Sri Chaitanya-chandramrita

"The Nectar of the Moon Chaitanya"

Prabodhananda Sarasvati

Translated from the Sanskrit

Sanskrit text, transliteration and word-for-word translation

Translator's note

The Sri Chaitanya-chandramrita is a Sanskrit collection of a little over a hundred verses glorifying Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. Its author is Prabodhananda Sarasvati, a contemporary of Mahaprabhu who later lived in Vrindavana (tradition regards him as the uncle and teacher of Gopala Bhatta Gosvami). The book is divided into twelve sections: praise, obeisance, benediction, the glory of Gaura's devotees, censure of the non-devotees, humility, fidelity to the object of worship, instruction to the world, the supremacy of Chaitanya, the glory of His descent, the beauty and dance of Gaura, and finally lament over His disappearance.

Source. The Sanskrit text is taken from the edition Sri Chaitanya-chandramritam tatha Sri Sangita-madhavam, Mathura, 1951 (ed. Baba Krishnadasa, with a Hindi translation by Gosvami Krishna Chaitanya; eGangotri scan at archive.org). The verse numbering follows that edition (142 verses and one verse in brackets without a number). Poorly recognized passages have been checked against the Bengali edition with the translation of Bhaktisiddhanta Sarasvati (which has 143 verses: one verse stands in a different place, so from the seventh section on its numbers are one higher). Only Prabodhananda's Sanskrit text has been translated. The Hindi and Bengali translations and commentaries of the editions helped to make out corrupt passages but are not reproduced.

Verification. After the first translation the Sanskrit text was restored line by line from both editions (checking the metre and relying on Bhaktisiddhanta's word-for-word analysis), and the translation of every verse was compared afresh with it; places where the translation departed from Bhaktisiddhanta's interpretation in meaning were corrected according to him. The English translation was made from the Sanskrit, in agreement with the Russian translation (same numbering and notes).

Full version. For each verse are given: the Sanskrit text in Devanagari, restored from the 1951 edition and Bhaktisiddhanta's Bengali edition (where they differ, Bhaktisiddhanta's reading is preferred; this is our own corrected text, not a reprint of any single edition); an IAST transliteration; a word-for-word translation in the order of the text, with Bhaktisiddhanta's glosses marked "B:"; and the translation.

Praise (stuti)

Verse 1

स्तुमस्तं चैतन्याकृतिमतिविमर्यादपरमा- द्भुतौदार्यं वर्यं व्रजपतिकुमारं रसयितुम् ।
विशुद्धस्वप्रेमोन्मदमधुरपीयूषलहरीं प्रदातुं चान्येभ्यः परपदनवद्वीपप्रकटम् ॥ १ ॥ stumastaṁ caitanyākṛtimativimaryādaparamā-dbhutaudāryaṁ varyaṁ vrajapatikumāraṁ rasayitum | viśuddhasvapremonmadamadhurapīyūṣalaharīṁ

pradātuṁ cānyebhyaḥ parapadanavadvīpaprakaṭam || 1 ||

Word for word: stumah — we praise; tam — Him; caitanya-akritim — who has the form of Chaitanya (B: the person named Sri Krishna Chaitanya); ati-vimaryada-parama-adbhuta-audaryam — whose generosity is boundless and supremely wonderful; varyam — the best (B: of all avataras); vrajapati-kumaram — the son of the lord of Vraja (B: Himself, non-different from the son of Nanda); rasayitum — to give a taste; vishuddha-sva-prema-unmada-madhura-piyusha-laharim — the waves of the sweet nectar of His own pure, maddening love (B: of joy and other states born of pure love); pradatum — to give; ca — and; anyebhyah — to others; para-pada-navadvipa-prakatam — who appeared in the supreme abode of Navadvipa (B: Navadvipa, the seat of the nine kinds of bhakti).

1. We praise the best of all — Him who has the form of Chaitanya, whose generosity is boundless and supremely wonderful; who appeared in the supreme abode of Navadvipa to give the son of the lord of Vraja — Himself — a taste of the nectar waves of His own pure, maddening, sweet love, and to distribute them to others.

धर्मास्पृष्टः सततपरमाविष्ट एवात्यधर्मे
दृष्टिं प्राप्तो न हि खलु सतां सृष्टिषु क्वापि नो सन् ।
यद्दत्तश्रीहरिरससुधास्वादमत्तः प्रनृत्य-त्युच्चैर्गायत्यथ विलुठति स्तौमि तं कञ्चिदीशम् ॥ २ ॥ dharmāspṛṣṭaḥ satataparamāviṣṭa evātyadharme dṛṣṭiṁ prāpto na hi khalu satāṁ sṛṣṭiṣu kvāpi no san | yaddattaśrīharirasasudhāsvādamattaḥ pranṛtya-tyuccairgāyatyatha viluṭhati staumi taṁ kañcidīśam || 2 ||

Word for word: dharma-asprishtah — untouched by dharma (B: without a drop of piety); satata — always; parama-avishtah — deeply sunk; eva — indeed; ati-adharme — in the greatest lawlessness (B: in great sin); drishtim — the sight; praptah — obtained; na hi khalu — never; satam — of the saints; srishtishu — in the places (B: where the sadhus dwell); kvapi — anywhere; no — not; san — being; yat-datta-shri-hari-rasa-sudha-asvada-mattah — intoxicated by the taste of the nectar of the rasa of Sri and Hari bestowed by Him (B: Sri is Radha, Hari is Krishna); pranrityati — dances; uccaih — loudly;

gayati — sings; atha — and; viluthati — rolls on the ground; staumi — I praise; tam — that; kancit — indescribable; isham — Lord.

2. A man never touched by dharma, always sunk in lawlessness, who has never come into the sight of the saints and has never been anywhere among them — intoxicated by the taste of the nectar of Sri-Hari-rasa, the rasa of the love of Radha and Krishna, which this Lord has bestowed, he dances, sings aloud and rolls on the ground. I praise this indescribable Lord.

यन्नाप्तं कर्मनिष्ठैर्न च समधिगतं यत्तपोध्यानयोगै-
र्वैराग्यैस्त्यागतत्त्वस्तुतिभिरपि न यत्तर्कितञ्चापि कैश्चित् ।
गोविन्दप्रेमभाजामपि न च कलितं यद्रहस्यं स्वयं त-न्नाम्नैव प्रादुरासीदवतरति परे यत्र तं नौमि गौरम् ॥ ३ ॥ yannāptaṁ karmaniṣṭhairna ca samadhigataṁ yattapodhyānayogai-rvairāgyaistyāgatattvastutibhirapi na yattarkitañcāpi kaiścit | govindapremabhājāmapi na ca kalitaṁ yadrahasyaṁ svayaṁ tannāmnaiva prādurāsīdavatarati pare yatra taṁ naumi gauram || 3 ||

Word for word: yat — what; na — not; aptam — attained; karma-nishthaih — by those devoted to ritual; na ca — nor; samadhigatam — realized; yat — what; tapah-dhyana-yogaih — by austerity, meditation and yoga (B: ashtanga-yoga); vairagyaih — by renunciation; tyaga-tattva-stutibhih — by abandonment of works, knowledge of the truth and hymns; api — even; na — not; yat — what; tarkitam — guessed; ca api — and even; kaishcit — by anyone; govinda-prema-bhajam — of those who love Govinda; api — even; na ca — nor; kalitam — known; yat — which; rahasyam — secret (B: the secret prema); svayam — of itself; tat — that; namna — through the Name (B: through nama-kirtana); eva — alone; pradurasit — became manifest; avatarati — when He descends; pare — the Supreme; yatra — in whom; tam — that; naumi — I bow to; gauram — Gaura.

3. That secret which those devoted to ritual did not attain, which was not won by austerity, meditation and yoga, which no one even guessed at in spite of renunciation, abandonment of the world, knowledge of the truth and hymns of praise, which even those who love Govinda did not know — that revealed itself of its own accord through the Holy Name alone, when the Supreme descended. I bow to that Gaura.

Verse 4

दृष्टः स्पृष्टः कीर्तितः संस्मृतो वा
दूरस्थैरप्यानतो वादृतो वा ।
प्रेम्णः सारं दातुमीशो य एकः श्रीचैतन्यं नौमि देवं दयालुम् ॥ ४ ॥

dṛṣṭaḥ spṛṣṭaḥ kīrtitaḥ saṁsmṛto vā dūrasthairapyānato vādṛto vā | premṇaḥ sāraṁ dātumīśo ya ekaḥ
śrīcaitanyaṁ naumi devaṁ dayālum || 4 ||

Word for word: drishtah — seen; sprishtah — touched; kirtitah — glorified; samsmritah — remembered; va — or; dura-sthaih — by those far away; api — even; anatah — bowed to; va — or; adritah — honoured; va — or; premnah — of love; saram — the essence (B: vipralambha-rasa); datum

— to give; ishah — able; yah — who; ekah — alone; shri-caitanyam — Sri Chaitanya; naumi — I bow to; devam — the Lord; dayalum — merciful.

4. I bow to the merciful Lord, Sri Chaitanya, who alone is able to give the essence of love to anyone who has seen Him, touched Him, glorified Him or remembered Him, or even from afar has bowed to Him or honoured Him.

Verse 5

कैवल्यं नरकायते त्रिदशपूराकाशपुष्पायते
दुर्दान्तेन्द्रियकालसर्पपटली प्रोत्खातदंष्ट्रायते ।
विश्वं पूर्णसुखायते विधिमहेन्द्रादिश्च कीटायते यत्कारुण्यकटाक्षवैभववतां तं गौरमेव स्तुमः ॥ ५ ॥

kaivalyaṁ narakāyate tridaśapūrākāśapuṣpāyate
durdāntendriyakālasarpapaṭalī protkhātadaṁṣṭrāyate | viśvaṁ pūrṇasukhāyate vidhimahendrādiśca kīṭāyate
yatkāruṇyakaṭākṣavaibhavavatāṁ taṁ gaurameva stumaḥ || 5 ||

Word for word: kaivalyam — kaivalya (B: merging into Ishvara); narakayate — becomes like hell; tridasha-puh — the city of the thirty-three gods, heaven; akasha-pushpayate — is like a flower in the sky (unreal); durdanta-indriya-kala-sarpa-patali — the pack of untamed senses, those deadly serpents; protkhata-damshtrayate — is like snakes with their fangs pulled out; vishvam — the universe; purna-sukhayate — becomes full of happiness; vidhi-mahendra-adih — Brahma, the great Indra and the rest; ca — and; kitayate — are like worms; yat-karunya-kataksha-vaibhava-vatam — for those whose wealth is His merciful glance; tam — that; gauram — Gaura; eva — alone; stumah — we praise.

5. For those who possess the wealth of His merciful glance, kaivalya (liberation) becomes like hell, the city of the gods like a flower in the sky, the pack of untamed senses — those serpents of death — like snakes whose fangs have been pulled out; the whole world becomes full of happiness, and Brahma, Indra and the rest become like worms. Gaura alone we praise.

Verse 6

माद्यन्तः परिपीय यस्य चरणाम्भोजस्रवत्प्रोज्ज्वल-
प्रेमानन्दमयामृताद्भुतरसान् सर्वे सुपर्वेडिताः ।
ब्रह्मादींश्च हसन्ति नातिबहु मन्यन्ते महावैष्णवान्
धिक्कुर्वन्ति च ब्रह्मयोगविदुषस्तं गौरचन्द्रं नुमः ॥ ६ ॥ mādyantaḥ paripīya yasya caraṇāmbhojasravatprojjvalapremānandamayāmṛtādbhutarasān sarve suparveḍitāḥ | brahmādīṁśca hasanti nātibahu manyante mahāvaiṣṇavān

dhikkurvanti ca brahmayogaviduṣastaṁ gauracandraṁ numaḥ || 6 ||

Word for word: madyantah — intoxicated; paripiya — having drunk; yasya — whose; carana-ambhoja-sravat-projjvala-prema-ananda-maya-amrita-adbhuta-rasan — the wondrous nectar juices of radiant love and bliss flowing from the lotus feet; sarve — all (B: all the devotees of Gaura); suparva-iditah — praised by the gods; brahma-adin — Brahma and the others; ca — and; hasanti — laugh at; na ati-bahu manyante — do not think much of; maha-vaishnavan — great Vaishnavas (B: those not devoted to Gaura); dhikkurvanti — censure; ca — and; brahma-yoga-vidushah — the knowers of Brahman and of yoga; tam — that; gaura-candram — Gaurachandra; numah — we praise.

6. His devotees, worshipped even by the gods, having drunk and become intoxicated with the wondrous nectar juices of radiant love and bliss that flow from His lotus feet, laugh at Brahma and the others, do not think much even of great Vaishnavas, and censure the knowers of Brahman and of yoga. We praise that Gaurachandra.

Verse 7

रक्षोदैत्यकुलं हतं कियदिदं योगादिवर्त्मक्रिया-
मार्गो वा प्रकटीकृतः कियदिदं सृष्ट्यादिकं वा कियत् ।
मेदिन्युद्धरणादिकं कियदिदं प्रेमोज्ज्वलाया महा- भक्तेर्वर्त्मकरीं परं भगवतश्चैतन्यमूर्तिं स्तुमः ॥ ७ ॥ rakṣodaityakulaṁ hataṁ kiyadidaṁ yogādivartmakriyā-mārgo vā prakaṭīkṛtaḥ kiyadidaṁ sṛṣṭyādikaṁ vā kiyat | medinyuddharaṇādikaṁ kiyadidaṁ premojjvalāyā mahā-bhaktervartmakarīṁ paraṁ bhagavataścaitanyamūrtiṁ stumaḥ || 7 ||

Word for word: rakshah-daitya-kulam — the race of Rakshasas and Daityas; hatam — destroyed; kiyat — how great; idam — this; yoga-adi-vartma-kriya-margah — the path of the practices of yoga and the rest; va — or; prakatikritah — revealed (B: by Kapila and others); kiyat idam — how great is this; srishti-adikam — creation and the rest (B: creation, maintenance and destruction by the guna-avataras); va — or; kiyat — how great; medini-uddharana-adikam — the rescue of the earth and so on (B: by Varaha); kiyat idam — how great is this; prema-ujjvalayah — radiant with prema; maha-bhakteh — of great bhakti; vartma-karim — who makes the path; param — only; bhagavatah — to Bhagavan; caitanya-murtim — the form of Chaitanya; stumah — we praise.

7. What is so great in the destruction of the race of Rakshasas and Daityas? What is so great in revealing the path of yoga and other practices? What is so great in the creation of the world and the rest, in the rescue of the earth and so on? We praise only the form of Chaitanya, who has revealed the path of the highest bhakti to Bhagavan, radiant with prema.

Obeisance (namaskara)

Verse 8

नमश्चैतन्यचन्द्राय कोटिचन्द्राननत्विषे ।
प्रेमानन्दाब्धिचन्द्राय चारुचन्द्रांशुहासिने ॥ ८ ॥ namaścaitanyacandrāya koṭicandrānanatviṣe |

premānandābdhicandrāya cārucandrāṁśuhāsine || 8 ||

Word for word: namah — obeisance; caitanya-candraya — to Chaitanya-chandra; koti-candra-anana-tvishe — whose face shines [more beautifully than] millions of moons; prema-ananda-abdhi-candraya — the moon of the ocean of love and bliss; caru-candra-amshu-hasine — whose smile is beautiful moonbeams.

8. Obeisance to Chaitanya-chandra, the Moon, whose face shines like millions of moons — the moon over the ocean of love and bliss, whose smile is like beautiful moonbeams.

Verse 9

यस्यैव पादाम्बुजभक्तिलभ्यः
प्रेमाभिधानः परमः पुमर्थः । तस्मै जगन्मङ्गलमङ्गलाय

yasyaiva pādāmbujabhaktilabhyaḥ
premābhidhānaḥ paramaḥ pumarthaḥ | tasmai jaganmaṅgalamaṅgalāya
caitanyacandrāya namo namaste || 9 ||

Word for word: yasya — whose; eva — alone; pada-ambuja-bhakti-labhyah — attainable by devotion to the lotus feet; prema-abhidhanah — called prema; paramah — the highest; pumarthah — goal of man; tasmai — to Him; jagan-mangala-mangalaya — the good of the good of the world; caitanya-candraya — to Chaitanya-chandra; namah — obeisance; namah — obeisance; te — to You.

9. By devotion to His lotus feet alone is attained the highest goal of man, called love (prema). To Him, the good of all the good of the world, to Chaitanya-chandra — obeisance, again obeisance!

Verse 10

उच्चैरास्फालयन्तं करचरणमहो हेमदण्डप्रकाण्डौ viśvasyāmaṅgalaghnaṁ kimapi hariharītyunmadānandanādairvande taṁ devacūḍāmaṇimatularasāviṣṭacaitanyacandram || 10 ||

Word for word: uccaih — vigorously; asphalayantam — swinging (B: moving to and fro in the rapture of dance); kara-caranam — arms and legs; aho — oh!; hema-danda-prakandau — huge like golden staffs; bahu — both arms; proddhritya — raising; sat-tandava-tarala-tanum — whose body sways in a beautiful vigorous dance; pundarika-ayata-aksham — with eyes long like lotuses; vishvasya — of the universe; amangala-ghnam — destroying the inauspicious; kimapi — indescribable; hari-hari-iti — "Hari, Hari!"; unmada-ananda-nadaih — with cries of ecstatic bliss; vande — I praise; tam — that; deva-cuda-manim — crest-jewel of the gods (B: of all avataras); atula-rasa-avishta-caitanya-candram — Chaitanya-chandra absorbed in incomparable rasa.

10. He vigorously swings His arms and legs — oh wonder! — raising His arms, which are like pillars of gold; His body sways in a beautiful dance, His eyes are long like lotuses; with indescribable cries of "Hari! Hari!", full of ecstatic bliss, He destroys all that is inauspicious in the universe. I bow to that Chaitanya-chandra, the crest-jewel of the gods, absorbed in incomparable rasa.

Verse 11

ānandalīlāmayavigrahāya
hemābhadivyacchavisundarāya | tasmai mahāpremarasapradāya
caitanyacandrāya namo namaste || 11 ||

Word for word: ananda-lila-maya-vigrahaya — whose body is made of pastimes of bliss; hema-abha-divya-chavi-sundaraya — beautiful with a divine lustre like gold; tasmai — to Him; maha-prema-rasa-pradaya — who bestows the rasa of great love (B: the sublime ujjvala-rasa never given before); caitanya-candraya — to Chaitanya-chandra; namah namah — obeisance, obeisance; te — to You.

11. To Him whose body is made of pastimes of bliss, who is beautiful with a golden divine lustre, who bestows the rasa of great love — to Chaitanya-chandra — obeisance, again obeisance!

Verse 12

प्रवाहैरश्रूणां नवजलदकोटी इव दृशौ vamantaṁ mādhuryairamṛtanidhikoṭīriva tanucchaṭābhistaṁ vande harimahaha sannyāsakapaṭam || 12 ||

Word for word: pravahaih — with streams; ashrunam — of tears; nava-jalada-koti — millions of new clouds; iva — like; drishau — eyes; dadhanam — having; prema-riddhya — by the wealth of love; parama-pada-koti-prahasanam — laughing at millions of supreme abodes (Vaikunthas); vamantam — pouring forth; madhuryaih — with sweetness; amrita-nidhi-kotih — millions of oceans of nectar; iva — as if; tanu-chatabhih — by the lustre of His body; tam — that; vande — I bow to; harim — Hari; ahaha — ah!; sannyasa-kapatam — who has assumed the guise of a sannyasi.

12. With streams of tears His eyes are like millions of new rain-clouds; by the wealth of His love He laughs at millions of supreme abodes; by the lustre of His body He seems to pour forth the sweetness of millions of oceans of nectar. I bow to that Hari, who has assumed the guise of a sannyasi.

Benediction (ashir-vada)

Verse 13

सिंहस्कन्धं मधुरमधुरस्मेरगण्डस्थलान्तं

bibhratkāntiṁ vikacakanakāmbhojagarbhābhirāmā-mekībhūtaṁ vapuravatu vo rādhayā mādhavasya || 13 ||

Word for word: simha-skandham — with lion's shoulders (B: a lion's neck); madhura-madhura-smera-ganda-sthala-antam — whose cheeks are smiling ever so sweetly; durvijneya-ujjvala-rasa-maya-ashcarya-nana-vikaram — with many wondrous transformations born of the inconceivable ujjvala-rasa (B: e.g. the "tortoise form"); bibhrat — bearing; kantim — lustre; vikaca-kanaka-ambhoja-garbha-abhiramam — charming as the heart (the filaments) of a blossoming golden lotus; ekibhutam — become one; vapuh — the body; avatu — may protect; vah — you; radhaya — with Radha; madhavasya — of Madhava.

13. With the shoulders of a lion, with cheeks smiling ever so sweetly, with many wondrous transformations born of the inconceivable radiant rasa, with a beauty as charming as the heart of a blossoming golden lotus — may the body of Madhava, become one with Radha, protect you.

Verse 13a

वन्दे श्रीकृष्णचैतन्यं गौरं कृष्णमपि स्वयम् । यो राधाभावसंलुब्धः स्वभावं नितरां जहौ ॥

vande śrīkṛṣṇacaitanyaṁ gauraṁ kṛṣṇamapi svayam |
yo rādhābhāvasaṁlubdhaḥ svabhāvaṁ nitarāṁ jahau ||

Word for word: vande — I bow to; shri-krishna-caitanyam — Sri Krishna Chaitanya; gauram — Gaura, the golden; krishnam — Krishna; api — though; svayam — Himself; yah — who; radha-bhava-samlubdhah — longing for the moods of Radha; svabhavam — His own nature; nitaram — entirely; jahau — gave up.

(I bow to Sri Krishna Chaitanya, Gaura, who is Krishna Himself, but who, longing for the moods of Radha, entirely gave up His own nature.)[1]

Verse 14

दृष्ट्वा माद्यति नूतनाम्बुदचयं संवीक्ष्य बर्हं भवे- दत्यन्तं विकलो विलोक्य वलितां गुञ्जावलीं वेपते । dṛṣṭe śyāmakiśorake'pi cakitaṁ dhatte camatkāritāmitthaṁ gauratanuḥ pracāritanijapremā hariḥ pātu vaḥ || 14 ||

Word for word: drishtva — seeing; madyati — becomes intoxicated; nutana-ambuda-cayam — a mass of new clouds; samvikshya — seeing; barham — a peacock feather; bhavet — becomes; atyantam — utterly; vikalah — overwhelmed; vilokya — seeing; valitam — coiled; gunja-avalim — a string of gunja berries; vepate — trembles; drishte — when seen; shyama-kishorake — a dark youth; api — even; cakitam — amazed; dhatte — assumes; camatkaritam — a state of wonder (B: wondrous beauty); ittham — thus; gaura-tanuh — in the form of Gaura; pracarita-nija-prema — who has spread His own love; harih — Hari; patu — may protect; vah — you.

14. Seeing a mass of new clouds, He becomes intoxicated; seeing a peacock feather, He becomes utterly overwhelmed; at the sight of a string of gunja berries, He trembles; and when He sees a dark youth, He is filled with wonder and awe. Thus Hari in the form of Gaura spreads His own love. May He protect you!

Verse 15

śacīgarbhakṣīrāmbudhibhava udārādbhutakalaḥ
kalānāthaḥ śrīmānudayatu tava svāntanabhasi || 15 ||

Word for word: kripa-sindhuh — ocean of mercy; sandhya-aruna-ruci-vicitra-ambara-dharah — wearing a wondrous garment the colour of the red dawn; ujjvalah — radiant; purnah — full; prema-amrita-maya-maha-jyotih — a great light made of the nectar of love; amalah — pure; shaci-garbha-kshira-ambudhi-bhavah — born in the milk ocean of Shachi's womb; udara-adbhuta-kalah — with generous and wondrous digits (B: the sixty-four arts and rasas; for the moon, its phases); kalanathah — lord of the digits, the moon (B: also the source of all avataras); shriman — beautiful (B: united with Srimati Radhika); udayatu — may rise; tava — your; svanta-nabhasi — in the sky of the heart.

15. The ocean of mercy, in a wondrous garment the colour of the red dawn, radiant and full — a pure great light made of the nectar of love — born in the milk ocean of Shachi's womb — the beautiful lord of the digits of the moon, with generous and wondrous rays — may He rise in the sky of your heart!

yātairgauratanurvilocanamudaṁ tanvan hariḥ pātu vaḥ || 16 ||

Word for word: badhnan — tying; prema-bhara-prakampita-karah — with a hand trembling from the excess of love; granthin — knots; kati-dorakaih — in the cord at the waist; sankhyatum — to count; nija-loka-mangala-hare-krishna-iti — "Hare Krishna," the blessing of His world; namnam — of the names; japan — chanting; ashru-snata-mukhah — with a face bathed in tears; svam — Himself; eva hi — indeed; jagannatham — Jagannatha; didrikshuh — longing to see; gata-yataih — by going to and fro; gaura-tanuh — in the form of Gaura; vilocana-mudam — the delight of the eyes; tanvan — spreading; harih — Hari; patu — may protect; vah — you.

16. To count His own names, "Hare Krishna," the blessing of the whole world, He chants them and ties knots in the cord at His waist with a hand that trembles from the excess of love; His face is bathed in tears; He walks to and fro, longing to see Himself — Jagannatha.[2] May Hari in the form of Gaura, the delight of the eyes, protect you!

Verse 17

अन्तर्ध्वान्तचयं समस्तजगतामुन्मूलयन्ती हठात्
प्रेमानन्दरसाम्बुधिं निरवधि प्रोद्वेलयन्ती बलात् । विश्वं शीतलयन्त्यतीव विकलं तापत्रयेणानिशं युष्माकं हृदये चकास्तु सततं चैतन्यचन्द्रच्छटा ॥ १७ ॥

antardhvāntacayaṁ samastajagatāmunmūlayantī haṭhāt premānandarasāmbudhiṁ niravadhi prodvelayantī balāt | viśvaṁ śītalayantyatīva vikalaṁ tāpatrayeṇāniśaṁ
yuṣmākaṁ hṛdaye cakāstu satataṁ caitanyacandracchaṭā || 17 ||

Word for word: antar-dhvanta-cayam — the accumulated inner darkness (B: the darkness of ignorance in the heart); samasta-jagatam — of all the worlds; unmulayanti — uprooting; hathat — suddenly; prema-ananda-rasa-ambudhim — the ocean of the rasa of love and bliss; niravadhi — without end; prodvelayanti — making overflow; balat — forcefully; vishvam — the universe; shitalayanti — cooling; ativa — utterly; vikalam — tormented; tapa-trayena — by the threefold miseries; anisham — incessantly; yushmakam — your; hridaye — in the heart; cakastu — may shine; satatam — ever; caitanya-candra-chata — the radiance of Chaitanya-chandra.

17. It suddenly uproots the darkness accumulated within all the worlds, forcefully makes the ocean of the rasa of love and bliss overflow without end, and cools the universe, tormented day and night by the threefold miseries — may the radiance of Chaitanya-chandra ever shine in your hearts![3]

The glory of Sri Chaitanya's devotees

Verse 18

भ्रान्तं यत्र मुनीश्वरैरपि पुरा यस्मिन् क्षमामण्डले
कस्यापि प्रविवेश नैव धिषणा यद्वेद नो वा शुकः ।
यन्न क्वापि कृपामयेन च निजेऽप्युद्घाटितं शौरिणा तस्मिन्नुज्ज्वलभक्तिवर्त्मनि सुखं खेलन्ति गौरप्रियाः ॥ १८ ॥ bhrāntaṁ yatra munīśvarairapi purā yasmin kṣamāmaṇḍale

kasyāpi praviveśa naiva dhiṣaṇā yadveda no vā śukaḥ | yanna kvāpi kṛpāmayena ca nije'pyudghāṭitaṁ śauriṇā tasminnujjvalabhaktivartmani sukhaṁ khelanti gaurapriyāḥ || 18 ||

Word for word: bhrantam — went astray; yatra — on which; muni-ishvaraih — by the lords of sages; api — even; pura — once; yasmin — into which; kshama-mandale — on the whole circle of the earth; kasya api — no one's; pravivesha — entered; na eva — not at all; dhishana — mind; yat — which; veda — knew; no — not; va — even; shukah — Shuka; yat — which; na — not; kvapi — anywhere; kripamayena — by the merciful; ca — and; nije — to His own; api — even; udghatitam — revealed; shaurina — by Shauri (Krishna); tasmin — on that; ujjvala-bhakti-vartmani — path of radiant bhakti; sukham — joyfully; khelanti — play; gaura-priyah — the dear ones of Gaura.

18. On that path where once even the lords of sages went astray, into which no one's mind on the whole earth has penetrated, which even Shuka did not know, which the merciful Shauri (Krishna) never revealed anywhere even to His own intimates — on that radiant path of bhakti the beloved devotees of Gaura joyfully play.

Verse 19

तावद्ब्रह्मकथा विमुक्तिपदवी तावन्न तिक्तीभवे- त्तावच्चापि विशृङ्खलत्वमयते नो लोकवेदस्थितिः ।
तावच्छास्त्रविदां मिथः कलकलो नानाबहिर्वर्त्मसु
श्रीचैतन्यपदाम्बुजप्रियजनो यावन्न दृग्गोचरः ॥ १९ ॥

tāvadbrahmakathā vimuktipadavī tāvanna tiktībhavettāvaccāpi viśṛṅkhalatvamayate no lokavedasthitiḥ | tāvacchāstravidāṁ mithaḥ kalakalo nānābahirvartmasu
śrīcaitanyapadāmbujapriyajano yāvanna dṛggocaraḥ || 19 ||

Word for word: tavat — only so long; brahma-katha — talk of Brahman (B: of the impersonal Brahman); vimukti-padavi — the path of liberation; tavat — so long; na — not; tiktibhavet — becomes bitter; tavat — so long; ca api — and also; vishrinkhalatvam — slackening; ayate — reaches; no — not; loka-veda-sthitih — adherence to worldly and Vedic order; tavat — so long; shastra-vidam — of the learned in the shastras; mithah — mutual; kalakalah — noisy dispute; nana-bahih-vartmasu — about the many external paths; shri-caitanya-pada-ambuja-priya-janah — one to whom the lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya are dear; yavat — as long as; na — not; drig-gocarah — seen.

19. Only so long does talk of Brahman, the path of liberation, not taste bitter; only so long does adherence to the order of the world and the Vedas not slacken; only so long does the noisy dispute of the learned about the many external paths go on — as long as one has not seen one who loves the lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya.

Verse 20

क्व तावद्वैराग्यं क्व च विषयवार्तासु नरके- ष्विवोद्वेगः क्वासौ विनयभरमापूर्यलहरी । क्व तावत्तेजोऽलौकिकमथ महाभक्तिपदवी

kva tāvadvairāgyaṁ kva ca viṣayavārtāsu narake-ṣvivodvegaḥ kvāsau vinayabharamāpūryalaharī |
kva tāvattejo'laukikamatha mahābhaktipadavī
kva sā vā sambhāvyā yadavakalitaṁ gauragatiṣu || 20 ||

Word for word: kva — where; tavat — such; vairagyam — renunciation; kva — where; ca — and; vishaya-vartasu — towards talk of worldly things; narakeshu — towards hells; iva — as; udvegah — aversion; kva — where; asau — that; vinaya-bhara-apurya-lahari — wave overflowing with abundant humility; kva — where; tavat — such; tejah — power; alaukikam — unearthly; atha — and; maha-bhakti-padavi — the path of great bhakti; kva — where; sa — that; va — indeed; sambhavya — possible; yat — which; avakalitam — is seen; gaura-gatishu — in those whose refuge is Gaura.

20. Where else is such renunciation, where such aversion to talk of sense objects as to hell, where this wave overflowing with humility, where that unearthly power, where that path of great bhakti — all that is seen in those whose refuge is Gaura?

Verse 21

सकृन्नयनगोचरीकृततदश्रुधाराकुल-प्रफुल्लकमलेक्षणप्रणयकातरश्रीमुखः । न गौरचरणं जिहासति कदापि लोकोत्तरsakṛnnayanagocarīkṛtatadaśrudhārākulapraphullakamalekṣaṇapraṇayakātaraśrīmukhaḥ | na gauracaraṇaṁ jihāsati kadāpi lokottarasphuranmadhurimārṇavaṁ navanavānurāgonmadaḥ || 21 ||

Word for word: sakrit — once; nayana-gocari-krita-tad-ashru-dhara-akula-praphulla-kamala-ikshana-pranaya-katara-shri-mukhah — one to whose eyes has been revealed His beautiful face, shy with love, with eyes like full-blown lotuses brimming with streams of tears; na — not; gaura-caranam — Gaura's feet; jihasati — wishes to leave; kadapi — ever; lokottara-sphuran-madhurima-arnavam — the ocean of unearthly, sparkling sweetness; nava-nava-anuraga-unmadah — intoxicated with ever-new anuraga.

21. One who has even once seen Gaura's beautiful face, shy with love, with eyes like full-blown lotuses brimming with streams of tears — intoxicated with ever-new loving attachment (anuraga), will never wish to leave Gaura's feet, an ocean of unearthly, sparkling sweetness.

Verse 22

आचर्य धर्मं परिचर्य विष्णुं
विचर्य तीर्थानि विचार्य वेदान् ।
विना न गौरप्रियपादसेवां वेदादिदुष्प्राप्यपदं विदन्ति ॥ २२ ॥

ācarya dharmaṁ paricarya viṣṇuṁ vicarya tīrthāni vicārya vedān | vinā na gaurapriyapādasevāṁ vedādiduṣprāpyapadaṁ vidanti || 22 ||

Word for word: acarya — having practised; dharmam — dharma (B: of varnashrama); paricarya — having served; vishnum — Vishnu; vicarya — having travelled to; tirthani — holy places; vicarya — having studied; vedan — the Vedas; vina — without; na — not; gaura-priya-pada-sevam — service to the feet of Gaura's dear ones; veda-adi-dushprapya-padam — the abode hard to reach even through the Vedas and so on (B: Sri Vrindavana-dhama); vidanti — they know.

22. One may practise dharma, serve Vishnu, travel to the holy places, study the Vedas — but without serving the feet of Gaura's beloved devotees one does not come to know the abode that is hard to reach even through the Vedas — Vrindavana, the footstool of Sri Radha-Govinda.

Verse 23

अपारावारञ्चेदमृतमयपाथोधिमधिकं
विमथ्य प्राप्तं स्यात्किमपि परमं सारमतुलम् ।

तथापि श्रीगौराकृतिमदनगोपालचरण-tathāpi śrīgaurākṛtimadanagopālacaraṇacchaṭāspṛṣṭānāṁ tadvahati vikaṭāmeva kaṭutām || 23 ||

Word for word: aparavaram — shoreless; cet — if; amrita-maya-pathodhim — ocean of nectar; adhikam — long, intensely; vimathya — churning; praptam — obtained; syat — were; kimapi — some indescribable; paramam — supreme; saram — essence; atulam — incomparable; tathapi — still; shri-gaura-akriti-madana-gopala-carana-chata-sprishtanam — for those touched by the radiance of the feet of Madana-Gopala in the form of Sri Gaura (B: Sri is Radhika; Madana-Gopala, who took on her golden colour); tat — it; vahati — bears; vikatam — harsh; eva — only; katutam — bitterness.

23. If, by long churning the shoreless ocean of nectar, some supreme, incomparable essence were obtained — even that would taste bitter and harsh to those touched by the radiance of the feet of Madana-Gopala, who has become golden with the lustre of Sri Radha.

Verse 24

तृणादपि च नीचता सहजसौम्यमुग्धाकृतिः
सुधामधुरभाषिता विषयगन्धथूथूत्कृतिः । हरिप्रणयविह्वला किमपि धीरनालम्बिता tṛṇādapi ca nīcatā sahajasaumyamugdhākṛtiḥ

sudhāmadhurabhāṣitā viṣayagandhathūthūtkṛtiḥ | haripraṇayavihvalā kimapi dhīranālambitā
bhavanti kila sadguṇā jagati gaurabhājāmamī || 24 ||

Word for word: trinat — than grass; api — even; ca — and; nicata — lowliness (B: absence of worldly pride); sahaja-saumya-mugdha-akritih — a naturally gentle and charming appearance; sudha-madhura-bhashita — speech sweet as nectar; vishaya-gandha-thuthut-kritih — spitting at even the scent of sense objects (B: unconnected with Krishna); hari-pranaya-vihvala — overwhelmed by love for Hari; kimapi — indescribably; dhih — mind; analambita — leaning on nothing [external] (B: complete forgetfulness of the external); bhavanti — are; kila — indeed; sad-gunah — good qualities; jagati — in the world; gaura-bhajam — of the devotees of Gaura; ami — these.

24. Humility lower than a blade of grass, a naturally gentle and pure appearance, speech sweet as nectar, spitting at even the scent of sense objects, a mind leaning on nothing [external], indescribably overwhelmed by love for Hari — such good qualities are found in this world only in the devotees of Gaura.

Verse 25

उपासतां वा गुरुवर्यकोटी-

चैतन्यकारुण्यकटाक्षभाजां

सद्यः परं स्याद्धि रहस्यलाभः ॥ २५ ॥

upāsatāṁ vā guruvaryakoṭī-radhīyatāṁ vā śrutiśāstrakoṭīḥ | caitanyakāruṇyakaṭākṣabhājāṁ
sadyaḥ paraṁ syāddhi rahasyalābhaḥ || 25 ||

Word for word: upasatam — let them serve; va — or; guru-varya-kotih — millions of the best gurus; adhiyatam — let them study; va — or; shruti-shastra-kotih — millions of shrutis and shastras; caitanya-karunya-kataksha-bhajam — for those on whom Chaitanya's merciful glance has fallen; sadyah — at once; param — highest; syat — comes; hi — indeed; rahasya-labhah — the attainment of the secret (B: of the secret prema).

25. Let them serve millions of the best gurus, let them study millions of shrutis and shastras — but to those on whom Chaitanya's merciful glance has fallen, the highest secret is revealed at once.

Verse 26

आस्तां वैराग्यकोटिर्भवतु शमदमक्षान्तिमैत्रादिकोटि- स्तत्त्वानुध्यानकोटिर्भवतु भवतु वा वैष्णवीभक्तिकोटिः । koṭyaṁśo'pyasya na syāttadapi guṇagaṇo yaḥ svataḥsiddha āste śrīmaccaitanyacandrapriyacaraṇanakhajyotirāmodabhājām || 26 ||

Word for word: astam — let there be; vairagya-kotih — millions of kinds of renunciation; bhavatu — let there be; shama-dama-kshanti-maitra-adi-kotih — millions of [forms of] tranquillity, self-control, patience, friendliness and the rest; tattva-anudhyana-kotih — millions of meditations on the truth (B: on the oneness of jiva and Brahman); bhavatu — let there be; bhavatu va — or let there be; vaishnavi-bhakti-kotih — millions of [kinds of] Vaishnava bhakti; koti-amshah — a millionth part; api — even; asya — of this; na syat — is not; tat api — even so; guna-ganah — the host of qualities; yah — which; svatah-siddhah — self-existent; aste — dwells; shrimac-caitanya-candra-priya-carana-nakha-jyotih-amoda-bhajam — in those who delight in the fragrance of the radiance of the toenails of the dear ones of Sri Chaitanya-chandra.

26. Let there be millions of kinds of renunciation, millions of kinds of restraint, self-control, patience, friendliness and the rest, millions of meditations on the truth, and even millions of kinds of Vaishnava bhakti — all of these together do not equal even a millionth part of the qualities that dwell of themselves in those who delight in the fragrance of the radiance of the toenails of the dear devotees of Sri Chaitanya-chandra.

Verse 27

केचित्सागरभूधरानपि पराक्रामन्ति नृत्यन्ति वै
केचिद्देवपुरन्दरादिषु महाक्षेपं क्षिपन्तो मुहुः । आनन्दोद्भटजालविह्वलतया तेऽद्वैतचन्द्रादयः ānandodbhaṭajālavihvalatayā te'dvaitacandrādayaḥ

ke ke noddhatavanta īdṛśi punaścaitanyanṛtyotsave || 27 ||

Word for word: kecit — some (B: Murari Gupta and others); sagara-bhudharan — oceans and mountains; api — even; parakramanti — stride over; nrityanti — dance; vai — indeed; kecit — others (B: Srivasa and others); deva-purandara-adishu — at Indra and the other gods; maha-akshepam — great reproaches; kshipantah — hurling; muhuh — again and again; ananda-udbhata-jala-vihvalataya — overwhelmed in the net of tumultuous bliss; te — they; advaita-candra-adayah — Advaita-chandra and the others; ke ke — who; na uddhatavantah — did not run wild; idrishi — in such; punah — again; caitanya-nritya-utsave — a festival of Chaitanya's dance.

27. Some of them stride over oceans and mountains and dance; others again and again hurl great reproaches at Indra and the other gods; and Advaita-chandra and the others, beside themselves with tumultuous bliss — who did not run wild at this festival of Chaitanya's dance?

Verse 28

भूतो वा भविताऽपि वा भवति वा कस्यापि यः कोऽपि वा
सम्बन्धो भगवत्पदाम्बुजरसे नास्मिन् जगन्मण्डले ।
तत्सर्वं निजभक्तिरूपपरमैश्वर्येण विक्रीडितो
गौरस्यास्य कृपाविजृम्भिततया जानन्ति निर्मत्सराः ॥ २८ ॥

bhūto vā bhavitā'pi vā bhavati vā kasyāpi yaḥ ko'pi vā sambandho bhagavatpadāmbujarase nāsmin jaganmaṇḍale | tatsarvaṁ nijabhaktirūpaparamaiśvaryeṇa vikrīḍito
gaurasyāsya kṛpāvijṛmbhitatayā jānanti nirmatsarāḥ || 28 ||

Word for word: bhutah — has been; va — or; bhavita — will be; api va — or; bhavati — is; va — or; kasya api — of anyone; yah ko 'pi — whatever; va — or; sambandhah — relationship; bhagavat-pada-ambuja-rase — with the rasa of the Lord's lotus feet; na — not; asmin — in this; jagan-mandale — world; tat sarvam — all that; nija-bhakti-rupa-parama-aishvaryena — with the supreme wealth in the form of devotion to Himself; vikriditah — sporting; gaurasya — of Gaura; asya — this; kripa-vijrimbhitataya — through the outpouring of mercy; jananti — know; nirmatsarah — the non-envious.

28. Such a relationship with the rasa of the Lord's lotus feet as no one in this world has had, will have or has — all this the non-envious come to know through the outpouring mercy of this Gaura, who sports with the supreme wealth: devotion to Himself.

1. In the 1951 edition this verse stands in brackets without a number; it is probably a later insertion. It could not be found in the OCR copy of the Bengali edition with Bhaktisiddhanta Sarasvati's translation.

2. Mahaprabhu worshipped Jagannatha in Puri as another form of His own (more precisely, as Himself). Here it is said: "longing to see Himself — Jagannatha."

3. In the Bengali edition with Bhaktisiddhanta Sarasvati's translation this verse stands here too (No. 17), and is then repeated in the seventh section (No. 75) with the words "in our hearts" (asmakam instead of yushmakam).

Part Two

Censure of the non-devotees. Humility (verses 29–56)

Censure of those not devoted to Chaitanya

Verse 29

महापुरुषमानिनां सुरमुनीश्वराणां निजं
पदाम्बुजमजानतां किमपि गर्वनिर्वासनम् ।
अहो नयनगोचरं निगमचक्रचूडाचरं शचीसुतमचीकरत् क इह भूरिभाग्योदयः ॥ mahāpuruṣamāninām̐ suramunīśvarāṇām̐ nijam̐

padāmbujamajānatām̐ kimapi garvanirvāsanam |
aho nayanagocaram̐ nigamacakracūḍācaram̐
śacīsutamacīkarat ka iha bhūribhāgyodayaḥ ||

Word for word: maha-purusha-maninam — who think themselves great persons; sura-muni-ishvaranam — of the lords of the gods and sages; nijam — His own; pada-ambujam — lotus feet; ajanatam — not knowing; kim api — indescribably; garva-nirvasanam — who drives out the pride; aho — oh!; nayana-gocaram — visible to the eyes; nigama-cakra-cuda-caram — sought by the crowns (the Upanishads) of the whole host of the Vedas; shaci-sutam — the son of Shachi; acikarat — has made; kah — who; iha — here, in this world; bhuri-bhagya-udayah — a great rising of fortune (an exceedingly fortunate one).

29. Oh, who in this world is that great fortunate one who has made visible even to one such as me the son of Shachi — He whom the crowns of the whole host of the Vedas seek! He drives out, in an indescribable way, the pride of the lords of the gods and of the sages, who think themselves great and do not know His lotus feet.

Verse 30

सर्वसाधनहीनोऽपि परमाश्चर्यवैभवे । गौराङ्गे न्यस्तभावो यः सर्वार्थपूर्ण एव सः ॥ sarvasādhanahīno'pi paramāścaryavaibhave |

gaurāṅge nyastabhāvo yaḥ sarvārthapūrṇa eva saḥ ||

Word for word: sarva-sadhana-hinah — devoid of all means of practice; api — even; parama-ashcarya-vaibhave — whose glory is supremely wonderful; gaurange — in Gauranga; nyasta-bhavah — who has placed his heart; yah — who; sarva-artha-purnah — fulfilled in every goal (has attained the highest goal, prema); eva — surely; sah — he.

30. Even if a man is devoid of every means of spiritual practice, if his heart is given to Gauranga, whose glory is wonderful beyond all, he has attained every goal.

Verse 31

अप्यगण्यमहापुण्यमनन्यशरणं हरेः । अनुपासितचैतन्यमधन्यं मन्यते मतिः ॥ apyagaṇyamahāpuṇyamananyaśaraṇaṁ hareḥ |

anupāsitacaitanyamadhanyaṁ manyate matiḥ ||

Word for word: api — even; aganya-maha-punyam — possessing countless great merits; ananya-sharanam — having no other refuge; hareh — (than) Hari; anupasita-caitanyam — who has not worshipped Chaitanya; adhanyam — unfortunate (unworthy of the wealth of love); manyate — considers; matih — (my) mind.

31. Even if someone possesses countless great merits and seeks no refuge other than Hari, my mind still considers him unfortunate if he has not worshipped Chaitanya.

Verse 32

क्रियासक्तान् धिग् धिग् विकटतपसो धिक् च यमिनः
धिगस्तु ब्रह्माहं वदनपरिफुल्लान् जडमतीन् ।
किमेतान् शोचामो विषयरसमत्तान्नरपशून्
न केषाञ्चिल्लेशोऽप्यहह मिलितो गौरमधुनः ॥

kriyāsaktān dhig dhig vikaṭatapaso dhik ca yaminaḥ dhigastu brahmāhaṁ vadanapariphullān jaḍamatīn | kimetān śocāmo viṣayarasamattānnarapaśūn
na keṣāñcilleśo'pyahaha milito gauramadhunaḥ ||

Word for word: kriya-asaktan — those attached to rituals; dhig dhig — shame, shame; vikata-tapasah — on harsh ascetics; dhik — shame; ca — and; yaminah — on self-restraining yogis (by yama and the rest); dhik astu — let there be shame; brahma aham — "I am Brahman"; vadana-pariphullan — (on those whose) faces blossom (at these words); jada-matin — dull-witted; kim — why; etan — over them; shocamah — should we grieve; vishaya-rasa-mattan — intoxicated with the taste of sense objects; nara-pashun — two-legged beasts; na — not; keshancit — to any of them; leshah api — even a drop; ahaha — alas!; militah — has come; gaura-madhunah — of the honey (of the feet) of Gaura.

32. Shame, shame on those attached to rituals and therefore dull-witted; shame on harsh ascetics and self-restraining yogis! Shame on those whose faces blossom at the mere words "I am Brahman"! And why should we grieve over these two-legged beasts intoxicated with the taste of sense pleasure? Alas, not one of them has received even a drop of the honey of Gaura.

Verse 33

पाषाणः परिषेचितोऽमृतरसैर्नैवाङ्कुरः सम्भवेत्
लाङ्गूलं सरमापतेर्विवृणतः स्यादस्य नैवार्जवम् ।
हस्तावुन्नयता बुधाः कथमहो धार्यं विधोर्मण्डलं सर्वं साधनमस्तु गौरकरुणाभावे न भावोत्सवः ॥ pāṣāṇaḥ pariṣecito'mṛtarasairnaivāṅkuraḥ sambhavet

lāṅgūlaṁ saramāpatervivṛṇataḥ syādasya naivārjavam | hastāvunnayatā budhāḥ kathamaho dhāryaṁ vidhormaṇḍalaṁ
sarvaṁ sādhanamastu gaurakaruṇābhāve na bhāvotsavaḥ ||

Word for word: pashanah — a stone; parishecitah — however watered; amrita-rasaih — with nectar juices; na eva — never; ankurah — a sprout; sambhavet — will appear; langulam — the tail; sarama-pateh — of a dog; vivrinatah — of one straightening; syat — will be; asya — its; na eva — never; arjavam — straightness; hastau — the hands; unnayata — (by one) raising; budhah — O wise ones; katham — how; aho — oh!; dharyam — can be held; vidhoh — of the moon; mandalam — the disc; sarvam — every; sadhanam — means of practice; astu — let there be; gaura-karuna-abhave — without Gaura's mercy; na — there is no; bhava-utsavah — festival of feeling (love).

33. However much a stone is watered with nectar, no sprout will appear; however much one straightens a dog's tail, it will never become straight; O wise ones, however high one raises one's hands, how can one hold the disc of the moon? Let there be every means of practice — but without Gaura's mercy there is no festival of bhava (love).

Verse 34

अवतीर्णे गौरचन्द्रे विस्तीर्णे प्रेमसागरे ।
सुप्रकाशितरत्नौघे यो दीनो दीन एव सः ॥

avatīrṇe gauracandre vistīrṇe premasāgare |
suprakāśitaratnaughe yo dīno dīna eva saḥ ||

Word for word: avatirne — when has descended; gaura-candre — Gaurachandra; vistirne — when has spread wide; prema-sagare — the ocean of love; su-prakashita-ratna-oghe — in which a multitude of jewels shines brightly (the nine kinds of bhakti, the bhavas, the Names); yah — whoever; dinah — poor; dinah — poor (wretched); eva — indeed; sah — he.

34. When Gaurachandra has descended and the ocean of love has spread wide, its multitude of jewels (the nine kinds of bhakti and the rest) shining brightly — whoever has remained poor is poor indeed.

Verse 35

अवतीर्णे गौरचन्द्रे विस्तीर्णे प्रेमसागरे ।
ये न मज्जन्ति मज्जन्ति ते महानर्थसागरे ॥

avatīrṇe gauracandre vistīrṇe premasāgare |
ye na majjanti majjanti te mahānarthasāgare ||

Word for word: avatirne — when has descended; gaura-candre — Gaurachandra; vistirne — when has spread wide; prema-sagare — the ocean of love; ye — those who; na majjanti — do not plunge (into it); majjanti — drown; te — they; maha-anartha-sagare — in the ocean of great misfortunes.

35. When Gaurachandra has descended and the ocean of love has spread wide, those who do not plunge into it drown in the ocean of great misfortunes.

Verse 36

प्रसारितमहाप्रेमपीयूषरससागरे । चैतन्यचन्द्रे प्रकटे यो दीनो दीन एव सः ॥ prasāritamahāpremapīyūṣarasasāgare |

caitanyacandre prakaṭe yo dīno dīna eva saḥ ||

Word for word: prasarita-maha-prema-piyusha-rasa-sagare — when the ocean of the nectar rasa of great love has spread forth; caitanya-candre — Chaitanya-chandra; prakate — when has appeared; yah — whoever; dinah — poor; dinah — poor (wretched); eva — indeed; sah — he.

36. When Chaitanya-chandra has appeared and the ocean of the nectar rasa of great love has spread forth — whoever has remained poor is poor indeed.

Verse 37

अचैतन्यमिदं विश्वं यदि चैतन्यमीश्वरम् ।
न विदुः सर्वशास्त्रज्ञा ह्यपि भ्राम्यन्ति ते जनाः ॥

acaitanyamidaṁ viśvaṁ yadi caitanyamīśvaram |
na viduḥ sarvaśāstrajñā hyapi bhrāmyanti te janāḥ ||

Word for word: acaitanyam — devoid of consciousness (inanimate, material; a play on words: "without Chaitanya"); idam — this; vishvam — world (in this world); yadi — if; caitanyam — Chaitanya; ishvaram — as God; na viduh — do not know; sarva-shastra-jnah — knowers of all the shastras; hi api — even; bhramyanti — wander; te — those; janah — people.

37. If people, even those who know all the shastras, do not know that Chaitanya is God, they merely wander about in this world devoid of consciousness (a-chaitanya).

Verse 38

स्वादं स्वादं मधुरिमभरं स्वीयनामावलीनां
मादं मादं किमपि विवशीभूतविस्रस्तगात्रः ।
वारं वारं व्रजपतिगुणान् गाय गायेति जल्पन् गौरो दृष्टः सकृदपि न यैर्दुर्घटा तेषु भक्तिः ॥ svādaṁ svādaṁ madhurimabharaṁ svīyanāmāvalīnāṁ

mādaṁ mādaṁ kimapi vivaśībhūtavisrastagātraḥ |
vāraṁ vāraṁ vrajapatiguṇān gāya gāyeti jalpan
gauro dṛṣṭaḥ sakṛdapi na yairdurghaṭā teṣu bhaktiḥ ||

Word for word: svadam svadam — again and again tasting; madhurima-bharam — the fullness of sweetness; sviya-nama-avalinam — of His own names; madam madam — again and again becoming intoxicated; kim api — indescribably; vivashibhuta-visrasta-gatrah — losing control, His body gone limp; varam varam — again and again; vraja-pati-gunan — the qualities of the lord of Vraja; gaya gaya — "sing, sing"; iti — thus; jalpan — murmuring; gaurah — Gaura; drishtah — seen; sakrit api — even once; na — not; yaih — by whom; durghata — hard to attain; teshu — for them; bhaktih — bhakti.

38. Again and again tasting the fullness of the sweetness of His own names, again and again becoming intoxicated, indescribably losing control of Himself so that His body goes limp, again and again murmuring, "Sing, sing of the qualities of the lord of Vraja!" — such is Gaura. Those who have never once seen Him — how can they have bhakti?

Verse 39

विना बीजं किं नाङ्कुरजननमन्धोऽपि न कथं प्रपश्येन्नो पङ्गुर्गिरिशिखरमारोहति कथम् ।

vinā bījaṁ kiṁ nāṅkurajananamandho'pi na kathaṁ prapaśyenno paṅgurgiriśikharamārohati katham | yadi śrīcaitanye harirasamayāścaryavibhave-
'pyabhaktānāṁ bhāvī kathamapi parapremarabhasaḥ ||

Word for word: vina bijam — without a seed; kim na — could not; ankura-jananam — the appearance of a sprout; andhah api — even a blind man; na katham — why not; prapashyet — see; no — not; panguh — a lame man; giri-shikharam — a mountain peak; arohati — climbs; katham — why; yadi — if; shri-caitanye — towards Sri Chaitanya; hari-rasa-maya-ashcarya-vibhave — whose wondrous wealth is made of Hari-rasa (the rasa of bhakti); api — even; abhaktanam — of non-devotees; bhavi — will arise; katham api — somehow; para-prema-rabhasah — the impulse of the highest love (love for the Supreme).

39. Could a sprout not appear without a seed, a blind man not see, a lame man not climb a mountain peak — if even those not devoted to Sri Chaitanya, whose wondrous wealth is made of Hari-rasa, could somehow obtain the impulse of the highest love?

Verse 40

अलौकिक्या प्रेमोन्मदरसविलासप्रथनया
न यः श्रीगोविन्दानुचरसचिवेष्वेषु कृतिषु । महाश्चर्यप्रेमोत्सवमपि हठाद्दातरि न यmahāścaryapremotsavamapi haṭhāddātari na ya-nmatirgaure sākṣāt para iha sa mūḍho narapaśuḥ ||

Word for word: alaukikya — by unearthly; prema-unmada-rasa-vilasa-prathanaya — unfolding of the pastimes of the intoxicating rasa of love; na — not (counted); yah — who; shri-govinda-anucara-saciveshu — among the companions and ministers of Sri Govinda; eshu — these; kritishu — virtuous; maha-ashcarya-prema-utsavam — the festival of great, wondrous love; api — even (to him); hathat — suddenly (forcibly); datari — to the giver; na — not (turned); yat-matih — whose mind; gaure — to Gaura; sakshat — Himself; parah — the greatest; iha — here; sah — he; mudhah — fool; nara-pashuh — a two-legged beast.

40. He who, by an unearthly unfolding of the pastimes of the intoxicating rasa of love, suddenly gives the festival of great and wondrous love even to one who is not among these virtuous companions and ministers of Sri Govinda — whoever does not turn his mind to Gaura Himself is here the greatest of fools, a two-legged beast.

Verse 41

असंख्याः श्रुत्यादौ भगवदवतारा निगदिताः
प्रभावं कः सम्भावयतु परमेशादितरतः । किमन्यत् स्वप्रेष्ठे कति कति सतां नाप्यनुभवा- asaṁkhyāḥ śrutyādau bhagavadavatārā nigaditāḥ prabhāvaṁ kaḥ sambhāvayatu parameśāditarataḥ | kimanyat svapreṣṭhe kati kati satāṁ nāpyanubhavā-stathāpi śrīgaure hari hari na mūḍhā haridhiyaḥ ||

Word for word: asankhyah — countless; shruti-adau — in the shruti and other scriptures; bhagavat-avatarah — incarnations of the Lord; nigaditah — are named; prabhavam — (such) power (as is seen in Gaura); kah — who; sambhavayatu — could suppose; parameshat — than the Supreme; itaratah — in another; kim anyat — what more (to say); sva-preshthe — in their beloved (Gaura); kati kati — how many, how many; satam — of the saints; na api — were there not; anubhavah — revelations (the vision of the six-armed form and others); tatha api — and yet; shri-gaure — in Sri Gaura; hari hari — alas, alas (Hari, Hari); na — do not (have); mudhah — fools; hari-dhiyah — the understanding that He is Hari.

41. Countless incarnations of the Lord are named in the shruti and other scriptures — but who could ascribe such power to anyone other than the Supreme? And what more is there to say: how many, how many revelations have the saints had of their beloved Gaura! And yet, alas — Hari, Hari! — fools do not recognize Hari in Sri Gaura.

Verse 42

साक्षान्मोक्षादिकार्थान् विविधविकृतिभिस्तुच्छतां दर्शयन्तं
प्रेमानन्दं प्रसूते सकलतनुभृतां यस्य लीलाकटाक्षः । nāsau vedeṣu gūḍho jagati yadi bhavedīśvaro gauracandrastatprāpto'nīśavādaḥ śiva śiva gahane viṣṇumāye namaste ||

Word for word: sakshat — direct; moksha-adika-arthan — liberation and the other goals; vividha-vikritibhih — by various transformations (of ecstasy); tucchatam — worthlessness; darshayantam — showing; prema-anandam — the bliss of love; prasute — gives rise to; sakala-tanu-bhritam — in all embodied beings; yasya — whose; lila-katakshah — playful glance; na — not; asau — this; vedeshu — in the Vedas; gudhah — hidden; jagati — of the world; yadi — if; bhavet — is; ishvarah — God; gaura-candrah — Gaurachandra; tat — then; praptah — is established; anishavadah — the doctrine that there is no God; shiva shiva — Shiva, Shiva!; gahane — O inscrutable; vishnu-maye — O maya of Vishnu; namah — obeisance; te — to thee.

42. His playful glance gives rise in all embodied beings to the bliss of love, which by its various transformations shows the worthlessness even of liberation and the other goals. If this Gaurachandra, hidden in the Vedas, is not the Lord of the world, then the doctrine of a world without God is established of itself. Shiva, Shiva! Inscrutable art thou, O maya of Vishnu — obeisance to thee!

Verse 43

धिगस्तु कुलमुज्ज्वलं धिगपि वाग्मितां धिग्यशो धिगध्ययनमाकृतिं नववयःश्रियश्चास्तु धिक् । dvijatvamapi dhik paraṁ vimalamāśramādyaṁ ca dhik

na cet paricitaḥ kalau prakaṭagauragopīpatiḥ ||

Word for word: dhik astu — let there be shame; kulam — on a family; ujjvalam — illustrious; dhik api — shame too; vagmitam — on eloquence; dhik — shame; yashah — on fame; dhik — shame; adhyayanam — on learning (study of the Vedas); akritim — a handsome form; nava-vayah — youth; shriyah — wealth; ca — and; astu dhik — let there be shame; dvijatvam — on twice-born status; api — also; dhik — shame; param — supreme; vimalam — pure; ashrama-adyam — the ashrama and the rest; ca — and; dhik — shame; na cet — if not; paricitah — known (accepted and honoured); kalau — in the age of Kali; prakata-gaura-gopi-patih — the Lord of the gopis made manifest as Gaura.

43. Shame on an illustrious family, shame on eloquence, shame on fame, shame on learning, on a handsome form, on youth and on wealth; shame too on birth as a twice-born, on a pure ashrama and all the rest — if in the age of Kali one has not come to know Gaura, the Lord of the gopis made manifest.

Verse 44

अहो वैकुण्ठस्थैरपि च भगवत्पार्षदवरैः सरोमाञ्चं दृष्टा यदनुचरवक्रेश्वरमुखाः । mahāścaryapremojjvalarasasadāveśavivaśī-

kṛtāṅgāstaṁ gauraṁ kathamakṛtapuṇyaḥ praṇayatu ||

Word for word: aho — oh!; vaikuntha-sthaih — by those dwelling in Vaikuntha; api ca — even; bhagavat-parshada-varaih — by the best associates of the Lord; sa-romancam — with hair standing on end; drishtah — are seen; yat-anucara-vakreshvara-mukhah — whose servants headed by Vakreshvara; maha-ashcarya-prema-ujjvala-rasa-sada-avesha-vivashikrita-angah — whose bodies are always overpowered by absorption in the wondrous rasa radiant with great love; tam — that; gauram — Gaura; katham — how; akrita-punyah — one devoid of merit; pranayatu — will love.

44. Oh! Even the best associates of the Lord who dwell in Vaikuntha look with thrilling awe, their hair standing on end, at His servants — Vakreshvara and the others, whose bodies are always overpowered by absorption in the wondrous rasa radiant with great love. How, then, will one devoid of merit come to love that Gaura?

Verse 45

दत्त्वा यः कमपि प्रसादमथ सम्भाष्य स्मितश्रीमुखं
दूरात् स्निग्धदृशा निरीक्ष्य च महाप्रेमोत्सवं यच्छति । येषां हन्त कुतर्ककर्कशधिया तत्रापि नात्यादरः

yeṣāṁ hanta kutarkakarkaśadhiyā tatrāpi nātyādaraḥ
sākṣāt pūrṇarasāvatāriṇi harau duṣṭā amī kevalam ||

Word for word: dattva — having given; yah — who; kam api — to whoever it may be; prasadam — grace; atha — then; sambhashya — having spoken; smita-shri-mukham — (becoming) with a smiling beautiful face; durat — from afar; snigdha-drisha — with a tender glance; nirikshya — having looked; ca — and; maha-prema-utsavam — the festival of great love; yacchati — gives; yesham — whose; hanta — alas; kutarka-karkasha-dhiya — because of a mind coarsened by false reasoning; tatra api — even towards Him; na atyadarah — there is no due honour; sakshat — Himself; purna-rasa-avatarini — descended as the incarnation of complete rasa; harau — towards Hari; dushtah — wicked; ami — they; kevalam — simply.

45. He bestows His grace on whoever it may be, then speaks to him, and His beautiful face smiles; from afar He looks at him with a tender glance and gives the festival of great love. Those, alas, whose minds have been coarsened by false reasoning do not duly honour even Him — Hari, descended as the incarnation of complete rasa. They are simply wicked.

Humility (dainya)

Verse 46

वञ्चितोऽस्मि वञ्चितोऽस्मि वञ्चितोऽस्मि न संशयः । विश्वं गौररसे मग्नं स्पर्शोऽपि मम नाभवत् ॥

vañcito'smi vañcito'smi vañcito'smi na saṁśayaḥ |
viśvaṁ gaurarase magnaṁ sparśo'pi mama nābhavat ||

Word for word: vancitah asmi — I am cheated; vancitah asmi — I am cheated; vancitah asmi — I am cheated; na samshayah — there is no doubt; vishvam — the whole world; gaura-rase — in the rasa of Gaura; magnam — is immersed; sparshah api — even a touch; mama — for me; na abhavat — there was not.

46. I am cheated, I am cheated, I am cheated — there is no doubt! The whole world has been immersed in the rasa of Gaura, and it has not even touched me.

Verse 47

कैर्वा सर्वपुमर्थमौलिरकृतायासैरिहासादितो

hā hā dhiṅ mama jīvanaṁ dhigapi me vidyāṁ dhigapyāśramaṁ yaddaurbhāgyabharādaho mama na tatsambandhagandho'pyabhūt ||

Word for word: kaih va — by whom; sarva-pum-artha-maulih — the crown of all the goals of man (prema); akrita-ayasaih — without effort; iha — here; asaditah — attained; na asit — was not; gaura-pada-aravinda-rajasa — by the dust of Gaura's lotus feet; sprishte — touched; mahi-mandale — on the earth; ha ha — alas, alas; dhik — shame; mama — on my; jivanam — life; dhik api — shame too; me — on my; vidyam — learning; dhik api — shame too; ashramam — on my ashrama (sannyasa); yat — because; daurbhagya-bharat — through great misfortune; aho — oh!; mama — for me; na — not; tat-sambandha-gandhah api — even a scent of connection with Him; abhut — there was.

47. Who has not attained here, even without any effort, the crown of all the goals of man, on the earth touched by the dust of Gaura's lotus feet? Alas, alas! Shame on my life, shame on my learning, shame on my ashrama — through my great misfortune I have not had even a scent of connection with Him!

Verse 48

उत्ससर्प जगदेव पूरयन् गौरचन्द्रकरुणामहार्णवः ।
बिन्दुमात्रमपि नापतन्महादुर्भगे मयि किमेतदद्भुतम् ॥

utsasarpa jagadeva pūrayan gauracandrakaruṇāmahārṇavaḥ |
bindumātramapi nāpatanmahādurbhage mayi kimetadadbhutam ||

Word for word: utsasarpa — overflowed its shores; jagat — the world; eva — whole; purayan — filling (flooding); gaura-candra-karuna-maha-arnavah — the great ocean of Gaurachandra's mercy; bindu-matram api — even a single drop; na apatat — did not fall; maha-durbhage — a great unfortunate; mayi — on me; kim — what; etat — this; adbhutam — wonder.

48. The great ocean of Gaurachandra's mercy has overflowed its shores and flooded the whole world — yet not a single drop has fallen on me, a great unfortunate. What a wonder is this!

Verse 49

कालः कलिर्बलिन इन्द्रियवैरिवर्गाः śrībhaktimārga iha kaṇṭakakoṭiruddhaḥ |

hā hā kva yāmi vikalaḥ kimahaṁ karomi
caitanyacandra yadi nādya kṛpāṁ karoṣi ||

Word for word: kalah — the time; kalih — Kali; balinah — strong; indriya-vairi-vargah — the enemies, the senses; shri-bhakti-margah — the sacred path of bhakti; iha — here; kantaka-koti-ruddhah — barred by millions of thorns (karma, jnana and the rest); ha ha — alas, alas; kva — where; yami — shall I go; vikalah — distraught; kim — what; aham — I; karomi — shall do; caitanya-candra — O Chaitanya-chandra; yadi — if; na — not; adya — today; kripam — mercy; karoshi — You show.

49. The time is Kali; the enemies, the senses, are strong; the sacred path of bhakti is here barred by millions of thorns. Alas, alas, where shall I go, distraught? What shall I do, O Chaitanya-chandra, if You do not show mercy today?

Verse 50

सोऽप्याश्चर्यमयः प्रभुर्नयनयोर्यन्नाभवद्गोचरो

etāvanmama tāvadastu jagatīṁ ye'nye'pyalaṅkurvate
śrīcaitanyapade nikhātamanasastairyatprasaṅgotsavaḥ ||

Word for word: sah api — even that; ashcarya-mayah — wondrous; prabhuh — Lord; nayanayoh — of (my) eyes; yat — that; na abhavat — did not become; gocarah — the object; yat — that; na asvadi — was not tasted (by me); hareh — of Hari; pada-ambuja-rasah — the rasa of the lotus feet; tat — that; yat gatam — what is gone; tat gatam — is gone; etavat — only this; mama — for me; tavat — at least; astu — let there be; jagatim — the earth; ye — who; anye api — other (devotees); alankurvate — adorn; shri-caitanya-pade — in the feet of Sri Chaitanya; nikhata-manasah — whose minds are fixed (sunk); taih — with them; yat — which; prasanga-utsavah — festival of association.

50. That wondrous Lord never came before my eyes, I never tasted the rasa of Hari's lotus feet — what is gone is gone. But let me have at least this one thing: the festival of association with those who adorn the earth, their minds fixed in the feet of Sri Chaitanya.

Verse 51

दुष्कर्मकोटिनिरतस्य दुरन्तघोरdurvāsanānigaḍaśṛṅkhalitasya gāḍham | kliśyanmateḥ kumatikoṭikadarthitasya

gauraṁ vinādya mama ko bhaviteha bandhuḥ ||

Word for word: dushkarma-koti-niratasya — given to millions of evil deeds; duranta-ghora-durvasana-nigada-shrinkhalitasya — bound in the chains of endless, terrible evil tendencies; gadham — firmly; klishyan-mateh — whose mind is in torment (by karma, jnana and the rest); kumati-koti-kadarthitasya — harassed by millions of false views (according to Bhaktisiddhanta: by evil-minded people who lead astray); gauram vina — but for Gaura; adya — today; mama — my; kah — who; bhavita — will be; iha — here; bandhuh — friend.

51. I am given to millions of evil deeds, firmly bound in the chains of endless, terrible evil tendencies; my mind is in torment, harassed by millions of false views. Who but Gaura will be my friend here today?

Verse 52

हा हन्त हन्त परमोषरचित्तभूमौ

vyarthībhavanti mama sādhanakoṭayo'pi | sarvātmanā tadahamadbhutabhaktibījaṁ
śrīgauracandracaraṇaṁ śaraṇaṁ karomi ||

Word for word: ha hanta hanta — alas, alas!; parama-ushara-citta-bhumau — on the utterly barren soil of the heart; vyarthi-bhavanti — go to waste; mama — my; sadhana-kotayah api — even millions of practices; sarva-atmana — with all my soul; tat — therefore; aham — I; adbhuta-bhakti-bijam — the wondrous seed of bhakti; shri-gaura-candra-caranam — the feet of Sri Gaurachandra; sharanam karomi — take as my refuge.

52. Alas, alas! On the utterly barren soil of my heart even millions of my practices go to waste. Therefore with all my soul I take refuge in the feet of Sri Gaurachandra — the wondrous seed of bhakti.

Verse 53

हा हन्त चित्तभुवि मे परमोषरायां

sadbhaktikalpalatikāṅkuritā kathaṁ syāt | hṛdyekameva paramāśvasanīyamasti
caitanyanāma kalayanna kadāpi śocyaḥ ||

Word for word: ha hanta — alas!; citta-bhuvi — on the soil of the heart; me — my; parama-usharayam — utterly barren; sat-bhakti-kalpa-latika-ankurita — the sprouting of the wish-fulfilling creeper of true bhakti; katham — how; syat — will be; hridi — in the heart; ekam eva — only one; parama-ashvasaniyam — supreme consolation; asti — there is; caitanya-nama — the name "Chaitanya"; kalayan — chanting; na — not; kada api — ever; shocyah — to be pitied.

53. Alas, alas! How will the sprout of the wish-fulfilling creeper of true bhakti break through on the utterly barren soil of my heart? But in my heart there is one supreme consolation: one who chants the name "Chaitanya" will never be pitiable.

Verse 54

krodhādinakramakaraiḥ kavalīkṛtasya | durvāsanānigaḍitasya nirāśrayasya
caitanyacandra mama dehi padāvalambam ||

Word for word: samsara-duhkha-jaladhau — into the ocean of worldly suffering; patitasya — fallen; kama-krodha-adi-nakra-makaraih — by the crocodiles and sea-monsters of lust, anger and the rest; kavali-kritasya — swallowed; durvasana-nigaditasya — fettered by evil tendencies; nirashrayasya — without refuge; caitanya-candra — O Chaitanya-chandra; mama — to me; dehi — give; pada-avalambam — the support of Your feet.

54. I have fallen into the ocean of worldly suffering, I have been swallowed by the crocodiles and sea-monsters of lust, anger and the rest, I am fettered by evil tendencies and have no refuge. O Chaitanya-chandra, give me the support of Your feet!

Verse 55

rāścaryabhaktipadavī na davīyasī naḥ | durbodhavaibhavapate mayi pāmare'pi
caitanyacandra yadi te karuṇākaṭākṣaḥ ||

Word for word: mrigya — sought; api — even; sa — that; shiva-shuka-uddhava-narada-adyaih — by Shiva, Shuka, Uddhava, Narada and others; ashcarya-bhakti-padavi — wondrous path of bhakti; na — not; daviyasi — far; nah — from us; durbodha-vaibhava-pate — O Lord of inconceivable wealth; mayi — on me; pamare — a wretch; api — even; caitanya-candra — O Chaitanya-chandra; yadi — if; te — Your; karuna-katakshah — merciful glance (falls).

55. That wondrous path of bhakti which Shiva, Shuka, Uddhava, Narada and others seek is not far even from us, O Chaitanya-chandra, Lord of inconceivable wealth, if Your merciful glance falls even on me, a wretch.

Verse 56

kva sā niraṅkuśā kṛpā kva tadvaibhavamadbhutam |
kva sā vatsalatā śaure gaure yādṛk tavātmani ||

Word for word: kva — where (else); sa — such; nirankusha — unrestrained; kripa — mercy; kva — where; tat — such; vaibhavam — majesty; adbhutam — wondrous; kva — where; sa — such; vatsalata — tenderness (love for the devotees); shaure — O Shauri (Krishna); gaure — in the form of Gaura; yadrik — as; tava — Your; atmani — own self.

56. O Shauri (Krishna)! Where else is such unrestrained mercy, where such wondrous majesty, where such tenderness as in Yourself in the form of Gaura?

Part Three

Fidelity to the object of worship. Instruction to the world (verses 57–98)

Fidelity to the object of worship (upasya-nishtha)

Verse 57

स्वतेजसा कृष्णपदारविन्दमहारसावेशितविश्वमीशम् ।
कमप्यशेषश्रुतिगूढवेशं गौराङ्गमङ्गीकुरु मूढचेतः ॥ ५७ ॥

svatejasā kṛṣṇapadāravindamahārasāveśitaviśvamīśam |
kamapyaśeṣaśrutigūḍhaveśaṁ gaurāṅgamaṅgīkuru mūḍhacetaḥ || 57 ||

Word for word: sva-tejasa — by His own splendour; krishna-pada-aravinda-maha-rasa-aveshita-vishvam — who has immersed the world in the great rasa of Krishna's lotus feet; isham — the Lord; kam api — indescribable; asesha-shruti-gudha-vesham — whose form is hidden in all the shrutis; gaurangam — Gauranga; angikuru — accept; mudha-cetah — O foolish heart.

57. O foolish heart, accept Gauranga — the Lord who by His own splendour has immersed the whole world in the great rasa of Krishna's lotus feet, the indescribable One whose form is hidden in all the shrutis!

Verse 58

श्रवणमननसङ्कीर्त्यादिभक्त्या मुरारे- र्यदि परमपुमर्थं साधयेत् कोऽपि भद्रम् ।
मम तु परमपारप्रेमपीयूषसिन्धोः किमपि रसरहस्यं गौरधाम्नो नमस्यम् ॥ ५८ ॥

śravaṇamananasaṅkīrtyādibhaktyā murāre-ryadi paramapumarthaṁ sādhayet ko'pi bhadram | mama tu paramapārapremapīyūṣasindhoḥ
kimapi rasarahasyaṁ gauradhāmno namasyam || 58 ||

Word for word: shravana-manana-sankirti-adi-bhaktya — by devotion consisting of hearing, reflection, sankirtana and the rest; murareh — to Murari; yadi — if; parama-pum-artham — the highest goal of man; sadhayet — attains; kah api — someone; bhadram — good (for him); mama — for me; tu — but; parama-apara-prema-piyusha-sindhoh — of the shoreless ocean of the nectar of supreme love; kim api — indescribable; rasa-rahasyam — the secret of rasa; gaura-dhamnah — of (Hari) with a golden radiance; namasyam — is to be worshipped.

58. If someone attains the highest goal of man through devotion to Murari — hearing, reflection, sankirtana and the rest — good for him. But for me the object of worship is the indescribable secret of the rasa of Hari clothed in a golden radiance,[1] a shoreless ocean of the nectar of supreme love.

Verse 59

ईशं भजन्तु पुरुषार्थचतुष्टयाशा
दासा भवन्तु च विहाय हरेरुपास्यान् ।

किञ्चिद्रहस्यपदलोभितधीरहं तु चैतन्यचन्द्रचरणं शरणं करोमि ॥ ५९ ॥

īśaṁ bhajantu puruṣārthacatuṣṭayāśā
dāsā bhavantu ca vihāya harerupāsyān | kiñcidrahasyapadalobhitadhīrahaṁ tu
caitanyacandracaraṇaṁ śaraṇaṁ karomi || 59 ||

Word for word: isham — the Lord; bhajantu — let them worship; purusha-artha-catushtaya-ashah — hoping for the four goals of man; dasah — servants; bhavantu — let them become; ca — and; vihaya — giving up; hareh — (other than) Hari; upasyan — objects of worship; kincit — a certain; rahasya-pada-lobhita-dhih — whose mind is enticed by a secret state; aham — I; tu — but; caitanya-candra-caranam — the feet of Chaitanya-chandra; sharanam karomi — take as refuge.

59. Let some worship the Lord in the hope of the four goals of man; let others, giving up other objects of worship, become servants of Hari. But my mind is enticed by a certain secret state, and I take refuge in the feet of Chaitanya-chandra.

Verse 60

निष्ठां प्राप्ता व्यवहृतितितिर्लौकिकी वैदिकी वा या वा लज्जा प्रहसनसमुद्गाननाट्योत्सवेषु । ye vābhūvannahaha sahajaprāṇadehārthadharmā

gauraścauraḥ sakalamaharat ko'pi me tīvravīryaḥ || 60 ||

Word for word: nishtham prapta — in which I was established; vyavahriti-tatih — the series of duties; laukiki — worldly; vaidiki — Vedic; va — or; ya — which; va — or; lajja — bashfulness; prahasana-samudgana-natya-utsaveshu — at jesting, loud singing, dancing and festivals; ye — which; va — or; abhuvan — were; ahaha — alas; sahaja-prana-deha-artha-dharmah — the natural duties concerning life and body; gaurah — Gaura; caurah — thief; sakalam — all; aharat — stole; kah api — a certain; me — my; tivra-viryah — of irresistible might.

60. The whole series of worldly and Vedic duties in which I was established; my bashfulness at jesting, loud singing, dancing and festivals; the natural duties tied to life and body — alas! all of this has been stolen by a certain thief, Gaura, whose might is irresistible.

Verse 61

सान्द्रानन्दोज्ज्वलरसमयप्रेमपीयूषसिन्धोः
कोटिं वर्षन् किमपि करुणास्निग्धनेत्राञ्चलेन ।
कोऽयं देवः कनककदलीगर्भगौराङ्गयष्टि- ko'yaṁ devaḥ kanakakadalīgarbhagaurāṅgayaṣṭi-śceto'kasmānmama nijapade gāḍhayuktaṁ cakāra || 61 ||

Word for word: sandra-ananda-ujjvala-rasa-maya-prema-piyusha-sindhoh — of the ocean of the nectar of love made of the dense and radiant rasa of bliss; kotim — millions; varshan — pouring forth; kim api — indescribable; karuna-snigdha-netra-ancalena — with the corner of His eyes moist with compassion; kah — who; ayam — this; devah — Lord; kanaka-kadali-garbha-gaura-anga-yashtih — whose slender body is golden like the heart of a golden plantain tree; cetah — mind; akasmat — suddenly; mama — my; nija-pade — to His feet; gadha-yuktam — firmly bound; cakara — made.

61. Pouring forth millions of oceans of the nectar of love made of the dense and radiant rasa of bliss through the indescribable corner of His eyes moist with compassion — who is this Lord, His slender golden body like the heart of a golden plantain tree, who has suddenly bound my mind fast to His feet?

Verse 62

स्वयं देवो यत्र द्रुतकनकगौरः करुणया
महाप्रेमानन्दोज्ज्वलरसवपुः प्रादुरभवत् ।
नवद्वीपे तस्मिन् प्रतिभवनभक्त्युत्सवमये मनो मे वैकुण्ठादपि च मधुरे धाम्नि रमते ॥ ६२ ॥

svayaṁ devo yatra drutakanakagauraḥ karuṇayā mahāpremānandojjvalarasavapuḥ prādurabhavat | navadvīpe tasmin pratibhavanabhaktyutsavamaye
mano me vaikuṇṭhādapi ca madhure dhāmni ramate || 62 ||

Word for word: svayam — Himself; devah — God; yatra — where; druta-kanaka-gaurah — golden as molten gold; karunaya — out of mercy; maha-prema-ananda-ujjvala-rasa-vapuh — whose body is the radiant rasa of great love and bliss; pradurabhavat — appeared; navadvipe — in Navadvipa; tasmin — in that; prati-bhavana-bhakti-utsava-maye — where every house is full of the festival of bhakti; manah — mind; me — my; vaikunthat — than Vaikuntha; api ca — even; madhure — sweet; dhamni — in the abode; ramate — delights.

62. Where God Himself, golden as molten gold, His body the radiant rasa of great love and bliss, appeared out of mercy — in Navadvipa, where every house is a festival of bhakti — in that sweet abode my mind delights even more than in Vaikuntha.

Verse 63

यत्तद्वदन्तु शास्त्राणि यत्तद्व्याख्यान्तु तार्किकाः । जीवनं मम चैतन्यपादाम्भोजसुधैव तु ॥ ६३ ॥

yattadvadantu śāstrāṇi yattadvyākhyāntu tārkikāḥ |
jīvanaṁ mama caitanyapādāmbhojasudhaiva tu || 63 ||

Word for word: yat tat — whatever; vadantu — let them say; shastrani — the shastras; yat tat — whatever; vyakhyantu — let them explain; tarkikah — the logicians; jivanam — life; mama — my; caitanya-pada-ambhoja-sudha — the nectar of the lotus feet of Chaitanya; eva tu — only.

63. Let the shastras say what they will, let the logicians explain as they will — my life is only the nectar of the lotus feet of Chaitanya.

Verse 64

पतन्ति यदि सिद्धयः करतले स्वयं दुर्लभाः
स्वयं च यदि सेवकीभवितुमागताः स्युः सुराः । किमन्यदिदमेव वा यदि चतुर्भुजं स्याद्वपु- patanti yadi siddhayaḥ karatale svayaṁ durlabhāḥ svayaṁ ca yadi sevakībhavitumāgatāḥ syuḥ surāḥ | kimanyadidameva vā yadi caturbhujaṁ syādvapustathāpi mama no manāk calati gauracandrānmanaḥ || 64 ||

Word for word: patanti — fall; yadi — if; siddhayah — siddhis; kara-tale — into the palm; svayam — of themselves; durlabhah — rare; svayam — themselves; ca — and; yadi — if; sevaki-bhavitum — to become servants; agatah syuh — should come; surah — the gods; kim anyat — what more; idam eva va — or even this; yadi — if; catur-bhujam — four-armed; syat — there were; vapuh — a body; tathapi — still; mama — my; no — not; manak — in the least; calati — moves; gaura-candrat — from Gaurachandra; manah — mind.

64. Should rare siddhis fall into my palm of themselves, should the gods themselves come to become my servants, should I even — what more? — have a four-armed body, still my mind would not stir for a moment from Gaurachandra.

Verse 65

वासो मे वरमस्तु घोरदहनज्वालावलीपञ्जरे
श्रीचैतन्यपदारविन्दविमुखैर्मा कुत्रचित् सङ्गमः । वैकुण्ठादिपदं स्वयं च मिलितं नो मे मनो लिप्सते

vāso me varamastu ghoradahanajvālāvalīpañjare
śrīcaitanyapadāravindavimukhairmā kutracit saṅgamaḥ | vaikuṇṭhādipadaṁ svayaṁ ca militaṁ no me mano lipsate pādāmbhojarajaśchaṭā yadi manāk gaurasya no rasyate || 65 ||

Word for word: vasah — dwelling; me — for me; varam astu — let it be better; ghora-dahana-jvala-avali-panjare — in a cage of the rows of flames of a terrible fire; shri-caitanya-pada-aravinda-vimukhaih — with those averse to the lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya; ma — let there not be; kutracit — anywhere; sangamah — association; vaikuntha-adi-padam — the abode of Vaikuntha and the rest; svayam — of itself; ca — and; militam — come; no — not; me — my; manah — mind; lipsate — desires; pada-ambhoja-rajah-chata — the lustre of the dust of the lotus feet; yadi — if; manak — a little; gaurasya — of Gaura; no — not; rasyate — is tasted.

65. Better for me to live in a cage of the tongues of a terrible fire than to associate anywhere with those who have turned away from the lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya. Even if the abode of Vaikuntha and the rest came to me of itself, my mind would not desire it if it did not taste even a little of the lustre of the dust of Gaura's lotus feet.

Verse 66

आस्तां नाम महान् महानिति रवः सर्वक्षमामण्डले
लोके वा प्रकटास्तु नाम महती सिद्धिश्चमत्कारिणी । कामं चारुचतुर्भुजत्वमयतामाराध्य विश्वेश्वरं

kāmaṁ cārucaturbhujatvamayatāmārādhya viśveśvaraṁ
ceto me bahu manyate nahi nahi śrīgaurabhaktiṁ vinā || 66 ||

Word for word: astam — let there be; nama — indeed; mahan mahan iti — "great, great"; ravah — the cry; sarva-kshama-mandale — over the whole circle of the earth; loke — in the world; va — or; prakata astu — let be manifested; nama — indeed; mahati — great; siddhih — siddhi; camatkarini — wondrous; kamam — let it be; caru-catur-bhujatvam — a beautiful four-armed form; ayatam — let me attain; aradhya — having worshipped; vishva-ishvaram — the Lord of the universe; cetah — mind; me — my; bahu manyate — values; nahi nahi — not at all; shri-gaura-bhaktim vina — without devotion to Sri Gaura.

66. Let the cry go round me over the whole earth: "Great, great!" Let a great and wondrous siddhi be manifested to the world. Let me, worshipping the Lord of the universe, attain a beautiful four-armed form — no, no, without devotion to Sri Gaura my mind values none of this!

Verse 67

चैतन्येति कृपामयेति परमोदारेति नानाविध-gaurāṅgeti guṇārṇaveti rasarūpeti svanāmapriyetyaśrāntaṁ mama jalpato janiriyaṁ yāyāditi prārthaye || 67 ||

Word for word: caitanya iti — "Chaitanya!"; kripa-maya iti — "Merciful One!"; parama-udara iti — "Supremely generous One!"; nana-vidha-prema-aveshita-sarva-bhuta-hridaya iti — "You who have filled the hearts of all beings with love of many kinds!"; ashcarya-dhaman iti — "You of wondrous radiance!"; gauranga iti — "Gauranga!"; guna-arnava iti — "Ocean of virtues!"; rasa-rupa iti — "Embodiment of rasa!"; sva-nama-priya iti — "You who love Your own names!"; ashrantam — ceaselessly; mama — my; jalpatah — repeating; janih — life; iyam — this; yayat — may pass; iti — thus; prarthaye — I pray.

67. "Chaitanya! Merciful One! Supremely generous One! You who have filled the hearts of all beings with love of many kinds! You whose wondrous radiance is like molten gold! Gauranga! Ocean of virtues! Embodiment of rasa! You who love Your own names!" — I pray that, ceaselessly repeating this, I may pass this life.

कदा शौरे गौरे वपुषि परमप्रेमरसदे

kadā vā tasyālaukikasadanumānena mama hṛ-dyakasmāt śrīrādhāpadanakhamaṇijyotirudagāt || 68 ||

Word for word: kada — when; shaure — O Shauri; gaure — of Gaura; vapushi — towards the body; parama-prema-rasa-de — which gives the rasa of supreme love; sat-eka-prane — the one life of the saints; nishkapata-krita-bhavah — having a guileless feeling; asmi bhavita — shall I be; kada — when; va — or; tasya — from that; alaukika-sat-anumanena — by an unearthly true inference; mama — my; hridi — in the heart; akasmat — suddenly; shri-radha-pada-nakha-mani-jyotih — the radiance of the jewel-like toenails of Sri Radha; udagat — will rise.

68. O Shauri! When will I have a guileless feeling for Your body of Gaura, which gives the rasa of supreme love, the one life of the saints? Or when, by an unearthly true inference from that feeling, will the radiance of the jewel-like toenails of Sri Radha suddenly rise in my heart?

Verse 69

उद्दामदामनकदामगणाभिराम-mārāmarāmamavirāmagṛhītanāma | kāruṇyadhāma kanakojjvalagauradhāma

caitanyanāma paramaṁ kalayāma dhāma || 69 ||

Word for word: uddama-damanaka-dama-gana-abhiramam — charming with garlands of luxuriant damanaka flowers; arama-ramam — delighting people (sporting in gardens); avirama-grihita-nama — ceaselessly taking the Name; karunya-dhama — the abode of compassion; kanaka-ujjvala-gaura-dhama — the abode of radiant golden lustre; caitanya-nama — named Chaitanya; paramam — supreme; kalayama — we contemplate; dhama — abode.

69. Charming with garlands of luxuriant damanaka flowers, delighting all people, sporting in secluded gardens, ceaselessly taking the Name, the abode of compassion, the abode of Gaura's golden radiance — the supreme abode named Chaitanya we contemplate.

Verse 70

सदा रङ्गे नीलाचलशिखरशृङ्गे विलसतो
हरेरेव भ्राजन्मुखकमलभृङ्गेक्षणयुगम् । समुत्तुङ्गप्रेमोन्मदरसतरङ्गं मृगदृशा- samuttuṅgapremonmadarasataraṅgaṁ mṛgadṛśāmanaṅgaṁ gaurāṅgaṁ smaratu gatasaṅgaṁ mama manaḥ || 70 ||

Word for word: sada — always; range — in festivity; nilacala-shikhara-shringe — on the summit of Nilachala; vilasatah — sporting; hareh — of Hari; eva — indeed; bhrajat-mukha-kamala-bhringa-ikshana-yugam — whose two eyes are bees on the shining lotus face; samuttunga-prema-unmada-rasa-tarangam — in whom rise high waves of the intoxicating rasa of love; mriga-drisham — of the doe-eyed; anangam — Ananga (Kamadeva); gaurangam — Gauranga; smaratu — may remember; gata-sangam — detached; mama — my; manah — mind.

70. May my mind remember Gauranga, detached from all: His eyes are bees on the shining lotus face of Hari, who ever sports on the festive summit of Niladri;[2] in Him rise high waves of the intoxicating rasa of love; to the doe-eyed He is Ananga (the bodiless Kamadeva) himself.

Verse 71

अलङ्कारः पङ्केरुहनयननिःस्यन्दिपयसां
पृषद्भिः सन्मुक्ताफलसुललितैर्यस्य वपुषि । udañcadromāñcairapi ca paramā yasya suṣamā

tamālambe gauraṁ harimaruṇarociṣṇuvasanam || 71 ||

Word for word: alankarah — the ornament; pankeruha-nayana-nihsyandi-payasam — of the water flowing from the lotus eyes; prishadbhih — with drops; sat-mukta-phala-sulalitaih — lovely as fine pearls; yasya — whose; vapushi — on the body; udancat-romancaih — with the hair standing on end; api ca — and also; parama — supreme; yasya — whose; sushama — beauty; tam — that; alambe — I take shelter of; gauram — Gaura; harim — Hari; aruna-rocishnu-vasanam — wearing a garment the colour of the red dawn.

71. His body is adorned with drops of tears flowing from His lotus eyes, lovely as the finest pearls; His supreme beauty is also the thrill of His hair standing on end. I take shelter of Gaura — Hari wearing a garment the colour of the red dawn.

Verse 72

कन्दर्पादपि सुन्दरः सुरसरित्पूरादहो पावनः शीतांशोरपि शीतलः सुमधुरो माध्वीकसारादपि ।

dātā kalpamahīruhādapi mahāsnigdho jananyā api
premṇā gauraharih kadā nu hṛdi me dhyātaḥ padaṁ dhāsyati || 72 ||

Word for word: kandarpat — than Kandarpa; api — even; sundarah — more beautiful; sura-sarit-purat — than the floods of the river of the gods; aho — oh!; pavanah — purer; shitamshoh — than the moon; api — even; shitalah — cooler; su-madhurah — sweeter; madhvika-sarat — than the essence of honey; api — even; data — more generous; kalpa-mahiruhat — than the wish-fulfilling tree; api — even; maha-snigdhah — more tender; jananyah — than a mother; api — even; premna — with love; gaura-harih — Gaurahari; kada — when; nu — indeed; hridi — in the heart; me — my; dhyatah — meditated upon; padam — foot; dhasyati — will set.

72. More beautiful than Kandarpa, — oh! — purer than the floods of the river of the gods, cooler than the moon, sweeter than the essence of the finest honey, more generous than the wish-fulfilling tree, more tender in His love than a mother — when will Gaurahari, on whom I meditate, set His foot in my heart with love?

Verse 73

पुञ्जं पुञ्जं मधुरमधुरप्रेममाध्वीरसानां
दत्त्वा दत्त्वा स्वयमुरुदयो मोदयन् विश्वमेतत् ।

eko devaḥ kaṭitaṭamilanmañjumañjiṣṭhavāsā
bhāsā nirbhartsitanavataḍitkoṭireva priyo me || 73 ||

Word for word: punjam punjam — heaps upon heaps; madhura-madhura-prema-madhvi-rasanam — of the sweetest intoxicating honey of love; dattva dattva — giving again and again; svayam — Himself; uru-dayah — boundlessly merciful; modayan — delighting; vishvam — world; etat — this; ekah — the one; devah — Lord; kati-tata-milat-manju-manjishtha-vasah — on whose hips is a lovely madder-coloured cloth; bhasa — by lustre; nirbhartsita-nava-tadit-kotih — who puts to shame millions of fresh lightning flashes; eva — alone; priyah — dear; me — to me.

73. Giving again and again heaps upon heaps of the sweetest intoxicating honey of love, Himself boundlessly merciful, delighting this world — the one Lord, on whose hips is a lovely madder-coloured cloth, whose lustre puts to shame millions of fresh lightning flashes — He alone is dear to me.

Verse 74

कान्त्या निन्दितकोटिकोटिमदनः श्रीमन्मुखेन्दुच्छटा- audāryeṇa ca koṭikoṭiguṇitaṁ kalpadrumaṁ hyalpayan

gauro me hṛdi koṭikoṭijanuṣāṁ bhāgyaiḥ padaṁ dhāsyati || 74 ||

Word for word: kantya — by beauty; nindita-koti-koti-madanah — who puts to shame millions upon millions of Madanas;

shriman-mukha-indu-chata-vicchayi-krita-koti-koti-sharad-unmilat-tushara-chavih — the radiance of whose beautiful moon-face eclipses the light of millions upon millions of rising autumn moons; audaryena — by generosity; ca — and; koti-koti-gunitam — multiplied millions upon millions of times; kalpa-drumam — the wish-fulfilling tree; hi — indeed; alpayan — belittling; gaurah — Gaura; me — my; hridi — in the heart; koti-koti-janusham — of millions upon millions of births; bhagyaih — by the good fortune; padam — foot; dhasyati — will set.

74. His beauty puts to shame millions upon millions of Madanas; the radiance of His beautiful moon-face eclipses the light of millions upon millions of rising autumn moons; by His generosity He belittles the wish-fulfilling tree multiplied millions upon millions of times — through the good fortune of millions upon millions of births Gaura will set His foot in my heart.

Verse 75

क्षणं क्षीणः पीनः क्षणमहह साश्रुः क्षणमथ क्षणं स्मेरः शीतः क्षणमनलतप्तः क्षणमपि । kṣaṇaṁ dhāvan stabdhaḥ kṣaṇamadhikajalpan kṣaṇamaho

kṣaṇaṁ mūko gauraḥ sphuratu mama deho bhagavataḥ || 75 ||

Word for word: kshanam — now; kshinah — wasted; pinah — full; kshanam — now; ahaha — ah!; sa-ashruh — in tears; kshanam — now; atha — and; kshanam — now; smerah — smiling; shitah — cold; kshanam — now; anala-taptah — burning as if with fire; kshanam api — now; kshanam — now; dhavan — running; stabdhah — stunned; kshanam — now; adhika-jalpan — speaking excessively; kshanam — now; aho — oh!; kshanam — now; mukah — mute; gaurah — Gaura; sphuratu — may appear; mama — (in) my (heart); dehah — the body; bhagavatah — of the Lord.

75. Now wasted, now full, — ah! — now in tears, now smiling, now cold, now burning as if with fire, now running, now stunned, now speaking without end, — oh! — now silent: may Gaura, the very body of the Lord, appear in my heart.

Verse 76

पात्रापात्रविचारणां न कुरुते न स्वं परं वीक्षते
देयादेयविमर्शको नहि न वा कालप्रतीक्षः प्रभुः ।
सद्यो यः श्रवणेक्षणप्रणमनध्यानादिना दुर्लभं
दत्ते भक्तिरसं स एव भगवान् गौरः परं मे गतिः ॥ ७६ ॥

pātrāpātravicāraṇāṁ na kurute na svaṁ paraṁ vīkṣate deyādeyavimarśako nahi na vā kālapratīkṣaḥ prabhuḥ | sadyo yaḥ śravaṇekṣaṇapraṇamanadhyānādinā durlabhaṁ
datte bhaktirasaṁ sa eva bhagavān gauraḥ paraṁ me gatiḥ || 76 ||

Word for word: patra-apatra-vicaranam — consideration of worthy and unworthy; na kurute — does not make; na — not; svam — own; param — other; vikshate — looks at; deya-adeya-vimarshakah — one who weighs what may and may not be given; nahi — not; na va — nor; kala-pratikshah — waiting for a suitable time; prabhuh — the Lord; sadyah — at once; yah — who;

shravana-ikshana-pranamana-dhyana-adina — by hearing, seeing, bowing down, meditation and the rest; durlabham — rare; datte — gives; bhakti-rasam — the rasa of bhakti; sah eva — that very; bhagavan — Lord; gaurah — Gaura; param — supreme; me — my; gatih — refuge.

76. The Lord does not consider whether a person is worthy or unworthy, does not look whether he is His own or another's, does not weigh what may be given and what may not, does not wait for a suitable time. He who at once grants the rare rasa of bhakti through hearing about Him, seeing Him, bowing down, meditation and the rest — that Lord Gaura is my supreme refuge.

Verse 77

पापीयानपि हीनजातिरपि दुःशीलोऽपि दुष्कर्मणां
सीमापि श्वपचाधमोऽपि सततं दुर्वासनाढ्योऽपि च ।
दुर्देशप्रभवोऽपि तत्र विहितावासोऽपि दुःसङ्गतो
नष्टोऽप्युद्धृत एव येन कृपया तं गौरमेवाश्रये ॥ ७७ ॥

pāpīyānapi hīnajātirapi duḥśīlo'pi duṣkarmaṇāṁ
sīmāpi śvapacādhamo'pi satataṁ durvāsanāḍhyo'pi ca | durdeśaprabhavo'pi tatra vihitāvāso'pi duḥsaṅgato
naṣṭo'pyuddhṛta eva yena kṛpayā taṁ gauramevāśraye || 77 ||

Word for word: papiyan — most sinful; api — even; hina-jatih — low-born; api — even; duhshilah — vicious; api — even; dushkarmanam — of evil deeds; sima — the limit; api — even; shvapaca-adhamah — lower than a dog-eater; api — even; satatam — always; durvasana-adhyah — full of evil tendencies; api ca — and even; durdesha-prabhavah — born in a bad land; api — even; tatra — there; vihita-avasah — dwelling; api — even; duhsangatah — through bad company; nashtah — ruined; api — even; uddhritah — delivered; eva — indeed; yena — by whom; kripaya — by mercy; tam — that; gauram — Gaura; eva — alone; ashraye — I take refuge in.

77. Be a man the most sinful, low-born, vicious, the very limit of evil deeds, lower than a dog-eater, ever full of evil tendencies, born in a bad land and dwelling there, ruined by bad company — even he is delivered by the mercy of Gaura. I take refuge in that Gaura alone.

Verse 78

कलिन्दतनयातटे स्फुरदमन्दवृन्दावनं
विहाय लवणाम्बुधेः पुलिनपुष्पवाटीं गतः ।
धृतारुणपटः परीहृतसुपीतवासा हरि- kalindatanayātaṭe sphuradamandavṛndāvanaṁ vihāya lavaṇāmbudheḥ pulinapuṣpavāṭīṁ gataḥ | dhṛtāruṇapaṭaḥ parīhṛtasupītavāsā hari-stirohitanijacchaviḥ prakaṭagaurimā me gatiḥ || 78 ||

Word for word: kalinda-tanaya-tate — on the bank of the daughter of Kalinda (the Yamuna); sphurat-amanda-vrindavanam — radiant, splendid Vrindavana; vihaya — leaving; lavana-ambudheh — of the salt ocean; pulina-pushpa-vatim — the flowering gardens on the shore; gatah — went; dhrita-aruna-patah — wearing a dawn-coloured cloth; parihrita-su-pita-vasah — having cast aside the beautiful yellow garment; harih — Hari; tirohita-nija-chavih — having concealed His own complexion; prakata-gaurima — having manifested golden hue; me — my; gatih — refuge.

78. Leaving radiant Vrindavana on the bank of the daughter of Kalinda (the Yamuna), He went to the flowering gardens on the shore of the salt ocean; He put on a garment the colour of dawn, casting aside His beautiful yellow one; concealing His own complexion, He manifested a golden hue. That Hari is my refuge.

Instruction to the world (loka-shiksha)

Verse 79

अरे मूढा गूढां विचिनुत हरेर्भक्तिपदवीं
दवीयस्या दृष्ट्याप्यपरिचितपूर्वां मुनिवरैः । न विश्रम्भश्चित्ते यदि यदि च दौर्लभ्यमिव तत् are mūḍhā gūḍhāṁ vicinuta harerbhaktipadavīṁ davīyasyā dṛṣṭyāpyaparicitapūrvāṁ munivaraiḥ | na viśrambhaścitte yadi yadi ca daurlabhyamiva tat parityajyāśeṣaṁ vrajata śaraṇaṁ gauracaraṇam || 79 ||

Word for word: are — hey; mudhah — fools; gudham — secret; vicinuta — seek out; hareh — of Hari; bhakti-padavim — the path of devotion; daviyasya — far-reaching; drishtya — with vision; api — even; aparicita-purvam — unknown before; muni-varaih — to the best of sages; na — not; vishrambhah — faith; citte — in the heart; yadi — if; yadi — if; ca — and; daurlabhyam — inaccessibility; iva — as if; tat — it; parityajya — giving up; ashesham — everything; vrajata — go; sharanam — for refuge; gaura-caranam — to Gaura's feet.

79. Hey, fools! Seek out the secret path of devotion to Hari, unknown before to the best of sages even with their far-seeing vision. And if there is no faith in your heart, or if it seems unattainable — give up everything and take refuge at Gaura's feet.

Verse 80

दधन्मूर्धन्यूर्ध्वं मुकुलितकराम्भोजयुगलं
गलन्नेत्राम्भोभिः स्नपितमृदुगण्डस्थलयुगम् । दुकूलेनावीतं नवकमलकिञ्जल्करुचिना

dadhanmūrdhanyūrdhvaṁ mukulitakarāmbhojayugalaṁ
galannetrāmbhobhiḥ snapitamṛduganḍasthalayugam | dukūlenāvītaṁ navakamalakiñjalkarucinā
paraṁ jyotirgauraṁ kanakarucicauraṁ praṇamata || 80 ||

Word for word: dadhat — holding; murdhani — on the head; urdhvam — above; mukulita-kara-ambhoja-yugalam — the two lotus hands folded like a bud; galat-netra-ambhobhih — by tears flowing from the eyes; snapita-mridu-ganda-sthala-yugam — whose two tender cheeks are bathed; dukulena — by a cloth; avitam — clothed; nava-kamala-kinjalka-rucina — the colour of the filaments of a fresh lotus; param — supreme; jyotih — light; gauram — Gaura; kanaka-ruci-cauram — the thief of golden lustre; pranamata — bow to.

80. He holds His folded lotus hands above His head like a bud; His tender cheeks are bathed in streaming tears; He is clothed in cloth the colour of the filaments of a fresh lotus. Bow to that supreme light — Gaura, the thief of golden lustre!

Verse 81

उच्चैः कीर्तय नाम गोकुलपतेरुद्दामनामावलीं
यद्वा भावय तस्य दिव्यमधुरं रूपं जगन्मङ्गलम् ।
हन्त प्रेममहारसोज्ज्वलपदे नाशापि ते सम्भवेत् श्रीचैतन्यमहाप्रभोर्यदि कृपादृष्टिः पतेन्न त्वयि ॥ ८१ ॥

uccaiḥ kīrtaya nāma gokulapateruddāmanāmāvalīṁ
yadvā bhāvaya tasya divyamadhuraṁ rūpaṁ jaganmaṅgalam | hanta premamahārasojjvalapade nāśāpi te sambhavet
śrīcaitanyamahāprabhoryadi kṛpādṛṣṭiḥ patenna tvayi || 81 ||

Word for word: uccaih — loudly; kirtaya — chant; nama — indeed; gokula-pateh — of the Lord of Gokula; uddama-nama-avalim — the mighty series of names; yadva — or; bhavaya — contemplate; tasya — His; divya-madhuram — divine and sweet; rupam — form; jagat-mangalam — which blesses the world; hanta — alas; prema-maha-rasa-ujjvala-pade — for the radiant state of the great rasa of love; na — not; asha api — even hope; te — for you; sambhavet — will be; shri-caitanya-mahaprabhoh — of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu; yadi — if; kripa-drishtih — merciful glance; patet — falls; na — not; tvayi — on you.

81. Loudly chant the mighty series of the names of the Lord of Gokula, or contemplate His divine, sweet form, which blesses the world — but alas, you will not even have hope of the state of the radiant great rasa of love if the merciful glance of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu does not fall upon you.

Verse 82

अये न कुरु साहसं तव हसन्ति सर्वोद्यमं
जनाः परित उन्मदा हरिरसामृतास्वादिनः ।
इदं तु निभृतं शृणु प्रणयवस्तु प्रस्तूयते यदेव निगमेषु तत्पतिरयं हि गौरः परम् ॥ ८२ ॥

aye na kuru sāhasaṁ tava hasanti sarvodyamaṁ
janāḥ parita unmadā harirasāmṛtāsvādinaḥ |
idaṁ tu nibhṛtaṁ śṛṇu praṇayavastu prastūyate
yadeva nigameṣu tatpatirayaṁ hi gauraḥ param || 82 ||

Word for word: aye — hey; na kuru — do not do; sahasam — rashly; tava — your; hasanti — laugh at; sarva-udyamam — all efforts; janah — people; paritah — all around; unmadah — intoxicated; hari-rasa-amrita-asvadinah — tasting the nectar of Hari-rasa; idam — this; tu — but; nibhritam — secret; shrinu — hear; pranaya-vastu — the object of love; prastuyate — is presented; yat eva — that which; nigameshu — in the Vedas; tat-patih — its Lord; ayam — this; hi — indeed; gaurah — Gaura; param — alone.

82. Hey, do not rashly take up anything else! People all around, intoxicated with the taste of the nectar of Hari-rasa, laugh at all your efforts. Hear, then, this secret: that which in the Vedas is presented as the object of love — its Lord is this Gaura, He alone.

Verse 83

ज्ञानादिवर्त्मविरुचिं व्रजनाथभक्ति- रीतिं न वेद्मि न च सद्गुरवो मिलन्ति । हा हन्त हन्त मम कः शरणं विमूढ

jñānādivartmaviruciṁ vrajanāthabhakti-rītiṁ na vedmi na ca sadguravo milanti |
hā hanta hanta mama kaḥ śaraṇaṁ vimūḍha
gauro haristava na karṇapathaṁ gato'sti || 83 ||

Word for word: jnana-adi-vartma-virucim — which turns one away from the path of knowledge and the rest; vrajanatha-bhakti-ritim — the way of devotion to the Lord of Vraja; na vedmi — I do not know; na ca — nor; sat-guravah — true gurus; milanti — are met; ha hanta hanta — alas, alas; mama — my; kah — who; sharanam — refuge; vimudha — O fool; gaurah harih — Gaura-Hari; tava — your; na — not; karna-patham — the path of the ears; gatah asti — has reached.

83. "I do not know the way of devotion to the Lord of Vraja, which turns one away from the path of knowledge and the rest; I do not meet true gurus; alas, alas, who is my refuge?" — O fool! has Gaura-Hari never reached your ears?

Verse 84

वृथावेशं कर्मस्वपनयत वार्तामपि मनाक्
न कर्णाभ्यर्णेऽपि क्वचन नयताध्यात्मसरणेः । न मोहं देहादौ भजत परमाश्चर्यमधुरः vṛthāveśaṁ karmasvapanayata vārtāmapi manāk

na karṇābhyarṇe'pi kvacana nayatādhyātmasaraṇeḥ | na mohaṁ dehādau bhajata paramāścaryamadhuraḥ
pumarthānāṁ maulirmilati bhavatāṁ gaurakṛpayā || 84 ||

Word for word: vritha-avesham — vain absorption; karmasu — in rituals; apanayata — put away; vartam api — even talk; manak — a little; na — not; karna-abhyarne — near the ears; api — even; kvacana — ever; nayata — bring; adhyatma-saraneh — of the path of contemplation of the Self; na — not; moham — delusion; deha-adau — regarding the body and the rest; bhajata — cherish; parama-ashcarya-madhurah — supremely wondrous and sweet; pum-arthanam — of the goals of man; maulih — the crown; milati — comes; bhavatam — to you; gaura-kripaya — by Gaura's mercy.

84. Put away your vain absorption in rituals; do not let even talk of the path of contemplation of the Self come anywhere near your ears; do not cherish the delusion of the body and the rest — and by Gaura's mercy the crown of the goals of man, supremely wondrous and sweet, will come to you.

Verse 85

अलं शास्त्राभ्यासैरलमहह तीर्थाटनिकया
सदा योषिद्व्याघ्र्यास्त्रसत वितथां थूत्कुरु दिवम् ।
तृणंमन्या धन्याः श्रयत किल सन्न्यासिकपटं

alaṁ śāstrābhyāsairalamahaha tīrthāṭanikayā
sadā yoṣidvyāghryāstrasata vitathāṁ thūtkuru divam | tṛṇaṁmanyā dhanyāḥ śrayata kila sannyāsikapaṭaṁ
naṭantaṁ gaurāṅgaṁ nijarasamadādambudhitaṭe || 85 ||

Word for word: alam — enough; shastra-abhyasaih — of study of the shastras; alam — enough; ahaha — alas; tirtha-atanikaya — of wandering to holy places; sada — always; yoshit-vyaghryah — of the tigress, woman; trasata — fear; vitatham — false; thutkuru — spit on; divam — heaven; trinam-manyah — regarding as a straw; dhanyah — O fortunate ones; shrayata — take refuge in; kila — indeed; sannyasi-kapatam — who has assumed the guise of a sannyasi; natantam — dancing; gaurangam — Gauranga; nija-rasa-madat — intoxicated with His own rasa; ambudhi-tate — on the ocean shore.

85. Enough of studying the shastras! Enough, alas, of wandering to holy places! Always fear the tigress, woman; regarding the false heavens as a straw, spit on them! O fortunate ones, take refuge in Gauranga, who has assumed the guise of a sannyasi and dances on the ocean shore, intoxicated with His own rasa.

Verse 86

किं तावद्भत दुर्गमेषु विफलं योगादिमार्गेष्वहो
भक्तिं कृष्णपदाम्बुजे विदधतः सर्वार्थमालुण्ठत ।
आशा प्रेममहोत्सवे यदि शिवब्रह्माद्यलभ्येऽद्भुते
गौरे धामनि दुर्विगाहमहिमोदारे तदा रज्यताम् ॥ ८६ ॥

kiṁ tāvadbata durgameṣu viphalaṁ yogādimārgeṣvaho bhaktiṁ kṛṣṇapadāmbuje vidadhataḥ sarvārthamāluṇṭhata | āśā premamahotsave yadi śivabrahmādyalabhye'dbhute
gaure dhāmani durvigāhamahimodāre tadā rajyatām || 86 ||

Word for word: kim — why; tavat — indeed; bata — alas; durgameshu — on hard; viphalam — fruitlessly; yoga-adi-margeshu — paths of yoga and the rest; aho — oh; bhaktim — bhakti; krishna-pada-ambuje — to Krishna's lotus feet; vidadhatah — devoting; sarva-artham — every goal; alunthata — carry off; asha — hope; prema-maha-utsave — for the great festival of love; yadi — if; shiva-brahma-adi-alabhye — unattainable by Shiva, Brahma and others; adbhute — wondrous; gaure — to Gaura; dhamani — the abode; durvigaha-mahima-udare — whose generous majesty is unfathomable; tada — then; rajyatam — give your heart.

86. Why, alas, labour fruitlessly on the hard paths of yoga and the rest? By devoting yourselves to bhakti to Krishna's lotus feet you will carry off every goal. But if you have hope for the wondrous great festival of love, unattainable even by Shiva, Brahma and the others — then give your heart to Gaura, the abode whose generous majesty is unfathomable.

Verse 87

यथा यथा गौरपदारविन्दे विन्देत भक्तिं कृतपुण्यराशिः ।
तथा तथोत्सर्पति हृद्यकस्माद्राधापदाम्भोजसुधाम्बुराशिः ॥ ८७ ॥

yathā yathā gaurapadāravinde vindeta bhaktiṁ kṛtapuṇyarāśiḥ |
tathā tathotsarpati hṛdyakasmādrādhāpadāmbhojasudhāmburāśiḥ || 87 ||

Word for word: yatha yatha — as; gaura-pada-aravinde — to Gaura's lotus feet; vindeta — attains; bhaktim — bhakti; krita-punya-rashih — one who has amassed heaps of pious deeds; tatha tatha — so;

utsarpati — rises; hridi — in the heart; akasmat — suddenly; radha-pada-ambhoja-sudha-amburashih — the ocean of the nectar of Radha's lotus feet.

87. As one who has amassed heaps of pious deeds attains bhakti to Gaura's lotus feet, so the ocean of the nectar of Radha's lotus feet suddenly rises in his heart.

Verse 88

अपारस्य प्रेमोज्ज्वलरसरहस्यामृतनिधे- र्निधानं ब्रह्मेशार्चित इह हि चैतन्यचरणः । अतस्तं ध्यायन्तः प्रणयभरतो यान्तु शरणं apārasya premojjvalarasarahasyāmṛtanidhernidhānaṁ brahmeśārcita iha hi caitanyacaraṇaḥ | atastaṁ dhyāyantaḥ praṇayabharato yāntu śaraṇaṁ

tameva pronmattāstamiha kila gāyantu kṛtinaḥ || 88 ||

Word for word: aparasya — shoreless; prema-ujjvala-rasa-rahasya-amrita-nidheh — of the ocean of the nectar of the secret of the rasa radiant with love; nidhanam — the treasury; brahma-isha-arcitah — worshipped by Brahma and Shiva; iha — here; hi — indeed; caitanya-caranah — the feet of Chaitanya; atah — therefore; tam — them; dhyayantah — meditating on; pranaya-bharatah — in the fullness of love; yantu — let them go; sharanam — for refuge; tam eva — them alone; pronmattah — as if mad; tam — them; iha — here; kila — indeed; gayantu — let them sing; kritinah — the wise.

88. The feet of Chaitanya, worshipped by Brahma and Shiva, are the treasury of the shoreless ocean of the nectar of the secret of the rasa radiant with love. Therefore let the wise, meditating on them, take refuge in them in the fullness of love, and let them, as if mad, sing of them alone here.

Verse 89

दन्ते निधाय तृणकं पदयोर्निपत्य
कृत्वा च काकुशतमेतदहं ब्रवीमि ।
हे साधवः सकलमेव विहाय दूरा- द्गौराङ्गचन्द्रचरणे कुरुतानुरागम् ॥ ८९ ॥ dante nidhāya tṛṇakaṁ padayornipatya

kṛtvā ca kākuśatametadahaṁ bravīmi | he sādhavaḥ sakalameva vihāya dūrādgaurāṅgacandracaraṇe kurutānurāgam || 89 ||

Word for word: dante — in the teeth; nidhaya — holding; trinakam — a straw; padayoh — at the feet; nipatya — falling; kritva — making; ca — and; kaku-shatam — a hundred plaintive entreaties; etat — this; aham — I; bravimi — say; he sadhavah — O saints; sakalam — everything; eva — indeed; vihaya — leaving; durat — far behind; gauranga-candra-carane — for the feet of Gauranga-chandra; kuruta — make; anuragam — love.

89. Holding a straw between my teeth, falling at your feet, with a hundred plaintive entreaties I say this: "O saints! Leave everything far behind and love the feet of Gauranga-chandra!"

Verse 90

अहो न दुर्लभा मुक्तिर्न च भक्तिः सुदुर्लभा ।
गौरचन्द्रप्रसादस्तु वैकुण्ठेऽपि सुदुर्लभः ॥ ९० ॥

aho na durlabhā muktirna ca bhaktiḥ sudurlabhā |
gauracandraprasādastu vaikuṇṭhe'pi sudurlabhaḥ || 90 ||

Word for word: aho — oh; na — not; durlabha — hard to attain; muktih — liberation; na ca — nor; bhaktih — bhakti; su-durlabha — very hard to attain; gaura-candra-prasadah — the grace of Gaurachandra; tu — but; vaikunthe — in Vaikuntha; api — even; su-durlabhah — very hard to attain.

90. Oh! Liberation is not hard to attain, and bhakti is not so very hard; but the grace of Gaurachandra is hard to attain even in Vaikuntha.

Verse 91

भजन्तु चैतन्यपदारविन्दं भवन्तु सद्भक्तिरसेन पूर्णाः ।
आनन्दयन्तु त्रिजगद्विचित्रं माधुर्यसौभाग्यदयाक्षमाद्यैः ॥ ९१ ॥

bhajantu caitanyapadāravindaṁ bhavantu sadbhaktirasena pūrṇāḥ |
ānandayantu trijagadvicitraṁ mādhuryasaubhāgyadayākṣamādyaiḥ || 91 ||

Word for word: bhajantu — let them worship; caitanya-pada-aravindam — the lotus feet of Chaitanya; bhavantu — let them be; sat-bhakti-rasena — with the rasa of true bhakti; purnah — filled; anandayantu — let them delight; tri-jagat — the three worlds; vicitram — manifold; madhurya-saubhagya-daya-kshama-adyaih — with sweetness, good fortune, compassion, forbearance and the rest.

91. Worship the lotus feet of Chaitanya, be filled with the rasa of true bhakti, and delight the three worlds with manifold sweetness, the highest fortune of tasting prema, compassion, forbearance and the rest.

Verse 92

संसारसिन्धुतरणे हृदयं यदि स्यात्
सङ्कीर्तनामृतरसे रमते मनश्चेत् ।
प्रेमाम्बुधौ विहरणे यदि चित्तवृत्ति- श्चैतन्यचन्द्रचरणे शरणं प्रयातु ॥ ९२ ॥ saṁsārasindhutaraṇe hṛdayaṁ yadi syāt saṅkīrtanāmṛtarase ramate manaścet | premāmbudhau viharaṇe yadi cittavṛtti-ścaitanyacandracaraṇe śaraṇaṁ prayātu || 92 ||

Word for word: samsara-sindhu-tarane — for crossing the ocean of worldly existence; hridayam — the heart; yadi — if; syat — is (eager); sankirtana-amrita-rase — in the nectar rasa of sankirtana; ramate — delights; manah — the mind; cet — if; prema-ambudhau — in the ocean of love; viharane — for sporting; yadi — if; citta-vrittih — the inclination of thought; caitanya-candra-carane — at the feet of Chaitanya-chandra; sharanam — refuge; prayatu — let it take.

92. If the heart longs to cross the ocean of worldly existence, if the mind delights in the nectar rasa of sankirtana, if thought wishes to sport in the ocean of love — let it take refuge in the feet of Chaitanya-chandra.

Verse 93

ज्ञानवैराग्यभक्त्यादि साधयन्तु यथा तथा ।

चैतन्यचरणाम्भोजभक्तिलभ्यसमं कुतः ॥ ९३ ॥

jñānavairāgyabhaktyādi sādhayantu yathā tathā |
caitanyacaraṇāmbhojabhaktilabhyasamaṁ kutaḥ || 93 ||

Word for word: jnana-vairagya-bhakti-adi — knowledge, renunciation, bhakti and the rest; sadhayantu — let them practise; yatha tatha — as they may; caitanya-carana-ambhoja-bhakti-labhya-samam — equal to what is attained by devotion to the lotus feet of Chaitanya; kutah — where.

93. Let them practise knowledge, renunciation, bhakti and the rest as they may — but where is anything equal to what is attained by devotion to the lotus feet of Chaitanya?[3]

Verse 94

अचैतन्यमिदं विश्वं यदि चैतन्यमीश्वरम् ।

न भजेत् सर्वतो मृत्युरुपास्यममरोत्तमैः ॥ ९४ ॥

acaitanyamidaṁ viśvaṁ yadi caitanyamīśvaram |
na bhajet sarvato mṛtyurupāsyamamarottamaiḥ || 94 ||

Word for word: acaitanyam — devoid of consciousness (of devotion to Krishna); idam — this; vishvam — world; yadi — if; caitanyam — Chaitanya; ishvaram — the Lord; na bhajet — does not worship; sarvatah — on every side; mrityuh — death; upasyam — worshipped; amara-uttamaih — by the best of the gods.

94. This world, devoid of consciousness (a-chaitanya, that is, devoid of devotion to Krishna), if it does not worship Chaitanya — the Lord worshipped by the best of the gods — meets death on every side.

Verse 95

आशा यस्य पदद्वन्द्वे चैतन्यस्य महाप्रभोः ।

तस्येन्द्रो दासवद्भाति का कथा नृपकीटके ॥ ९५ ॥

āśā yasya padadvandve caitanyasya mahāprabhoḥ |
tasyendro dāsavadbhāti kā kathā nṛpakīṭake || 95 ||

Word for word: asha — hope; yasya — whose; pada-dvandve — in the two feet; caitanyasya mahaprabhoh — of Chaitanya Mahaprabhu; tasya — to him; indrah — Indra; dasavat — like a servant; bhati — appears; ka katha — what to speak; nripa-kitake — of a worm of a king.

95. For one whose hope is in the two feet of Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, Indra himself seems like a servant — what to speak of a worm of a king!

Verse 96

यस्याशा कृष्णचैतन्ये नृपद्वारि किमर्थिनः ।

चिन्तामणिमयं प्राप्य को मूढो रजतं व्रजेत् ॥ ९६ ॥

yasyāśā kṛṣṇacaitanye nṛpadvāri kimarthinaḥ |
cintāmaṇimayaṁ prāpya ko mūḍho rajataṁ vrajet || 96 ||

Word for word: yasya — whose; asha — hope; krishna-caitanye — in Krishna Chaitanya; nripa-dvari — at a king's door; kim — why; arthinah — begging; cintamani-mayam — a chintamani; prapya — having obtained; kah — what; mudhah — fool; rajatam — silver; vrajet — would go after.

96. Who, having placed his hope in Krishna Chaitanya, would go begging at a king's door? What fool, having obtained a chintamani, would go after silver?

Verse 97

ध्यायन्तो गिरिकन्दरेषु बहवो ब्रह्मानुभूयासते
योगाभ्यासपराश्च सन्ति बहवः सिद्धा महीमण्डले ।
विद्याशौर्यधनादिभिश्च बहवो जल्पन्ति मिथ्योद्धताः को वा गौरकृपां विनाद्य जगति प्रेमोन्मदो नृत्यति ॥ ९७ ॥

dhyāyanto girikandareṣu bahavo brahmānubhūyāsate
yogābhyāsaparāśca santi bahavaḥ siddhā mahīmaṇḍale | vidyāśauryadhanādibhiśca bahavo jalpanti mithyoddhatāḥ
ko vā gaurakṛpāṁ vinādya jagati premonmado nṛtyati || 97 ||

Word for word: dhyayantah — meditating; giri-kandareshu — in mountain caves; bahavah — many; brahma-anubhuya — experiencing Brahman; asate — abide; yoga-abhyasa-parah — devoted to the practice of yoga; ca — and; santi — there are; bahavah — many; siddhah — siddhas; mahi-mandale — on the earth; vidya-shaurya-dhana-adibhih — with learning, valour, wealth and so on; ca — and; bahavah — many; jalpanti — prattle; mithya-uddhatah — falsely puffed up; kah va — but who; gaura-kripam vina — without Gaura's mercy; adya — today; jagati — in the world; prema-unmadah — intoxicated with love; nrityati — dances.

97. Many, meditating in mountain caves, abide in the experience of Brahman; there are many siddhas on the earth devoted to the practice of yoga; many, falsely puffed up with learning, valour, wealth and so on, prattle on. But who in the world today, without Gaura's mercy, dances intoxicated with love?

Verse 98

काशीवासीनपि न गणये किं गयां मार्गयामो
मुक्तिः शुक्ती भवति यदि मे कः परार्थप्रसङ्गः ।
त्रासाभासः स्फुरति न महारौरवेऽपि क्व भीतिः स्त्रीपुत्रादौ यदि कृपयते देवदेवः स गौरः ॥ ९८ ॥ kāśīvāsīnapi na gaṇaye kiṁ gayāṁ mārgayāmo

muktiḥ śuktī bhavati yadi me kaḥ parārthaprasaṅgaḥ | trāsābhāsaḥ sphurati na mahāraurave'pi kva bhītiḥ
strīputrādau yadi kṛpayate devadevaḥ sa gauraḥ || 98 ||

Word for word: kashi-vasin — the dwellers of Kashi; api — even; na ganaye — I do not count; kim — why; gayam — Gaya; margayamah — should we seek; muktih — liberation; shukti — an (empty) shell; bhavati — becomes; yadi — if; me — to me; kah — what; para-artha-prasangah — talk of other goals; trasa-abhasah — a shadow of fear; sphurati — appears; na — not; maha-raurave — in the great hell Raurava; api — even; kva — where; bhitih — fear; stri-putra-adau — for wife, sons and the rest; yadi — if; kripayate — is merciful; deva-devah — the God of gods; sah — that; gaurah — Gaura.

98. I do not count even the dwellers of Kashi — why should I seek out Gaya? Liberation is to me an empty shell — what to speak of other goals? Even in the great hell Raurava not a shadow of fear appears to me — how then could I fear for wife, sons and the rest — if Gaura, the God of gods, is merciful to me.

1. Gaura-dhaman — according to Bhaktisiddhanta, "possessing a golden radiance (gaura-kanti)," i.e. Sri Hari in the form of Gaura; literally it may also mean "He whose abode is Gaura."

2. The summit of Niladri (Nilachala) is Puri; "the face of Hari" is Jagannatha, on whom Mahaprabhu gazes unceasingly.

3. The first line has been restored from the Bengali edition (No. 94 there).

Part Four

The supremacy of Sri Chaitanya. The glory of His descent. The beauty and dance of Gaura. Lament (verses 99–142)

The supremacy of Sri Chaitanya (utkarsha)

Verse 99

मत्तकेशरिकिशोरविक्रमः प्रेमसिन्धुजगदाप्लवोद्यमः ।
कोऽपि दिव्यनवहेमकन्दलीकोमलो जयति गौरचन्द्रमाः ॥

mattakeśarikiśoravikramaḥ premasindhujagadāplavodyamaḥ |
ko'pi divyanavahemakandalīkomalo jayati gauracandramāḥ ||

Word for word: matta-keshari-kishora-vikramah — with the valour of a young lion in rut; prema-sindhu-jagat-aplava-udyamah — eager to flood the world with the ocean of love; kah api — indescribable; divya-nava-hema-kandali-komalah — tender as a wondrous, newly blossomed golden kandali flower; jayati — glory to; gaura-candramah — Gaura-chandra, the Moon.

99. With the valour of a young lion in rut, eager to flood the world with the ocean of love, tender as a wondrous, newly blossomed golden kandali flower — glory to the indescribable Gaura-chandra, the Moon!

Verse 100

gāmbhīrye'mbhodhikoṭirmadhurimaṇi sudhākṣīramādhvīkakoṭi-
rgauro devaḥ sa jīyāt praṇayarasapade darśitāścaryakoṭiḥ ||

Word for word: saundarye — in beauty; kama-kotih — millions of Kamadevas; sakala-jana-samahladane — in delighting all people; candra-kotih — millions of moons; vatsalye — in tenderness; matri-kotih — millions of mothers; tridasha-vitapinam — of the trees of heaven; kotih — millions; audarya-sare — in the essence of generosity; gambhirye — in depth; ambhodhi-kotih — millions of oceans; madhurimani — in sweetness; sudha-kshira-madhvika-kotih — millions of nectars, milks and honeys; gaurah — Gaura; devah — the Lord; sah — He; jiyat — glory to; pranaya-rasa-pade — in the realm of the rasa of love; darshita-ashcarya-kotih — who has shown millions of wonders.

100. In beauty — millions of Kamadevas; in delighting all people — millions of moons; in tenderness — millions of mothers; in the essence of generosity — millions of trees of heaven; in depth — millions of oceans; in sweetness — millions of nectars, milks and honeys; in the realm of the rasa of love He has shown millions of wonders. Glory to the Lord Gaura!

Verse 101

स्वपादाम्भोजैकप्रणयलहरीसाधनभृतां

śivabrahmādīnāmapi ca sumahāvismayabhṛtām | mahāpremāveśāt kimapi naṭatāmunmada iva
prabhurgauro jīyāt prakaṭaparamāścaryamahimā ||

Word for word: sva-pada-ambhoja-eka-pranaya-lahari-sadhana-bhritam — of those who hold to the sadhana leading to the matchless wave of love for His lotus feet; shiva-brahma-adinam — to Shiva, Brahma and others; api ca — even; su-maha-vismaya-bhritam — who cause great amazement; maha-prema-aveshat — in the transport of great love; kim api — indescribably; natatam — dancing; unmadah iva — as if mad; prabhuh — the Lord; gaurah — Gaura; jiyat — glory to; prakata-parama-ashcarya-mahima — who has revealed (their) supreme wondrous glory.

101. Glory to the Lord Gaura, who has revealed the supreme, wondrous glory of those who hold to the sadhana that leads to the matchless wave of love for His lotus feet, and who, in the transport of great love, dance indescribably as if mad, filling with great amazement even Shiva, Brahma and the others.

Verse 102

nāmnā durgatakoṭiniṣkṛtikaro brahmādikoṭīśvaraḥ
koṭyadvaitaśiromaṇirvijayate śrīśrīśacīnandanaḥ ||

Word for word: madyat-koti-mriga-indra-hunkriti-ravah — whose roar is like the roar of millions of maddened kings of beasts; tigmamshu-koti-chavih — with the lustre of millions of suns; koti-indu-udbhata-shitalah — cooler than millions of moons; gati-jita-pronmatta-koti-dvipah — who by His gait surpasses millions of maddened elephants; namna — by the Name; durgata-koti-nishkriti-karah — who redeems millions of the wretched; brahma-adi-koti-ishvarah — the Lord of millions of Brahmas and others; koti-advaita-shiromanih — the crest-jewel of millions of knowers of non-duality; vijayate — glory to; shri-shri-shaci-nandanah — Sri Sri Shachinandana.

102. His roar is like the roar of millions of maddened kings of beasts, His lustre like that of millions of suns, His coolness greater than that of millions of moons; by His gait He surpasses millions of maddened elephants; by His Name He redeems millions of the wretched; He is the Lord of millions of Brahmas and others, the crest-jewel of millions of knowers of non-duality[1] — glory to Sri Sri Shachinandana!

Verse 103

यो मार्गो दूरशून्यो बत इह बलवत्कण्टको योऽतिदुर्गो
मिथ्यार्थभ्रामको यः सपदि रसमयानन्दनिःस्यन्दको यः । sadyaḥ pradyotayaṁstaṁ prakaṭitamahimā snehavān hṛdguhāyāḥ

ko'pyantardhvāntahantā sa jayati navadvīpadīpyatpradīpaḥ ||

Word for word: yah — which; margah — path; dura-shunyah — beyond reach (of worldly intellect) and devoid (of outward glitter); bata — alas; iha — here; balavat-kantakah — with mighty thorns; yah — which; ati-durgah — very hard to travel; mithya-artha-bhramakah — leading astray with false meanings; yah — which; sapadi — at once; rasa-maya-ananda-nihsyandakah — pouring forth bliss full of rasa; yah — which; sadyah — at once; pradyotayan — illumining; tam — that; prakatita-mahima — revealing its glory; snehavan — full of tenderness (of oil); hrid-guhayah — of the cave of the heart; kah api — indescribable; antar-dhvanta-hanta — destroyer of inner darkness; sah — that; jayati — glory to; navadvipa-dipyat-pradipah — the shining lamp of Navadvipa.

103. The path that is beyond the reach of worldly intellect and devoid of outward glitter — alas, overgrown here with mighty thorns and therefore hard to travel, leading astray with false meanings, yet at once pouring forth bliss full of rasa — that path He at once illumines, revealing its glory; full of tenderness, He drives the darkness out of the cave of the heart — glory to that indescribable shining lamp of Navadvipa.

Verse 104

दूरादेव दहन् कुतर्कशलभान् कोटीन्दुसंशीतलो
ज्योतिःकन्दलसद्म सन्मधुरिमा बाह्यान्तरध्वान्तहृत् । sasnehāśayavartidivyavisarattejāḥ suvarṇadyutiḥ

kāruṇyādiha jājvalīti sa navadvīpapradīpo'dbhutaḥ ||

Word for word: durat eva — from afar; dahan — burning; kutarka-shalabhan — the moths of false logic; koti-indu-samshitalah — cool as millions of moons; jyotih-kandala-sadma — the abode of sprouting light; sat-madhurima — the highest sweetness; bahya-antara-dhvanta-hrit — removing the outer and inner darkness; sa-sneha-ashaya-varti-divya-visarat-tejah — whose divine light spreads from the wick of the heart steeped in the oil of love; suvarna-dyutih — shining like gold; karunyat — out of mercy; iha — here; jajvaliti — blazes brightly; sah — that; navadvipa-pradipah — lamp of Navadvipa; adbhutah — wondrous.

104. Burning from afar the moths of false logic, cool as millions of moons, the abode of sprouting light, the highest sweetness, dispelling the outer and inner darkness; His divine light spreads from the wick of the heart steeped in the oil of love; shining like gold — out of mercy this wondrous lamp of Navadvipa blazes brightly here.

चीत्कारैर्दशदिङ्मुखं मुखरयन्नट्टाट्टहासच्छटा- sarvāṅgaṁ pavanoccalaccaladalaprāyaprakampaṁ dadhanmattaḥ premarasonmadāplutagatirgauro hariḥ śobhate ||

Word for word: citkaraih — with cries; dasha-din-mukham — the ten directions; mukharayan — making resound; attatta-hasa-chata-vicibhih — with the waves of peals of laughter; sphuta-kunda-kairava-gana-prodbhasi — bright as with blossoming jasmines and lilies; kurvan — making; nabhah — the sky; sarva-angam — the whole body; pavana-uccalat-cala-dala-praya-prakampam — trembling like leaves shaken by the wind; dadhat — having; mattah — intoxicated; prema-rasa-unmada-apluta-gatih — moving with leaps in the intoxication of the rasa of love; gaurah harih — Gaura-Hari; shobhate — shines.

105. Filling all the directions with cries, by the waves of His peals of laughter making the sky white as with blossoming jasmines and lilies, His whole body trembling like the leaves of the ashvattha in the wind, intoxicated with the rasa of love, dancing with high leaps — Gaura-Hari shines.

Verse 106

udbhūtaḥ ko'pi bhāgyodayaruciraśacīgarbhadugdhāmburāśe-
rbhaktānāṁ hṛccakorasvāditapadarucirbhāti gaurāṅgacandraḥ ||

Word for word: nirdoshah — without fault (without night); caru-nrityah — dancing beautifully; vidhuta-malinata-vakra-bhavah — free of impurity and crookedness; kadacit — ever; nihsesha-prani-tapa-traya-harana-maha-prema-piyusha-varshi — pouring forth the nectar of great love that removes the threefold miseries of all living beings; udbhutah — risen; kah api — indescribable; bhagya-udaya-rucira-shaci-garbha-dugdha-amburasheh — from the milk ocean of Shachi's womb, beautiful with the dawning of good fortune; bhaktanam — of the devotees; hrit-cakora-svadita-pada-rucih — whose rays (feet) are tasted by the chakora birds of the hearts; bhati — shines; gauranga-candrah — the moon Gauranga.

106. Without fault (knowing no night), dancing beautifully, utterly free of impurity and crookedness, pouring forth the nectar of great love that removes the threefold miseries of all living beings without exception; risen from the milk ocean of Shachi's womb, made beautiful by the dawning of good fortune; the sweetness of His rays is tasted by the chakora birds — the hearts of the devotees: the indescribable moon Gauranga shines.

Verse 107

सिञ्चन् सिञ्चन्नयनपयसा पाण्डुगण्डस्थलान्तं uccaiḥ krandan karuṇakaruṇodgīrṇahāhetirāvo

gauraḥ ko'pi vrajavirahiṇībhāvamagnaścakāsti ||

Word for word: sincan sincan — again and again moistening; nayana-payasa — with the water of the eyes; pandu-ganda-sthala-antam — the pale cheeks; muncan muncan — again and again releasing; prati-muhuh — repeatedly; aho — oh!; dirgha-nihshvasa-jatam — long sighs; uccaih — loudly; krandan — sobbing; karuna-karuna-udgirna-ha-ha-iti-ravah — uttering most piteous cries of "Ha! Ha!"; gaurah — Gaura; kah api — indescribable; vraja-virahini-bhava-magnah — immersed in the mood of a maiden of Vraja in separation; cakasti — shines.

107. Again and again moistening His pale cheeks with the water of His eyes, again and again — oh! — heaving long sighs, sobbing aloud, uttering most piteous cries of "Ha! Ha!" — the indescribable Gaura shines, immersed in the mood of a maiden of Vraja in separation.

Verse 108

बिभ्रद्वर्णं किमपि दहनोत्तीर्णसौवर्णसारं
दिव्याकारं किमपि कलयन् दृप्तगोपालबालः । āviṣkurvan kvacidavasare tattadāścaryalīlāṁ

sākṣādrādhāmadhuripuvapurbhāti gaurāṅgacandraḥ ||

Word for word: bibhrat — bearing; varnam — colour; kim api — indescribable; dahana-uttirna-sauvarna-saram — the essence of gold refined in fire; divya-akaram — a divine form; kim api — indescribable; kalayan — assuming; dripta-gopala-balah — a frolicsome cowherd boy; avishkurvan — revealing; kvacit — at times; avasare — on occasion; tat-tat-ashcarya-lilam — this or that wondrous pastime; sakshat — manifestly; radha-madhuripu-vapuh — the body of Radha and Madhuripu (Krishna); bhati — shines; gauranga-candrah — Gauranga-chandra.

108. Bearing an indescribable colour — the essence of gold refined in fire — now appearing as a frolicsome cowherd boy, now assuming an indescribable divine form, and at times revealing this or that wondrous pastime — Gauranga-chandra shines, manifestly the body of Radha and Madhuripu (Krishna).

The glory of His descent (avatara-mahima)

Verse 109

अकस्मादेवाविर्भवति भगवन्नामलहरी

aho vajraprāyaṁ hṛdapi navanītāyitamabhū-nnṛṇāṁ loke yasminnavatarati sa gauro mama gatiḥ ||

Word for word: akasmat eva — unexpectedly; avirbhavati — appears; bhagavat-nama-lahari — the wave of the Lord's Name; paritanam — surrounded; papaih — by sins; api — even; purubhih — grievous; esham — of these; tanu-bhritam — embodied beings; aho — oh!; vajra-prayam — like diamond; hrit — heart; api — even; navanitayitam — like fresh butter; abhut — became; nrinam — of men; loke — into the world; yasmin — when He; avatarati — descends; sah — that; gaurah — Gaura; mama — my; gatih — refuge.

109. Unexpectedly the wave of the Lord's Name comes to embodied beings, even those surrounded by grievous sins; oh! — even men's hearts, hard as diamond, have become like fresh butter — when He descends into the world. That Gaura is my refuge.

Verse 110

न योगो न ध्यानं न च जपतपस्त्यागनियमा
न वेदा नाचारः क्व नु बत निषिद्धाद्युपरतिः । अकस्माच्चैतन्येऽवतरति दयासारहृदये

na yogo na dhyānaṁ na ca japatapastyāganiyamā
na vedā nācāraḥ kva nu bata niṣiddhādyuparatiḥ | akasmāccaitanye'vatarati dayāsārahṛdaye
pumarthānāṁ mauliṁ paramiha mudā luṇṭhati janaḥ ||

Word for word: na — no; yogah — yoga; na — no; dhyanam — meditation; na ca — nor; japa-tapah-tyaga-niyamah — japa, austerity, renunciation, vows; na — no; vedah — Vedas; na — no; acarah — piety; kva nu — where then; bata — alas; nishiddha-adi-uparatih — abstention from the forbidden and so on; akasmat — unexpectedly; caitanye — when Chaitanya; avatarati — descends; daya-sara-hridaye — whose heart is the essence of compassion; pum-arthanam — of the goals of man; maulim — the crown; param — highest; iha — here; muda — joyfully; lunthati — carries off; janah — people.

110. There is no yoga, no meditation, no japa, no austerity, no renunciation, no vows, no Vedas, no piety — what to speak of abstaining from the forbidden! — and yet, when Chaitanya, whose heart is the very essence of compassion, descends, people here joyfully and unexpectedly carry off the highest crown of the goals of man.

Verse 111

महाकर्मस्रोतोनिपतितमपि स्थैर्यमयते महापाषाणेभ्योऽप्यतिकठिनमेति द्रवदशाम् । naṭatyūrdhvaṁ niḥsādhanamapi mahāyogamanasāṁ

bhuvi śrīcaitanye'vatarati manaścitravibhave ||

Word for word: maha-karma-srotah-nipatitam — fallen into the torrent of great karma; api — even; sthairyam — steadiness; ayate — attains; maha-pashanebhyah — than great rocks; api — even; ati-kathinam — harder; eti — attains; drava-dasham — a melted state; natati — dances; urdhvam — on high; nihsadhanam — without sadhana; api — even; maha-yoga-manasam — of the minds of great yogis; bhuvi — on earth; shri-caitanye — when Sri Chaitanya; avatarati — descends; manah — the mind; citra-vibhave — wondrous in glory.

111. When Sri Chaitanya, wondrous in His glory, descends on earth, the mind that has fallen into the torrent of great karma becomes steady; the mind harder than great rocks becomes melted; even the mind of great yogis, giving up its sadhana, dances on high.

Verse 112

स्त्रीपुत्रादिकथां जहुर्विषयिणः शास्त्रप्रवादं बुधा
योगीन्द्रा विजहुर्मरुन्नियमजक्लेशं तपस्तापसाः । jñānābhyāsavidhiṁ jahuśca yatayaścaitanyacandre parā-māviṣkurvati bhaktiyogapadavīṁ naivānya āsīdrasaḥ ||

Word for word: stri-putra-adi-katham — talk of wife, sons and so on; jahuh — gave up; vishayinah — the worldly; shastra-pravadam — disputes about the shastras; budhah — the learned; yoga-indrah — the lords of yogis; vijahuh — gave up; marut-niyama-ja-klesham — the torment of breath control; tapah — austerity; tapasah — the ascetics; jnana-abhyasa-vidhim — the practice of study of knowledge; jahuh — gave up; ca — and; yatayah — the sannyasis; caitanya-candre — when Chaitanya-chandra; param — supreme; avishkurvati — revealed; bhakti-yoga-padavim — the path of bhakti-yoga; na eva — not at all; anyah — other; asit — there was; rasah — rasa.

112. When Chaitanya-chandra revealed the supreme path of bhakti-yoga, the worldly gave up talk of wife, sons and so on, the learned their disputes about the shastras, the lords of yogis the torments of breath control, the ascetics their austerity, the sannyasis their study of knowledge. No other rasa remained.

Verse 113

अभूद्गेहे गेहे तुमुलहरिसङ्कीर्तनरवो

abhūdgehe gehe tumulaharisaṅkīrtanaravo
babhau dehe dehe vipulapulakāśruvyatikaraḥ | api snehe snehe paramamadhurotkarṣapadavī
davīyasyāmnāyādapi jagati gaure'vatarati ||

Word for word: abhut — there was; gehe gehe — in every house; tumula-hari-sankirtana-ravah — the tumultuous sound of Hari's sankirtana; babhau — shone; dehe dehe — in every body; vipula-pulaka-ashru-vyatikarah — a profusion of thrills and tears; api — also; snehe snehe — in every affection; parama-madhura-utkarsha-padavi — a state of supreme sweet excellence; daviyasi — far; amnayat — from the Vedas; api — even; jagati — into the world; gaure — when Gaura; avatarati — descends.

113. When Gaura descends into the world, in every house thunders the sankirtana of Hari, in every body shines a profusion of thrills and tears, and in every affection there is a state of supreme sweet excellence, far beyond even the Vedas.

Verse 114

अकस्मादेवैतद्भुवनमभितः प्लावितमभू- akasmāccādṛṣṭāśrutacaravikārairalamabhūccamatkāraḥ kṛṣṇe kanakarucirāṅge'vatarati ||

Word for word: akasmat eva — unexpectedly; etat — this; bhuvanam — world; abhitah — on every side; plavitam — flooded; abhut — was; maha-prema-ambhodheh — from the ocean of great love; kim api — indescribable; rasa-vanyabhih — by floods of rasa; akhilam — whole; akasmat — unexpectedly; ca — and; adrishta-ashruta-cara-vikaraih — by transformations never seen or heard before; alam — greatly; abhut — there was; camatkarah — wonder; krishne — when Krishna; kanaka-rucira-ange — in a body beautiful with golden radiance; avatarati — descends.

114. Unexpectedly this whole world was flooded on every side by indescribable floods of rasa from the ocean of great love; unexpectedly people were overcome with wonder at transformations never seen or heard of before — when Krishna descends in a body beautiful with golden radiance.

Verse 115

उद्गृह्णन्ति समस्तशास्त्रमभितो दुर्वारगर्वायिताः
धन्यम्मन्यधियश्च कर्मतपसाद्युच्चावचेषु स्थिताः । द्वित्राण्येव जपन्ति केचन हरेर्नामानि वामाशयाः

dvitrāṇyeva japanti kecana harernāmāni vāmāśayāḥ
pūrvaṁ samprati gauracandra udite premāpi sādhāraṇaḥ ||

Word for word: udgrihnanti — seize upon; samasta-shastram — all the shastras; abhitah — everywhere; durvara-garvayitah — unrestrainably proud; dhanyam-manya-dhiyah — thinking themselves fortunate; ca — and; karma-tapasa-adi-ucca-avaceshu — in rituals, austerity and other (rules) high and low; sthitah — established; dvi-trani — two or three; eva — only; japanti — chant; kecana — some; hareh — of Hari; namani — names; vama-ashayah — with perverse intent; purvam — formerly; samprati — now; gaura-candre — when Gaurachandra; udite — has risen; prema — prema; api — even; sadharanah — common.

115. Formerly some, unrestrainably proud, seized upon all the shastras everywhere; others, thinking themselves fortunate, held to rituals, austerity and other rules high and low; and some, with perverse intent, chanted two or three names of Hari. But now that Gaurachandra has risen, even prema has become common.

Verse 116

देवे चैतन्यनामन्यवतरति सुरप्रार्थ्यपादाब्जसेवे
विष्वद्रीचीः प्रविस्तारयति सुमधुरप्रेमपीयूषवीचीः । को बालः कश्च वृद्धः क इह जडमतिः का वधूः को वराकः ko bālaḥ kaśca vṛddhaḥ ka iha jaḍamatiḥ kā vadhūḥ ko varākaḥ

sarveṣāmaikarasyaṁ kimapi haripade bhaktibhājāṁ babhūva ||

Word for word: deve — when the Lord; caitanya-namani — named Chaitanya; avatarati — descends; sura-prarthya-pada-abja-seve — service to whose lotus feet the gods pray for; vishvadricih — through the universe; pravistarayati — spreads; su-madhura-prema-piyusha-vicih — the sweetest waves of the nectar of love; kah — who; balah — a child; kah ca — and who; vriddhah — an old man; kah — who; iha — here; jada-matih — a dullard; ka — who; vadhuh — a woman; kah — who; varakah — a wretch; sarvesham — of all; aika-rasyam — oneness of taste; kim api — indescribable; hari-pade — to Hari's feet; bhakti-bhajam — of the devoted; babhuva — arose.

116. When the Lord named Chaitanya descended, service to whose lotus feet the gods pray for, and spread through the universe the sweetest waves of the nectar of love — who is a child, who an old man, who a dullard, who a woman, who a wretch? In all who are devoted to Hari's feet there arose an indescribable oneness of taste.

Verse 117

सर्वे शङ्करनारदादय इहायाताः स्वयं श्रीरपि
प्राप्ता देवहलायुधोऽपि मिलितो जाताश्च ते वृष्णयः । bhūyaḥ kiṁ vrajavāsino'pi prakaṭā gopālagopyādayaḥ

pūrṇe premaraseśvare'vatarati śrīgauracandre bhuvi ||

Word for word: sarve — all; shankara-narada-adayah — Shankara, Narada and the others; iha — here; ayatah — have come; svayam — herself; shrih — Sri (Lakshmi); api — also; praptah — has appeared; deva-halayudhah — the god Halayudha; api — also; militah — has joined; jatah — were born; ca — and; te — those; vrishnayah — Vrishnis; bhuyah — moreover; kim — what to speak; vraja-vasinah — the dwellers of Vraja; api — too; prakatah — appeared; gopala-gopi-adayah — the cowherd boys, gopis and others; purne — complete; prema-rasa-ishvare — the Lord of the rasa of love; avatarati — descends; shri-gaura-candre — when Sri Gaurachandra; bhuvi — to earth.

117. All have come here — Shankara, Narada and the others; Sri (Lakshmi) herself has appeared; the god Halayudha (Balarama) has joined Him; those very Vrishnis have been born; and more — the dwellers of Vraja too have appeared: the cowherd boys, the gopis and the others — when Sri Gaurachandra, the Lord of the rasa of complete love, descended to earth.

Verse 118

prāpuḥ pūrvādhikataramahāpremapīyūṣalakṣmīṁ
svapremāṇaṁ vitarati jagatyadbhutaṁ hemagaure ||

Word for word: bhrityah — the servants; snigdhah — the friends; ati-su-madhura-projjvala-udara-bhajah — those who partake of the sweetest, radiant, generous (rasa); tat-pada-abja-dvitaya-savidhe — near His two lotus feet; sarve eva — all; avatirnah — descended; prapuh — obtained; purva-adhikatara-maha-prema-piyusha-lakshmim — a wealth of the nectar of great love greater than before; sva-premanam — His own love; vitarati — distributes; jagati — to the world; adbhutam — wondrous; hema-gaure — when the golden Gaura.

118. The servants, the friends, and those who partake of the sweetest, radiant and generous [rasa] — all of them descended beside His two lotus feet. When the golden Gaura distributes His wondrous love to the world, they obtained a wealth of the nectar of great love greater than before.

Verse 119

हसन्त्युच्चैरुच्चैरहह कुलवध्वोऽपि परितो द्रवीभावं गच्छन्त्यपि कुविषयग्रावघटिताः । tiraskurvantyajñā api sakalaśāstrajñasamitiṁ

kṣitau śrīcaitanye'dbhutamahimasāre'vatarati ||

Word for word: hasanti — laugh; uccaih uccaih — loudly, loudly; ahaha — ah!; kula-vadhvah — noble housewives; api — even; paritah — all around; dravi-bhavam — a melted state; gacchanti — attain; api — even; kuvishaya-grava-ghatitah — made of the stones of base sense attachments; tiraskurvanti — put to shame; ajnah — the ignorant; api — even; sakala-shastra-jna-samitim — the assembly of those who know all the shastras; kshitau — on earth; shri-caitanye — when Sri Chaitanya; adbhuta-mahima-sare — the essence of wondrous glory; avatarati — descends.

119. When Sri Chaitanya, the essence of wondrous glory, descended to earth — ah! — even noble housewives all around laugh loudly, loudly; even hearts made of the stones of base sense attachments melt; even the ignorant put to shame the assembly of those who know all the shastras.

Verse 120

प्रायश्चैतन्यमासीदपि सकलविदां नेह पूर्वं यदेषां gambhīrodārabhāvojjvalarasamadhurapremabhaktipraveśaḥ

keṣāṁ nāsīdidānīṁ jagati karuṇayā gauracandre'vatīrṇe ||

Word for word: prayah — hardly; caitanyam — consciousness; asit — was; api — even; sakala-vidam — of the all-knowing; na — not; iha — here; purvam — formerly; yat — because; esham — their; kharva — meagre; sarva-artha-sare — on the essence of all goals; api — even; akrita na hi — did not set; padam — foot; kunthita — dull; buddhi-vrittih — reasoning; gambhira-udara-bhava-ujjvala-rasa-madhura-prema-bhakti-praveshah — entrance into the bhakti of sweet love, the radiant rasa of deep and generous feelings; kesham — of whom; na asit — was not; idanim — now; jagati — into the world; karunaya — out of mercy; gaura-candre — when Gaurachandra; avatirne — has descended.

120. Formerly even the all-knowing here had hardly any consciousness (chaitanya): their meagre, dull reasoning never set foot on the essence of all goals. But now, when out of mercy Gaurachandra has descended into the world — who has not entered into the bhakti of sweet love, the radiant rasa of deep and generous feelings?

Verse 121

श्रीमद्भागवतस्य यत्र परमं तात्पर्यमुट्टङ्कितं श्रीवैयासकिना दुरन्वयतया रासप्रसङ्गेऽपि यत् । yadrādhāratikelināgararasāsvādaikasadbhājanaṁ

tadvastuprathanāya gauravapuṣā loke'vatīrṇo hariḥ ||

Word for word: shrimad-bhagavatasya — of the Srimad Bhagavatam; yatra — where; paramam — supreme; tatparyam — purport; uttankitam — only indicated; shri-vaiyasakina — by Sri Vaiyasaki (Shuka); duranvayataya — because hard to grasp; rasa-prasange — in the account of the rasa dance; api — even; yat — which; radha-rati-keli-nagara-rasa-asvada-eka-sat-bhajanam — the one true vessel for tasting the rasa of the hero of Radha's love-sports; tat-vastu-prathanaya — to spread that treasure; gaura-vapusha — in the form of Gaura; loke — into the world; avatirnah — descended; harih — Hari.

121. The supreme purport of the Srimad Bhagavatam, which Sri Vaiyasaki (Shuka), even in the account of the rasa dance, only indicated without revealing it, because it is hard to grasp; that which is the one true vessel for tasting the rasa of the hero (nagara) of Radha's love-sports — to spread that treasure, Hari descended into the world in the form of Gaura.

Verse 122

केचिद्दास्यमवापुरुद्धवमुखाः श्लाघ्यं परे लेभिरे

anye dhanyatamā dhayanti sudhiyo rādhāpadāmbhoruhaṁ
śrīcaitanyamahāprabhoḥ karuṇayā lokasya kāḥ sampadaḥ ||

Word for word: kecit — some; dasyam — service; avapuh — attained; uddhava-mukhah — Uddhava and the others; shlaghyam — praiseworthy; pare — others; lebhire — attained; shridama-adi-padam — the state of Shridama and others; vraja-ambuja-drisham — of the lotus-eyed maidens of Vraja; bhavam — the mood; ca — and; bhejuh — attained; pare — others; anye — others; dhanya-tamah — most fortunate; dhayanti — drink; sudhiyah — the wise; radha-pada-ambhoruham — Radha's lotus feet; shri-caitanya-mahaprabhoh — of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu; karunaya — by the mercy; lokasya — of the world; kah — what; sampadah — riches.

122. Some — Uddhava and the others — attained service; others attained the praiseworthy state of Shridama and the other friends; still others attained the mood of the lotus-eyed maidens of Vraja; and others, most fortunate and wise, drink [the nectar of] Radha's lotus feet. What riches has the world not received by the mercy of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu!

Verse 123

sampratyapratimaprabhāva udite gaurāṅgacandre punaḥ
śrutyartho haribhaktireva paramaḥ kairvā na nirdhāryate ||

Word for word: sarvajnaih — by the all-knowing; muni-pungavaih — best of sages; pravitate — spread; tat-tat-mate — the various doctrines; yuktibhih — by arguments; purvam — formerly; na — not; ekatara-atra — in any one; kah api — anyone; su-dridham — firmly; vishvastah — convinced; asit — was; janah — person; samprati — now; apratima-prabhave — of matchless power; udite — has risen;

gauranga-candre — when Gauranga-chandra; punah — again; shruti-arthah — the meaning of the shruti; hari-bhaktih — devotion to Hari; eva — alone; paramah — highest; kaih va — by whom; na nirdharyate — is not ascertained.

123. Formerly the all-knowing best of sages spread their various doctrines by arguments, and not one person was firmly convinced of any of them. But now, when Gauranga-chandra of matchless power has risen — who has not again become certain that the highest meaning of the shruti is devotion to Hari alone?

Verse 124

pāthonidhau sakalameva nimajjayantam |
gaurāṅgacandranakhacandramaṇicchaṭāyāḥ
kañcidvicitramanubhāvamahaṁ smarāmi ||

Word for word: vishvam — the world; maha-pranaya-sadhu-sudha-rasa-eka-pathonidhau — in the matchless ocean of the excellent nectar rasa of great love; sakalam eva — whole; nimajjayantam — immersing; gauranga-candra-nakha-candra-mani-chatayah — of the radiance of the moonstones, the toenails of Gauranga-chandra; kancit — a certain; vicitram — wondrous; anubhavam — power; aham — I; smarami — remember.

124. I remember a certain wondrous power of the radiance of the moonstones — the toenails of Gauranga-chandra — which immerses the whole world in the matchless ocean of the excellent nectar rasa of great love.

Verse 125

अतिपुण्यैरतिसुकृतैः कृतार्थीकृतः कोऽपि पूर्वैः ।
एवं कैरपि न कृतं यत्प्रेमाब्धौ निमज्जितं विश्वम् ॥

atipuṇyairatisukṛtaiḥ kṛtārthīkṛtaḥ ko'pi pūrvaiḥ |
evaṁ kairapi na kṛtaṁ yatpremābdhau nimajjitaṁ viśvam ||

Word for word: ati-punyaih — with the highest merit; ati-sukritaih — with the greatest piety; kritarthi-kritah — brought to fulfilment; kah api — someone; purvaih — by those of old; evam — thus; kaih api — by anyone; na kritam — was not done; yat — that; prema-abdhau — in the ocean of love; nimajjitam — immersed; vishvam — the world.

125. The [great ones] of old, full of the highest merit and piety, brought perhaps one person or another to fulfilment. But to immerse the whole world in the ocean of love — this no one did.

Verse 126

धर्मे निष्ठां दधदनुपमां विष्णुभक्तिं गरिष्ठां
संविभ्राणो दधदिह हि हृत्तिष्ठतीवाश्मसारम् ।

nīco goghnādapi jagadaho plāvayatyaśrupūraiḥ
ko vā jānātyahaha gahanaṁ hemagaurāṅgaraṅgam ||

Word for word: dharme — in dharma; nishtham — fidelity; dadhat — having; anupamam — matchless; vishnu-bhaktim — devotion to Vishnu; garishtham — weightiest; samvibhranah — holding; dadhat — having; iha — here; hi — indeed; hrit — heart; tishthati — lives; iva — as if; ashma-saram — iron; nicah — lower; goghnat — than a cow-killer; api — even; jagat — the world; aho — oh!; plavayati — floods; ashru-puraih — with streams of tears; kah va — who; janati — knows; ahaha — ah!; gahanam — deep; hema-gauranga-rangam — the play of the golden Gauranga.

126. Even one who has matchless fidelity to dharma and the weightiest devotion to Vishnu sometimes lives here with a heart as hard as iron; while one lower than a cow-killer — oh! — floods the world with streams of tears. Ah, who can fathom the deep play of the golden Gauranga?

Verse 127

क्वचित्कृष्णावेशान्नटति बहुभङ्गीमभिनयन् क्वचिद्राधाविष्टो हरि हरि हरीत्यार्तिरुदितः । kvacitkṛṣṇāveśānnaṭati bahubhaṅgīmabhinayan

kvacidrādhāviṣṭo hari hari harītyārtiruditaḥ | kvacidriṅgan bālaḥ kvacidapi ca gopālacarito
jagadgauro vismāpayati bahugambhīramahimā ||

Word for word: kvacit — sometimes; krishna-aveshat — absorbed in Krishna; natati — dances; bahu-bhangim — many postures; abhinayan — enacting; kvacit — sometimes; radha-avishtah — absorbed in Radha; hari hari hari iti — "Hari, Hari, Hari!"; arti-ruditah — crying in anguish; kvacit — sometimes; ringan — crawling; balah — an infant; kvacit api ca — and sometimes; gopala-caritah — behaving as a cowherd boy; jagat — the world; gaurah — Gaura; vismapayati — astonishes; bahu-gambhira-mahima — of very deep glory.

127. Sometimes, absorbed in Krishna, He dances, enacting many postures; sometimes, absorbed in Radha, He cries out in anguish: "Hari! Hari! Hari!"; sometimes He crawls like an infant; sometimes He behaves like a cowherd boy. So the great Gaura of unfathomable glory astonishes the world.

Verse 128

वेलायां लवणाम्बुधेर्मधुरिमप्राग्भावसारस्फुर-ल्लीलायां नववल्लवीरसनिधेरावेशयन्ती जगत् । khelāyāmapi śaiśave nijarucā viśvaikasammohinī

mūrtiḥ kācana kāñcanadravamayī cittāya me rocate ||

Word for word: velayam — on the shore; lavana-ambudheh — of the salt ocean; madhurima-prag-bhava-sara-sphurat-lilayam — in pastimes in which shines the essence of the feeling for (Krishna's) sweetness; nava-ballavi-rasa-nidheh — of the young cowherd girl (towards) the treasury of rasa; aveshayanti — immersing; jagat — the world; khelayam — in play; api — even; shaishave — in childhood; nija-ruca — by its radiance; vishva-eka-sammohini — the one enchanter of the universe; murtih — form; kacana — indescribable; kancana-drava-mayi — made of molten gold; cittaya — to the heart; me — my; rocate — is pleasing.

128. On the shore of the salt ocean immersing the world in pastimes in which shines the essence of the feeling that the young cowherd girl (Radha) has for the sweetness of Krishna, the treasury of her rasa; already in His childhood games, by His radiance the one enchanter of the universe — an indescribable form, as if made of molten gold, delights my heart.

Verse 129

प्रेमा नामाद्भुतार्थः श्रवणपथगतः कस्य नाम्नां महिम्नः
को वेत्ता कस्य वृन्दावनविपिनमहामाधुरीषु प्रवेशः । ko vā jānāti rādhāṁ paramarasacamatkāramādhuryasīmāmekaścaitanyacandraḥ paramakaruṇayā sarvamāviścakāra ||

Word for word: prema — prema; nama — called; adbhuta-arthah — the wondrous thing; shravana-patha-gatah — reached the ears; kasya — of whom; namnam — of the Names; mahimnah — of the glory; kah — who; vetta — knower; kasya — of whom; vrindavana-vipina-maha-madhurishu — into the great sweetness of the forests of Vrindavana; praveshah — entrance; kah va — who; janati — knows; radham — Radha; parama-rasa-camatkara-madhurya-simam — the limit of the wonder and sweetness of the highest rasa; ekah — alone; caitanya-candrah — Chaitanya-chandra; parama-karunaya — out of supreme mercy; sarvam — all; avishcakara — revealed.

129. Who had ever before heard of the wondrous thing called prema? Who knew the glory of the Names? Who entered the great sweetness of the forests of Vrindavana? Who knew Radha — the limit of the sweetness and wonder of the highest rasa? Chaitanya-chandra alone, out of supreme mercy, revealed all this.

The beauty and dance of Gaura

Verse 130

पूर्णप्रेमरसामृताब्धिलहरीलोलाङ्गगौरच्छटा- durlakṣyāṁ śrutikoṭibhiḥ prakaṭayanmūrtiṁ jaganmohinīmāścaryaṁ lavaṇodarodhasi paraṁ brahma svayaṁ nṛtyati ||

Word for word: purna-prema-rasa-amrita-abdhi-lahari-lola-anga-gaura-chata-kotya — with millions of reflections of the golden lustre of a body swaying on the waves of the ocean of the nectar of the rasa of complete love; acchadita-vishvam — who covers the universe; ishvara-vidhi-vyasa-adibhih — by the Lord (Shiva), the Creator (Brahma), Vyasa and others; samstutam — praised; durlakshyam — barely discernible; shruti-kotibhih — by millions of shrutis; prakatayan — revealing; murtim — a form; jagat-mohinim — enchanting the world; ashcaryam — oh wonder; lavanoda-rodhasi — on the shore of the salt ocean; param brahma — the Supreme Brahman; svayam — Himself; nrityati — dances.

130. He covers the universe with millions of reflections of the golden lustre of His body, swaying on the waves of the ocean of the nectar of the rasa of complete love; He is praised by the Lord (Shiva), the Creator (Brahma), Vyasa and others; revealing a form that enchants the world, barely discernible by millions of shrutis — oh wonder! — on the shore of the salt ocean the Supreme Brahman Himself dances.

Verse 131

ūrdhvīkṛtya nibaddhakuntalabharaprotphullamallīsragā-
pīḍaḥ krīḍati gauranāgaravaro nṛtyannijairnāmabhiḥ ||

Word for word: kah — who; ayam — this; patta-dhati-virajita-kati-deshah — whose hips are adorned with silk cloth; kare — on the arm; kankanam — a bracelet; haram — a necklace; vakshasi — on the breast; kundalam — earrings; shravanayoh — in the ears; bibhrat — wearing; pade — on the feet; nupuram — ankle bells; urdhvi-kritya — gathering up; nibaddha-kuntala-bhara-protphulla-malli-srak-apidah — whose abundant curls, tied up, are crowned with a garland of blossoming jasmine; kridati — sports; gaura-nagara-varah — Gaura, the foremost nagara (B: the crown of the highest knowers of rasa); nrityan — dancing; nijaih — to His own; namabhih — names.

131. Who is this Gaura, the foremost nagara, the crown of the knowers of rasa?[2] His hips are adorned with silk cloth; on His arm is a bracelet, on His breast a necklace, in His ears earrings, on His feet ankle bells; He has gathered up and tied His abundant curls, crowning them with a garland of blossoming jasmine — He sports, dancing to His own names.

Verse 132

देवा दुन्दुभिवादनं विदधिरे गन्धर्वमुख्या जगुः
सिद्धाः सन्ततपुष्पवृष्टिभिरिमां पृथ्वीं समाच्छादयन् ।
दिव्यस्तोत्रपरा महर्षिनिबहाः प्रीत्योपतस्थुर्निजdivyastotraparā maharṣinibahāḥ prītyopatasthurnijapremonmādini tāṇḍavaṁ racayati śrīgauracandre bhuvi ||

Word for word: devah — the gods; dundubhi-vadanam — the beating of kettledrums; vidadhire — performed; gandharva-mukhyah — the best of the Gandharvas; jaguh — sang; siddhah — the Siddhas; santata-pushpa-vrishtibhih — with an unceasing rain of flowers; imam — this; prithvim — earth; samacchadayan — covered; divya-stotra-parah — intent on divine hymns; maha-rishi-nibahah — hosts of great rishis; pritya — lovingly; upatasthuh — drew near; nija-prema-unmadini — maddened with His own love; tandavam — a vigorous dance; racayati — performed; shri-gaura-candre — when Sri Gaurachandra; bhuvi — on earth.

132. When Sri Gaurachandra, maddened with His own love, performed a vigorous dance on earth, the gods beat the kettledrums, the best of the Gandharvas sang, the Siddhas covered this earth with an unceasing rain of flowers, and hosts of great rishis lovingly drew near, offering wondrous hymns.

Verse 133

क्षणं हसति रोदिति क्षणमथ क्षणं मूर्च्छति
क्षणं लुठति धावति क्षणमथ क्षणं नृत्यति । क्षणं श्वसिति मुञ्चति क्षणमुदारहाहारुतिं kṣaṇaṁ hasati roditi kṣaṇamatha kṣaṇaṁ mūrcchati

kṣaṇaṁ luṭhati dhāvati kṣaṇamatha kṣaṇaṁ nṛtyati | kṣaṇaṁ śvasiti muñcati kṣaṇamudārahāhārutiṁ
mahāpraṇayasīdhunā viharatīha gauro hariḥ ||

Word for word: kshanam — now; hasati — laughs; roditi — weeps; kshanam — now; atha — and; kshanam — now; murcchati — faints; kshanam — now; luthati — rolls; dhavati — runs; kshanam — now; atha — and; kshanam — now; nrityati — dances; kshanam — now; shvasiti — sighs; muncati — utters; kshanam — now; udara-ha-ha-arutim — loud cries of "Ha! Ha!"; maha-pranaya-sidhuna — with the wine of great love; viharati — sports; iha — here; gaurah harih — Gaura-Hari.

133. Now He laughs, now weeps, now faints, now rolls on the ground, now runs, now dances, now sighs, now utters loud cries of "Ha! Ha!" — intoxicated with the wine of great love, Gaura-Hari sports here.

Verse 134

अश्रूणां किमपि प्रवाहनिवहैः क्षौणीं पुरः पङ्किलां
कुर्वन् पाणितले निधाय बदरापाण्डुं कपोलस्थलीम् । आश्चर्यं लवणोदरोधसि वसन् शोणं दधानोंऽशुकं aśrūṇāṁ kimapi pravāhanivahaiḥ kṣauṇīṁ puraḥ paṅkilāṁ kurvan pāṇitale nidhāya badarāpāṇḍuṁ kapolasthalīm | āścaryaṁ lavaṇodarodhasi vasan śoṇaṁ dadhānoṁ'śukaṁ

gaurībhūya hariḥ svayaṁ vitanute rādhāpadābje ratim ||

Word for word: ashrunam — of tears; kim api — indescribable; pravaha-nivahaih — with floods of streams; kshaunim — the ground; purah — before Him; pankilam — muddy; kurvan — making; pani-tale — on the palm; nidhaya — resting; badara-pandum — pale as a badari fruit; kapola-sthalim — the cheek; ashcaryam — wonder; lavanoda-rodhasi — on the shore of the salt ocean; vasan — dwelling; shonam — red; dadhanah — wearing; amshukam — garment; gauri-bhuya — having become golden; harih — Hari; svayam — Himself; vitanute — spreads; radha-pada-abje — for Radha's lotus feet; ratim — love.

134. With indescribable floods of tears turning the ground before Him to mud, resting on His palm a cheek pale as a badari fruit, dwelling — how wondrous! — on the shore of the salt ocean and wearing a red garment, Hari Himself, having become golden, spreads love for the lotus feet of Radha.

Verse 135

पादाघातरवैर्दिशो मुखरयन्नेत्राम्भसां बिन्दुभिः क्षौणीं पङ्किलयन्नहो विशदयन्नट्टाट्टहासैर्नभः । candrajyotirudārasundarakaṭivyālolaśoṇāmbaraḥ

ko devo lavaṇodakūlakusumodyāne mudā nṛtyati ||

Word for word: pada-aghata-ravaih — with the sound of stamping feet; dishah — the directions; mukharayan — making resound; netra-ambhasam — of tears; bindubhih — with drops; kshaunim — the ground; pankilayan — making muddy; aho — oh!; vishadayan — making bright; attatta-hasaih — with peals of laughter; nabhah — the sky; candra-jyotih — shining like the moon; udara-sundara-kati-vyalola-shona-ambarah — whose red garment sways on beautiful, graceful hips; kah — what; devah — Lord; lavanoda-kula-kusuma-udyane — in the flower garden on the shore of the salt ocean; muda — joyfully; nrityati — dances.

135. Making the directions resound with the stamping of His feet, turning the ground to mud with drops of tears, — oh! — making the sky bright with peals of laughter, shining like the moon, His red garment swaying on His beautiful, graceful hips — what Lord is this who dances joyfully in the flower garden on the shore of the salt ocean?

Lament (shochaka)

Verse 136

सर्वैराम्नायचूडामणिभिरपि न संलक्ष्यते यत्स्वरूपं
श्रीशब्रह्माद्यगम्या सुमधुरपदवी कापि यस्यातिरम्या । yenākasmājjagacchrīharirasamadirāmattametadvyadhāyi

śrīmaccaitanyacandraḥ sa kimu mama girāṁ gocaraścetaso vā ||

Word for word: sarvaih — by all; amnaya-cuda-manibhih — the crest-jewels of the Vedas; api — even; na samlakshyate — is not discerned; yat-svarupam — whose nature; shri-isha-brahma-adi-agamya — inaccessible to Lakshmi, Shiva, Brahma and others; su-madhura-padavi — sweetest path; ka api — indescribable; yasya — whose; ati-ramya — most beautiful; yena — by whom; akasmat — suddenly; jagat — world; shri-hari-rasa-madira-mattam — intoxicated with the wine of the rasa of Sri (Radha) and Hari; etat — this; vyadhayi — was made; shrimac-caitanya-candrah — Sri Chaitanya-chandra; sah — He; kim u — can it be; mama — of my; giram — words; gocarah — within reach; cetasah — of the mind; va — or.

136. Whose nature even the crest-jewels of all the Vedas cannot discern; whose sweetest path, inaccessible even to Lakshmi, Shiva, Brahma and the others, is yet indescribably beautiful and easily accessible to those on whom His merciful glance has fallen; who suddenly intoxicated this world with the wine of the rasa of Sri Radha and Hari — can that Sri Chaitanya-chandra be within the reach of my words or my mind?

Verse 137

जाड्यं कर्मसु कुत्रचिज्जपतपोयोगादिकं कुत्रचिद्
गोविन्दार्चनविक्रियः क्वचिदपि ज्ञानाभिमानः क्वचित् ।
श्रीभक्तिः क्वचिदुज्ज्वलापि च हरेर्वाङ्मात्र एव स्थिता
हा चैतन्य कुतो गतोऽसि पदवी कुत्रापि ते नेक्ष्यते ॥

jāḍyaṁ karmasu kutracijjapatapoyogādikaṁ kutracid

śrībhaktiḥ kvacidujjvalāpi ca harervāṅmātra eva sthitā
hā caitanya kuto gato'si padavī kutrāpi te nekṣyate ||

Word for word: jadyam — dullness; karmasu — in rituals; kutracit — somewhere; japa-tapah-yoga-adikam — japa, austerity, yoga and so on; kutracit — somewhere; govinda-arcana-vikriyah — ritualistic worship of Govinda; kvacit api — somewhere; jnana-abhimanah — pride of knowledge; kvacit — somewhere; shri-bhaktih — sacred bhakti; kvacit — somewhere; ujjvala — radiant; api ca — though; hareh — of Hari; vak-matre — in words only; eva — indeed; sthita — remains; ha — ah; caitanya — Chaitanya; kutah — where; gatah asi — have You gone; padavi — path; kutra api — anywhere; te — Your; na ikshyate — is not seen.

137. Somewhere there is dullness in rituals, somewhere japa, austerity, yoga and so on, somewhere ritualistic worship of Govinda, somewhere pride of knowledge; and the sacred bhakti of Hari, though radiant, somewhere remains only in words. Ah, Chaitanya, where have You gone? Your path is seen nowhere!

Verse 138

abhūduccairuccaistumulaharisaṅkīrtanavidhiḥ
sa kālaḥ kiṁ bhūyo'pyahaha parivarteta madhuraḥ ||

Word for word: abhivyaktah — manifest; yatra — when; druta-kanaka-gaurah — golden as molten gold; harih — Hari; abhut — was; mahimna — by the glory; tasya eva — His alone; pranaya-rasa-magnam — immersed in the rasa of love; jagat — the world; abhut — was; abhut — there was; uccaih uccaih — loudly, loudly; tumula-hari-sankirtana-vidhih — the tumultuous sankirtana of Hari; sah — that; kalah — time; kim — will; bhuyah api — ever again; ahaha — ah!; parivarteta — return; madhurah — sweet.

138. When Hari appeared, golden as molten gold, by His glory alone the world was immersed in the rasa of love, and everywhere the sankirtana of Hari thundered loudly, loudly — ah, will that sweet time ever return?

Verse 139

सैवेयं भुवि धन्यगौडनगरी वेलापि सैवाम्बुधेः
सोऽयं श्रीपुरुषोत्तमो मधुपतेस्तान्येव नामानि तु । नो कुत्रापि निरीक्ष्यते हरि हरि प्रेमोत्सवस्तादृशो

no kutrāpi nirīkṣyate hari hari premotsavastādṛśo
hā caitanya kṛpānidhāna tava kiṁ vīkṣye punarvaibhavam ||

Word for word: sa eva iyam — this is the same; bhuvi — on earth; dhanya-gauda-nagari — blessed capital of Gauda; vela — shore; api — also; sa eva — the same; ambudheh — of the ocean; sah ayam — this is the same; shri-purushottamah — Sri Purushottama; madhupateh — of Madhupati; tani eva — the same; namani — names; tu — but; no — not; kutra api — anywhere; nirikshyate — is seen; hari hari — Hari, Hari!; prema-utsavah — festival of love; tadrishah — such; ha — ah; caitanya — Chaitanya; kripa-nidhana — treasury of mercy; tava — Your; kim — shall; vikshye — I see; punah — again; vaibhavam — glory.

139. This is the same blessed capital of Gauda, the same shore of the ocean, the same Sri Purushottama (Jagannatha), the same names of Madhupati — but, Hari, Hari! — such a festival of love is seen nowhere. Ah, Chaitanya, treasury of mercy, shall I ever see Your glory again?

Verse 140

यदि निगदितमीनाद्यंशवद्गौरचन्द्रो

yadi nigaditamīnādyaṁśavadgauracandro
na tadapi sa hi kaścicchaktilīlāvikāśaḥ | atulasakalaśaktyāścaryalīlāprakāśai-
ranadhigatamahattvaḥ pūrṇa evāvatīrṇaḥ ||

Word for word: yadi — if; nigadita-mina-adi-amshavat — like the named partial incarnations, the Fish and the rest; gaura-candrah — Gaurachandra; na — not; tat api — so; sah — He; hi — for; kashcit — some; shakti-lila-vikashah — manifestation of potency and pastime; atula-sakala-shakti-ashcarya-lila-prakashaih — with the manifestation of wondrous pastimes with the matchless fullness of all potencies; anadhigata-mahattvah — whose greatness is unfathomable; purnah — complete; eva — indeed; avatirnah — descended.

140. If one says that Gaurachandra is like the partial incarnations — the Fish and the rest — He is not so: for they are only the manifestation of some potency and pastime. But He, whose greatness is unfathomable, revealing wondrous pastimes with the matchless fullness of all potencies, descended as the complete [Lord].

Verse 141

ब्रह्मेशादिमहाश्चर्यमहिमापि महाप्रभुः ।
मुग्धबालोदितं श्रुत्वा स्निग्धोऽवश्यं भविष्यति ॥ brahmeśādimahāścaryamahimāpi mahāprabhuḥ |

mugdhabāloditaṁ śrutvā snigdho'vaśyaṁ bhaviṣyati ||

Word for word: brahma-isha-adi-maha-ashcarya-mahima — of glory more wondrous than (the source of) Brahma, Shiva and others; api — though; mahaprabhuh — Mahaprabhu; mugdha-bala-uditam — the prattle of an innocent child; shrutva — hearing; snigdhah — tender; avashyam — surely; bhavishyati — will be.

141. Though Mahaprabhu has a glory more wondrous even than that of the Original One, the source of Brahma and Shiva, on hearing the prattle of an innocent child He will surely be tender.

Verse 142

दृष्टं न शास्त्रं गुरवो न दृष्टा
विवेचितं नापि बुधैः सुबुद्ध्या ।
यथा तथा जल्पतु बालभावा- त्तथैव मे गौरहरिः प्रसीदतु ॥ dṛṣṭaṁ na śāstraṁ guravo na dṛṣṭā vivecitaṁ nāpi budhaiḥ subuddhyā | yathā tathā jalpatu bālabhāvā-ttathaiva me gauraharih prasīdatu ||

Word for word: drishtam — seen; na — not; shastram — the shastras; guravah — gurus; na — not; drishtah — seen; vivecitam — examined; na api — nor; budhaih — by the wise; su-buddhya — with keen intellect; yatha tatha — however; jalpatu — may prattle; bala-bhavat — like a child; tatha eva — even so; me — with me; gaura-harih — Gaura-Hari; prasidatu — may be pleased.

142. I have not seen the shastras, I have not seen gurus, the wise have not examined [my words] with their keen intellect — so however I may prattle like a child, may Gaura-Hari be pleased with me.

Thus ends the Sri Sri Chaitanya-chandramrita in twelve sections, composed by Shripada Srimat Prabodhananda Sarasvati — the jewel in the crown of the family of the tridandi-gosvamis, the best of wandering teachers, an eminent associate of Gaura.

1. "Knowers of non-duality" (advaita) — the experts in non-dualism (Advaita Vedanta); this is also how Bhaktisiddhanta explains the word.

2. Nagara-vara — according to Bhaktisiddhanta, "the crown of the highest knowers of rasa": Gaura is Krishna Himself, enacting His pastime on the side of the ashraya (tasting the feelings of Radha). It does not mean a worldly "gallant lover," nor does it support the doctrine of gaura-nagari, which Bhaktisiddhanta rejected.
