Madhya 9.64).

Deliverance of the atheistic Buddhists, and darśana of Nṛsiṁha at Ahobala —

Ahovala-nṛsiṁha and others He made the sight

106 Then He subdued the unbelievers, and He had darśana of Ahovala-nṛsiṁha and other Deities.

Anubhāṣya.
The defeat of the atheists (pāṣaṇḍīs): Madhya 9.42–62.

Ahobala (also called "Ahobilam") is a temple in South India, in the Sarvel taluk of the Kurnool district. In the whole district this temple of Nṛsiṁhadeva is the famous one. Nine neighboring temples, with nine Viṣṇu Deities, are together called the "Nava-nṛsiṁha-mandira" ("nine temples of Nṛsiṁha"). The main temple is built on sixty-four pillars, and each of these pillars is in turn carved with small pillars. In front of the temple stands an unfinished but most wonderful maṇḍapa; its huge pillars of white stone, three feet in diameter, bear witness to the richness of the architecture (Kurnool Manual).

109 Trimalla Bhaṭṭa, a Śrī-vaiṣṇava, was a great scholar, and he was astonished at the Gosāñi's learning and love.

Anubhāṣya.

Trimalla Bhaṭṭa. Among the residents of Śrīraṅgam and other places in the Tamil country there is no custom of giving the names "Tirumalaya" or "Veṅkaṭa." Moreover, Tirumalaya, or Veṅkaṭa Bhaṭṭa, and others like him are vaḍagalai, that is, Vaiṣṇavas of the northern region, from the Andhra country, while the residents of Śrīraṅgam are teṅgalai, that is, Vaiṣṇavas of the southern region. See the Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya and the Anubhāṣya on Madhya 9.82.

112 Then came the rescue of Kṛṣṇadāsa from the Bhaṭṭathāris, and the spreading of Kṛṣṇa's name through the mouths of brahmins who chanted Rāma's name.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Rāmajapī is the brāhmaṇa who was chanting the name of Rāma.

Anubhāṣya.
Bhaṭṭathāri: this is the correct word. In the Malabar country live many Nambudri brāhmaṇas, proud of their purity. The Bhaṭṭatharis serve them as priests. Their skill in tantric sacrifices — the rites of "killing" (māraṇa), "driving away" (uccāṭana), "subjugating" (vaśīkaraṇa) and the like — is famous. The Lord's companion, the brāhmaṇa Kṛṣṇadāsa, was fickle and light-minded. He fell into their clutches and forgot the jīva's one and only dharma, service to Mahāprabhu, the highest of the highest. Then the Lord, the deliverer of the fallen, seized him by the hair and pulled him out of servitude to māyā. In this way He made His name "ocean of causeless mercy" true. Through a scribe's error, the word bhaṭṭathāri has become "bhaṭṭamāri" in the Bengali manuscripts.

*Meeting Śrī Raṅgapurī, and consoling the brāhmaṇa Rāmadāsa by telling how Rāvaṇa abducted the illusory Sītā (māyā-Sītā) —*

114 He discussed the truth with the Tattvavādīs, and they all came to see their own understanding as inferior.

Anubhāṣya.

The destruction of the Tattvavādī's pride: Madhya 9.245–278. The name of this ācārya of the Tattvavāda was Śrī Raghuvaryatīrtha Madhvācārya, head of the Uttara-rāḍhī monastery.

115 He had darśana of Ananta, Puruṣottama, Śrī Janārdana, Padmanābha and Vāsudeva.

Anubhāṣya.

"Ananta-Padmanābha" is a temple of Viṣṇu in the Trivandrum district, famous under that name.

"Śrī Janārdana" is a temple of Viṣṇu in the Trivandrum district, twenty-six miles to the north, near Varkala station.

Liberating the seven palm trees, and bathing at Setubandha-tīrtha at Rāmeśvara —

for fear of the crowds at night the Lord came to the village of Kuliyā

151 For five days people kept coming to see Him without pause; to escape the crowds, the Lord went at night to the village of Kuliyā.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

After staying five days at Vidyānagara and seeing great crowds gather, the Lord came at night to the village of Kuliyā. In the Śrī Caitanya-bhāgavata, in the third chapter of the Antya-khaṇḍa, it is written: “With great love for the Gaṅgā, He came very quickly to the land of Gauḍa. Sārvabhauma's brother was named ‘Vidyā-vācaspati.’ … Suddenly He came and stopped at his house. From Navadvīpa onward the news spread in every direction: ‘The jewel of renunciates has come to Vācaspati's house.’ The Lord of Vaikuṇṭha came to Kuliyā. … Only the Gaṅgā lies between Nadiyā and Kuliyā. As soon as they heard, all the people ran in great joy.”

If this chapter of the Caitanya-bhāgavata is read together with Locana dāsa's account, it will be clear that the place now known as “Navadvīpa” is the Kuliyā village of that time, on the other bank from ancient Navadvīpa. It was there that the offenses of Devānanda Paṇḍita, Gopāla Cāpāla and several others were forgiven. At that time, to go from Vidyānagara to Kuliyā one had to cross one branch of the Gaṅgā, and to go from Kuliyā to Navadvīpa one had to cross the main stream of the Bhāgīrathī. Even today a look at these places shows that the quarters of the Kuliyā of that time, such as “Cināḍāṅgā,” and the gañja (market) of Kuliyā, now called “Koler-gañja” — all that land is what remains of the Kuliyā of that time.

The crowds that came to see the Lord —

162 He will turn back from Kānāi's Nāṭaśālā. You will see it later; I have said this with certainty."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
When it was said that Mahāprabhu would go from Kuliyā to Vṛndāvana, His supreme devotee Śrī Nṛsiṁhānanda in meditation began to pave the road from Kuliyā to Vṛndāvana. The road was paved as far as Kānāi's Nāṭaśālā, near Gauḍa, but then his mind became disturbed and his meditation broke. Nṛsiṁhānanda then said, "This time Mahāprabhu will go only as far as Kānāi's Nāṭaśālā, not as far as Vṛndāvana."

Anubhāṣya.
Kānāi's Nāṭaśālā. Take the East Indian Railway Loop Line 202 miles from Calcutta to Tinpahāṛ station, and from there the branch line to Rājmahal station; the place lies about six miles from Rājmahal (two miles from Talajhāṛi).

The Lord sets out from Kuliyā for Vṛndāvana —

166 Walking on in this way, the Lord came to Rāmakeli, a village of incomparable beauty near Gauḍa.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
The village of Rāmakeli lies near Gauḍa, on the bank of the Gaṅgā. Śrī Rūpa and Sanātana lived there at that time.

তাঁহা নৃত্য করে প্রভু প্রেমে অচেতন ।

171 The king asked Keśava Chatrī for news of Him, but Chatrī brushed aside the Lord's greatness:

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The kṣatriya Keśava knew the truth about Mahāprabhu. He feared that the emperor, pursuing his inquiries, might begin to be hostile to the Lord, and so he did not let the conversation go on.

174 Having pacified the king, Keśava sent a brāhmaṇa, who went and asked the Lord to leave.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Having calmed the king in this way, Keśava, a military official, sent a brāhmaṇa and asked the Lord to leave that place.

The emperor asks Śrī Rūpa about the Lord —

175 Then the king questioned Dabira Khāsa in private, and he began to tell of the Lord's greatness:

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Dabira-khāsa is the name given to Śrī Rūpa at that time by the Muslim king.

Śrī Rūpa glorifies the Lord's greatness —

যে তোমারে রাজ্য দিল, যে তোমার গোসাঞা ।

184 These two told the Lord: "Rūpa and Sākara Mallika have come to see You."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Sākara-mallika. Just as Śrī Rūpa received the name "Dabira-khāsa," so Śrī Sanātana was then known by the name "Sākara-mallika," given by the king.

189 We are low-born, we keep low company and do low work; O Lord, we are ashamed even to speak before You.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
We keep company with those low people who are born in low castes, and we do low work, serving them.

Anubhāṣya.
Low caste. The brothers were born in a pure family of Karṇāṭa brāhmaṇas; such words are spoken out of humility. Birth is of three kinds: by seed (śaukra), by Sāvitrī (sāvitrya) and by initiation (daikṣya). One's conduct (vṛtta), that is, one's nature, becomes low through association with the low. “I am a mleccha by caste, I serve mlecchas, I do the deeds of mlecchas; my company is with the enemies of cows and brāhmaṇas.”[21] The Seventh Canto of the Bhāgavata instructs: “The characteristics stated as indicating a man's varṇa — if they are seen in another man as well, he should be classified by those very characteristics.”[22] The words about low caste are spoken because the brothers were in the service of a yavana (a Muslim). They had taken up the low occupation of a śūdra — the occupation of the low-born, who lack a brāhmaṇa's calling — and so they belong to that class. In the Bhakti-ratnākara, in the first taraṅga, it is said: “Always keeping company with the low-born, he behaved in a low way. For this reason he spoke of himself as ‘low-born’ and so on.”

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
There is no sinner like me, and no offender like me. O Puruṣottama, I am ashamed even to mention the sins and offenses I have committed and to try to be rid of them.

193 They were brāhmaṇas by birth and lived in Navadvīpa. They did not serve low people, nor were they the 'elbow' — the ready tool — of low men.

Anubhāṣya.
Although Jagāi and Mādhāi were sinners, they never had to sell themselves as servants of low people and do their blameworthy work for a master. We are more contemptible than they: we are the kūrpara of low people, that is, their knee or elbow. Leaning on us, our honorable master gets all kinds of low work done.

195 They uttered Your name while blaspheming You, and that very name became the cause of their liberation.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

You did not have to labor greatly to deliver Jagāi and Mādhāi. We are lower than they, and delivering us is a special task. Jagāi and Mādhāi were brāhmaṇas by birth who had not fallen from their position, and they lived in the great holy place Navadvīpa. Unlike us, they never served low people. They were not the "elbow" (kūrpara) of low people — low people did not maintain them; they were merely sinners. All sins are burned up by the mere nāmābhāsa of Your name. And since, while uttering Your name, they blasphemed You, that very name became the cause of their release from sin.

Anubhāṣya.

Blaspheming a sādhu is an offense. An offense born of blaspheming Viṣṇu is destroyed by taking the Name.

The words that they are lower even than Jagāi and Mādhāi —

with enemies of cows and brāhmaṇas our association

197 We are mlecchas by birth, keep the company of mlecchas and do the deeds of mlecchas; we associate with the enemies of cows and brāhmaṇas.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
There are two kinds of mlecchas: mlecchas by birth, and mlecchas by association. We are "companions of mlecchas": we keep company with those who are mlecchas by birth. Having fallen, we have done many mleccha deeds, and especially we have kept company with those mlecchas who are enemies of cows and brāhmaṇas.

Pitiful lamentations of both, in humility —

ku-viṣaya-viṣṭhā-garte diyāche pheliyā into the pit of the filth of evil sense objects has thrown 198 My own deeds have bound me by the hands and neck and thrown me into the filthy pit of wicked sense enjoyment.

Anubhāṣya.

The pit of the filth of bad objects (ku-viṣaya-viṣṭhā-garta). An "object" (viṣaya) is whatever is accepted in worldly life by a being who is subject to enjoyment and acts through the senses. What is gained by pious acts (puṇya) is a "good object" (su-viṣaya); what is gained by sin is a "bad object" (ku-viṣaya). All material enjoyments are of the same nature as filth, and are to be given up. Service to Kṛṣṇa alone is the supreme good for the living being to accept. Service to the senses is despicable and to be abandoned; therefore, like filth, it should be thrown away. Discarded filth is the domain of worms and insects. So too the jīva, forgetting himself, thinks it best to dwell like a worm in the filth of objects — but this is only following the taste (ruci) of worms and insects. Just as a creature fallen into a pit cannot climb out by its own will, so a jīva absorbed in objects, even while trying to gain a turning toward Kṛṣṇa, cannot by his own strength climb out of the pit of the filth of objects — the material realm of enjoyment.

208 From today your names are Rūpa and Sanātana. Give up this humility — your humility breaks My heart.

Anubhāṣya.

Śrī Mahāprabhu, giving them His mercy, named Dabira-khāsa "Rūpa" and Sākara-mallika "Sanātana." For the kaniṣṭha-adhikārī on the path of vidhi (rules), giving a name is one of the saṁskāras. Those who disregard the name-prasāda cannot hope for devotion to Hari: they are intoxicated with worldly fame. "Wearing on one's own body the marks of the conch, the disc and the rest, the vertical tilaka and so on, and also being named with Viṣṇu's name — this is what is called Vaiṣṇavism here."[24] Among the prākṛta-sahajiyās there is no giving of names that express service to Viṣṇu, and so in our time they cannot be called by the word "Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas." Non-Vaiṣṇavas do not receive a name from a Vaiṣṇava guru; through the delusion of identifying with the body they do not know their relationship with Hari, and they are intoxicated with preserving the names and so on that suit their former varṇa.

sabāra caraṇe dhari' paḍe dui bhāi
of all the feet clasping fall the two brothers sabe bale, — dhanya tumi, pāile gosāñi
all say blessed you are you have attained the Gosāñi

220 The two brothers fell at the feet of each of them, and all said: "You are blessed — you have attained the Lord."

At parting, Sanātana gives the Lord good advice —

সবা-পাশ আজ্ঞা মাগি' চলন-সময় । প্রভু-পদে কহে কিছু করিয়া বিনয় ॥ ২২১ ॥

sabā-pāśa ājñā māgi' calana-samaya from all permission asking at the time of leaving prabhu-pade kahe kichu kariyā vinaya
at the Lord's feet they say something showing humility

221 Asking leave of everyone, at the time of departure they bowed at the Lord's feet and humbly said:

ইঁহা হৈতে চল, প্রভু, ইঁহা নাহি কাজ । যদ্যপি তোমারে ভক্তি করে গৌড়রাজ ॥ ২২২ ॥

iṁhā haite cala, prabhu, iṁhā nāhi kāja

yadyapi tomāre bhakti kare gauḍa-rāja
although You devotion shows the king of Gauḍa

222 "Leave this place, O Lord; there is nothing for You here. True, the king of Gauḍa shows You devotion.

তথাপি যবনজাতি, না করিহ প্রতীতি । তীর্থযাত্রায় এত সংঘট্ট ভাল নহে রীতি ॥ ২২৩ ॥

to Vṛndāvana for going this is not the proper manner

224 To travel to Vṛndāvana followed by hundreds of thousands of people is not fitting."

*Although He is the Supreme Lord Himself, in the role of an ācārya He gives the kaniṣṭha-adhikārī a chance to learn —*

যদ্যপি বস্তুতঃ প্রভুর কিছু নাহি ভয় । তথাপি লৌকিকলীলা, লোক-চেষ্টাময় ॥ ২২৫ ॥

yadyapi vastutaḥ prabhura kichu nāhi bhaya although in truth of the Lord any there is no fear tathāpi laukika-līlā, loka-ceṣṭā-maya still a worldly pastime of human behavior full

225 Although in truth the Lord has nothing to fear, His pastimes in this world follow the ways of ordinary people.

See Madhya 16.265–276.

The brothers take their leave —

এত বলি' চরণ বন্দি' গেলা দুইজন । প্রভুর সেই গ্রাম হৈতে চলিতে হৈল মন ॥ ২২৬ ॥

eta bali' caraṇa vandi' gelā dui-jana thus saying His feet saluting went the two prabhura sei grāma haite calite haila mana of the Lord that village from to leave arose the mind

226 Saying this, the two saluted His feet and left, and the Lord resolved to leave that village.

From Rāmakeli to Kānāi's Nāṭaśālā — in the morning setting out came the Lord to Kānāi's Nāṭaśālā dekhila sakala tāṁhā kṛṣṇa-caritra-līlā

He saw all there of Kṛṣṇa's deeds the pastimes

227 Setting out in the morning, the Lord came to Kānāi's Nāṭaśālā, and there He saw depicted all the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Kṛṣṇa-caritra-līlā. In those days in many places in Gauḍa there was an arrangement called a “Kānāi-Nāṭaśālā.” At the Kānāi-Nāṭaśālā near Gauḍa the Lord saw many kinds of depictions of Kṛṣṇa's pastimes.

On Sanātana's advice the Lord gives up the wish to go to Vṛndāvana —

সেই রাত্রে প্রভু তাঁহা চিন্তে মনে মন । সঙ্গে সংঘট্ট ভাল নহে, বলে সনাতন ॥ ২২৮ ॥

sei rātre prabhu tāṁhā cinte mane mana that night the Lord there ponders in His mind within saṅge saṅghaṭṭa bhāla nahe, bale sanātana with Him a crowd good is not says Sanātana

228 That night the Lord pondered within Himself: “Sanātana says it is not good to travel with a crowd.

মথুরা যাইব আমি এত লোক-সঙ্গে । কিছু সুখ না হইবে, হবে রসভঙ্গে ॥ ২২৯ ॥

mathurā yāiba āmi eta loka-saṅge

Balabhadra Bhaṭṭācārya and Paṇḍita Dāmodara
dui-jana-saṅge prabhu āilā nīlācala with the two persons the Lord came to Nīlācala

236 With two companions — Balabhadra Bhaṭṭācārya and Dāmodara Paṇḍita — the Lord came to Nīlācala.

Anubhāṣya.
Dāmodara: see Ādi 10.31 and Antya, Chapter 3.

Setting out for Vṛndāvana after some days at Purī —

237 After staying there a few days He set out for Vṛndāvana, leaving secretly at night without anyone knowing.

The Lord's only companion, Balabhadra Bhaṭṭa —

বলভদ্র ভট্টাচার্য্য রহে মাত্র সঙ্গে ।
ঝারিখণ্ড-পথে কাশী আইলা নানারঙ্গে ॥ ২৩৮ ॥

238 Only Balabhadra Bhaṭṭācārya stayed with Him. By the forest road of Jhārikhaṇḍa He came to Kāśī, enjoying many wonderful pastimes on the way.

Anubhāṣya.

Balabhadra: see Ādi 10.146. The Lord's journey to Kāśī by way of Jhārikhaṇḍa: see Madhya 17.3–82.

Arrival at Kāśī and, after four days there, the journey to Mathurā —

mathurā dekhiyā dekhe dvādaśa kānana
Mathurā seeing He sees twelve forests

239 After staying four days in Kāśī He went to Vṛndāvana; having seen Mathurā, He visited the twelve forests.

Anubhāṣya.
The twelve forests (dvādaśa-kānana): Kāmyavana, Tālavana, Tamālavana, Madhuvana, Kusumavana, Bhāṇḍīravana, Bilvavana, Bhadravana, Khadiravana, Lauhavana, Kumudavana and Gokula-Mahāvana.

Madness of love in Vṛndāvana, then by way of Mathurā to Prayāga —

লীলাস্থল দেখি' প্রেমে হইলা অস্থির । বলভদ্র কৈল তাঁরে মথুরার বাহির ॥ ২৪০ ॥

līlā-sthala dekhi' preme ha-ilā asthira

244 In Kāśī Sanātana came and met the Lord, who stayed two months and instructed him.

The Lord sends Sanātana to the Mathurā district and delivers Prakāśānanda —

মথুরা পাঠাইলা তাঁরে দিয়া ভক্তিবল । সন্ন্যাসীরে কৃপা করি' গেলা নীলাচল ॥ ২৪৫ ॥

mathurā pāṭhāilā tāṁre diyā bhakti-bala to Mathurā He sent him giving the strength of bhakti sannyāsīre kṛpā kari' gelā nīlācala to the sannyāsī mercy showing He went to Nīlācala

245 He sent him to Mathurā, investing him with the strength of bhakti; then, after showing mercy to the sannyāsī, He went to Nīlācala.

Anubhāṣya.

The "Madhya-līlā": six years of going here and there —

ছয় বৎসর প্রভু ঐছে করিলা বিলাস । কভু ইতি-উতি গতি, কভু ক্ষেত্রবাস ॥ ২৪৬ ॥

chaya vatsara prabhu aiche karilā vilāsa
six years the Lord thus enjoyed pastimes kabhu iti-uti gati, kabhu kṣetra-vāsa
sometimes here and there wandering sometimes dwelling in the Kṣetra

246 For six years the Lord enjoyed such pastimes, sometimes wandering here and there, sometimes living in the Kṣetra (Purī).

*At Purī, daily kīrtana with the devotees and darśana of Jagannātha —*

248 Thus I have given the Madhya-līlā in brief sūtras. Now, O devotees, hear the sūtras of the Antya-līlā.

After the six years, the remaining eighteen years are spent only at Purī —

257 Haridāsa's attainment of perfection was wonderful in every way, and Mahāprabhu Himself held a great festival in his honour.

Anubhāṣya.
The departure of Ṭhākura Haridāsa: see Antya, Chapter 11.

Śrī Rūpa's arrival at Purī —

his in the heart made the Lord the infusion of power

258 Then Rūpa Gosāñi came again, and the Lord infused His power into his heart.

Anubhāṣya.

The infusion of cit-śakti, that is, of transcendental power. Without it — or with the infusion of māyā-śakti — the tendency toward enjoyment grows. See Antya, Chapter 1.

The punishment of Choṭa Haridāsa and Dāmodara Paṇḍita's "punishment in words" —

tabe choṭa haridāse prabhu kaila daṇḍa
then Choṭa Haridāsa the Lord gave punishment
dāmodara-paṇḍita kaila prabhuke vākya-daṇḍa
Dāmodara Paṇḍita gave to the Lord punishment by words

259 Then the Lord punished Choṭa Haridāsa, and Dāmodara Paṇḍita "punished" the Lord with words.

Anubhāṣya.

Choṭa Haridāsa: see Antya, Chapter 2. Dāmodara's "punishment in words" (vākya-daṇḍa): see Antya, Chapter 3.

The warning that ignorant people, not understanding the Lord, will criticize Him, is itself the "punishment in words" directed at the Lord. In the view of devotees, such words from Dāmodara Paṇḍita are only words in the form of a punishment. To go and warn the one who is able both to punish and to show favor is merely to meddle where one has no right.

Śrī Sanātana's arrival at Purī —

Anubhāṣya.

Vallabha Bhaṭṭa. His story is told in the seventh chapter of Antya; see Madhya, Chapter 19, and Antya, Chapter 7.

Vallabha Bhaṭṭa had received the name-mantra from Śrī Gadādhara Paṇḍita Gosvāmī, a dear associate of Śrī Gaurasundara. Therefore Mahāprabhu, regarding him as belonging to His own sampradāya, Himself explained the meaning of the name to him. According to this saying of the Pañcarātra — "Then, having purified the humble sons and others by the rite, one should instruct them"[25] — Bhaṭṭa gained the right to hear the meaning of the name.

*Rāya Rāmānanda, a Vaiṣṇava ācārya who was not a brāhmaṇa by birth (aśaukra-vipra), is accepted as guru by Pradyumna Miśra, a brāhmaṇa by birth (śaukra-vipra) —*

প্রদ্যুম্ন মিশ্রেরে প্রভু রামানন্দ-স্থানে । কৃষ্ণকথা শুনাইল কহি' তাঁর গুণে ॥ ২৬৪ ॥

pradyumna miśrere prabhu rāmānanda-sthāne Pradyumna Miśra the Lord at Rāmānanda's place
kṛṣṇa-kathā śunāila kahi' tāṁra guṇe
Kṛṣṇa-kathā made him hear telling his qualities

264 Telling Pradyumna Miśra of Rāmānanda's qualities, the Lord had him hear talks about Kṛṣṇa from Rāmānanda.

The rescue of Gopīnātha, who had fallen under the king's anger —

গোপীনাথ পট্টনায়ক — রামানন্দ-ভ্রাতা । রাজা মারিতেছিল, প্রভু হৈল ত্রাতা ॥ ২৬৫ ॥

gopīnātha paṭṭanāyaka — rāmānanda-bhrātā Gopīnātha Paṭṭanāyaka Rāmānanda's brother rājā māritechila, prabhu haila trātā
the king was about to kill the Lord became the savior

265 Gopīnātha Paṭṭanāyaka, Rāmānanda's brother, was about to be put to death by the king, and the Lord became his saviour.

The hostile Rāmacandra Purī rebukes the Lord, and the sorrow of the devotees —

রামচন্দ্রপুরী-ভয়ে ভিক্ষা ঘাটাইল । বৈষ্ণবের দুঃখ দেখি' অর্দ্ধেক রাখিল ॥ ২৬৬ ॥

rāmacandra-purī-bhaye bhikṣā ghāṭāila for fear of Rāmacandra Purī His food He reduced vaiṣṇavera duḥkha dekhi' ardheka rākhila of the Vaiṣṇavas the sorrow seeing half He kept 266 For fear of Rāmacandra Purī He cut down His meals, but seeing the Vaiṣṇavas' sorrow He kept to half His former portion.

The deliverance of countless beings of the universe through darśana of the Lord —

ব্রহ্মাণ্ড-ভিতরে হয় চৌদ্দ ভুবন । চৌদ্দভুবনে বৈসে যত জীবগণ ॥ ২৬৭ ॥

brahmāṇḍa-bhitare haya caudda bhuvana of the universe within are fourteen worlds
caudda-bhuvane vaise yata jīva-gaṇa
in the fourteen worlds dwell all living beings

267 Within the universe are fourteen worlds, and in them dwell countless living beings.

মনুষ্যের বেশ ধরি' যাত্রিকের ছলে । প্রভুর দর্শন করে আসি' নীলাচলে ॥ ২৬৮ ॥

manuṣyera veśa dhari' yātrikera chale human form assuming of pilgrims in the guise prabhura darśana kare āsi' nīlācale
the Lord's sight have coming to Nīlācala

268 All of them took human form and came to Nīlācala in the guise of pilgrims to see the Lord.

The Lord's rebuke and show of anger because Śrīvāsa and the other devotees sing of Gaura, and His order to sing of Kṛṣṇa —

একদিন শ্রীবাসাদি যত ভক্তগণ । মহাপ্রভুর গুণ গাঞা করেন কীর্ত্তন ॥ ২৬৯ ॥

eka dina śrīvāsādi yata bhakta-gaṇa
one day Śrīvāsa and others all the devotees mahāprabhura guṇa gāñā karena kīrtana
of Mahāprabhu the qualities singing perform kīrtana

269 One day Śrīvāsa and all the other devotees held kīrtana, singing of Mahāprabhu's qualities.

শুনি' ভক্তগণে কহে সক্রোধ বচনে ।
"কৃষ্ণ-নাম-গুণ ছাড়ি' কি কর কীর্ত্তনে ॥ ২৭০ ॥

śuni' bhakta-gaṇe kahe sa-krodha vacane hearing to the devotees He says angry in words
kṛṣṇa-nāma-guṇa chāḍi' ki kara kīrtane
Kṛṣṇa's name and qualities leaving aside what do you do in kīrtana

270 Hearing this, the Lord spoke to the devotees in angry words: "Leaving aside Kṛṣṇa's names and qualities, what are you singing in your kīrtana?

ঔদ্ধত্য করিতে হৈল সবাকার মন । স্বতন্ত্র হইয়া সবে নাশা'বে ভুবন ॥" ॥ ২৭১ ॥

auddhatya karite haila sabākāra mana insolence to do has become of all the mind svatantra ha-iyā sabe nāśā'be bhuvana independent becoming all you will ruin the world

271 All of you have set your minds on insolence; acting independently, you will ruin the world!"

Cries of victory to Gaura from countless throats, and the expression of their distress —

দশদিকে কোটি কোটি লোক হেন কালে ।
'জয় কৃষ্ণচৈতন্য' বলি' করে কোলাহলে ॥ ২৭২ ॥

daśa-dike koṭi koṭi loka hena kāle in the ten directions millions upon millions people at that time
'jaya kṛṣṇa-caitanya' bali' kare kolāhale
glory to Kṛṣṇa Caitanya saying make a tumult

272 At that very time millions upon millions of people on all sides raised a tumult, crying, "Glory to Kṛṣṇa Caitanya!

জয় জয় মহাপ্রভু — ব্রজেন্দ্রকুমার । জগৎ তারিতে প্রভু, তোমার অবতার ॥ ২৭৩ ॥

jaya jaya mahāprabhu — vrajendra-kumāra glory glory to Mahāprabhu the son of the king of Vraja jagat tārite prabhu, tomāra avatāra
the world to deliver O Lord Your descent

273 Glory, glory to Mahāprabhu, the son of the king of Vraja! O Lord, You have descended to deliver the world.

বহুদূর হৈতে আইনু হঞা বড় আর্ত্ত । দরশন দিয়া প্রভু করহ কৃতার্থ ॥ ২৭৪ ॥

bahu-dūra haite āinu hañā baḍa ārta from far away from we have come being very distressed daraśana diyā prabhu karaha kṛtārtha sight giving O Lord make us fulfilled

274 We have come from very far away in great distress. O Lord, grant us Your sight and fulfil our lives!"

The Lord's compassion —

শুনিয়া লোকের দৈন্য দ্রবিলা হৃদয় । বাহিরে আসি' দরশন দিলা দয়াময় ॥ ২৭৫ ॥

śuniyā lokera dainya dravilā hṛdaya hearing of the people the humility melted His heart bāhire āsi' daraśana dilā dayā-maya outside coming sight gave the merciful Lord

275 Hearing the people's humble plea, the merciful Lord's heart melted; He came outside and let them see Him.

Having received the merciful order of Śrī Mahāprabhu, countless people cry out "Gaurahari" —

বাহু তুলি' বলে প্রভু, — বল, 'হরি' 'হরি' । উঠিল শ্রীহরিধ্বনি চতুর্দ্দিক্ ভরি' ॥ ২৭৬ ॥

bāhu tuli' bale prabhu, — bala, 'hari' 'hari' arms raising says the Lord say Hari Hari uṭhila śrī-hari-dhvani catur-dik bhari' arose the sound of Śrī Hari the four directions filling 276 Raising His arms, the Lord said, "Say 'Hari! Hari!'" — and the sound of Śrī Hari's name arose, filling all four directions.

Praise of the Lord —

প্রভু দেখি' প্রেমে লোক আনন্দিত মন । প্রভুকে ঈশ্বর বলি' করয়ে স্তবন ॥ ২৭৭ ॥

prabhu dekhi' preme loka ānandita mana the Lord seeing in love the people joyful at heart prabhuke īśvara bali' karaye stavana
the Lord God calling they offer praise

277 Seeing the Lord, the people were filled with love and joy; calling Him God, they offered Him praise.

Hearing the cries of victory from millions of throats and seeing his chance,

Śrīvāsa reproaches the Lord —

স্তব শুনি' প্রভুকে কহেন শ্রীনিবাস ।
"ঘরে গুপ্ত হও, কেনে বাহিরে প্রকাশ ॥ ২৭৮ ॥

stava śuni' prabhuke kahena śrīnivāsa
the praise hearing to the Lord says Śrīnivāsa ghare gupta hao, kene bāhire prakāśa
at home hidden You are why outside revealed

278 Hearing their praise, Śrīnivāsa said to the Lord: "At home You stay hidden — why reveal Yourself outside?

কে শিখাল এই লোকে, কহে কোন্ বাত । ইহা-সবার মুখ ঢাক দিয়া নিজ হাত ॥ ২৭৯ ॥

ke śikhāla ei loke, kahe kon bāta who taught these people they say what words ihā-sabāra mukha ḍhāka diyā nija hāta
of all these the mouths cover giving Your own hand

279 Who taught these people? What are they saying? Cover all their mouths with Your own hand!

সূর্য্য যেন উদয় করি' চাহে লুকাইতে । বুঝিতে না পারি তোমার ঐছন চরিতে" ॥ ২৮০ ॥

sūrya yena udaya kari' cāhe lukāite
the sun as if rising having done wishes to hide bujhite nā pāri tomāra aichana carite to understand not we can Your such conduct

280 It is as if the sun, having risen, wished to hide. We cannot understand such behaviour of Yours."

The Lord's embarrassment, and His feigned rebuke of Śrīvāsa —

প্রভু কহেন, — শ্রীনিবাস, ছাড় বিড়ম্বনা । সবে মেলি' কর মোরে কতেক লাঞ্ছনা ॥ ২৮১ ॥

prabhu kahena, — śrīnivāsa, chāḍa viḍambanā
the Lord says Śrīnivāsa give up mockery sabe meli' kara more kateka lāñchanā
all together you make Me how much humiliation

281 The Lord said: "Śrīnivāsa, stop this mockery. All of you together heap humiliation on Me."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
In some readings this line is replaced by: "You do all the things that cause Me pain."

Thus ends the first chapter of the "Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya."

The people are delivered by the Lord's shower of merciful glances —

এত বলি' লোকে করি' শুভদৃষ্টি দান । অভ্যন্তরে গেলা, লোকের পূর্ণ হৈল কাম ॥ ২৮২ ॥

eta bali' loke kari' śubha-dṛṣṭi dāna thus saying to the people making of an auspicious glance the gift abhyantare gelā, lokera pūrṇa haila kāma inside He went of the people fulfilled became the desire

282 Saying this, He bestowed His auspicious glance on the people and went inside, and the people's desire was fulfilled.

Śrī Raghunātha's service to Nityānanda and His associates at Pāṇihāṭi —

রঘুনাথ-দাস নিত্যানন্দ-পাশে গেলা । চিড়া-দধি-মহোৎসব তাঁহাই করিলা ॥ ২৮৩ ॥

raghunātha-dāsa nityānanda-pāśe gelā Raghunātha Dāsa to Nityānanda went ciḍā-dadhi-mahotsava tāṁhāi karilā
the festival of flat rice and yogurt right there held 283 Raghunātha dāsa went to Nityānanda and there held the festival of flat rice and yogurt.

Then, by Nityānanda's mercy, Raghunātha leaves home, comes to the Lord's feet at Purī, and surrenders himself to Dāmodara Svarūpa —

তাঁর আজ্ঞা লঞা গেলা প্রভুর চরণে । প্রভু তাঁরে সমর্পিলা স্বরূপের স্থানে ॥ ২৮৪ ॥

tāṁra ājñā lañā gelā prabhura caraṇe
His permission taking went to the Lord's feet prabhu tāṁre samarpilā svarūpera sthāne
the Lord him entrusted of Svarūpa to the care

284 With Nityānanda's permission he went to the Lord's feet, and the Lord entrusted him to Svarūpa's care.

Anubhāṣya.
"I worship Caitanya-candra, the ocean of dense compassion, independent by His very nature. In an instant, with the ropes of mercy, He lifted me out of the great waterless well of household life — a well hard to escape, with no end to its weariness — brought me to His feet that put the lotus to shame, and Himself gave me over to Śrī Dāmodara." (Vilāpa-kusumāñjali 5) See Antya, Chapter 6.

Brahmānanda Bhāratī gives up his garment of hide —

ব্রহ্মানন্দ-ভারতীর ঘুচাইল চর্ম্মাম্বর । এই মত লীলা কৈল ছয় বৎসর ॥ ২৮৫ ॥

brahmānanda-bhāratīra ghucāila carmāmbara of Brahmānanda Bhāratī He removed the garment of skin ei mata līlā kaila chaya vatsara
in this way pastimes He did six years

285 He made Brahmānanda Bhāratī give up his garment of skin. In this way He enjoyed His pastimes for six years.

See Madhya, Chapter 10.

*Of the eighteen years, apart from six, the sūtras of the last twelve years are to be described later —*

এই ত' কহিল মধ্যলীলার সূত্রগণ । শেষ দ্বাদশ বৎসরের শুন বিবরণ ॥ ২৮৬ ॥

this indeed I have told of the Madhya-līlā the sūtras śeṣa dvādaśa vatsarera śuna vivaraṇa of the last twelve years hear the account

286 Thus I have told the sūtras of the Madhya-līlā. Now hear the account of the last twelve years.

Anubhāṣya.
Following the practice of Vyāsa mentioned in Ādi 17.312, the author wrote a restatement (anuvāda) of what he had set down, at the end of each of the three līlās — Ādi, Madhya and Antya. In the Ādi-līlā he wrote only sūtras for the five stages of life, described some pastimes, and referred to Śrī Vṛndāvana dāsa's detailed account. Having written in this chapter the sūtras of the Śeṣa-līlā, that is, of the Madhya- and Antya-līlās, he set down in the second chapter the sūtras of the last twelve years. Then, step by step, he described the Madhya- and Antya-līlās in detail. His purpose is stated in Antya 1.10–11:[26] "Within the Madhya-līlā are the sūtras of the Antya-līlā; I described them briefly in the preceding part of the book. I am overcome by old age and know that death is near, so I have described some sūtras of the Antya-līlā."

Thus ends the first chapter of the "Anubhāṣya."

287 Praying at the feet of Śrī Rūpa and Śrī Raghunātha, I, Kṛṣṇadāsa, narrate the Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

Notes

1. The same verse as Ādi 1.2 and 1.84; translation as there. ↩
2. The same verse as Ādi 1.15; translation as there. ↩
3. The same verse as Ādi 1.16; translation as there. ↩
4. The same verse as Ādi 1.17; translation as there. ↩
5. The first line is the same as in Ādi 8.34 and 13.48. ↩
6. The first line is the same as in Ādi 13.12; the second differs there ("now to the south, now to Gauḍa, now to Vṛndāvana"). Setubandha is the site of Rāma's bridge near Rāmeśvaram (cf. 116). ↩
7. The first line is the same as in Ādi 13.38; in the second, Ādi 13.38 has laoyāila ("led people to take"), and this verse pravartāila ("spread, established"). ↩
8. So in the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition: caitanyera priya yiṅho ("He who is dear to Caitanya"). Other editions read caitanyera bhakti yeṅho ("He who [made the world take] devotion to Caitanya"). ↩
9. So in the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition (bhakti-siddhānta tāte likhiyāchena sāra). Other editions read …dekhāiyāchena pāra ("he has shown the utmost reach of the conclusions of devotion"). ↩
10. The verse is also found in the Kāvya-prakāśa (1.4), as the edition heading notes. ↩
11. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition prints saṅgasukham, a misprint that breaks the metre; the Anubhāṣya reads saṅgama-sukham. ↩
12. The pronoun is singular (mora, "My"): these are Rādhikā's thoughts continued from 78–80, by which Mahāprabhu explains the verse. ↩
13. The verse does not say who tells the stories: the Lord Himself tells of Kṣīra-corā Gopīnātha (Madhya 4), and Nityānanda of Sākṣi-gopāla (Madhya 5). ↩
14. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition reads vākya siddha haya ("His word comes true"). ↩

15. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition reads sadaya (“Merciful”), with sva-dayā (“Your own mercy”) in brackets; the Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya follows sadaya: “justify Your name sadaya, ‘the merciful’”. ↩
16. The second line is the same as Ādi 10.125. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition reads bhavānanda: Bhavānanda Rāya, the father of Rāmānanda Rāya. ↩
17. Unclear: the edition prints trayī trayī (literally “triad, triad”); the meaning is not established, and the words are rendered literally. ↩
18. The edition has sadbhir ādyaiḥ (“by the first of the good,” that is, by the foremost saints), and it is so translated. Perhaps the original reading was ṣaḍbhir ādyaiḥ (“by the first six” [Sandarbhas]). ↩
19. The edition gives no source; it is Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu 1.2.255. ↩
20. Manu-saṁhitā 7.8. (The edition gives no number.) ↩
21. In the verse itself (CC Madhya 1.197) the reading is mleccha-saṅgī, “keeping company with mlecchas”; the edition quotes mleccha-sevī, “serving mlecchas.” ↩
22. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 7.11.35 (the edition names only the canto). ↩
23. In the edition a closing parenthesis follows the last words (sarvādhamatvāt … ādhikyam) with no opening one; the clause is rendered as an explanation of the preceding sentence. ↩
24. The edition gives no source. ↩
25. The edition says only “a saying of the Pañcarātra,” without the exact place. The first letter of the quotation is damaged in the edition; it is read as vinītān atha (“the humble … then”). ↩
26. The edition has “Antya, Chapter 1, verse 10”; the quotation covers verses 10–11. ↩
