Beholding Śrī Vṛndāvana

(English translation from the Bengali, following the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition and the «Anubhāṣya», 2026 — draft)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. At Āriṭ-grāma Mahāprabhu discovered Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Śyāma-kuṇḍa, and then at Govardhana He had darśana of Harideva. The Lord would not climb Govardhana to see Gopāla, and so Gopāla, on the pretext (chala) of fear of the mlecchas, came down from Annakūṭa-grāma to the village of Gāṭholī. Mahāprabhu went there and had His darśana. Long afterwards, to mercifully give darśana to the best of devotees, Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī, Gopāla came to Mathurā and stayed “for a month” in the temple of Viṭhṭhaleśvara; Kavirāja Gosvāmī tells of this here, in passing. Mahāprabhu saw Nandīśvara, Pāvana-sarovara, Śeṣaśāyī, Khelā-tīrtha, Bhāṇḍīravana, Bhadravana, Lohavana, Mahāvana and other places, and after seeing Gokula He returned to Mathurā. He took up lodging at Akrūra-ghāṭa and every day went to Vṛndāvana, visiting Kālīya-hrada, Dvādaśāditya-ghāṭa, Keśī-ghāṭa, Rāsa-sthalī, Cīra-ghāṭa, Āmli-talā and other places. At night a fisherman used to catch fish in Kālīya-hrada, and many people took him for “Kṛṣṇa” and came looking for him. But when they saw Mahāprabhu, their mistaken notion (vivarta-buddhi) was dispelled, and Kṛṣṇa was revealed to them all. Then the Lord established that a sannyāsī, that is, a jīva, is a particle of spirit (cit-kaṇa). At Akrūra-ghāṭa the Lord would stay submerged in the water for a long time, and so Balabhadra Bhaṭṭācārya decided to take Mahāprabhu from Vraja-maṇḍala to Prayāga. Resolving, “We shall bathe in the Gaṅgā at Soro-kṣetra and then go to Prayāga,” they set out. On the way, in a certain village, Bijalī Khān, who was riding with Paṭhān horsemen, saw the Lord lying unconscious in ecstatic love. He said, “His companions have drugged Him with dhuturā, killed Him, and are taking His wealth," and he had the Lord's companions bound. When the Lord's ecstasy subsided, He conversed with a Muslim teacher (mleccha-ācārya) of Bijalī Khān's band and examined the scriptures with him; in this way the Lord established "devotion to Kṛṣṇa" from the Koran itself. Bijalī Khān and the horsemen under him took shelter at Mahāprabhu's feet and became "devotees of Kṛṣṇa." At that place there still stands a village known as "the village of the Paṭhān Vaiṣṇavas." After bathing in the Gaṅgā at Soro, the Lord reached Triveṇī.

In Vṛndāvana, Gaurāṅgacandra gave His darśana to all beings, moving and unmoving, and so delighted them; and seeing them, He Himself felt joy. In this way He wandered everywhere.

Arriving at Āriṭ-grāma, the Lord returns to external awareness —

Anubhāṣya.
Āriṭ is the village "Ariṣṭa," now "Ariṅg."

There He asks about Rādhā-kuṇḍa, but no one knows of it —

অরিষ্টে রাধাকুণ্ড-বার্ত্তা পুছে লোক-স্থানে । কেহ নাহি কহে, সঙ্গের ব্রাহ্মণ না জানে ॥ ৪ ॥

anyone not tells accompanying brāhmaṇa not knows

4 In Ariṣṭa He asked the people about Rādhā-kuṇḍa, but no one could tell Him, and the brāhmaṇa with Him did not know either.

Gaura, endowed with Rādhā's mood and radiance, discovers the hidden Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa —

তীর্থ ‘লুপ্ত’ জানি’, প্রভু সর্ব্বজ্ঞ ভগবান্ । দুই ধান্যক্ষেত্রে অল্পজলে কৈলা স্নান ॥ ৫ ॥

tīrtha ‘lupta’ jāni’ prabhu sarvajña bhagavān
the holy place lost knowing the Lord all-knowing Bhagavān
dui dhānya-kṣetre alpa-jale kailā snāna
in two rice fields in shallow water He took bath

5 The Lord, the all-knowing Bhagavān, knew that the holy place had been lost to sight, and He bathed in the shallow water of two rice fields.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Āriṭ-grāma is the place where the demon Ariṣṭa was killed. Arriving there, the Lord asked, “Where is Rādhā-kuṇḍa?” But no one could tell Him, and the brāhmaṇa who accompanied Him did not know either. Then the omniscient Bhagavān understood that this tīrtha had been “lost” (lupta), and He bathed in the little water standing in two rice fields nearby. This indicated that those rice fields were Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Śyāma-kuṇḍa.

The villagers' wonder —

seeing all of the village people astonished became the mind
preme prabhu kare rādhā-kuṇḍera stavana with love the Lord makes of Rādhā-kuṇḍa praise

6 Seeing this, all the villagers were astonished. Then, full of love, the Lord praised Rādhā-kuṇḍa:

The Lord praises the glory of Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa, nondifferent from Śrī Rādhā —

সব গোপী হৈতে রাধা কৃষ্ণের প্রেয়সী ।

7 Of all the gopīs, Rādhā is Kṛṣṇa's dearest. So too Rādhā-kuṇḍa is dear to Him: it is the lake of His beloved.

(Govinda-līlāmṛta, 7.102)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

By its own qualities this lake, Rādhā-kuṇḍa, is as supremely dear to Kṛṣṇa as Śrī Rādhā. In this kuṇḍa Śrī Kṛṣṇacandra always sports with Śrī Rādhā with great love. Whoever bathes in this kuṇḍa even once attains love for Kṛṣṇa like that of Śrī Rādhikā. Who in this world, then, can describe the glory and sweetness of Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa?

Anubhāṣya.

In ecstatic love the Lord offers praise —

13 Absorbed in love, He offered these praises, and He danced on the bank, remembering the pastimes of the kuṇḍa.

pānīya-sūyavasa-kandara-kanda-mūlaiḥ
with water fine grass caves bulbs roots

34 "Ah, friends, this hill is the best of Hari's servants! Thrilled by the touch of the feet of Rāma and Kṛṣṇa, it honours Them, together with Their cows and companions, with water to drink, fine grass, caves, and bulbs and roots." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.21.18)[4]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

This hill, Govardhana, is the foremost of Vaiṣṇavas, because, thrilled by the bliss of the touch of Rāma's and Kṛṣṇa's feet, he regales Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa[13] together with the cows and cowherd boys: he gives water for the cowherds to drink and food — grass, bulbs, roots and the like.

Anubhāṣya.

When autumn came to Vraja, Śrī Kṛṣṇa went from forest to forest herding the cows and playing His flute. Then the gopīs, longing for Kṛṣṇa's company, began to sing of His enchanting qualities. Wandering here and there, they saw before them Govardhana, the king of hills, nondifferent from Vrajendranandana, and sang:

he abalāḥ (O friends) hanta (expressing joy) ayam adriḥ (this Govardhana — surely) hari-dāsa-varyaḥ (the best of Hari's servants) — yat (because) rāma-kṛṣṇa-caraṇa-sparśa-pramodaḥ (he rejoices at the touch of the feet of Rāma and Kṛṣṇa: one can see his hair stand on end in the form of sprouting grass and the like) yat (and because) pānīya-sūyavasa-kandara-kanda-mūlaiḥ (with drinking water, with lush, tender, beautiful grass, with caves, bulbs and roots — with fitting food) saha-go-gaṇayoḥ (who are accompanied by the cows and the band of friends) tayoḥ (to Rāma and Kṛṣṇa) mānam (honor) tanoti (offers; therefore he is supremely blessed — this is the meaning).

The Lord bathes in Govinda-kuṇḍa and learns where Gopāla is staying —

'গোবিন্দকুণ্ডাদি' তীর্থে প্রভু কৈলা স্নানে । তাঁহা শুনিলা, গোপাল — গাঠোলি গ্রামে ॥ ৩৫ ॥

'govinda-kuṇḍādi' tīrthe prabhu kailā snāne at Govinda-kuṇḍa and other holy places the Lord took bath tāṁhā śunilā, gopāla — gāṭholi grāme
there He heard Gopāla — Gāṭholi in the village

35 The Lord bathed at Govinda-kuṇḍa and other holy places, and there He heard that Gopāla was in the village of Gāṭholi.

Anubhāṣya.

Govinda-kuṇḍa is in the village of "Āniyor" on Śrī Govardhana hill, on the way from the village of Paiṭhā. Here there are two temples, of Govinda and of Baladeva, and a pond called "Govinda-kuṇḍa"; according to some, it was built by Queen Padmāvatī.

In the fifth wave of the Bhakti-ratnākara: "Great is the glory of this Śrī Govinda-kuṇḍa: here Indra performed Govinda's abhiṣeka." In the Vraja-vilāsa-stava of the Stavāvalī: "May Govinda-kuṇḍa always shine before my eyes — the kuṇḍa that arose from the waters of the heavenly Gaṅgā with which the king of the gods himself, humbly, in fear of His might, clasping His feet, celebrated here, with the help of Surabhi, the festival of the abhiṣeka of Govinda, who had just gained the kingdom of the cows — clearly for the sake of play." In the Mathurā-khaṇḍa: "Where Maghavān, the enemy of the Yadus, anointed Bhagavān, there arose Govinda-kuṇḍa; a single bath in it grants liberation."

Gāṭholī-grāma is a village near Gopālapura, or Bilchu. Tradition says that here the knot of love of the young couple of Vraja was tied. In the Bhakti-ratnākara (wave 5): "A friend secretly tied the garments of the two of Them in a knot… * * Someone, receiving a phaguā (festive gift), untied the knot." That is why this village is called "Gāṭholī."

In the village of Gāṭholī the Lord sees Gopāla, praises Him and dances —

সেই গ্রামে গিয়া কৈল গোপাল-দরশন । প্রেমাবেশে প্রভু করে কীর্ত্তন-নর্ত্তন ॥ ৩৬ ॥

sei grāme giyā kaila gopāla-daraśana to that village going He had darśana of Gopāla premāveśe prabhu kare kīrtana-nartana
in the rapture of love the Lord performs kīrtana and dance

36 He went to that village and had darśana of Gopāla, and in the rapture of love the Lord sang and danced.

গোপালের সৌন্দর্য্য দেখি' প্রভুর আবেশ । এই শ্লোক পড়ি' নাচে, হৈল দিন-শেষ ॥ ৩৭ ॥

of Gopāla the beauty seeing the Lord's rapture
ei śloka paḍi' nāce, haila dina-śeṣa
this verse reciting He dances came the end of the day

37 Seeing the beauty of Gopāla, the Lord was enraptured. Reciting this verse, He danced until the day was over:

*(Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, Vibhāva-laharī, verse 26)*

38 “May the left arm of the lotus-eyed Lord protect you — the arm with which He made Govardhana Hill a ball for His play.” (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, Vibhāva-laharī, 26)[5]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
May you be protected by the left arm of lotus-eyed Śrī Kṛṣṇa, with which He lifted Govardhana, the king of hills, and played with it like a ball.

Anubhāṣya.
yena (with which left arm) govardhanaḥ giriḥ krīḍā-kandukatām (into a plaything) nītaḥ (was turned), tāmarasākṣasya (of lotus-eyed Kṛṣṇa) saḥ (that same, famous left arm) vaḥ (you) pātu (may protect).

For three days the Lord beholds Gopāla —

39 In this way He beheld Gopāla for three days, and on the fourth day Gopāla went back to His own temple.

On the fourth day Gopāla goes with song and dance to His temple on the hill —

গোপাল-সঙ্গে চলি’ আইলা নৃত্য-গীত করি’ । আনন্দ-কোলাহলে লোক বলে ‘হরি’ ‘হরি’ ॥ ৪০ ॥

ānanda-kolāhale loka bale ‘hari’ ‘hari’
in a joyful uproar the people say Hari Hari

40 He went along with Gopāla, dancing and singing, and in a joyful uproar the people cried, “Hari! Hari!”

The Lord's desire to see Gopāla is fulfilled —

41 Gopāla went to His temple, and the Lord remained below. Gopāla had fulfilled all the Lord’s desires.

42 Such is Gopāla’s compassionate nature. The hearts of His devotees long for the sight of Him.

43 Yet, eager as they are, they will not climb Govardhana, and so, on some pretext, Gopāla Himself comes down to them.

*Wherever He stays, the devotees go there and obtain His darśana —*

*In the same way, on some pretext, He grants darśana to Śrī Rūpa and Sanātana —*

45 The two brothers, Rūpa and Sanātana, would not climb the hill, and in this way He gave them darśana.

*The account of how Śrī Rūpa, wishing to see Gopāla, obtained His darśana —*

46 In his old age Rūpa Gosāñi could no longer go there, yet a desire arose in him to see the beauty of Gopāla.

Gopāla stays for a month in Mathurā, in the house of Viṭhṭhaleśvara, Vallabha's son —

47 For fear of the mlecchas Gopāla came to the city of Mathurā and stayed for a month in the house of Viṭhṭhaleśvara.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Later, when Śrī Rūpa and Sanātana came and settled in Vraja, they too knew the hill of Śrī Govardhana to be directly the form of Bhagavān, and they did not climb it. Just as Gopāla gave darśana to Śrī Mahāprabhu, so He gave darśana to them as well. In his old age Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī could no longer go to Govardhana, and the desire arose in him to see Gopāla's beauty. Wishing to show mercy to Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī too, Gopāla raised the same "pretext" of fear of the mlecchas and stayed for a month in Mathurā, in the house of Viṭhṭhaleśvara.

Anubhāṣya.
Viṭhṭhaleśvara. In the fifth wave of the Bhakti-ratnākara: "Viṭhṭhala served [Gopāla]; Kṛṣṇa Caitanya longed intensely to see Him.[15] Śrī Viṭhṭhalanātha was the son of Vallabha Bhaṭṭa; how much love he showed cannot be told. Gopāla came to the village of 'Gāṭholī' 'on a pretext'; seeing Him, Gaurahari was absorbed in singing and dancing. Śrī Dāsa Gosvāmī and others took counsel together and made Śrī Viṭhṭhaleśvara the one in charge of the service. After the departure of his father, Śrī Vallabha Bhaṭṭa, he lived for some time in Mathurā in seclusion."

Śrī Vallabha Bhaṭṭa had two sons. The elder, "Gopīnātha," was born in 1432 of the Śaka era, and the younger, "Viṭhṭhalanātha," was born in 1437 Śaka and left this world in 1507 Śaka. Viṭhṭhala had seven sons: Giridhara, Govinda, Bālakṛṣṇa, Gokuleśa, Raghunātha, Yadunātha and Ghanaśyāma. Viṭhṭhala completed the remaining part of the commentary on the Brahma-sūtra that his father had left unfinished, wrote notes (ṭippanī) on the Subodhinī, and composed the Vidvan-maṇḍana, the Śṛṅgāra-rasa-maṇḍana, the Nyāsādeśa-vivaraṇa and other books. "For a full seventy years and twenty-eight days Śrīmad Viṭhṭhala Dīkṣita shone upon the earth."

Śrī Mahāprabhu went to Śrī Vṛndāvana in the year before the birth of Viṭhṭhala, Vallabha's son, or in the year before that. When Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī was old, Śrī Gopāla stayed for a month at the Mathurā residence of Viṭhṭhalanātha, Vallabha's son.

Śrī Rūpa and his companions behold Gopāla for a month in Mathurā, in the house of Viṭhṭhaleśvara —

49 With him were Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, Raghunātha dāsa, Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa Gosāñi and Lokanātha,

Anubhāṣya.
Lokanātha was an utterly detached associate of Śrī Mahāprabhu, a mahā-bhāgavata and a gosvāmī. Formerly he lived in the village of "Tālakhaḍi" in Yaśohara, and before that in Kācanāpāḍā. His father's name was Padmanābha, and his only younger brother was "Pragalbha." On the Lord's order Lokanātha lived in Vraja and performed his worship; he gave initiation to only one person, Śrī Narottama Ṭhākura Mahāśaya. Probably out of great humility he forbade anyone to describe his life, and so the Caritāmṛta does not tell of him in any detail. To reach "Tālakhaḍi," one takes the Eastern Bengal Railway line to "Yaśohara" station, from there goes by motorcar to Sonākhāli, from there to Khejurā, and then on foot, or by boat in the rainy season. The descendants of his own brother are especially respected in society under the name "the Bhaṭṭācāryas of Tālakhaḍi." For an account of his brother's family, see the Vaiṣṇava-mañjuṣā-samāhṛti, issue 4.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Laghu-haridāsa: many Vaiṣṇavas bore the name “Haridāsa,” so other Vaiṣṇavas would add epithets such as “Laghu” (junior) and “Madhyama” (middle) to the Haridāsas' names. The “Laghu-haridāsa” (Choṭa Haridāsa) of Mahāprabhu's time gave up his body at Prayāga; this “Laghu Haridāsa” is someone else.

Anubhāṣya.
In the sixth wave of the Bhakti-ratnākara: “Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī, supremely merciful; Bhūgarbha and Śrī Lokanātha, abodes of good qualities; Śrī Mādhava, Śrī Paramānanda Bhaṭṭācārya; Śrī Madhu Paṇḍita, whose life is wonderful; the loving Kṛṣṇadāsa, Kṛṣṇadāsa Brahmacārī; Yādava Ācārya, the merciful Nārāyaṇa; Śrī Puṇḍarīkākṣa Gosāñi, Govinda, Īśāna; Śrī Govinda and Vāṇī Kṛṣṇadāsa, exceedingly generous; Śrī Uddhava, who went to Gauḍa from time to time; Dvija Haridāsa, Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja; Śrī Gopāla dāsa, whose deeds are extraordinary; Śrī Gopāla, Mādhava and all the other Vaiṣṇavas.”

64 He saw the places of the pastimes there and went on to Śeṣaśāyī. There, seeing Lakṣmī, the Lord recited this verse:

Anubhāṣya.

Śeṣaśāyī. In the Bhakti-ratnākara (wave 5): “This is ‘Śeṣaśāyī’: here is the Ocean of Milk; here Kṛṣṇa playfully lay down on the bed of Ananta. To see this Deity of Śeṣaśāyī, Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanyacandra came here. On seeing Him, His delight grew great, and in that ecstasy of love the Lord lost all composure.”

The Lord comes to Khelā-tīrtha, Bhāṇḍīravana and Bhadravana —

the Yamunā across going to Bhadravana He went 66 Then, after seeing Khelā-tīrtha, He came to Bhāṇḍīravana, and crossing the Yamunā He went to Bhadravana.

Anubhāṣya.
Khelā-tīrtha. In the fifth wave of the Bhakti-ratnākara: "Behold Khelana-vana: here the two brothers play with their friends and give no thought to eating. Their mother lovingly feeds Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma. This place of play is called Śrī Khelā-tīrtha."

Bhāṇḍīravana. In the Bhakti-ratnākara (wave 5): "With joy in His heart He goes along the road to Bhāṇḍīra. Now people call it 'Akṣaya-vaṭa.' Here Balarāma playfully killed Pralamba; here in Bhāṇḍīra Kṛṣṇa performed many pastimes with His friends." In the Vraja-vilāsa-stava of the Stavāvalī: "I worship Bhāṇḍīraka, the place where my Mistress, Rādhā, full of rasa, proud of being the most beloved, made wrestlers of Her friends and, becoming a wrestler Herself, longed for a match. And when the slayer of Baka truly came forward to wrestle Her, Rādhā joyfully joined the fight and delighted Madana."

Bhadravana. "There is a forest named Bhadravana, the sixth, an excellent forest." (Bhakti-ratnākara, ibid.:) "By going to Bhadravana one becomes dear to Kṛṣṇa."

The Lord sees Śrīvana, Lohavana and Gokula, Kṛṣṇa's birthplace —

'শ্রীবন' দেখি' পুনঃ গেলা 'লোহ-বন' ।
'মহাবন' গিয়া কৈলা জন্মস্থান-দরশন ॥ ৬৭ ॥

to Mahāvana going He had darśana of the birthplace

67 From Śrīvana He went on to Lohavana, and in Mahāvana He saw the place of Kṛṣṇa's birth.

Anubhāṣya.

Śrīvana. "The forest named Bilvavana, the tenth, worshipped by the gods." (Bhakti-ratnākara, ibid.:) "Beautiful is Bilvavana, worshipped by the gods."

Lohavana. "The forest named Lohajaṅgha-vana, guarded by Lohajaṅgha, is the ninth forest, O goddess; it destroys all sins." (Bhakti-ratnākara, wave 5:) "In Lohavana Kṛṣṇa herded the cows wonderfully; here Bhagavān killed the demon Lohajaṅgha."

Mahāvana. "The eighth is Mahāvana; it is always dear to Me." (Bhakti-ratnākara, wave 5:) "Behold the home of Nanda and Yaśodā in Mahāvana. * * Here, look, is the birthplace of Śrī Kṛṣṇacandra. * * Śrī Gokula and Mahāvana are one and the same."

Anubhāṣya.

Pāvana-sarovara.[16] In the Mathurā-māhātmya: "Bathing in the lake Pāvana on the hill of Nandīśvara and seeing Nanda and Yaśodā, one obtains all that one desires."[17] (Bhakti-ratnākara, ibid.:) "This Pāvana-sarovara is very dear to Kṛṣṇa."

In the Bhakti-ratnākara (wave 5): "Look: on the hill, together with their son, Śrī Nanda and Yaśodā shine in a wondrous cave. O Śrīnivāsa, Śrī Caitanya Rāya came here and entered the cave to see Them. Śrī Nanda and Yaśodā are on either side, and in the middle is Kṛṣṇacandra; seeing Him, the Lord's eyes lit up with joy. Bowing at the feet of Śrī Nanda and Yaśodā, He touched all of Kṛṣṇa's body in delight, and in the ecstasy of love He began to sing and dance."

*Seeing the place where the yamala-arjuna trees were broken, the Lord is overwhelmed with love —*

the breaking of the Yamala-arjuna trees and so on He saw those places premāveśe prabhura mana haila ṭalamala
in the rapture of love the Lord's mind became agitated

68 He saw the places where the twin Arjuna trees were broken and where other pastimes took place, and the Lord's heart trembled with love.

Anubhāṣya.
Yamalārjuna. "And there is Yamalārjuna-tīrtha, and a kuṇḍa there." (Bhakti-ratnākara, wave 5:) "This place is the tīrtha where the yamala-arjuna trees were broken. Here Yaśodā bound Kṛṣṇa to the mortar, and Kṛṣṇa playfully allowed Himself to be bound."

Then the Lord sees the Yogapīṭha in Mathurā and stays in the house of a disciple of Mādhava Purī —

'গোকুল' দেখিয়া আইলা 'মথুরা'-নগরে ।
'জন্মস্থান' দেখি' রহে সেই বিপ্র-ঘরে ॥ ৬৯ ॥

69 From Gokula He came to the city of Mathurā. He saw the place of Kṛṣṇa's birth and stayed in the house of that same brāhmaṇa.

Because of the crowds, the Lord leaves and stays at Akrūra-tīrtha —

লোকের সংঘট্ট দেখি' মথুরা ছাড়িয়া । একান্তে 'অক্রূর-তীর্থে' রহিলা আসিয়া ॥ ৭০ ॥

in solitude at Akrūra-tīrtha He stayed coming 70 Seeing the crowds of people, He left Mathurā and came to stay in solitude at Akrūra-tīrtha.

Anubhāṣya.
Akrūra-tīrtha. "Akrūra-tīrtha is exceedingly, above all, dear to Hari. Akrūra is truly the king of tīrthas, the highest secret of secrets." (Bhakti-ratnākara, wave 5:) "Look, Śrīnivāsa: this is the village of Akrūra. Here Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya Prabhu stayed in seclusion."

The Lord comes to see Vṛndāvana and bathes in Kālīya-hrada and in Praskandana —

আর দিন আইলা প্রভু দেখিতে 'বৃন্দাবনে' ।
'কালীয়-হ্রদে' স্নান কৈলা আর 'প্রস্কন্দনে' ॥ ৭১ ॥

the next day came the Lord to see Vṛndāvana
'kālīya-hrade' snāna kailā āra 'praskandane'
in Kālīya-hrada bath He took and in Praskandana

71 The next day the Lord came to see Vṛndāvana, and He bathed in Kālīya-hrada and in Praskandana.

Anubhāṣya.

Vṛndāvana. “Oh, how lovely is Vṛndāvana, where the hill of Govardhana stands!” “The twelfth is Vṛndāvana, guarded by Vṛndā.” (Bhakti-ratnākara, wave 5:) “The abode most dear to Kṛṣṇa is Vṛndāvana; this forest of ‘five yojanas’ is Kṛṣṇa's body. * * Vṛndāvana measures sixteen krośas: so people say.”

Kālīya-hrada. “To the east of Kālīya-hrada is a revered kadamba tree. Beyond it is the tīrtha called Kālīya-tīrtha, which destroys sin: here Bhagavān, as a child, danced on Kālīya's head.” (Bhakti-ratnākara, wave 5:) “This Kālīya-tīrtha destroys sins; at the place of Kālīya-tīrtha many aims are fulfilled.”

Praskandana. “The place named Praskandana is auspicious and takes away all sins. A person who bathes there is freed from all sins.” (Bhakti-ratnākara, wave 5:) “Look: bathing at the place of Praskandana takes away sins, and one who gives up his life here attains the world of Viṣṇu. O Śrīnivāsa, through the heat of the suns the cold went away, and sweat appeared on [Kṛṣṇa's] body. That sweat mingled with the daughter of the Sun; that is why the tīrtha came to be named ‘Praskandana.’ Śrī Advaita Īśvara, nondifferent from Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, lived in this forest for some time.”

From Dvādaśāditya the Lord comes to Keśī-tīrtha and, seeing the Rāsa-sthalī, faints —

‘দ্বাদশ-আদিত্য’ হৈতে ‘কেশীতীর্থে’ আইলা । ‘রাসস্থলী’ দেখি’ প্রেমে মূর্চ্ছিত হইলা ॥ ৭২ ॥

the place of the rāsa seeing with love unconscious He became 72 From Dvādaśāditya He came to Keśī-tīrtha, and on seeing the place of the rāsa dance He fainted with love.

Anubhāṣya.

Dvādaśa-āditya. “The tīrtha called Dvādaśāditya-tīrtha purifies beyond compare; merely by seeing it people's sins are destroyed.” (Bhakti-ratnākara, ibid.:) “Behold: here is Dvādaśāditya-tīrtha.”

Keśī-tīrtha. In the Ādi-vārāha: “Where Keśī was struck down, the merit is a hundred times that of the Gaṅgā.” (Bhakti-ratnākara, ibid.:) “Kṛṣṇa killed Keśī with the greatest delight.”

All day, absorbed in love, the Lord behaves like a madman —

চেতনা পাঞা পুনঃ গড়াগড়ি যায় । হাসে, কান্দে, নাচে, পড়ে, উচ্চৈঃস্বরে গায় ॥ ৭৩ ॥

cetanā pāñā punaḥ gaḍāgaḍi yāya
consciousness regaining again He rolls on the ground

He laughs weeps dances falls in a loud voice sings

73 Regaining consciousness, He rolled on the ground again; He laughed, wept, danced, fell down and sang at the top of His voice.

In the evening the Lord returns from there to Akrūra-tīrtha and takes His meal —

এইরঙ্গে সেইদিন তথা গোঙাইলা ।
সন্ধ্যাকালে ‘অক্রূরে’ আসি’ ভিক্ষা নির্ব্বাহিলা ॥ ৭৪ ॥

74 He spent that day there in this joy, and in the evening He returned to Akrūra and took His meal.

In the morning, a bath at Cīra-ghāṭa and rest beneath the tamarind tree —

to Tẽtula-talā coming He took rest

75 In the morning He bathed at Cīra-ghāṭa in Vṛndāvana, and then He came to Tẽtula-talā and rested there.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Tẽtula-talā: this place is now called “Āmli-talā.”

The tamarind tree from the Dvāpara-yuga —

কৃষ্ণলীলা-কালের সেই বৃক্ষ পুরাতন ।
তার তলে পিঁড়ি-বান্ধা পরম-চিক্কণ ॥ ৭৬ ॥

76 That ancient tree dates from the time of Kṛṣṇa’s pastimes, and beneath it is a raised platform, beautifully smooth.

The Yamunā flows close by —

নিকটে যমুনা বহে শীতল সমীর । বৃন্দাবন-শোভা দেখি’ যমুনার নীর ॥ ৭৭ ॥

nikaṭe yamunā vahe śītala samīra nearby the Yamunā flows cool breeze
vṛndāvana-śobhā dekhi’ yamunāra nīra
the beauty of Vṛndāvana seeing of the Yamunā water

77 The Yamunā flows nearby, and a cool breeze blows. He gazed at the beauty of Vṛndāvana and at the waters of the Yamunā.

The Lord chants the holy name beneath the tamarind tree, and at midday He returns to Akrūra-tīrtha and takes His meal —

তেঁতুল-তলে বসি' করেন নাম-সংকীর্ত্তন । মধ্যাহ্ন করি' আসি' করে 'অক্রূরে' ভোজন ॥ ৭৮ ॥

teṁtula-tale vasi' karena nāma-saṁkīrtana
beneath the tamarind sitting He performs saṅkīrtana of the name madhyāhna kari' āsi' kare 'akrūre' bhojana
midday duties doing coming He takes at Akrūra meal

78 Sitting beneath the tamarind tree, He performed saṅkīrtana of the holy name, and after His midday duties He would return to Akrūra for His meal.

The people of Akrūra-tīrtha come to see the Lord, which disturbs His solitary chanting of the name by count —

'অক্রূরে'র লোক আইসে প্রভুরে দেখিতে । লোক-ভিড়ে স্বচ্ছন্দে নারে 'কীর্ত্তন' করিতে ॥ ৭৯ ॥

'akrūre'ra loka āise prabhure dekhite of Akrūra the people come the Lord to see loka-bhiḍe svacchande nāre 'kīrtana' karite
in the crowd freely He cannot kīrtana perform

79 The people of Akrūra would come to see the Lord, and in the crowd He could not perform kīrtana freely.

Until midday the Lord chants the name by count in solitude —

বৃন্দাবনে আসি' প্রভু বসিয়া একান্ত । নামসংকীর্ত্তন করে মধ্যাহ্ন-পর্য্যন্ত ॥ ৮০ ॥

vṛndāvane āsi' prabhu vasiyā ekānta to Vṛndāvana coming the Lord sitting in solitude
nāma-saṁkīrtana kare madhyāhna-paryanta
saṅkīrtana of the name He performs until midday

80 So the Lord would come to Vṛndāvana, sit in solitude and perform saṅkīrtana of the holy name until midday.

After midday people can see the Lord, and He instructs everyone to chant the holy name —

তৃতীয় প্রহরে লোক পায় দরশন । সবারে উপদেশ করে 'নামসংকীর্ত্তন' ॥ ৮১ ॥

tṛtīya prahare loka pāya daraśana in the third watch of the day the people get darśana sabāre upadeśa kare 'nāma-saṁkīrtana'
to everyone instruction He gives saṅkīrtana of the name

81 In the third watch of the day people would have His darśana, and He taught everyone the saṅkīrtana of the holy name.[7]

Kṛṣṇadāsa the Rajput comes there and sees the Lord —

82 At that time a Vaiṣṇava named Kṛṣṇadāsa came. He was a Rajput by birth and a householder, and his village was across the Yamunā.

83 After bathing at Keśī-tīrtha, he was on his way to Kālīya-daha when he suddenly saw the Lord at Āmli-talā.

Kṛṣṇadāsa is amazed to see the Lord —

প্রভুর রূপ-প্রেম দেখি' হইল চমৎকার ।

prabhura rūpa-prema dekhi' haila camatkāra

premāveśe prabhure karena namaskāra
in the rapture of love to the Lord he offers obeisance

84 Seeing the Lord's beauty and love, he was amazed, and in the rapture of love he bowed down to the Lord.

The Lord asks who he is, and Kṛṣṇadāsa humbly introduces himself — প্রভু কহে, — কে তুমি, কাঁহা তোমার ঘর ?

কৃষ্ণদাস কহে, — মুঞি, গৃহস্থ পামর ॥ ৮৫ ॥

prabhu kahe, — ke tumi, kāṁhā tomāra ghara?
the Lord says — who you where your home
kṛṣṇadāsa kahe, — muñi, gṛhastha pāmara
Kṛṣṇadāsa says — I a householder wretched

85 The Lord asked, "Who are you? Where is your home?" Kṛṣṇadāsa said, "I am a wretched householder.

রাজপুত-জাতি মুঞি, ও-পারে মোর ঘর ।
মোর ইচ্ছা হয়, — 'হঙ বৈষ্ণব-কিঙ্কর' ॥ ৮৬ ॥

86 I am a Rajput by birth, and my home is on the other bank. My desire is to become a servant of the Vaiṣṇavas.

Kṛṣṇadāsa tells how, on seeing the Lord, he found that his dream had come true —

কিন্তু আজি এক মুঞি ‘স্বপ্ন’ দেখিনু ।
সেই স্বপ্ন পরতেক তোমা আসি’ পাইনু ॥ ৮৭ ॥

87 But today I had a dream, and now it has come true before my eyes: I have come here and found You.”

Anubhāṣya.
Parateka: “before one's eyes” (pratyakṣa, sākṣāt).

The Lord shows him mercy; Kṛṣṇadāsa's love —

প্রভু তাঁরে কৃপা কৈলা আলিঙ্গন করি’ ।

88 The Lord showed him mercy and embraced him. Kṛṣṇadāsa became intoxicated with love; he danced and cried, “Hari!”

Coming with the Lord, Kṛṣṇadāsa receives the remnants of His meal —

প্রভু-সঙ্গে মধ্যাহ্নে অক্রূর তীর্থে আইলা ।
প্রভুর অবশিষ্টপাত্র-প্রসাদ পাইলা ॥ ৮৯ ॥

89 At midday he came with the Lord to Akrūra-tīrtha and received the prasāda left on the Lord's plate.

*From then on Kṛṣṇadāsa carries the Lord's kamaṇḍalu and is His constant companion —*

প্রাতে প্রভু-সঙ্গে আইলা জলপাত্র লঞা ।
প্রভু-সঙ্গে রহে গৃহ-স্ত্রী-পুত্র ছাড়িয়া ॥ ৯০ ॥

prāte prabhu-saṅge āilā jala-pātra lañā in the morning with the Lord he came the waterpot carrying prabhu-saṅge rahe gṛha-strī-putra chāḍiyā

90 The next morning he came with the Lord, carrying His waterpot. Leaving home, wife and son, he stayed with the Lord.

The rumor that Kṛṣṇa has appeared in Vṛndāvana —

yāṁhā tāṁhā loka saba kahite lāgila
here there the people all to say began

91 Everywhere people began to say, "Kṛṣṇa has appeared again in Vṛndāvana!"

One day many people come to the Lord from Vṛndāvana —

একদিন অক্রূরেতে লোক প্রাতঃকালে । বৃন্দাবন হৈতে আইসে করি কোলাহলে ॥ ৯২ ॥

ekadina akrūrete loka prātaḥ-kāle

from Vṛndāvana come making an uproar

92 One day, early in the morning, people came from Vṛndāvana to Akrūra, making a great uproar.

The Lord asks them why they have come —

প্রভু দেখি' করিল লোক চরণ বন্দন । প্রভু কহে, — কাঁহা হৈতে করিলা আগমন ? ॥ ৯৩ ॥

prabhu dekhi' karila loka caraṇa vandana
the Lord seeing did the people to the feet obeisance prabhu kahe, — kāṁhā haite karilā āgamana?
the Lord says — from where have you made your coming

93 Seeing the Lord, the people bowed to His feet. The Lord asked, "Where have you come from?"

*The rumor of Kṛṣṇa's appearance; the delusion (vivarta) of foolish people —*

লোকে কহে, — কৃষ্ণ প্রকট কালীয়দহের জলে !
কালীয়-শিরে নৃত্য করে, ফণি-রত্ন জ্বলে ॥ ৯৪ ॥

loke kahe, — kṛṣṇa prakaṭa kālīya-dahera jale!
the people say — Kṛṣṇa manifest of the Kālīya lake in the water
kālīya-śire nṛtya kare, phaṇi-ratna jvale
on Kālīya's heads dance He performs the serpent's jewels blaze

94 The people said, "Kṛṣṇa has appeared in the waters of Kālīya's lake! He dances on Kālīya's heads, and the jewels on the serpent's hoods are blazing.

To see the Lord is to see Kṛṣṇa; even so, the Lord laughs playfully —

সাক্ষাৎ দেখিল লোক, নাহিক সংশয় । শুনি' হাসি' কহে প্রভু, — সব 'সত্য' হয় ॥ ৯৫ ॥

sākṣāt dekhila loka, nāhika saṁśaya directly saw the people there is no doubt śuni' hāsi' kahe prabhu, — saba 'satya' haya hearing laughing says the Lord — all true is 95 People have seen Him with their own eyes; there is no doubt about it." Hearing this, the Lord laughed and said, "It is all true."

For three days everyone tells of having seen Kṛṣṇa —

এইমত তিন-রাত্রি লোকের গমন । সবে আসি' কহে, — কৃষ্ণ পাইলুঁ দরশন ॥ ৯৬ ॥

ei-mata tina-rātri lokera gamana in this way for three nights the people's going sabe āsi' kahe, — kṛṣṇa pāiluṁ daraśana
all coming say — of Kṛṣṇa we have had darśana

96 In this way people went there for three nights, and they all came back saying, "We have had darśana of Kṛṣṇa."

Sarasvatī establishes the truth of those words —

প্রভু-আগে কহে লোক, — শ্রীকৃষ্ণ দেখিল ।
'সরস্বতী' এই বাক্যে 'সত্য' কহাইল ॥ ৯৭ ॥

prabhu-āge kahe loka, — śrī-kṛṣṇa dekhila before the Lord say the people — Śrī Kṛṣṇa we saw
'sarasvatī' ei vākye 'satya' kahāila
Sarasvatī in these words the truth made them speak

97 Before the Lord the people said, "We have seen Śrī Kṛṣṇa!" Through these words Sarasvatī made them speak the truth.

Though the people, by seeing the Lord, did "truly" see Kṛṣṇa, in fact their account and the one they meant rest on delusion —

মহাপ্রভু দেখি' 'সত্য' কৃষ্ণ-দরশন ।
নিজাজ্ঞানে সত্য ছাড়ি' 'অসত্যে সত্য-ভ্রম' ॥ ৯৮ ॥

mahāprabhu dekhi' 'satya' kṛṣṇa-daraśana Mahāprabhu seeing true darśana of Kṛṣṇa nijājñāne satya chāḍi' 'asatye satya-bhrama'
through their own ignorance the truth abandoning in the untrue the illusion of truth

98 In seeing Mahāprabhu they truly had darśana of Kṛṣṇa; but through their own ignorance they set the truth aside and mistook the untrue for the true.

The delusion of the simple-minded Bhaṭṭācārya —

ভট্টাচার্য্য তবে কহে প্রভুর চরণে ।
'আজ্ঞা দেহ', যাই' করি কৃষ্ণ দরশনে !' ॥ ৯৯ ॥

101 Why would Kṛṣṇa give darśana in the age of Kali? Foolish people are making an uproar out of their own delusion.

103 In the morning some respectable people came to the Lord, and the Lord asked them, "Have you come from seeing Kṛṣṇa?"

Those people describe what actually happened —

106 They take the boat for Kālīya and the lamp for his jewels, and these foolish people regard the fisherman as Kṛṣṇa!"

On the other hand, both the rumour and the people's seeing of Kṛṣṇa are true

107 That Kṛṣṇa had come to Vṛndāvana was also true, and that the people had seen Kṛṣṇa was not false.

108 But some saw Kṛṣṇa, while others were deceived, as one mistakes a bare tree trunk for a man.[8]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Sthāṇu is a tree without leaves. Seeing a leafless tree from a distance, one mistakenly thinks, "Some man is coming." In the same way the people of Vraja fell into error: they took the fisherman's boat for Kāliya, the lamp on it for a jewel, and the fisherman catching fish for Kṛṣṇa.

*The Lord asks where they saw Kṛṣṇa; the people, having gained merit (sukṛti) from seeing the Lord, regard Him as Nārāyaṇa —*

113 The jīva and the Lord are never equal, just as a tiny spark is never equal to a great blazing fire.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Māyāvādī sannyāsīs call themselves “Brahman” and keep saying “Nārāyaṇa, Nārāyaṇa.” By smārta custom, everyone — householder brāhmaṇas and others — bows to such a sannyāsī on seeing him, taking him for Nārāyaṇa. To put an end to this mistaken custom, Mahāprabhu said that a sannyāsī is nothing more than a jīva. He can never be like the sun of Kṛṣṇa, full in all six opulences. He is only a particle of consciousness (cit-kaṇa); the jīva is therefore like a particle of a ray of the Kṛṣṇa-sun, and one should never bow to him as “Nārāyaṇa.”

Anubhāṣya.

Jaṅgama-nārāyaṇa: Nārāyaṇa endowed with the power to move[19]. “As soon as a man accepts the daṇḍa, he becomes Nārāyaṇa,” say the kevalādvaita-vādī Māyāvādīs, and they greet daṇḍīs with the words “oṁ namo nārāyaṇāya.” But the jīva, whether liberated or conditioned, is in every state eternally subordinate to Nārāyaṇa, the Supreme Lord, the master of māyā. He therefore can never be called by the word “Nārāyaṇa.” Whoever says or thinks that the jīva is “equal” to Viṣṇu or “one” with Him is a Māyāvādī and an offender.

See Ādi 2.96.

*Kṛṣṇa is the Lord (Īśvara), the jīva is subordinate to Him — (words of the Sarvajña-sūkta cited in the Bhagavat-sandarbha, or words of Śrī Viṣṇusvāmī quoted by Śrīdhara Svāmī in his commentary on Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.7.5–6)*

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The Lord (Īśvara) is always full of eternal being, consciousness and bliss, and is embraced by His hlādinī and saṁvit potencies. The jīva, however, is always covered by his own (superimposed) ignorance (avidyā), and is therefore a mine of manifold suffering.

Anubhāṣya.

īśvaraḥ (Śrī Kṛṣṇa) sac-cid-ānandaḥ (the possessor of the sandhinī, saṁvit and hlādinī potencies) hlādinyā (by the hlādinī potency — that by which Bhagavān enjoys the special bliss of His own nature, and by which He gives others a taste of that bliss) saṁvidā (by the potency of consciousness, which is the very nature of nondual knowledge) āśliṣṭaḥ (embraced); jīvaḥ tu svāvidyā-saṁvṛtaḥ (completely covered by ignorance — by māyā, the potency of Bhagavān Himself that bewilders the conditioned jīvas) saṁkleśa-nikarākaraḥ (a mine of manifold suffering; suffering is of three kinds, according to the rule "Suffering is threefold: sin, its seed, and ignorance"[20], and the jīva is the quarry, the mine, of their whole mass).

*To regard the jīva and Nārāyaṇa as equal is itself godlessness (pāṣaṇḍatā) —*

115 The fool who says that the jīva is 'equal' to the Lord is godless (pāṣaṇḍī), and Yama punishes him.

Anubhāṣya.

Pāṣaṇḍī: see Ādi 3.78. A pāṣaṇḍī is one who considers Śrī Viṣṇu — the master of māyā, whose form is pure sattva and consciousness — to be "one" with the jīva, who is subject to māyā, or with some material object made of māyā, or who considers them equal. The Bhakti-sandarbha uses the word pāṣaṇḍa in many places. In section 255, where the offenses against the holy name are described, it says, in describing one of them — blasphemy of the śruti and śāstra: "…as, for example, among the pāṣaṇḍīs, the worshippers of Dattātreya and Ṛṣabhadeva, who follow the path of pāṣaṇḍa." Again, in describing another offense — the idea of "I" and "mine," that is, identifying oneself with the body: "By the word pāṣaṇḍa arising from the body, wealth and so on, the ten offenses themselves are meant, for they are made of godlessness." Again, in section 223:

“One who offers oblations and gives gifts for the sake of the gods, or who acts on his own authority in his deeds, should be known as a pāṣaṇḍī”; that is, to be a pāṣaṇḍī means simply to fall from the Vaiṣṇava path. Again, in section 179, following the Viṣṇu-dharma, it relates how Uparicara Vasu, a devotee of Viṣṇu, delivered the pāṣaṇḍī demons. It describes how, at the order of Śukra, the guru of the Daityas, the pāṣaṇḍīs tried to instruct Uparicara Vasu in the path of pāṣaṇḍa, and how he nevertheless remained unshaken. And again, in section 153, describing arthavāda about the holy name of Hari and offenses against Vaiṣṇavas: “And we hear that such an offense paralyzes devotion… The pāṣaṇḍas who, out of greed for the body and so on, are guilty of the ten offenses, beginning with disregard for the guru…” The godlessness of the pāṣaṇḍī is described in many verses: Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 4.2.28, 30, 32; 5.6.9; 12.2.13, 43, and others.

*Evidence from the śāstra — (words of the Vaiṣṇava-tantra)*

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
One who sees Śrī Nārāyaṇa as “equal” to Brahmā, Rudra and the other gods is certainly a pāṣaṇḍī.

Anubhāṣya.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The characteristic by which a thing is known of itself (svataḥ-siddha-lakṣaṇa), without comparison with other things, is its svarūpa-lakṣaṇa (essential characteristic). The characteristic by which a thing becomes known through comparison with other things is called taṭastha (marginal). All the glories described above, as marginal characteristics, have established that You are "Vrajendra-nandana." But the realization that arises the moment one sees You — "This is Vrajendra-nandana" — is Your svarūpa-lakṣaṇa; it is by this essential characteristic that You are recognized as "Kṛṣṇa."

of Mathurā all people brāhmaṇas the respectable bhaṭṭācārya-sthāne āsi' kare nimantraṇa
at Bhaṭṭācārya's place coming make invitation

130 All the people of Mathurā — brāhmaṇas and respectable folk — came to the Bhaṭṭācārya to invite the Lord.

Though many invited Him at once, the Bhaṭṭa accepted the invitation of only one —

একদিন 'দশ' 'বিশ' আইসে নিমন্ত্রণ । ভট্টাচার্য্য একের মাত্র করেন গ্রহণ ॥ ১৩১ ॥

eka-dina 'daśa' 'biśa' āise nimantraṇa
in one day ten twenty come invitations
bhaṭṭācārya ekera mātra karena grahaṇa
Bhaṭṭācārya of one only makes acceptance

131 In a single day ten or twenty invitations would come, but the Bhaṭṭācārya would accept only one.

Everyone was eager to feed the Lord at the same time, and so people found no chance to serve Him —

অবসর না পায় লোক নিমন্ত্রণ দিতে । সেই বিপ্রে সাধে লোক নিমন্ত্রণ নিতে ॥ ১৩২ ॥

avasara nā pāya loka nimantraṇa dite chance not get people invitation to give sei vipre sādhe loka nimantraṇa nite that brāhmaṇa entreat people invitation to accept

132 People could not find a chance to give their invitations, so they pleaded with that brāhmaṇa to have them accepted.

Vedic brāhmaṇas worthy of the name humbly invite the Lord —

কান্যকুব্জ-দাক্ষিণাত্যের বৈদিক ব্রাহ্মণ । দৈন্য করি, করে মহাপ্রভুর নিমন্ত্রণ ॥ ১৩৩ ॥

kānyakubja-dākṣiṇātyera vaidika brāhmaṇa of Kānyakubja and the south Vedic brāhmaṇas
dainya kari, kare mahāprabhura nimantraṇa humility showing make Mahāprabhu's invitation

133 Vedic brāhmaṇas of Kānyakubja and of the south humbly invited Mahāprabhu.

Anubhāṣya.
Kānyakubja, Sārasvata, Gauḍa, Maithila and Utkala are the five Gauḍa brāhmaṇas (pañca-gauḍa); Āndhra, Karṇāṭa, Gurjara, Drāviḍa and Mahārāṣṭra are the five southern brāhmaṇas (pañca-dākṣiṇātya). These ten kinds of pure Vedic brāhmaṇas kept to Vedic conduct, that is, they had not given up their Vedic rites for the corrupt practices of the tāntrikas; and all of them humbly invited Mahāprabhu.

Coming to Akrūra, they cooked themselves and offered the Lord His meal —

প্রাতঃকালে অক্রূরে আসি' রন্ধন করিয়া । প্রভুরে ভিক্ষা দেন শালগ্রামে সমর্পিয়া ॥ ১৩৪ ॥

prātaḥ-kāle akrūre āsi' randhana kariyā
in the morning to Akrūra coming cooking doing prabhure bhikṣā dena śālagrāme samarpiyā to the Lord a meal give to the śālagrāma offering

134 They would come to Akrūra in the morning and cook, and after offering the food to the śālagrāma they would give it to the Lord as His meal.

*Sitting at Akrūra-ghāṭa, the Lord reflects on how the dhāma was seen, each according to his own capacity, by Akrūra, a worshipper of the Lord's majesty (aiśvarya), and by the people of Vraja, servants of His sweetness (mādhurya) —*

একদিন সেই অক্রূর-ঘাটের উপরে । বসি' মহাপ্রভু কিছু করেন বিচারে ॥ ১৩৫ ॥

eka-dina sei akrūra-ghāṭera upare
one day that of Akrūra-ghāṭa on top vasi' mahāprabhu kichu karena vicāre
sitting Mahāprabhu something does reflection

135 One day Mahāprabhu sat at that Akrūra-ghāṭa and reflected:

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Akrūra-ghāṭa: this ghāṭa lies halfway between Vṛndāvana and Mathurā. Here Akrūra stopped his chariot and, taking Rāma and Kṛṣṇa with him, bathed in the Yamunā. While bathing, Akrūra saw "Vaikuṇṭha" in the water, and the people of Vraja saw Goloka in the water of this ghāṭa.

এই ঘাটে অক্রূর বৈকুণ্ঠ দেখিল । ব্রজবাসী লোক 'গোলোক' দর্শন কৈল ॥ ১৩৬ ॥

ei ghāṭe akrūra vaikuṇṭha dekhila at this ghāṭa Akrūra Vaikuṇṭha saw vrajavāsī loka 'goloka' darśana kaila of Vraja the people of Goloka a vision had

136 "At this ghāṭa Akrūra saw Vaikuṇṭha, and the people of Vraja had a vision of Goloka."

The Lord leaps into the water and sinks beneath it —

এত বলি' ঝাঁপ দিলা জলের উপরে । ডুবিয়া রহিলা প্রভু জলের ভিতরে ॥ ১৩৭ ॥

eta bali' jhāṁpa dilā jalera upare thus saying a leap gave the water onto ḍubiyā rahilā prabhu jalera bhitare sinking remained the Lord the water within 137 With these words He leapt into the water and stayed submerged beneath it.

Kṛṣṇadāsa weeps and cries out; the Bhaṭṭa at once rushes up and pulls the Lord out —

দেখি' কৃষ্ণদাস কান্দি' ফুকার করিল । ভট্টাচার্য্য শীঘ্র আসি' প্রভুরে উঠাইল ॥ ১৩৮ ॥

dekhi' kṛṣṇadāsa kāndi' phukāra karila seeing Kṛṣṇadāsa weeping a cry made bhaṭṭācārya śīghra āsi' prabhure uṭhāila
Bhaṭṭācārya quickly coming the Lord lifted out

138 Seeing this, Kṛṣṇadāsa wept and cried out, and the Bhaṭṭācārya quickly came and pulled the Lord out.

The Bhaṭṭa confers with the brāhmaṇa —

তবে ভট্টাচার্য্য সেই ব্রাহ্মণে লঞা । যুক্তি করিলা কিছু নিভৃতে বসিয়া ॥ ১৩৯ ॥

tabe bhaṭṭācārya sei brāhmaṇe lañā then Bhaṭṭācārya that brāhmaṇa taking yukti karilā kichu nibhṛte vasiyā counsel made some in seclusion sitting

139 Then the Bhaṭṭācārya took that brāhmaṇa aside, and sitting in a secluded place they made a plan.

আজি আমি আছিলাঙ, উঠাইলুঁ প্রভুরে । বৃন্দাবনে ডুবেন যদি, কে উঠাবে তাঁরে ? ॥ ১৪০ ॥

āji āmi āchilāṅa, uṭhāiluṁ prabhure
today I was (here) I lifted out the Lord
vṛndāvane ḍubena yadi, ke uṭhābe tāṁre?
in Vṛndāvana He sinks if who will lift out Him

140 "Today I was here, and I pulled the Lord out. But if He dives in at Vṛndāvana, who will pull Him out?

Fearing the crowds, the pressing invitations to meals, and the Lord's constant absorption in love, the Bhaṭṭa wishes to take the Lord away from Vṛndāvana —

লোকের সংঘট্ট, আর নিমন্ত্রণের জঞ্জাল । নিরন্তর আবেশ প্রভুর না দেখিয়ে ভাল ॥ ১৪১ ॥ lokera saṅghaṭṭa, āra nimantraṇera jañjāla of people the crowding and of invitations the bother

nirantara āveśa prabhura nā dekhiye bhāla constant absorption of the Lord not I see good

141 The crowds of people, the bother of invitations, the Lord's constant absorption — none of this seems good to me.

বৃন্দাবন হৈতে যদি প্রভুরে কাড়িয়ে । তবে মঙ্গল হয়, — এই ভাল যুক্তি হয়ে ॥ ১৪২ ॥

vṛndāvana haite yadi prabhure kāḍiye
from Vṛndāvana if the Lord we take away
tabe maṅgala haya, — ei bhāla yukti haye then good will be this good plan is 142 If we take the Lord away from Vṛndāvana, all will be well. This is a good plan."

Anubhāṣya.
Kāḍiye: we take Him away.

The brāhmaṇa advises taking the Lord to Prayāga by the road along the Gaṅgā, on the occasion of the bath in the month of Māgha —

বিপ্র কহে, — প্রয়াগে প্রভু লঞা যাই । গঙ্গাতীর-পথে যাই, তবে সুখ পাই ॥ ১৪৩ ॥

vipra kahe, — prayāge prabhu lañā yāi
the brāhmaṇa says to Prayāga the Lord taking let us go gaṅgā-tīra-pathe yāi, tabe sukha pāi along the Gaṅgā's bank by the road let us go then happiness we get 143 The brāhmaṇa said, "Let us take the Lord to Prayāga. If we go by the road along the bank of the Gaṅgā, the journey will be pleasant.

'সোরোক্ষেত্রে' আগে যাঞা করি' গঙ্গাস্নান । সেই পথে প্রভু লঞা করিয়ে পয়ান ॥ ১৪৪ ॥

'soro-kṣetre' āge yāñā kari' gaṅgā-snāna
to Soro-kṣetra first going doing bath in the Gaṅgā sei pathe prabhu lañā kariye payāna
by that road the Lord taking let us make the journey

144 Let us first go to Soro-kṣetra and bathe in the Gaṅgā, and then travel on that road with the Lord.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Soro-kṣetre: “Soro-kṣetra” is on the bank of the Gaṅgā nearest to Mathurā.

মাঘ-মাস লাগিল, এবে যদি যাইয়ে । মকরে প্রয়াগ-স্নান কত দিন পাইয়ে ॥ ১৪৫ ॥

māgha-māsa lāgila, ebe yadi yāiye
the month of Māgha has begun now if we go makare prayāga-snāna kata dina pāiye
in Makara bath at Prayāga some days we get 145 The month of Māgha has begun. If we go now, we shall have some days of bathing at Prayāga during Makara.

Anubhāṣya.

For those devoted to karma, bathing at Prayāga in the month of Māgha gives special fruit. Such injunctions are found: “In the month of Māgha they will go to the confluence of the Gaṅgā and the Yamunā. The fruit of duly giving a hundred thousand cows is the fruit of one who has bathed for three days at Prayāga in the month of Māgha,” and “…since [scripture] declares that all are entitled to the Māgha bath.”

The Bhaṭṭa will tell of his distress and give advice suited to the season —

আপনার দুঃখ কিছু করি’ নিবেদন । ‘মকর-পঁচসি’ প্রয়াগে, করিহ সূচন ॥ ১৪৬ ॥

āpanāra duḥkha kichu kari’ nivedana
your own distress some making submission ‘makara-paṁcasi’ prayāge, kariha sūcana
the full moon of Makara at Prayāga do mention

146 Tell Him something of your own distress, and mention the full moon of Makara (makara-pañcasi) at Prayāga.

Anubhāṣya.

Pāṅcasi: a corruption of the word pañcadaśī (the fifteenth lunar day, the full moon).

The Bhaṭṭa tells the Lord how importunate the people are with their invitations

গঙ্গাতীর-পথে সুখ জানাইহ তাঁরে । ভট্টাচার্য্য আসি' তবে কহিল প্রভুরে ॥ ১৪৭ ॥

gaṅgā-tīra-pathe sukha jānāiha tāṁre along the Gaṅgā's bank by the road the pleasure make known to Him
bhaṭṭācārya āsi' tabe kahila prabhure
Bhaṭṭācārya coming then spoke to the Lord

147 Tell Him too how pleasant the road along the Gaṅgā is." Then the Bhaṭṭācārya came and spoke to the Lord:

"সহিতে না পারি আমি লোকের গড়বড়ি । নিমন্ত্রণ লাগি' লোক করে হুড়াহুড়ি ॥ ১৪৮ ॥

sahite nā pāri āmi lokera gaḍabaḍi to bear not can I of the people the commotion nimantraṇa lāgi' loka kare huḍāhuḍi invitation for the sake of people make a scramble

148 "I cannot bear the commotion of these people. They jostle one another to invite You.

Anubhāṣya.
Gaḍabaḍi: the commotion of people coming and going.

প্রাতঃকালে আইসে লোক, তোমারে না পায় । তোমারে না পাঞা লোক মোর মাথা খায় ॥ ১৪৯ ॥

prātaḥ-kāle āise loka, tomāre nā pāya in the morning come people You not find tomāre nā pāñā loka mora māthā khāya
You not finding people my head eat

149 People come in the morning and do not find You; and when they do not find You, they pester me to death.

A request to go to Prayāga for the Māgha bath —

তবে সুখ হয়, যবে গঙ্গাপথে যাইয়ে । এবে যদি যাই, ‘মকরে’ গঙ্গাস্নান পাইয়ে ॥ ১৫০ ॥

tabe sukha haya, yabe gaṅgā-pathe yāiye
then happiness is when by the road along the Gaṅgā we go ebe yadi yāi, ‘makare’ gaṅgā-snāna pāiye now if we go in Makara bath in the Gaṅgā we get 150 I would be happy if we went by the road along the Gaṅgā. If we go now, we shall be able to bathe in the Gaṅgā during Makara.

The Bhaṭṭa's impatience —

উদ্বিগ্ন হইল প্রাণ, সহিতে না পারি । প্রভুর যে আজ্ঞা হয়, সেই শিরে ধরি” ॥ ১৫১ ॥

udvigna haila prāṇa, sahite nā pāri troubled has become heart to bear not I can prabhura ye ājñā haya, sei śire dhari of the Lord whatever order is that on the head I hold 151 My heart is troubled; I cannot bear it. I shall bow my head to whatever the Lord commands.”

Though the Lord did not wish to leave Vṛndāvana, He fulfils the Bhaṭṭa's wish and praises him —

যদ্যপি বৃন্দাবন-ত্যাগে নাহি প্রভুর মন । ভক্ত-ইচ্ছা পূরিতে কহে মধুর বচন ॥ ১৫২ ॥

yadyapi vṛndāvana-tyāge nāhi prabhura mana although Vṛndāvana-leaving is not the Lord’s mind
bhakta-icchā pūrite kahe madhura vacana
the devotee’s wish to fulfill speaks sweet words

152 Although the Lord had no wish to leave Vṛndāvana, to fulfil His devotee’s wish He spoke sweet words:

“তুমি আমায় আনি’ দেখাইলা বৃন্দাবন । এই ‘ঋণ’ আমি নারিব করিতে শোধন ॥ ১৫৩ ॥

tumi āmāya āni’ dekhāilā vṛndāvana
you Me bringing showed Vṛndāvana ei ‘ṛṇa’ āmi nāriba karite śodhana
this debt I shall be unable to make repayment

153 “You brought Me here and showed Me Vṛndāvana. I shall never be able to repay this debt.

যে তোমার ইচ্ছা, আমি সেই ত’ করিব । যাঁহা লঞা যাহ তুমি, তাঁহাই যাইব” ॥ ১৫৪ ॥

ye tomāra icchā, āmi sei ta’ kariba
what your wish I that indeed will do yāṁhā lañā yāha tumi, tāṁhāi yāiba
where taking go you there I will go

154 Whatever you wish, that I will do. Wherever you take Me, there I will go.”

In the morning, after His bath, the Lord is overwhelmed with love at the thought of the coming separation —

প্রাতঃকালে মহাপ্রভু প্রাতঃস্নান কৈল । ‘বৃন্দাবন ছাড়িব’ জানি’ প্রেমাবেশ হৈল ॥ ১৫৫ ॥

prātaḥ-kāle mahāprabhu prātaḥ-snāna kaila in the morning Mahāprabhu the morning bath took ‘vṛndāvana chāḍiba’ jāni’ premāveśa haila “Vṛndāvana I shall leave” knowing absorption in love came

155 In the morning Mahāprabhu bathed, and at the thought “I am leaving Vṛndāvana” He was overwhelmed with love.

The Bhaṭṭa asks the Lord to go to Gokula and, seating Him in a boat, crosses to the other bank —

বাহ্য বিকার নাহি, প্রেমাবিষ্ট মন । ভট্টাচার্য্য কহে, — চল, যাই মহাবন ॥ ১৫৬ ॥

bāhya vikāra nāhi, premāviṣṭa mana

bhaṭṭācārya kahe, — cala, yāi mahāvana

157 Saying this, the Bhaṭṭācārya seated Mahāprabhu in a boat, took Him across the river and set off with Him.

Kṛṣṇadāsa the Rājput and the Sānoḍiyā brāhmaṇa of Mathurā both know the road —

প্রেমী কৃষ্ণদাস, আর সেই ত’ ব্রাহ্মণ । গঙ্গাতীর-পথে যাইবার বিজ্ঞ দুইজন ॥ ১৫৮ ॥

premī kṛṣṇadāsa, āra sei ta’ brāhmaṇa loving Kṛṣṇadāsa and that very brāhmaṇa gaṅgā-tīra-pathe yāibāra vijña dui-jana along the Gaṅgā’s bank by the road for going knowing the two 158 Kṛṣṇadāsa, full of love, and that brāhmaṇa — these two knew the road along the Gaṅgā well.

On the way, everyone sits down under a tree to rest —

যাইতে এক বৃক্ষতলে প্রভু সবা লঞা । বসিলা, সবার পথ-শ্রান্তি দেখিয়া ॥ ১৫৯ ॥

yāite eka vṛkṣa-tale prabhu sabā lañā

159 On the way the Lord saw that everyone was tired from walking, and He sat down with them all beneath a tree.

Seeing the cows grazing, the Lord remembers His pastimes in Vraja —

সেই বৃক্ষ-নিকটে চরে বহু গাভীগণ । তাহা দেখি' মহাপ্রভুর উল্লসিত মন ॥ ১৬০ ॥

tāhā dekhi' mahāprabhura ullasita mana that seeing Mahāprabhu's joyful mind

160 Many cows were grazing near that tree, and the sight of them filled Mahāprabhu's heart with joy.

As soon as He hears the sound of a flute, the Lord faints in love —

আচম্বিতে এক গোপ বংশী বাজাইল । শুনি' মহাপ্রভুর মহা-প্রেমাবেশ হৈল ॥ ১৬১ ॥

ācambite eka gopa vaṁśī bājāila suddenly a cowherd flute played śuni' mahāprabhura mahā-premāveśa haila hearing Mahāprabhu's great absorption in love came 161 Suddenly a cowherd played on his flute, and hearing it, Mahāprabhu was overwhelmed with great love.

অচেতন হঞা প্রভু ভূমিতে পড়িলা ।

ম্লেচ্ছ-পাঠান ঘোড়া হৈতে উত্তরিলা ॥ ১৬৩ ॥

Anubhāṣya.

176 Hearing this, the Paṭhāns began to hesitate. Just then Mahāprabhu regained consciousness.

*The Lord returns to external consciousness, dances and sings kīrtana —*

178 When the Lord, absorbed in love, cried out, it pierced the mlecchas’ hearts like the point of a spear.

Anubhāṣya.
Lāge śeladhāra: it pierced like the point of a dart.

*The mleccha at once releases all four, so the Lord had no occasion to see hostility toward His devotees —*

The Lord declares all four to be His own people —

*Seeing the Lord, his heart softens, and he tries to establish the featureless (nirviśeṣa) Brahman —*

the impersonal Brahman establishes his own scripture citing 186 His heart melted when he saw the Lord, and, citing his own scripture, he set out to establish the impersonal (nirviśeṣa) Brahman.

Anubhāṣya.
Nirviśeṣa-brahma: an unknowable “Lord” (Īśvara), devoid of any description. It is a transcendent state in which there are not the two eternal relationships — “Khodā” (God) and “bandā” (servant) — and there are no spiritual pastimes.

The Lord refutes his view with the arguments of the Muslim scriptures themselves —

‘অদ্বৈত-ব্রহ্মবাদ’ সেই করিল স্থাপন ।
তাঁর শাস্ত্রযুক্ত্যে তাঁরে প্রভু কৈলা খণ্ডন ॥ ১৮৭ ॥

‘advaita-brahma-vāda’ sei karila sthāpana
the doctrine of nondual Brahman he made establishment tāṁra śāstra-yuktye tāṁre prabhu kailā khaṇḍana
his by scriptural reasoning him the Lord made refutation

187 He set forth the doctrine of the non-dual Brahman, and the Lord refuted him with the reasoning of his own scripture.

যেই যেই কহিল, প্রভু সকলি খণ্ডিল ।

188 Whatever he said, the Lord refuted it all. No answer came to his lips, and he was struck utterly dumb.

*The Muslim scriptures first establish featurelessness, and at the end establish Brahman with attributes (saviśeṣa) —*

প্রভু কহে, — তোমার শাস্ত্র স্থাপে 'নির্ব্বিশেষে' । তাহা খণ্ডি' 'সবিশেষ' স্থাপিয়াছে শেষে ॥ ১৮৯ ॥

tāhā khaṇḍi' 'saviśeṣa' sthāpiyāche śeṣe

189 The Lord said, "Your scripture establishes the impersonal, but in the end it refutes that and establishes the personal (saviśeṣa).

At the very end of the Koran there is an indication of Kṛṣṇa, Brahman with attributes —

তোমার শাস্ত্রে কহে শেষে 'একই ঈশ্বর' ।
'সর্ব্বৈশ্বর্য্যপূর্ণ' তেঁহো — শ্যাম-কলেবর ॥ ১৯০ ॥

tomāra śāstre kahe śeṣe 'eka-i īśvara'
your in the scripture says in the end one only God
'sarvaiśvarya-pūrṇa' teṁho — śyāma-kalevara
full of all majesty He dark form

190 At the end your scripture speaks of 'one God alone', 'full of all majesty', whose form is dark.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Sva-śāstra: the Koran. Among the Muslims there is a community called the "Sufis." Their view is the "featureless (nirviśeṣa) Brahman," or advaita-brahma-vāda; their great saying (mahā-vākya) is anal-ḥaqq[14]. There is no doubt that this Sufi doctrine arose from the doctrine of Śaṅkara. In your Muhammadan scripture, where it describes how Muhammad saw God in the seventh heaven, the complete form (pūrṇa-vigraha) of God is acknowledged.

সচ্চিদানন্দ-দেহ, পূর্ণব্রহ্ম-স্বরূপ ।

191 His body is eternity, knowledge and bliss; He is the complete Brahman in person. He is 'the Soul of all' and 'the Knower of all', the eternal origin of all.

*Love, or devotion, for that Bhagavān frees one from the bonds of saṁsāra and is the highest goal of human life —*

'সর্ব্ব-শ্রেষ্ঠ, সর্ব্বারাধ্য, কারণের কারণ' । তাঁর ভক্ত্যে হয় জীবের সংসার-তারণ ॥ ১৯৩ ॥

the highest of all worshipable by all of causes the cause tāṁra bhaktye haya jīvera saṁsāra-tāraṇa to Him by devotion is of the jīva from saṁsāra deliverance

193 He is 'the highest of all, to be worshipped by all, the cause of all causes'. By devotion to Him the jīva is delivered from saṁsāra.

তাঁর সেবা বিনা জীবের না যায় ‘সংসার’ । তাঁহার চরণে প্রীতি — ‘পুরুষার্থ-সার’ ॥ ১৯৪ ॥

tāṁra sevā vinā jīvera nā yāya ‘saṁsāra’
His service without of the jīva not goes saṁsāra
tāṁhāra caraṇe prīti — ‘puruṣārtha-sāra’
His for the feet love the essence of human goals

194 Without serving Him, the jīva is never free of saṁsāra. Love for His feet is ‘the essence of all human goals’.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Unless one serves that Lord with ibādat — that is, with prayer (namāz) five times a day and so on — the jīva does not attain the goal of life. Your scripture calls love (prīti) itself the goal of life. Therefore, after first establishing karma, yoga, jñāna and the rest, at the very end it refutes them and establishes the supremacy of the Lord's ibādat, that is, of service to Him.

The glory of love for Bhagavān —

মোক্ষাদি আনন্দ যার নহে এক ‘কণ’ । পূর্ণানন্দ-প্রাপ্তি তাঁর চরণ-সেবন ॥ ১৯৫ ॥

mokṣādi ānanda yāra nahe eka ‘kaṇa’ liberation and so on joy of which is not one particle pūrṇānanda-prāpti tāṁra caraṇa-sevana
of full bliss attainment His of the feet service

195 The joy of liberation and the like is not a particle of that bliss: to serve His feet is to attain complete bliss.

*The Koran first speaks of karma, jñāna and yoga, and at the end establishes devotion to Bhagavān —*

‘কর্ম্ম’, ‘জ্ঞান’ ‘যোগ’ আগে করিয়া স্থাপন ।
সব খণ্ডি’ স্থাপে ‘ঈশ্বর’, ‘তাঁহার সেবন’ ॥ ১৯৬ ॥

'karma', 'jñāna' 'yoga' āge kariyā sthāpana karma jñāna yoga first making establishment saba khaṇḍi' sthāpe 'īśvara', 'tāṁhāra sevana'
all refuting establishes God His service

196 First it establishes karma, jñāna and yoga, but then it refutes them all and establishes 'God' and 'service to Him'.

*Muslim scholars generally do not know the true meaning of the Koran; the later injunction, about devotion, is stronger than the earlier injunctions about karma and jñāna —*

তোমার পণ্ডিত-সবার নাহি শাস্ত্র-জ্ঞান । পূর্ব্বাপর-বিধি-মধ্যে 'পর' — বলবান্ ॥ ১৯৭ ॥

tomāra paṇḍita-sabāra nāhi śāstra-jñāna
your scholars all have not of scripture knowledge pūrvāpara-vidhi-madhye 'para' — balavān
among earlier and later injunctions the later is stronger

197 Your scholars do not know the scripture. Among earlier and later injunctions, the later one prevails.

*The Lord asks the maulānā to determine the true meaning of his scripture —*

নিজ-শাস্ত্র দেখি' তুমি বিচার করিয়া । কি লিখিয়াছে শেষে কহ নির্ণয় করিয়া ॥ ১৯৮ ॥

nija-śāstra dekhi' tumi vicāra kariyā own scripture looking you consideration making ki likhiyāche śeṣe kaha nirṇaya kariyā
what has written at the end tell decision making

198 Look into your own scripture, consider it carefully, and tell Me plainly what it has written at the end."

*The maulānā accepts the Lord's words as "true" and agrees with them,*

admitting the weakness of heart of the Muslim scholars —

ম্লেচ্ছ কহে, — যেই কহ, সেই 'সত্য' হয়। শাস্ত্রে লিখিয়াছে, কেহ লইতে না পারয় ॥ ১৯৯ ॥

mleccha kahe, — yei kaha, sei 'satya' haya
the mleccha says what You say that true is śāstre likhiyāche, keha laite nā pāraya in the scripture is written anyone to accept not is able 199 The mleccha said, "What You say is true. It is written in the scripture, but no one can accept it.

They hold firmly to featurelessness and have no faith in serving the spiritual form with attributes —

'নির্ব্বিশেষ-গোসাঞি' লঞা করেন ব্যাখ্যান।
'সাকার-গোসাঞি' — সেব্য, কারো নাহি জ্ঞান ॥ ২০০ ॥

'nirviśeṣa-gosāñi' lañā karena vyākhyāna
the impersonal Lord taking they make explanation
'sākāra-gosāñi' — sevya, kāro nāhi jñāna
the Lord with form to be served of anyone is not knowledge 200 They interpret everything in terms of the impersonal Lord. That the Lord with form is the one to be served — no one knows this.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The Muslim teacher (mleccha-ācārya), who wore black clothes like a pīr, said: "Ordinary scholars cannot understand the hidden meaning of our scripture. That is why people explain Allah only in terms of His 'formless' aspect (nirākāra-bhāva). Few know that His form, full of eternal being, consciousness and bliss, is the ultimate object of service."

Thus ends the eighteenth chapter of the "Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya."

Anubhāṣya.

Gosāñi: the object of worship, Bhagavān. Sākāra: transcending the material knowledge that human beings make use of, and possessed of a nonmaterial (aprākṛta) form with attributes (saviśeṣa-vigraha) beyond the three guṇas, that is, of a spiritual form.

He recognizes the Lord as "the Supreme Lord" and begs for mercy —

সেই ত' 'গোসাঞি' তুমি — সাক্ষাৎ 'ঈশ্বর' । মোরে কৃপা কর, মুঞি — অযোগ্য পামর ॥ ২০১ ॥

sei ta' 'gosāñi' tumi — sākṣāt 'īśvara'
that very Lord You in person God
more kṛpā kara, muñi — ayogya pāmara
to me mercy do I unworthy sinner

201 You are that very Lord — God Himself. Be merciful to me; I am an unworthy sinner.

*The maulānā admits that by himself he cannot make out what the goal (sādhya) and the means (sādhana) are —*

অনেক দেখিনু মুঞি ম্লেচ্ছ-শাস্ত্র হৈতে ।
'সাধ্য-সাধন-বস্তু' নারি নির্দ্ধারিতে ॥ ২০২ ॥

aneka dekhinu muñi mleccha-śāstra haite

'sādhya-sādhana-vastu' nāri nirdhārite

202 I have studied much of the mleccha scriptures, yet I cannot determine what the goal is and what the means.

*At the sight of the Lord the name of Kṛṣṇa appears of itself on the maulānā's tongue, and his material pride disappears —*

তোমা দেখি' জিহ্বা মোর বলে 'কৃষ্ণনাম' ।
'আমি — বড় জ্ঞানী', এই গেল অভিমান ॥ ২০৩ ॥

tomā dekhi' jihvā mora bale 'kṛṣṇa-nāma'
You seeing tongue my says Kṛṣṇa's name
'āmi — baḍa jñānī', ei gela abhimāna

203 At the sight of You my tongue speaks the name of Kṛṣṇa, and my pride — 'I am a great scholar' — is gone.

Relying on evidence, he asks the Lord about the goal and the means —

কৃপা করি' বল মোরে 'সাধ্য-সাধনে' । এত বলি' পড়ে মহাপ্রভুর চরণে ॥ ২০৪ ॥

kṛpā kari' bala more 'sādhya-sādhane'

eta bali' paḍe mahāprabhura caraṇe
thus saying falls Mahāprabhu's at the feet

204 Be merciful and tell me of the goal and the means." Saying this, he fell at Mahāprabhu's feet.

*The Lord reassures him: even the semblance (ābhāsa) of Kṛṣṇa's name has destroyed his heap of sins —*

প্রভু কহে, — উঠ, কৃষ্ণনাম তুমি লইলা । কোটি-জন্মের পাপ গেল, 'পবিত্র' হইলা ॥ ২০৫ ॥

the Lord says rise Kṛṣṇa's name you have taken

205 The Lord said, "Rise. You have taken the name of Kṛṣṇa. The sins of millions of births are gone; you have become pure."

At the Lord's instruction, everyone takes up the name of Kṛṣṇa —

‘কৃষ্ণ’ কহ, ‘কৃষ্ণ’ কহ, — কৈলা উপদেশ ।
সবে ‘কৃষ্ণ’ কহে, সবার হৈল প্রেমাবেশ ॥ ২০৬ ॥

206 He instructed them, “Say ‘Kṛṣṇa’! Say ‘Kṛṣṇa’!” Everyone said “Kṛṣṇa”, and all were overwhelmed with love.

The Lord gives him the initiated name “Rāmadāsa” —

207 The Lord gave him the name Rāmadāsa. Another Paṭhān there was named Bijalī Khān.

Who Bijalī Khān, the leader of the Paṭhān troop, was — 208 He was young, the son of a king, and Rāmadāsa and the other Paṭhāns were his servants.

209 Crying “Kṛṣṇa!”, he fell at Mahāprabhu’s feet, and the Lord placed His holy foot on his head.

*The Lord departs; all those Paṭhāns accept the path of renunciation (vairāgya-dharma) —*

Sei vipre, kṛṣṇadāse: at Soro the Lord sent away the Sānoḍiyā brāhmaṇa, disciple of Mādhavendra Purī, and Kṛṣṇadāsa the Rājput.

Everyone who saw the Lord on the way takes up the name of Kṛṣṇa —

যেই যেই জন প্রভুর পাইল দরশন ৷ সেই প্রেমে মত্ত হয়, করে কৃষ্ণ-সংকীর্ত্তন ॥ ২১৯ ॥

yei yei jana prabhura pāila daraśana
whoever whoever person the Lord's got sight
sei preme matta haya, kare kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtana
he with love mad becomes does Kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtana

219 Whoever saw the Lord became mad with love and began the saṅkīrtana of Kṛṣṇa's names.

Others had the chance to hear from them; in this way, through the chain of hearing and chanting, all lands were delivered —

তাঁর সঙ্গে অন্যোন্যে তাঁর সঙ্গে আন । এইমত 'বৈষ্ণব' কৈলা সব দেশ-গ্রাম ॥ ২২০ ॥

tāṁra saṅge anyonye tāṁra saṅge āna
his in company others in turn their in company others
ei-mata 'vaiṣṇava' kailā saba deśa-grāma
in this way Vaiṣṇavas made all lands villages

220 From them others received it, and from those others still more; in this way He made Vaiṣṇavas of the people of every land and village.

As with the South, the Lord delivers the western lands as well —

'দক্ষিণ' যাইতে যৈছে শক্তি প্রকাশিলা । সেইমত 'পশ্চিম দেশ', প্রেমে ভাসাইলা ॥ ২২১ ॥

'dakṣiṇa' yāite yaiche śakti prakāśilā to the South going as power He displayed sei-mata 'paścima deśa', preme bhāsāilā
likewise the Western land with love He flooded

221 Just as He displayed His power when He went to the South, so too He flooded the West with love.

Anubhāṣya.
The western country: some say that at this time Śrīman Mahāprabhu went from Vṛndāvana to Kurukṣetra, and from there to Prayāga. At Kurukṣetra, near the temple of Bhadrakālī, the Deity of Śrī Gaura (Śrī Gaura-vigraha) is present to this day.

*The Lord comes to Prayāga and for ten days has darśana of Triveṇī and bathes there —*

এইমত চলি' প্রভু 'প্রয়াগ' আইলা । দশ-দিন ত্রিবেণীতে মকর-স্নান কৈলা ॥ ২২২ ॥

ei-mata cali' prabhu 'prayāga' āilā in this way travelling the Lord to Prayāga came daśa-dina triveṇīte makara-snāna kailā ten days at Triveṇī the Makara bath took 222 Travelling in this way, the Lord came to Prayāga, and for ten days He took the Makara bath at Triveṇī.

The Lord's pastimes are fathomless; even Śeṣa Himself cannot describe the love in Vṛndāvana —

বৃন্দাবন-গমন, প্রভু-চরিত্র অনন্ত ।
'সহস্র-বদন' যাঁর নাহি পা'ন অন্ত ॥ ২২৩ ॥

vṛndāvana-gamana, prabhu-caritra ananta Vṛndāvana-going the Lord's deeds endless
'sahasra-vadana' yāṁra nāhi pā'na anta
the thousand-mouthed of which not finds the end

223 The Lord's journey to Vṛndāvana and His deeds are endless; even the thousand-mouthed Śeṣa cannot reach their end.

The author's humility: he describes only a general outline —

তাহা কে কহিতে পারে ক্ষুদ্র জীব হঞা ।
'দিগ্-দরশন' কৈলুঁ মুঞি সূত্র করিয়া ॥ ২২৪ ॥

tāhā ke kahite pāre kṣudra jīva hañā that who to tell can a tiny jīva being
'dig-daraśana' kailuṁ muñi sūtra kariyā
a glimpse have given I a summary making

224 Who, being a tiny jīva, could describe them? I have only given a glimpse, setting it down in brief.

Only the unfortunate do not believe in Caitanya's pastimes —

অলৌকিক-লীলা প্রভুর অলৌকিক-রীতি । শুনিলেও ভাগ্যহীনের না হয় প্রতীতি ॥ ২২৫ ॥

alaukika-līlā prabhura alaukika-rīti extraordinary pastimes the Lord's extraordinary ways
śunileo bhāgya-hīnera nā haya pratīti
even on hearing of the unfortunate not is faith

225 The Lord's pastimes are extraordinary, and His ways are extraordinary; even hearing of them, the unfortunate do not believe.

The author asks all his listeners to have firm faith in Caitanya's pastimes and to accept them as the genuine, true reality —

আদ্যোপান্ত চৈতন্যলীলা — 'অলৌকিক' জান । শ্রদ্ধা করি' শুন ইহা, 'সত্য' করি' মান ॥ ২২৬ ॥

ādyopānta caitanya-līlā — 'alaukika' jāna
from beginning to end Caitanya's pastimes extraordinary know śraddhā kari' śuna ihā, 'satya' kari' māna faith having hear this true taking accept

226 Know that Caitanya's pastimes are extraordinary from beginning to end. Hear them with faith and accept them as true.

The unbeliever and the arguer bring misfortune on themselves —

যেই তর্ক করে ইঁহা, সেই — 'মূর্খরাজ' । আপনার মুণ্ডে সে আপনি পাড়ে বাজ ॥ ২২৭ ॥

yei tarka kare iṁhā, sei — 'mūrkha-rāja'
who argument makes about this he a king of fools āpanāra muṇḍe se āpani pāḍe vāja
his own on the head he himself brings down a thunderbolt

227 Whoever argues about this is a 'king of fools'; he brings a thunderbolt down on his own head.

*The world is flooded with the waters of the nectar ocean of the Caitanya-caritāmṛta —*

চৈতন্য-চরিত্র এই — ‘অমৃতের সিন্ধু’ । জগৎ আনন্দে ভাসায় যার একবিন্দু ॥ ২২৮ ॥

caitanya-caritra ei — ‘amṛtera sindhu’ Caitanya’s deeds these of nectar an ocean
jagat ānande bhāsāya yāra eka-bindu
the world in bliss floods of which one drop

228 These deeds of Caitanya are an ‘ocean of nectar’; a single drop of it floods the world with bliss.

Anubhāṣya.
Thus ends the eighteenth chapter of the “Anubhāṣya.”

শ্রীরূপ-রঘুনাথ-পদে যার আশ । চৈতন্যচরিতামৃত কহে কৃষ্ণদাস ॥ ২২৯ ॥

śrī-rūpa-raghunātha-pade yāra āśa Śrī Rūpa’s, Raghunātha’s at the feet whose hope caitanya-caritāmṛta kahe kṛṣṇadāsa
“Caitanya-caritāmṛta” narrates Kṛṣṇadāsa

229 Praying at the feet of Śrī Rūpa and Śrī Raghunātha, I, Kṛṣṇadāsa, narrate the Caitanya-caritāmṛta.[12]
