Chapter 3

The Description of the Acceptance of Sannyāsa and the Feast in Advaita’s House

(English translation from the Bengali, following the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition and the «Anubhāṣya», 2026 — draft)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. After accepting sannyāsa in the village of Kāṭoyā, Śrī Mahāprabhu wandered for three days through Rāḍha-deśa, and by Nityānanda Prabhu's cleverness He came to the western bank of the Gaṅgā opposite Śāntipura. Taking the Gaṅgā for the Yamunā, the Lord offered her prayers; then Advaita Prabhu came with a boat, bathed Mahāprabhu and took Him to his own house. There the Lord met the residents of Navadvīpa-dhāma and Śrī Śacīmātā. After this meeting Śacīmātā cooked, and while the two Prabhus were eating, Advaita Prabhu played all kinds of jokes with Nityānanda Prabhu. In the afternoon saṅkīrtana began with all the devotees. Several days passed in this way. Then the devotees consulted with Śacīmātā and asked Mahāprabhu to live in Nīlācala. Mahāprabhu agreed. Taking with Him Nityānanda, Mukunda, Jagadānanda and Dāmodara, He bade farewell to the devotees of Śāntipura and to Śacīmātā and set out for Śrī Puruṣottama by the road through Chatrabhoga.

*Obeisance to Gaura, who wandered immediately after sannyāsa —*

1 After accepting sannyāsa, Gaura, overflowing with love, longed to go to Vṛndāvana; but, lost to the outer world, He wandered through Rāḍha. Then He came to Śāntipura and rejoiced there with His devotees. I bow down to Him.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

After accepting sannyāsa, Śrī Gauracandra, in His love for Kṛṣṇa, wished to go to Vṛndāvana. But His mind was bewildered, and He wandered through Rāḍha-deśa until He reached Śāntipura, where He rejoiced with the devotees. To Him I bow.

Anubhāṣya.

3 At the close of His twenty-fourth year, in the bright fortnight of the month of Māgha, the Lord accepted sannyāsa.[2]

*Reciting the song of the tridaṇḍī mendicant, the Lord wanders for three days through Rāḍha-deśa —*

4 After accepting sannyāsa, absorbed in love, He set out for Vṛndāvana, but for three days He wandered in the land of Rāḍha.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Rāḍha-deśa. The word Rāḍha comes from the word rāṣṭra. The land of Gauḍa on the western bank of the Gaṅgā is called "Rāḍha-deśa"; another name for it is "Pauṇḍra-deśa." A corruption of the word Pauṇḍra is "Peṁḍo," and there stood the capital of Rāṣṭra-deśa.

5 Reciting this verse in the rapture of His feelings, the Lord wandered on and purified the whole land of Rāḍha:

*The tridaṇḍī mendicant hopes to attain perfection only by following the path of śrauta —*

worshipped by the most ancient great souls ahaṁ tariṣyāmi duranta-pāraṁ
I shall cross whose far shore is hard to reach tamo mukundāṅghri-niṣevayaiva
the darkness of Mukunda's feet by service alone

6 “I shall take up this devotion to the Supreme Self (parātma-niṣṭhā), which the great souls of old embraced; and by service to the feet of Mukunda alone I shall cross the darkness whose far shore is so hard to reach.” (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.23.57)[3]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The mendicant brāhmaṇa from the land of Avantī said: “I shall take shelter of this āśrama of the mendicant — fidelity to the Supreme Self (parātma-niṣṭhā), which the great souls of old have honored. By serving Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet I shall cross this darkness of worldly existence, whose farther shore is so hard to reach.”

Anubhāṣya.

The tridaṇḍī mendicant of Avantī, scorched by the threefold miseries, at last surrendered exclusively to Bhagavān with body, mind and words, and sang this song with the aim of serving Him:

pūrvatamaiḥ (by the ancients) mahadbhiḥ (by the mahā-bhāgavatas) upāsitām (honored, served) etāṁ parātma-niṣṭhām (this fidelity to the Supreme Self. It is said: “The Supreme Lord is Kṛṣṇa, whose form is eternity, knowledge and bliss. He has no beginning and is Himself the beginning of all; He is Govinda, the cause of all causes”[20]. Therefore He who is above all is the Supreme [para] Self [ātmā]. Fidelity to Him means abiding in natural [naisargika] bhajana once the anarthas have gone) samāsthāya (taking up — that is, first performing bhajana properly on the path of śrauta, following the sequence that begins with faith) mukundāṅghri-niṣevayā (by service to the feet of Mukunda, called sādhana- and bhāva-bhakti) duranta-pāram (hard to cross) tamaḥ (darkness — the ignorance called worldly existence: enjoyment based on the material ego, devoid of service to Kṛṣṇa) tariṣyāmi (I shall cross, giving up the desire to serve anyone but Kṛṣṇa).

In the analysis of the sixty-four limbs of devotion, the dress proper to the fourth āśrama falls under the wearing of Vaiṣṇava marks. It is those who wear this dress of the fourth āśrama who are delivered from worldly existence by serving Mukunda. Those faithful to the Supreme Self wear the dress of the tridaṇḍī mendicant. The most ancient great sages wore the tridaṇḍa. Later, in the Kali-yuga, Viṣṇusvāmī declared that the tridaṇḍa dress itself is fidelity to the Supreme Self (parātma-niṣṭhā), and he established steadfastness in service to Mukunda. Those firmly fixed in exclusive (aikāntikī) devotion introduced the rule of ekadaṇḍa: to the three daṇḍas they joined a fourth, the "jīva-daṇḍa." The rule of tridaṇḍa is contained within it. The ekadaṇḍī sampradāya, however, failed to understand that the tridaṇḍa has one single aim. Therefore many Śivasvāmīs of that sampradāya later turned their aim to impersonal (nirviśeṣa) knowledge of Brahman. They set up the model of Śaṅkarācārya's ekadaṇḍa-sannyāsa and gave up the relationship of the served and the servant (sevya-sevaka-bhāva) — that is, service to Mukunda. In place of the sannyāsīs of the hundred and eight names introduced by the Viṣṇusvāmī sampradāya, the system of ten names spread among the kevalādvaita-vādīs.

Śrī Gaurasundara accepted ekadaṇḍa-sannyāsa according to the custom then current in Āryāvarta. Yet to proclaim that within that single daṇḍa all four daṇḍas were united, He sang the song of the tridaṇḍī mendicant told in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. An ekadaṇḍa without fidelity to the Supreme Self is not approved by Śrī Gaurasundara. The tridaṇḍīs, joining the jīva-daṇḍa to the three daṇḍas, establish exclusive devotion. But the ekadaṇḍīs, devoid of transcendental devotion, hold the doctrine of the impersonal and so have turned away from fidelity to the Supreme Self. That is why they think "liberation" means merging into prakṛti, called Brahman, and losing all distinguishing features. The Māyāvādīs of Āryāvarta do not know that Śrī Caitanyadeva is a tridaṇḍī, and in their external understanding a vivarta arises — they take one thing for another. The Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says not a word about ekadaṇḍa-sannyāsa: it describes the carrying of the tridaṇḍa as the only dress of the fourth āśrama. Śrī Gaurasundara held that very word of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in high esteem. The Māyāvādīs, whose wisdom faces outward (bahiḥ-prajña), cannot understand this.

Following the teaching of Śrī Caitanyadeva, sannyāsa with the śikhā and the sacred thread (sūtra) is current among His followers to this day. The ekadaṇḍī Māyāvādīs are without śikhā and thread and cannot understand the glory of the tridaṇḍa, because they have no inclination to serve Śrī Bhagavān. Their minds are sunk in serving the objects of the senses, and they lack patience. So they take shelter of a dharma alien to Him (atad-dharma), give up the relationship of the served and the servant, and contemplate merging into prakṛti or into Brahman. The ācāryas who establish daiva-varṇāśrama accept nothing from those in āsura-varṇāśrama — neither their understanding nor the current of their thought.

Śrī Gaurasundara's most intimate devotee, supremely expert in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Śrīmad Gadādhara Paṇḍita Gosvāmī Prabhu himself accepted the principle of tridaṇḍa-sannyāsa and accepted Śrī Mādhava Upādhyāya as his tridaṇḍī disciple. From this Mādhavācārya arose, in the west, the sampradāya of Śrī Vallabhācārya. Śrīla Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī, the smṛti-ācārya of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas, was initiated under the rule of tridaṇḍa introduced by his ācārya and Śrī Gurudeva, Tridaṇḍipāda Śrī Prabodhānanda Sarasvatī Prabhu. There is no clear record of what dress Śrīla Gopāla Bhaṭṭa accepted. Yet his adherence to the rule of tridaṇḍa given in the first verse of Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī's Upadeśāmṛta was plainly evident in this Vaiṣṇava smṛti-ācārya. None of Śrī Gaurasundara's followers accepted ekadaṇḍa in the sense of kevalādvaita. The sannyāsīs who shave off the śikhā, wear no thread and hold to impersonalist thinking could not introduce their system into the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava sampradāya.

Śrī Gaurasundara approved only the way of Tridaṇḍī Śrī Śrīdhara Svāmipāda. The kevalādvaita-vādīs, unable to understand Śrīdhara's teaching of pure nondualism (śuddhādvaita), want to count him as one of their own, but that is not what Gaurasundara intended.

*Joy at seeing the tridaṇḍī mendicant's fidelity to the service of Kṛṣṇa —*

to Mukunda of service the vow has made firm resolve

7 The Lord said, “How excellent are this mendicant’s words! He has firmly resolved on the vow of serving Mukunda.

পরাত্মনিষ্ঠা-মাত্র বেষ-ধারণ । মুকুন্দ-সেবায় হয় সংসার-তারণ ॥ ৮ ॥

parātma-niṣṭhā-mātra veṣa-dhāraṇa devotion to the Supreme Self only for the dress wearing mukunda-sevāya haya saṁsāra-tāraṇa
by service to Mukunda comes about from saṁsāra deliverance

8 The dress of renunciation is worn only for the sake of devotion to the Supreme Self, and it is service to Mukunda that delivers one from saṁsāra.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Having put on the dress of sannyāsa, Mahāprabhu said: “These words of the mendicant are excellent, for they establish the vow of serving Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet.” The dress of sannyāsa spoken of here means fidelity to the Supreme Self (parātma-niṣṭhā), which rejects attachment to the material self (jaḍātma-niṣṭhā).

*Intoxicated with prema, the Lord sets out for Vṛndāvana —*

16 Meanwhile Ṭhākura Nityānanda gathered the boys in secret and, having made up a fitting tale, taught them all what to say:

Anubhāṣya.
Prabandha — a well-composed story.

17 "When the Lord asks you the way to Vṛndāvana, show Him the path along the bank of the Gaṅgā."

The Lord asks the boys the way to Vṛndāvana —

তবে প্রভু পুছিলেন, — 'শুন, শিশুগণ ।

tell please by which path shall I go to Vṛndāvana

18 Then the Lord asked, "Listen, children! Tell Me, which way should I take to Vṛndāvana?"

As Nitāi told them, the boys show the Lord the road to Navadvīpa —

শিশু সব গঙ্গাতীরপথ দেখাইল ।

19 The children showed Him the path along the bank of the Gaṅgā, and the Lord, absorbed in rapture, went that way.

Nitāi sends Candraśekhara to Śāntipura to have everything needed arranged and to spread the news of the Lord's coming on all sides —

Nitāi suddenly appears before Mahāprabhu —

23 Having sent him off, the great-hearted Nityānanda came before Mahāprabhu and made Himself known.

Seeing Nityānanda, the Lord questions him; Nitāi's ruse —

প্রভু কহে, — শ্রীপাদ, তোমার কোথাকে গমন। শ্রীপাদ কহে, তোমার সঙ্গে যাব বৃন্দাবন ॥ ২৪ ॥

prabhu kahe, — śrīpāda, tomāra kothāke gamana
the Lord says Śrīpāda Your where going śrīpāda kahe, tomāra saṅge yāba vṛndāvana
Śrīpāda says You with shall go to Vṛndāvana

24 The Lord said, "Śrīpāda, where are You going?" Śrīpāda answered, "I am going with You to Vṛndāvana."

He shows the Gaṅgā, calling it "the Yamunā" —

প্রভু কহে, কত দূরে আছে বৃন্দাবন। তিঁহো কহেন, — কর এই যমুনা দরশন ॥ ২৫ ॥

prabhu kahe, kata dūre āche vṛndāvana
the Lord says how far is Vṛndāvana
tiṁho kahena, — kara ei yamunā daraśana
He says take this of the Yamunā sight

25 The Lord asked, "How far is Vṛndāvana?" Nityānanda replied, "Look, here is the Yamunā!"

The sight of the Gaṅgā awakens in Mahāprabhu the memory of the Yamunā —

এত বলি’ আনিল তাঁরে গঙ্গা-সন্নিধানে ।

in ecstasy the Lord’s arose the Ganges as the Yamunā perceiving

26 With these words He brought Mahāprabhu to the Gaṅgā, and in His rapture the Lord saw the Gaṅgā as the Yamunā.

The Lord's prayer to the Yamunā —

aho bhāgya, yamunāre pāiluṁ daraśana
oh fortune of the Yamunā I have obtained sight eta bali’ yamunāra karena stavana
thus saying of the Yamunā makes praise

27 “Oh, what fortune! I have seen the Yamunā!” Saying this, He began to sing her praises:

28 "She is ever the object of the supreme love of Nanda's son, the sun of consciousness and bliss. Her body is Brahman become water; she cuts away all sins and brings good to the world. May the daughter of the Sun purify our bodies!" (Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka, 5.13)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
May the Yamunā, daughter of the Sun, purify our body! She is eternally the vessel of love for the son of Nanda, the Sun of spirit and bliss; her form is Brahman become liquid; she destroys sins and brings good to the world.

eta bali' namaskari' kaila gaṅgā-snāna
thus saying bowing down did bath in the Ganges eka kaupīna, nāhi dvitīya paridhāna
one kaupīna not second garment

29 Saying this, He bowed down and bathed in the Gaṅgā. He had only a single kaupīna and no other cloth.

He sees Advaita —

হেনকালে আচার্য্য-গোসাঞি নৌকাতে চড়িঞা । আইল নূতন কৌপীন-বহির্ব্বাস লঞা ॥ ৩০ ॥

hena kāle ācārya-gosāñi naukāte caḍiñā at such a time Ācārya Gosāñi in a boat having boarded āila nūtana kaupīna-bahirvāsa lañā came new kaupīna and outer cloth bringing 30 Just then Ācārya Gosāñi arrived by boat, bringing a new kaupīna and outer cloth.

Seeing Advaita, the Lord is in doubt —

আগে আচার্য্য আসি' রহিলা নমস্কার করি' । আচার্য্য দেখি' বলে প্রভু মনে সংশয় করি' ॥ ৩১ ॥

āge ācārya āsi' rahilā namaskāra kari'
in front the Ācārya coming stood obeisance having made ācārya dekhi' bale prabhu mane saṁśaya kari'
the Ācārya seeing says the Lord in mind doubt feeling

31 The Ācārya came before Him, bowed down and stood waiting. At the sight of the Ācārya the Lord was puzzled at heart, and He said:

The Lord questions Advaita —

তুমি ত' আচার্য্য-গোসাঞি, এথা কেনে আইলা । আমি বৃন্দাবনে, তুমি কেমতে জানিলা ॥ ৩২ ॥

tumi ta' ācārya-gosāñi, ethā kene āilā
You surely Ācārya Gosāñi here why have come āmi vṛndāvane, tumi ke-mate jānilā
I in Vṛndāvana You how knew

32 “You are Ācārya Gosāñi, aren’t You? Why have You come here? How did You know that I was in Vṛndāvana?”

Advaita answers guilelessly —

আচার্য্য কহে, — তুমি যাঁহা, সেই বৃন্দাবন । মোর ভাগ্যে গঙ্গাতীরে তোমার আগমন ॥ ৩৩ ॥

ācārya kahe, — tumi yāṁhā, sei vṛndāvana
the Ācārya says You wherever that is Vṛndāvana mora bhāgye gaṅgā-tīre tomāra āgamana
by My fortune to the Ganges’ bank Your coming

33 The Ācārya said, “Wherever You are, that is Vṛndāvana. It is My good fortune that You have come to the bank of the Gaṅgā.”

The Lord tells Advaita of Nitāi's cleverness —

প্রভু কহে, — নিত্যানন্দ আমারে বঞ্চিলা । গঙ্গাকে আনিয়া মোরে যমুনা কহিলা ॥ ৩৪ ॥

prabhu kahe, — nityānanda āmāre vañcilā
the Lord says Nityānanda Me has deceived gaṅgāke āniyā more yamunā kahilā to the Ganges bringing to Me the Yamunā called it

34 The Lord said, “Nityānanda has deceived Me! He brought Me to the Gaṅgā and told Me it was the Yamunā.”

Anubhāṣya.

Gaṅgāke — “to the Gaṅgā” (gaṅgāya). Before his renunciation Kavirāja Gosvāmī Prabhu lived in Rāḍha-deśa, near Kāṭoyā, and so the speech of Rāḍha appears in many places in the book. Even today in Rāḍha-deśa -ke is used in place of the locative ending -e: for example, the word ghare (“in the house”) is spoken in Rāḍha as gharke.

Advaita upholds Nitāi's words and proves them true —

আচার্য্য কহে, মিথ্যা নহে শ্রীপাদ-বচন । যমুনাতে স্নান তুমি করিলা এখন ॥ ৩৫ ॥

ācārya kahe, mithyā nahe śrīpāda-vacana
the Ācārya says false is not Śrīpāda's words yamunāte snāna tumi karilā ekhana
in the Yamunā bath You took just now

35 The Ācārya said, "Śrīpāda's words are not false. Just now You did bathe in the Yamunā.

গঙ্গায় যমুনা বহে হঞা একধার । পশ্চিমে যমুনা বহে, পূর্ব্বে গঙ্গাধার ॥ ৩৬ ॥

gaṅgāya yamunā vahe hañā eka-dhāra
in the Ganges the Yamunā flows becoming one stream paścime yamunā vahe, pūrve gaṅgā-dhāra on the west the Yamunā flows on the east the Ganges' stream

36 Here the Yamunā flows in the Gaṅgā, and the two run as one stream: on the west flows the Yamunā, on the east the Gaṅgā.

*Advaita gives the Lord a new kaupīna and invites Him —*

পশ্চিমধারে যমুনা বহে, তাঁহা কৈলে স্নান । আর্দ্র কৌপীন ছাড়ি' শুষ্ক কর পরিধান ॥ ৩৭ ॥

paścima-dhāre yamunā vahe, tāṁhā kaile snāna in the western stream the Yamunā flows there You took bath ārdra kaupīna chāḍi' śuṣka kara paridhāna wet kaupīna giving up dry make wearing

37 The Yamunā flows in the western stream, and that is where You bathed. Now take off Your wet kaupīna and put on a dry one.

প্রেমাবেশে তিন দিন আছ উপবাস ৷ আজি মোর ঘরে ভিক্ষা, চল মোর বাস ॥ ৩৮ ॥

premāveśe tina dina ācha upavāsa
in ecstatic love three days You have been fasting āji mora ghare bhikṣā, cala mora vāsa
today in My house alms come to My dwelling

38 Absorbed in love, You have been fasting for three days. Today take Your alms in My house; come home with Me.

Fearing the Lord might refuse, Advaita describes the meal at his home as very simple —

এক মুষ্টি অন্ন মুঞি করিয়াছোঁ পাক ৷ শুখারুখা ব্যঞ্জন কৈলুঁ, সূপ আর শাক ॥ ৩৯ ॥

eka muṣṭi anna muñi kariyāchoṁ pāka
one handful of rice I have done cooking śukhārukhā vyañjana kailuṁ, sūpa āra śāka
plain vegetables I made dāl and greens

39 I have cooked just a handful of rice and made some plain vegetables, dāl and greens.”

Anubhāṣya.

Śukhārukhā vyañjana — caccaḍi (?)[21]; sūpa — rasā (a liquid dish, a broth).

He brings the Lord to his home in Śāntipura and receives Him —

এত বলি’ নৌকায় চড়াঞা নিল নিজ-ঘর ৷ পাদপ্রক্ষালন কৈল আনন্দ-অন্তর ॥ ৪০ ॥

eta bali’ naukāya caḍāñā nila nija-ghara
thus saying in the boat seating took to His own house pāda-prakṣālana kaila ānanda-antara
of the feet washing did joyful at heart

40 Saying this, He seated the Lord in the boat and took Him to His own house, where, joyful at heart, He washed the Lord's feet.

*Sītā Ṭhākurāṇī cooks, and the Ācārya himself offers the bhoga —*

প্রথমে পাক করিয়াছেন আচার্য্যাণী ।

prathame pāka kariyāchena ācāryāṇī
first the cooking had done the Ācārya's wife viṣṇu-samarpaṇa kaila ācārya āpani to Viṣṇu offering did the Ācārya Himself

41 The Ācārya's wife had done the cooking beforehand, and the Ācārya Himself offered the food to Viṣṇu.

The offering is laid out on three plates for three — the two Prabhus and Kṛṣṇa —

তিন ঠাঞি ভোগ বাড়াইল সম করি' । কৃষ্ণের ভোগ বাড়াইল ধাতু-পাত্রোপরি ॥ ৪২ ॥

tina ṭhāñi bhoga bāḍāila sama kari'

57 There were three white seats covered with cloth. The Ācārya fed Kṛṣṇa's portion to Kṛṣṇa Himself.

Anubhāṣya.

Sākṣāt kṛṣṇe* (to Kṛṣṇa Himself) — to Śrīman Mahāprabhu.

*The Ācārya performs ārati himself; the Prabhus and their associates watch —*

with the Lords all coming the ārati saw

58 When it was time for ārati, the Ācārya called the two Lords, and everyone came with Them to see it.

The Deity is laid to rest —

আরতি করিয়া কৃষ্ণে করা'ল শয়ন । আচার্য্য আসি' প্রভুরে তবে কৈলা নিবেদন ॥ ৫৯ ॥

ārati kariyā kṛṣṇe karā'la śayana ārati having done Kṛṣṇa made to lie down ācārya āsi' prabhure tabe kailā nivedana
the Ācārya coming to the Lord then made a request

59 After the ārati, Kṛṣṇa was laid down to rest, and then the Ācārya came and made a request to the Lord:

The two Prabhus go into the house to eat —

গৃহের ভিতরে প্রভু করুন গমন । দুই ভাই আইলা তবে করিতে ভোজন ॥ ৬০ ॥

gṛhera bhitare prabhu karuna gamana of the house inside the Lord may make going dui bhāi āilā tabe karite bhojana
the two brothers came then to take the meal

60 "Please, Lord, come into the house." Then the two Brothers went in to take Their meal.

Though Mukunda and Haridāsa are asked to eat, they keep proper decorum and show humility and modesty —

with joined palms the two to speak began

61 The two Lords called Mukunda and Haridāsa, but the two of them, with joined palms, began to speak.

মুকুন্দ বলে, মোর কিছু কৃত্য নাহি সরে ৷

later I prasāda shall take You go into the house

62 Mukunda said, "Some of my duties are not yet finished. I shall take prasāda later; You go inside."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Kṛtya nāhi sare — some duty still remains to be done.

হরিদাস বলে, মুঞি পাপিষ্ঠ অধম । বাহিরে একমুষ্টি পাছে করিমু ভোজন ॥ ৬৩ ॥

haridāsa bale, muñi pāpiṣṭha adhama Haridāsa says I most sinful lowly bāhire eka muṣṭi pāche karimu bhojana
outside one handful later shall make meal

63 Haridāsa said, "I am most sinful and lowly. Later I shall eat a handful outside."

*On seeing the prasāda the Lord rejoices and honors Advaita —*

the two Lords taking the Ācārya went to the inner room prasāda dekhiyā prabhura ānanda antare
the prasāda seeing of the Lord joy in the heart

64 The Ācārya took the two Lords into the inner room. Seeing the prasāda, the Lord felt joy in His heart.

65 "Whoever feeds Kṛṣṇa such food — birth after birth I would hold his feet upon My head."

Without telling Mahāprabhu, Advaita seats each of the two Prabhus in his own place —

প্রভু জানে, তিন ভোগ — কৃষ্ণের নৈবেদ্য । আচার্য্যের মনঃ-কথা নহে প্রভুর বেদ্য ॥ ৬৬ ॥

prabhu jāne, tina bhoga — kṛṣṇera naivedya
the Lord knows three offerings Kṛṣṇa's naivedya ācāryera manaḥ-kathā nahe prabhura vedya of the Ācārya the mind's intention not to the Lord known

66 The Lord took all three portions to be food already offered to Kṛṣṇa, for He did not know what the Ācārya had in mind.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Advaita Prabhu had served out the bhoga equally in three portions (see verse 42 of this chapter). Of these, Kṛṣṇa's bhoga was on the metal plate, and the other two were on banana leaves. Advaita Prabhu himself offered to Kṛṣṇa the bhoga on the metal plate. The two portions on banana leaves, meant for Śrī Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu, remained unoffered. The Ācārya kept this in his mind and did not reveal it to Mahāprabhu. So Mahāprabhu thought that all three portions were prasāda offered to Kṛṣṇa.

The Lord and the Ācārya each ask the other to sit down and eat —

প্রভু বলে, বৈস তুমি করিতে ভোজন । আচার্য্য কহে, আমি করিব পরিবেশন ॥ ৬৭ ॥

prabhu bale, vaisa tumi karite bhojana
the Lord says sit You to take the meal ācārya kahe, āmi kariba pariveśana
the Ācārya says I shall do serving

67 "You too sit down and eat," said the Lord. "I shall serve," replied the Ācārya.[7]

The Lord's words —

কোন্ স্থানে বসিব, আর আন দুই পাত । অল্প করি' তাহে আনি' দেহ ব্যঞ্জন-ভাত ॥ ৬৮ ॥

kon sthāne vasiba, āra āna dui pāta
in which place shall I sit another bring two leaves alpa kari' tāhe āni' deha vyañjana-bhāta
little making on them bringing give vegetables and rice

68 The Lord said, "Where shall I sit? Bring two more leaves, and put just a little rice and vegetables on them."

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Mahāprabhu asked Advaita, "Where shall Nityānanda and I sit?" Seeing how much bhoga there was, He told him to bring two more plates and to put on them only a little rice and vegetables.

The Ācārya seats the two Prabhus —

আচার্য্য কহে, বৈস দোঁহে পিণ্ডার উপরে । এত বলি হাতে ধরি' বসাইল দুঁহারে ॥ ৬৯ ॥

ācārya kahe, vaisa doṁhe piṇḍāra upare
the Ācārya says sit both the seats upon eta bali hāte dhari' vasāila duṁhāre thus saying by the hands taking seated both

69 "Both of You, sit on these seats," said the Ācārya, and He took Them by the hand and seated Them.

The Lord's pastime of renunciation on the path of rules, as befits an ācārya —

প্রভু কহে, সন্ন্যাসীর ভক্ষ্য নহে উপকরণ । ইহা খাইলে কৈছে হবে ইন্দ্রিয়-বারণ ॥ ৭০ ॥

prabhu kahe, sannyāsīra bhakṣya nahe upakaraṇa
the Lord says of a sannyāsī food is not such fare
ihā khāile kaiche habe indriya-vāraṇa
this eating how will be of the senses restraint

70 The Lord said, “Such fare is not fit food for a sannyāsī. If he eats this, how will he restrain his senses?”

Anubhāṣya.

Upakaraṇa — dāl, vegetables and so on: the things that make rice easy to eat. A sannyāsī has no right to such tasty dishes. Taking what pleases the senses strengthens the urge to enjoy. That is why Mahāprabhu said to Śrī Raghunātha dāsa Gosvāmī about a devotee for whom renunciation comes first: “Do not dress well, and do not eat well.”[22] Devotees never accept anything other than Kṛṣṇa's prasāda. Wealthy householders offer Kṛṣṇa the finest and tastiest things. There are also prasāda articles that accompany Kṛṣṇa's pastimes — tāmbūla to freshen the mouth and other fragrant spices, flower garlands, a bed, clothes, ornaments and so on. Vaiṣṇavas cherish them. Yet by the Lord's order the selfless (akiñcana) Vaiṣṇavas regard their own bodies as mundane and repulsive and know that to accept such things would be an offense. So they declare their own unworthiness. Non-Vaiṣṇavas who pose as Vaiṣṇavas, the sahajiyās and others driven by anarthas cannot understand the purport of the Lord's instruction.

The Ācārya, whose life is given to Gaura, presses the Lord hard to eat —

আচার্য্য কহে, ছাড় তুমি আপনার চুরি । আমি জানি তোমার সন্ন্যাসের ভারিভুরি ॥ ৭১ ॥

ācārya kahe, chāḍa tumi āpanāra curi
the Ācārya says give up You Your own concealment
āmi jāni tomāra sannyāsera bhāri-bhuri
I know of Your sannyāsa the pretence

71 The Ācārya said, “Stop hiding who You are. I know the secret of Your sannyāsa.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Bhāribhuri — a secret (gopya-kathā).

The Lord objects that He cannot eat so much, and the Ācārya insists all the more —

ভোজন করহ, ছাড় বচন-চাতুরী । প্রভু কহে, এত অন্ন খাইতে না পারি ॥ ৭২ ॥

bhojana karaha, chāḍa vacana-cāturī
the meal take give up of words cleverness prabhu kahe, eta anna khāite nā pāri the Lord says so much food to eat not I can 72 Eat, and stop Your clever talk." "I cannot eat so much," said the Lord.

আচার্য্য বলে, অকপটে করহ আহার । যদি খাইতে না পার, রহিবেক আর ॥ ৭৩ ॥

ācārya bale, akapaṭe karaha āhāra
the Ācārya says without pretence take food yadi khāite nā pāra, rahibeka āra
if to eat not You can will remain the rest

73 The Ācārya said, "Eat without pretence. If You cannot eat it all, the rest can stay."[8]

*A sannyāsī is forbidden to leave remnants on his plate —*

প্রভু বলে, এত অন্ন নারিব খাইতে । সন্ন্যাসীর ধর্ম্ম নহে উচ্ছিষ্ট রাখিতে ॥ ৭৪ ॥

of a sannyāsī the duty is not remnants to leave

74 The Lord said, "I shall not be able to eat so much, and it is not a sannyāsī's dharma to leave remnants."

Anubhāṣya.

A sannyāsī must not leave remnants of food. (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.18.19): “Let him go out to a body of water, bathe there, and, restraining his speech, divide the food he has gathered and purified by sprinkling; then let him eat the remainder completely, leaving nothing.” Cakravartī's commentary: “ ‘Divide’ — among Viṣṇu, Brahmā, the Sun and living beings. ‘Leaving nothing’ — that is, nothing left over on the plate should be kept.”

The Ācārya reproaches the Lord and shows his humility —

After rinsing hands and mouth, each with separate water, the two Prabhus begin to eat —

81 The Ācārya said, "You are a pilgrim sannyāsī: sometimes You eat fruits and roots, sometimes You fast.[9]

Anubhāṣya.
Taithika sannyāsī. Though He Himself is an avadhūta, Nityānanda plays the part of a bahūdaka-sannyāsī who wanders to holy places (tīrthas). See the Anubhāṣya on verse 85.

sannyāsa You have taken I think brāhmaṇas to punish 85 “You are a fallen avadhūta! You took sannyāsa just to fill Your belly — to punish brāhmaṇas, I think.

Anubhāṣya.

Bhraṣṭa — “fallen” in the eyes of the mundane smārta society, that is, beyond injunctions and prohibitions. The word is used as praise in the guise of censure.

The highest stage of sannyāsa is pāramahaṁsya; another name for it is avadhūtatva. Avadhūtas act as they please: though they accept the objects of the senses, they are not bound by them. The marks of sannyāsa they sometimes accept and sometimes give up. All these words of Advaita are a jest, not the truth. Some people, seeing Tripurasundarī installed at Khaḍadaha together with Śrī Śyāmasundara, mistake Nityānanda Prabhu's avadhūta conduct for the conduct of a kaula-avadhūta of the Śākta sampradāya: “Within a Śākta, outside a Śaiva, in the assembly considered a Vaiṣṇava.” In fact it is not so. Śrī Nityānanda Svarūpa is a svarūpa-brahmacārī (a brahmacārī bearing the name “Svarūpa”) of a Vedic sannyāsī, and is Himself a paramahaṁsa. Others again say that Lakṣmīpati Tīrtha was His ācārya. Even so, He belongs to the sampradāya of Śrī Madhva, not to the Tāntrikas of Bengal.

Anubhāṣya.
Jhuṭā — remnants (ucchiṣṭa).

Mahāprabhu laughs at the loving, playful quarrel of the two Prabhus —

88 In this way They ate, joking and laughing. The Lord would eat half of each vegetable dish and leave the rest.

Mahāprabhu eats His fill, as the Ācārya wishes —

92 With many efforts and humble pleas the Ācārya fed the Lord, and the Lord fulfilled His wish.

Pretending to have eaten only half, Nitāi, in feigned anger, throws a handful of rice —

Anubhāṣya.
Ujhāli — scattering.

Nitāi's thrown remnants touch Advaita's body, and Advaita dances, overwhelmed with love —

parama pavitra more kaila ei ḍhaṅge
supremely pure Me has made in this way

96 “The leftovers of the avadhūta have touched My body! In this way He has made Me supremely pure.

Anubhāṣya.

Avadhūta — asaṁskṛta-deha, one who does not care for his body (see Śrīdhara Svāmī's commentary on Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.1.19). [Advaita says:] "Śrī Nityānanda is playing the pastime of a paramahaṁsa's conduct. He may have scattered the rice as a show of madness. But by the touch of His remnants, though by the rules of the non-devotee smārta society I should have become impure and defiled, I have in truth become supremely pure and holy." The remnants of a Vaiṣṇava, or paramahaṁsa, are mahā-mahā-prasāda. They are themselves living consciousness, real, like Viṣṇu. They are not the material rice and dāl that gratify the senses of a non-devotee. Śrī Gurudeva is the best of paramahaṁsas, beyond varṇāśrama. To touch, partake of and associate with his remnants and those of other paramahaṁsas, that is, Vaiṣṇavas, removes from the heart of the conditioned jīva all aversion to Hari. This establishes the jīva in pure brāhmaṇahood — in transcendental service to the paramahaṁsas. This Ācārya Śrīla Advaita Prabhu himself declared for the good of foolish jīvas.

In the guise of censure Advaita praises Nityānanda —

তোরে নিমন্ত্রণ করি' পাইনু তার ফল । তোর জাতি-কুল নাহি, সহজে পাগল ॥ ৯৭ ॥

tore nimantraṇa kari' pāinu tāra phala
you invitation having made I have got its fruit
tora jāti-kula nāhi, sahaje pāgala
your caste and family none by nature a madman

97 I invited You, and I have reaped the fruit of it! You have no caste or family — You are a madman by nature.

Anubhāṣya.

Sahaje pāgala ("mad by nature") — devoted to the transcendental dharma of the paramahaṁsas, which is innate to the self, to consciousness, and at every moment intoxicated with serving Kṛṣṇa with all the senses (see Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.18.28–29).

আপনার সম মোরে করিবার তরে । ঝুটা দিলে, বিপ্র বলি' ভয় না করিলে ॥ ৯৮ ॥

āpanāra sama more karibāra tare
Your own equal Me to make for the sake of jhuṭā dile, vipra bali' bhaya nā karile leftovers you gave a brāhmaṇa considering fear not you felt

98 To make Me just like You, You threw Your leftovers at Me, without any fear that I am a brāhmaṇa."

Anubhāṣya.

Āpanāra sama ("like Yourself") — that is, a perfected Vaiṣṇava, a paramahaṁsa beyond injunctions and prohibitions. Śrī Guru, Nityānanda, the paramahaṁsas, or Vaiṣṇavas, and those who think of themselves as their servants are never governed by the rules of the mundane smārta society, averse to Hari, out of fear of it. This is the purport of Ācārya Śrīla Advaita Prabhu's words. Pure Vaiṣṇavas, the servants of the paramahaṁsas, do not see the conscious mahā-prasāda as the same as rice and dāl born of prakṛti that gratify the material senses. Instead of weighing whether someone's touch has defiled it, they partake of it and honor it. To say nothing of a pure Vaiṣṇava — even if a brāhmaṇa partakes of mahā-prasāda fallen from the mouth of a caṇḍāla, his brāhmaṇahood stays completely intact: not the slightest impurity touches it. This is what they know. When one partakes of mahā-prasāda, all the pure and impure things of the material world are engaged in Kṛṣṇa's service and are seen as transcendentally pure.

Nityānanda threatens Advaita with punishment and prescribes atonement —

নিত্যানন্দ বলে, — এই কৃষ্ণের প্রসাদ । ইহাকে 'ঝুটা' কহিলে, কৈলে অপরাধ ॥ ৯৯ ॥

nityānanda bale, — ei kṛṣṇera prasāda Nityānanda says this Kṛṣṇa's prasāda ihāke 'jhuṭā' kahile, kaile aparādha
it 'leftovers' having called You committed an offence

99 Nityānanda said, "This is Kṛṣṇa's prasāda! By calling it 'leftovers' You have committed an offence.

Anubhāṣya.

In the Bṛhad-viṣṇu Purāṇa: “O twice-born, in eating what is offered to the Lord of the universe — food, drink and the rest — there is no considering what may or may not be eaten. It is changeless like Brahman: as Viṣṇu is, so is it. Those twice-born who, eating it, see change in it are struck with leprosy and deprived of sons and wife. Those brāhmaṇas go to hell, from which they never return.” It is precisely to warn against the offense of regarding mahā-prasāda as an object of enjoyment, the same as material rice and dāl, that the author has written of the glory of mahā-prasāda (Antya, Chapter 16, verses 56–63).

Smṛti-dharma — the dharma of the smārtas.

Anubhāṣya.
Mahāprabhu saw that He, a sannyāsī, was being given a fine bed, cloves, cardamom, sandalwood paste and a flower garland, and that Advaita himself wanted to massage His feet. So He said, "You have made Me dance plenty — now stop making Me dance."

114 "What shall I tell you, My friend? There is no limit to My bliss today: at long last Mādhava is in My house."[11]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Ora — limit. This song (pada) is Vidyāpati's.

Anubhāṣya.
A song by Vidyāpati: "What shall I say, friend — there is no limit to my joy today! Mādhava is in my house forever. As much grief[23] as the wicked moon gave me, so much joy has the sight of my beloved's face brought me. Even if I filled the end of my sari with great treasure, I still would not send my beloved to a distant land. My beloved is my shawl in the cold, my breeze in the summer heat, my umbrella in the rains, my boat on the river. Vidyāpati says: listen, fair lady — the sorrow of the good lasts only two or four days." Śrīla Rādhāmohana Ṭhākura did not include the first four lines of this song in the Padāmṛta-samudra. Some think that "Mādhava" here refers to Mādhavendra Purī and that this is Advaita's own song.

But that is not right. It should be understood as better suited to union (sambhoga) after the separation when Kṛṣṇa was in Mathurā (māthura-viraha).

ei pada gāoyāiyā harṣe karena nartana
this song having (others) sing in joy does dancing sveda-kampa-pulakāśru-huṅkāra-garjana sweat trembling hair standing on end and tears cries of "huṁ" roaring

115 The Ācārya had this song sung and danced for joy, with sweat and trembling, hair standing on end, tears, cries of "huṁ" and thunderous roars.[12]

Advaita's humble prayer to the Lord —

ফিরি' ফিরি' কভু প্রভুর ধরেন চরণ । চরণ ধরিয়া প্রভুরে বলেন বচন ॥ ১১৬ ॥

phiri' phiri' kabhu prabhura dharena caraṇa turning turning at times the Lord's He clasps feet caraṇa dhariyā prabhure balena vacana
the feet clasping to the Lord He speaks words

116 Whirling round and round, now and then He would clasp the Lord's feet, and holding them He would say:

অনেক দিন তুমি মোরে বেড়াইলে ভাণ্ডিয়া ।

117 “For many days You eluded Me and led Me about with Your tricks. Now I have caught You in My house, and I shall bind You and keep You here.”

Anubhāṣya.

Bhāṇḍiyā — deceiving, tricking.

124 "Alas, My friend, dear to Me as life! What has become of Me! The poison of love for Kānu consumes My body and mind.[13]

Anubhāṣya.
In a song of the rasa of union (sambhoga), Śrī Prabhu, not finding Kṛṣṇa with Him, fully manifested the rasa of separation (vipralambha). Seeing this, Mukunda began a song to match, and Advaita Prabhu stopped dancing. (A similar song of Vidyāpati: "What shall I do, where shall I go? I find no relief. For my beloved's sake, to what land shall I go?")

প্রভুর সহিত যুদ্ধ করে ভাব-সৈন্য ॥ ১২৭ ॥

nirveda, viṣāda, harṣa, cāpala, garva, dainya despondency dejection joy restlessness pride humility prabhura sahita yuddha kare bhāva-sainya
the Lord with battle does of feelings the army

127 Despondency, dejection, joy, restlessness, pride and humility — an army of feelings waged war on the Lord.

Anubhāṣya.

Harṣa — (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave): "Gladness of heart born of seeing or obtaining what one desires is called harṣa. With it come hair standing on end, perspiration, tears, a radiant face, and also agitation (āvega), madness (unmāda), stupor (jaḍatā), fainting (moha) and the like." The gladness of heart when one gets to see what one desires is harṣa. With harṣa the hair stands on end, perspiration and tears appear, the face blossoms; there is agitation, madness, stupor, fainting and so on.

Garva — (ibid.): "Disregard for others because of one's good fortune, beauty, youth, qualities, the best of shelters, or the attainment of what one desires is called garva. With it come solluṇṭha speech (censure in the guise of praise), not answering out of playfulness, gazing at one's own limbs, concealment, not listening to others' words and the like." On attaining what one desires, one relies on one's good fortune, beauty and youth, qualities, the best of shelters and so on, and disregards others — that is garva. In it there are such acts as words of praise, not answering, gazing at one's own limbs, hiding one's intentions and not listening to what others say.

sometimes joy sometimes dejection of feelings in the waves

132 In this way the Lord danced blissfully for a prahara, now glad, now downcast, borne on the waves of His feelings.

After His fast the Lord tires from the wild dancing —

133 After three days of fasting the Lord had eaten, and now the wild, leaping dance wearied Him.

In His love for Kṛṣṇa the Lord feels no fatigue, yet His fatigue is relieved —

তবু ত' না জানে শ্রম প্রেমাবিষ্ট হঞা ।
নিত্যানন্দ মহাপ্রভুকে রাখিল ধরিঞা ॥ ১৩৪ ॥

Ācārya Gosāñi then stopped the kīrtana
nānā sevā kari' prabhuke karāila śayana various services having done the Lord made lie down

135 Ācārya Gosāñi brought the kīrtana to a close, and after serving the Lord in many ways, He had Him lie down to rest.

Ten days in Śāntipura —

saba loka āila, haila saṅghaṭṭa samṛddha
all the people came became the throng vast 138 All the people of the town of Nadīyā came — women, children and old men — and the crowd grew vast.

In the morning the Lord meets Śacī —

প্রাতঃকৃত্য করি' করে নাম-সংকীর্ত্তন । শচীমাতা লঞা আইলা অদ্বৈত-ভবন ॥ ১৩৯ ॥

prātaḥ-kṛtya kari' kare nāma-saṁkīrtana
the morning duties having done He does of the name saṅkīrtana
śacīmātā lañā āilā advaita-bhavana
Śacīmātā bringing they came to Advaita's house

139 When the Lord had finished His morning duties and was singing the holy name in saṅkīrtana, they arrived at Advaita's house with Śacīmātā.

Seeing the Lord, Śacī weeps with love —

শচী-আগে পড়িলা প্রভু দণ্ডবৎ হঞা ।

kāndite lāgilā śacī kole uṭhāiñā
to weep began Śacī on her lap lifting (Him)

140 The Lord fell flat like a rod before Śacī, and she lifted Him onto her lap and began to weep.

*A description of Śacī's parental love (vātsalya-prema) for the Lord —*

দোঁহার দর্শনে দুঁহে হইলা বিহ্বল । কেশ না দেখিয়া শচী হইলা বিকল ॥ ১৪১ ॥

doṁhāra darśane duṁhe hailā vihvala of each other at the sight both became overwhelmed
keśa nā dekhiyā śacī hailā vikala hair not seeing Śacī became stricken

141 At the sight of each other both were overwhelmed, and seeing no hair on His head, Śacī was stricken with grief.

অঙ্গ মুছে, মুখ চুম্বে, করে নিরীক্ষণ ।

dekhite nā pāya, — aśru bharila nayana
to see not she can tears filled her eyes

142 She wiped His body, kissed His face and gazed at Him, but she could not see Him, for tears filled her eyes.

Śacī laments and pleads with her son —

কান্দিয়া কহেন শচী, বাছারে নিমাঞি । বিশ্বরূপ-সম না করিহ নিঠুরাই ॥ ১৪৩ ॥

kāndiyā kahena śacī, bāchāre nimāñi weeping says Śacī my child Nimāi viśvarūpa-sama nā kariha niṭhurāi
like Viśvarūpa not do cruelty

143 Weeping, Śacī said, "My child Nimāi, do not be cruel like Viśvarūpa.

Anubhāṣya.
Niṭhurāi — cruelty.

সন্ন্যাসী হইয়া পুনঃ না দিল দরশন । তুমি তৈছে কৈলে, মোর হইবে মরণ ॥ ১৪৪ ॥

sannyāsī haiyā punaḥ nā dila daraśana
a sannyāsī having become again not he gave sight (of himself)
tumi taiche kaile, mora haibe maraṇa
You so if You do my will be death

144 After he became a sannyāsī, he never let me see him again. If You do the same, it will be my death."

The Lord, the crest jewel of those devoted to their mothers, consoles Śacīmātā —

কান্দিয়া বলেন প্রভু, শুন, মোর আই । তোমার শরীর এই, মোর কিছু নাই ॥ ১৪৫ ॥

kāndiyā balena prabhu, śuna, mora āi weeping says the Lord listen My mother tomāra śarīra ei, mora kichu nāi your body this Mine anything there is not 145 The Lord replied in tears, "Listen, My mother. This body is yours; there is nothing of Mine in it.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Āi — āryā (honored lady), Śacīmātā.

তোমার পালিত দেহ, জন্ম তোমা হৈতে । কোটি জন্মে তোমার ঋণ না পারি শোধিতে ॥ ১৪৬ ॥

tomāra pālita deha, janma tomā haite

koṭi janme tomāra ṛṇa nā pāri śodhite
in millions of births your debt not I can repay

146 You gave birth to this body and nurtured it. Even in millions of births I could not repay My debt to you.

The Lord's unfailing love for Śacīmātā —

জানি' বা না জানি' যদি করিলুঁ সন্ন্যাস । তথাপি তোমারে কভু নহিব উদাস ॥ ১৪৭ ॥

jāni' vā nā jāni' yadi kariluṁ sannyāsa
knowing or not knowing though I have taken sannyāsa tathāpi tomāre kabhu nahiba udāsa
still to you ever I shall not be indifferent

147 Whether I took sannyāsa knowingly or unknowingly, I shall never be indifferent to you.

The Lord promises to stay wherever Śacī wishes —

তুমি যাঁহা কহ, আমি তাঁহাই রহিব । তুমি যেই আজ্ঞা কর, সেই ত' করিব ॥ ১৪৮ ॥

tumi yāṁhā kaha, āmi tāṁhāi rahiba
you where say I there indeed shall stay tumi yei ājñā kara, sei ta' kariba
you whatever order give that indeed I shall do

148 Wherever you tell Me to stay, there I shall stay, and whatever you order, that I shall do.”

The Lord bows down, and Śacī, full of love, takes Him on her lap —

এত বলি’ পুনঃ পুনঃ করে নমস্কার । তুষ্ট হঞা আই কোলে করে বার বার ॥ ১৪৯ ॥

eta bali’ punaḥ punaḥ kare namaskāra
thus saying again and again He does obeisance tuṣṭa hañā āi kole kare bāra bāra pleased becoming mother on her lap takes (Him) again and again

149 Saying this, He bowed down to her again and again, and His mother, delighted, took Him on her lap time after time.

The Lord meets the devotees and embraces them with love —

তবে আই লঞা, আচার্য্য গেলা অভ্যন্তরে । ভক্তগণ মিলিতে প্রভু হইলা সত্বরে ॥ ১৫০ ॥

tabe āi lañā, ācārya gelā abhyantare
then mother taking the Ācārya went inside bhakta-gaṇa milite prabhu hailā satvare
the devotees to meet the Lord became in haste

150 Then the Ācārya took Śacī inside, and the Lord hastened to meet the devotees.

একে একে মিলিলা প্রভু সব ভক্তগণে । সবার মুখ দেখি’ করে দৃঢ় আলিঙ্গনে ॥ ১৫১ ॥

eke eke mililā prabhu saba bhakta-gaṇe
one by one met the Lord all the devotees
sabāra mukha dekhi’ kare dṛḍha āliṅgane of everyone the face seeing He gives firm embraces

151 The Lord met all the devotees one by one, looking into each one's face and embracing him tightly.

A devotee's joy at seeing the Lord is not a desire to please his own senses —

কেশ না দেখিয়া ভক্ত যদ্যপি পায় দুঃখ । সৌন্দর্য্য দেখিতে তবু পায় মহাসুখ ॥ ১৫২ ॥

keśa nā dekhiyā bhakta yadyapi pāya duḥkha hair not seeing the devotees although feel sorrow
saundarya dekhite tabu pāya mahā-sukha
His beauty seeing still feel great joy

152 Though the devotees grieved to see no hair on His head, still, as they beheld His beauty, they felt great joy.

The devotees who live in Navadvīpa —

শ্রীবাস, রামাই, বিদ্যানিধি, গদাধর ।
গঙ্গাদাস, বক্রেশ্বর, মুরারি, শুক্লাম্বর ॥ ১৫৩ ॥

Gaṅgādāsa Vakreśvara Murāri Śuklāmbara

153 Śrīvāsa, Rāmāi, Vidyānidhi, Gadādhara, Gaṅgādāsa, Vakreśvara, Murāri, Śuklāmbara, বুদ্ধিমন্ত খাঁন, নন্দন, শ্রীধর, বিজয় । বাসুদেব, দামোদর, মুকুন্দ, সঞ্জয় ॥ ১৫৪ ॥

buddhimanta khāṁna, nandana, śrīdhara, vijaya Buddhimanta Khān Nandana Śrīdhara Vijaya
vāsudeva, dāmodara, mukunda, sañjaya
Vāsudeva Dāmodara Mukunda Sañjaya

154 Buddhimanta Khān, Nandana, Śrīdhara, Vijaya, Vāsudeva, Dāmodara, Mukunda, Sañjaya —

কত নাম লইব যত নবদ্বীপবাসী । সবারে মিলিলা প্রভু কৃপাদৃষ্ট্যে হাসি' ॥ ১৫৫ ॥

kata nāma laiba yata navadvīpavāsī
how many names shall I take all the residents of Navadvīpa sabāre mililā prabhu kṛpādṛṣṭye hāsi'
with everyone met the Lord with a merciful glance smiling

155 how many of the people of Navadvīpa can I name? The Lord met them all, smiling, with a glance full of mercy.

Advaita's house is Vaikuṇṭha: at every moment Hari is served there —

আনন্দে নাচয়ে সবে বলি' 'হরি' 'হরি' । আচার্য্য-মন্দির হৈল শ্রীবৈকুণ্ঠপুরী ॥ ১৫৬ ॥

ānande nācaye sabe bali' 'hari' 'hari'
in bliss dance all saying "Hari!" "Hari!"
ācārya-mandira haila śrī-vaikuṇṭha-purī
the Ācārya's house became Śrī Vaikuṇṭha's city

156 Everyone danced in bliss, calling "Hari! Hari!", and the Ācārya's house became the city of Śrī Vaikuṇṭha.

The Ācārya gives lodging and food to all who come —

যত লোক আইলা মহাপ্রভুকে দেখিতে । নানা-গ্রাম হৈতে আর নবদ্বীপ হৈতে ॥ ১৫৭ ॥

yata loka āilā mahāprabhuke dekhite as many people came Mahāprabhu to see nānā-grāma haite āra navadvīpa haite various villages from and Navadvīpa from

157 People came from many villages and from Navadvīpa to see Mahāprabhu.[15]

সবাকারে বাসা দিল ভক্ষ্য অন্নপান । বহুদিন আচার্য্য-গোসাঞি কৈল সমাধান ॥ ১৫৮ ॥

sabākāre vāsā dila bhakṣya anna-pāna to everyone lodging He gave food rice and drink bahudina ācārya-gosāñi kaila samādhāna
for many days Ācārya Gosāñi did provision

158 To all of them Ācārya Gosāñi gave lodging, food and drink, and for many days He provided for them.

The unfailing storehouse of the unfailing Ācārya —

আচার্য্য-গোসাঞির ভাণ্ডার — অক্ষয়, অব্যয় । যত দ্রব্য ব্যয় করে, তত দ্রব্য হয় ॥ ১৫৯ ॥

ācārya-gosāñira bhāṇḍāra — akṣaya, avyaya Ācārya Gosāñi's storehouse inexhaustible undiminishing yata dravya vyaya kare, tata dravya haya
as much goods spending He does so much goods there are 159 The Ācārya's storehouse was inexhaustible and never grew less: however much He spent, as much again was there.

The Lord eats food cooked by Śacī —

সেই দিন হৈতে শচী করেন রন্ধন । ভক্তগণ লঞা প্রভু করেন ভোজন ॥ ১৬০ ॥

sei dina haite śacī karena randhana that day from Śacī does cooking
bhakta-gaṇa lañā prabhu karena bhojana
the devotees with the Lord does eating

160 From that day on Śacī did the cooking, and the Lord ate with the devotees.

By day the Ācārya sees the Lord, by night the other people —

দিনে আচার্য্যের প্রীতি — প্রভুর দর্শন ।
রাত্রে লোক দেখে প্রভুর নর্ত্তন-কীর্ত্তন ॥ ১৬১ ॥

dine ācāryera prīti — prabhura darśana
by day the Ācārya's joy of the Lord the sight
rātre loka dekhe prabhura nartana-kīrtana
at night the people see the Lord's dancing and kīrtana

161 By day the Ācārya's joy was to behold the Lord; at night the people watched the Lord's dancing and kīrtana.

*During kīrtana the Lord, overwhelmed by emotion, falls to the ground —*

কীর্ত্তন করিতে প্রভুর সর্ব্বভাবোদয় । স্তম্ভ, কম্প, পুলকাশ্রু, গদগদ, প্রলয় ॥ ১৬২ ॥

kīrtana karite prabhura sarva-bhāvodaya kīrtana doing of the Lord the rising of all ecstasies stambha, kampa, pulakāśru, gadgada, pralaya stupor trembling hair on end and tears choked voice fainting

162 As He sang kīrtana, every bhāva arose in the Lord: stupor, trembling, hair standing on end, tears, a faltering voice and loss of consciousness (pralaya).

Anubhāṣya.

Pulakāśru — (ibid.[24]): "Tears (aśru) are water that wells up in the eyes from joy, anger, grief and the like. Tears of joy are cool; tears of anger and the like are hot. With all tears there are agitation of the eyes, redness, wiping and so on." The water that falls from the eyes without any effort, from joy, anger, grief and the like, is pulakāśru. Tears of joy are cool, tears of anger hot, and with both kinds of pulakāśru there are agitation of the eyes, redness, wiping and so on.

Pralaya — (ibid.): "Pralaya is the cessation of activity and awareness through happiness or sorrow. Its outward signs (anubhāvas) are said to be falling on the ground and the like." Both through happiness and through sorrow, activity and awareness cease. In such pralaya one sees anubhāvas such as falling to the ground.

Sarva-bhāva ("all the emotions") — the eight sāttvika-vikāras: stambha (stupor), sveda (perspiration), romāñca (hair standing on end), svara-bheda (faltering voice), kampa (trembling), vaivarṇya (pallor), pulakāśru (tears) and pralaya (fainting).

Śacī, melting with love and overcome by fear, prays to Viṣṇu for her son's well-being —

ক্ষণে ক্ষণে পড়ে প্রভু আছাড় খাঞা । দেখি শচীমাতা কহে রোদন করিয়া ॥ ১৬৩ ॥

kṣaṇe kṣaṇe paḍe prabhu āchāḍa khāñā moment by moment falls the Lord a hard fall taking dekhi śacīmātā kahe rodana kariyā
seeing Śacīmātā speaks weeping doing

163 Again and again the Lord fell, dashing Himself to the ground, and seeing this, Śacīmātā spoke, weeping.

চূর্ণ হৈল, হেন বাসোঁ নিমাঞি-কলেবর । হাহা করি' বিষ্ণু-পাশে মাগে এই বর ॥ ১৬৪ ॥

cūrṇa haila, hena vāsoṅ nimāñi-kalevara shattered has become so I feel Nimāi's body
hā-hā kari' viṣṇu-pāśe māge ei vara
"alas!" crying from Viṣṇu she begs this boon

164 "I fear Nimāi's body has been shattered!" Crying out "Alas!", she begged this boon of Viṣṇu:

বাল্যকাল হৈতে তোমার যে কৈলুঁ সেবন । তার প্রতিফল মোরে দেহ, নারায়ণ ॥ ১৬৫ ॥

bālya-kāla haite tomāra ye kailuṁ sevana childhood from to You whatever I did service tāra prati phala more deha, nārāyaṇa of that in return the fruit to me give O Nārāyaṇa

165 "O Nārāyaṇa, for whatever service I have done You since my childhood, give me this as its fruit:

Anubhāṣya.
Bālya-kāla haite ("since childhood") — since girlhood, from earliest infancy. Śacīmātā is eternally perfect, vātsalya embodied, in her very nature Yaśodā herself. From birth she was devoted to Kṛṣṇa's service and was never an ordinary jīva. Here this is stated from her own lips.

যে কালে নিমাঞি পড়ে ধরণী-উপরে । ব্যথা যেন নাহি লাগে নিমাঞি-শরীরে ॥ ১৬৬ ॥

ye kāle nimāñi paḍe dharaṇī-upare
at what time Nimāi falls upon the ground vyathā yena nāhi lāge nimāñi-śarīre pain that not touches Nimāi's body

166 whenever Nimāi falls upon the ground, let no pain touch His body."

এইমত শচীদেবী বাৎসল্যে বিহ্বল । হর্ষ-ভয়-দৈন্যভাবে হইল বিকল ॥ ১৬৭ ॥

ei-mata śacīdevī vātsalye vihvala
in this way Śacīdevī with parental love overwhelmed harṣa-bhaya-dainya-bhāve haila vikala
by joy, fear and humility in her feelings became agitated

167 In this way Śacīdevī was overwhelmed with motherly love and shaken by joy, fear and humility.

The devotees wish to invite the Lord —

শ্রীবাসাদি যত প্রভুর বিপ্র ভক্তগণ । প্রভুকে ভিক্ষা দিতে হৈল সবাকার মন ॥ ১৬৮ ॥

śrīvāsādi yata prabhura vipra bhakta-gaṇa Śrīvāsa and the others all the Lord's brāhmaṇa devotees prabhuke bhikṣā dite haila sabākāra mana to the Lord alms to give was of everyone the wish

168 All the Lord's brāhmaṇa devotees, headed by Śrīvāsa, wished to invite Him to a meal.

Śacī's sorrow: she holds the devotees back and proposes to feed the Lord herself —

শুনি' শচী সবাকারে করিল মিনতি । নিমাঞির দরশন আর মুঞি পাব কতি ॥ ১৬৯ ॥

śuni' śacī sabākāre karila minati hearing Śacī to everyone made entreaty
nimāñira daraśana āra muñi pāba kati Nimāi's sight again I shall get where 169 At this Śacī entreated them all: "Where will I ever see Nimāi again?

Anubhāṣya.
Kati — where.

তোমা-সবা-সনে হবে অন্যত্র মিলন । মুঞি অভাগিনীর মাত্র এই দরশন ॥ ১৭০ ॥

tomā-sabā-sane habe anyatra milana with you all there will be elsewhere meeting muñi abhāginīra mātra ei daraśana
for me unfortunate only this sight

170 You will be able to meet Him elsewhere, but for me, unfortunate as I am, there is only this chance to see Him.

যাবৎ আচার্য্যগৃহে নিমাঞির অবস্থান । মুঞি ভিক্ষা দিব, সবাকারে মাগোঁ দান ॥ ১৭১ ॥

yāvat ācārya-gṛhe nimāñira avasthāna
as long as in the Ācārya's house Nimāi's stay muñi bhikṣā diba, sabākāre māgoṁ dāna
I alms shall give from everyone I beg this gift

171 As long as Nimāi stays in the Ācārya's house, let me alone feed Him. I beg this gift from you all."

The devotees agree —

শুনি' ভক্তগণ কহে করি' নমস্কার । মাতার যে ইচ্ছা, সেই সম্মত সবার ॥ ১৭২ ॥

śuni' bhakta-gaṇa kahe kari' namaskāra hearing the devotees say having made obeisance mātāra ye icchā, sei sammata sabāra
the mother's whatever wish that accepted by all

172 Hearing this, the devotees bowed down and said, "Whatever the mother wishes, we all accept."

To fulfill His mother's wish, the Lord, the crest jewel of those devoted to their mothers, makes a request of the devotees —

মাতার ব্যগ্রতা দেখি' প্রভুর ব্যগ্র মন । ভক্তগণ একত্র করি' বলিলা বচন ॥ ১৭৩ ॥

mātāra vyagratā dekhi' prabhura vyagra mana the mother's eagerness seeing the Lord's agitated mind bhakta-gaṇa ekatra kari' balilā vacana
the devotees together gathering He spoke words

173 Seeing His mother's eagerness, the Lord was moved. He gathered the devotees together and spoke to them:

The Lord is subject to His devotees —

তোমা-সবার আজ্ঞা বিনা চলিলাম বৃন্দাবন । যাইতে নারিল, বিঘ্ন কৈল নিবর্ত্তন ॥ ১৭৪ ॥

tomā-sabāra ājñā vinā calilāma vṛndāvana of you all permission without I set out for Vṛndāvana
yāite nārila, vighna kaila nivartana to go I could not an obstacle made turning back

174 "Without your permission I set out for Vṛndāvana, but I could not get there: an obstacle turned Me back.

The Lord's love for His devotees and for His mother —

যদ্যপি সহসা আমি কর্য্যাছোঁ সন্ন্যাস । তথাপি তোমা-সবা হৈতে নহিব উদাস ॥ ১৭৫ ॥

yadyapi sahasā āmi karyāchoṁ sannyāsa
although suddenly I have taken sannyāsa tathāpi tomā-sabā haite nahiba udāsa
still you all from I shall not be indifferent

175 Although I took sannyāsa so suddenly, I shall never become indifferent to you.

তোমা-সব না ছাড়িব, যাবৎ আমি জীব' । মাতারে তাবৎ আমি ছাড়িতে নারিব ॥ ১৭৬ ॥

tomā-saba nā chāḍiba, yāvat āmi jība'
you all not I shall leave as long as I live
mātāre tāvat āmi chāḍite nāriba
My mother that long I to leave shall not be able 176 As long as I live I shall not forsake you, nor shall I be able to forsake My mother.

Anubhāṣya.

Jība — I shall live, I shall remain manifest (prakaṭa) in this world.

*A sannyāsī must not return to what he has given up (become a vāntāśī, "one who eats what he has vomited") —*

সন্ন্যাসীর ধর্ম্ম, — নহে সন্ন্যাস করিঞা । নিজ জন্মস্থানে রহে কুটুম্ব লঞা ॥ ১৭৭ ॥

sannyāsīra dharma, — nahe sannyāsa kariñā of a sannyāsī the dharma is not sannyāsa having taken nija janma-sthāne rahe kuṭumba lañā
in his own birthplace to stay his family keeping with him

177 But it is not a sannyāsī's dharma, once he has taken sannyāsa, to stay at his birthplace with his family.

*So that Mahāprabhu is not blamed for false renunciation (phalgu-vairāgya), He asks the devotees for counsel —*

কেহ যেন এই বলি' না করে নিন্দন । সেই যুক্তি কহ, যাতে রহে দুই ধর্ম্ম ॥ ১৭৮ ॥

keha yena ei bali' nā kare nindana
anyone so that this saying not does blame sei yukti kaha, yāte rahe dui dharma that plan tell by which remain both dharmas

178 So tell Me a plan by which both dharmas may be kept and no one may find fault with Me."

Advaita and the others make a request of Śacī —

শুনিয়া প্রভুর এই মধুর বচন । শচীপাশ আচার্য্যাদি করিল গমন ॥ ১৭৯ ॥

śuniyā prabhura ei madhura vacana hearing the Lord's these sweet words śacī-pāśa ācāryādi karila gamana to Śacī's side the Ācārya and others made going

179 Hearing these sweet words of the Lord, the Ācārya and the others went to Śacī.

প্রভুর নিবেদন তাঁরে সকল কহিল। শুনি' শচী জগন্মাতা কহিতে লাগিল ॥ ১৮০ ॥

prabhura nivedana tāṁre sakala kahila
the Lord's request to her all they told śuni' śacī jagan-mātā kahite lāgila hearing Śacī the mother of the world to speak began

180 They told her all that the Lord had asked, and hearing it, Śacī, the mother of the world, said:

Śacīmātā's happiness lies in the Lord's happiness —

তেঁহো যদি ইঁহা রহে, তবে মোর সুখ। তাঁর নিন্দা হয় যদি, তবে মোর দুঃখ ॥ ১৮১ ॥

teṁho yadi iṁhā rahe, tabe mora sukha
He if here stays then my happiness
tāṁra nindā haya yadi, tabe mora duḥkha
His blame is if then my sorrow

181 "If He stays here, I shall be happy; but if He is blamed, I shall be sorrowful.

Anubhāṣya.
If the son gives up searching for Kṛṣṇa and stays at home, the mother will have pleasure — her senses will be satisfied. But the son, having abandoned Kṛṣṇa's service, will deserve blame, and a truly loving mother will only grieve. So a real mother wishes her son eternal good and happiness. Her real happiness lies not in her own joy or in the enjoyment of seeing her son, but in her son's service to Kṛṣṇa. Otherwise the word mā ("mother") means māyā. By these words Jaganmātā (the Mother of the world) Śacī Ṭhākurāṇī, the ideal for all mothers, has instructed them all. In this connection one should consider the verse (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 5.5.18): "He is no guru, he is no kinsman, he is no father, she is no mother, that is no deity and he is no husband, who does not free from death one who has come to him.”

For her son's happiness Śacīmātā agrees that He should live in Purī —

তাতে এই যুক্তি ভাল, মোর মনে লয় । নীলাচলে রহে যদি দুই কার্য্য হয় ॥ ১৮২ ॥

tāte ei yukti bhāla, mora mane laya therefore this plan good my in mind it seems nīlācale rahe yadi dui kārya haya
in Nīlācala He stays if both aims are achieved

182 So this plan seems good to me: if He stays in Nīlācala, both aims will be served.

নীলাচলে-নবদ্বীপে যেন দুই ঘর । লোক-গতাগতি-বার্ত্তা পাব নিরন্তর ॥ ১৮৩ ॥

nīlācale-navadvīpe yena dui ghara Nīlācala and Navadvīpa as if two homes
loka-gatāgati-vārtā pāba nirantara of people’s coming and going the news I shall get constantly

183 Nīlācala and Navadvīpa are like two homes of one family. People are always going back and forth, and I shall constantly have news of Him.

তুমি সব করিতে পার গমনাগমন । গঙ্গাস্নানে কভু হবে তাঁর আগমন ॥ ১৮৪ ॥ tumi saba karite pāra gamanāgamana you all to make can going and coming gaṅgāsnāne kabhu habe tāṁra āgamana for bathing in the Gaṅgā sometimes will be His coming 184 All of you can go there and come back, and at times He will come to bathe in the Gaṅgā.

Śacī's pure parental love for Gaura —

আপনার দুঃখ-সুখ তাহা নাহি গণি । তাঁর যেই সুখ, তাহা নিজ-সুখ মানি ॥ ১৮৫ ॥

āpanāra duḥkha-sukha tāhā nāhi gaṇi
my own sorrow and happiness that not I count
tāṁra yei sukha, tāhā nija-sukha māni
His whatever happiness that my own happiness I consider

185 I do not count my own sorrow or happiness. Whatever makes Him happy, that I take as my own happiness."

Anubhāṣya.

This verse is a beautiful explanation of the service of Kṛṣṇa's servant: service is the desire to please Kṛṣṇa's senses[25]. See Ādi 4.174–175, 201, 204; Madhya 4.186; and Ṭhākura Śrī Bhaktivinoda's song "Sevā-sukha-duḥkha — parama sampad" ("Happiness and sorrow in service are the highest wealth") in the Śaraṇāgati.

The devotees praise Śacīmātā —

শুনি' ভক্তগণ তাঁরে করিল স্তবন । বেদ-আজ্ঞা যৈছে, মাতা, তোমার বচন ॥ ১৮৬ ॥

śuni' bhakta-gaṇa tāṁre karila stavana hearing the devotees her did praise veda-ājñā yaiche, mātā, tomāra vacana
the Vedas' command like mother your words

186 The devotees praised her: "Mother, your words are like a command of the Vedas."

The Lord rejoices to hear Śacī's wish —

প্রভু-আগে ভক্তগণ কহিতে লাগিল । শুনিয়া প্রভুর মনে আনন্দ হইল ॥ ১৮৭ ॥

prabhu-āge bhakta-gaṇa kahite lāgila before the Lord the devotees to speak began śuniyā prabhura mane ānanda haila hearing the Lord's in the mind joy arose

187 They went and told the Lord, and when He heard it, His heart was filled with joy.

The Lord's appeal to the devotees —

নবদ্বীপ-বাসী আদি যত ভক্তগণ । সবারে সম্মান করি' বলিলা বচন ॥ ১৮৮ ॥

navadvīpa-vāsī ādi yata bhakta-gaṇa
the residents of Navadvīpa and others all the devotees sabāre sammāna kari' balilā vacana
to everyone honour having shown He spoke words

188 Showing honour to all the devotees, the residents of Navadvīpa and all the rest, He spoke to them:

তুমি-সব লোক — মোর পরম বান্ধব । এই ভিক্ষা মাগোঁ — মোরে দেহ তুমি-সব ॥ ১৮৯ ॥

tumi-saba loka — mora parama bāndhava
you all people My supreme friends ei bhikṣā māgoṁ — more deha tumi-saba
this alms I beg to Me give you all

189 "You are all My dearest friends, and I beg this of you all as alms — grant it to Me:

He tells everyone to sing Kṛṣṇa's names —

ঘরে যাঞা কর সদা কৃষ্ণসংকীর্ত্তন । কৃষ্ণনাম, কৃষ্ণকথা, কৃষ্ণ-আরাধন ॥ ১৯০ ॥

ghare yāñā kara sadā kṛṣṇa-saṁkīrtana home going do always Kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtana
kṛṣṇa-nāma, kṛṣṇa-kathā, kṛṣṇa-ārādhana
Kṛṣṇa's name talks of Kṛṣṇa worship of Kṛṣṇa

190 Go home and always perform saṅkīrtana of Kṛṣṇa — chant Kṛṣṇa's name, speak of Kṛṣṇa and worship Kṛṣṇa.

The Lord asks permission to go to Purī —

আজ্ঞা দেহ নীলাচলে করিয়ে গমন । মধ্যে মধ্যে আসি' তোমায় দিব দরশন ॥ ১৯১ ॥

ājñā deha nīlācale kariye gamana permission give to Nīlācala let Me make going madhye madhye āsi' tomāya diba daraśana from time to time coming to you I shall give sight (of Myself)

191 Give Me leave to go to Nīlācala. From time to time I shall come back and let you see Me."

Honoring each as is fitting, He bids everyone farewell —

এত বলি' সবাকারে ঈষৎ হাসিঞা । বিদায় করিল প্রভু সম্মান করিঞা ॥ ১৯২ ॥

eta bali' sabākāre īṣat hāsiñā
thus saying to everyone slightly smiling vidāya karila prabhu sammāna kariñā farewell made the Lord honour showing

192 Saying this, the Lord smiled gently at everyone and bade them farewell with due honour.

*Haridāsa's humility and freedom from all possessiveness (ākiñcanya) —*

সবা বিদায় দিয়া প্রভু চলিতে হৈল মন । হরিদাস কান্দি' কহে করুণ বচন ॥ ১৯৩ ॥

sabā vidāya diyā prabhu calite haila mana all leave having given the Lord to depart became the mind
haridāsa kāndi' kahe karuṇa vacana
Haridāsa weeping says piteous words

193 When He had bidden them all farewell, the Lord made up His mind to set out. Then Haridāsa, weeping, spoke piteously:

নীলাচলে যাবে তুমি, মোর কোন্ গতি । নীলাচলে যাইতে মোর নাহিক শকতি ॥ ১৯৪ ॥

nīlācale yābe tumi, mora kon gati to Nīlācala will go You my what destination
nīlācale yāite mora nāhika śakati to Nīlācala to go my there is no power

194 "You will go to Nīlācala — but what will become of me? I have no power to go there.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Haridāsa Ṭhākura, though born by birth (śaukra) in a Yavana (Muslim) family, attained brāhmaṇahood by initiation (daikṣya)[26]. In his natural humility Haridāsa thought himself utterly low. In a plaintive voice he told the Lord that because of his caste by birth he had no lawful right to enter Nīlācala. For in Nīlādri no one but the four varṇas may enter the courtyard of the Śrī Mandira. So if Śrī Mahāprabhu were to live in the Śrī Mandira of Nīlācala, Haridāsa would no longer be able to go there. Later, learning that nothing prevented him from living on the stretch of sand near Nīlādri, Ṭhākura Haridāsa settled there. That place is now known as the "Siddha-bakula Maṭha."

মুঞি অধম তোমার না পাব দরশন ।

how shall I sustain this sinful life

195 Lowly as I am, I shall not be able to see You. How shall I keep this sinful life?"

প্রভু কহে, — কর তুমি দৈন্য সম্বরণ । তোমার দৈন্যেতে মোর ব্যাকুল হয় মন ॥ ১৯৬ ॥

prabhu kahe, — kara tumi dainya samvaraṇa
the Lord says do you of humility restraint
tomāra dainyete mora vyākula haya mana

196 The Lord said, "Restrain your humility; it troubles My heart.

*Rejecting the smārta society averse to Hari, the Lord promises to take to Purī Ṭhākura Haridāsa — the transcendental guru of brāhmaṇas, a Vaiṣṇava ācārya —*

197 For your sake I shall plead with Jagannātha, and I shall take you with Me to Śrī Puruṣottama."

Advaita begs the Lord to stay a few more days —

তবে ত' আচার্য্য কহে বিনয় করিঞা ।

tabe ta' ācārya kahe vinaya kariñā then indeed the Ācārya says humility showing dina dui-cāri raha kṛpā ta' kariñā days two or four stay mercy indeed showing

198 Then the Ācārya said humbly, “Be merciful and stay a few more days.”

The Lord fulfills Advaita's wish —

আচার্য্যের বাক্য প্রভু না করে লঙ্ঘন । রহিলা অদ্বৈত-গৃহে, না কৈল গমন ॥ ১৯৯ ॥

ācāryera vākya prabhu nā kare laṅghana
the Ācārya’s words the Lord not does transgression
rahilā advaita-gṛhe, nā kaila gamana
He stayed in Advaita’s house not did going

199 The Lord would not go against the Ācārya’s words. He stayed on in Advaita’s house and put off His departure.

All rejoice to see the Lord's mercy —

আনন্দিত হৈল আচার্য্য, শচী, ভক্ত, সব ।

at night a great festival of saṅkīrtana in the joy

201 By day there was the relish of talks about Kṛṣṇa with the devotees, and at night a great festival of joyous saṅkīrtana.

Āi rejoices as the Lord and His associates eat what she has cooked —

আনন্দিত হঞা শচী করেন রন্ধন ।

ānandita hañā śacī karena randhana delighted becoming Śacī does cooking
sukhe bhojana kare prabhu lañā bhakta-gaṇa
happily eating does the Lord taking the devotees

202 Śacī cooked with delight, and the Lord ate happily with the devotees.

Service to the Lord makes all that Advaita owns blessed —

আচার্য্যের শ্রদ্ধা-ভক্তি, গৃহ-সম্পদ্-ধনে । সকল সফল হৈল প্রভুর আগমনে ॥ ২০৩ ॥

ācāryera śraddhā-bhakti, gṛha-sampad-dhane

all fruitful became of the Lord by the coming

203 With the Lord's coming, the Ācārya's faith and devotion, His house, His property and His wealth all bore their fruit.[16]

eating making (Him) full she made her own happiness

204 Śacī's bliss grew as she saw her son's face, and by feeding Him she made her own happiness complete.

Some days of transcendental joy in Advaita's house —

205 In this way the devotees, gathered in Advaita's house, spent several days in great festivity.

The Lord bids the devotees farewell —

আর দিন প্রভু কহে সব ভক্তগণে । নিজ-নিজ-গৃহে সবে করহ গমনে ॥ ২০৬ ॥

āra dina prabhu kahe saba bhakta-gaṇe
another day the Lord says all to the devotees nija-nija-gṛhe sabe karaha gamane to their own homes all make going

206 Then one day the Lord said to all the devotees, "Go back now, all of you, to your own homes.

He shows how the Lord and the devotees may meet again in future —

ঘরে গিয়া কর সবে কৃষ্ণসংকীর্ত্তন ।

Dāmodara Paṇḍita and Datta Mukunda

209 Nityānanda Gosāñi, Jagadānanda Paṇḍita, Dāmodara Paṇḍita and Mukunda Datta —

The Lord bows to Śacī and consoles her —

এই চারিজন, আচার্য্য দিল প্রভু সনে । জননী প্রবোধ করি' বন্দিল চরণে ॥ ২১০ ॥

ei cārijana, ācārya dila prabhu sane these four persons the Ācārya gave the Lord with jananī prabodha kari' vandila caraṇe
the mother consoling having done He bowed at the feet

210 the Ācārya sent these four with the Lord. The Lord consoled His mother and bowed at her feet.

*The Lord, dependent on nothing (nirapekṣa) —*

তাঁরে প্রদক্ষিণ করি' করিল গমন । এথা আচার্য্যের ঘরে উঠিল ক্রন্দন ॥ ২১১ ॥

tāṁre pradakṣiṇa kari' karila gamana
her circumambulation having done He made departure ethā ācāryera ghare uṭhila krandana
here in the Ācārya's house arose weeping

211 He walked around her in reverence and departed, and in the Ācārya's house a cry of weeping arose.

নিরপেক্ষ হঞা প্রভু শীঘ্র চলিলা ।
কান্দিতে কান্দিতে আচার্য্য পশ্চাৎ চলিলা ॥ ২১২ ॥

nirapekṣa hañā prabhu śīghra calilā independent becoming the Lord swiftly went kāndite kāndite ācārya paścāt calilā weeping weeping the Ācārya behind went

212 Free of all worldly ties, the Lord walked swiftly away, and the Ācārya followed Him, weeping as He went.

Anubhāṣya.

Nirapekṣa — free from all dependence on matter and the material, that is, established in one's svarūpa, in servitude to Bhagavān. Mahāprabhu feared that some obstacle might arise in His search for Kṛṣṇa. So, after hearing His relatives weep, He went away, and in the eyes of godless moralists He came to be known as "utterly heartless." But as Jagad-guru He taught that for the jīva the one necessary duty is the endeavor to serve Kṛṣṇa, the highest of all dharmas. External vision and the enjoyment of insentient matter (acit) breed attachment to matter itself — māyā. One bound by it does not serve Kṛṣṇa. Therefore even good morality (sunīti), highly honored in the eyes of the world, if it opposes the service of Kṛṣṇa, is a path contrary to Caitanya. One should consider the words from the Lord's own lips: “Unless one is nirapekṣa, dharma cannot be protected.” (Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya 3.23)

The Lord consoles the Ācārya and takes leave of him —

কতদূর গিয়া প্রভু করি’ যোড়হাত । আচার্য্যে প্রবোধি’ কহে কিছু মিষ্ট বাত ॥ ২১৩ ॥

kata dūra giyā prabhu kari’ yoḍa hāta
some distance having gone the Lord making joined hands ācārye prabodhi’ kahe kichu miṣṭa bāta
the Ācārya consoling says some sweet words

213 After going some distance, the Lord joined His palms and spoke sweet, consoling words to the Ācārya:

জননী প্রবোধি’, কর ভক্ত-সমাধান । তুমি ব্যগ্র হৈলে কারো না রহিবে প্রাণ ॥ ২১৪ ॥

jananī prabodhi’, kara bhakta-samādhāna
the mother consoling do of the devotees comforting tumi vyagra haile kāro nā rahibe prāṇa
You distressed if You become of anyone not will remain life

214 “Console My mother and comfort the devotees. If You lose heart, no one will survive.”

এত বলি’ প্রভু তাঁরে করি’ আলিঙ্গন । নিবৃত্ত করিয়া কৈল স্বচ্ছন্দ গমন ॥ ২১৫ ॥

eta bali’ prabhu tāṁre kari’ āliṅgana thus saying the Lord Him having made embrace nivṛtta kariyā kaila svacchanda gamana turned back having made He made unhindered going

215 Saying this, the Lord embraced Him, made Him turn back, and went on His way unhindered.

The Lord goes to Purī by the road through Chatrabhoga —

গঙ্গাতীরে-তীরে প্রভু চারিজন-সাথে । নীলাদ্রি চলিলা প্রভু ছত্রভোগ-পথে ॥ ২১৬ ॥

gaṅgā-tīre-tīre prabhu cāri-jana-sāthe along the bank of the Gaṅgā the Lord with the four nīlādri calilā prabhu chatrabhoga-pathe to Nīlādri set out the Lord by the Chatrabhoga road

216 With His four companions the Lord set out for Nīlādri along the bank of the Gaṅgā, by the road through Chatrabhoga.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Chatrabhoga-pathe ("by the road through Chatrabhoga"). The Lord went along the bank of the Gaṅgā through Āṭisārā, Pāṇihāṭī and Varāhanagara. At that time the Gaṅgā, south of Calcutta, flowed past Kālīghāṭ, through Bāruipura and other places, then through the "Mathurāpura" police station in the Diamond Harbour subdivision, and fell into the sea in a hundred streams. By that route Mahāprabhu went, along the Chatrabhoga road, at the place called "Ambuliṅga" in the Mathurāpura police station.

Thus ends the third chapter of the "Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya."

Anubhāṣya.

Chatrabhoga. In the Twenty-four Parganas district, on the southern branch of the E. B. R. line, is Magrāhāṭ station. Six or seven krośas southeast of it, two or three krośas south of Jayanagara, lies this village. Some call it "Khāḍi." Here there is a Śiva-liṅga, "Vaijurkā-nātha"; in the month of Caitra, on the first day of the bright fortnight (śukla-pratipad), a fair called "Nandā" is held here. Now there is no Gaṅgā here. Āṭisārā is said to be near Bāruipura station on the same railway. See Caitanya-bhāgavata, Antya, Chapter 2.

*The detailed description in the Caitanya-bhāgavata —*

217 In the Caitanya-maṅgala Vṛndāvana dāsa has described in detail the Lord's journey to Nīlādri.[17]

Anubhāṣya.
The Lord entered Śrī Nīlācala after passing, in Bengal, the village of Āṭisārā, Varāhanagara and Ambuliṅga-Chatrabhoga, and in Utkala, Prayāga-ghāṭ, the Suvarṇarekhā, Jaleśvara, Remuṇā, Yājapura, the Vaitaraṇī, Daśāśvamedha-ghāṭ, Kaṭaka, the Mahānadī, Bhuvaneśvara (Bindu-sarovara), Kamalapura, Āṭhāranālā and other places.

Thus ends the third chapter of the "Anubhāṣya."

1. The same verse as Ādi 4.2; translation as there. ↩
2. The same verse as Madhya 1.16; translation as there. ↩
3. The song of the mendicant brāhmaṇa of Avantī. ↩
4. The edition reads āra bhakta-gaṇa (“and the other devotees”); another reading is saba bhakta-gaṇa (“all the devotees”). ↩
5. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition prints sādraka — a dropped repha (a printing defect); the reading sārdraka is kept. ↩
6. Cai — the pungent stems of a pepper vine; sukhta — a bitter Bengali vegetable dish. ↩
7. The edition reads vaisa tumi karite bhojana (“You sit down and eat”); another reading is tine kariye bhojana (“let the three of us eat”). ↩
8. The edition reads rahibeka āra (“the rest will remain”); another reading is pāte rahibeka (“will remain on the leaf”). ↩
9. The edition reads taithika (so also the Anubhāṣya); another reading is tairthika. ↩
10. The edition reads loka saba (“all the people”); another reading is loka harṣe (“the people in joy”). ↩
11. Above the verse the edition prints “A song — [rāga Dhānaśrī]”. ↩
12. Gāoyāiyā is causative: “having (others) sing”. ↩
13. Ki nā haila more — literally “what has not befallen Me!” ↩
14. Ācāryaratna — Candraśekhara (see v. 20). ↩
15. The edition reads āilā; another reading is āila; the sense is the same. ↩
16. The edition reads prabhura āgamane (“with the Lord’s coming”); another reading is prabhura ārādhane (“in the worship of the Lord”). ↩
17. Caitanya-maṅgala is the original title of the Caitanya-bhāgavata (cf. Ādi 8.33–35). ↩
18. The same verse as Ādi 7.171 and Madhya 1.287; translation as there. ↩
19. The edition prints «ত্বং গৌরং» (“to You, Gaura”) at the end of the glosses; the verse itself reads «তং» (“to that”). ↩
20. Brahma-saṁhitā 5.1. ↩
21. Caccaḍi is a Bengali dry dish of stewed vegetables; the question mark is in the edition. ↩
22. Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya 6.236 (the edition gives the two halves in reverse order). ↩
23. The edition reads «সুখ» (“joy”); the sense of the line and the known text of the song require «দুখ» (“grief”). ↩

24. “Ibid.” — that is, the Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu; these definitions are in the Southern Division, third wave (on the sāttvika-bhāvas). ↩
25. In the edition this paragraph is numbered 194; by its content (service as the desire to please Kṛṣṇa) and by the order of the sections it belongs to verse 185 (“I do not count my own happiness and sorrow; His happiness I take as my own”), while the next paragraph, on Haridāsa, belongs to verse 194. ↩
26. In the edition this paragraph has no number and directly follows the one numbered 194 (see the note to section 185). ↩
