“Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta”

Madhya-līlā

Chapter 5

The Description of the Deeds of Sākṣi-gopāla

(English translation from the Bengali, following the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition and the Anubhāṣya, 2026)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. Mahāprabhu passed through Yājapura and reached the city of Kaṭaka. There He went for darśana of Śrī Sākṣi-gopāla and heard from the mouth of Nityānanda Prabhu the story of Gopāla. Two brāhmaṇas of Vidyānagara (one old, the other young) had visited many holy places and come to Śrī Vṛndāvana. The old brāhmaṇa, pleased with the young one’s service, promised to give him his daughter in marriage. The young brāhmaṇa had the old one repeat this promise before the Gopāla who resides in Vṛndāvana, and made Gopāla the witness. When they returned home and the young brāhmaṇa proposed the marriage, the old one, giving in to the urging of his son, wife and other relatives, said, “I do not remember my promise.” The young brāhmaṇa then went back to Gopāla, told Him everything, won His consent by his devotion, and brought Him to the southern country. Gopāla walked behind the young brāhmaṇa, sounding His ankle bells, came as far as the outskirts of Vidyānagara, and stopped there. The young brāhmaṇa gathered there the respectable people of the region, together with the old brāhmaṇa and his son, and had Gopāla give His testimony. Astonished, they arranged the marriage of the young brāhmaṇa to the old one’s daughter. The king of that country, filled with devotion for Gopāla, built Him a temple and so on. Long afterward the king of Vidyānagara scornfully called Puruṣottama-deva, the lord of Utkala, “Jagannātha’s sweeper” and refused to give him his daughter. Puruṣottama-deva then won the help of Śrī Jagannātha, made war on that king, defeated him, and took both his daughter and his kingdom. From that time Gopāla, bound by the rope of devotion of the Vaiṣṇava king Puruṣottama-deva, was brought to the city of Kaṭaka. Having heard this story, Mahāprabhu had darśana of Gopāla with great love. From Kaṭaka He came to Bhuvaneśvara for darśana of Śiva, and at Kamalapura, on the bank of the Bhārgī River, on the pretext of seeing Śiva as Kapoteśvara He left His staff in Nityānanda's hands and went away. Nityānanda broke the staff into three pieces and set it floating on the Bhārgī. When Mahāprabhu reached "Āṭhāranālā" and did not get His staff back, He left His companions behind and went on to the Śrī Mandira.

Obeisance to Sākṣi-gopāla, who submits to His devotee — to the land went for a brāhmaṇa's sake of wondrous deeds taṁ sākṣi-gopālam ahaṁ nato 'smi to that Sākṣi-gopāla I bowed down am

1 I bow down to Sākṣi-gopāla, the Lord of the brāhmaṇas, wondrous in His deeds. For a brāhmaṇa's sake He walked on His own feet, in His form as the Deity, to a land a hundred days' journey away.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
That Brahmaṇya-deva who, while in the form of a Deity (pratimā), walked on His own feet for the good of a brāhmaṇa to a land a hundred days' journey away — to that Sākṣi-gopāla of wondrous deeds I bow down.

Anubhāṣya.
yaḥ (Gopāla), pratimā-svarūpaḥ (the form manifest as the arcā, the Deity) brahmaṇya-devaḥ, padbhyāṁ calan vipra-kṛte (for the good of a brāhmaṇa) hi śatāha-gamyam (reached in a hundred days) deśam (from Māthura-maṇḍala to Vidyānagara) yayau, ahaṁ tam adbhutehaṁ (of unprecedented deeds)[7] sākṣi-gopālam nataḥ asmi (I bow down).

At Yājapura the Lord has darśana of Varāha-deva — calite calite āilā yājapura grāma walking walking came Yājapura village varāha-ṭhākura dekhi' karilā praṇāma

the Deity Varāha seeing made obeisance

3 Walking on and on, the Lord came to the village of Yājapura, and there He saw the Deity of Varāha and bowed down to Him.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Yājapura is a special holy place in the land of Utkala, on the bank of the Vaitaraṇī River, in Virajā-kṣetra; it is "Nābhi-gayā."

Anubhāṣya.

Yājapura is one of the subdivisions of Kaṭaka district. It is called "Nābhi-gayā." Varāha-deva resides here, in the quarter called "Brāhmaṇanagara."

The Lord dances, sings, and spends the night there —

নৃত্যগীত কৈল প্রেমে বহুত স্তবন । যাজপুরে সে রাত্রি রহি' করিলা গমন ॥ ৪ ॥ nṛtya-gīta kaila preme bahuta stavana dancing and singing did in love many prayers yājapure se rātri rahi' karilā gamana in Yājapura that night staying made departure

4 Full of love, He danced and sang and offered many prayers. He stayed that night in Yājapura and then went on His way.[2]

Darśana* of Sākṣi-gopāla at Kaṭaka —*

Gopāla's beauty seeing became joyful

5 He came to Kaṭaka to see Sākṣi-gopāla, and the sight of Gopāla's beauty filled Him with joy.

Absorbed in love, the Lord dances and sings —

প্রেমাবেশে নৃত্যগীত কৈল কতক্ষণ । আবিষ্ট হঞা কৈল গোপাল স্তবন ॥ ৬ ॥ absorbed being made to Gopāla prayers

6 Absorbed in love, He danced and sang for some time, and in that rapture He offered prayers to Gopāla.

Spending that night in the temple, the Lord hears from Nityānanda's mouth the story of Sākṣi-gopāla —

সেই রাত্রি তাঁহা রহি' ভক্তগণ-সঙ্গে । গোপালের পূর্ব্বকথা শুনে প্রভু রঙ্গে ॥ ৭ ॥

7 He stayed there that night with His devotees, and with delight the Lord heard the old story of Gopāla.

Nitāi earlier had the chance to hear it while travelling to the holy places —

8 Long before, when Nityānanda Gosāñi was travelling to the holy places, He had come to Kaṭaka to see Sākṣi-gopāla.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Sākṣi-gopāla. Kaṭaka is the chief city on the bank of the Mahānadī, and at that time Sākṣi-gopāla resided there. When Sākṣi-gopāla was brought from the southern country, He first stayed in Kaṭaka for some days, and then for some time in the temple of Śrī Jagannātha at Śrī Puruṣottama. There a kind of loving quarrel (prema-kalaha) arose, and so the Mahārāja, the lord of Utkala, founded a village called "Satyavādī" three krośas from Puruṣottama and kept Gopāla there. Now Śrī Sākṣi-gopāla resides in that village, in a solidly built temple.

that story He tells the Lord hears with great happiness

9 He had heard the story of Sākṣi-gopāla from the people there. Now He told it, and the Lord listened with great happiness.

The story of Sākṣi-gopāla; the account of the two brāhmaṇas —

11 They visited Gayā, Vārāṇasī, Prayāga and all the holy places, and then the two of them came joyfully to Mathurā.

the twelve forests seeing at last went to Vṛndāvana

12 On their pilgrimage through the forests of Vraja they wandered from forest to forest and saw Govardhana; and when they had visited all twelve forests, they came at last to Vṛndāvana.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The twelve forests. Bhadra, Bilva, Lauha, Bhāṇḍīra and Mahāvana — these five forests lie east of the Yamunā; Madhu, Tāla, Kumuda, Bahulā, Kāmya, Khadira and Vṛndāvana — these last seven forests lie west of the Yamunā. After seeing these twelve forests the brāhmaṇas finally went to the place called "Pañcakrośī Vṛndāvana." The meaning is this: the Vṛndāvana that is one of the twelve forests begins from this Vṛndāvana and extends sixteen krośas up to Nandagrāma and Varṣāṇa; within it lies the village called "Pañcakrośī Vṛndāvana."

বৃন্দাবনে গোবিন্দ-স্থানে মহাদেবালয় ।

in that temple Gopāla's great service takes place

13 In Vṛndāvana, at the place of Govinda, there stood a great temple, and in that temple Gopāla was served with great splendour.

24 Kṛṣṇa is greatly pleased by service to brāhmaṇas, and when He is pleased, the wealth of devotion grows.”

Anubhāṣya.

The younger brāhmaṇa served the elder brāhmaṇa, a devotee of Bhagavān, for Kṛṣṇa's pleasure, and it was as the fruit of this that Śrī Gopāla Ṭhākura gave His testimony, to protect the honour of His devotee. Had it been otherwise — had the younger brāhmaṇa's service to the elder, his obtaining consent to marry the elder's daughter, and the rest been worldly karma-kāṇḍa full of sense gratification — Śrīman Mahāprabhu and Śrī Nityānanda Prabhu would never have honoured them.

27 Without the consent of them all, a daughter cannot be given in marriage. Bhīṣmaka, the father of Rukmiṇī, is proof of this.

28 Bhīṣmaka wished to give his daughter to Kṛṣṇa, but his son opposed it, and he could not give her.”

Anubhāṣya.

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.52.21): “There was a great king named Bhīṣmaka, the ruler of Vidarbha. He had five sons and one daughter with a lovely face. … His kinsmen wanted to give [Rukmī's] sister to Kṛṣṇa, O king, but Rukmī, who hated Kṛṣṇa, stopped them and decided on Caidya.”[8] (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.53.2): “Śrī Bhagavān said: 'In the same way I too, thinking of her, cannot sleep at night. I know that Rukmī, out of hatred, has prevented My marriage.'”

Rukmī, the eldest son of Bhīṣmaka, king of Vidarbha, insulted Kṛṣṇa when He was carrying off his sister Rukmiṇī, and fought with Him. He should have perished as a result, but at Rukmiṇī's request he kept his life: Kṛṣṇa cut off his beard and hair with His sword, shaved him, disfigured him, and let him go.

Anubhāṣya.

The elder brāhmaṇa's son was a godless man (nāstika), a smārta, clever in worldly affairs but foolish. He did not believe that the Śrī Vigraha is conscious and all-pervading (vibhu), and like an idolater he regarded the Śrī Vigraha as stone and wood. So he said to his father: "First of all, the witness is an image (pratimā), so one cannot believe that it will speak like a living being. Besides, it is very far away, so giving testimony here from such a distance is impossible for it. Therefore do not worry about anything. Do not deny your promise outright with a plain lie. Just as King Yudhiṣṭhira said, 'Aśvatthāmā is slain — the elephant,' say only, or let it appear, that you cannot remember anything — that is, that you know nothing about it. Then I will trap the younger brāhmaṇa in the snare of false arguments (kutarka) and defeat him. And I will rescue you before everyone from the calamity of having to give away your daughter, without letting your promise be broken, and so preserve the honour of our family." Nyāya means argument (tarka).

96 You are no image — You are the son of the king of Vraja Himself. For a brāhmaṇa's sake You do even what You would never otherwise do."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
For the good of a brāhmaṇa You do all that is otherwise not fitting for You to do.

Anubhāṣya.
Bhagavān asked this question to test the younger brāhmaṇa and to free him from a charge: no one should think him an "idolater" (pauttalika) — one who regards the arcā-vigraha of Viṣṇu as stone and wood, is devoted to knowledge born of the senses, and lives for the body. And the brāhmaṇa answered like a true devotee who believes that Viṣṇu, the Lord of all lords, is God.

Anubhāṣya.

Vidyānagara. The place in the land of Trailaṅga where the Godāvarī River meets the Eastern Sea, the Bay of Bengal, is known as "Koṭadeśa." In that region of the kingdom of Orissa there was a provincial capital named "Vidyānagara." This city stood on the southern bank of the Godāvarī. Puruṣottama, a former king of Utkala, brought that country under his rule and governed it through a provincial governor. Vidyānagara lies twenty to twenty-five miles southeast of present-day Rājamahendrī, which stands on the northern bank of the Godāvarī — that is, on the other bank. In Pratāparudra's time Rāmānanda Rāya was the governor there. Bhijiyānagaram, the village of Bhijiyānā, or Vijayanagara, is not this Vidyānagara.

See the Caitanya-bhāgavata, Antya-līlā, Chapter 2. Leaving Kaṭaka by the royal road, from Bālihastā, or Bālakāṭi-caṭi, to Bhuvaneśvara is two or three krośas.

Anubhāṣya.

Caitanya-bhāgavata, Antya, Chapter 2: "Then the Lord came to Śrī Bhuvaneśvara, where Śaṅkara lives in Gupta-kāśī. Here Śiva himself, bringing drop by drop the water of all the holy places, created 'Bindu-sarovara.' Knowing this lake to be dear to Śiva, Śrī Caitanya bathed in it and so glorified it especially."

The Skanda Purāṇa tells how Śiva obtained Ekāmra-kānana. A king named "Kāśīrāja" worshipped Śiva, pleased him, and went to war with Kṛṣṇa, and Śiva helped him. Kāśīrāja was killed, Śiva's pāśupata weapon proved useless, and Kṛṣṇa burned Kāśī. Then Śiva, understanding Kṛṣṇa's greatness, begged forgiveness for his offence and obtained Ekāmra-kānana near Śrī Nīlācala. Here the kings of the Keśarī dynasty founded their capital and ruled the land of Utkala for several centuries.

The Bhārgī River is now known as the "Daṇḍabhāṅgā" River; it lies three krośas north of Purī.

143 He broke the staff into three pieces and threw them into the river. Then the Lord returned with the devotees from seeing Maheśa.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The staff. Mahāprabhu left the staff He had received on taking sannyāsa in the hands of Nityānanda Prabhu and went to Kapoteśvara. Nityānanda Prabhu broke the staff into three pieces and set it floating on the waters of the Bhārgī; that is why the Bhārgī came to be called "Daṇḍabhāṅgā" ("the broken staff"). To subdue body, speech and mind, sannyāsīs also carry the tridaṇḍa. Śaṅkarācārya's rule is to carry the ekadaṇḍa. Considering that Śrī Mahāprabhu had no need to carry such a staff, Nityānanda Prabhu broke it.

Anubhāṣya.

The staff. At Kāṭoyā Śrī Gaurasundara accepted ekadaṇḍa-sannyāsa in the Bhāratī sampradāya, which descends from Śaṅkara. Śrī Nityānanda Prabhu broke that sannyāsa staff into three pieces and threw it into the Bhārgī River (the present "Daṇḍabhāṅgā"). In the order of sannyāsa, the staff is to be kept in the stages of kuṭīcaka and bahūdaka, but in the stages of haṁsa and paramahaṁsa one is enjoined to give it up. Gaurahari is the Lord of the fourteen worlds, and, unlike other sannyāsīs, He has no need to display a lower stage (adhikāra). Knowing this, Nityānanda-svarūpa broke the staff and threw it away.

daṇḍavat kari preme nācite lāgilā prostration making in love to dance began

144 When He saw the temple of Jagannātha, He was overwhelmed. He bowed down flat, and in love He began to dance.

Anubhāṣya.

Deula, temple — the present temple of Śrī Jagannātha, built by King Anaṅgabhīma. The hall of upala-bhoga, the bhoga-vardhana hall and the high outer courtyard had not yet been built at that time.

ভক্তগণ আবিষ্ট হঞা, সবে নাচে গায় । প্রেমাবেশে প্রভু-সঙ্গে রাজমার্গে যায় ॥ ১৪৫ ॥

bhakta-gaṇa āviṣṭa hañā, sabe nāce gāya
the devotees overwhelmed being all dance sing premāveśe prabhu-saṅge rāja-mārge yāya absorbed in love with the Lord on the royal road go

145 The devotees too were overwhelmed, and they all danced and sang; absorbed in love, they went along the royal road with the Lord.

Anubhāṣya.
Rāja-mārga (the royal road) — the road by which pilgrims going for darśana of Jagannātha travel from Bengal to Puruṣottama.

হাসে, কান্দে, নাচে প্রভু হুঙ্কার গর্জ্জন । তিন ক্রোশ পথ হৈল — সহস্র-যোজন ॥ ১৪৬ ॥

hāse, kānde, nāce prabhu huṅkāra garjana laughs weeps dances the Lord roaring thundering tina krośa patha haila — sahasra-yojana three krośa road became a thousand yojanas

146 The Lord laughed, wept and danced, roaring and thundering. For Him the road of three krośas became a thousand yojanas.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Mahāprabhu saw the temple of Śrī Jagannātha from three krośas away, and in extreme separation the sāttvika-vikāras appeared in Him: He became utterly agitated and full of longing for darśana of Bhagavān. In intense separation (vipralambha) a moment seems an age, and the gopīs blame the Creator for His foolishness in giving the eyes lids. In the same way the three-krośa road seemed to Mahāprabhu a distant thousand yojanas.

Arrival at Āṭhāranālā —

চলিতে চলিতে প্রভু আইলা 'আঠারনালা' । তাঁহা আসি' প্রভু কিছু বাহ্য প্রকাশিলা ॥ ১৪৭ ॥ calite calite prabhu āilā 'āṭhāranālā' walking walking the Lord came Āṭhāranālā tāṁhā āsi' prabhu kichu bāhya prakāśilā there coming the Lord some outward awareness showed 147 Walking on and on, the Lord came to Āṭhāranālā, and there He regained some outward awareness.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Āṭhāranālā is the name of the bridge by which one enters the city of Purī; it has eighteen arches.

Thus ends the fifth chapter of the "Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya."

The Lord returns to outward consciousness and asks Nitāi for His staff —

নিত্যানন্দে কহে প্রভু, — দেহ মোর দণ্ড । নিত্যানন্দ বলে, — দণ্ড হৈল তিন খণ্ড ॥ ১৪৮ ॥

nityānande kahe prabhu, — deha mora daṇḍa to Nityānanda says the Lord give My staff nityānanda bale, — daṇḍa haila tina khaṇḍa
Nityānanda says staff became three pieces

148 The Lord said to Nityānanda, "Give Me My staff." Nityānanda said, "Your staff has broken into three pieces.

Nitāi's cleverness: He reports that the staff is broken —

প্রেমাবেশে পড়িলা তুমি, তোমারে ধরিনু । তোমা-সহ তেরছে দণ্ড-উপরে পড়িনু ॥ ১৪৯ ॥

premāveśe paḍilā tumi, tomāre dharinu absorbed in love fell You You I caught tomā-saha terache daṇḍa-upare paḍinu
You with sideways staff upon I fell

149 Overwhelmed by love, You fell, and I caught You. Then I fell sideways with You onto the staff.

দুইজনার ভরে দণ্ড খণ্ড খণ্ড হৈল । সেই দণ্ড কাঁহা পড়িল, কিছু না জানিল ॥ ১৫০ ॥

dui-janāra bhare daṇḍa khaṇḍa khaṇḍa haila of the two by the weight staff piece piece became sei daṇḍa kāṁhā paḍila, kichu nā jānila that staff where fell anything not I knew

150 Under the weight of the two of Us the staff broke into pieces. Where it fell, I do not know.[6]

Nitāi asks the Lord to punish Him for breaking the staff —

মোর অপরাধে তোমার দণ্ড হৈল খণ্ড । যে উচিত হয়, মোর কর তাহা দণ্ড ॥ ১৫১ ॥

mora aparādhe tomāra daṇḍa haila khaṇḍa by My offence Your staff became broken ye ucita haya, mora kara tāhā daṇḍa
what fitting is Me do that punishment

151 Your staff has been broken through My offence. Punish Me as You see fit.”

The Lord is grieved and slightly angry —

শুনি’ কিছু মহাপ্রভু দুঃখ প্রকাশিলা । ঈষৎ ক্রোধ করি’ কিছু কহিতে লাগিলা ॥ ১৫২ ॥

śuni' kichu mahāprabhu duḥkha prakāśilā hearing somewhat Mahāprabhu sorrow showed īṣat krodha kari' kichu kahite lāgilā slight anger making something to say began

152 Hearing this, Mahāprabhu showed a little sorrow, and with slight anger He said:

Anubhāṣya.
Nityānanda Prabhu knew that the ekadaṇḍa proper to vaidha-sannyāsa (sannyāsa according to the rules) was of no use to Mahāprabhu, and so He freed the Lord from carrying the staff of vaidha-sannyāsa. But Mahāprabhu became angry with Him. He thought that if the staff were given up in this way, the Vedic rules would grow lax before the unqualified daṇḍīs who take vivitsā-sannyāsa (sannyāsa out of the desire for knowledge) became qualified. All other people in the world follow the conduct of the great. Some with deluded minds neglect the path of rules favourable to devotion taught in the Śrutis, Smṛtis, Purāṇas and other scriptures; not understanding its purpose, they take a disorderly path for the path of anurāga or for the conduct of an avadhūta. Such people would be harmed — and so the Lord enacted this pastime of showing anger.

The Lord's reproach —

নীলাচলে আসি' মোর সবে হিত কৈলা । সবে দণ্ডধন ছিল, তাহা না রাখিলা ॥ ১৫৩ ॥

nīlācale āsi' mora sabe hita kailā to Nīlācala coming My all good did sabe daṇḍa-dhana chila, tāhā nā rākhilā only the wealth of a staff was that not kept 153 "You have all done Me a fine service on the way to Nīlācala! My only wealth was My staff, and you did not even keep that safe.

The Lord expresses His wish to go alone for darśana of Jagannātha —

তুমি-সব আগে যাহ ঈশ্বর দেখিতে । কিবা আমি আগে যাই, না যাব সহিতে ॥ ১৫৪ ॥

tumi-saba āge yāha īśvara dekhite you all ahead go the Lord to see kibā āmi āge yāi, nā yāba sahite or I ahead go not shall go together

154 Either all of you go ahead to see the Lord, or I go ahead; I will not go together with you."

At Mukunda's word the Lord goes to Purī alone, ahead of everyone —

মুকুন্দ দত্ত কহে, — প্রভু, তুমি যাহ আগে । আমি-সব পাছে যাব, না যাব তোমার সঙ্গে ॥ ১৫৫ ॥

mukunda datta kahe, — prabhu, tumi yāha āge Mukunda Datta says Lord You go ahead āmi-saba pāche yāba, nā yāba tomāra saṅge we all behind shall go not shall go You with 155 Mukunda Datta said, "Lord, You go ahead. We shall all follow behind; we shall not go with You."

The moods of the two Prabhus are inconceivable —

এত শুনি' প্রভু আগে চলিলা শীঘ্রগতি । বুঝিতে না পারে কেহ দুই প্রভুর মতি ॥ ১৫৬ ॥ eta śuni' prabhu āge calilā śīghra-gati thus hearing the Lord ahead went with swift steps bujhite nā pāre keha dui prabhura mati to understand not can anyone of the two Lords the minds

156 Hearing this, the Lord went on ahead with swift steps. No one can understand the minds of the two Lords.

ইঁহো কেনে দণ্ড ভাঙ্গে, তেঁহো কেনে ভাঙ্গায় । ভাঙ্গাঞা ক্রোধে তেঁহো ইঁহাকে দোষায় ॥ ১৫৭ ॥ iṁho kene daṇḍa bhāṅge, teṁho kene bhāṅgāya this One why staff breaks that One why lets break bhāṅgāñā krodhe teṁho iṁhāke doṣāya having let break in anger that One this One blames 157 Why does one of Them break the staff, and why does the Other let Him? And having let Him break it, why does the Other then blame Him in anger?

Only a devotee who sees the Two as nondifferent can understand this pastime

দণ্ডভঙ্গ-লীলা এই — পরম গম্ভীর । সেই বুঝে, দুঁহার পদে যাঁর ভক্তি ধীর ॥ ১৫৮ ॥

daṇḍa-bhaṅga-līlā ei — parama gambhīra the staff-breaking pastime this supremely profound sei bujhe, duṁhāra pade yāṁra bhakti dhīra
he understands of both at the feet whose devotion steady

158 This pastime of the breaking of the staff is profound indeed. Only one whose devotion to the feet of both is steadfast can understand it.

Anubhāṣya.

Only those who have truly understood Śrī Caitanya and Nityānanda, steadily and calmly, will grasp the true nature of the two Prabhus and the meaning of the pastime of breaking the staff. The great souls of the past accepted the staff through service to Kṛṣṇa's feet and gave up absorption in worldly existence. Mahāprabhu too accepts that a sādhaka following the path of the great souls needs vaidha-sannyāsa. In vidvat-sannyāsa (the sannyāsa of those who know) the staff is not needed. But vivitsā-sannyāsa — a practice favourable to devotion, a gradual path of renouncing worldly things — is needed in the life of a sādhaka in order to teach people: this is Mahāprabhu's intention. Nityānanda, His servant, knew that carrying the staff, with which Prabhu Gauracandra's sannyāsa began, is in fact unnecessary at the high stage of the paramahaṁsa. So that other people of material mind would not commit offence by wrongly thinking that Śrī Mahāprabhu stood at the stage of kuṭīcaka or bahūdaka, Nityānanda made Him give up the staff and so showed the example of the very highest stage.

Since the speaker and the hearer are both Bhagavān, the story of Sākṣi-gopāla is beyond this world —

ব্রহ্মণ্যদেব-গোপালের মহিমা এই ধন্য । নিত্যানন্দ — বক্তা যার, শ্রোতা — শ্রীচৈতন্য ॥ ১৫৯ ॥

brahmaṇya-deva-gopālera mahimā ei dhanya of Gopāla, the Lord of the brāhmaṇas glory this blessed nityānanda — vaktā yāra, śrotā — śrī caitanya
Nityānanda narrator of which listener Śrī Caitanya

159 Blessed is this glory of Gopāla, the Lord of the brāhmaṇas: Nityānanda was its narrator, and Śrī Caitanya its listener.

Anubhāṣya.

(1) The form of Śrī Gopāla is the eternally true vigraha. (2) He is Truth Himself embodied: transcending the worldly laws of matter, He always upholds the honour of truth. (3) In a brāhmaṇa's life it is especially necessary to abide in truth. (4) Kṛṣṇa Himself both establishes brahminhood (brahmaṇya) and submits to it; therefore brahminhood that takes shelter of Kṛṣṇa is not merely a thing of māyā.

The faithful hearer attains the feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa —

শ্রদ্ধাযুক্ত হঞা ইহা শুনে যেই জন । অচিরে মিলয়ে তারে গোপাল-চরণ ॥ ১৬০ ॥

śraddhā-yukta hañā ihā śune yei jana with faith endowed being this hears which person acire milaye tāre gopāla-caraṇa soon attains him Gopāla's feet

160 Whoever hears this with faith will very soon attain the feet of Gopāla.

Anubhāṣya.

Thus ends the fifth chapter of the "Anubhāṣya."

শ্রীরূপ-রঘুনাথ-পদে যার আশ । চৈতন্যচরিতামৃত কহে কৃষ্ণদাস ॥ ১৬১ ॥

śrī rūpa-raghunātha-pade yāra āśa Śrī Rūpa's, Raghunātha's at the feet whose hope caitanya-caritāmṛta kahe kṛṣṇadāsa
"Caitanya-caritāmṛta" narrates Kṛṣṇadāsa

161 Praying at the feet of Śrī Rūpa and Śrī Raghunātha, I, Kṛṣṇadāsa, narrate the Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

Notes

1. The same verse as Ādi 4.2; translation as there. ↩
2. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition reads যাজপুরে সে রাত্রি রহি' করিলা গমন ("staying that night in Yājapura, He went on"); another reading is …করিলা যাপন ("He spent that night in Yājapura"). ↩
3. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition reads ইথে কি বিস্ময় ("what is surprising in that?"); another reading is করিল নিশ্চয় ("I have firmly decided"). ↩
4. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition reads কি তোমার ব্যবহার ("what conduct is this of yours?"); another reading is কি তোমার বিচার ("what is your decision?"). ↩
5. The Bengali text follows the edition (p. 377, checked under magnification): সাক্ষির আগমন (previously আগমনে), rhyming with ভবন. ↩
6. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition reads সেই দণ্ড কাঁহা পড়িল ("where that staff fell"); another reading is সেই খণ্ড ("those pieces"). ↩
7. So in the Anubhāṣya: adbhutehaṁ is one word, qualifying Sākṣi-gopāla ("of unprecedented deeds"); the transliteration of the verse divides it as 'dbhute 'haṁ. ↩
8. The second verse is Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.52.25; the edition gives both verses under the single reference 10.52.21. ↩
9. So in the edition: the gloss begins with the word rāja, while verse 122 reads rājya (cala mora rājya, "come to my kingdom"); the gloss explains that the word here means "to the kingdom." ↩
