“Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta”

Madhya-līlā

Chapter 2

A Brief Account of the Antya-līlā: The Ravings of Love’s Madness

(English translation from the Bengali, following the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition and the Anubhāṣya, 2026)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. In this second chapter the author has described in sūtras the pastimes of Mahāprabhu’s last twelve years, when He relished divine emotions (bhāvas); along the way he has explained why he quotes verses. People cannot easily grasp the truth of the depth of these emotions. But as one hears again and again the pastimes of Śrī Caitanya described in this book, the truth of natural (sahaja) bhāva will dawn in the heart of the jīva. Kavirāja Gosvāmī was writing this book in his old age, so for the benefit of the devotees he gathered in this chapter the sūtras up to the Antya-līlā. Kavirāja Gosvāmī has said that in worship (bhajana) the principal view is that of Śrī Svarūpa Gosvāmī. By Svarūpa’s mercy Raghunātha dāsa Gosvāmī learned by heart the diary (kaḍacā) that Svarūpa had composed, and after Svarūpa’s departure he came to Vraja. Kavirāja Gosvāmī came there too. By the mercy of Śrī Rūpa and Raghunātha he learned the meaning of that memorised diary and composed this book.

A description of the Lord’s incoherent words in separation from Kṛṣṇa, and so on —

বিচ্ছেদেঽস্মিন্ প্রভোরন্ত্যলীলা-সূত্রানুবর্ণনে ৷ গৌরস্য কৃষ্ণবিচ্ছেদপ্রলাপাদ্যনুবর্ণ্যতে ॥ ১ ॥

vicchede 'smin prabhor antyain chapter this of the Lord final līlā-sūtrānuvarṇane pastimes sūtras in describing gaurasya kṛṣṇa-vicchedaof Gaura from Kṛṣṇa in separation
pralāpādy anuvarṇyate
raving and the rest is described

1 "In this chapter, as I set out in brief the Lord's final pastimes, I describe Gaura's raving (pralāpa) and His other states in separation from Kṛṣṇa."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
In describing the sūtras of the Lord's last pastimes, in this chapter I describe His incoherent words (pralāpa) in separation from Kṛṣṇa and other expressions of His emotions.

Anubhāṣya.
asmin vicchede (in this chapter — the second chapter of the Madhya-līlā of the Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta) prabhoḥ (of Śrī Caitanyadeva) antya-līlā-sūtrānuvarṇane (in recounting in sūtras His life in sannyāsa) gaurasya (of Bhagavān Mahāprabhu, who has taken shelter of the mood of the gopīs) kṛṣṇa-viccheda-pralāpādi (the words of madness and so on, born of separation from His Beloved) anuvarṇyate (are written by me).

জয় জয় শ্রীচৈতন্য জয় নিত্যানন্দ। জয়াদ্বৈতচন্দ্র জয় গৌরভক্তবৃন্দ ॥ ২ ॥

jaya jaya śrī caitanya jaya nityānanda glory glory to Śrī Caitanya glory to Nityānanda
jayādvaitacandra jaya gaura-bhakta-vṛnda glory to Advaitacandra glory of Gaura the devotees to the multitude

2 Glory, glory to Śrī Caitanya! Glory to Nityānanda! Glory to Advaitacandra! Glory to all the devotees of Gaura!

The last twelve years — the Lord's separation from Kṛṣṇa —

শেষ যে রহিল প্রভুর দ্বাদশ বৎসর । কৃষ্ণের বিয়োগ-স্ফূর্ত্তি হয় নিরন্তর ॥ ৩ ॥

śeṣa ye rahila prabhura dvādaśa vatsara
the last which remained of the Lord twelve years
kṛṣṇera viyoga-sphūrti haya nirantara
of Kṛṣṇa separation the feeling was constant

3 Through the last twelve years that remained to Him, the Lord felt His separation from Kṛṣṇa without cease.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Viyoga — separation.

The Lord, absorbed in the mood of Śrī Rādhikā on meeting Uddhava —

শ্রীরাধিকার চেষ্টা যেন উদ্ধব-দর্শনে । এইমত দশা প্রভুর হয় রাত্রি-দিনে ॥ ৪ ॥

śrī-rādhikāra ceṣṭā yena uddhava-darśane
of Śrī Rādhikā the behaviour as on seeing Uddhava
ei mata daśā prabhura haya rātri-dine
such a state of the Lord was night and day

4 Night and day the Lord was in the very state of Śrī Rādhikā when She met Uddhava.

নিরন্তর হয় প্রভুর বিরহ-উন্মাদ । ভ্রমময় চেষ্টা সদা, প্রলাপময় বাদ ॥ ৫ ॥

nirantara haya prabhura viraha-unmāda constant was of the Lord separation madness
bhrama-maya ceṣṭā sadā, pralāpa-maya vāda
bewildered actions always raving speech

5 The Lord was constantly in the divine madness of separation: He always acted as one bewildered, and all His speech was raving.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Vāda — speech.

Anubhāṣya.

Bhrama-maya ceṣṭā (acting in bewilderment) — udghūrṇā. Pralāpa-maya vāda (incoherent speech) — the ten kinds of incoherent words beginning with citra-jalpa.

The Lord's mahābhāva in separation (vipralambha) —

রোমকূপে রক্তোদ্গম, দন্ত সব হালে । ক্ষণে অঙ্গ ক্ষীণ হয়, ক্ষণে অঙ্গ ফুলে ॥ ৬ ॥

roma-kūpe raktodgama, danta saba hāle
from the pores blood oozing teeth all loosened
kṣaṇe aṅga kṣīṇa haya, kṣaṇe aṅga phule
at one moment the body thin becomes at another the body swells

6 Blood oozed from His pores, and all His teeth shook. At one moment His body grew thin, at another it swelled.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Hāle — shake loose.

গম্ভীরা-ভিতরে রাত্রে নাহি নিদ্রা-লব । ভিত্তে মুখ-শির ঘষে, ক্ষত হয় সব ॥ ৭ ॥

gambhīrā-bhitare rātre nāhi nidrā-lava
within the Gambhīrā at night not of sleep a particle
bhitte mukha-śira ghaṣe, kṣata haya saba against the wall face and head rubs wounds become all over

7 Inside the Gambhīrā He did not sleep a moment at night. He rubbed His face and head against the wall, and they were covered with wounds.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Gambhīrā. Beyond the veranda (ālindā) is a hall (dālān); the small room inside it is called the "Gambhīrā."

তিন দ্বারে কপাট, প্রভু যায়েন বাহিরে । কভু সিংহদ্বারে পড়ে, কভু সিন্ধুনীরে ॥ ৮ ॥

tina dvāre kapāṭa, prabhu yāyena bāhire
on three doors bolts the Lord goes outside kabhu siṁha-dvāre paḍe, kabhu sindhu-nīre
sometimes at the Lion Gate falls sometimes in the waters of the sea

8 Though the three doors were bolted, the Lord would go outside. Sometimes He fell at the Lion Gate, sometimes into the waters of the sea.

The spiritual pastimes of Vraja awaken in the Lord —

চটক পর্ব্বত দেখি' 'গোবর্দ্ধন' ভ্রমে । ধাঞা চলে আর্ত্তনাদ করিয়া ক্রন্দনে ॥ ৯ ॥

caṭaka parvata dekhi' 'govarddhana' bhrame Caṭaka hill seeing for Govardhana mistaking
dhāñā cale ārta-nāda kariyā krandane
running goes cries of anguish making weeping

9 The Caṭaka hill seemed to Him to be Govardhana, and He ran towards it, weeping and crying out in anguish.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Caṭaka-parvata. The sand hills on the seashore are called caṭaka-parvatas. Between the Guṇḍicā temple and the sea there is one large caṭaka-parvata. Mahāprabhu often went there, taking it for Govardhana.

Anubhāṣya.

Bhrame — mistakes it for.

উপবনোদ্যান দেখি' বৃন্দাবন-জ্ঞান ।
তাঁহা যাই' নাচে, গায়, ক্ষণে মূর্চ্ছা যা'ন ॥ ১০ ॥

upavanodyāna dekhi' vṛndāvana-jñāna
groves and gardens seeing as Vṛndāvana conceiving
tāṁhā yāi' nāce, gāya, kṣaṇe mūrcchā yā'na
there going dances sings at times unconscious falls

10 The groves and gardens He took for Vṛndāvana; He would go there to dance and sing, and at times He fell unconscious.

*Unprecedented transformations of mahābhāva born of separation from Kṛṣṇa —*

কাঁহা নাহি শুনি যেই ভাবের বিকার । সেই ভাব হয় প্রভুর শরীরে প্রচার ॥ ১১ ॥

kāṁhā nāhi śuni yei bhāvera vikāra
nowhere not heard which of ecstasy transformations
sei bhāva haya prabhura śarīre pracāra
those ecstasies became in the Lord's body manifest

11 Transformations of feeling never heard of anywhere showed themselves in the Lord's body.

Anubhāṣya.
Pracāra — becomes manifest.

হস্তপদের সন্ধি সব বিতস্তি-প্রমাণে ।
সন্ধি ছাড়ি' ভিন্ন হয়ে, চর্ম্ম রহে স্থানে ॥ ১২ ॥

hasta-padera sandhi saba vitasti-pramāṇe
of hands and feet the joints all a span in length
sandhi chāḍi' bhinna haye, carma rahe sthāne
joints leaving separate became the skin remained in place

12 All the joints of His arms and legs came apart by a span; they left their sockets, and only the skin held them in place.

Anubhāṣya.
At the joints the bones joined inside come apart, and only the skin can be seen. The joint then stretches to a vitasti (a span).

হস্ত, পদ, শির, সব শরীর-ভিতরে ।
প্রবিষ্ট হয় — কূর্ম্মরূপ দেখিয়ে প্রভুরে ॥ ১৩ ॥

hasta, pada, śira, saba śarīra-bhitare hands feet head all the body within praviṣṭa haya — kūrma-rūpa dekhiye prabhure
withdrawn became a tortoise's form was seen in the Lord

13 His hands, feet and head all withdrew into His body, and the Lord was seen in the form of a tortoise.

এইমত অদ্ভুত-ভাব শরীরে প্রকাশ । মনেতে শূন্যতা, বাক্যে হাহা-হুতাশ ॥ ১৪ ॥

ei mata adbhuta-bhāva śarīre prakāśa
in this way wondrous ecstasies in the body manifest
manete śūnyatā, vākye hā-hā-hutāśa
in the mind emptiness in words alas despair

14 So wondrous were the feelings that showed themselves in His body. His heart felt empty, and all His words were lament and despair:

The Lord's piteous lament in separation from Kṛṣṇa —

কাঁহা মোর প্রাণনাথ মুরলীবদন । কাঁহা করোঁ, কাঁহা পাঙ ব্রজেন্দ্রনন্দন ॥ ১৫ ॥

kāṁhā mora prāṇa-nātha muralī-vadana
where My of life Lord with the flute at His lips
kāṁhā karoṁ, kāṁhā pāṅa vrajendranandana
what shall I do where shall I find the son of the king of Vraja

15 "Where is the Lord of My life, with the flute at His lips? What shall I do? Where shall I find the son of the king of Vraja?

কাহারে কহিব, কেবা জানে মোর দুঃখ । ব্রজেন্দ্রনন্দন বিনা ফাটে মোর বুক ॥ ১৬ ॥

kāhāre kahiba, kebā jāne mora duḥkha
to whom shall I tell who knows My sorrow
vrajendranandana vinā phāṭe mora buka
the son of the king of Vraja without bursts My heart

16 To whom can I speak? Who knows My sorrow? Without the son of the king of Vraja My heart is breaking."

এইমত বিলাপ করে বিহ্বল অন্তর । রায়ের নাটক-শ্লোক পড়ে নিরন্তর ॥ ১৭ ॥

ei mata vilāpa kare vihvala antara
thus lamentation makes bewildered at heart
rāyera nāṭaka-śloka paḍe nirantara
of Rāya from the drama verses recites constantly

17 Thus He lamented, bewildered at heart, and constantly recited verses from Rāmānanda Rāya's drama:

প্রেমচ্ছেদরুজোঽবগচ্ছতি হরির্নায়ং ন চ প্রেম বা
স্থানাস্থানমবৈতি নাপি মদনো জানাতি নো দুর্ব্বলাঃ ।
অন্যো বেদ ন চান্যদুঃখমখিলং নো জীবনং বাশ্রবং
দ্বিত্রাণ্যেব দিনানি যৌবনমিদং হা হা বিধেঃ কা গতিঃ ॥ ১৮ ॥

prema-ccheda-rujo 'vagacchati harir nāyaṁ na ca prema vā love's breaking the pains knows Hari not this not and love either sthānāsthānam avaiti nāpi madano jānāti no durbalāḥ proper and improper place knows nor even Madana knows us weak
anyo veda na cānya-duḥkham akhilaṁ no jīvanaṁ vāśravaṁ another knows not and another's sorrow all our life is not obedient dvi-trāṇy eva dināni yauvanam idaṁ hā hā vidheḥ kā gatiḥ
two or three only days youth this alas alas of the Creator what is the way

18 (Śrī Rādhā laments:) "This Hari does not know the pains we suffer when love is broken; nor does love know where it should and should not strike; nor does even Madana know how weak we are. No one knows another's sorrow in full; our very life is not in our control, and this youth lasts only two or three days. Alas, alas, O Creator, what is to become of us?" (Jagannātha-vallabha-nāṭaka, 3.9)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

"Our Kṛṣṇa does not feel the pain of the wounds that love has dealt us. And what can we say of love itself? It strikes without knowing where it should strike and where it should not! Of Madana there is nothing to say at all: he never understood how weak we are! And to whom could we say anything? No one understands the whole of another's pain! Our life is not in our control, and youth lasts only two or three days — so brief! Alas! O Creator, what will become of us in such a state?"

Another reading is vidhe ("O Creator!").

Anubhāṣya.

ayaṁ hariḥ (Kṛṣṇa) asmān prema-ccheda-rujaḥ (us, who are pained by the breaking of love: He broke off His love, and we gopīs are tormented by the disease of separation) na avagacchati (does not know); prema vā sthānāsthānaṁ ca (what is the right place and what is not — the worthy and the unworthy, good and bad) na avaiti (does not know); madanaḥ api naḥ (us) durbalāḥ (helpless, dependent on others) na jānāti. anyaḥ janaḥ anya-duḥkham (the suffering of another person) na veda! naḥ (our) jīvanam āśravam (is nothing but suffering, or: is in another's control). idaṁ yauvanaṁ dvi-trāṇy eva dinānī! hā hā vidhe (O Creator)! kā gatiḥ (what will become of us? — that is, we cannot understand it).

Because of unbearable separation — reproaches against Kṛṣṇa —

উপজিল প্রেমাঙ্কুর, ভাঙ্গিল যে দুঃখ-পূর, কৃষ্ণ তাহা নাহি করে পান ।
বাহিরে নাগররাজ, ভিতরে শঠের কাজ, পরনারী বধে সাবধান ॥ ১৯ ॥

upajila premāṅkura, bhāṅgila ye duḥkha-pūra, sprouted of love the sprout broke (it) that of sorrow flood kṛṣṇa tāhā nāhi kare pāna Kṛṣṇa it not does drink
bāhire nāgara-rāja, bhitare śaṭhera kāja, outwardly king of lovers inwardly of a cheat the work para-nārī vadhe sāvadhāna
others' women in killing intent

19 "In My heart the sprout of love came up, but a flood of sorrow broke it, and Kṛṣṇa pays it no heed. Outwardly He is the king of lovers, but within He does the work of a cheat, intent on killing other men's wives.

Cursing her own fate —

সখি হে, না বুঝিয়ে বিধির বিধান ।
সুখ লাগি' কৈলুঁ প্রীতি, হৈল বিপরীত গতি, এবে যায়, না রহে পরাণ ॥ ২০ ॥

sakhi he, nā bujhiye vidhira vidhāna
O friend not I understand the Creator's ordinance
sukha lāgi' kailuṁ prīti, haila viparīta gati, happiness for the sake of I loved came out contrary the course
ebe yāya, nā rahe parāṇa
now goes not stays life

20 O friend, I do not understand the Creator's ordinance. I loved for the sake of happiness, but everything turned out the opposite. Now life is leaving Me; it will not stay.

Reproaches against love —

কুটিল প্রেমা অগেয়ান, নাহি জানে স্থানাস্থান, ভাল-মন্দ নারে বিচারিতে ।
ক্রূর শঠের গুণডোরে, হাতে-গলে বান্ধি' মোরে, রাখিয়াছে, নারি' উকাশিতে ॥ ২১ ॥

kuṭila premā ageyāna, nāhi jāne sthānāsthāna, crooked love senseless not knows proper and improper place
bhāla-manda nāre vicārite
good and bad cannot consider krūra śaṭhera guṇa-ḍore, hāte-gale bāndhi' more, of the cruel cheat with the rope of qualities hands and neck binding Me
rākhiyāche, nāri' ukāśite
keeps unable to get free

21 Love is crooked and senseless: it does not know where it should strike and where not, nor can it tell good from bad. With the rope of that cruel cheat's qualities it has bound My hands and neck, and I cannot get free.[1]

Anubhāṣya.

Ageyān — senseless, foolish. Ukāśite — to free oneself.

Reproaches against the desire for Kṛṣṇa —

যে মদন তনুহীন, পরদ্রোহে পরবীণ, পাঁচ বাণ সন্ধে অনুক্ষণ ৷
অবলার শরীরে, বিন্ধি' কৈল জরজরে, দুঃখ দেয়, না লয় জীবন ॥ ২২ ॥

ye madana tanu-hīna, para-drohe paravīṇa,
that Madana bodiless in harming others expert pāṁca bāṇa sandhe anukṣaṇa
five arrows fixes constantly abalāra śarīre, vindhi' kaila jarajare, of a helpless woman into the body piercing has made riddled
duḥkha deya, nā laya jīvana
pain gives not takes life

22 That bodiless Madana, so skilled in harming others, constantly fixes his five arrows to the bow. He has pierced the body of a helpless woman through and through: he gives her pain but does not take her life.

Anubhāṣya.

Tanu-hīna (bodiless) — Anaṅga.

Reproaches even against her dearest friends —

অন্যের যে দুঃখ মনে, অন্যে তাহা নাহি জানে, সত্য এই শাস্ত্রের বিচার ৷
অন্য জন কাঁহা লিখি, না জানয়ে প্রাণসখী, যাতে কহে ধৈর্য্য ধরিবার ॥ ২৩ ॥

anyera ye duḥkha mane, anye tāhā nāhi jāne,
of another which sorrow in the heart another that not knows
satya ei śāstrera vicāra
true this of scripture the verdict
anya jana kāṁhā likhi, nā jānaye prāṇa-sakhī, of other people why write not knows the friend dear as life
yāte kahe dhairya dharibāra since says patience to hold

23 What sorrow lies in another's heart, no one else knows: this verdict of scripture is true. Why speak of others? Even My friend, dear to Me as life, does not know it, for she only tells Me to be patient.

Life is short, and so — despair at the delay, at the waiting —

'কৃষ্ণ — কৃপা-পারাবার, কভু করিবেন অঙ্গীকার', সখি, তোর এ ব্যর্থ বচন ৷
জীবের জীবন চঞ্চল, যেন পদ্মপত্রের জল, তত দিন জীবে কোন্ জন ॥ ২৪ ॥

‘kṛṣṇa — kṛpā-pārāvāra, kabhu karibena aṅgīkāra’ Kṛṣṇa of mercy the ocean some day will accept sakhi, tora e vyartha vacana
friend your these useless words
jīvera jīvana cañcala, yena padma-patrera jala, of the living being the life unsteady like on a lotus leaf water
tata dina jīve kon jana
so many days will live which person

24 ‘Kṛṣṇa is an ocean of mercy; some day He will accept You’ — friend, these words of yours are empty. A living being’s life is as unsteady as water on a lotus leaf: who will live long enough?

শত বৎসর পর্য্যন্ত, জীবের জীবন অন্ত, এই বাক্য কহ না বিচারি’ ।
নারীর যৌবন-ধন, যারে কৃষ্ণ করে মন, সে যৌবন — দিন দুই-চারি ॥ ২৫ ॥

śata vatsara paryanta, jīvera jīvana anta,
a hundred years up to of the living being life’s end
ei vākya kaha nā vicāri’
this statement you make not considering nārīra yauvana-dhana, yāre kṛṣṇa kare mana, of a woman youth’s wealth on which Kṛṣṇa sets His mind
se yauvana — dina dui-cāri
that youth days two or four

25 You say without thinking that a living being’s life lasts a hundred years. But the wealth of a woman’s youth, on which Kṛṣṇa sets His mind, lasts only a few short days.

Kṛṣṇa and herself — like fire and the moth —

অগ্নি যৈছে নিজ-ধাম, দেখাইয়া অভিরাম, পতঙ্গীরে আকর্ষিয়া মারে ৷
কৃষ্ণ ঐছে নিজ-গুণ, দেখাইয়া হরে মন, পাছে দুঃখ-সমুদ্রেতে ডারে ॥ ২৬ ॥

agni yaiche nija-dhāma, dekhāiyā abhirāma,
fire as its own light showing charming pataṅgīre ākarṣiyā māre
the moth attracting kills
kṛṣṇa aiche nija-guṇa, dekhāiyā hare mana, Kṛṣṇa so His own qualities showing steals the mind
pāche duḥkha-samudrete ḍāre
afterwards of sorrow into the ocean casts

26 As fire shows its charming light, draws the moth and kills it, so Kṛṣṇa shows His qualities and steals the heart, and then casts it into an ocean of sorrow."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Śrīmatī says: "Ah, what can I say of My sorrow! When I met Kṛṣṇa, the sprout of love grew within Me. Then, in separation from Kṛṣṇa, that sprout was wounded, and now a stream of sorrow is flowing. Kṛṣṇa is the only physician for this disease, yet Kṛṣṇa makes no effort at all to protect that sprout of love! What can I say about how Kṛṣṇa behaves! Outwardly He is the king of lovers (nāgara-rāja), but inwardly He is full of deceit: His one endeavour is to destroy other men's wives. This is what comes of loving Kṛṣṇa! Sakhī, I did not understand this law of the Creator, and I loved Him for the sake of happiness. But this wretched girl received the very opposite — great sorrow! It has come to this: My life is leaving Me, if not now, then any moment! Such is our Kṛṣṇa. And what can I say of that other tattva called 'prema'! Prema is crooked by nature and ageyān — senseless, blind. It does not consider where it is fitting and where not, nor does it weigh the bad consequences. With the rope of the qualities[7] of that cruel cheat, Kṛṣṇa, it has bound Me by the hands and neck, and I cannot get free! This is how Kṛṣṇa and prema act! But in this affair of love there is yet another tattva — 'Madana.' His nature is this: he himself has no body, yet he is a great expert in harming others.

Fitting his five arrows, he pierces the bodies of helpless women through and through! If he took their lives at once, that would be good; but instead he only gives pain. The scriptures say that one cannot know another's sorrow. What to speak of others in this matter? Even My dearest friends, Lalitā and the rest, cannot understand My sorrow, and they keep saying again and again, 'Sakhī, be patient.' Sakhī, you say, 'Kṛṣṇa is an ocean of mercy; sometime or other He will surely accept You.' But these words of yours will be of no use. For the life of a jīva is as unsteady as a drop of water on a lotus leaf. By the time Kṛṣṇa's mercy comes, who will still be alive? A man does not live more than a hundred years. And consider this as well: the wealth of youth of a woman who captivates Kṛṣṇa's heart lasts only a few days. And if you say that Kṛṣṇa is an ocean of good qualities and will surely be merciful, I answer: fire displays its light, draws the moths to it and kills them. So too Kṛṣṇa's qualities: they glitter, draw the hearts of women, and then drown them in an ocean of sorrow — in separation."

এতেক বিলাপ করি', বিষাদে শ্রীগৌরহরি, উঘাড়িয়া দুঃখের কপাট ।
ভাবের তরঙ্গ-বলে, নানারূপে মন চলে, আর এক শ্লোক কৈল পাঠ ॥ ২৭ ॥

eteka vilāpa kari', viṣāde śrī-gaurahari,
so much lament making in dejection Śrī Gaurahari
ughāḍiyā duḥkhera kapāṭa
opening of sorrow the door
bhāvera taraṅga-bale, nānārūpe mana cale, of ecstasy of the waves by the force in many ways the mind moves
āra eka śloka kaila pāṭha
another one verse made recitation

27 Lamenting so much in His dejection, Śrī Gaurahari opened the door of His sorrow. Tossed by the mighty waves of feeling, His mind turned this way and that, and He recited another verse:

Anubhāṣya.
Ughāḍiyā — opening.

*A song of bitter despondency (nirveda), revealing deep love for Kṛṣṇa —*

শ্রীকৃষ্ণরূপাদিনিষেবণং বিনা ব্যর্থানি মেঽহান্যখিলেন্দ্রিয়াণ্যলম্ ।
পাষাণশুষ্কেন্ধনভারকাণ্যহো বিভর্ম্মি বা তানি কথং হতত্রপঃ ॥ ২৮ ॥

śrī-kṛṣṇa-rūpādi-niṣevaṇaṁ vinā
of Śrī Kṛṣṇa form and the rest service without vyarthāni me 'hāny akhilendriyāṇy alam useless My days all senses utterly pāṣāṇa-śuṣkendhana-bhārakāṇy aho
of stone dry wood burdens alas
bibharmi vā tāni kathaṁ hata-trapaḥ
I bear how them shameless

28 "Without serving Śrī Kṛṣṇa's form and all else that is His, My days and all My senses are utterly useless. Alas, how can I, shameless, go on bearing these senses, burdens of stone and dry wood?

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Sakhī, without serving Śrī Kṛṣṇa's form, qualities and pastimes, My days and all My senses are going to waste. How then, shameless as I am, can I go on bearing these senses, which are like stones and loads of dry firewood?

Anubhāṣya.

śrī-kṛṣṇa-rūpādi-niṣevaṇam (service to Śrī Kṛṣṇa's form, qualities and pastimes — attending on them and so on) vinā me (my) ahāni (days — the time of my life) akhilendriyāṇi (all my senses — the organs with which one enjoys) ca alam (utterly) vyarthāni (are fruitless). aho, pāṣāṇa-śuṣkendhana-bhārakāṇi (these senses, whose burden is like stone and dry firewood) kathaṁ bibharmi (how can I bear)? ahaṁ hata-trapaḥ (I am shameless) (and so I still cling to this living body, which does not relish Kṛṣṇa).

The body and senses without service to Kṛṣṇa are fruitless: (1) the futility of eyes engaged in enjoyment —

বংশীগানামৃত-ধাম, লাবণ্যামৃত-জন্মস্থান, যে না দেখে সে-চাঁদ বদন ।
সে নয়নে কিবা কাজ, পড়ুক্ তার মুণ্ডে বাজ, সে নয়ন রহে কি কারণ ॥ ২৯ ॥

vaṁśī-gānāmṛta-dhāma, lāvaṇyāmṛta-janma-sthāna,
of the flute song's nectar abode of beauty's nectar birthplace
ye nā dekhe se-cāṁda vadana
who not sees that moon-like face
se nayane kibā kāja, paḍuk tāra muṇḍe vāja, of those eyes what use let fall his on the head a thunderbolt
se nayana rahe ki kāraṇa
those eyes remain for what reason

29 That moon-like face is the abode of the nectar of His flute song and the birthplace of the nectar of beauty. What use are the eyes of one who does not see it? Let a thunderbolt fall on his head! Why do such eyes remain?[2]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa's moonlike face — the abode of the nectar of His flute-song and the birthplace of the nectar of beauty (lāvaṇya).

Anubhāṣya.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa's moonlike face is the shelter of the nectar of His flute-song and a mine of the nectar of beauty. If a gopī's eyes are deprived of seeing such a supremely charming form of Kṛṣṇa, it is better that a thunderbolt strike the head of the gopī who bears those eyes. In truth, when a gopī sees anything other than Kṛṣṇa, she shows aversion or remains indifferent — she feels no pleasure. The only object her sense of sight worships is the moon of Kṛṣṇa's face: it delights her eyes, and she serves it. When it is absent, it is better that a thunderbolt strike the head — the bearer and support of the eyes. And she finds no reason to keep her eyes for looking at other things when she is deprived of seeing Kṛṣṇa.

সখি হে, শুন, মোর হত বিধিবল ৷
মোর বপু-চিত্ত-মন, সকল ইন্দ্রিয়গণ, কৃষ্ণ বিনা সকল বিফল ॥ ৩০ ॥ধ্রু॥

sakhi he, śuna, mora hata vidhi-bala
O friend hear My struck destiny's power
mora vapu-citta-mana, sakala indriya-gaṇa,
My body heart mind all senses
kṛṣṇa vinā sakala viphala
Kṛṣṇa without all fruitless

30 O friend, hear Me: My fortune is struck down. My body, heart and mind, and all My senses — without Kṛṣṇa all are fruitless.

(2) The futility of ears engaged in enjoyment —

কৃষ্ণের মধুর বাণী, অমৃতের তরঙ্গিণী, তার প্রবেশ নাহি যে শ্রবণে ৷
কাণাকড়ি-ছিদ্র সম, জানিহ সে শ্রবণ, তার জন্ম হৈল অকারণে ॥ ৩১ ॥

kṛṣṇera madhura vāṇī, amṛtera taraṅgiṇī, Kṛṣṇa's sweet words of nectar a river
tāra praveśa nāhi ye śravaṇe
their entry is not into which ears
kāṇākaḍi-chidra sama, jāniha se śravaṇa,
of a holed cowrie shell a hole like know those ears
tāra janma haila akāraṇe
their birth was in vain

31 Kṛṣṇa's sweet words are a river of nectar. Know that the ears they do not enter are like the hole in a broken cowrie shell: their birth was in vain.

(3) The futility of a tongue engaged in enjoyment —

কৃষ্ণের অধরামৃত, কৃষ্ণ-গুণ-চরিত, সুধাসার-স্বাদু-বিনিন্দন ।
তার স্বাদ যে না জানে, জন্মিয়া না মৈল কেনে, সে রসনা ভেক-জিহ্বা সম ॥ ৩২ ॥

kṛṣṇera adharāmṛta, kṛṣṇa-guṇa-carita, of Kṛṣṇa the nectar of the lips Kṛṣṇa's qualities and deeds
sudhā-sāra-svādu-vinindana
of the essence of nectar the taste surpassing
tāra svāda ye nā jāne, janmiyā nā maila kene,
their taste who not knows being born not died why
se rasanā bheka-jihvā sama
that tongue a frog's tongue like

32 The nectar of Kṛṣṇa's lips, and Kṛṣṇa's qualities and deeds, surpass in taste the very essence of nectar. Why did one who does not know their taste not die at birth? That tongue is like a frog's tongue.

(4) The futility of a nose engaged in enjoyment —

মৃগমদ-নীলোৎপল, মিলনে যে পরিমল, যেই হরে তার গর্ব্ব-মান ।
হেন কৃষ্ণ-অঙ্গ-গন্ধ, যার নাহি সে সম্বন্ধ, সেই নাসা ভস্ত্রার সমান ॥ ৩৩ ॥

mṛga-mada nīlotpala, milane ye parimala,
of musk and the blue lotus in mingling which fragrance
yei hare tāra garva-māna
that steals its pride
hena kṛṣṇa-aṅga-gandha, yāra nāhi se sambandha,
such Kṛṣṇa's body's fragrance whose not that connection
sei nāsā bhastrāra samāna
that nose a bellows like

33 The fragrance of Kṛṣṇa's body steals the pride even of the scent born from mingling musk and the blue lotus. The nose that has no connection with that fragrance is like a bellows.

(5) The futility of skin engaged in enjoyment —

কৃষ্ণ-কর-পদতল, কোটিচন্দ্র-সুশীতল, তার স্পর্শ যেন স্পর্শমণি ।
তার স্পর্শ নাহি যার, সে যাউক্ ছারখার, সেই বপু লৌহ-সম জানি ॥ ৩৪ ॥

kṛṣṇa-kara-pada-tala, koṭi-candra-suśītala, Kṛṣṇa's hands and feet the palms and soles than millions of moons cooler
tāra sparśa yena sparśa-maṇi
their touch like a touchstone
tāra sparśa nāhi yāra, se yāuk chārakhāra,
their touch not whose he let go to ruin
sei vapu lauha-sama jāni
that body like iron I know

34 The palms of Kṛṣṇa's hands and the soles of His feet are cooler than millions of moons, and their touch is like a touchstone. Let one who has not known that touch go to ruin: I know his body is like iron."[3]

Anubhāṣya.

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 2.3.17–24) "Rising and setting, the sun takes away the life span of all men — except of one whose moments are spent in talks about Uttamaśloka. Do the trees not live? Do the bellows not breathe? Do the other beasts in the village not eat and discharge semen? A man into whose ears the name of Gadāgraja has never entered is a beast praised by beasts like himself — dogs, village hogs, camels and asses. The ears of a man that do not hear of the heroic deeds of Urukrama are mere holes, alas. And the tongue that does not sing the songs about Urugāya, O Sūta, is as wicked as the tongue of a frog. The head, though crowned with a silk turban and a diadem, is only a heavy burden if it does not bow down to Mukunda. And the hands, though decked with glittering golden bracelets, are the hands of a corpse if they do not serve Hari. The eyes of men that do not look upon the forms of Viṣṇu are like the eyes on a peacock's feathers. And the feet of men that do not walk to the holy places of Hari are no better than the feet of trees. A mortal who has never received on his head the dust of the feet of the Lord's devotees is a living corpse. And one who, though born a man, has never smelled the fragrance of the tulasī from Śrī Viṣṇu's feet is a corpse that breathes. Alas, the heart that does not melt when one chants the names of Hari is as hard as stone: for when it melts, tears come to the eyes and the hairs of the body stand on end."

করি' এত বিলাপন, প্রভু শ্রীশচীনন্দন, উঘাড়িয়া হৃদয়ের শোক।
দৈন্য-নির্ব্বেদ-বিষাদে, হৃদয়ের অবসাদে, পুনরপি পড়ে এক শ্লোক ॥ ৩৫ ॥

kari' eta vilāpana, prabhu śrīśacīnandana, making so much lament the Lord Śrī Śacīnandana
ughāḍiyā hṛdayera śoka
opening of the heart the grief
dainya-nirveda-viṣāde, hṛdayera avasāde,
in humility despondency dejection of the heart in exhaustion punarapi paḍe eka śloka
again recites one verse

35 Lamenting so much, the Lord, Śrī Śacīnandana, laid open the grief of His heart. In humility, despondency and dejection, His heart exhausted, He recited another verse:

Anubhāṣya.

Dainya* (humility). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) "A feeling of powerlessness born of sorrow, fear, offence and the like is called dainya. It produces flattering words, sluggishness, dejection, anxious thoughts, numbness of the limbs, and so on." When through sorrow, fear, offences and the like one considers oneself utterly low, that is dainya. When dainya comes, there arise humble entreaties, weakness of heart, unease, various anxious thoughts and numbness of the limbs.

Nirveda* (bitter despondency). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) "Contempt for oneself born of great distress, separation, jealousy, right discernment and the like is called nirveda. Here appear anxious thoughts, tears, pallor, humility, sighs and so on." Sorrowful self-contempt — because of great distress, separation or jealousy, or because one has done what should not be done and failed to do what should be done — is called nirveda. When nirveda comes, there arise anxious thoughts, tears, pallor, humility, sighs and so on.

Viṣāda* (dejection). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) "Remorse arising because the desired object is not attained, a task begun does not succeed, or calamity strikes, and also from an offence and the like — that is viṣāda. Here appear the search for a means and a helper, anxious thoughts, weeping, lamentation, sighs, pallor, dryness of the mouth and so on." The remorse that comes when the desired object is not attained, when a planned and undertaken task fails, when calamity strikes or an offence has been committed and so on — that is viṣāda. When viṣāda comes, one searches for a means and a helper, grows anxious, weeps, laments, sighs, turns pale, one's mouth goes dry, and so on.

Dainya, nirveda, viṣāda and the others — thirty-three vyabhicārī-bhāvas in all — gain special prominence within the sthāyi-bhāva and move about in it. A vyabhicārī-bhāva is recognised by its signs: by words, by the eyebrows, eyes and other limbs, and by the sāttvika-anubhāvas. And because the vyabhicārī-bhāvas spread the movement of the emotion, they are called sañcārī.

যদা যাতো দৈবান্মধুরিপুরসৌ লোচনপথং
তদাস্মাকং চেতো মদনহতকেনাহৃতমভূৎ ।
পুনর্যস্মিন্নেষ ক্ষণমপি দৃশোরেতি পদবীং বিধাস্যামস্তস্মিন্নখিলঘটিকা রত্নখচিতাঃ ॥ ৩৬ ॥

yadā yāto daivān madhu-ripur asau locana-pathaṁ
when came by fortune the enemy of Madhu this of the eyes on the path
tadāsmākaṁ ceto madana-hatakenāhṛtam abhūt
then our mind by wretched Madana stolen was punar yasminn eṣa kṣaṇam api dṛśor eti padavīṁ again in which He a moment even of the eyes comes on the path
vidhāsyāmas tasminn akhila-ghaṭikā ratna-khacitāḥ
we shall make in it all the ghaṭikās with jewels studded

36 “When by good fortune Madhu’s enemy came within our sight, our mind was stolen by that wretched Madana. When He comes again into our sight even for a moment, we shall stud all the ghaṭikās of that time with jewels.” (Jagannātha-vallabha-nāṭaka, 3.11)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

When by chance Śrī Kṛṣṇa’s form came before My eyes, My heart was struck down by the intoxication of the good fortune of seeing Him. And certain tattvas named “Madana” and “Ānanda” stole it away — they did not let Me gaze to My heart’s content on the beauty of that form. If I am able to see Kṛṣṇa again, I will adorn that time with many jewels.

Anubhāṣya.

yadā (when — awake or in a dream) asau madhu-ripuḥ (Madhusūdana) daivāt (by my good fortune) locana-patham (within sight) yātaḥ (came), tadā madana-hatakena (Madana is he who intoxicates and gladdens; he is the hataka, the enemy; by that enemy, Madana) asmākaṁ cetaḥ (mind) āhṛtam (stolen) abhūt. punaḥ yasmin (at the moment when) eṣaḥ (Kṛṣṇa) dṛśoḥ (of the eyes) padavīm (the path) eti (enters, reaches), (at that time) akhila-ghaṭikāḥ (all the muhūrtas, ghaṭīs, palas, vipalas and other measures of time) ratna-khacitāḥ vidhāsyāmaḥ (we shall adorn with garlands, sandalwood paste, gems, pearls and so on).

The meaning of the verse. Because of separation — high esteem for the moment of seeing Kṛṣṇa or meeting Him —

যে কালে বা স্বপনে, দেখিনু বংশীবদনে, সেই কালে আইলা দুই বৈরী ।
‘আনন্দ’ আর ‘মদন’, হরি’ নিল মোর মন, দেখিতে না পাইলুঁ নেত্র ভরি’ ॥ ৩৭ ॥

ye kāle vā svapane, dekhinu vaṁśī-vadane,
at the time or as in a dream I saw the one with the flute at His lips
sei kāle āilā dui vairī
at that time came two enemies
'ānanda' āra 'madana', hari' nila mora mana,
bliss and Madana stealing took My mind
dekhite nā pāiluṁ netra bhari'
to see not I could eyes filling

37 "Whenever I saw Him with the flute at His lips, even in a dream, two enemies came at once — Bliss and Madana. They stole My mind, and I could not see Him to My eyes' content.

পুনঃ যদি কোন ক্ষণ, করায় কৃষ্ণ দরশন, তবে সেই ঘটী-ক্ষণ-পল ।
দিয়া মাল্যচন্দন, নানা রত্ন-আভরণ, অলঙ্কৃত করিমু সকল ॥ ৩৮ ॥

punaḥ yadi kona kṣaṇa, karāya kṛṣṇa daraśana
again if some moment grants Kṛṣṇa's sight
tabe sei ghaṭī-kṣaṇa-pala
then those ghaṭīs kṣaṇas and palas
diyā mālya-candana, nānā ratna-ābharaṇa,
giving garlands and sandal various jewelled ornaments
alaṅkṛta karimu sakala adorned I shall make all

38 If some moment ever again grants Me the sight of Kṛṣṇa, then I shall adorn all those ghaṭīs, kṣaṇas and palas with garlands and sandal paste and many jewelled ornaments."

*The Lord's mahābhāva — citra-jalpa; in external consciousness the Lord*

laments before Svarūpa and Rāmānanda —

ক্ষণে বাহ্য হৈল মন, আগে দেখে দুই জন, তাঁরে পুছে, — আমি না চৈতন্য ?
স্বপ্নপ্রায় কি দেখিনু, কিবা আমি প্রলাপিনু, তোমরা কিছু শুনিয়াছ দৈন্য ? ॥ ৩৯ ॥

kṣaṇe bāhya haila mana, āge dekhe dui jana,
in a moment external became the mind before sees two persons tāṁre puche, — āmi nā caitanya?
to them asks I not Caitanya (conscious)
svapna-prāya ki dekhinu, kibā āmi pralāpinu,
like a dream what I saw what I raved
tomarā kichu śuniyācha dainya?
you anything heard of humble words

39 In a moment His mind came to external consciousness, and seeing two persons before Him, He asked them: "Am I not Caitanya? What did I see, as though in a dream? What did I say in My raving? Did you hear any words of misery?[4]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Āge dekhe dui jana — Svarūpa Dāmodara and Rāya Rāmānanda. On seeing them, the Lord came a little into external consciousness, gave up the conception that He was Rādhā, and asked: "Am I not that same Caitanya?"

In separation from Kṛṣṇa He considers Himself wretched —

শুন, মোর প্রাণের বান্ধব ৷
নাহি কৃষ্ণ-প্রেমধন, দরিদ্র মোর জীবন, দেহেন্দ্রিয় বৃথা মোর সব ॥ ৪০ ॥

śuna, mora prāṇera bāndhava
hear My of life friend
nāhi kṛṣṇa-prema-dhana, daridra mora jīvana,
not for Kṛṣṇa love's wealth poor My life
dehendriya vṛthā mora saba body and senses useless My all

40 Hear Me, friend of My life: I have no wealth of love for Kṛṣṇa. My life is poor, and My body and senses are all useless."

পুনঃ কহে, — হায় হায়, শুন, স্বরূপ-রামরায়, এই মোর হৃদয় নিশ্চয় ।
শুনি, করহ বিচার, হয়, নয় — কহ সার, এত বলি' শ্লোক উচ্চারয় ॥ ৪১ ॥

punaḥ kahe, — hāya hāya, śuna, svarūpa-rāmarāya, again says alas alas hear Svarūpa and Rāmarāya
ei mora hṛdaya niścaya
this My heart's conviction
śuni, karaha vicāra, haya, naya — kaha sāra, having heard consider is is not tell the truth
eta bali' śloka uccāraya
so saying a verse utters

41 Again He said: "Alas, alas! Hear, Svarūpa and Rāmarāya, what My heart is sure of. Having heard it, consider and tell Me truly whether it is so or not." Saying this, He uttered a verse:

কইঅবরহিঅং পেম্মং ণ হি হোই মাণুসে লোএ । জই হোই কস্স বিরহো বিরহে হোন্তম্মি কো জীঅই ॥ ৪২ ॥

ka-i-avarahi-aṁ pemmaṁ ṇa hi hoi māṇuse loe
free of deceit love not indeed is in the human world
ja-i hoi kassa viraho virahe hontammi ko jīa-i
if it is whose separation in separation occurring who lives

42 “Love free of deceit does not exist in the human world. If it exists, how can anyone be separated? And if separation comes, who can live?”

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

In Sanskrit this Prakrit verse reads: “Love free of deceit does not exist in the human world. If it exists, who would suffer separation? And if separation comes, who would remain alive?” In other words, prema is free of deceit and never arises in the human world. If it does arise, there is no separation. And if there is separation, life does not remain.

Anubhāṣya.

ka-i-avarahi-aṁ (without deceit — free from the pretended religion of dharma, artha, kāma, mokṣa and the like) pemmaṁ (prema) māṇuse loe (in the human world) ṇa hi hoi (does not exist). ja-i (if) kassa (of someone) virahaḥ (separation — a break in love — occurs), (then) virahe (in separation) hontammi (when it occurs) na ko jīa-i (who would live)?

The meaning of the verse —

অকৈতব কৃষ্ণপ্রেম, যেন জাম্বূনদ-হেম, সেই প্রেমা নৃলোকে না হয়।
যদি হয় তার যোগ, না হয় তবে বিয়োগ, বিয়োগ হৈলে কেহ না জীয়য় ॥ ৪৩ ॥

akaitava kṛṣṇa-prema, yena jāmbūnada-hema, without deceit love for Kṛṣṇa like of the Jāmbū river gold
sei premā nṛloke nā haya
that love in the human world not exists
yadi haya tāra yoga, nā haya tabe viyoga,
if is with it union not is then separation
viyoga haile keha nā jīyaya
separation occurring anyone not lives

43 “Love for Kṛṣṇa without deceit is like the gold of the Jāmbū river: such love does not exist in the human world. If one is joined with it, there is no separation; and if separation comes, no one lives.”

এত কহি' শচীসুত, শ্লোক পড়ে অদ্ভুত, শুনে দুঁহে এক-মন হঞা ।
আপন-হৃদয়-কাজ, কহিতে বাসিয়ে লাজ, তবু কহি লাজবীজ খাঞা ॥ ৪৪ ॥

eta kahi' śacī-suta, śloka paḍe adbhuta,
so saying the son of Śacī a verse recites wondrous śune duṁhe eka-mana hañā hear both of one mind becoming āpana-hṛdaya-kāja, kahite vāsiye lāja,
of My own heart's affairs to tell I feel shame
tabu kahi lāja-bīja khāñā
still I tell shame's seed eating

44 Having said this, the son of Śacī recited a wondrous verse, and the two listened with one mind: "I feel ashamed to tell what is in My heart, yet I will speak, casting shame aside:

Anubhāṣya.
Lāja-bīja khāñā (literally "eating the seed of shame") — casting off all shame.

ন প্রেমগন্ধোঽস্তি দরাপি মে হরৌ
ক্রন্দামি সৌভাগ্যভরং প্রকাশিতুম্ ।
বংশীবিলাস্যাননলোকনং বিনা বিভর্ম্মি যৎ প্রাণপতঙ্গকান্ বৃথা ॥ ৪৫ ॥

na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau
not of love a trace is even slightly in Me for Hari
krandāmi saubhāgya-bharaṁ prakāśitum
I weep of good fortune the greatness to display
vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā of Him who plays the flute of the face without seeing bibharmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā
I sustain that the insects of My life in vain

45 There is not even a slight trace of love for Hari in Me. I weep only to display how great My good fortune is. Without seeing the face of Him who plays the flute, I sustain in vain this insect-like life of Mine.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Sakhī, I have not even a faint scent of prema for Kṛṣṇa. And if I weep, it is only to show how great My good fortune is! Without seeing Kṛṣṇa with the flute at His lips, I keep alive in vain this insect of My life.

Anubhāṣya.

me (my) harau (for Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa) darāpi (even slightly) prema-gandhaḥ (even a connection with prema) na asti, (and yet) saubhāgya-bharam (my great good fortune — as if I had prema) prakāśitum krandāmi (I shed tears of joy). yat (for) vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanam (seeing the beauty of the face of Kṛṣṇa absorbed in playing the flute) vinā prāṇa-pataṅgakān (my life, which is like a tiny insect) vṛthā bibharmi (I maintain).

The meaning of the verse —

দূরে শুদ্ধপ্রেমগন্ধ, কপট প্রেমের বন্ধ, সেহ মোর নাহি কৃষ্ণ-পায় ।
তবে যে করি ক্রন্দন, স্বসৌভাগ্য প্রখ্যাপন, করি, ইহা জানিহ নিশ্চয় ॥ ৪৬ ॥

dūre śuddha-prema-gandha, kapaṭa premera bandha,
far of pure love the scent of feigned love the bond
seha mora nāhi kṛṣṇa-pāya
even that of Mine is not at Kṛṣṇa's feet
tabe ye kari krandana, sva-saubhāgya prakhyāpana,
yet that I make weeping my good fortune's display
kari, ihā jāniha niścaya
I make this know for certain

46 Far from Me is even the scent of pure love; I do not have even a bond of feigned love at Kṛṣṇa's feet. If I weep, I do it to display My good fortune — know this for certain.

যাতে বংশীধ্বনি-সুখ, না দেখি’ সে চাঁদ মুখ, যদ্যপি নাহিক ‘আলম্বন’ ।
নিজ-দেহে করি প্রীতি, কেবল কামের রীতি, প্রাণ-কীটেরে করিয়ে ধারণ ॥ ৪৭ ॥

yāte vaṁśī-dhvani-sukha, nā dekhi’ se cāṁda mukha, in which the flute sound’s joy not seeing that moon-like face yadyapi nāhika ‘ālambana’
although there is not support (ālambana)
nija-dehe kari prīti, kevala kāmera rīti,
My own body I make love only of kāma the way
prāṇa-kīṭere kariye dhāraṇa
the insect of life I make maintenance

47 Without seeing that moon-like face, in which lies the joy of the flute’s sound, I have no support (ālambana) for My life; still I love My own body. This is simply the way of kāma, desire for oneself: I maintain this insect of a life.

Anubhāṣya.

The meeting of two tattvas — the viṣaya, the one who is served, and the āśraya, the servant — is called avalambana. The āśraya has hearing; the viṣaya has the sound of the flute. And the āśraya’s eagerness to see the viṣaya’s moonlike face shows that the āśraya is without ālambana. Then, under the sway of her own external perception, she keeps her life going uselessly, to fulfil kāma, desire for herself. (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu) “Alas, what is the use of keeping these wretched bodies of ours, since our pious merit has borne no fruit?” Alas, what more will come of caring for our wretched bodies, bereft of merit?

The characteristics of love for Kṛṣṇa —

কৃষ্ণপ্রেমা সুনির্ম্মল, যেন শুদ্ধগঙ্গাজল, সেই প্রেমা — অমৃতের সিন্ধু ৷
নির্ম্মল সে অনুরাগে, না লুকায় অন্য দাগে, শুক্লবস্ত্রে যৈছে মসীবিন্দু ॥ ৪৮ ॥

kṛṣṇa-premā sunirmala, yena śuddha-gaṅgā-jala,
love for Kṛṣṇa spotless like pure Gaṅgā water
sei premā — amṛtera sindhu
that love of nectar an ocean
nirmala se anurāge, nā lukāya anya dāge, spotless in that attachment (anurāga) not hides another stain
śukla-vastre yaiche masī-bindu
on white cloth like an ink drop

48 Love for Kṛṣṇa is spotless, like the pure water of the Gaṅgā; that love is an ocean of nectar. In that spotless attachment (anurāga) no other stain can hide, just as a drop of ink cannot hide on white cloth.

Anubhāṣya.

The anurāga of pure love for Kṛṣṇa is like white cloth, and the absence of anurāga is like an ink stain: that is not anurāga at all. It is as plain as an ink stain on the white background called anurāga.

শুদ্ধপ্রেম-সুখসিন্ধু, পাই তার এক বিন্দু, সেই বিন্দু জগৎ ডুবায় ৷
কহিবার যোগ্য নয়, তথাপি বাউলে কয়, কহিলে বা কেবা পাতিয়ায় ॥ ৪৯ ॥

śuddha-prema-sukha-sindhu, pāi tāra eka bindu, pure love's happiness ocean if I get its one drop sei bindu jagat ḍubāya
that drop the world drowns
kahibāra yogya naya, tathāpi bāule kaya,
to tell fit not yet the madman speaks
kahile vā kebā pātiyāya
when told even who believes

49 Pure love is an ocean of joy; if one gets a single drop of it, that drop drowns the world. It is not fit to be told, yet the madman speaks — and when it is told, who believes it?"

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Pātiyāya — believes.

The contradictory characteristics of love for Kṛṣṇa —

এইমত দিনে-দিনে, স্বরূপ-রামানন্দ-সনে, নিজ-ভাব করেন বিদিত ।
বাহ্যে বিষজ্বালা হয়, ভিতরে আনন্দময়, কৃষ্ণপ্রেমা অদ্ভুত চরিত ॥ ৫০ ॥

ei mata dine-dine, svarūpa-rāmānanda-sane,
in this way day after day Svarūpa and Rāmānanda with nija-bhāva karena vidita
His own feelings makes known
bāhye viṣa-jvālā haya, bhitare ānanda-maya,
outwardly poison's burning is within blissful kṛṣṇa-premā adbhuta carita
love for Kṛṣṇa wondrous nature

50 In this way, day after day, He revealed His feelings to Svarūpa and Rāmānanda. Outwardly there was the burning of poison, but within was bliss: such is the wondrous nature of love for Kṛṣṇa.

এই প্রেমা-আস্বাদন, তপ্ত-ইক্ষু-চর্ব্বণ, মুখ জ্বলে, না যায় ত্যজন ৷
সেই প্রেমা যাঁর মনে, তার বিক্রম সেই জানে, বিষামৃতে একত্র মিলন ॥ ৫১ ॥

ei premā-āsvādana, tapta-ikṣu-carvaṇa, this love's tasting hot sugarcane chewing mukha jvale, nā yāya tyajana
the mouth burns not can be given up
sei premā yāṁra mane, tāra vikrama sei jāne,
that love in whose heart its power he alone knows viṣāmṛte ekatra milana
of poison and nectar in one meeting

51 Tasting this love is like chewing hot sugarcane: the mouth burns, yet one cannot give it up. Only he in whose heart that love lives knows its power — poison and nectar meeting in one.

পীড়াভির্নবকালকূট-কটুতাগর্ব্বস্য নির্ব্বাসনো
নিঃস্যন্দেন মুদাং সুধা-মধুরিমাহঙ্কারসঙ্কোচনঃ ৷
প্রেমা সুন্দরি নন্দনন্দনপরো জাগর্ত্তি যস্যান্তরে
জ্ঞায়ন্তে স্ফুটমস্য বক্রমধুরাস্তেনৈব বিক্রান্তয়ঃ ॥ ৫২ ॥

pīḍābhir nava-kāla-kūṭa-kaṭutā-garvasya nirvāsano
by its pains of fresh kālakūṭa poison pungency's pride banishing
niḥsyandena mudāṁ sudhā-madhurimāhaṅkāra-saṅkocanaḥ
by the outpouring of joys of nectar sweetness's conceit humbling
premā sundari nanda-nandana-paro jāgarti yasyāntare love O beautiful one for Nanda's son directed awakens in whose heart jñāyante sphuṭam asya vakra-madhurās tenaiva vikrāntayaḥ are known clearly its crooked and sweet by him alone powers

52 "O beautiful one, when love for Nanda's son awakens in someone's heart, its pains drive out the pride that fresh kālakūṭa poison takes in its sting, and its outpouring of joys humbles the boast of nectar in its sweetness. Its crooked and sweet powers are clearly known to that person alone." (Vidagdha-mādhava, 2.18)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

O beautiful one, in the person in whose heart prema for the son of Nanda has awakened, all its sweet and wayward wonders are clearly seen. This prema works in two ways. By the torment it brings, it banishes the pride that fresh snake venom takes in its pungency — that is, it brings a sorrow beyond which there is nothing. And by a shower of joy it gives the highest happiness, before which the pride that nectar takes in its sweetness shrinks.

Anubhāṣya.

Paurṇamāsī says to Nāndīmukhī: sundari (O beautiful one), pīḍābhiḥ (by its torments) nava-kāla-kūṭa-kaṭutā-garvasya (of the pride in pungency of fresh kālakūṭa, the most potent poison — the fierceness with which it disdains everything else) nirvāsanaḥ (banishing), mudāṁ niḥsyandena (by its outpouring of joys) sudhā-madhurimāhaṅkāra-saṅkocanaḥ (that which humbles the pride nectar takes in its sweetness), nanda-nandana-paraḥ (directed towards Kṛṣṇa) premā yasya antare (in the heart) jāgarti, asya (of this prema) vakra-madhurāḥ (sweet, yet wayward) vikrāntayaḥ (displays of power) tena (by that person) eva sphuṭam (clearly) jñāyante (are experienced).

*The Lord's mahābhāva on seeing Kṛṣṇa —*

যে কালে দেখে জগন্নাথ, শ্রীরাম-সুভদ্রা-সাথ, তবে জানে — আইলাম কুরুক্ষেত্র ।
সফল হৈল জীবন, দেখিলুঁ পদ্মলোচন, জুড়াইল তনু-মন-নেত্র ॥ ৫৩ ॥

ye kāle dekhe jagannātha, śrīrāma-subhadrā-sātha,
when sees Jagannātha with Śrī Rāma and Subhadrā
tabe jāne — āilāma kurukṣetra
then thinks I have come to Kurukṣetra
saphala haila jīvana, dekhiluṁ padma-locana, fruitful has become life I have seen the lotus-eyed One juḍāila tanu-mana-netra
are soothed body mind eyes

53 When He saw Jagannātha with Śrī Balarāma and Subhadrā, He thought: "I have come to Kurukṣetra! My life has borne fruit: I have seen the lotus-eyed One, and My body, mind and eyes are soothed."

গরুড়ের সন্নিধানে, রহি' করে দরশনে, সে আনন্দের কি কহিব ব'লে ৷
গরুড়-স্তম্ভের তলে, আছে এক নিম্ন খালে, সে খাল ভরিল অশ্রুজলে ॥ ৫৪ ॥

garuḍera sannidhāne, rahi' kare daraśane,
of Garuḍa in the presence staying takes darśana
se ānandera ki kahiba ba'le
that bliss what shall I tell in words
garuḍa-stambhera tale, āche eka nimna khāle,
of the Garuḍa pillar at the base is a low channel
se khāla bharila aśru-jale
that channel filled with tears

54 Standing near Garuḍa, He took darśana of the Lord. What can I say of that bliss? At the base of the Garuḍa pillar there was a low channel in the floor, and it filled with His tears.

Anubhāṣya.
In front of Śrī Jagannātha's temple, at the far end of the jagamohana, stands the "Garuḍa-stambha," the pillar of Garuḍa. Behind it there used to be a low channel in the floor; it would fill with the Lord's tears of love.

Separation from Kṛṣṇa awakens again —

তাঁহা হৈতে ঘরে আসি', মাটীর উপরে বসি', নখে করে পৃথিবী লিখন ৷
হা-হা কাঁহা বৃন্দাবন, কাঁহা গোপেন্দ্রনন্দন, কাঁহা সেই বংশীবদন ॥ ৫৫ ॥

tāṁhā haite ghare āsi', māṭīra upare vasi',
from there home coming the ground on sitting nakhe kare pṛthivī likhana
with His nails makes on the earth writing
hā-hā kāṁhā vṛndāvana, kāṁhā gopendra-nandana, alas where is Vṛndāvana where the son of the king of cowherds
kāṁhā sei vaṁśī-vadana
where that one with the flute at His lips

55 Returning home from there, He would sit on the ground and write on the earth with His nails: "Alas, where is Vṛndāvana? Where is the son of the king of the cowherds? Where is He with the flute at His lips?

কাঁহা সে ত্রিভঙ্গঠাম, কাঁহা সেই বেণুগান, কাঁহা সেই যমুনা-পুলিন ৷
কাঁহা সে রাসবিলাস, কাঁহা নৃত্যগীত-হাস, কাঁহা প্রভু মদনমোহন ॥ ৫৬ ॥

kāṁhā se tri-bhaṅga-ṭhāma, kāṁhā sei veṇu-gāna,
where that threefold-bending stance where that flute song
kāṁhā sei yamunā-pulina
where that Yamunā's bank
kāṁhā se rāsa-vilāsa, kāṁhā nṛtya-gīta-hāsa,
where that rāsa play where dancing singing laughter
kāṁhā prabhu madana-mohana
where the Lord Madana-mohana

56 Where is that stance, bending in three places? Where is that song of the flute? Where is that bank of the Yamunā? Where is that play of the rāsa? Where are the dancing, the singing and the laughter? Where is My Lord, Madana-mohana?"

উঠিল নানা ভাবোদ্বেগ, মনে হৈল উদ্বেগ, ক্ষণমাত্র নারে গোঙাইতে ।
প্রবল বিরহানলে, ধৈর্য্য হৈল টলমলে, নানা শ্লোক লাগিলা পড়িতে ॥ ৫৭ ॥

uṭhila nānā bhāvodvega, mane haila udvega,
arose various ecstasies' agitation in the mind was anxiety
kṣaṇa-mātra nāre goṅāite
for a moment only cannot pass time
prabala virahānale, dhairya haila ṭalamale,
in the strong fire of separation composure became shaken
nānā śloka lāgilā paḍite various verses began to recite

57 Many feelings surged up in turmoil, and His mind grew anxious; He could not endure a single moment. In the fierce fire of separation His composure tottered, and He began to recite various verses:

অমূন্যধন্যানি দিনান্তরাণি হরে ত্বদালোকনমন্তরেণ ।
অনাথবন্ধো করুণৈকসিন্ধো হা হন্ত হা হন্ত কথং নয়ামি ॥ ৫৮ ॥

amūny adhanyāni dināntarāṇi
these unfortunate days and nights
hare tvad-ālokanam antareṇa O Hari Your sight without anātha-bandho karuṇaika-sindho
O friend of the helpless of compassion the sole ocean
hā hanta hā hanta kathaṁ nayāmi
alas alas alas alas how shall I pass

58 "O Hari, O friend of the helpless, O sole ocean of compassion! Alas, alas, how shall I pass these unfortunate days and nights without seeing You?" (Kṛṣṇa-karṇāmṛta, 41)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

O Hari! O friend of the helpless! O sole ocean of mercy! Without seeing You, how shall I pass these wretched days and nights?

Anubhāṣya.

anātha-bandho (O friend of the helpless — of the gopīs tormented by separation; O You who are such a friend) karuṇaika-sindho (O sole ocean of mercy; the sense is: apart from Kṛṣṇa no one has the wealth of sweetness and prema, so no one else can have compassion on the gopīs) hare (O Hari — who steals the bodies, minds and words of the gopīs), tvad-ālokanam (seeing You) antareṇa (without) hā hanta! hā hanta! adhanyāni (inauspicious) amūni dināntarāṇi (these days — that is, these days and nights) kathaṁ (how — without serving You) nayāmi (shall I pass)?

The Lord's lament in separation from Kṛṣṇa —

তোমার দর্শন-বিনে, অধন্য এ রাত্রি-দিনে, এই কাল না যায় কাটন ৷
তুমি অনাথের বন্ধু, অপার করুণাসিন্ধু, কৃপা করি' দেহ দরশন ॥ ৫৯ ॥

tomāra darśana-vine, adhanya e rātri-dine,
Your sight without unfortunate these nights and days
ei kāla nā yāya kāṭana
this time not can pass
tumi anāthera bandhu, apāra karuṇā-sindhu,
You of the helpless the friend boundless of compassion ocean
kṛpā kari' deha daraśana
mercy showing give sight

59 "Without seeing You, these nights and days are unfortunate; this time will not pass. You are the friend of the helpless, a boundless ocean of compassion: be merciful and let Me see You."

Mad with longing to see Kṛṣṇa —

উঠিল ভাব-চাপল, মন হইল চঞ্চল, ভাবের গতি বুঝন না যায় ।
অদর্শনে পোড়ে মন, কেমনে পাব দরশন, কৃষ্ণ-ঠাঞি পুছেন উপায় ॥ ৬০ ॥

uṭhila bhāva-cāpala, mana haila cañcala,
arose ecstasy's restlessness the mind became unsteady
bhāvera gati bujhana nā yāya
of ecstasy the course to understand not is possible
adarśane poḍe mana, kemane pāba daraśana,
without seeing burns the mind how shall I get sight
kṛṣṇa-ṭhāñi puchena upāya
of Kṛṣṇa He asks the means

60 Restless feeling arose and His mind grew unsteady; the course of such feeling cannot be understood. His mind burned from not seeing Kṛṣṇa, and He asked Kṛṣṇa Himself how He might see Him:

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Cāpala — cāpalya, restlessness.

ত্বচ্ছৈশবং ত্রিভুবনাদ্ভুতমিত্যবেহি
মচ্চাপলঞ্চ তব বা মম বাধিগম্যম্ ।
তৎ কিং করোমি বিরলং মুরলীবিলাসি মুগ্ধং মুখাম্বুজমুদীক্ষিতুমীক্ষণাভ্যাম্ ॥ ৬১ ॥

tvac-chaiśavaṁ tri-bhuvanādbhutam ity avehi
Your boyhood of the three worlds a wonder so know
mac-cāpalaṁ ca tava vā mama vādhigamyam
My restlessness and to You or to Me alone known tat kiṁ karomi viralaṁ muralī-vilāsi
so what shall I do in solitude O flute-player
mugdhaṁ mukhāmbujam udīkṣitum īkṣaṇābhyām
charming lotus face to behold with My two eyes

61 “O flute-player, know that Your boyish charm and My restlessness are wonders of the three worlds, known only to You and Me. What then shall I do to gaze on Your charming lotus face with My own eyes, when We are alone?” (Kṛṣṇa-karṇāmṛta, 32)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

O Kṛṣṇa, player of the flute, the sweetness of Your childhood is the wonder of the three worlds. My restlessness is known to You and to Me alone, and to no one else. What am I to do now to see Your beautiful lotus face in private with these two eyes?

Anubhāṣya.

muralī-vilāsi (O player of the flute that steals the hearts of the gopīs), tvat (Your) śaiśavam mat (my) cāpalaṁ ca tri-bhuvanādbhutam (are wonderful in all the three worlds) — tava vā mama vā (that is, only to the two of us) adhigamyam (are known; no one else knows). viralam (in private, or: rarely seen) mugdham (enchanting the hearts of the gopīs) mukhāmbujam (lotus face) īkṣaṇābhyām (with my eyes) udīkṣitum (to gaze at as much as I wish) kiṁ karomi (what am I to do? — tell me the way).

তোমার মাধুরী-বল, তাতে মোর চাপল,
এই দুই, তুমি আমি জানি ।
কাঁহা করোঁ কাঁহা যাঙ, কাঁহা গেলে তোমা পাঙ, তাহা মোরে কহ ত’ আপনি ॥ ৬২ ॥

tomāra mādhurī-bala, tāte mora cāpala,
Your sweetness’s power by it My restlessness ei dui, tumi āmi jāni
these two You (and) I know
kāṁhā karoṁ kāṁhā yāṅa, kāṁhā gele tomā pāṅa, what shall I do where shall I go where going You shall I find
tāhā more kaha ta’ āpani
that to Me tell indeed Yourself

62 “The power of Your sweetness, and My restlessness because of it — these two only You and I know. What shall I do? Where shall I go? Where can I go to find You? Tell Me this Yourself!”

*The Lord’s divine madness in mahābhāva —*

নানা-ভাবের প্রাবল্য, হৈল সন্ধি-শাবল্য, ভাবে-ভাবে হৈল মহারণ।
ঔৎসুক্য, চাপল্য, দৈন্য, রোষামর্ষ আদি সৈন্য, প্রেমোন্মাদ — সবার কারণ ॥ ৬৩ ॥

nānā-bhāvera prābalya, haila sandhi-śābalya,
of various ecstasies the force arose junction and mingling
bhāve-bhāve haila mahā-raṇa
ecstasy with ecstasy there was a great battle
autsukya, cāpalya, dainya, roṣāmarṣa ādi sainya, eagerness restlessness humility anger and indignation and other soldiers premonmāda — sabāra kāraṇa
the madness of love of all the cause

63 Under the force of many feelings they met and mingled (sandhi and śābalya), and feeling fought feeling in a great battle. Eagerness, restlessness, humility, anger, indignation and others were the soldiers, and the madness of love was the cause of it all.

Anubhāṣya.

Sandhi (a joining of emotions). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) “Sandhi is the joining of two bhāvas, alike or different.” Sarūpa-sandhi: “The sandhi of two similar bhāvas that arise from different causes.” Bhinna-rūpa sandhi: “[The sandhi] of two different bhāvas born of one cause or of different causes.” The joining or meeting of two bhāvas, alike or different, is called sandhi. When two similar bhāvas born of different causes meet, that is sarūpa-sandhi. The meeting of two different bhāvas born of one cause or of different causes is called bhinna-rūpa sandhi. Examples of the sandhi of two bhāvas from one cause or from different causes: the joining of joy and apprehension, the joining of joy and dejection.

Śābalya (a mingling of emotions). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) “Śabalatva is the clash of bhāvas with one another.”

The mutual clash of bhāvas is called śābalya. When pride, dejection, humility, resolve, remembrance, apprehension, indignation, fear, despondency, fortitude, eagerness and other bhāvas clash, śābalya arises.

Autsukya (eagerness). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) "Autsukya is the inability to bear delay, born of the longing to see or attain the desired object and the like. It produces dryness of the mouth, haste, anxious thoughts, sighs, immobility and so on." The inability to bear delay because one longs to see the desired object and to attain it is called autsukya. In autsukya one sees dryness of the mouth, agitation, anxious thoughts, deep sighs and immobility.

Cāpala (restlessness). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) "Lightness of mind caused by attachment, aversion and the like is cāpala. In it there arise thoughtlessness, harshness, acting as one pleases, and so on." Lightness of mind through attachment and aversion is called cāpala. In it there arise thoughtlessness, harsh words, acting as one pleases, and so on.

Roṣa (anger). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) "Fury born of an offence, harsh words and the like is ugratā. It leads to killing, binding, shaking the head, scolding, beating and so on." Anger born of an offence or of objectionable words is called ugratā or roṣa. In it there arise killing, binding, shaking the head, scolding, beating and so on.

Amarṣa (indignation). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) "Intolerance caused by reproach, dishonor and the like is amarṣa. In it there arise perspiration, shaking of the head, pallor, brooding, searching for a means, crying out, turning away, beating and so on." Intolerance caused by reproach or censure, dishonor and the like is called amarṣa. In it there arise perspiration, shaking of the head, pallor, brooding, searching for a means, crying out, turning away, beating and so on.

মত্তগজ ভাবগণ, প্রভুর দেহ — ইক্ষুবন, গজযুদ্ধে বনের দলন ।
প্রভুর হৈল দিব্যোন্মাদ, তনুমনের অবসাদ, ভাবাবেশে করে সম্বোধন ॥ ৬৪ ॥

matta-gaja bhāva-gaṇa, prabhura deha — ikṣu-vana, maddened elephants the ecstasies the Lord's body a sugarcane field
gaja-yuddhe vanera dalana
in the elephants' fight of the field the trampling
prabhura haila divyonmāda, tanu-manera avasāda, to the Lord came divine madness of body and mind exhaustion
bhāvāveśe kare sambodhana
in ecstatic absorption makes address

64 His feelings were maddened elephants and the Lord's body a field of sugarcane: in the elephants' battle the field was trampled. Divine madness came upon the Lord, His body and mind were exhausted, and, absorbed in His feelings, He cried out:

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Divyonmāda. A certain wondrous, special state of prema (vaicitrya), resembling bewilderment (bhrama), in the bhāva called mohana is called divyonmāda, divine madness.

Longing to see Kṛṣṇa, the Beloved —

হে দেব, হে দয়িত, হে ভুবনৈকবন্ধো, হে কৃষ্ণ, হে চপল, হে করুণৈকসিন্ধো।
হে নাথ, হে রমণ, হে নয়নাভিরাম, হা হা কদা নু ভবিতাসি পদং দৃশোর্মে ॥ ৬৫ ॥

he deva, he dayita, he bhuvanaika-bandho, O God O Beloved O sole Friend of the world
he kṛṣṇa, he capala, he karuṇaika-sindho,
O Kṛṣṇa O Fickle One O sole Ocean of compassion
he nātha, he ramaṇa, he nayanābhirāma
O Lord O Lover O Delight of the eyes
hā hā kadā nu bhavitāsi padaṁ dṛśor me
alas alas when indeed will You be on the path of the eyes of Mine

65 "O God, O Beloved, O sole Friend of the world! O Kṛṣṇa, O Fickle One, O sole Ocean of compassion! O Lord, O Lover, O Delight of the eyes! Alas, alas, when will You again come before My eyes?" (Kṛṣṇa-karṇāmṛta, 40)[5]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

O Deva! O Dayita! O sole Friend of the world! O Kṛṣṇa! O Capala! O ocean of mercy! O Nātha! O Ramaṇa! O delight of the eyes! Ah, when will You show Yourself to Me again?

Anubhāṣya.

he deva, he dayita (beloved), he bhuvanaika-bandho (sole protector of the land of Vraja), he capala (who does as He pleases), he karuṇaika-sindho, he ramaṇa (who delights the gopīs), he nayanābhirāma (joy of the eyes), he kṛṣṇa (who draws the cowherd wives to Him). hā hā me (my) dṛśoḥ (of the eyes) padam (within the range) kadā (when) nu (indeed) bhavitāsi?

A description of the Lord's divine madness —

উন্মাদের লক্ষণ, করায় কৃষ্ণ-স্ফুরণ, ভাবাবেশে উঠে প্রণয়-মান ।
সোল্লুণ্ঠ-বচন-রীতি, মান, গর্ব্ব, ব্যাজ-স্তুতি, কভু নিন্দা, কভু বা সম্মান ॥ ৬৬ ॥

unmādera lakṣaṇa, karāya kṛṣṇa-sphuraṇa,
of madness the signs cause Kṛṣṇa's appearance
bhāvāveśe uṭhe praṇaya-māna
in ecstatic absorption arises loving pique solluṇṭha-vacana-rīti, māna, garva, vyāja-stuti,
of mocking words the manner pique pride veiled praise
kabhu nindā, kabhu vā sammāna
sometimes censure sometimes even honour

66 The signs of divine madness made Kṛṣṇa appear before Him, and, absorbed in feeling, He was seized by loving pique (praṇaya-māna). His words turned mocking, sulky and proud, with praise in the guise of blame: now He censured, now He honoured.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Solluṇṭha — censure in words of praise.

Anubhāṣya.

Unmāda (madness). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, fourth wave) "Unmāda is a bewilderment of the heart born of intense joy, calamity, separation and the like. In it there arise loud laughter, dancing, singing, aimless acts, incoherent talk, running, shouting, contrary behaviour and so on." A bewilderment of the heart born of intense joy, calamity, separation and the like is called unmāda. In unmāda there arise loud laughter, dancing, singing, aimless acts, incoherent talk, running, shouting and contrary behaviour.

Praṇaya. (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Western Division, third wave) "Rati that is not touched even by a trace of reverential awe (sambhrama) and the like, though there is clear occasion for it, is called praṇaya." Rati that is not touched even by a trace of sambhrama, although there is clear occasion for sambhrama and the like, is called praṇaya.

Māna. (Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi) "Sneha that, on reaching its highest intensity, makes one relish a new sweetness and takes on an unyielding air is called māna." The melting of the heart that, reaching its highest intensity, makes one relish ever new sweetness and, to hide one's own feeling, outwardly takes on a contrary air — that is māna.

*An explanation of the verse "he deva" quoted above —*

তুমি দেব — ক্রীড়া-রত, ভুবনের নারী যত, তাহে কর অভীষ্ট ক্রীড়ন ।
তুমি মোর দয়িত, তাতে বৈস মোর চিত, মোর ভাগ্যে কৈলে আগমন ॥ ৬৭ ॥

tumi deva — krīḍā-rata, bhuvanera nārī yata,
You God in play absorbed of the world women all
tāhe kara abhīṣṭa krīḍana
with them You make the play You desire
tumi mora dayita, tāte vaisa mora cita,
You My Beloved therefore sit in My heart
mora bhāgye kaile āgamana
by My good fortune You have made Your coming

67 "You are God (deva), absorbed in play: with all the women of the world You play as You like. You are My Beloved (dayita): so sit within My heart, since by My good fortune You have come.

ভুবনের নারীগণ, সবা' কর আকর্ষণ, তাঁহা কর সব সমাধান ।
তুমি কৃষ্ণ — চিত্ত হর, ঐছে কোন্ পামর, তোমারে বা কেবা করে মান ॥ ৬৮ ॥

bhuvanera nārī-gaṇa, sabā' kara ākarṣaṇa,
of the world the women all You make attraction
tāṁhā kara saba samādhāna
there You make for all satisfaction
tumi kṛṣṇa — citta hara, aiche kon pāmara,
You Kṛṣṇa hearts You steal such what rogue tomāre vā kebā kare māna
You indeed who makes honour

68 You attract all the women of the world and satisfy them all. You are Kṛṣṇa, the stealer of hearts — what a rogue! Who would ever honour You?

তোমার চপল মতি, একত্র না হয় স্থিতি, তাতে তোমার নাহি কিছু দোষ ।
তুমি ত' করুণাসিন্ধু, আমার পরাণ-বন্ধু, তোমায় নাহি মোর কভু রোষ ॥ ৬৯ ॥

tomāra capala mati, ekatra nā haya sthiti,
Your fickle mind in one place not is staying tāte tomāra nāhi kichu doṣa
in that Yours is not any fault
tumi ta' karuṇā-sindhu, āmāra parāṇa-bandhu,
You indeed compassion's ocean My life's friend
tomāya nāhi mora kabhu roṣa
at You is not My ever anger

69 Your mind is fickle; it never stays in one place — but that is no fault of Yours. You are an ocean of compassion, the friend of My life; I am never angry with You.

Forgiveness towards Kṛṣṇa, or a gracious mood —

তুমি নাথ, — ব্রজপ্রাণ, ব্রজের কর পরিত্রাণ, বহুকার্য্যে নাহি অবকাশ ।
তুমি আমার রমণ, সুখ দিতে আগমন, এ তোমার বৈদগ্ধ্য-বিলাস ॥ ৭০ ॥

tumi nātha, — vraja-prāṇa, vrajera kara paritrāṇa,
You Lord Vraja's life Vraja You make protection
bahu kārye nāhi avakāśa
with many tasks is not leisure
tumi āmāra ramaṇa, sukha dite āgamana,
You My Lover happiness to give coming
e tomāra vaidagdhya-vilāsa
this Your cleverness's play

70 You are the Lord (nātha), the life of Vraja; You protect Vraja, and with so many tasks You have no leisure. You are My Lover (ramaṇa); You come to give Me happiness — this is the play of Your cleverness.

Anubhāṣya.
Vaidagdhya — skill, learning, refined taste (rasikatā), cleverness, elegance, or style.

মোর বাক্য নিন্দা মানি', কৃষ্ণ ছাড়ি' গেলা জানি, শুন, মোর এ স্তুতি-বচন ।
নয়নের অভিরাম, তুমি মোর ধন-প্রাণ, হাহা পুনঃ দেহ দরশন ॥ ৭১ ॥

mora vākya nindā māni', kṛṣṇa chāḍi' gelā jāni,
My words as censure taking Kṛṣṇa leaving went I know
śuna, mora e stuti-vacana
hear My this praise speech
nayanera abhirāma, tumi mora dhana-prāṇa,
of the eyes delight You My wealth and life
hāhā punaḥ deha daraśana
alas again give sight

71 Taking My words as censure, Kṛṣṇa has left Me, I know. Hear these words of praise: You are the delight of My eyes, My wealth and My life. Alas, show Yourself to Me again!"

*The symptoms of the Lord's mahābhāva —*

স্তম্ভ, কম্প, প্রস্বেদ, বৈবর্ণ্য, অশ্রু, স্বরভেদ, দেহ হৈল পুলকে ব্যাপিত ৷
হাসে, কান্দে, নাচে, গায়, উঠি' ইতি-উতি ধায়, ক্ষণে ভূমে পড়িয়া মূর্চ্ছিত ॥ ৭২ ॥

stambha, kampa, prasveda, vaivarṇya, aśru, svara-bheda, stupor trembling perspiration pallor tears faltering voice
deha haila pulake vyāpita
the body became with bristling hair pervaded
hāse, kānde, nāce, gāya, uṭhi' iti-uti dhāya,
laughs weeps dances sings rising here and there runs kṣaṇe bhūme paḍiyā mūrcchita
at times on the ground falling unconscious

72 Stupor, trembling, perspiration, pallor, tears and a faltering voice appeared, and His body was covered with bristling hair. He laughed, wept, danced and sang; rising, He ran here and there, and at times fell unconscious to the ground.

Anubhāṣya.

Stambha (stupor) — one of the eight sāttvika transformations. (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, third wave) "When the mind is filled with

sattva, it places itself, agitated, in the prāṇa. The prāṇa, being transformed, greatly agitates the body. Then these bhāvas, stambha and the others, appear in the devotee's body. The prāṇa, resting in the element earth, produces stambha. Stambha arises from joy, fear, wonder, dejection and indignation. In it there is absence of speech and the like,[8] motionlessness, blankness and so on." When the mind reaches a sāttvika state, it places the restless mind in the prāṇa. The prāṇa, transformed, agitates the body. Then these bhāvas, stambha and the others, appear in the body of one engaged in bhajana. When the prāṇa rests in earth, one of the five elements, stambha arises. Stambha is born of joy, fear, wonder, dejection and anger. In stambha the activity of speech, hands, feet and so on ceases, and there is motionlessness, blankness and the like. Stambha is a particular state of the mind. The absence of speech and so on — a transformation born of the body — pervades both the outside and the inside. First it is subtle, later gross. Speechlessness and the like — that is, the blankness even of the organs of action — shows that the organs of knowledge, too, have ceased to act.

Kampa (trembling). (Ibid.) "Vepathu, which makes the limbs quiver, arises from fright, indignation, joy and the like." When the body quivers from great fear, anger, joy and the like, it is called vepathu or kampa.

Sveda (perspiration). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, third wave) "Sveda is the moistening of the body born of joy, fear, anger and the like." That is, the moisture the body produces from joy, fear, anger and so on is called sveda.

Vaivarṇya (pallor). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, third wave) "Vaivarṇya is a change of colour from dejection, anger, fear and the like. Here the knowers of bhāva name paleness, thinness and so on." That is, the change of the body's colour from dejection, anger, fear and so on is called vaivarṇya. With vaivarṇya paleness, thinness and the like are mentioned.

Aśru (tears). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, third wave) "Aśru is water welling up in the eyes from joy, anger, dejection and the like. Tears of joy are cool; tears of anger and the like are hot. With all tears there is agitation of the eyes, redness, wiping and so on." That is, the water that wells up in the eyes without any effort from joy, anger, dejection and the like is called aśru. Tears of joy are cool and tears of anger and so on are hot, but with all tears one sees restlessness of the eyes, redness, wiping and the like.

Gadgada (a choked voice). (Ibid.) "Vaisvarya, a change of voice, arises from dejection, wonder, indignation, joy, fear and the like; it causes stammering and so on." From dejection, wonder, anger, joy, fear and the like the voice changes — this is vaisvarya, or svara-bheda. This change of voice makes the speech falter.

Pulaka (hair standing on end). (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Southern Division, third wave) "Romāñca arises from wonder, joy, enthusiasm, fear and the like. In it the hairs stand up, one touches one's limbs, and so on." That is, from wonder, joy, enthusiasm, fear and the like the hairs stand on end — this is pulaka, or romāñca; with it one touches one's body and so on.

The Lord imagines that He sees Kṛṣṇa —

মূর্চ্ছায় হৈল সাক্ষাৎকার, উঠি' করে হুহুঙ্কার, কহে, — এই আইলা মহাশয়।
কৃষ্ণের মাধুরী-গুণে, নানা ভ্রম হয় মনে, শ্লোক পড়ি' করয়ে নিশ্চয় ॥ ৭৩ ॥

mūrcchāya haila sākṣātkāra, uṭhi' kare huhuṅkāra,
in the swoon there was a meeting face to face rising makes a loud roar
kahe, — ei āilā mahāśaya says here has come the Great One kṛṣṇera mādhurī-guṇe, nānā bhrama haya mane, Kṛṣṇa's by sweetness and qualities various bewilderment is in the mind
śloka paḍi' karaye niścaya
a verse reciting makes certain

73 In His swoon He met Kṛṣṇa face to face. Rising, He gave a loud roar and said: "Here He has come, the Great One!" Kṛṣṇa's sweetness and qualities filled His mind with many bewildered fancies, and by reciting a verse He made sure of what He saw:

মারঃ স্বয়ং নু মধুরদ্যুতিমণ্ডলং নু
মাধুর্য্যমেব নু মনোনয়নামৃতং নু ।
বেণীমৃজো নু মম জীবিতবল্লভো নু কৃষ্ণোঽয়মভ্যুদয়তে মম লোচনায় ॥ ৭৪ ॥

māraḥ svayaṁ nu madhura-dyuti-maṇḍalaṁ nu
Cupid himself is it of sweet radiance an orb is it mādhuryam eva nu mano-nayanāmṛtaṁ nu sweetness itself is it for mind and eyes nectar is it veṇī-mṛjo nu mama jīvita-vallabho nu
the loosener of braids is it of My life the beloved is it
kṛṣṇo 'yam abhyudayate mama locanāya
Kṛṣṇa this rises to My eyes

74 "Is this the god of love himself? Is it an orb of sweet radiance? Is it sweetness itself, nectar for the mind and eyes? Is it the One who loosens the braids, the beloved of My life? It is Kṛṣṇa who rises before My eyes!" (Kṛṣṇa-karṇāmṛta, 68)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Sakhī, here the son of Nanda Himself has appeared before My eyes: He is Kandarpa incarnate, the sweetness of a host of radiances, sweetness embodied, nectar for the mind and eyes. He gives joy to the gopīs by loosening their braids; He is the beloved of My life.

Anubhāṣya.
svayaṁ māraḥ (Kandarpa) nu (is it? — a conjecture) madhura-dyuti-maṇḍalam (a beautiful, soft, heart-touching orb of radiance) nu (is it?) mādhuryam eva nu (is it?) mano-nayanāmṛtam (nectar for the heart and eyes) nu (is it?) veṇī-mṛjaḥ (He who loosens the braids) nu (is it?) ayaṁ jīvita-vallabhaḥ (Kṛṣṇa) mama locanāya (to delight my eyes) abhyudayate (has appeared before me).

The meaning of the verse —

কিবা এই সাক্ষাৎ কাম, দ্যুতিবিম্ব-মূর্ত্তিমান্, কি মাধুর্য্য স্বয়ং মূর্ত্তিমন্ত ।
কিবা মনো-নেত্রোৎসব, কিবা প্রাণবল্লভ, সত্য কৃষ্ণ আইলা নেত্রানন্দ ॥ ৭৫ ॥

kibā ei sākṣāt kāma, dyuti-bimba-mūrtimān, is it this in person Kāma of radiance's orb the embodiment ki mādhurya svayaṁ mūrtimanta
is it sweetness itself embodied
kibā mano-netrotsava, kibā prāṇa-vallabha, is it of mind and eyes the festival is it of life the beloved satya kṛṣṇa āilā netrānanda
truly Kṛṣṇa has come the joy of the eyes

75 "Is this Kāma in person, an orb of radiance embodied? Is it sweetness itself in bodily form? Is it a feast for My mind and eyes? Is it the beloved of My life? Truly Kṛṣṇa, the joy of My eyes, has come!"

The Lord under the sway of emotions —

গুরু — নানা ভাবগণ, শিষ্য — প্রভুর তনু-মন, নানা রীতে সতত নাচায় ।
নির্ব্বেদ, বিষাদ, দৈন্য, চাপল্য, হর্ষ, ধৈর্য্য, মন্যু, এই নৃত্যে প্রভুর কাল যায় ॥ ৭৬ ॥

guru — nānā bhāva-gaṇa, śiṣya — prabhura tanu-mana,
the guru various ecstasies the disciple the Lord's body and mind
nānā rīte satata nācāya
in various ways constantly make dance
nirveda, viṣāda, dainya, cāpalya, harṣa, dhairya, manyu, despondency dejection humility restlessness joy composure anger
ei nṛtye prabhura kāla yāya
in this dance the Lord's time passes

76 His many feelings were the guru, His body and mind the disciple, and in endless ways the guru made the disciple dance. Despondency, dejection, humility, restlessness, joy, composure and anger — in this dance the Lord's time passed.

Anubhāṣya.

As a guru keeps his disciples under strict discipline and teaches them the arts, so the emotions in Mahāprabhu's heart, taking the place of a guru, make two disciples — the Lord's holy body and His mind — dance in many ways.

The Lord's daily activities with Svarūpa and Rāmānanda —

চণ্ডীদাস, বিদ্যাপতি, রায়ের নাটক-গীতি, কর্ণামৃত, শ্রীগীতগোবিন্দ ।
স্বরূপ-রামানন্দ-সনে, মহাপ্রভু রাত্রি-দিনে, গায়, শুনে — পরম আনন্দ ॥ ৭৭ ॥

caṇḍīdāsa, vidyāpati, rāyera nāṭaka-gīti, Caṇḍīdāsa Vidyāpati of Rāya the drama's songs
karṇāmṛta, śrī-gīta-govinda
the Karṇāmṛta the Śrī Gīta-govinda
svarūpa-rāmānanda-sane, mahāprabhu rātri-dine, Svarūpa and Rāmānanda with Mahāprabhu night and day
gāya, śune — parama ānanda
sings hears supreme bliss

77 With Svarūpa and Rāmānanda, Mahāprabhu night and day sang and heard the songs of Caṇḍīdāsa and Vidyāpati, Rāya's drama, the Karṇāmṛta and the Śrī Gīta-govinda in supreme bliss.

Anubhāṣya.

Rāyera nāṭaka (Rāya's play) — the play Jagannātha-vallabha. Gīti (songs) — the singing of verses from the works of Caṇḍīdāsa, Vidyāpati, Rāmānanda Rāya, Bilvamaṅgala and Jayadeva.

*The Lord's devotees, sheltered in different rasas —*

পুরীর বাৎসল্য মুখ্য, রামানন্দের শুদ্ধসখ্য, গোবিন্দাদ্যের শুদ্ধদাস্যরস ।
গদাধর, জগদানন্দ, স্বরূপের (মুখ্য) রসানন্দ, এই চারিভাবে প্রভু বশ ॥ ৭৮ ॥

purīra vātsalya mukhya, rāmānandera śuddha-sakhya,
of Purī parental love chief of Rāmānanda pure friendship
govindādyera śuddha-dāsya-rasa
of Govinda and others pure servitude's rasa
gadādhara, jagadānanda, svarūpera (mukhya) rasānanda, Gadādhara Jagadānanda of Svarūpa (the chief) rasa's bliss
ei cāri-bhāve prabhu vaśa
by these four moods the Lord controlled

78 Purī's love was chiefly parental; Rāmānanda's was pure friendship; Govinda and others had the rasa of pure servitude; and Gadādhara, Jagadānanda and Svarūpa knew the bliss of the chief rasa. By these four moods the Lord was held captive.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Purīra — of Śrī Paramānanda Purī. Mukhya-rasa (the principal rasa) — madhura-rasa.

Anubhāṣya.

The mood of Śrī Paramānanda Purī (in Vraja, Uddhava), in which vātsalya-rasa predominates; the pure friendship (sakhya) of Rāmānanda (Arjuna, or Viśākhā); the pure servitude (dāsya) of Govinda and others, devoted to service; and the principal rasa, madhura, of the intimate devotees Gadādhara, Jagadānanda and Dāmodara-Svarūpa. Through these four moods the Lord accepted from them their worship, the joy of their company and their service, and He was beholden to them.

*For the Lord, mahābhāva in madhura-rasa is no wonder —*

লীলাশুক-মত্ত জন, তাঁর হয় ভাবোদ্গম, ঈশ্বরে সে, — কি ইহা বিস্ময় ।
তাহে মুখ্য-রসাশ্রয়, হইয়াছেন মহাশয়, তাতে হয় সর্ব্বভাবোদয় ॥ ৭৯ ॥

līlāśuka-matta jana, tāṁra haya bhāvodgama, Līlāśuka a mortal man in him arises ecstasy
īśvare se, — ki ihā vismaya
in the Lord that what in this wonder tāhe mukhya-rasāśraya, haiyāchena mahāśaya, moreover of the chief rasa the abode has become the Great One
tāte haya sarva-bhāvodaya
therefore is of all ecstasies the rising

79 Even in Līlāśuka, a mortal man, such feelings arose; what wonder, then, if they arose in the Lord? Moreover, the Great One has become the abode (āśraya) of the chief rasa, and so every feeling rises in Him.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Līlāśuka — Śrī Bilvamaṅgala Gosvāmī. He was a brāhmaṇa from South India named Śilhaṇa Miśra. He lived according to the scriptures on the duties of a householder, but on the advice of the courtesan Cintāmaṇi he renounced the world and composed the Śānti-śataka. Later, by the mercy of Kṛṣṇa and the Vaiṣṇavas, he attained bhakti, received the name "Bilvamaṅgala Gosvāmī," and composed the book Kṛṣṇa-karṇāmṛta. Seeing his madness of love, people called him "Līlāśuka."

Anubhāṣya.

Līlāśuka. His other names are "Līlāsukha," "Citsukhācārya" and "Bilvamaṅgala"; he was a tridaṇḍī-svāmī of the Viṣṇusvāmi-sampradāya. See the Anubhāṣya on Ādi 1.57.

*Gaurasundara, the viṣaya-vigraha, filled with the praṇaya of the*

āśraya —

পূর্ব্বে ব্রজবিলাসে, যেই তিন অভিলাষে, যত্নেহ আস্বাদ না হৈল ।
শ্রীরাধার ভাবসার, আপনে করি' অঙ্গীকার, সেই তিন বস্তু আস্বাদিল ॥ ৮০ ॥

pūrve vraja-vilāse, yei tina abhilāṣe,
formerly in the Vraja pastimes which three desires yatneha āsvāda nā haila
even with effort tasted not were śrī-rādhāra bhāva-sāra, āpane kari' aṅgīkāra, of Śrī Rādhā the essence of feeling Himself making acceptance
sei tina vastu āsvādila
those three things He tasted

80 In His former pastimes in Vraja there were three things He longed for and could not taste, however He tried. Now, accepting the essence of Śrī Rādhā's feeling, He tasted those three Himself.

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 4.230.

*The supremely magnanimous Lord distributes the mood of service that belongs to the āśraya —*

আপনে করি' আস্বাদনে, শিখাইল ভক্তগণে, প্রেমচিন্তামণির প্রভু ধনী ।
নাহি জানে স্থানাস্থান, যারে তারে কৈল দান, মহাপ্রভু — দাতা-শিরোমণি ॥ ৮১ ॥

āpane kari' āsvādane, śikhāila bhakta-gaṇe, Himself making tasting He taught the devotees
prema-cintāmaṇira prabhu dhanī
of the touchstone of love the Lord is rich
nāhi jāne sthānāsthāna, yāre tāre kaila dāna, not knows proper and improper place to whomever made a gift
mahāprabhu — dātā-śiromaṇi
Mahāprabhu of givers the crest-jewel

81 Tasting it Himself, He taught His devotees. The Lord is rich with the touchstone of love; without regard for who was worthy and who was not, He gave it to everyone. Mahāprabhu is the crest-jewel of givers.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
The wealth of Lord Caitanyadeva is the cintāmaṇi of prema; by that wealth He is rich. The cintāmaṇi of prema works like a material cintāmaṇi: it produces many, many other cintāmaṇis of prema and yet remains in all its fullness in the Lord's storehouse. And from the cintāmaṇi of prema that the Lord gave them, the devotees have spread countless millions of cintāmaṇis throughout the whole world.

The most merciful avatāra —

এই গুপ্তভাব-সিন্ধু, ব্রহ্মা না পায় এক বিন্দু, হেন ধন বিলাইল সংসারে ৷
ঐছে দয়ালু অবতার, ঐছে দাতা নাহি আর, গুণ কেহ নারে বর্ণিবারে ॥ ৮২ ॥

ei gupta-bhāva-sindhu, brahmā nā pāya eka bindu, this of secret moods ocean Brahmā not gets one drop hena dhana vilāila saṁsāre
such wealth He distributed in the world
aiche dayālu avatāra, aiche dātā nāhi āra,
such merciful avatāra such giver is not another
guṇa keha nāre varṇibāre qualities anyone cannot describe

82 Of this ocean of secret moods Brahmā does not obtain a single drop, yet the Lord distributed such wealth throughout the world. There is no other avatāra so merciful, no other such giver; no one can describe His qualities.

Without following Caitanya, service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be attained —

কহিবার কথা নয়, কহিলে কেহ না বুঝয়, ঐছে চিত্র চৈতন্যের রঙ্গ ।
সেই সে বুঝিতে পারে, চৈতন্যের কৃপা যাঁরে, হয় তাঁর দাসানুদাস-সঙ্গ ॥ ৮৩ ॥

kahibāra kathā naya, kahile keha nā bujhaya,
of telling a matter not if told anyone not understands aiche citra caitanyera raṅga
so wonderful Caitanya's play
sei se bujhite pāre, caitanyera kṛpā yāṁre,
he alone to understand can Caitanya's mercy on whom haya tāṁra dāsānudāsa-saṅga
is his of the servants of the servants the company

83 This is not a matter to be told; if it is told, no one understands — so wonderful is Caitanya's play. Only he can understand it on whom Caitanya's mercy rests and who has the company of the servants of His servants.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Ordinary people have no right to this truth of the emotions that follow Rādhā. If it is spoken to the unworthy, it is distorted and becomes like the perverted emotions of the sahajiyās, the bāuls and others. Even one who prides himself on his learning is not fit to enter this truth of rasa.

The devotees hear of the Lord's emotions from Dāmodara-Svarūpa and Raghunātha —

চৈতন্যলীলা-রত্ন-সার, স্বরূপের ভাণ্ডার, তেঁহো থুইল রঘুনাথের কণ্ঠে ।
তাঁহা কিছু যে শুনিলুঁ, তাহা ইহা বিস্তারিলুঁ, ভক্তগণে দিলুঁ এই ভেটে ॥ ৮৪ ॥

caitanya-līlā-ratna-sāra, svarūpera bhāṇḍāra, of Caitanya's pastimes of jewels the essence of Svarūpa the treasury
teṁho thuila raghunāthera kaṇṭhe
he placed in Raghunātha's throat
tāṁhā kichu ye śuniluṁ, tāhā ihā vistāriluṁ,
from him something which I heard that here I expanded
bhakta-gaṇe diluṁ ei bheṭe
to the devotees I gave this as a gift

84 Svarūpa held in his treasury the jewel-like essence of Caitanya's pastimes, and he placed it in Raghunātha's throat. The little I heard from Raghunātha I have expanded here, and I give it to the devotees as a gift.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Svarūpa Gosvāmī set down Mahāprabhu's last pastimes as sūtras of his diary (kaḍacā) and placed them in the throat of Śrī Raghunātha dāsa Gosvāmī — that is, he had him learn them by heart. And through Kavirāja Gosvāmī he made them known to the world. Therefore the diary composed by Śrī Svarūpa was never written down as a separate book. This very Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta is the essence of Svarūpa's diary.

Anubhāṣya.

Bheṭe — as a gift.

The author's impartiality —

যদি কেহ হেন কয়, গ্রন্থ কৈল শ্লোকময়, ইতর-জনে নারিবে বুঝিতে ৷
প্রভুর যেই আচরণ, সেই করি বর্ণন, সর্ব্ব-চিত্ত নারি আরাধিতে ॥ ৮৫ ॥

yadi keha hena kaya, grantha kaila śloka-maya,
if someone so says the book made full of Sanskrit verses
itara-jane nāribe bujhite
common people cannot understand prabhura yei ācaraṇa, sei kari varṇana,
the Lord's which conduct that I make description
sarva-citta nāri ārādhite
of all the hearts I cannot please

85 If someone says, "The book is full of Sanskrit verses; ordinary people will not be able to understand it," I reply: I describe the Lord's conduct as it was; I cannot please everyone's heart.

Anubhāṣya.

In describing Śrī Gaurasundara's conduct exactly as it was, I do not seek the praise of the proponents of every kind of doctrine. I have not, fearing their censure, departed here from the true facts of the Lord's life — I have neither left things out, nor added to them, nor veiled them, nor "corrected" them. Because Sanskrit verses are included in this book, many may object that one who does not know Sanskrit will not understand the true meaning of the verses.

নাহি কাঁহা সবিরোধ, নাহি কাঁহা অনুরোধ, সহজ বস্তু করি বিবরণ ৷
যদি হয় রাগোদ্দেশ, তাঁহা হয়ে আবেশ, সহজ বস্তু না যায় লিখন ॥ ৮৬ ॥

nāhi kāṁhā savirodha, nāhi kāṁhā anurodha,
not anywhere contradiction not anywhere deference sahaja vastu kari vivaraṇa
the natural truth I make description
yadi haya rāgoddeśa, tāṁhā haye āveśa,
if there is partiality's aim in that arises absorption
sahaja vastu nā yāya likhana
the natural truth not can be written

86 Nowhere here is there contradiction, and nowhere have I deferred to others' views: I describe the natural truth (sahaja vastu). For if the heart is bent by partiality, it becomes absorbed in that, and the natural truth can no longer be written.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Nowhere in this book of mine is there a contradictory conclusion, and nowhere do I defer to anyone else's opinion. I have written after considering the sahaja-tattva, the natural truth. For the jīva the truth of rāga is natural (sahaja), while the path of reasoning is not natural to it. Only what dawns in the truth of rāga is the truth of bhajana that Śrī Mahāprabhu revealed. But if one's rāga is directed towards another doctrine or towards conclusions reached by some other kind of reasoning, one becomes absorbed in them and loses impartiality. And then the jīva's own inherent nature, its sahaja, cannot be written down.

Thus ends the second chapter of the Madhya-līlā in the "Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya."

Anubhāṣya.

In this book I have written nothing out of regard for anything, in opposition to anyone or in compliance with anyone's request: I have only described the sahaja-vastu, the natural reality. If someone attains the orientation of rāga, then, absorbed in it, he will easily realise all these descriptions. The natural reality is experienced by those who follow rāga (rāgānuga) If it is written down, such writing will reveal itself only in the hearts of those absorbed in rāga; one without rāga will not be able to enter it in that way. There is no use in writing about it here in order to make known the natural reality, which can only be experienced. Another reading is yadi haya rāga-dveṣa ("if there is attachment and aversion"), and then the meaning is: "If a person has given up service to Kṛṣṇa and is overcome by attachment — that is, absorption — in things other than Kṛṣṇa, and by aversion or dislike, he can in no way describe the transcendental love for Kṛṣṇa that is innate in the pure soul."

Hearing Caitanya's pastimes with faith, love for Kṛṣṇa awakens —

যেবা নাহি বুঝে কেহ, শুনিতে শুনিতে সেহ, কি অদ্ভুত চৈতন্যচরিত ৷
কৃষ্ণে উপজিবে প্রীতি, জানিবে রসের রীতি, শুনিলেই বড় হয় হিত ॥ ৮৭ ॥

yebā nāhi bujhe keha, śunite śunite seha,
whoever not understands anyone hearing hearing he too ki adbhuta caitanya-carita
how wonderful Caitanya's life
kṛṣṇe upajibe prīti, jānibe rasera rīti,
for Kṛṣṇa will arise love he will know rasa's ways
śunilei baḍa haya hita
by merely hearing great comes benefit

87 Even one who does not understand will, by hearing again and again how wonderful is Caitanya's life, come to love Kṛṣṇa and know the ways of rasa. Simply by hearing, great good comes.

*A comparison with the Bhāgavatam, written in Sanskrit —*

ভাগবত — শ্লোকময়, টীকা তার সংস্কৃত হয়, তবু কৈছে বুঝে ত্রিভুবন ৷
ইঁহা শ্লোক দুই-চারি, তার ব্যাখ্যা ভাষা করি, কেনে না বুঝিবে সর্ব্বজন ॥ ৮৮ ॥

bhāgavata — śloka-maya, ṭīkā tāra saṁskṛta haya, the Bhāgavata full of verses commentaries its Sanskrit are tabu kaiche bujhe tri-bhuvana
still how understand the three worlds
iṁhā śloka dui-cāri, tāra vyākhyā bhāṣā kari, here verses two or four their explanation in the vernacular made kene nā bujhibe sarva-jana
why not will understand all people

88 The Bhāgavata is full of Sanskrit verses, and its commentaries are in Sanskrit, yet the three worlds understand it. Here there are only a few verses, explained in the vernacular — why should everyone not understand?

Anubhāṣya.
About the objection of the critics mentioned in verse 85, I can say this. The book Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is full of Sanskrit verses, and all its commentaries are written in Sanskrit. Yet people in the three worlds understand it and attain devotion to Kṛṣṇa. In this Caitanya-caritāmṛta only two or four Sanskrit verses are quoted, and they are explained in Bengali verse. Why, then, should all the devotees of Gaura not be able to understand them?

The wish to describe the Lord's last pastimes —

শেষ-লীলার সূত্রগণ, কৈলুঁ কিছু বিবরণ, ইঁহা বিস্তারিতে চিত্ত হয়।
থাকে যদি আয়ুঃ-শেষ, বিস্তারিব লীলা-শেষ, যদি মহাপ্রভুর কৃপা হয় ॥ ৮৯ ॥

śeṣa-līlāra sūtra-gaṇa, kailuṁ kichu vivaraṇa,
of the final pastimes the sūtras I made some description
iṁhā vistārite citta haya
this to expand the heart wishes
thāke yadi āyuḥ-śeṣa, vistāriba līlā-śeṣa, remains if of life a remainder I shall expand of the pastimes the rest
yadi mahāprabhura kṛpā haya
if Mahāprabhu's mercy comes

89 I have described something of the sūtras of the final pastimes, and my heart wishes to expand them. If some life remains to me and Mahāprabhu's mercy comes, I shall describe the rest of the pastimes in detail.

The author confesses his unfitness and humility —

আমি বৃদ্ধ জরাতুর, লিখিতে কাঁপয়ে কর, মনে কিছু স্মরণ না হয় ।
না দেখিয়ে নয়নে, না শুনয়ে শ্রবণে, তবু লিখি, — এ বড় বিস্ময় ॥ ৯০ ॥

āmi vṛddha jarātura, likhite kāṁpaye kara,
I old infirm in writing trembles the hand
mane kichu smaraṇa nā haya
in the mind anything memory not is nā dekhiye nayane, nā śunaye śravaṇe, not I see with my eyes not I hear with my ears
tabu likhi, — e baḍa vismaya
still I write this great wonder

90 I am old and infirm; my hand trembles as I write, and my mind remembers nothing. My eyes do not see, my ears do not hear, yet I write — this is a great wonder.

The Antya-līlā, full of the Lord's divine madness, is what the devotees of Gaura always contemplate —

এই অন্ত্যলীলা-সার, সূত্রমধ্যে বিস্তার, করি' কিছু করিলুঁ বর্ণন ।
ইহা-মধ্যে মরি যবে, বর্ণিতে না পারি তবে, এই লীলা ভক্তগণ-ধন ॥ ৯১ ॥

ei antya-līlā-sāra, sūtra-madhye vistāra, this of the final pastimes essence within the sūtras in detail
kari' kichu karilum̐ varṇana
making some I have made description
ihā-madhye mari yabe, varṇite nā pāri tabe,
in the meantime I die if to describe not I can then ei līlā bhakta-gaṇa-dhana
these pastimes of the devotees the wealth

91 Within the sūtras I have described something of this essence of the final pastimes, expanding it a little. If I die before I can describe it, these pastimes will remain the wealth of the devotees.

For now in brief, and later the wish to describe in detail —

সংক্ষেপে এই সূত্র কৈল, যেই ইঁহা না লিখিল, আগে তাহা করিব বিচার ৷
যদি তত দিন জিয়ে, মহাপ্রভুর কৃপা হয়ে, ইচ্ছা ভরি' করিব বিস্তার ॥ ৯২ ॥

saṅkṣepe ei sūtra kaila, yei im̐hā nā likhila,
in brief these sūtras I made what here not I wrote
āge tāhā kariba vicāra
later that I shall make consideration
yadi tata dina jiye, mahāprabhura kṛpā haye,
if so many days I live Mahāprabhu's mercy comes icchā bhari' kariba vistāra
to my heart's content I shall make expansion

92 I have made these sūtras in brief; what I have not written here I shall consider later. If I live so long and Mahāprabhu's mercy comes, I shall expand it to my heart's content.

*Homage to the devotees, and fidelity to the path of śrauta (knowledge* descending through hearing) —

ছোট বড় ভক্তগণ, বন্দোঁ সবার চরণ, সবে মোরে করহ সন্তোষ ৷
স্বরূপ-গোসাঞির মত, রূপ-রঘুনাথ জানে যত, তাই লিখি, নাহি মোর দোষ ॥ ৯৩ ॥

choṭa baḍa bhakta-gaṇa, vandoṁ sabāra caraṇa, small great devotees I worship of all the feet
sabe more karaha santoṣa
all me make pleased
svarūpa-gosāñira mata, rūpa-raghunātha jāne yata, of Svarūpa Gosāñi the view Rūpa and Raghunātha know as much as
tāi likhi, nāhi mora doṣa
that I write is not my fault

93 Devotees great and small, I worship the feet of you all; may you all be pleased with me. I write what Svarūpa Gosāñi held and what Rūpa and Raghunātha know; the fault is not mine.

Anubhāṣya.

Those “expert in bhajana,” those “engaged in bhajana,” and those “initiated into Kṛṣṇa’s name and chanting it” — may all these three kinds of devotees, small and great, be merciful to me. A neophyte devotee (kaniṣṭha) devoted to argument lacks siddhānta, yet thinks himself a rasika devotee. He may consider that I write about siddhānta along with the pastimes out of pedantry, lack of devotion and a fondness for empty argument, may judge me guilty and withhold his mercy. Fearing this, I humbly submit: I have no independence of my own. I have written only what I learned of the truth of Śrī Gaura’s pastimes from Śrī Rūpa and Raghunātha and from Śrī Dāmodara-Svarūpa, at whose lotus feet I am sold.

Homage to the Pañca-tattva, to the line of gurus, and to Haridāsa Paṇḍita —

শ্রীচৈতন্য, নিত্যানন্দ, অদ্বৈতাদি ভক্তবৃন্দ, শিরে ধরি সবার চরণ ।
স্বরূপ, রূপ, সনাতন, রঘুনাথের শ্রীচরণ, ধূলি করোঁ মস্তকে ভূষণ ॥ ৯৪ ॥

śrī caitanya, nityānanda, advaitādi bhakta-vṛnda, Śrī Caitanya Nityānanda Advaita and other devotees
śire dhari sabāra caraṇa
on my head I hold of all the feet
svarūpa, rūpa, sanātana, raghunāthera śrī-caraṇa,
of Svarūpa Rūpa Sanātana Raghunātha the holy feet's
dhūli karoṁ mastake bhūṣaṇa
dust I make for my head an ornament

94 I hold on my head the feet of Śrī Caitanya, Nityānanda, Advaita and all the devotees. The dust of the holy feet of Svarūpa, Rūpa, Sanātana and Raghunātha I make the ornament of my head.

পাঞা যাঁর আজ্ঞা-ধন, ব্রজের বৈষ্ণবগণ, বন্দোঁ তাঁর মুখ্য হরিদাস ।
চৈতন্যবিলাস-সিন্ধু- কল্লোলের এক বিন্দু, তার কণা কহে কৃষ্ণদাস ॥ ৯৫ ॥

pāñā yāṁra ājñā-dhana, vrajera vaiṣṇava-gaṇa,
having received whose order-wealth of Vraja the Vaiṣṇavas
vandoṁ tāṁra mukhya haridāsa
I worship their chief Haridāsa caitanya-vilāsa-sindhu- kallolera eka bindu,
of Caitanya's pastimes' ocean of a wave one drop
tāra kaṇā kahe kṛṣṇadāsa
of it a particle tells Kṛṣṇadāsa

95 The Vaiṣṇavas of Vraja gave me the treasure of their command, and I bow to their chief, Haridāsa. The ocean of Caitanya's pastimes has a wave, the wave a drop; of that drop Kṛṣṇadāsa tells a particle.[6]

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 8.49–60.

Thus ends the second chapter of the “Anubhāṣya.”

Notes

1. Bengali guṇa means both “quality” and “rope”. ↩
2. For verses 29–34 the Anubhāṣya cites the Bhāgavatam (2.3.17–24): ears that do not hear of the Lord’s deeds are empty holes; a tongue that does not sing of Him is a frog’s tongue; one who has never smelt the tulasī from His feet is a corpse that breathes. ↩
3. The touchstone (sparśa-maṇi) turns iron into gold at a touch. ↩
4. The Bengali caitanya also means “consciousness”: “Am I not conscious?” ↩
5. The names of this verse are explained in order in verses 67–71. ↩
6. Haridāsa Paṇḍita, the servant of Govindadeva in Vṛndāvana, at whose request the book was written (Ādi 8.54–65, 72; ↩
7. A play on words: Bengali guṇa means both “quality” and “rope.” ↩
8. The edition prints rāgādi (“attachment and so on”); Bhaktisiddhānta’s own Bengali paraphrase (“the activity of speech, hands, feet … ceases”) supports vāg-ādi (“speech and so on”), the reading of the Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu. ↩