“Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta”

Madhya-līlā

Chapter 10

The Return of Śrī Caitanya

(translated from the Bengali for this edition)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. When Mahāprabhu set out on His journey to the South, King Pratāparudra had many conversations with Sārvabhauma. The king expressed his wish to see Mahāprabhu, and Sārvabhauma told him that when Mahāprabhu returned from the South he would somehow arrange a meeting with Him. After His return Mahāprabhu lived in the house of Kāśī Miśra. Sārvabhauma introduced to Śrī Mahāprabhu the Vaiṣṇavas who lived in the Kṣetra. Bhavānanda Rāya, the father of Rāmānanda, left Vāṇīnātha Paṭṭanāyaka with Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu exposed the fault of Kālā Kṛṣṇadāsa, his association with the Bhaṭṭathāris, and proposed to send him away. Then Nityānanda Prabhu and the other devotees took counsel together and sent him to Śrī Navadvīpa and all over Gauḍa with the news of the Lord's return. When the news reached Navadvīpa and other places, the devotees began to prepare to come for the Lord's darśana. Meanwhile Paramānanda Purī came to the town of Nadīyā. Hearing that the Lord had reached Nīlācala, he took the brāhmaṇa Kamalākānta with him and came to Mahāprabhu in Puruṣottama. Puruṣottama Bhaṭṭācārya, a resident of Navadvīpa, accepted sannyāsa in Vārāṇasī from a guru named “Caitanyānanda,” took the name “Svarūpa,” and appeared at Mahāprabhu's feet in Nīlācala. After the departure of Śrī Īśvara Purī, his servant Govinda came to Mahāprabhu by his order. Brahmānanda Bhāratī was worthy of the Lord's respect because of his relation to Keśava Bhāratī. When he came, the Lord mercifully made him give up his garment of skin. By the Lord's power Brahmānanda understood Mahāprabhu's greatness and concluded that He was Kṛṣṇa. Sārvabhauma declared Mahāprabhu to be Kṛṣṇa Himself, but Mahāprabhu dismissed those words as “excessive praise.”

(Meanwhile, one day) Kāśīśvara Gosvāmī arrived. This chapter describes how devotees from many lands met Mahāprabhu, as rivers meet the ocean.

Homage to Gaura, the treasure of the devotees' life —

তং বন্দে গৌরজলদং স্বস্য যো দর্শনামৃতৈঃ । বিচ্ছেদাবগ্রহম্লান-ভক্তশস্যান্যজীবয়ৎ ॥ ১ ॥

taṁ vande gaura-jaladaṁ
that I worship Gaura the raincloud
svasya yo darśanāmṛtaiḥ
His own who by the nectar of the sight vicchedāvagraha-mlāna-
by the drought of separation withered
bhakta-śasyāny ajīvayat
the crops of the devotees brought back to life

1 I worship that raincloud, Gaura, who by the nectar of His own sight brought back to life the crops of His devotees, withered by the drought of separation.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
I offer my homage to the cloud that is Gaura, who poured down the nectar of His darśana and revived the crops of the devotees, withered by the drought of separation.

Anubhāṣya.
yaḥ (Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanyadeva) svasya (of His own — of His own beautiful form) darśanāmṛtaiḥ (by the nectar of darśana: the sight of Him is itself nectar, ambrosia) viccheda-avagraha-mlāna-bhakta-śasyāni (the crops of the devotees withered by the drought of separation: the separation caused by His absence is itself the drought, the absence of rain; the crops withered by it are the devotees) ajīvayat (revived, saved them by giving them life), taṁ gaura-jaladaṁ (Śrī Caitanya, the cloud) ahaṁ vande (I worship).

2 Glory, glory to Śrī Caitanya! Glory to Nityānanda! Glory to Advaitacandra! Glory to all the devotees of Gaura!

The conversation of King Pratāparudra with Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya while the Lord was traveling in the South —

পূর্ব্বে যবে মহাপ্রভু চলিলা দক্ষিণে । প্রতাপরুদ্র রাজা তবে বোলাইল সার্ব্বভৌমে ॥ ৩ ॥

pūrve yabe mahāprabhu calilā dakṣiṇe earlier when Mahāprabhu went south
pratāparudra rājā tabe bolāila sārvabhaume
Pratāparudra the king then summoned Sārvabhauma

3 Earlier, when Mahāprabhu had gone to the south, King Pratāparudra summoned Sārvabhauma.

The king inquires about the Lord and longs to see Him —

বসিতে আসন দিল করি' নমস্কারে । মহাপ্রভুর বার্ত্তা তবে পুছিল তাঁহারে ॥ ৪ ॥

vasite āsana dila kari' namaskāre to sit a seat he gave making obeisance
mahāprabhura vārtā tabe puchila tāṅhāre of Mahāprabhu the news then he asked him

4 Bowing to him, the king offered him a seat and then asked him for news of Mahāprabhu.

শুনিলাঙ তোমার ঘরে এক মহাশয় । গৌড় হইতে আইলা, তেঁহো — মহা-কৃপাময় ॥ ৫ ॥

śunilāṅa tomāra ghare eka mahāśaya
I have heard in your house a great soul
gauḍa haite āilā, teṅho — mahā-kṛpāmaya
Gauḍa from has come He full of great mercy

5 "I have heard that a great soul has come from Gauḍa and is staying in your house, and that He is supremely merciful.

তোমারে বহু কৃপা কৈলা, কহে সর্ব্বজন । কৃপা করি' করাহ মোরে তাঁহার দর্শন ॥ ৬ ॥

tomāre bahu kṛpā kailā, kahe sarva-jana to you great mercy He showed say all people
kṛpā kari' karāha more tāṅhāra darśana mercy showing arrange for me His sight

6 Everyone says that He has shown you great mercy. Be kind enough to let me see Him."

The Bhaṭṭa describes the Lord's conduct —

ভট্ট কহে, — যে শুনিলা সব সত্য হয় । তাঁর দর্শন তোমার ঘটন না হয় ॥ ৭ ॥

bhaṭṭa kahe, — ye śunilā saba satya haya
the Bhaṭṭa says what you have heard all true is tāṅra darśana tomāra ghaṭana nā haya
His sight for you happening not is 7 The Bhaṭṭācārya said, "All that you have heard is true. But it is not possible for you to see Him.

বিরক্ত সন্ন্যাসী তেঁহো রহেন নির্জ্জনে । স্বপ্নেহ না করেন তেঁহো রাজদরশনে ॥ ৮ ॥

virakta sannyāsī teṅho rahena nirjane renounced sannyāsī He lives in solitude
svapneha nā karena teṅho rāja-daraśane
even in a dream not does He meeting a king

8 He is a renounced sannyāsī who lives in solitude; not even in a dream would He meet a king.

তথাপি প্রকারে তোমা করাইতাম দরশন । সম্প্রতি করিলা তেঁহো দক্ষিণ গমন ॥ ৯ ॥

tathāpi prakāre tomā karāitāma daraśana still somehow for you I would have arranged a sight
samprati karilā teṅho dakṣiṇa gamana
just now has made He to the south departure

9 Still, I would have found some way to arrange for you to see Him; but just now He has gone to the south."

The king asks why the Lord left Puruṣottama —

রাজা কহে, — জগন্নাথ ছাড়ি' কেনে গেলা । ভট্ট কহে, — মহান্তের এই এক লীলা ॥ ১০ ॥

rājā kahe, — jagannātha chāḍi' kene gelā
the king says Jagannātha leaving why did He go bhaṭṭa kahe, — mahāntera ei eka līlā
the Bhaṭṭa says of a great soul this one pastime

10 The king asked, "Why did He leave Jagannātha and go away?" The Bhaṭṭācārya replied, "That is a pastime of great souls.

The Bhaṭṭācārya's wise reply —

তীর্থ পবিত্র করিতে করে তীর্থভ্রমণ । সেই ছলে নিস্তারয়ে সাংসারিক জন ॥ ১১ ॥

tīrtha pavitra karite kare tīrtha-bhramaṇa
the holy places pure to make He makes a pilgrimage sei chale nistāraye sāṁsārika jana on that pretext delivers worldly people

11 To purify the holy places, He travels on pilgrimage, and on that pretext He delivers worldly people.

Anubhāṣya.
See Madhya 8.39 and the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (4.30.37): "Your devotees wander on foot, desiring to purify the holy places. Who among those who fear [the cycle of birth] would not welcome their association?"

ভবদ্বিধা ভাগবতাস্তীর্থীভূতাঃ স্বয়ং প্রভো । তীর্থীকুর্ব্বন্তি তীর্থানি স্বান্তঃস্থেন গদাভৃতা ॥ ১২ ॥

bhavad-vidhā bhāgavatās
like you devotees
tīrthī-bhūtāḥ svayaṁ prabho become holy places yourselves O lord
tīrthī-kurvanti tīrthāni
make holy the holy places
svāntaḥ-sthena gadā-bhṛtā
by Him within who bears the club

12 "Devotees such as you are themselves holy places, my lord. By the Lord who dwells within your hearts, you make even the holy places holy." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.13.10)

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 1.63.

To deliver the wretched is already the nature of a great soul like Him; moreover, He is the Lord who acts by His own will —

বৈষ্ণবের এই হয় এক স্বভাব নিশ্চল । তেঁহো জীব নহেন, হন স্বতন্ত্র ঈশ্বর ॥ ১৩ ॥

vaiṣṇavera ei haya eka svabhāva niścala of a Vaiṣṇava this is one nature unchanging
teṅho jīva nahena, hana svatantra īśvara
He a jīva is not He is the independent Lord

13 That is the unchanging nature of a Vaiṣṇava. But He is no jīva: He is the independent Lord Himself."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
To travel to holy places in order to purify them, and on that pretext to deliver people caught in worldly life, is the unwavering nature of a Vaiṣṇava. In truth, however, Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya is not a jīva: He is the independent Lord. Even so, descending in a hidden way as the bhakta-avatāra, He took on the nature of the Vaiṣṇavas.

Anubhāṣya.
By their coming the pure devotees (śrī-bhāgavatas) purify the holy places, and on the pretext of these journeys they deliver the worldly people who live there. This is the eternal nature of pure devotees, who suffer at the suffering of others. But Śrī Mahāprabhu, although He performs His pastimes in the form of a dependent devotee, is Himself the independent Supreme Lord. Niścala — unmoving, everlasting, eternal.

The king reproaches the Bhaṭṭācārya —

রাজা কহে, — তাঁরে তুমি যাইতে কেনে দিলে । পায় পড়ি' যত্ন করি' কেনে না রাখিলে ॥ ১৪ ॥

rājā kahe, — tāṅre tumi yāite kene dile the king says Him you to go why did you let pāya paḍi' yatna kari' kene nā rākhile at His feet falling effort making why not did you keep (Him)

14 The king said, "Why did you let Him go? Why did you not fall at His feet and do all you could to keep Him here?"

*The Bhaṭṭa answers the king as a devotee on the path of rules (vaidha- bhakta) would —*

ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, — তেঁহো স্বয়ং ঈশ্বর স্বতন্ত্র । সাক্ষাৎ শ্রীকৃষ্ণ, তেঁহো নহে পরতন্ত্র ॥ ১৫ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya kahe, — teṅho svayaṁ īśvara svatantra
the Bhaṭṭācārya says He Himself the Lord independent sākṣāt śrī-kṛṣṇa, teṅho nahe para-tantra directly Śrī Kṛṣṇa He is not dependent on others

15 The Bhaṭṭācārya said, "He is the Lord Himself, fully independent — Śrī Kṛṣṇa in person. He depends on no one.

তথাপি রাখিতে তাঁরে মহাযত্ন কৈলুঁ । ঈশ্বরের স্বতন্ত্র ইচ্ছা, রাখিতে নারিলুঁ ॥ ১৬ ॥

tathāpi rākhite tāṅre mahā-yatna kailuṅ still to keep Him great effort I made īśvarera svatantra icchā, rākhite nāriluṅ of the Lord independent the will to keep (Him) I could not 16 Even so, I tried very hard to keep Him; but the Lord's will is His own, and I could not hold Him back."

The king trusts the words of the great scholar, the Bhaṭṭācārya —

রাজা কহে, — ভট্ট, তুমি বিজ্ঞশিরোমণি । তুমি তাঁরে 'কৃষ্ণ' কহ, তাতে সত্য মানি ॥ ১৭ ॥

rājā kahe, — bhaṭṭa, tumi vijña-śiromaṇi
the king says Bhaṭṭa you of the learned the crest-jewel
tumi tāṅre 'kṛṣṇa' kaha, tāte satya māni
you Him Kṛṣṇa call therefore as truth I accept

17 The king said, "Bhaṭṭa, you are the crest-jewel of the learned. Since you call Him Kṛṣṇa, I accept it as the truth.

Anubhāṣya.

The king's welfare and the awakening of his devotion lie in his faith in the words of a mahājana.

The king's longing to see the Lord just once —

পুনরপি ইঁহা তাঁর হৈলে আগমন । একবার দেখি' করি সফল নয়ন ॥ ১৮ ॥

punarapi iṅhā tāṅra haile āgamana again here His when there is coming eka-bāra dekhi' kari saphala nayana
once seeing I will make fruitful my eyes

18 When He comes here again, let me see Him just once and make my eyes fruitful."

The news of the Lord's imminent return, and a request to the king to point out a fitting residence for Him —

ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, — তেঁহো আসিবে অল্পকালে । রহিতে তাঁর এক স্থান চাহিয়ে বিরলে ॥ ১৯ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya kahe, — teṅho āsibe alpa-kāle
the Bhaṭṭācārya says He will come shortly rahite tāṅra eka sthāna cāhiye virale
to stay for Him a place I want secluded

19 The Bhaṭṭācārya said, "He will come back soon. I would like a secluded place for Him to stay.

ঠাকুরের নিকট, আর হইবে নির্জ্জনে । এমত নির্ণয় করি' দেহ' এক স্থানে ॥ ২০ ॥

ṭhākurera nikaṭa, āra haibe nirjane of the Lord (Jagannātha) near and it should be in solitude
e-mata nirṇaya kari' deha' eka sthāne
such a decision making give a place

20 It should be near the Lord Jagannātha and also quiet. Please choose and give such a place.”

The king points out the house of Kāśī Miśra —

রাজা কহে, — ঐছে কাশীমিশ্রের ভবন । ঠাকুরের নিকট, হয় পরম নির্জ্জন ॥ ২১ ॥

rājā kahe, — aiche kāśī-miśrera bhavana
the king says such of Kāśī Miśra the house
ṭhākurera nikaṭa, haya parama nirjana
of the Lord near it is very secluded

21 The king said, “Kāśī Miśra’s house is just such a place. It is near the Lord and very secluded.”

Anubhāṣya.

The house of Kāśī Miśra is the present Śrī Rādhākānta Maṭha in the Bālisāhi quarter of Śrī Puruṣottama, a little south of the temple; Śrīman Mahāprabhu lived there. Śrī Gopāla-guru, a disciple of Śrī Vakreśvara, and his disciple Śrī Dhyānacandra Gosvāmī installed the Deity (Śrī Vigraha) there. The place is near the temple of Śrī Jagannāthadeva, and at that time it was secluded.

The king's eagerness to see the Lord —

এত কহি’ রাজা রহে উৎকণ্ঠিত হঞা । ভট্টাচার্য্য কাশীমিশ্রে কহিল আসিয়া ॥ ২২ ॥

eta kahi’ rājā rahe utkaṇṭhita hañā so saying the king remains eager being bhaṭṭācārya kāśī-miśre kahila āsiyā
the Bhaṭṭācārya to Kāśī Miśra told coming

22 Having said this, the king waited eagerly, and the Bhaṭṭācārya went and told Kāśī Miśra.

The Bhaṭṭācārya conveys the king's order to Kāśī Miśra; Miśra's joy —

কাশীমিশ্র কহে, — আমি বড় ভাগ্যবান্ । মোর গৃহে ‘প্রভুপাদের’ হবে অবস্থান ॥ ২৩ ॥

kāśī-miśra kahe, — āmi baḍa bhāgyavān Kāśī Miśra says I very fortunate mora gṛhe ‘prabhu-pādera’ habe avasthāna
in my house of Prabhupāda will be the stay

23 Kāśī Miśra said, “I am most fortunate: Prabhupāda will stay in my house!”

Anubhāṣya.

All jīvas who regard themselves as His servants call Bhagavān Himself, Śrīman Mahāprabhu, “Prabhupāda.” Śrīman Nityānanda Prabhu and Śrīmad Advaita Prabhu are likewise called “Prabhupāda,” for all of Them are the viṣaya-vigraha, viṣṇu-tattva, and Viṣṇu alone is the eternal master (prabhu) of the jīva. Further, Śrī Śrī Gurudeva, the āśraya-vigraha who knows the truth of Kṛṣṇa, is for the disciple, who stands below him, “Kṛṣṇa-Caitanya” Himself, the very form of “Hari”; therefore he is called “Oṁ Viṣṇupāda.” Besides him, every other pure devotee, every pure Vaiṣṇava, is called “Śrīpāda” by all jīvas who stand in the position of disciples. But the guru, the Vaiṣṇavas, and the disciples they have accepted are all, each to the other, “prabhu,” a word that denotes one worthy of worship. This true conclusion is widely applied in authoritative books such as the Bhāgavatam, the Caritāmṛta, and the Caitanya-bhāgavata, and in the sampradāya of pure devotees. Some cheats who are gosvāmīs in name only (gosvāmi-bruvas), prākṛta-sahajiyās and non-Vaiṣṇavas, along with their foolish, cheated disciples, call themselves “servant of the servants of the Vaiṣṇavas” or “a mere semblance of a Vaiṣṇava's servant” and so make a show of humility. Yet this is only deceit and hypocrisy. In truth, deep in their hearts, out of hostility to Viṣṇu, they consider the word “Prabhupāda” to be tied to lineage by birth (śaukra) and to be their own possession. Therefore they regard the true guru or Vaiṣṇava who knows the truth of Kṛṣṇa as a mortal, and caste pride is strong in them. All this is only a sign of their misfortune and an aid on their journey to hell.

The people of Purī long to see the Lord —

এইমত পুরুষোত্তমবাসী সর্ব্বজন । প্রভুকে মিলিতে সবার উৎকণ্ঠিত মন ॥ ২৪ ॥

ei-mata puruṣottama-vāsī sarva jana in this way of Puruṣottama the residents all people prabhuke milite sabāra utkaṇṭhita mana
the Lord to meet of all eager the minds

24 In this way all the people of Puruṣottama were eager to meet the Lord.

Eagerness to serve is the thread that unites the devotee and Bhagavān; the Lord returns from the South —

সর্ব্বলোকের উৎকণ্ঠা যবে অত্যন্ত বাড়িল । মহাপ্রভু দক্ষিণ হৈতে ত্বরায় আইল ॥ ২৫ ॥

sarva-lokera utkaṇṭhā yabe atyanta bāḍila of all people the eagerness when extremely increased mahāprabhu dakṣiṇa haite tvaraya āila Mahāprabhu the south from quickly came

25 When everyone’s longing had grown intense, Mahāprabhu came back quickly from the south.

*All ask the Bhaṭṭācārya to arrange the Lord's darśana for them —*

শুনি’ আনন্দিত হৈল সবাকার মন । সবে আসি’ সার্ব্বভৌমে কৈল নিবেদন ॥ ২৬ ॥

śuni’ ānandita haila sabākāra mana hearing joyful became of all the minds sabe āsi’ sārvabhaume kaila nivedana
all coming to Sārvabhauma made a request

26 Hearing of it, everyone rejoiced. They all came to Sārvabhauma and pleaded with him:

প্রভুর সহিত আমা-সবার করাহ দরশন । তোমার প্রসাদে পাই প্রভুর চরণ ॥ ২৭ ॥

prabhura sahita āmā-sabāra karāha daraśana
the Lord with for us all arrange a sight
tomāra prasāde pāi prabhura caraṇa
by your grace may we obtain of the Lord the feet

27 "Arrange for us all to see the Lord. By your grace may we reach His feet."

The Bhaṭṭācārya assures them that they will meet the Lord in the house of Kāśī Miśra —

ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, — কালি কাশীমিশ্রের ঘরে । প্রভু যাইবেন, তাঁহা মিলা'ব সবারে ॥ ২৮ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya kahe, — kāli kāśī-miśrera ghare
the Bhaṭṭācārya says tomorrow of Kāśī Miśra to the house
prabhu yāibena, tāṅhā milā'ba sabāre
the Lord will go there I will bring together you all

28 The Bhaṭṭācārya said, "Tomorrow the Lord will go to Kāśī Miśra's house; there I will bring you all to meet Him."

*The next day the Lord sees Jagannātha and meets the pāṇḍās —*

আর দিন মহাপ্রভু ভট্টাচার্য্যের সঙ্গে । জগন্নাথ দরশন কৈল মহারঙ্গে ॥ ২৯ ॥

āra dina mahāprabhu bhaṭṭācāryera saṅge
the next day Mahāprabhu the Bhaṭṭācārya with jagannātha daraśana kaila mahā-raṅge
Jagannātha's sight He had with great joy

29 The next day Mahāprabhu went with the Bhaṭṭācārya and joyfully saw Jagannātha.

মহাপ্রসাদ দিয়া তাঁহা মিলিলা সেবকগণ । মহাপ্রভু সবাকারে কৈল আলিঙ্গন ॥ ৩০ ॥

mahā-prasāda diyā tāṅhā mililā sevaka-gaṇa mahā-prasāda giving there met (Him) the servants
mahāprabhu sabākāre kaila āliṅgana
Mahāprabhu all of them gave embrace

30 There the servants of the Deity met Him and gave Him mahā-prasāda, and Mahāprabhu embraced them all.

The Bhaṭṭācārya brings the Lord to the house of Kāśī Miśra —

দরশন করি' মহাপ্রভু চলিলা বাহিরে । ভট্টাচার্য্য আনিল তাঁরে কাশীমিশ্র-ঘরে ॥ ৩১ ॥

daraśana kari' mahāprabhu calilā bāhire
the sight having had Mahāprabhu went outside bhaṭṭācārya ānila tāṅre kāśī-miśra-ghare
the Bhaṭṭācārya brought Him to Kāśī Miśra's house

31 After seeing the Lord, Mahāprabhu came out, and the Bhaṭṭācārya brought Him to Kāśī Miśra's house.

Kāśī Miśra surrenders himself at the Lord's feet —

কাশীমিশ্র আসি' পড়িল প্রভুর চরণে । গৃহ-সহিত আত্মা তাঁরে কৈল নিবেদনে ॥ ৩২ ॥

kāśī-miśra āsi' paḍila prabhura caraṇe Kāśī Miśra coming fell of the Lord at the feet gṛha-sahita ātmā tāṅre kaila nivedane
the house together with himself to Him made offering

32 Kāśī Miśra came and fell at the Lord's feet, offering Him himself together with his house.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Kāśī Miśra offered the Lord his house and his own body, fit for service.

Kāśī Miśra sees the four-armed form —

প্রভু চতুর্ভুজ-মূর্ত্তি তাঁরে দেখাইল । আত্মসাৎ করি' তাঁরে আলিঙ্গন কৈল ॥ ৩৩ ॥

prabhu catur-bhuja-mūrti tāṅre dekhāila
the Lord four-armed form to him showed ātmasāt kari' tāṅre āliṅgana kaila
His own making him embrace He gave 33 The Lord showed him His four-armed form, made him His own and embraced him.

Everyone takes his seat —

তবে মহাপ্রভু তাঁহা বসিলা আসনে । চৌদিকে বসিলা নিত্যানন্দাদি ভক্তগণে ॥ ৩৪ ॥

tabe mahāprabhu tāṅhā vasilā āsane
then Mahāprabhu there sat on a seat
caudike vasilā nityānandādi bhakta-gaṇe
all around sat headed by Nityānanda the devotees

34 Then Mahāprabhu sat down there, and the devotees headed by Nityānanda sat all around Him.

The Lord rejoices to see that a fitting residence has been chosen for Him —

সুখী হৈলা দেখি' প্রভু বাসার সংস্থান । যেই বাসায় হয় প্রভুর সর্ব্ব-সমাধান ॥ ৩৫ ॥

sukhī hailā dekhi' prabhu vāsāra saṁsthāna pleased became seeing the Lord of the residence the arrangement
yei vāsāya haya prabhura sarva-samādhāna
in which residence is for the Lord every provision

35 The Lord was pleased to see how the residence was arranged: it held everything He would need.

The Lord is asked to accept the house —

সার্ব্বভৌম কহে, — প্রভু, যোগ্য তোমার বাসা । তুমি অঙ্গীকার কর — কাশীমিশ্রের আশা ॥ ৩৬ ॥

sārvabhauma kahe, — prabhu, yogya tomāra vāsā Sārvabhauma says Lord suitable Your residence
tumi aṅgīkāra kara — kāśī-miśrera āśā
You acceptance make of Kāśī Miśra the hope

36 Sārvabhauma said, "Lord, this residence is fit for You. Please accept it — that is Kāśī Miśra's hope."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Kāśī Miśra hopes that You will live in his house; please mercifully accept this.

The Lord declares that He is subject to His own devotees —

প্রভু কহে, — এই দেহ তোমা-সবাকার । যেই তুমি কহ, সেই কর্ত্তব্য আমার ॥ ৩৭ ॥

prabhu kahe, — ei deha tomā-sabākāra
the Lord says this body of you all yei tumi kaha, sei kartavya āmāra whatever you say that duty My 37 The Lord said, "This body belongs to all of you. Whatever you say, that I must do."

The Bhaṭṭācārya introduces the devotees who live in Purī to the Lord —

তবে সার্ব্বভৌম প্রভুর দক্ষিণ-পার্শ্বে বসি' । মিলাইতে লাগিলা সব পুরুষোত্তমবাসী ॥ ৩৮ ॥

tabe sārvabhauma prabhura dakṣiṇa-pārśve vasi'
then Sārvabhauma of the Lord at the right side sitting milāite lāgilā saba puruṣottama-vāsī
to introduce began all of Puruṣottama the residents

38 Then Sārvabhauma, seated at the Lord's right, began to introduce to Him all the residents of Puruṣottama:

The Bhaṭṭācārya tells of the longing of the people of Purī to see the Lord and prays for His mercy upon them —

এই সব লোক, প্রভু, বৈসে নীলাচলে । উৎকণ্ঠিত হঞাছে — সবে তোমা মিলিবারে ॥ ৩৯ ॥

ei saba loka, prabhu, vaise nīlācale
these all people Lord live in Nīlācala utkaṇṭhita hañāche — sabe tomā milibāre eager they have been all You to meet

39 "Lord, all these people live in Nīlācala. They have all been longing to meet You.

*The devotees of Purī, thirsting for the Lord's darśana —*

তৃষিত চাতক যৈছে করে হাহাকার । তৈছে এই সব, — সবে কর অঙ্গীকার ॥ ৪০ ॥

tṛṣita cātaka yaiche kare hāhākāra
thirsty cātaka birds as make cries of distress
taiche ei saba, — sabe kara aṅgīkāra
so these all all make acceptance

40 As thirsty cātaka birds cry out in distress, so have all of them. Please accept them all.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
A variant reading: taiche ei saba, sabā kara aṅgīkāra. That is, as the thirsty cātaka bird cries out in distress for water, so all these people of Utkala thirst for Your darśana. O Lord, accept them sabe, all of them.

(1) Janārdana —

জগন্নাথ-সেবক এই, নাম — জনার্দ্দন । অনবসরে করে প্রভুর শ্রীঅঙ্গ-সেবন ॥ ৪১ ॥

jagannātha-sevaka ei, nāma — janārdana of Jagannātha a servant this name Janārdana
anavasare kare prabhura śrī-aṅga-sevana
during the anavasara does of the Lord service to the divine body

41 This is Janārdana, a servant of Jagannātha. During the anavasara he serves the Lord's divine body.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Anavasare, during the anavasara: the period after the Snāna-yātrā until the darśana of the "Nava-yauvana" is the time of anavasara.[1]

(2) Kṛṣṇadāsa, (3) Śikhi Māhiti —

কৃষ্ণদাস নাম এই সুবর্ণ বেত্রধারী । শিখি মাহাতি-নাম এই লিখনাধিকারী ॥ ৪২ ॥

kṛṣṇadāsa nāma ei suvarṇa vetra-dhārī Kṛṣṇadāsa name this golden staff-bearer
śikhi māhāti-nāma ei likhanādhikārī
Śikhi Māhiti by name this the scribe

42 This is Kṛṣṇadāsa, who bears the golden staff, and this is Śikhi Māhiti, the scribe.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Likhana-adhikārī — an official holding the post of deula-karaṇa, who writes the Mātlā-pāñji.[2]

Anubhāṣya.

Śikhi Māhiti — see Antya 2.104–106 and the Anubhāṣya on Ādi 10.137.[2]

(4) Pradyumna Miśra —

প্রদ্যুম্নমিশ্র ইঁহ বৈষ্ণব প্রধান । জগন্নাথের মহা-সোয়ার ইঁহ 'দাস' নাম ॥ ৪৩ ॥

pradyumna-miśra iṅha vaiṣṇava pradhāna Pradyumna Miśra this of Vaiṣṇavas the chief jagannāthera mahā-soyāra iṅha 'dāsa' nāma
of Jagannātha the great sevitor he Dāsa by name

43 This is Pradyumna Miśra, the foremost of the Vaiṣṇavas; he is a great sevitor of Jagannātha, known by the name "Dāsa."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Mahā-soyāra — mahā-sūpakāra, the chief cook, the officer in charge of the kitchen.[3]

Anubhāṣya.

Pradyumna Miśra — see Antya, Chapter 5. Adding the word dāsa after a brāhmaṇa's name, to show that he is a servant of Viṣṇu, is approved by Culli Bhaṭṭa as well.[3]

(5) Murāri Māhiti —

মুরারি মাহাতি ইঁহ — শিখিমাহাতির ভাই । তোমার চরণ বিনা আর গতি নাই ॥ ৪৪ ॥

murāri māhāti iṅha — śikhi-māhātira bhāi Murāri Māhiti this of Śikhi Māhiti the brother
tomāra caraṇa vinā āra gati nāi
Your feet except other refuge he has not

44 This is Murāri Māhiti, Śikhi Māhiti's brother. He has no refuge but Your feet.

(6) Candaneśvara, (7) Siṁheśvara, (8) Murāri, (9) Viṣṇudāsa —

চন্দনেশ্বর, সিংহেশ্বর, মুরারি ব্রাহ্মণ ৷ বিষ্ণুদাস, — ইঁহ ধ্যায়ে তোমার চরণ ॥ ৪৫ ॥

candaneśvara, siṁheśvara, murāri brāhmaṇa Candaneśvara Siṁheśvara Murāri the brāhmaṇa
viṣṇudāsa, — iṁha dhyāye tomāra caraṇa
Viṣṇudāsa these meditate on Your feet

45 Candaneśvara, Siṁheśvara, Murāri the brāhmaṇa and Viṣṇudāsa — they all meditate on Your feet.

(10) Paramānanda —

প্রহররাজ মহাপাত্র ইঁহ মহামতি ৷ পরমানন্দ মহাপাত্র ইঁহার সংহতি ॥ ৪৬ ॥

prahararāja mahāpātra iṁha mahā-mati
the Praharāja Mahāpātra this of great wisdom
paramānanda mahāpātra iṁhāra saṁhati
Paramānanda Mahāpātra his (name) joined (to the title)

46 This is the Praharāja Mahāpātra, a man of great wisdom; his name is Paramānanda Mahāpātra.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Praharāja — paharāja.

Anubhāṣya.
Praharāja. Among the kings of Utkala the following custom prevails. When a king has died and his funeral rites have been performed, then, until the heir ascends the throne or is consecrated, someone from the family of the royal priests sits on the throne for the space of one prahara and holds the royal scepter, so that the throne does not stand empty. It is these very priests who, by hereditary descent, are known by the name praharāja.

Pure Vaiṣṇavas are the ornament of the holy place —

এ-সব বৈষ্ণব — এই ক্ষেত্রের ভূষণ । একান্তভাবে চিন্তে সবে তোমার চরণ ॥ ৪৭ ॥

e-saba vaiṣṇava — ei kṣetrera bhūṣaṇa
all these Vaiṣṇavas of this holy place the ornaments
ekānta-bhāve cinte sabe tomāra caraṇa
with single-minded devotion think of all Your feet

47 All these Vaiṣṇavas are the ornaments of this holy place. With one-pointed devotion they all think of Your feet."

All bow down to the Lord, and the Lord embraces them —

তবে সবে ভূমে পড়ি' দণ্ডবৎ হঞা । সবা আলিঙ্গিলা প্রভু প্রসাদ করিয়া ॥ ৪৮ ॥

tabe sabe bhūme paḍi' daṇḍavat hañā then all on the ground falling like rods becoming sabā āliṅgilā prabhu prasāda kariyā
all embraced the Lord grace showing

48 Then they all fell flat on the ground like rods, and the Lord graciously embraced each of them.

(11) Sārvabhauma introduces Bhavānanda Rāya with his four sons —

হেনকালে আইল তথায় ভবানন্দ রায় । চারিপুত্র-সঙ্গে পড়ে মহাপ্রভুর পায় ॥ ৪৯ ॥

hena-kāle āila tathāya bhavānanda rāya
at that time came there Bhavānanda Rāya
cāri-putra-saṅge paḍe mahāprabhura pāya
four sons with falls of Mahāprabhu at the feet

49 Just then Bhavānanda Rāya arrived and, with his four sons, fell at Mahāprabhu's feet.

Anubhāṣya.

Cāri putra (four sons) — besides Rāmānanda Rāya, the four brothers Vāṇīnātha and Gopīnātha, Kalānidhi and Sudhānidhi. See Ādi 10.133.

সার্ব্বভৌম কহে, — এই রায় ভবানন্দ । ইঁহার প্রথম পুত্র — রায় রামানন্দ ॥ ৫০ ॥

sārvabhauma kahe, — ei rāya bhavānanda Sārvabhauma says this Rāya Bhavānanda iṅhāra prathama putra — rāya rāmānanda
his first son Rāya Rāmānanda

50 Sārvabhauma said, "This is Bhavānanda Rāya. His eldest son is Rāmānanda Rāya."

The Lord embraces him and glorifies the greatness of Rāmānanda —

তবে মহাপ্রভু তাঁরে কৈল আলিঙ্গন । স্তুতি করি' কহে রামানন্দ বিবরণ ॥ ৫১ ॥

tabe mahāprabhu tāṅre kaila āliṅgana
then Mahāprabhu him gave embrace stuti kari' kahe rāmānanda vivaraṇa
praise making speaks of Rāmānanda in detail

51 Then Mahāprabhu embraced him and spoke at length in praise of Rāmānanda:

রামানন্দ-হেন রত্ন যাঁহার তনয় । তাঁহার মহিমা লোকে কহন না যায় ॥ ৫২ ॥

rāmānanda-hena ratna yāṅhāra tanaya
a jewel like Rāmānanda whose son
tāṅhāra mahimā loke kahana nā yāya
his glory in the world to describe not is possible

52 "The glory of one whose son is a jewel like Rāmānanda cannot be described in this world.

Bhavānanda is Pāṇḍu, and his five sons are the five Pāṇḍavas —

সাক্ষাৎ পাণ্ডু তুমি, তোমার পত্নী কুন্তী । পঞ্চপাণ্ডব তোমার পঞ্চপুত্র মহামতি ॥ ৫৩ ॥

sākṣāt pāṇḍu tumi, tomāra patnī kuntī directly Pāṇḍu you your wife Kuntī
pañca-pāṇḍava tomāra pañca-putra mahā-mati
the five Pāṇḍavas your five sons greatly wise

53 You are Pāṇḍu himself, and your wife is Kuntī; your five wise sons are the five Pāṇḍavas."

Bhavānanda's humility; the Lord's mercy does not consider caste or family —

রায় কহে, — আমি শূদ্র, বিষয়ী, অধম । তবু তুমি স্পর্শ, — এই ঈশ্বর-লক্ষণ ॥ ৫৪ ॥

rāya kahe, — āmi śūdra, viṣayī, adhama Rāya says I a śūdra worldly fallen tabu tumi sparśa, — ei īśvara-lakṣaṇa
yet You touch (me) this the mark of the Lord

54 Rāya said, "I am a fallen, worldly śūdra, yet You touch me — this is the mark of the Lord.

Bhavānanda offers everything at the Lord's feet —

নিজ-গৃহ-বিত্ত-ভৃত্য-পঞ্চপুত্র-সনে । আত্ম সমর্পিলুঁ আমি তোমার চরণে ॥ ৫৫ ॥

nija-gṛha-vitta-bhṛtya-pañca-putra-sane
with my own house, wealth, servants and five sons ātma samarpiluṅ āmi tomāra caraṇe myself have surrendered I at Your feet

55 Together with my house, my wealth, my servants and my five sons, I have surrendered myself at Your feet.

He offers Vāṇīnātha at the Lord's feet —

এই বাণীনাথ রহিবে তোমার চরণে । যবে যেই আজ্ঞা, তাহা করিবে সেবনে ॥ ৫৬ ॥

ei vāṇīnātha rahibe tomāra caraṇe
this Vāṇīnātha will remain at Your feet
yabe yei ājñā, tāhā karibe sevane
whenever whatever order that he will carry out in service

56 This Vāṇīnātha will stay at Your feet and carry out whatever You order, whenever You order it.

Bhavānanda prays to be accepted as His own servant —

আত্মীয়-জ্ঞানে মোরে সঙ্কোচ না করিবে । যেই যবে ইচ্ছা, তবে সেই আজ্ঞা দিবে ॥ ৫৭ ॥

ātmīya-jñāne more saṅkoca nā karibe as Your own knowing with me hesitation not have yei yabe icchā, tabe sei ājñā dibe whatever whenever desire then that order give

57 Regard me as Your own and do not hesitate with me: whatever You want, whenever You want it, give the order."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
"Know me as 'Your own'": that is, be merciful to me as to "Your own"; there is no need to hesitate in anything.

The Lord's merciful words; He accepts Bhavānanda —

প্রভু কহে, — কি সঙ্কোচ, তুমি নহ পর । জন্মে জন্মে তুমি আমার সবংশে কিঙ্কর ॥ ৫৮ ॥

prabhu kahe, — ki saṅkoca, tumi naha para
the Lord says what hesitation you are not a stranger
janme janme tumi āmāra savaṁśe kiṅkara birth after birth you My with your family servant

58 The Lord said, “Why should I hesitate? You are no stranger. Birth after birth you and your family have been My servants.

দিন-পাঁচ-সাত ভিতরে আসিবে রামানন্দ । তাঁর সঙ্গে পূর্ণ হবে আমার আনন্দ ॥ ৫৯ ॥

dina-pāṅca-sāta bhitare āsibe rāmānanda days five or seven within will come Rāmānanda tāṅra saṅge pūrṇa habe āmāra ānanda him with complete will be My joy

59 Rāmānanda will come within five or seven days. In his company My joy will be complete.”

এত বলি’ প্রভু তাঁরে কৈল আলিঙ্গন । তাঁর পুত্র সব শিরে ধরিল চরণ ॥ ৬০ ॥

eta bali’ prabhu tāṅre kaila āliṅgana
so saying the Lord him gave embrace tāṅra putra saba śire dharila caraṇa
his sons all on their heads held His feet

60 Saying this, the Lord embraced him, and his sons all placed the Lord’s feet on their heads.

Anubhāṣya.

Śire — each on his own head.[11]

The Lord accepts Vāṇīnātha —

তবে মহাপ্রভু তাঁরে ঘরে পাঠাইল । বাণীনাথ-পট্টনায়কে নিকটে রাখিল ॥ ৬১ ॥

tabe mahāprabhu tāṅre ghare pāṭhāila then Mahāprabhu him home sent vāṇīnātha-paṭṭanāyake nikaṭe rākhila Vāṇīnātha Paṭṭanāyaka near (Him) He kept

61 Then Mahāprabhu sent him home, keeping Vāṇīnātha Paṭṭanāyaka with Him.

ভট্টাচার্য্য সব লোকে বিদায় করাইল । তবে প্রভু কালা-কৃষ্ণদাসে বোলাইল ॥ ৬২ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya saba loke vidāya karāila the Bhaṭṭācārya all the people leave to go had them take tabe prabhu kālā-kṛṣṇadāse bolāila
then the Lord Kālā Kṛṣṇadāsa called 62 The Bhaṭṭācārya saw all the people off, and the Lord then called for Kālā Kṛṣṇadāsa.

Anubhāṣya.
Kālā Kṛṣṇadāsa — see Ādi 10.145 and the Anubhāṣya on Madhya 7.39.

The Lord tells of Kṛṣṇadāsa's earlier conduct —

প্রভু কহে, — ভট্টাচার্য্য, শুনহ ইঁহার চরিত । দক্ষিণ গিয়াছিল ইঁহ আমার সহিত ॥ ৬৩ ॥

prabhu kahe, — bhaṭṭācārya, śunaha iṅhāra carita
the Lord says Bhaṭṭācārya hear his conduct dakṣiṇa giyāchila iṅha āmāra sahita to the south had gone he Me with 63 The Lord said, “Bhaṭṭācārya, hear what this man did. He went with Me to the south.

ভট্টথারি-কাছে গেলা আমারে ছাড়িয়া । ভট্টথারি হৈতে ইঁহারে আনিলুঁ উদ্ধারিয়া ॥ ৬৪ ॥

bhaṭṭathāri-kāche gelā āmāre chāḍiyā to the Bhaṭṭathāris he went Me leaving bhaṭṭathāri haite iṅhāre āniluṅ uddhāriyā
the Bhaṭṭathāris from him I brought rescuing

64 There he left Me and went off to the Bhaṭṭathāris; I rescued him from them and brought him back.

The Lord gives up Kṛṣṇadāsa —

এবে আমি ইঁহা আনি' করিলাঙ বিদায়। যাঁহা ইচ্ছা, যাহ, আমা-সনে নাহি আর দায় ॥ ৬৫ ॥

ebe āmi iṅhā āni' karilāṅa vidāya
now I here having brought (him) have dismissed (him)
yāṅhā icchā, yāha, āmā-sane nāhi āra dāya
where he wishes let him go with Me no longer responsibility

65 Now that I have brought him here, I have dismissed him. Let him go wherever he likes; I am no longer responsible for him."

Kṛṣṇadāsa weeps —

এত শুনি' কৃষ্ণদাস কান্দিতে লাগিল। মধ্যাহ্ন করিতে মহাপ্রভু চলি' গেল ॥ ৬৬ ॥

eta śuni' kṛṣṇadāsa kāndite lāgila
this hearing Kṛṣṇadāsa to weep began madhyāhna karite mahāprabhu cali' gela
the midday duties to perform Mahāprabhu going went 66 Hearing this, Kṛṣṇadāsa began to weep, and Mahāprabhu went off to attend to His midday duties.

Nityānanda and the others resolve to send Kṛṣṇadāsa to Navadvīpa —

নিত্যানন্দ, জগদানন্দ, মুকুন্দ, দামোদর। চারিজনে যুক্তি তবে করিলা অন্তর ॥ ৬৭ ॥

nityānanda, jagadānanda, mukunda, dāmodara
Nityānanda Jagadānanda Mukunda Dāmodara
cāri-jane yukti tabe karilā antara
the four counsel then held among themselves

67 Then Nityānanda, Jagadānanda, Mukunda and Dāmodara took counsel among themselves:

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Antara — in secret, or having gone aside.[4]

গৌড়দেশে পাঠাইতে চাহি একজন ।

102 The next day Svarūpa Dāmodara arrived — the Lord's most intimate companion, an ocean of rasa.

Anubhāṣya.

Svarūpa-Dāmodara. Among the Vedic sannyāsīs of the ten names (daśanāmī) we find a rule introduced by Śrī Śaṅkarācārya. When someone wishes to take sannyāsa from the daṇḍīs of the two orders "Tīrtha" and "Āśrama," the daṇḍī guru gives the disciple a brahmacārī name according to the rules for naiṣṭhika-brahmacārīs. In this way Śrī Puruṣottama Ācārya of Navadvīpa received the brahmacārī name "Dāmodara-Svarūpa." When the yogapaṭṭa of sannyāsa is received, the naiṣṭhika-brahmacārī's title "Svarūpa" is replaced by the sannyāsa title "Tīrtha."

106 He was supremely renounced and supremely learned, and with body and mind he had taken shelter of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and His pastimes.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Kavi Karṇapūra writes in the Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka: “Only by the force of renunciation did he accept the fourth āśrama, in order to give up everything. Yet — how wonderful! — out of love for the pollen of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, though he bore that āśrama, he disregarded it.”[12]

107 “I shall worship Kṛṣṇa free of every care” — for this very reason he accepted sannyāsa in his madness.

Why he was named “Svarūpa” —

সন্ন্যাস করিলা শিখা-সূত্রত্যাগ-রূপ । যোগপট্ট না দিল, নাম হৈল ‘স্বরূপ’ ॥ ১০৮ ॥

sannyāsa karilā śikhā-sūtra-tyāga-rūpa sannyāsa he took of the śikhā and the sacred thread giving up in the form yoga-paṭṭa nā dila, nāma haila ‘svarūpa’
the yogapaṭṭa not was given the name became “Svarūpa”

108 He accepted sannyāsa in the form of giving up his śikhā and sacred thread, but he was not given the yogapaṭṭa, and his name became “Svarūpa.”

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Seeing the Lord's sannyāsa, Puruṣottama Ācārya accepted “the sannyāsa that consists in giving up the śikhā and the sacred thread.” His sannyāsa name became “Svarūpa-Dāmodara.” He did not accept the rite by which the yogapaṭṭa is received. For his sannyāsa was not meant to increase any pride in his āśrama; he accepted it with only one thought: “I shall serve Kṛṣṇa free from cares.”[5]

Anubhāṣya.

He performed the rites of sannyāsa — the eight śrāddhas, the virajā-homa, the shaving of the śikhā, the giving up of the sacred thread, and so on — but did not wait for the guru's summons, the yogapaṭṭa, the sannyāsa name, the staff, and the rest. Therefore the name “Dāmodara Svarūpa,” which indicates naiṣṭhika-brahmacarya, remained with him.

He comes to Purī —

111 He knew the truth of Kṛṣṇa's rasa, and his very body was love embodied; he was Mahāprabhu's second self.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Kṛṣṇa-rasa-tattva-vettā (knower of the truth of kṛṣṇa-rasa). His body was prema itself. Seeing him, one felt as if a second form (svarūpa) of Mahāprabhu had arisen.[6]

bhakti-siddhānta-viruddha, āra rasābhāsa
contrary to the conclusions of bhakti and rasābhāsa śunile nā haya prabhura cittera ullāsa
on hearing there is not of the Lord of the heart delight

113 Anything contrary to the conclusions of bhakti, or any rasābhāsa (a distorted rasa), brought the Lord's heart no delight when He heard it.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Bhakti-siddhānta-viruddha (contrary to the conclusions of devotion). The conclusion of devotion is acintya-bhedābheda; whatever contradicts it is "contrary to the conclusions of devotion." Rasābhāsa is what appears to be rasa but is not rasa. Vaiṣṇavas should keep far away from these two kinds of non-devotion. For the jīva falls by hearing again and again Māyāvāda and other words contrary to the conclusions of devotion. And one who discusses rasābhāsa again and again becomes a prākṛta-sahajiyā, a bāul, and attached to material rasa. Śrī Mahāprabhu forbade association with those tainted by these faults, and for that purpose He established the practice of keeping at a distance whatever is contrary to the conclusions of devotion, and rasābhāsa.

The Lord took pleasure only in what had passed Dāmodara Svarūpa's examination —

অতএব স্বরূপ-গোসাঞি করে পরীক্ষণ । শুদ্ধ হয় যদি, প্রভুরে করা'ন শ্রবণ ॥ ১১৪ ॥

ataeva svarūpa-gosāñi kare parīkṣaṇa
therefore Svarūpa Gosāñi makes examination
śuddha haya yadi, prabhure karā'na śravaṇa pure it is if to the Lord he has it heard

114 Therefore Svarūpa Gosāñi examined everything, and only if it was pure did he let the Lord hear it.

Anubhāṣya.

All conclusions that hinder the worship of Kṛṣṇa are contrary to devotion and therefore impure. Pure devotees cannot approve of such conclusions. Nor can they accept as a "pure devotee" a jīva who is devoted to rasābhāsa and holds contrary conclusions. Many false doctrines (kumata), nourished by impure conclusions or by rasābhāsa, circulate in the world. There are people who look to public opinion and, to win the esteem of ordinary folk, honor false conclusions hostile to devotion. Though they may fancy themselves "Gaura's associates," Śrī Dāmodara-Svarūpa Gosvāmī does not accept them as "Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas" and does not let them approach Śrī Mahāprabhu.

115 With the songs of Vidyāpati and Caṇḍīdāsa and the Śrī Gīta-govinda — these three — he delighted the Lord.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Vidyāpati — an ancient Vaiṣṇava poet of the land of Mithilā. Caṇḍīdāsa — an ancient Bengali Vaiṣṇava poet from the village of Nānnura (Sākullipura police station, Bīrbhūm district). Śrī Gīta-govinda — the famous poem of Śrī Jayadeva, full of Sanskrit songs centered on kṛṣṇa-rasa.

116 In music he was like a Gandharva, in scripture a Bṛhaspati; there was no one else so great-minded as Dāmodara.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Svarūpa Gosvāmī was especially skilled in the science of song and in the śāstras in general. Seeing how skilled he was in singing, Śrīman Mahāprabhu had already given him the name "Dāmodara." To the name "Dāmodara" was joined the name "Svarūpa," given by his sannyāsa guru, and so he came to be called "Dāmodara-Svarūpa." He also wrote a book on the science of music, the Saṅgīta-dāmodara.

119 "O Śrī Caitanya, ocean of mercy! May Your mercy rise in all its fullness — the mercy that effortlessly shakes off the dust of distress and makes the heart pure, that unfolds a fragrant joy, that stills the quarrels over scripture, that bestows rasa and fills the heart with divine madness, that ever delights in devotion, that is full of rapture and is the very limit of sweetness." (Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka, 8.14)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
O Śrī Caitanya, ocean of mercy! Your mercy drives away all distress with ease. In it there is perfect purity. In it the highest bliss becomes manifest (eclipsing everything else). When it rises, the disputes over the śāstras come to an end. Showering rasa, it fills the heart with ecstatic madness. Its activity, the delighting of devotion, always bestows peace. This auspicious mercy of Yours spreads far and wide through the majesty of sweetness (mādhurya); may it rise upon me.

Anubhāṣya.
he dayā-nidhe śrī-caitanya, helod-dhūlita-khedayā (by which, playfully, without effort, distress, the anguish of the mind, has been scattered and removed) viśadayā (pure, illuminating all) pronmīlad-āmodayā (in which āmoda, the highest bliss, is fully unfolding and manifest) śāmyac-chāstra-vivādayā (in which the disputes of the śāstras, argument and counterargument, subside) rasa-dayā (rasa-dā, bestowing mādhurya and the other rasas) cittārpitonmādayā (by which unmāda is placed in the heart: indifference to the body and the like; or the bewilderment of the heart born of great bliss, calamity, separation and so on, that is, divyonmāda) śaśvad-bhakti-vinodayā (which by its very nature ceaselessly impels one to devotion) sa-madayā (with mada, the exultation born of an abundance of the love-transformations caused by Anaṅga, which takes away discrimination; with the reading śama-dayā, free from thirst for anything but Kṛṣṇa) mādhurya-maryādayā (in which is the limit, the summit of sweetness; the instrumental case of a qualifier) tava amandodayā (manda is constraint; amanda, free from it, is the highest good; in which it rises) dayā (upon me) bhūyāt (may it be).

Bhagavān Caitanyacandra, magnanimous, the embodiment of prema, distributes His compassion in three ways to jīvas who possess sukṛti. The jīva, dejected by material wants, tries by all sorts of means to drive away his suffering, but does not succeed. The Lord's mercy cannot be won by the jīva's own effort. By the Lord's mercy the fragrance of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet unfolds in the jīva's heart. Then the dust of the mind's distress blows away without effort, and the heart becomes pure. Then the highest bliss, born of service to Kṛṣṇa, becomes manifest in the heart. Because of the different interpretations of the śāstras, disputes arise in the mind and give rise to many arguments and counterarguments. But as soon as the jīva obtains the Lord's mercy, the heart that has received that mercy becomes intoxicated with the Lord's rasa. And the intoxication that bestows kṛṣṇa-rasa also arises only by the power of the Lord's mercy; therefore the disputes over the śāstras subside. The limit of sweetness (mādhurya-maryādā) keeps the jīva always at Kṛṣṇa's feet, and the fortunate jīva then finds joy in prema-bhakti alone. Kṛṣṇa's mercy is pure, bestows rasa, and is full of mada.

When by Kṛṣṇa's mercy the heart is gradually purified, no dirt of distress born of want remains in it. When by Kṛṣṇa's mercy the jīva obtains rasa, the disputes over the śāstras subside and the conclusion of devotion becomes firm; therefore the heart goes mad with love for Kṛṣṇa. Gradually attaining peace by Kṛṣṇa's mercy, the jīva ceaselessly delights in devotion in the majesty of sweetness.

At first the jīva is turned away from the Lord and wearied by worldly objects; next he seeks the Lord; and finally he is devoted to the Lord's service. By the Lord's mercy, first his anarthas cease; from this the heart becomes pure, and the purity of the heart results in the unfolding of the bliss of Kṛṣṇa. By the Lord's mercy, in the middle stage the jīva grasps the conclusion of devotion, through it obtains rasa, and attains the madness of love. By the Lord's mercy, in the end attachment to devotion arises; from it the Lord's pastimes appear to him everywhere (sphūrti), and from sphūrti he reaches the summit of sweetness. Thus by Kṛṣṇa's mercy a jīva who is free from thirst, that is, liberated, loses all attraction to anything but Kṛṣṇa through the service of Kṛṣṇa's kīrtana. One who seeks liberation, on receiving the medicine for the disease of worldly existence, gives up the desire for liberation and realizes the Supreme Lord. And a viṣayī, by the power of Kṛṣṇa's mercy, through hearing the descriptions of Hari's qualities, delightful to the ear and the mind, gives up worldly enjoyment and can become established in pure devotion. Therefore one should always take shelter of the Lord's mercy alone.

Touching each other, the Lord and Dāmodara Svarūpa are both overwhelmed by love —

134 Kāśīśvara will come after visiting all the holy places, but on my master's order I have hurried to Your feet."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Kāśīśvara and Govinda were both with Śrī Īśvara Purī. Kāśīśvara would come to Mahāprabhu later, after visiting other holy places. Govinda, however, took shelter at the Lord's feet immediately after Śrī Īśvara Purī attained perfection (siddhi) and departed.

The Lord's humility —

135 The Lord said, "Purīśvara has always had a father's affection for Me; out of mercy he has sent you to Me."

Sārvabhauma's question about Govinda —

Purī Gosāñi a śūdra servant why then kept

136 Hearing this, Sārvabhauma asked the Lord, "Why did Purī Gosāñi keep a servant of śūdra birth?"

*The Lord's wise reply: such is the conduct of the Lord, that is, of one who is powerful; the distinction between love and mercy and formal respect (maryādā) —*

প্রভু কহে, — ঈশ্বর হয় পরম স্বতন্ত্র । ঈশ্বরের কৃপা নহে বেদ-পরতন্ত্র ॥ ১৩৭ ॥

prabhu kahe, — īśvara haya parama svatantra
the Lord says Īśvara is supremely independent īśvarera kṛpā nahe veda-paratantra of Īśvara the mercy is not subject to the Vedas

137 The Lord said, "Īśvara — the Lord, and so too Īśvara Purī — is supremely independent; the mercy of Īśvara is not subject to the rules of the Vedas.

Anubhāṣya.

Śrī Īśvara Purī was a sannyāsī of the Vaiṣṇavas of Śrī Madhva. How could he make Govinda, a brāhmaṇa by initiation (daikṣa-brāhmaṇa) born in a śūdra family, his disciple as a "servant"? This was the reason for Sārvabhauma's question. According to the smṛti, if a brāhmaṇa accepts someone of another varṇa as a disciple or servant, the brāhmaṇa guru becomes fallen. How then could Īśvara Purī, a man of impeccable conduct, transgress what the smṛti prescribes? In answer Mahāprabhu said: "My gurudeva is an 'īśvara,' that is, a master of the world; therefore he is not subject to the smṛti, which governs ordinary jīvas. The mercy of the gurudeva, who is an īśvara, that is, one who is powerful, is never subject to Vedic rule."

īśvarera kṛpā jāti-kula nāhi māne of Īśvara the mercy caste and family does not regard vidurera ghare kṛṣṇa karilā bhojane
in Vidura's house Kṛṣṇa took a meal

138 The mercy of Īśvara takes no account of caste or family: Kṛṣṇa ate in the house of Vidura.

Anubhāṣya.

The Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, the guru of the world, silenced worldly considerations of caste and family and ate in the house of Vidura. In the same way My master mercifully set aside considerations of Govinda's birth in a śūdra family and the like. Knowing that a Vaiṣṇava is worthy of brāhmaṇa status by initiation (daikṣa-vipratva), he gave him initiation and accepted him as his “servant.”

স্নেহ-সেবাপেক্ষা মাত্র শ্রীকৃষ্ণ-কৃপার । স্নেহবশ হঞা করে স্বতন্ত্র আচার ॥ ১৩৯ ॥

sneha-sevāpekṣā mātra śrī-kṛṣṇa-kṛpāra loving service waits for only of Śrī Kṛṣṇa the mercy
sneha-vaśa hañā kare svatantra ācāra
by love controlled becoming He does independent conduct

139 Śrī Kṛṣṇa’s mercy waits only for loving service; controlled by love, He acts free of all rules.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa's mercy depends on nothing but service with affection. Service is of two kinds: service with affection (sneha-sevā) and service with formal respect (maryādā-sevā). Kṛṣṇa's mercy comes only where there is service with affection. Where there is service with formal respect, Kṛṣṇa's mercy is not easily obtained. Mercy makes no distinction of caste or family.

141 Saying this, the Lord embraced Govinda, and Govinda bowed at the Lord's feet.

The Lord asks the Bhaṭṭācārya whether it is proper to accept service from His godbrother —

প্রভু কহে, — ভট্টাচার্য্য, করহ বিচার । গুরুর কিঙ্কর হয় মান্য আপনার ॥ ১৪২ ॥

prabhu kahe, — bhaṭṭācārya, karaha vicāra
the Lord says Bhaṭṭācārya make consideration gurura kiṅkara haya mānya āpanāra of the guru the servant is worthy of honour for Me

142 The Lord said, "Bhaṭṭācārya, consider this: My guru's servant is worthy of My respect.

তাঁহারে আপন-সেবা করাইতে না যুয়ায় । গুরু আজ্ঞা দিয়াছেন, কি করি উপায় ॥ ১৪৩ ॥

tāṅhāre āpana-sevā karāite nā yuyāya him service to Myself to have him do not is proper guru ājñā diyāchena, ki kari upāya
the guru the order has given what can I do remedy

143 It is not proper for Me to have him serve Me, yet My guru has ordered it. What am I to do?"

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The guru's servant is worthy of respect in any case; one should not let him serve oneself.

Anubhāṣya.

Every servant of the guru is worthy of respect from all the other disciples. It is not proper to engage him in one's own service. But consider how this service can be accepted in order to carry out the guru's order.

Sārvabhauma's answer: the guru's order must certainly be obeyed —

ভট্ট কহে, — গুরুর আজ্ঞা হয় বলবান্ ।
গুরু-আজ্ঞা না লঙ্ঘিয়ে, শাস্ত্র — প্রমাণ ॥ ১৪৪ ॥

144 The Bhaṭṭa said, "The guru's order is powerful, and one does not transgress it — scripture is the proof:

An example from ancient lore of obeying the order of one's guru — accepted that command of his elder brother. The orders of one's elders are not to be questioned." (Raghu-vaṁśa, 14.46)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Lakṣmaṇa heard that Paraśurāma, by his father's command, had killed his own mother (Reṇukā) as if she were an enemy. And so he accepted the order of his elder brother, Śrī Rāmacandra, for the orders of one's elders (guru-varga) are not to be debated.[7]

tāhā dekhi' prabhu duḥkha pāilā antara
that seeing the Lord pain felt at heart

154 Brahmānanda was wearing a deerskin, and when the Lord saw it He was pained at heart.

Anubhāṣya.

Brahmānanda Bhāratī was one of the sannyāsīs of the ten names (daśanāmī) of Śaṅkara's school. Deerskin, or clothing of grass, bark and the like, is worn only by one who has left home. The Manu-saṁhitā (Chapter 6): "Having left the village and gone to the forest, let him live with his senses controlled… let him wear a skin or rags." The commentary of Kullūka Bhaṭṭa: "let him cover himself with the skin of a deer or another animal, or with a piece of cloth."

But to put on clothing of skin for the sake of loka-saṅgraha (attracting people), under the sway of pride, does not deliver one from worldly existence. The Manu-saṁhitā (Chapter 6): "Although the fruit of the kataka tree clears water, the water does not become clear merely by pronouncing its name."[13] Kullūka: "The fruit of the kataka tree makes muddy water clear. Yet the water is cleared not by uttering its name, but by throwing the fruit into it. Likewise the mere wearing of outward marks (liṅga) is not the cause of dharma."

The Lord sees Bhāratī but pretends not to see him —

155 Though He saw him, He pretended not to, and asked Mukunda, "Where is Bhāratī Gosāñi?"

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

156 Mukunda said, “Here he is, right before You.” The Lord said, “That is not he. You are mistaken.

The Lord's behavior awakens good sense in Bhāratī —

158 Hearing this, Brahmānanda reflected in his heart: “He does not like this skin garment of mine.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Nā bhāya — does not befit him (does not look good on him).

Outward marks alone do not free one from worldly existence —

159 He is right: I wear this skin only out of pride. Wearing a skin will not carry me across saṁsāra.

Bhāratī puts on an outer cloth, and the Lord bows to him —

Bhāratī objects to the Lord's bowing to him —

162 Bhāratī said, "Your conduct is meant to teach people. I am afraid in my heart that You will not bow to me again.

Anubhāṣya.
Your conduct is only meant to teach people. If I do not keep to the proper conduct You expect of me, You Yourself will no longer bow to me and will disregard me. That is what I fear.

Bhāratī realizes the truth: he sees that the Lord and Jagannātha are not different —

সাম্প্রতিক 'দুই ব্রহ্ম' ইঁহা 'চলাচল' । জগন্নাথ — অচল, তুমি — ব্রহ্ম সচল ॥ ১৬৩ ॥

sāmpratika 'dui brahma' iṅhā 'calācala'
at present "two Brahmans" here "moving and unmoving"
jagannātha — acala, tumi — brahma sacala Jagannātha unmoving You Brahman moving

163 Now there are two Brahmans here, the moving and the unmoving: Jagannātha is the unmoving Brahman, and You are the moving Brahman.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Sāmpratika — now: at present, in this Puruṣottama, I see two Brahmans, the "moving" and the "unmoving."

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Jagannātha-vigraha is the unmoving Brahman, and You, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, are the moving Brahman. You both, the masters of māyā, are now present in Śrī Puruṣottama as the Reality, the moving and the unmoving Brahman.

The Lord's reply —

প্রভু কহে, — সত্য কহি, তোমার আগমনে । দুই ব্রহ্ম প্রকটিল শ্রীপুরুষোত্তমে ॥ ১৬৫ ॥

prabhu kahe, — satya kahi, tomāra āgamane
the Lord says the truth I speak by your arrival

165 The Lord said, "I tell you the truth: with your arrival two Brahmans have become manifest in Śrī Puruṣottama.

'ব্রহ্মানন্দ' নাম তুমি — গৌর-ব্রহ্ম 'চল' ।
শ্যামবর্ণ জগন্নাথ বসিয়াছেন 'অচল' ॥ ১৬৬ ॥

166 You, whose name is Brahmānanda, are the golden Brahman, the moving one, while dark Jagannātha sits there unmoving."

Sārvabhauma mediates in the debate between the Lord and Bhāratī —

ইঁহার সনে আমার 'ন্যায়' বুঝ' মন দিয়া ॥ ১৬৭ ॥

167 Bhāratī said, "Sārvabhauma, be the arbiter and consider carefully this argument between Him and me.

*Bhāratī's reasoning on the jīva and Brahman —*[14]

'ব্যাপ্য' 'ব্যাপক'-ভাবে 'জীব'-'ব্রহ্মে' জানি । জীব — ব্যাপ্য, ব্রহ্ম — ব্যাপক, শাস্ত্রেতে বাখানি ॥ ১৬৮ ॥

'vyāpya' 'vyāpaka'-bhāve 'jīva'-'brahme' jāni
"pervaded" "pervader" in the relation the jīva Brahman I know
jīva — vyāpya, brahma — vyāpaka, śāstrete vākhāni
the jīva pervaded Brahman the pervader in scripture it is explained

168 I understand the jīva and Brahman as the pervaded (vyāpya) and the pervader (vyāpaka): the jīva is pervaded and Brahman is the pervader — so scripture explains.

*The Lord moved Bhāratī by His own will; so the Lord, the ruler of the power of will, is the Vibhu (the all-pervading), Viṣṇu, Brahman, and Bhāratī is the jīva —*

চর্ম্ম ঘুচাঞা কৈল আমারে শোধন ।

carma ghucāñā kaila āmāre śodhana
the skin removing He made of me purification
doṅhāra vyāpya-vyāpakatve, ei ta' kāraṇa of us two in the relation of pervaded and pervader this indeed the reason

169 By removing my skin He has purified me, and the reason is just this relation between us two — of the pervaded and the pervader.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Listen attentively to my debate with Him. Brahman is vyāpaka, that is, all-pervading; the jīva is aṇu, atomic, that is, pervaded by Brahman. He who removed my skin and purified me is the pervader, and I am the pervaded. Consider, then, who here is "Brahman": I, Brahmānanda Bhāratī, or He, Kṛṣṇa Caitanya.

The meaning of that verse lies in the Lord Himself —

171 He is the very abode of all these names: the sandal-anointed cords of prasāda on His two arms are His armlets.”

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

All the names in the verse suvarṇa-varṇa have their abode (āspada) in Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, that is, they have found their place in Him alone. The prasāda cord smeared with sandalwood is like bracelets on His two arms.[8]

Sārvabhauma's verdict: Bhāratī wins, and the Lord accepts defeat —

172 Bhaṭṭācārya said, “Bhāratī, I see that the victory is yours.” The Lord said, “Whatever you say is true.

The Lord, in the position of a disciple, is defeated by Bhāratī, who is like a guru —

173 In a dispute between guru and disciple, the disciple’s defeat is certain.” Bhāratī said, “That is not so; there is another reason.

Bhāratī's rejoinder: Bhagavān is defeated by His devotee —

174 It is Your nature to be defeated by Your devotees. Now hear one thing more — about Your own power.

*Bhāratī describes the Lord's transcendent glory: his reasoning about the featureless culminates in spiritual play (cid-vilāsa) —*

175 All my life I meditated on the formless, but on seeing You, Kṛṣṇa has become manifest to me.

By the Lord's mercy Bhāratī attains devotion to Kṛṣṇa —

কৃষ্ণনাম স্ফুরে মুখে, মনে-নেত্রে কৃষ্ণ ।
তোমাকে তদ্রূপ দেখি' হৃদয় — সতৃষ্ণ ॥ ১৭৬ ॥

You as that form seeing my heart thirsting

176 The name of Kṛṣṇa springs to my lips, and Kṛṣṇa fills my mind and eyes. Seeing You as that very form, my heart is filled with longing.

The comparison with Bilvamaṅgala —

iṅha dekhi’ sei daśā haila āmāra
Him seeing that state has become mine

177 The very change that Bilvamaṅgala underwent has come over me on seeing Him:

Anubhāṣya.

Even when the disciple's words are true, the guru's words prevail over the disciple's. At all times the guru's words deserve more respect than the disciple's. Mahāprabhu said that by this rule Brahmānanda Bhāratī was the guru, and Mahāprabhu Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya considered Himself his disciple; therefore Brahmānanda's words had won. But Brahmānanda did not accept that the cause of Mahāprabhu's defeat was the rule of “guru and disciple” He had cited. He said there was another cause. Bhagavān accepts defeat before His devotee; such is the nature of Godhood. So says Bhīṣma (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.9.34[15]): “To keep my promise true, He broke His own. He leapt down from the chariot, seized a wheel and rushed at me — the earth trembling under Him, His upper cloth falling away — like a lion rushing to kill an elephant.”

“All my life I was devoted to meditation on the formless Brahman. But when I saw You, the transcendental form of Śrī Kṛṣṇa arose before me. Kṛṣṇa's name appears in my mouth and in my mind, and my eyes see Kṛṣṇa. And seeing Kṛṣṇa's form in You, my heart has been filled with longing. In his earlier life Ṭhākura Bilvamaṅgala was an advaita-vādī devoted to meditation on the formless Brahman; later he became a devotee of Kṛṣṇa and told his own story. Today the very same thing has happened to me.”

The Śrī Caitanya-candrāmṛta: “For those touched by the glory of His merciful glance, kaivalya becomes like hell… — that Gaura alone we praise”; “…and they scorn the knowers of Brahman and of yoga — to that Gauracandra we bow”; “Only until one sees a dear servant of Śrī Caitanya's lotus feet does talk of Brahman and the path of liberation fail to turn bitter, does the order of the world and of the Vedas remain unshaken, and do the scholars of the śāstras keep up their noisy quarrels over various external paths"; "A certain Gaura, a thief of irresistible power, has stolen everything I had."

*Kṛṣṇa's mere wish suffices to destroy one's devotion to karma and *jñāna

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Though I am worshiped by those who walk the path of advaita, though I was initiated on the throne of the bliss of the self, I have been forcibly made a maidservant by some cheat, a rogue enamored of the cowherd wives.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Mahāprabhu said: "You, Brahmānanda Bhāratī, are a mahā-bhāgavata full of prema; therefore you will see Kṛṣṇa everywhere. What doubt is there?" The Bhaṭṭācārya, acting as mediator between them, said: "Mahāprabhu says that the mahā-bhāgavata Brahmānanda Bhāratī has seen Kṛṣṇa, and this too is true. For Kṛṣṇa reveals Himself directly before a mahā-bhāgavata. But without an abundance of prema in the devotee such a vision is impossible." The first iṅhāra means "by Śrī Mahāprabhu's mercy"; the second iṅhāra means "of Brahmānanda Bhāratī": he had darśana, that is, he saw Kṛṣṇa.[16] "With eyes of devotion anointed with the salve of prema, the saints always see Him, even within their hearts." (Brahma-saṁhitā, Chapter 5[17])

*Outwardly regarding Himself as a jīva, the Lord dismisses Sārvabhauma's words —*

182 The Lord said, "Viṣṇu! Viṣṇu! What are you saying, Sārvabhauma? Such excessive praise is a mark of censure."

Anubhāṣya.
Sārvabhauma's words embarrassed Mahāprabhu. He uttered, "Viṣṇu! Viṣṇu!" and said that to praise someone excessively is in fact to censure him.

3. Our translation of the verse reads differently: “the greatest servant of Jagannātha.” According to the commentary, mahā-soyāra is the chief cook of the temple kitchen. ↩
4. Our translation of the verse reads differently: “a plan arose in the minds of the four devotees.” ↩
5. Our translation of the verse reads differently: “he did not accept saffron robes, but only changed his name to ‘Svarūpa.’” According to the commentaries, he did not receive the yogapaṭṭa (the rite at which the sannyāsa name is given), and so the brahmacārī name “Svarūpa” remained with him. ↩
6. Our translation of the verse reads differently: “Sometimes he was called a manifestation of the spiritual nature of Mahāprabhu Himself.” ↩
7. Our translation of the verse reads differently: “this story inspired Lakṣmaṇa to dedicate His life to carrying out the instructions of Śrī Rāmacandra.” According to the commentaries, Lakṣmaṇa accepted a particular order of his elder brother, to take Sītā to the forest (the Anubhāṣya: “the order to banish Sītā to the forest”). ↩
8. Our translation of the verse reads differently: “He wears the prasāda cord from the Jagannātha temple, and bracelets on His two beautiful arms.” According to the commentary, the bracelets (aṅgada) on the Lord's arms are the sandal-smeared prasāda cord itself. ↩
9. The chronicle of the Jagannātha temple (usually called the Mādalā-pāñji). ↩
10. Our translation of the verse reads differently: “the greatest servant of Jagannātha.” According to the commentary, mahā-soyāra is the chief cook of the temple kitchen. ↩
11. Our translation of the verse reads differently: the Lord “blessed his sons by touching their heads with His foot.” According to the Anubhāṣya, the sons themselves placed the Lord's feet on their heads. ↩
12. The edition prints «রাগতস্তুচ্ছীচকারৈনমহো বহন্নপি» — rāgatas tucchī-cakāra enam aho vahann api; tucchī-cakāra means “made trifling, disregarded” (the vowel sign “ু” was lost in the rough OCR). The translation renders the sense literally. ↩
13. Manu-saṁhitā 6.4, 6.6 (the first quotation) and 6.67 (the second). ↩
14. In the edition the couplet of verse 168 (“vyāpya vyāpaka-bhāve…”) has no printed number (only “॥” stands at its end); the subheading stands above it, right after verse 167. The next couplet (169) is numbered correctly. ↩

15. In the usual numbering, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.9.37. By its content, the section headed “১৭৫-১৭৭” begins with a discussion of verses 172–174. ↩
16. Our translation of verse 180 reads differently: “the primary thing is Kṛṣṇa's own wish to grant His darśana.” The Anubhāṣya renders the sense of the verse as “Kṛṣṇa reveals Himself directly before the mahā-bhāgavata.” ↩
17. Brahma-saṁhitā 5.38. ↩
