Chapter 12

The Cleansing of the Guṇḍicā Temple

(English translation from the Bengali, following the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition and the Anubhāṣya, 2026)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. The king made every effort to see Śrīman Mahāprabhu. Nityānanda Prabhu, together with all the devotees, told the Lord how the king felt. Mahāprabhu still refused, so Nityānanda Prabhu took one of Mahāprabhu’s outer cloths (bahirvāsa) and sent it to the king. On another day Rāmānanda Rāya asked Mahāprabhu to show mercy to the king. Mahāprabhu did not agree to this, but He told him to bring the king’s son. The prince’s appearance awakened remembrance of Kṛṣṇa, and seeing him, Mahāprabhu showed him mercy. Before the Ratha-yātrā, Mahāprabhu and His devotees washed and cleaned the Guṇḍicā temple (Guṇḍicā-bāḍī). After that He bathed in the Indradyumna lake and then, in a garden, honoured prasāda with all the Vaiṣṇavas. While the temple was being cleaned, a devotee from Gauḍa poured water over Mahāprabhu’s feet and drank that water, and so a secret of prema came to light. Further, when Advaita’s son Śrī Gopāla fainted and did not come back to himself for a long time, Mahāprabhu brought him back to consciousness. During the meal Advaita Prabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu had a little loving quarrel. Advaita Prabhu said, “A householder brāhmaṇa should not eat in the same row as Nityānanda, whose family and character no one knows.” Nityānanda Prabhu replied, “Advaitācārya is expert in the ‘advaita-siddhānta.’ Who knows what will become of a decent man’s heart if he eats with him?” The words of both Prabhus hide a very deep secret, and true devotees understand it easily. After the Vaiṣṇavas had eaten, Svarūpa and the other worthy associates honoured prasāda inside the house. On the day of the Nava-yauvana darśana, Mahāprabhu and the devotees saw Jagadbandhu (Jagannātha) and felt a special joy.

1 Together with His own devotees, Gaura swept and washed the temple of Śrī Guṇḍicā. He made it cool and radiant like His own heart, a fit place for Kṛṣṇa to be seated.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Together with His intimate devotees, Gauracandra cleaned and washed the temple of Śrī Guṇḍicā. He made it as pure as His own cool and radiant heart, fit for Kṛṣṇa to sit there.

Anubhāṣya.

The author prays to Gaura's devotees for the power to describe the qualities and pastimes of Kṛṣṇa Caitanya —

After the Lord returns from the south, Pratāparudra longs to see Him —

পূর্ব্বে দক্ষিণ হৈতে প্রভু যবে আইলা । তাঁরে মিলিতে গজপতি উৎকণ্ঠিত হৈলা ॥ ৪ ॥

pūrve dakṣiṇa haite prabhu yabe āilā earlier the South from the Lord when came tāṁre milite gajapati utkaṇṭhita hailā Him to meet the Gajapati eager became

4 Earlier, when the Lord returned from the South, the Gajapati king grew eager to meet Him.

For the sake of darśana, the king writes to the Bhaṭṭācārya asking him to obtain the Lord's permission —

কটক হৈতে পত্রী দিল সার্ব্বভৌম-ঠাঞি । প্রভুর আজ্ঞা হয় যদি, দেখিবার যাই ॥ ৫ ॥

kaṭaka haite patrī dila sārvabhauma-ṭhāñi Kaṭaka from a letter gave to Sārvabhauma prabhura ājñā haya yadi, dekhibāra yāi
of the Lord permission is if to see (Him) I shall go

5 From Kaṭaka he sent a letter to Sārvabhauma: "If the Lord permits, I shall come to see Him."

The Bhaṭṭācārya reports the Lord's refusal; the king, eager, sends another letter —

ভট্টাচার্য্য লিখিল, — প্রভুর আজ্ঞা না হৈল । পুনরপি রাজা তাঁরে পত্রী পাঠাইল ॥ ৬ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya likhila, — prabhura ājñā nā haila
the Bhaṭṭācārya wrote of the Lord permission not was punarapi rājā tāṁre patrī pāṭhāila again the king to him a letter sent

6 The Bhaṭṭācārya wrote back that the Lord had not given permission. Then the king sent him another letter:

A plea to the devotees to help him attain what he longs for —

প্রভুর নিকটে আছে যত ভক্তগণ । মোর লাগি' তাঁ-সবারে করিহ নিবেদন ॥ ৭ ॥

prabhura nikaṭe āche yata bhakta-gaṇa

7 "Please petition, on my behalf, all the devotees who are with the Lord.

8 May all those merciful souls be kind to me and humbly plead for me at the Lord's feet.

তাঁ-সবার প্রসাদে মিলে শ্রীপ্রভুর পায়। প্রভুকৃপা বিনা মোর রাজ্য নাহি ভায় ॥ ৯ ॥

tāṁ-sabāra prasāde mile śrī prabhura pāya of all of them by the grace one attains Śrī of the Lord the feet
prabhu-kṛpā vinā mora rājya nāhi bhāya
the Lord's mercy without my kingdom not pleases

9 By their grace one reaches the feet of the Lord. Without the Lord's mercy, my kingdom gives me no joy.

Anubhāṣya.
In the book Kalyāṇa-kalpataru, Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura writes:

"Weeping and weeping I shall tell of my many sorrows and beg for relief from the fire of worldly life. Hearing of my sorrow, the Vaiṣṇava Ṭhākura will plead with Kṛṣṇa for me earnestly. At the Vaiṣṇava's plea, merciful Kṛṣṇa will become kind even to a sinner like me."

Without the Lord's mercy, the king in humility and detachment vows to give up his kingdom —

যদি মোরে কৃপা না করিবে গৌরহরি। রাজ্য ছাড়ি' যোগী হই' হইব ভিখারী ॥ ১০ ॥

yadi more kṛpā nā karibe gaurahari
if to me mercy not will show Gaurahari
rājya chāḍi' yogī ha-i' ha-iba bhikhārī
the kingdom leaving a yogī becoming I shall become a beggar

10 If Gaurahari will not be merciful to me, I shall give up my kingdom, become a yogī and live as a beggar."

The Bhaṭṭācārya shows the king's letter to all the devotees —

ভট্টাচার্য্য পত্রী দেখি' চিন্তিত হঞা । ভক্তগণ-পাশ গেলা সেই পত্রী লঞা ॥ ১১ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya patrī dekhi' cintita hañā
the Bhaṭṭācārya the letter seeing anxious becoming bhakta-gaṇa-pāśa gelā sei patrī lañā to the devotees went that letter taking

11 Seeing the letter, the Bhaṭṭācārya grew anxious, and he took it to the devotees.

সবারে মিলিয়া কহিল রাজ-বিবরণ । পিছে সেই পত্রী সবারে করাইল দরশন ॥ ১২ ॥

sabāre miliyā kahila rāja-vivaraṇa
all meeting he told the king's account piche sei patrī sabāre karāila daraśana afterwards that letter to all caused to see

12 Meeting them all, he told them about the king, and then he showed everyone the letter.

Seeing the king's devotion to the Lord, all the devotees are amazed —

পত্রী দেখি' সবার মনে হইল বিস্ময় । প্রভুপদে গজপতির এত ভক্তি হয় ! ॥ ১৩ ॥

patrī dekhi' sabāra mane haila vismaya
the letter seeing of all in the mind arose wonder prabhu-pade gajapatira eta bhakti haya!
to the Lord's feet of the Gajapati so much devotion there is 13 When they read the letter, everyone was amazed: "What devotion the Gajapati has for the Lord's feet!"

Everyone trusts in the Lord's firm resolve; so they are afraid and do not want to tell the king an unwelcome truth —

সবে কহে, — প্রভু তাঁরে কভু না মিলিবে । আমি-সব কহি যদি, দুঃখ সে মানিবে ॥ ১৪ ॥

sabe kahe, — prabhu tāṁre kabhu nā milibe
all say the Lord him ever not will meet āmi-saba kahi yadi, duḥkha se mānibe
we all speak if pain He will feel

14 They all said, "The Lord will never meet him. And if we ask Him, He will be pained."

Sārvabhauma's counsel: to tell the Lord of the king's steady devotion to Bhagavān —

সার্ব্বভৌম কহে, — সবে চল' একবার । মিলিতে না কহিব, কহিব রাজ-ব্যবহার ॥ ১৫ ॥

sārvabhauma kahe, — sabe cala' eka-bāra Sārvabhauma says all go once milite nā kahiba, kahiba rāja-vyavahāra to meet not we shall say we shall tell the king's conduct

15 Sārvabhauma said, "Let us all go to Him, just this once. We will not ask Him to meet the king; we will only tell Him how the king is behaving."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Sārvabhauma said, "Let us all go together and tell Mahāprabhu how the king conducts himself, like a true Vaiṣṇava. But we will not ask Him to give the king darśana.”

Even after coming to the Lord, everyone is afraid to speak of the king —

এত বলি’ সবে গেলা মহাপ্রভুর স্থানে । কহিতে উন্মুখ সবে, না কহে বচনে ॥ ১৬ ॥

eta bali’ sabe gelā mahāprabhura sthāne
so saying all went of Mahāprabhu to the place
kahite unmukha sabe, nā kahe vacane
to speak eager all not say in words

16 Saying this, they all went to Mahāprabhu. Everyone was eager to speak, yet no one said a word.

Seeing their frightened, uneasy looks, the Lord asks why they have all come —

প্রভু কহে, — কি কহিতে সবার আগমন ?
দেখিয়ে কহিতে চাহ, — না কহ, কি কারণ ? ॥ ১৭ ॥

prabhu kahe, — ki kahite sabāra āgamana?
the Lord says what to say of all the coming dekhiye kahite cāha, — nā kaha, ki kāraṇa?
I see to say you want not you speak what reason

17 The Lord said, “What have you all come to tell Me? I see that you want to say something, yet you do not speak. Why?”

Nityānanda fearfully says what he wishes to say —

নিত্যানন্দ কহে, — তোমায় চাহি নিবেদিতে । না কহিলে রহিতে নারি, কহিতে ভয় চিত্তে ॥ ১৮ ॥

nityānanda kahe, — tomāya cāhi nivedite Nityānanda says to You we want to submit nā kahile rahite nāri, kahite bhaya citte
not having spoken to remain we cannot to speak fear in the heart

18 Nityānanda said, “We want to put something before You. We cannot keep silent, yet our hearts are afraid to speak.

যোগ্যাযোগ্য তোমায় সব চাহি নিবেদিতে । তোমা না মিলিলে রাজা চাহে যোগী হৈতে ॥ ১৯ ॥

yogyāyogya tomāya saba cāhi nivedite proper or improper to You all we want to submit tomā nā milile rājā cāhe yogī haite
You not if he meets the king wants a yogī to become 19 Proper or improper, we want to tell You everything: if he cannot meet You, the king wants to become a yogī.

Report of the king’s vow should Gaura withhold His mercy —

কাণে মুদ্রা লই’ মুঞি হইব ভিখারী । রাজ্যভোগ নহে চিত্তে বিনা গৌরহরি ॥ ২০ ॥

kāṇe mudrā lai’ muñi haiba bhikhārī
in the ears the earrings taking I shall become a beggar rājya-bhoga nahe citte vinā gaurahari
royal enjoyment is not in the heart without Gaurahari

20 He says, ‘I will put the yogī’s rings in my ears and become a beggar. Without Gaurahari, my heart finds no joy in royal pleasures.[3]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
“Mudrā in the ears”: in the western regions yogīs are called “kānphaṭā yogīs” (“yogīs with split ears”), since yogīs wear in their ears a token made of conch shell.

The king said that without the darśana of Gaurahari enjoying his kingdom did not touch his heart, that is, it gave him no pleasure.

The king’s deep attachment to Gaura —

দেখিব সে মুখচন্দ্র নয়ন ভরিয়া । ধরিব সে পাদপদ্ম হৃদয়ে তুলিয়া ॥ ২১ ॥

dekhiba se mukha-candra nayana bhariyā I shall see that moonlike face the eyes filling dhariba se pāda-padma hṛdaye tuliyā
I shall hold those lotus feet to the heart lifting

21 I shall gaze my fill on that moonlike face, and I shall lift those lotus feet and hold them to my heart.'"

The Lord's stern words, true to the strict duty of a sannyāsī, as befits an ācārya —

যদ্যপি শুনিয়া প্রভুর কোমল হয় মন । তথাপি বাহিরে কহে নিষ্ঠুর বচন ॥ ২২ ॥

yadyapi śuniyā prabhura komala haya mana although hearing of the Lord soft became the heart tathāpi bāhire kahe niṣṭhura vacana still outwardly He speaks harsh words

22 Though the Lord's heart softened when He heard this, outwardly He spoke harsh words:

Understanding that the devotees want Him to meet the king, the Lord reproaches them —

তোমা-সবার ইচ্ছা, — এই আমারে লঞা । রাজাকে মিলহ ইঁহ কটকেতে গিয়া ॥ ২৩ ॥

tomā-sabāra icchā, — ei āmāre laña of you all the desire this Me taking rājāke milaha iṁha kaṭakete giyā
the king make meet now to Kaṭaka going

23 "You all want to take Me to Kaṭaka and have Me meet the king.

Breaking the rules would bring people's censure, and Dāmodara Paṇḍita

would likely punish Him with words —

পরমার্থ থাকুক্, লোকে করিবে নিন্দন । লোকে রহু, দামোদর করিবে ভর্ৎসন ॥ ২৪ ॥

paramārtha thākuk, loke karibe nindana spiritual good let it be people will make blame loke rahu, dāmodara karibe bhartsana people let them be Dāmodara will make rebuke

24 Quite apart from the spiritual harm, people will condemn Me; and quite apart from the people, Dāmodara will scold Me.

Under a show of respect, a jibe at Dāmodara for judging what is not his to judge —

তোমা-সবার আজ্ঞায় আমি না মিলি রাজারে । দামোদর কহে যবে, মিলি তবে তাঁরে ॥ ২৫ ॥

tomā-sabāra ājñāya āmi nā mili rājāre of you all at the bidding I not meet the king
dāmodara kahe yabe, mili tabe tāṁre
Dāmodara says when I meet then him

25 I will not meet the king at the bidding of all of you. When Dāmodara tells Me to, then I shall meet him."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

From the standpoint of the highest goal (paramārtha), a sannyāsī incurs fault by meeting a king. Quite apart from that fault, people censure a sannyāsī if they see in him even the slightest flaw. There is a reason to avoid people's censure. A sannyāsī's work is to preach dharma in the world. If the world censures him, the preaching of dharma cannot go well. Therefore he must also keep the good opinion of the people. "Never mind people's censure: even from this Dāmodara Paṇḍita who sits beside Me it is hard to escape — he will surely scold Me. I cannot meet the king just because you tell Me to. If Dāmodara tells Me to meet him, then I can." The Lord's words hold many hidden meanings. The Lord is won over by Dāmodara's devotion, yet Dāmodara's verbal chastisement is often improper towards the Lord. With these words the Lord shows that Dāmodara will have to give up that habit.

Dāmodara's hurt feelings and reproach —

দামোদর কহে, — তুমি স্বতন্ত্র ঈশ্বর । কর্ত্তব্যাকর্ত্তব্য সব তোমার গোচর ॥ ২৬ ॥

dāmodara kahe, — tumi svatantra īśvara Dāmodara says You independent the Lord kartavyākartavya saba tomāra gocara
what should and should not be done all to You known

26 Dāmodara said, "You are the independent Lord. You know everything — what should be done and what should not.

আমি কোন্ ক্ষুদ্রজীব, তোমাকে বিধি দিব ?
আপনি মিলিবে তাঁরে, তাহাও দেখিব ॥ ২৭ ॥

āmi kon kṣudra-jīva, tomāke vidhi diba?
I what insignificant soul to You rule shall give āpani milibe tāṁre, tāhāo dekhiba Yourself You will meet him that also I shall see

27 What tiny soul am I, to give You rules? You will meet him of Your own accord, and that too I shall see.

রাজা তোমারে স্নেহ করে, তুমি — স্নেহবশ । তাঁর স্নেহে করাবে তাঁরে তোমার পরশ ॥ ২৮ ॥

rājā tomāre sneha kare, tumi — sneha-vaśa
the king You affection makes You controlled by affection
tāṁra snehe karābe tāṁre tomāra paraśa
his by the affection will cause him Your touch

28 The king holds You in affection, and You are ruled by affection. His affection will win him Your touch.

যদ্যপি ঈশ্বর তুমি পরম-স্বতন্ত্র । তথাপি স্বভাবে হও প্রেমপরতন্ত্র ॥ ২৯ ॥

yadyapi īśvara tumi parama-svatantra
although the Lord You supremely independent tathāpi svabhāve hao prema-paratantra
still by nature You are subject to love

29 Though You are the Lord and supremely independent, by Your very nature You are subject to love."

Anubhāṣya.
You are Īśvara and so are bound to no one in any way. And yet, by Your own nature, You are bound only by the love of Your exclusive (aikāntika) devotees.

Agreeing with the Lord, Nityānanda takes up the cause of the king's love —

নিত্যানন্দ কহে, ঐছে হয় কোন্ জন । যে তোমারে কহে, 'কর রাজদরশন' ॥ ৩০ ॥

nityānanda kahe, aiche haya kon jana Nityānanda says such is what person ye tomāre kahe, 'kara rāja-daraśana'
who to You says 'make the meeting with the king'

30 Nityānanda said, "Who is there who would tell You, 'Go and meet the king'?

The nature of one attached to Kṛṣṇa —

কিন্তু অনুরাগী লোকের স্বভাব এক হয় । ইষ্ট না পাইলে নিজ-প্রাণ সে ছাড়য় ॥ ৩১ ॥

kintu anurāgī lokera svabhāva eka haya
but of a loving person the nature one is iṣṭa nā pāile nija-prāṇa se chāḍaya
the beloved not if he gets his own life he gives up

31 But one who loves has this nature: if he cannot reach the one he longs for, he gives up his life.

Anubhāṣya.

See Madhya 2.28, 43 and 45, and 4.186; Antya 4.61–64 should also be considered in this connection.

An example of attachment to Kṛṣṇa: the wives of the sacrificing brāhmaṇas —

যাজ্ঞিক-ব্রাহ্মণী সব তাহাতে প্রমাণ । কৃষ্ণ লাগি' পতি-আগে ছাড়িলেক প্রাণ ॥ ৩২ ॥

yājñika-brāhmaṇī saba tāhāte pramāṇa
of the sacrificing brāhmaṇas the wives all of that the proof
kṛṣṇa lāgi' pati-āge chāḍileka prāṇa
Kṛṣṇa for the sake of before the husband gave up life

32 The wives of the brāhmaṇas who performed sacrifice are proof of this: for Kṛṣṇa's sake, one of them gave up her life before her husband's eyes.[4]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

One day Śrī Kṛṣṇa, with the cowherd boys and the herds of cows, came near Mathurā, and the cowherd boys grew hungry. Kṛṣṇa said, "In the nearby forest some brāhmaṇas are performing a sacrifice. Go to them and beg for food in My name." The cowherd boys went and asked for food, but the sacrificing brāhmaṇas, dulled by ritual work, gave none. The brāhmaṇas' wives, however, out of their natural attachment to Kṛṣṇa, heard the boys' request, left their husbands' sacrifice, and went through much trouble to bring food to Śrī Kṛṣṇa. The point is this: when a devotee has attachment (anurāga) to Bhagavān, he is ready even to give up his life in serving Him.

Anubhāṣya.

On how the wives of the sacrificing brāhmaṇas attained Kṛṣṇa, see Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 10, Chapter 23.

Nityānanda's counsel —

এক যুক্তি আছে, যদি কর অবধান । তুমি না মিলিলেহ তাঁরে, রহে তাঁর প্রাণ ॥ ৩৩ ॥

eka yukti āche, yadi kara avadhāna
one means there is if You give attention
tumi nā milileha tāṁre, rahe tāṁra prāṇa
You not even if You meet him remains his life

33 There is one way, if You will hear it, by which his life may be saved even though You do not meet him.

এক বহির্ব্বাস যদি দেহ, কৃপা করি' । তাহা পাঞা প্রাণ রাখে, তোমার আশা ধরি' ॥ ৩৪ ॥

eka bahirvāsa yadi deha, kṛpā kari'
one outer cloth if You give mercy showing tāhā pāñā prāṇa rākhe, tomāra āśā dhari'
it getting life he will keep of You hope holding

34 If You mercifully give him one of Your outer cloths, he will receive it and keep himself alive, holding on to the hope of seeing You."[5]

Anubhāṣya.

The king is destined never to obtain Your darśana, and deprived of that darśana his heart is in torment. If You now mercifully give him one of the outer cloths (bahirvāsa) You have worn, we will know that You are kind to him. Then, hoping that his desire may be fulfilled in the future, the king too will be able to stay alive.

The Lord is under the sway of Nityānanda and the others —

প্রভু কহে, — তুমি-সব পরম বিদ্বান্ । যেই ভাল হয়, সেই কর সমাধান ॥ ৩৫ ॥

prabhu kahe, — tumi-saba parama vidvān
the Lord says you all very learned yei bhāla haya, sei kara samādhāna
whatever good is that make the arrangement

35 The Lord said, “You are all very learned. Arrange whatever is best.”

Nityānanda obtains the Lord’s outer cloth from Govinda —

তবে নিত্যানন্দ-গোসাঞি গোবিন্দের পাশ । মাগিয়া লইল প্রভুর এক বহির্ব্বাস ॥ ৩৬ ॥

tabe nityānanda-gosāñi govindera pāśa then Nityānanda Gosāñi of Govinda from māgiyā laila prabhura eka bahirvāsa begging took of the Lord one outer cloth

36 Then Nityānanda Gosāñi asked Govinda for one of the Lord’s outer cloths and took it.

Through Sārvabhauma he sends it to the king —

সেই বহির্ব্বাস সার্ব্বভৌম-পাশ দিল । সার্ব্বভৌম সেই বস্ত্র রাজারে পাঠা’ল ॥ ৩৭ ॥

sei bahirvāsa sārvabhauma-pāśa dila that outer cloth to Sārvabhauma gave sārvabhauma sei vastra rājāre pāṭhā’la Sārvabhauma that cloth to the king sent

37 He gave the cloth to Sārvabhauma, and Sārvabhauma sent it to the king.

Knowing the Lord’s cloth to be non-different from the Lord, the king serves it —

বস্ত্র পাঞা রাজার হৈল আনন্দিত মন । প্রভুরূপ করি’ করে বস্ত্রের পূজন ॥ ৩৮ ॥

vastra pāñā rājāra haila ānandita mana
the cloth getting of the king became joyful the mind prabhu-rūpa kari' kare vastrera pūjana
as the Lord's form regarding does of the cloth worship

38 Receiving the cloth, the king rejoiced, and he worshipped it as the Lord Himself.

Anubhāṣya.

The king had meant to worship the Lord with great eagerness. In the same way he began to worship the piece of outer cloth the Lord had given, regarding it as like the Lord Himself. The clothes, ornaments and other things the Lord wears are eternally non-different from His transcendental body. Śrī Baladeva is the form (vigraha) that possesses the sandhinī energy. His portion (kalā), Śeṣa, serves his worshipable Kṛṣṇacandra in many forms — as Viṣṇu's bed, His clothing and so on. Therefore all of these are objects of service for a pure servant, and in all of them one and the same Kṛṣṇa is perceived. Mahāprabhu, moreover, is the nondual truth (advaya-jñāna), the form of eternity, knowledge and bliss (sac-cid-ānanda-vigraha), Svayam Bhagavān. In the same way, the guru and the Vaiṣṇavas, who are full of eternity, knowledge and bliss, and the articles they use must be known as non-different from one another — that is, as the eternal, supremely worshipable forms for the jīva.

To live with the Lord in Purī, Rāya asks the king to release him from office —

রামানন্দ রায় যবে 'দক্ষিণ' হৈতে আইলা । প্রভুসঙ্গে রহিতে রাজাকে নিবেদিলা ॥ ৩৯ ॥

rāmānanda rāya yabe 'dakṣiṇa' haite āilā Rāmānanda Rāya when the South from came prabhu-saṅge rahite rājāke nivedilā with the Lord to stay the king he petitioned

39 When Rāmānanda Rāya returned from the South, he asked the king to let him stay with the Lord.

The king asks Rāya to obtain the Lord's darśana for him —

তবে রাজা সন্তোষে তাঁহারে আজ্ঞা দিলা । আপনি মিলন লাগি' কহিতে লাগিলা ॥ ৪০ ॥

tabe rājā santoṣe tāṁhāre ājñā dilā
then the king gladly to him permission gave āpani milana lāgi' kahite lāgilā himself meeting for the sake of to speak began

40 The king gladly gave him leave, and then began to plead for a meeting with the Lord for himself:

মহাপ্রভু মহাকৃপা করেন তোমারে । মোরে মিলিবারে অবশ্য সাধিবে তাঁহারে ॥ ৪১ ॥

mahāprabhu mahā-kṛpā karena tomāre Mahāprabhu great mercy shows to you more milibāre avaśya sādhibe tāṁhāre
me to meet surely you will entreat Him

41 "Mahāprabhu is very merciful to you. You must entreat Him to meet me."

Arriving in Purī from Kaṭaka with the king, Rāya at once meets the Lord —

একসঙ্গে দুই জন ক্ষেত্রে যবে আইলা । রামানন্দ রায় তবে প্রভুরে মিলিলা ॥ ৪২ ॥

eka-saṅge dui jana kṣetre yabe āilā together two persons to the Kṣetra when came rāmānanda rāya tabe prabhure mililā Rāmānanda Rāya then the Lord met

42 When the two of them came to the Kṣetra together, Rāmānanda Rāya went to meet the Lord.

A petition to the Lord on the king's behalf —

প্রভুপদে প্রেমভক্তি জানাইল রাজার । প্রসঙ্গ পাঞা ঐছে কহে বারবার ॥ ৪৩ ॥

prabhu-pade prema-bhakti jānāila rājāra
at the Lord's feet loving devotion he made known of the king prasaṅga pāñā aiche kahe bārabāra occasion finding thus he speaks again and again

43 At the Lord's feet he told of the king's loving devotion, and whenever the occasion arose he spoke of it again and again.

Śrī Rāmānanda, skilled in affairs —

রাজমন্ত্রী রামানন্দ — ব্যবহারে নিপুণ । রাজপ্রীতি কহি' দ্রবাইল প্রভুর মন ॥ ৪৪ ॥

rāja-mantrī rāmānanda — vyavahāre nipuṇa
the king's minister Rāmānanda in dealings skilled rāja-prīti kahi' dravāila prabhura mana
the king's love telling melted of the Lord the heart

44 Rāmānanda, the king's minister, was skilled in dealing with people; by telling of the king's love he softened the Lord's heart.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
As the king's minister, Rāmānanda Rāya was highly skilled in every kind of business, including affairs of state. So he described the king's love for Mahāprabhu and melted the Lord's heart.

A prayer to the Lord to grant darśana to the longing king —

উৎকণ্ঠাতে প্রতাপরুদ্র নারে রহিবারে । রামানন্দ সাধিলেন প্রভুরে মিলিবারে ॥ ৪৫ ॥

utkaṇṭhāte pratāparudra nāre rahibāre
from longing Pratāparudra cannot remain (calm) rāmānanda sādhilena prabhure milibāre
Rāmānanda entreated the Lord to meet

45 Pratāparudra could no longer bear his longing, and Rāmānanda entreated the Lord to meet him.

রামানন্দ প্রভু-পায় কৈল নিবেদন । একবার প্রতাপরুদ্রে দেখাহ চরণ ॥ ৪৬ ॥

rāmānanda prabhu-pāya kaila nivedana Rāmānanda at the Lord's feet made a petition
eka-bāra pratāparudre dekhāha caraṇa
once to Pratāparudra show the feet

46 Rāmānanda petitioned at the Lord's feet: "Just once, show Your feet to Pratāparudra."

The Lord asks Rāya himself for sound judgement —

প্রভু কহে, — রামানন্দ, কহ বিচারিয়া । রাজাকে মিলিতে যুয়ায় সন্ন্যাসী হঞা ? ॥ ৪৭ ॥

prabhu kahe, — rāmānanda, kaha vicāriyā
the Lord says Rāmānanda say considering rājāke milite yuyāya sannyāsī hañā?
the king to meet is it fitting a sannyāsī being 47 The Lord said, "Rāmānanda, think it over and tell Me: is it fitting for a sannyāsī to meet a king?

রাজার মিলনে ভিক্ষুকের দুই কুল-নাশ । পরলোক রহু, লোকে করে উপহাস ॥ ৪৮ ॥

rājāra milane bhikṣukera dui kula-nāśa
of the king in the meeting of a mendicant both worlds lost paraloka rahu, loke kare upahāsa
the next world let it be people make mockery

48 If a mendicant meets a king, both his worlds are lost. Quite apart from the next world, even here people will mock him."

Rāya regards the Lord as Īśvara, beyond injunctions and prohibitions —

রামানন্দ কহে, — তুমি ঈশ্বর স্বতন্ত্র । কারে তোমার ভয়, তুমি নহ পরতন্ত্র ॥ ৪৯ ॥

rāmānanda kahe, — tumi īśvara svatantra Rāmānanda says You the Lord independent kāre tomāra bhaya, tumi naha paratantra whom Your fear You are not dependent on others

49 Rāmānanda said, "You are the independent Lord. Whom need You fear? You depend on no one."

As if by a ruse, the Lord presents Himself as bound by the rules —

প্রভু কহে, — আমি মনুষ্য আশ্রমে সন্ন্যাসী । কায়মনোবাক্যে ব্যবহারে ভয় বাসি ॥ ৫০ ॥

prabhu kahe, — āmi manuṣya āśrame sannyāsī
the Lord says I a human being in āśrama a sannyāsī
kāya-mano-vākye vyavahāre bhaya vāsi
in body, mind and word in conduct fear I feel

50 The Lord said, "I am a human being, a sannyāsī by āśrama. In body, mind and word I must be wary in My conduct.

Anubhāṣya.
"I am only a man in the fourth āśrama, not Īśvara. So I fear transgressing worldly propriety in body, mind or speech" — that is, "I depend on what others think."

A sannyāsī who follows the injunctions must behave irreproachably —

শুক্লবস্ত্রে মসি-বিন্দু যৈছে না লুকায় । সন্ন্যাসীর অল্প ছিদ্র সর্ব্বলোকে গায় ॥ ৫১ ॥

śukla-vastre masi-bindu yaiche nā lukāya
on white cloth an ink spot as not is hidden sannyāsīra alpa chidra sarva-loke gāya of a sannyāsī small fault all people sing of 51 As a spot of ink cannot be hidden on white cloth, so everyone talks of a sannyāsī's slightest fault."

The Lord delivers great sinners — so the king, a devotee of Bhagavān, surely deserves the good fortune of seeing Him —

রায় কহে, — যত পাপী করিয়াছ অব্যাহতি । ঈশ্বর-সেবক তোমার ভক্ত গজপতি ॥ ৫২ ॥

rāya kahe, — yata pāpī kariyācha avyāhati Rāya says how many sinners You have made delivered īśvara-sevaka tomāra bhakta gajapati
the Lord's servant Your devotee the Gajapati

52 Rāya said, "You have delivered so many sinners! And the Gajapati is a servant of the Lord and Your devotee."

Even so, the Lord does not wish to meet the king —

প্রভু কহে, — পূর্ণ যৈছে দুগ্ধের কলস । সুরাবিন্দু-পাতে, কেহ না করে পরশ ॥ ৫৩ ॥

prabhu kahe, — pūrṇa yaiche dugdhera kalasa
the Lord says full as of milk a pot
surā-bindu-pāte, keha nā kare paraśa
a drop of wine by falling anyone not makes touch

53 The Lord said, "It is like a pot full of milk: if a single drop of wine falls into it, no one will touch it.

যদ্যপি প্রতাপরুদ্র — সর্ব্ব-গুণবান্ । তাঁহারে মলিন কৈল এক 'রাজা' নাম ॥ ৫৪ ॥

yadyapi pratāparudra — sarva-guṇavān
although Pratāparudra possessed of every virtue tāṁhāre malina kaila eka 'rājā' nāma him stained made one the name 'king'

54 Although Pratāparudra has every good quality, the single name 'king' has stained him.[6]

At last, yielding to Rāya's insistence, the Lord agrees to meet the prince —

তথাপি তোমার যদি মহাগ্রহ হয় । তবে আনি' মিলাহ তুমি তাঁহার তনয় ॥ ৫৫ ॥

tathāpi tomāra yadi mahāgraha haya still your if great insistence is tabe āni' milāha tumi tāṁhāra tanaya
then bringing have (Me) meet you his son

55 Still, if you are so insistent, then bring his son to meet Me.

Anubhāṣya.
The son: Puruṣottama Jānā (?).

Father and son are one in bodily substance —

'আত্মা বৈ জায়তে পুত্রঃ' — এই শাস্ত্রবাণী । পুত্রের মিলনে যেন মিলিবে আপনি ॥ ৫৬ ॥

'ātmā vai jāyate putraḥ' — ei śāstra-vāṇī
'the self indeed is born as the son' this the word of scripture putrera milane yena milibe āpani
of the son in the meeting as if will meet himself

56 Scripture says, ‘One’s self is born as one’s son.’ So when his son meets Me, it will be as if the king himself had met Me.”

Anubhāṣya.

The words of Bhagavān (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.78.36): “‘The self is born as the son’ — so the Vedas teach.” Śrīdhara Svāmī comments: “Such are the teachings of the Vedas: ‘You are my very self, bearing the name of son; may you live a hundred autumns,’ and so on.”

Rāya tells the king of the Lord’s mercy and brings the prince to the Lord —

তবে রায় যাই’ সব রাজারে কহিলা । প্রভুর আজ্ঞায় তাঁর পুত্র লঞা আইলা ॥ ৫৭ ॥

tabe rāya yāi’ saba rājāre kahilā
then Rāya going all to the king told prabhura ājñāya tāṁra putra lañā āilā of the Lord by the order his son bringing came

57 Rāya then went and told the king everything, and at the Lord’s bidding he brought the king’s son.

The dark-complexioned young prince awakens in the Lord the remembrance of Kṛṣṇa —

সুন্দর, রাজার পুত্র — শ্যামল-বরণ । কিশোর-বয়স, দীর্ঘ কমলনয়ন ॥ ৫৮ ॥

sundara, rājāra putra — śyāmala-varaṇa
beautiful of the king the son dark of complexion kiśora-vayasa, dīrgha kamala-nayana
youthful in age long lotus eyes

58 The king’s son was beautiful and dark-complexioned, in the bloom of youth, with long lotus eyes.

পীতাম্বর, ধরে অঙ্গে রত্ন-আভরণ । শ্রীকৃষ্ণ-স্মরণে তেঁহ হৈলা 'উদ্দীপন' ॥ ৫৯ ॥

pītāmbara, dhare aṅge ratna-ābharaṇa
in yellow garments wears on the body jewelled ornaments
śrī kṛṣṇa-smaraṇe teṁha hailā 'uddīpana'
Śrī of the remembrance of Kṛṣṇa he became 'the awakener'

59 Dressed in yellow and adorned with jewelled ornaments, he was an uddīpana, one who awakens the remembrance of Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

তাঁরে দেখি' মহাপ্রভুর কৃষ্ণস্মৃতি হৈল । প্রেমাবেশে তাঁরে মিলি' কহিতে লাগিল ॥ ৬০ ॥

tāṁre dekhi' mahāprabhura kṛṣṇa-smṛti haila him seeing of Mahāprabhu remembrance of Kṛṣṇa arose
premāveśe tāṁre mili' kahite lāgila
in loving absorption him embracing to speak He began

60 Seeing him, Mahāprabhu remembered Kṛṣṇa. Overwhelmed with love, He embraced him and began to speak:

The last word on the darśana of a Vaiṣṇava —

এই — মহাভাগবত, যাঁহার দর্শনে । ব্রজেন্দ্রনন্দন স্মৃতি হয় সর্ব্বজনে ॥ ৬১ ॥

ei — mahā-bhāgavata, yāṁhāra darśane
this one a mahā-bhāgavata whose at the sight vrajendra-nandana smṛti haya sarva-jane of the son of Vraja's king remembrance arises in all people

61 "Here is a mahā-bhāgavata, at whose sight everyone remembers the son of the king of Vraja.

Anubhāṣya.

The Lord sees the self (ātmā), and so He has no external vision turned towards objects of enjoyment — towards the body and mind, which are not the self.

Therefore He has no notion at all that the prince is a viṣayī, the son of a viṣayī, and so “a woman” or “one who keeps company with women,” and that He Himself is “a man who enjoys women.” In other words, when one sees the real substance, full of eternity, knowledge and bliss, there is no room at all for fancies or impositions born of the mind. Such is, for instance, the habit of imposing spirit onto matter, or of taking what is made of earth to be worshipable[11] — the natural tendency of jīvas who are Māyāvādīs averse to Kṛṣṇa. The Lord Himself is the nondual truth (advaya-jñāna), the viṣaya-vigraha, the one towards whom love is directed. Yet He perceived Himself as a gopī, of the class of the “āśraya” (the abode of love) — one who gives delight and on whom the gaze rests — and He perceived the prince as Vrajendra-nandana Himself. This is the vision of nondual truth proper to the pure jīvātmā, the “vision of a Vaiṣṇava” (see Madhya 8.277). “Only one whom He Himself chooses can attain Him; to him the Self reveals His own form.” (Kaṭha and Muṇḍaka Upaniṣads)[12] Because the jīva lacks this fearless vision, he invites all the misfortunes (anarthas) born of ignorance — the round of birth and death: “Coming into this world, I serve prakṛti and perish in the conceit of being a ‘puruṣa’” (Ṭhākura Śrī Bhaktivinoda, Kalyāṇa-kalpataru).

The Lord embraces the prince, seeing him as Kṛṣṇa —

কৃতার্থ হইলাঙ আমি ইঁহার দরশনে । এত বলি’ কৈল তাঁরে পুনঃ আলিঙ্গনে ॥ ৬২ ॥

kṛtārtha hailāṅa āmi iṁhāra daraśane fulfilled have become I his by the sight eta bali’ kaila tāṁre punaḥ āliṅgane
so saying did him again embracing

62 Seeing him, I have attained My goal.” Saying this, the Lord embraced him again.

From the embrace the prince is overcome with love for Kṛṣṇa —

প্রভুস্পর্শে রাজপুত্রের হৈল প্রেমাবেশ । স্বেদ, কম্প, অশ্রু, স্তম্ভ, পুলক বিশেষ ॥ ৬৩ ॥

prabhu-sparśe rāja-putrera haila premāveśa
by the Lord's touch of the prince arose ecstatic love
sveda, kampa, aśru, stambha, pulaka viśeṣa sweat trembling tears stupor horripilation intense

63 At the Lord's touch the prince was overcome with prema: he sweated and trembled, wept, became stunned, and his hair stood on end.

Seeing his love, the devotees praise him —

'কৃষ্ণ' 'কৃষ্ণ' কহে, নাচে, করয়ে রোদন । তাঁর ভাগ্য দেখি' শ্লাঘা করে ভক্তগণ ॥ ৬৪ ॥

'kṛṣṇa' 'kṛṣṇa' kahe, nāce, karaye rodana
'Kṛṣṇa' 'Kṛṣṇa' he says he dances makes weeping
tāṁra bhāgya dekhi' ślāghā kare bhakta-gaṇa
his fortune seeing praise make the devotees

64 He cried "Kṛṣṇa! Kṛṣṇa!", danced and wept. Seeing his good fortune, the devotees praised him.

The Lord comforts the prince and asks him to come every day —

তবে মহাপ্রভু তাঁরে ধৈর্য্য করাইল । নিত্য আসি' আমায় মিলিহ, — এই আজ্ঞা দিল ॥ ৬৫ ॥

tabe mahāprabhu tāṁre dhairya karāila then Mahāprabhu him composure caused nitya āsi' āmāya miliha, — ei ājñā dila daily coming Me meet this order He gave

65 Then Mahāprabhu calmed him and told him, "Come and see Me every day."

Seeing and embracing his son, the king feels the Lord's touch —

বিদায় হঞা রায় আইল রাজপুত্রে লঞা । রাজা সুখ পাইল পুত্রের চেষ্টা দেখিয়া ॥ ৬৬ ॥

vidāya hañā rāya āila rāja-putre lañā leave taking Rāya came the prince bringing rājā sukha pāila putrera ceṣṭā dekhiyā
the king happiness felt of the son the behaviour seeing 66 Taking leave, Rāya came back with the prince. The king was delighted to see how his son behaved.

পুত্রে আলিঙ্গন করি' প্রেমাবিষ্ট হৈলা । সাক্ষাৎ স্পর্শ যেন মহাপ্রভুর পাইলা ॥ ৬৭ ॥

putre āliṅgana kari' premāviṣṭa hailā
the son embrace making overwhelmed by love he became sākṣāt sparśa yena mahāprabhura pāilā direct touch as if of Mahāprabhu he received

67 Embracing his son, he was overwhelmed with love, as if he had received Mahāprabhu's touch directly.

The prince becomes one of Gaura's devotees —

সেই হৈতে ভাগ্যবান্ রাজার নন্দন । প্রভুভক্তগণ-মধ্যে হৈলা একজন ॥ ৬৮ ॥

sei haite bhāgyavān rājāra nandana
that from fortunate of the king the son prabhu-bhakta-gaṇa-madhye hailā eka-jana among the Lord's devotees became one

68 From then on the fortunate prince was one of the Lord's devotees.

The Lord delights in kīrtana with the devotees —

এইমত মহাপ্রভু ভক্তগণ-সঙ্গে । নিরন্তর ক্রীড়া করে সংকীর্ত্তন-রঙ্গে ॥ ৬৯ ॥

ei-mata mahāprabhu bhakta-gaṇa-saṅge
thus Mahāprabhu with the devotees nirantara krīḍā kare saṅkīrtana-raṅge constantly play does in the joy of saṅkīrtana

69 In this way Mahāprabhu constantly enjoyed His pastimes with His devotees in the joy of saṅkīrtana.

Advaita and others, with their companions, invite the Lord —

আচার্য্যাদি ভক্ত করে প্রভুরে নিমন্ত্রণ । তাঁহা তাঁহা ভিক্ষা করে লঞা ভক্তগণ ॥ ৭০ ॥

ācāryādi bhakta kare prabhure nimantraṇa
the Ācārya and others devotees make the Lord invitation tāṁhā tāṁhā bhikṣā kare lañā bhakta-gaṇa
there there alms He takes taking the devotees

70 Advaita Ācārya and other devotees would invite the Lord, and He would take His meal at each of their homes together with His devotees.

The Ratha-yātrā draws near —

এইমত নানা রঙ্গে দিন কত গেল । জগন্নাথের রথযাত্রা নিকট হইল ॥ ৭১ ॥

ei-mata nānā raṅge dina kata gela
thus in various joys days some passed jagannāthera ratha-yātrā nikaṭa haila of Jagannātha the Ratha-yātrā near became 71 So, amid many joys, some days passed, and Jagannātha's Ratha-yātrā drew near.

*The Lord asks Kāśī Miśra, the paḍichā and the Bhaṭṭācārya for permission* to clean the Guṇḍicā temple —

first of all Kāśī Miśra the Lord called paḍichā-pātra, sārvabhaume bolāñā ānila
the paḍichā-pātra Sārvabhauma calling He brought 72 First the Lord called Kāśī Miśra; then He sent for the paḍichā-pātra and Sārvabhauma.

তিনজন-পাশে প্রভু হাসিয়া কহিল । গুণ্ডিচা-মন্দির-মার্জ্জন-সেবা মাগি' নিল ॥ ৭৩ ॥

tina-jana-pāśe prabhu hāsiyā kahila
to the three persons the Lord smiling said guṇḍicā-mandira-mārjana-sevā māgi' nila
the service of cleaning the Guṇḍicā temple begging He took 73 Smiling, the Lord spoke to the three of them and begged for the service of cleaning the Guṇḍicā temple.

Anubhāṣya.

The Guṇḍicā temple stands one krośa northeast of the Śrī Mandira. During the Ratha-yātrā Śrī Jagannāthadeva goes there for a week and then returns on the chariot. According to tradition, the queen of King Śrī Indradyumna was known as Guṇḍicā. The Guṇḍicā temple is mentioned in the scriptures. The Guṇḍicā courtyard is 288 cubits long and 215 wide; the main temple, 36 cubits long and 30 wide; the nāṭya-mandira, 32 cubits long and 30 wide.

*The paḍichā's humble words —*

পড়িছা কহে, — আমি-সব সেবক তোমার । যে তোমার ইচ্ছা, সেই কর্ত্তব্য আমার ॥ ৭৪ ॥

paḍichā kahe, — āmi-saba sevaka tomāra
the paḍichā says we all servants Your ye tomāra icchā, sei kartavya āmāra
what Your wish that duty our 74 The paḍichā said, “We are all Your servants. Whatever You wish is our duty.

By the king’s order he is entitled to serve the Lord —

বিশেষে রাজার আজ্ঞা হঞাছে আমারে । প্রভুর আজ্ঞা যেই, সেই শীঘ্র করিবারে ॥ ৭৫ ॥

viśeṣe rājāra ājñā hañāche āmāre especially of the king the order has been to me prabhura ājñā yei, sei śīghra karibāre of the Lord the order whatever that quickly to carry out

75 Moreover, the king has specially ordered me to carry out at once whatever the Lord commands.

*The paḍichā does not know the inner meaning of cleaning the Guṇḍicā temple —*

তোমার যোগ্য সেবা নহে মন্দির-মার্জ্জন । এই এক লীলা কর, যে তোমার মন ॥ ৭৬ ॥

tomāra yogya sevā nahe mandira-mārjana
for You fitting service is not the cleaning of the temple ei eka līlā kara, ye tomāra mana
this one pastime You perform as Your mind

76 Cleaning the temple is not a service worthy of You. But if it is Your wish, it will be one of Your pastimes.

Many water pots and brooms are gathered —

কিন্তু ঘট, সংমার্জ্জনী বহুত চাহিয়ে ।

kintu ghaṭa, sammārjanī bahuta cāhiye
but pots brooms many are needed
ājñā deha, āji saba iṁhā āni diye
the order give today all here bringing I give

77 Many pots and brooms will be needed, though. Give the order, and I shall bring them all here today."

নূতন একশত ঘট, শত সংমার্জ্জনী । পড়িছা আনিয়া দিল প্রভুর ইচ্ছা জানি' ॥ ৭৮ ॥

nūtana eka-śata ghaṭa, śata sammārjanī
new one hundred pots a hundred brooms paḍichā āniyā dila prabhura icchā jāni'
the paḍichā bringing gave of the Lord the wish knowing

78 Knowing the Lord's wish, the paḍichā brought a hundred new pots and a hundred brooms.

In the morning the Lord goes to the Guṇḍicā with the devotees —

আর দিনে প্রভাতে লঞা নিজগণ । শ্রীহস্তে সবার অঙ্গে লেপিলা চন্দন ॥ ৭৯ ॥

āra dine prabhāte lañā nija-gaṇa
on the next day in the morning taking His own people
śrī haste sabāra aṅge lepilā candana with His divine hand of all on the bodies smeared sandal paste

79 Early the next day the Lord gathered His own devotees and with His own hand anointed them all with sandal paste.

শ্রীহস্তে দিল সবারে এক এক মার্জ্জনী । সবগণ লঞা প্রভু চলিলা আপনি ॥ ৮০ ॥

śrī haste dila sabāre eka eka mārjanī with His divine hand gave to all one each broom saba-gaṇa lañā prabhu calilā āpani
all His people taking the Lord went Himself

80 With His own hand He gave each of them a broom, and the Lord Himself set out, taking them all with Him.

First the Lord Himself sets the example —

গুণ্ডিচা-মন্দিরে গেলা করিতে মার্জ্জন । প্রথমে মার্জ্জনী লঞা করিল শোধন ॥ ৮১ ॥

guṇḍicā-mandire gelā karite mārjana
to the Guṇḍicā temple He went to do cleaning prathame mārjanī lañā karila śodhana
first brooms taking made cleansing

81 He went to clean the Guṇḍicā temple, and first of all He took a broom and swept it.

ভিতর মন্দির উপর, — সকল মাজিল । সিংহাসন মাজি' পুনঃ স্থাপন করিল ॥ ৮২ ॥

bhitara mandira upara, — sakala mājila
inside the temple above all He scrubbed siṁhāsana māji' punaḥ sthāpana karila
the throne scrubbing again placing He did

82 He scrubbed everything inside the temple, even the ceiling; He cleaned the throne and set it back in its place.

Anubhāṣya.

In the main temple of the Guṇḍicā there is a jeweled altar (ratna-vedī) twelve cubits long and two cubits high — this is the throne (siṁhāsana).

ছোট-বড়-মন্দির কৈল মার্জ্জন-শোধন ।

pāche taiche śodhila śrī jagamohana
afterwards likewise cleansed Śrī Jagamohana

83 He swept and cleaned the small and large shrines, and afterwards cleaned the Śrī Jagamohana in the same way.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Jagamohana is the hall between the main temple and the nāṭya-mandira, 32 cubits long.

The Lord cleans and teaches the others —

চারিদিকে শত ভক্ত সংমার্জ্জনী করে । আপনি শোধেন প্রভু, শিখা'ন সবারে ॥ ৮৪ ॥

on four sides a hundred devotees sweeping do āpani śodhena prabhu, śikhā'na sabāre Himself cleans the Lord teaches all

84 On every side a hundred devotees were sweeping. The Lord Himself cleaned and taught them all.

The devotees follow the Lord's example —

প্রেমোল্লাসে শোধেন, লয়েন কৃষ্ণনাম । ভক্তগণ 'কৃষ্ণ' কহে, করে নিজ-কাম ॥ ৮৫ ॥

premollāse śodhena, layena kṛṣṇa-nāma
in the joy of love He cleans He takes Kṛṣṇa's name bhakta-gaṇa 'kṛṣṇa' kahe, kare nija-kāma
the devotees 'Kṛṣṇa' say do their own work

85 Joyful with love, He cleaned and chanted Kṛṣṇa's name; the devotees, too, chanted "Kṛṣṇa!" as they did their work.

The temple is washed with tears —

ধূলি-ধূসর তনু দেখিতে শোভন । কাঁহা কাঁহা অশ্রুজলে করে সংমার্জ্জন ॥ ৮৬ ॥

dhūli-dhūsara tanu dekhite śobhana
grey with dust body to see beautiful kāṁhā kāṁhā aśru-jale kare sammārjana
in some places in places with the water of tears does cleaning

86 His body, grey with dust, was beautiful to see. In places He washed the floor with the water of His tears.

Everything is cleaned and scrubbed thoroughly —

ভোগমন্দির শোধন করি' শোধিল প্রাঙ্গণ । সকল আবাস ক্রমে করিল শোধন ॥ ৮৭ ॥ bhoga-mandira śodhana kari' śodhila prāṅgaṇa

the bhoga-mandira cleansing having done cleansed the courtyard sakala āvāsa krame karila śodhana
all the quarters in turn did cleansing

87 After cleaning the bhoga-mandira He cleaned the courtyard, and then, one after another, all the rooms.

Anubhāṣya.
The bhoga-mandira is 40 cubits long and 17 wide.

The devotees carry out the straw, dust and so on —

তৃণ, ধূলি, ঝিকুর, সব একত্র করিয়া । বহির্ব্বাসে লঞা ফেলায় বাহির করিয়া ॥ ৮৮ ॥

tṛṇa, dhūli, jhikura, saba ekatra kariyā straw dust grit all together making bahirvāse lañā phelāya bāhira kariyā in the outer cloth taking throws away outside carrying 88 He gathered straw, dust and grit into one heap, took it up in His outer cloth and carried it outside to throw it away.

এইমত ভক্তগণ করি' নিজ-বাসে । তৃণ, ধূলি বাহিরে ফেলায় পরম-হরিষে ॥ ৮৯ ॥

ei-mata bhakta-gaṇa kari' nija-vāse
in this way the devotees doing in their own cloths tṛṇa, dhūli bāhire phelāya parama-hariṣe
straw dust outside throw away with great joy

89 In the same way the devotees gathered straw and dust in their own cloths and threw it outside with great joy.

How much each has cleaned is seen from the amount of dirt collected —

প্রভু কহে, — কে কত করিয়াছ সংমার্জ্জন । তৃণ, ধূলি দেখিলেই জানিব পরিশ্রম ॥ ৯০ ॥

prabhu kahe, — ke kata kariyācha sammārjana
the Lord says who how much has done sweeping tṛṇa, dhūli dekhilei jāniba pariśrama
straw dust just by seeing I shall know the labour

90 The Lord said, "Who has swept how much? Just by seeing your straw and dust I shall know how hard you have worked."

The Lord's own cleaning made the Guṇḍicā cleanest of all —

সবার ঝ্যাঁটান বোঝা একত্র করিল । সবা হৈতে প্রভুর বোঝা অধিক হইল ॥ ৯১ ॥

sabāra jhyāṁṭāna bojhā ekatra karila of all the sweepings bundles together He made sabā haite prabhura bojhā adhika haila
all than of the Lord the bundle more was 91 All the heaps of sweepings were put together, and the Lord's heap was larger than everyone else's.

The Lord, whom all serve, Himself serves together with His servants —

এইমত অভ্যন্তর করিল মার্জ্জন । পুনঃ সবাকারে দিল করিয়া বণ্টন ॥ ৯২ ॥

ei-mata abhyantara karila mārjana
thus the interior He did cleaning punaḥ sabākāre dila kariyā vaṇṭana
again to all He gave making distribution

92 When the inside had been cleaned in this way, He again divided the work among them all:

The Lord orders the temple to be rid of all dirt —

সূক্ষ্ম ধূলি, তৃণ, কাঁকর, সব করহ দূর । ভালমতে শোধন করহ প্রভুর অন্তঃপুর ॥ ৯৩ ॥

sūkṣma dhūli, tṛṇa, kāṁkara, saba karaha dūra fine dust straw pebbles all make away bhāla-mate śodhana karaha prabhura antaḥpura thoroughly cleaning do of the Lord the inner chamber

93 "Remove all the fine dust, straw and pebbles. Clean the Lord's inner chamber thoroughly."

The coverings are cleaned twice —

সব বৈষ্ণব লঞা যবে দুইবার শোধিল । দেখি' মহাপ্রভুর মনে সন্তোষ হইল ॥ ৯৪ ॥

saba vaiṣṇava lañā yabe dui-bāra śodhila
all the Vaiṣṇavas taking when twice He cleansed
dekhi' mahāprabhura mane santoṣa haila
seeing of Mahāprabhu in the mind satisfaction arose

94 When He and all the Vaiṣṇavas had cleaned it twice, Mahāprabhu was satisfied to see it.

Another group of devotees helps clean the temple —

আর শত-জন শত-ঘটে জল ভরি' । প্রথমেই লঞা আছে কাল অপেক্ষা করি' ॥ ৯৫ ॥

āra śata-jana śata-ghaṭe jala bhari'
another hundred persons in a hundred pots water filling prathamei lañā āche kāla apekṣā kari'
from the start holding are there the time waiting doing

95 Another hundred people had filled a hundred pots with water and stood holding them from the start, waiting for the moment.

'জল আন' বলি' যবে মহাপ্রভু কহিল । তবে শত ঘট আনি' প্রভু আগে দিল ॥ ৯৬ ॥

'jala āna' bali' yabe mahāprabhu kahila
'water bring' saying when Mahāprabhu spoke tabe śata ghaṭa āni' prabhu āge dila
then a hundred pots bringing the Lord before they placed 96 When Mahāprabhu called out, "Bring water!", they brought the hundred pots and set them before the Lord.

The temple is washed everywhere —

প্রথমে করিল প্রভু মন্দির প্রক্ষালন । ঊর্দ্ধ-অধো ভিত্তি, গৃহ-মধ্য, সিংহাসন ॥ ৯৭ ॥

prathame karila prabhu mandira prakṣālana
first did the Lord of the temple washing ūrdhva-adho bhitti, gṛha-madhya, siṁhāsana

97 First the Lord washed the temple: the walls from top to bottom, the inside of the room and the throne.

খাপরা ভরিয়া জল ঊর্দ্ধে চালাইল । সেই জলে ঊর্দ্ধ শোধি ভিত্তি প্রক্ষালিল ॥ ৯৮ ॥

khāparā bhariyā jala ūrdhve cālāila clay bowls filling water upward He threw sei jale ūrdhva śodhi bhitti prakṣālila
with that water the top cleansing the walls He washed

98 Filling clay bowls with water, He threw it up high; with that water He cleaned the ceiling and washed the walls.

With His own hands the Lord washes Bhagavān's throne —

শ্রীহস্তে করেন সিংহাসনের মার্জ্জন । প্রভু-আগে জল আনি' দেয় ভক্তগণ ॥ ৯৯ ॥

śrī haste karena siṁhāsanera mārjana
with His divine hand He does of the throne cleaning prabhu-āge jala āni' deya bhakta-gaṇa
before the Lord water bringing give the devotees

99 With His own hand He cleaned the throne, while the devotees brought water and set it before Him.

The devotees' varied service —

ভক্তগণ করে গৃহ-মধ্যে প্রক্ষালন । নিজ নিজ হস্তে করে মন্দির মার্জ্জন ॥ ১০০ ॥

bhakta-gaṇa kare gṛha-madhye prakṣālana
the devotees do inside the room washing nija nija haste kare mandira mārjana own own with hands do of the temple cleaning

100 The devotees washed the inside of the room, each cleaning the temple with his own hands.

কেহ জল আনি' দেয় মহাপ্রভুর করে । কেহ জল দেয় তাঁর চরণ-উপরে ॥ ১০১ ॥

keha jala āni' deya mahāprabhura kare someone water bringing gives of Mahāprabhu into the hands
keha jala deya tāṁra caraṇa-upare someone water pours His upon the feet

101 Some brought water and poured it into Mahāprabhu's hands; some poured water over His feet.

কেহ লুকাঞা করে সেই জলপান । কেহ মাগি' লয়, কেহ অন্যে করে দান ॥ ১০২ ॥

keha lukāñā kare sei jala-pāna someone secretly does that water-drinking keha māgi' laya, keha anye kare dāna someone begging takes someone to others makes gift

102 Some secretly drank that water; some begged for it, and some gave it to others.

The water is let out through the drain —

ঘর ধুই' প্রণালিকায় জল ছাড়ি' দিল । সেই জলে প্রাঙ্গণ সব ভরিয়া রহিল ॥ ১০৩ ॥

ghara dhui' praṇālikāya jala chāḍi' dila
the room washing into the drain the water letting go gave sei jale prāṅgaṇa saba bhariyā rahila
by that water the courtyard all filled remained

103 When the rooms had been washed, they let the water out through the drain, and it flooded the whole courtyard.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Praṇālikāya: into the drain.

With His own cloth the Lord wipes the room and the throne —

নিজ-বস্ত্রে কৈল প্রভু গৃহ সংমার্জ্জন । মহাপ্রভু নিজ-বস্ত্রে মাজিল সিংহাসন ॥ ১০৪ ॥

nija-vastre kaila prabhu gṛha sammārjana with His own cloth did the Lord of the room cleaning mahāprabhu nija-vastre mājila siṁhāsana
Mahāprabhu with His own cloth polished the throne

104 With His own cloth the Lord wiped the room, and with His own cloth Mahāprabhu polished the throne.

The cleaned and washed temple is likened to Śrī Rādhā's pure heart —

শত ঘট জলে হৈল মন্দির মার্জ্জন । মন্দির শোধিয়া কৈল, যেন নিজ মন ॥ ১০৫ ॥

śata ghaṭa jale haila mandira mārjana of a hundred pots with the water was of the temple cleaning mandira śodhiyā kaila, yena nija mana
the temple cleansing He made like His own mind

105 The temple was washed with the water of a hundred pots. Cleansing it, He made it like His own heart.

নির্ম্মল, শীতল, স্নিগ্ধ করিল মন্দিরে । আপন-হৃদয় যেন ধরিল বাহিরে ॥ ১০৬ ॥

nirmala, śītala, snigdha karila mandire spotless cool soothing He made the temple
āpana-hṛdaya yena dharila bāhire
His own heart as if He held outside

106 He made the temple spotless, cool and soothing, as if He had brought His own heart outside.

Hundreds of devotees strive to clean the temple —

শত-শত জন জল ভরে সরোবরে । ঘাটে স্থান নাহি, কেহ কূপে জল ভরে ॥ ১০৭ ॥

śata-śata jana jala bhare sarovare
hundreds and hundreds people water fill at the lake ghāṭe sthāna nāhi, keha kūpe jala bhare
at the ghāṭa room there is not some at the well water fill 107 Hundreds upon hundreds of people drew water from the lake. There was no room left at the bathing ghāṭa, so some drew water from a well.

পূর্ণ কুম্ভ লঞা আইসে শত ভক্তগণ । শূন্য ঘট লঞা যায়, আর শত জন ॥ ১০৮ ॥

pūrṇa kumbha lañā āise śata bhakta-gaṇa
full pots carrying come a hundred devotees śūnya ghaṭa lañā yāya, āra śata jana empty pots carrying go another hundred persons

108 A hundred devotees came carrying full pots, and another hundred went off with the empty ones.

Nityānanda, Advaita, Svarūpa, Bhāratī, Purī and others wash the temple, while the other devotees bring water —

নিত্যানন্দ, অদ্বৈত, স্বরূপ, ভারতী, পুরী । ইঁহা বিনা আর সব আনে জল ভরি' ॥ ১০৯ ॥

nityānanda, advaita, svarūpa, bhāratī, purī
Nityānanda Advaita Svarūpa Bhāratī Purī
iṁhā vinā āra saba āne jala bhari'
them except other all bring water filling

109 Except for Nityānanda, Advaita, Svarūpa, Bhāratī and Purī, everyone filled pots and brought water.

Anubhāṣya.
The Vaiṣṇavas were busy bringing water. But Nityānanda Prabhu, Advaita, Dāmodara-svarūpa, Brahmānanda Bhāratī and Paramānanda Purī — these five took water together with Mahāprabhu and were busy cleaning.

Everyone is eager to clean and wash the temple —

ঘটে ঘটে ঠেকি' কত ঘট ভাঙ্গি' গেল । শত শত ঘট লোক তাঁহা লঞা আইল ॥ ১১০ ॥

ghaṭe ghaṭe ṭheki' kata ghaṭa bhāṅgi' gela pot against pot knocking some pots breaking went śata śata ghaṭa loka tāṁhā lañā āila hundreds hundreds pots people there bringing came

110 Many pots broke as they knocked against one another, and people brought hundreds more.

While the temple is being cleaned and washed, the names of Kṛṣṇa are sung all the time —

জল ভরে, ঘর ধোয়, করে হরিধ্বনি ।
'কৃষ্ণ' 'হরি' ধ্বনি বিনা আর নাহি শুনি ॥ ১১১ ॥

jala bhare, ghara dhoya, kare hari-dhvani
water they fill the room they wash they make the sound of Hari's name
'kṛṣṇa' 'hari' dhvani vinā āra nāhi śuni
'Kṛṣṇa' 'Hari' sound except other not is heard

111 They filled pots, washed the rooms and called out the name of Hari. Apart from the sounds "Kṛṣṇa!" and "Hari!", nothing else could be heard.

'কৃষ্ণ' 'কৃষ্ণ' কহি' করে ঘটের প্রার্থন ।
'কৃষ্ণ' 'কৃষ্ণ' কহি' করে ঘট সমর্পণ ॥ ১১২ ॥

'kṛṣṇa' 'kṛṣṇa' kahi' kare ghaṭera prārthana
"Kṛṣṇa" "Kṛṣṇa" saying they make for a pot a request
'kṛṣṇa' 'kṛṣṇa' kahi' kare ghaṭa samarpaṇa
"Kṛṣṇa" "Kṛṣṇa" saying they make of a pot the handing over 112 Saying "Kṛṣṇa! Kṛṣṇa!" some asked for a water pot, and saying "Kṛṣṇa! Kṛṣṇa!" others handed one over.

যেই যেই কহে, সেই কহে কৃষ্ণনামে । কৃষ্ণনাম হইল সঙ্কেত সব-কামে ॥ ১১৩ ॥

yei yei kahe, sei kahe kṛṣṇa-nāme whoever whoever speaks he speaks by Kṛṣṇa's name
kṛṣṇa-nāma haila saṅketa saba-kāme
Kṛṣṇa's name became the signal in all tasks

113 Whatever anyone had to say, he said it with the name of Kṛṣṇa: Kṛṣṇa's name became the signal for every task.

The Lord constantly chants Kṛṣṇa's name and alone does the service of a hundred devotees —

প্রেমাবেশে প্রভু কহে 'কৃষ্ণ' 'কৃষ্ণ'-নাম । একলে প্রেমাবেশে করে শতজনের কাম ॥ ১১৪ ॥

premāveśe prabhu kahe ‘kṛṣṇa’ ‘kṛṣṇa’-nāma absorbed in love the Lord says “Kṛṣṇa” “Kṛṣṇa” the name
ekale premāveśe kare śata-janera kāma alone absorbed in love He does of a hundred people the work

114 Absorbed in love, the Lord chanted the name “Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa,” and in that absorption He alone did the work of a hundred men.

The Lord Himself both sets the example and instructs —

শত-হস্তে করেন যেন ক্ষালন-মার্জ্জন । প্রতিজন-পাশে যাই’ করান শিক্ষণ ॥ ১১৫ ॥

śata-haste karena yena kṣālana-mārjana with a hundred hands He does as if washing and cleaning pratijana-pāśe yāi’ karāna śikṣaṇa
to each person’s side going He gives instruction

115 It was as if He were washing and cleaning with a hundred hands. Going up to each person, He showed him how to do the work.

Praise for a good servant’s service —

ভাল কর্ম্ম দেখি’ তারে করে প্রশংসন । মনে না মিলিলে করে পবিত্র ভর্ৎসন ॥ ১১৬ ॥

bhāla karma dekhi’ tāre kare praśaṁsana
good work seeing him He gives praise mane nā milile kare pavitra bhartsana
with His mind not agreeing He gives a pure rebuke

116 When He saw good work, He praised the worker; when something did not please Him, He rebuked him, and even His rebuke was pure and purifying.

The Lord tells a good servant to do the work of an ācārya —

তুমি ভাল করিয়াছ, শিখাহ অন্যেরে । এইমত ভাল কর্ম্ম সেই যেন করে ॥ ১১৭ ॥

tumi bhāla kariyācha, śikhāha anyere
you well have done teach others ei-mata bhāla karma sei yena kare
in this way good work they so that do

117 "You have done well. Now teach the others, so that they too do such good work."

Inspired by the Lord, the devotees serve with zeal —

এ-কথা শুনিয়া সবে সঙ্কুচিত হঞা । ভাল-মতে কর্ম্ম করে সবে মন দিয়া ॥ ১১৮ ॥

e-kathā śuniyā sabe saṅkucita hañā
these words hearing all abashed becoming bhāla-mate karma kare sabe mana diyā properly the work do all the mind giving

118 Hearing these words, everyone felt abashed, and all of them set about the work properly, with full attention.

The temple is washed everywhere —

তবে প্রক্ষালন কৈল শ্রীজগমোহন । ভোগমন্দির আদি তবে কৈল প্রক্ষালন ॥ ১১৯ ॥

tabe prakṣālana kaila śrī jagamohana
then washing they made of Śrī Jagamohana
bhoga-mandira-ādi tabe kaila prakṣālana
the bhoga-mandira and the rest then they made washing

119 Then they washed the Śrī Jagamohana, and after that the bhoga-mandira and the other halls.

নাটশালা ধুই' ধুইল চত্বর-প্রাঙ্গণ । পাকশালা-আদি করি' করিল প্রক্ষালন ॥ ১২০ ॥

nāṭaśālā dhui' dhuila catvara-prāṅgaṇa
the Nāṭaśālā washing they washed the courtyard and the yard pākaśālā-ādi kari' karila prakṣālana
the kitchen and the rest including they made washing

120 After washing the Nāṭaśālā, they washed the courtyards, and then the kitchen and all the other rooms.

মন্দিরের চতুর্দ্দিক্ প্রক্ষালন কৈল । সব অন্তঃপুর ভাল মতে ধোয়াইল ॥ ১২১ ॥

mandirera catur-dik prakṣālana kaila
of the temple on four sides washing they did saba antaḥpura bhāla-mate dhoyāila
all the inner rooms thoroughly they washed

121 They washed the temple on all four sides and thoroughly washed all the inner rooms.

What one Gauḍīya devotee did: suddenly washing the Lord's feet, he drinks that water —

হেনকালে গৌড়ীয়া এক সুবুদ্ধি সরল । প্রভুর চরণ-যুগে দিল ঘট-জল ॥ ১২২ ॥

hena-kāle gauḍīyā eka subuddhi sarala
at that time a Gauḍīyā one sensible simple prabhura caraṇa-yuge dila ghaṭa-jala
on the Lord's pair of feet poured water from a pot

122 At that moment a simple and sensible Gauḍīyā (devotee from Bengal) poured water from his pot over the Lord's feet.

সেই জল লঞা আপনে পান কৈল । তাহা দেখি' মহাপ্রভুর মনে রোষ হৈল ॥ ১২৩ ॥

sei jala lañā āpane pāna kaila that water taking himself drinking did tāhā dekhi' mahāprabhura mane roṣa haila
that seeing in Mahāprabhu's mind anger arose

123 Then he took that water and drank it himself. Seeing this, Mahāprabhu became angry.

The anger of the Lord, who displays the pastime of an ācārya, the teacher of the world —

যদ্যপি গোসাঞি তারে হঞাছে সন্তোষ । ধর্ম্মসংস্থাপন লাগি' বাহিরে মহারোষ ॥ ১২৪ ॥

yadyapi gosāñi tāre hañāche santoṣa
although the Lord with him had become pleased dharma-saṁsthāpana lāgi' bāhire mahā-roṣa of dharma the upholding for the sake of outwardly great anger

124 Although the Lord was pleased with him, to uphold proper conduct (dharma) He showed great anger outwardly.

The Lord complains to Dāmodara Svarūpa, the lord of the Mādhva-Gauḍīyas —

শিক্ষা লাগি' স্বরূপে ডাকি' কহিল তাঁহারে । এই দেখ তোমার 'গৌড়ীয়া'র ব্যবহারে ॥ ১২৫ ॥

śikṣā lāgi' svarūpe ḍāki' kahila tāṁhāre of teaching for the sake Svarūpa calling He said to him ei dekha tomāra 'gauḍīyā'ra vyavahāre
just see of your "Gauḍīyā" the behaviour

125 To teach a lesson, He called Svarūpa and said to him, "Just look at how your 'Gauḍīyā' behaves!

Anubhāṣya.

"Your": all the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas were under Śrī Dāmodara Svarūpa. That is why the Lord used the word "your."

Washing the feet in Bhagavān's temple is an offence in service for the jīva —

ঈশ্বরমন্দিরে মোর পদ ধোয়াইল । সেই জল আপনি লঞা পান কৈল ॥ ১২৬ ॥

īśvara-mandire mora pada dhoyāila
in the Lord's temple My feet he washed sei jala āpani lañā pāna kaila that water himself taking drinking did

126 He washed My feet in the temple of the Lord, and then took that water and drank it himself.

The Lord is distressed by fear of an offence in service (?) —

এই অপরাধে মোর কাঁহা হবে গতি । তোমার 'গৌড়ীয়া' করে এতেক দুর্গতি ! ॥ ১২৭ ॥

ei aparādhe mora kāṁhā habe gati
for this offence My where will be end tomāra 'gauḍīyā' kare eteka durgati!
your "Gauḍīyā" makes such misfortune

127 What will become of Me for this offence? Your 'Gauḍīyā' has brought such misfortune upon Me!"

Anubhāṣya.

Bhagavān is the eternal master of the jīva. If the jīva, His eternal servant, washes his feet or does anything of the kind in Bhagavān's temple, it is an offence in service (sevāparādha), because it violates the rules of reverence (Hari-bhakti-vilāsa). But the Lord is Bhagavān Himself, and to attribute an offence or anything of the sort to Him is utterly impossible and contrary to the Vedas. Still, outwardly He acts as jagad-guru, the teacher of people, and ācārya. So He took on the role of a mere jīva, a separated part (vibhinnāṁśa), and taught this lesson to guard foolish guru-bruvas — those only call themselves gurus — against offences in service.

Svarūpa puts the Gauḍīya out of the Guṇḍicā —

তবে স্বরূপ গোসাঞি তার ঘাড়ে হাত দিয়া । ঢেকা মারি' পুরীর বাহির রাখিলেন লঞা ॥ ১২৮ ॥

tabe svarūpa-gosāñi tāra ghāḍe hāta diyā then Svarūpa Gosāñi his on the neck hand placing ḍhekā māri' purīra bāhira rākhilena lañā
a shove giving of the temple outside he put taking (him)

128 Then Svarūpa Gosāñi took him by the neck, gave him a shove, and put him outside the temple compound.

Anubhāṣya.
Ḍhekā: a shove; purīra: from the abode (purī) of the Guṇḍicā.

A plea for forgiveness at the Lord's feet —

পুনঃ আসি' প্রভু-পায় করিল বিনয় ।
'অজ্ঞে অপরাধ' ক্ষমা করিতে যুয়ায় ॥ ১২৯ ॥

punaḥ āsi' prabhu-pāya karila vinaya again coming at the Lord's feet he made a humble plea
'ajñe aparādha' kṣamā karite yuyāya
"of an ignorant man the offence" forgiveness to make is fitting

129 Coming back, he humbly pleaded at the Lord's feet: "It is fitting to forgive the offence of an ignorant man."

The Lord forgives; everyone sits down on both sides —

তবে মহাপ্রভুর মনে সন্তোষ হইল । সারি করি' দুই পাশে সবারে বসাইল ॥ ১৩০ ॥

tabe mahāprabhura mane santoṣa haila
then in Mahāprabhu's mind satisfaction arose
sāri kari' dui pāśe sabāre vasāila rows making on two sides everyone He seated

130 Then Mahāprabhu was satisfied, and He seated everyone in rows on two sides.

In the middle the Lord Himself picks up straw and the like —

আপনে বসিয়া মাঝে, আপনার হাতে । তৃণ, কাঁকর, কুটা লাগিলা কুড়াইতে ॥ ১৩১ ॥

āpane vasiyā mājhe, āpanāra hāte Himself sitting in the middle with His own hand
tṛṇa, kāṁkara, kuṭā lāgilā kuḍāite
straw grit rubbish He began to pick up

131 Sitting between them, He began to pick up straw, grit and rubbish with His own hand.

The penalty for whoever collects the least: he must treat the others to prasāda —

কে কত কুড়ায়, সব একত্র করিব । যার অল্প, তার ঠাঞি পিঠা-পানা লইব ॥ ১৩২ ॥

ke kata kuḍāya, saba ekatra kariba who how much picks up all together I shall gather yāra alpa, tāra ṭhāñi piṭhā-pānā laiba whose little from him cakes and sweet drinks I shall take 132 "I shall gather together all that is collected and see who has picked up how much. Whoever has the least will have to pay Me in cakes and sweet drinks."[7]

The Guṇḍicā is made spotless —

এইমত সব পুরী করিল শোধন । শীতল, নির্ম্মল কৈল, — যেন নিজ-মন ॥ ১৩৩ ॥

ei mata saba purī karila śodhana
in this way the whole temple He made cleansing śītala, nirmala kaila, — yena nija-mana cool spotless He made (it) like His own mind

133 In this way He cleansed the whole temple and made it cool and spotless, like His own heart.

The water is let out through the drain —

প্রণালিকা ছাড়ি' যদি পানি বহাইল । নূতন নদী যেন সমুদ্রে মিলিল ॥ ১৩৪ ॥

praṇālikā chāḍi' yadi pāni vahāila
the drain letting out by when the water they made flow nūtana nadī yena samudre milila
a new river as if with the sea met

134 When the water was let out through the drain, it looked like a new river rushing to meet the sea.

All the roads to the Guṇḍicā are cleared —

এইমত পুরদ্বার-আগে পথ যত । সকল শোধিল, তাহা কে বর্ণিবে কত ॥ ১৩৫ ॥

ei-mata puradvāra-āge patha yata in this way before the temple gate roads as many as sakala śodhila, tāhā ke varṇibe kata
all they cleansed that who will describe how much

135 In the same way they cleansed all the roads in front of the temple gate. Who could describe how much was done?

Anubhāṣya.

The secret of the pastime of cleaning the Guṇḍicā. Through this pastime Mahāprabhu, the teacher of the world (jagad-guru), teaches that if a fortunate jīva wishes to seat Śrī Kṛṣṇa on the throne of his heart, he must first wash the dirt from his heart. He must make his heart pure, peaceful and radiant with devotion. If the field of the heart holds even a trace of anarthas — thorny grass or weeds, dust, pebbles and the like — Bhagavān, the supreme object of service, cannot be seated there. This dirt, this rubbish of the heart, is nothing but other desires (anyābhilāṣa), karma, jñāna, the endeavours of yoga and so on. Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī Prabhu says: "The highest devotion is the cultivation of service to Kṛṣṇa in a favourable spirit, free from other desires and not covered by jñāna, karma and the like."[13]

Bhakti is the eternal, natural function of the soul. Where it is covered by desires other than bhakti, by jñāna, karma, yoga, austerity and the like, or by a mood hostile to bhakti, there is no pure bhakti. And without pure bhakti, made of pure goodness (śuddha-sattva), Kṛṣṇa does not appear.

Other desires (anyābhilāṣa) are low desires such as "As long as I am in this world, I will only gratify my senses." Like thorny grass, they pierce the tenderest movement of the pure jīva's heart — unalloyed devotion (kevala-bhakti). The endeavour for karma is activity full of desires — sacrifices (yāga, yajña), charity, austerity and so on — with the thought "I will enjoy happiness in the higher worlds such as Svarga, or in this world." It is like dust. In the whirlwind of karma, heaps of dust — desires (vāsanās) — cover the clear and spotless mirror of our heart. Countless heaps of dust — desires born of good and bad deeds — have soiled the heart of the jīva averse to Hari through birth after birth. That is why his urge for karma does not go away. The jīva averse to Hari thinks that the thorn of karma can perhaps be removed by karma itself. But this notion is wrong: led by it, he only goes on deceiving himself. Bathe an elephant, and it smears itself with dust again. In the same way, karma cannot drive away the desire for karma. Only unalloyed devotion removes all the jīva's troubles. Then, on the pure throne of his heart, Śrī Bhagavān finds a place fit for His rest. Therefore a devotee-poet has sung: "In the devotee's heart Govinda always rests."

The endeavours for the impersonal (nirviśeṣa), kaivalya-yoga, jñāna-yoga and the like are exactly like pebbles. Far from pleasing or serving Śrī Hari, they are only attempts to drive a spear into Śrī Hari's body. True, in seeking the impersonal

Brahman one at first, as one who longs for liberation (mumukṣu), accepts Śrī Hari's name and so on as something secondary. But once one thinks oneself liberated, Brahman, one no longer accepts His separate existence. So Bhagavān does not appear in the hearts of such unfortunate jīvas who think themselves liberated. That is why Śrī Gaurasundara did not leave all this heap of rubbish — the straw, dust, gravel and so on — even within the boundary of Bhagavān's temple. He carried it all outside in His own outer cloth and threw it away, so that the wind would not blow that refuse back into the Śrī Mandira.

Often, even when the endeavours for karma, jñāna and so on are gone, very subtle dirt remains in the heart. It can be likened to kuṭināṭi, pratiṣṭhāśā, jīva-hiṁsā, niṣiddhācāra, lābha, pūjā and the like. Kuṭināṭi means duplicity. Pratiṣṭhāśā is the hope for worldly honour and so on: "Let foolish people, seeing my solitary bhajana or my show of sanctity, call me a great sādhu or mahānta." Or it is the hope to pass for a "devotee" or an "avatāra" by displaying artificial ecstatic symptoms — a mere shadow of bhāva (bhāvābhāsa) — while the heart has hardened in pursuit of worldly enjoyment and seeks its own gain. Jīva-hiṁsā (violence to living beings) means timidity or stinginess in preaching pure bhakti, indulging Māyāvādīs, karmīs and anyābhilāṣīs, or speaking so as to please them. Lābha-pūjā means making a living in the name of religion from the holy name, mantra, the Deity and the Bhāgavata, and cheating foolish people to obtain money or honour. Niṣiddhācāra (forbidden conduct) means association with women, and association with those who are not devoted to Kṛṣṇa — karmīs, jñānīs, anyābhilāṣīs and others.

So Śrī Gaurasundara swept out the large pebbles, the straw, the heaps of dust and so on that had accumulated over many days. Then He cleaned the whole temple twice and washed it twice with water. And in case some subtle stain still remained anywhere, He began to rub the Śrī Mandira and the throne — the seat of Bhagavān — over and over with the dry cloth He was wearing.

After all this washing, cleaning and rubbing, not a speck of dust, not even a faint stain, remained in the Śrī Mandira: it became as clear as crystal. Not only that, it also became cool. That is, the sādhaka's heart, once like a desert scorched by the sun, became free of heat: the burning fire of the three miseries — ādhyātmika and the others — born of the desire for worldly enjoyment was put out. Indeed, when other desires and the craving for bhukti and mukti — the endeavours of karma, jñāna, yoga and so on — leave the heart, and pure bhakti, the soul's own function (ātma-vṛtti), becomes manifest, the heart becomes just like this, peaceful and cool.

Often, even when all desires and cravings are gone, one or another subtle stain remains in some unknown corner of the heart, and the foolish jīva does not notice it. That is the desire for liberation. Not to speak of the impersonalists' desire for sāyujya-mukti — Śrīman Mahāprabhu rubbed away with His own cloth even the subtle stains of the desire for the other four kinds of liberation.

In this way Śrī Gaurasundara, for the good of the jīvas, took on the role of a jīva and Himself, as jagad-guru, began to teach how a sādhaka should clean his heart for Kṛṣṇa. The heart must be turned into Vṛndāvana, the place where self-sufficient (svarāṭ) Kṛṣṇa freely enjoys His pastimes. And it must be cleaned out of the desire to please Kṛṣṇa's senses, with great enthusiasm, loudly chanting Kṛṣṇa's name. "Even if other forms of bhakti are performed in the age of Kali, they must be performed together with the bhakti called kīrtana." Mahāprabhu went to each devotee and, taking him by the hand, taught him the service of the temple. He praised the one whose work was going well. The Lord is endowed with the bhāva of Śrī Rādhā, who is wholly devoted to fulfilling Kṛṣṇa's desires. And the one whose service was not to the Lord's liking He too took by the hand, after a holy rebuke, and taught the method of serving Kṛṣṇa. More than that: He encouraged the pure-hearted devotees who follow Caitanya's teaching, who have mastered the art of bhajana and are engaged in bhakti-yoga in nondual knowledge, and ordered them to do the work of an "ācārya" for other jīvas who are averse to the Lord (see verse 117). Further, the more inauspicious things one can draw out of the heart and clean away, the dearer one will be to the Lord. And for one whose anarthas have hardly been removed, service to Hari, guru and the Vaiṣṇavas is prescribed as the penalty.

After cleaning the temple of Nṛsiṁha, everyone rests —

নৃসিংহমন্দির-ভিতর-বাহির শোধিল । ক্ষণেক বিশ্রাম করি' নৃত্য আরম্ভিল ॥ ১৩৬ ॥

nṛsiṁha-mandira-bhitara-bāhira śodhila
the Nṛsiṁha temple inside and outside He cleansed kṣaṇeka viśrāma kari' nṛtya ārambhila
a moment rest taking dance He began

136 He cleansed the temple of Nṛsiṁha inside and out, and after resting for a moment He began to dance.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The temple of Nṛsiṁha: near the Guṇḍicā-bāḍī stands a beautiful old temple of Nṛsiṁha. On the day of Nṛsiṁha-caturdaśī a great festival is held there. Śrī Murāri Gupta's Śrī Caitanya-carita describes the pastime of renovating the Nṛsiṁha temple in Śrī Navadvīpa-dhāma.

All around, a great saṅkīrtana; in the middle, the Lord dances —

চারিদিকে ভক্তগণ করেন কীর্ত্তন । মধ্যে নৃত্য করেন প্রভু মত্তসিংহ-সম ॥ ১৩৭ ॥

cāri-dike bhakta-gaṇa karena kīrtana
on all sides the devotees do kīrtana madhye nṛtya karena prabhu matta-siṁha-sama
in the middle dancing does the Lord like a maddened lion

137 On all sides the devotees sang kīrtana, and in the middle the Lord danced like a maddened lion.

The Lord's eight sāttvika transformations and streams of tears —

স্বেদ, কম্প, বৈবর্ণ্যাশ্রু, পুলক, হুঙ্কার । নিজ-অঙ্গ ধুই' আগে চলে অশ্রুধার ॥ ১৩৮ ॥

sveda, kampa, vaivarṇyāśru, pulaka, huṅkāra perspiration trembling pallor and tears horripilation roaring nija-aṅga dhui' āge cale aśru-dhāra
His own body washing ahead flow streams of tears

138 Perspiration, trembling, pallor and tears appeared in Him; His hair stood on end, and He roared aloud. Streams of tears washed His body and flowed on ahead of Him.

চারিদিকে ভক্ত-অঙ্গ কৈল প্রক্ষালন । শ্রাবণের মেঘ যেন করে বরিষণ ॥ ১৩৯ ॥

cāri-dike bhakta-aṅga kaila prakṣālana
on all sides the devotees' bodies made washing śrāvaṇera megha yena kare variṣaṇa of Śrāvaṇa a cloud as if makes raining

139 On every side they washed the devotees' bodies, like a cloud pouring rain in the month of Śrāvaṇa.

মহা-উচ্চসংকীর্ত্তনে আকাশ ভরিল । প্রভুর উদ্দণ্ড-নৃত্যে ভূমিকম্প হৈল ॥ ১৪০ ॥

mahā-ucca-saṅkīrtane ākāśa bharila
by the very loud saṅkīrtana the sky filled prabhura uddaṇḍa-nṛtye bhūmi-kampa haila
by the Lord's leaping dance an earthquake occurred

140 The sky was filled with the roar of the saṅkīrtana, and the earth quaked under the Lord's high-leaping dance.

To Svarūpa's loud kīrtana the Lord dances in bliss —

স্বরূপের উচ্চ-গান প্রভুরে সদা ভায় । আনন্দে উদ্দণ্ড নৃত্য করে গৌররায় ॥ ১৪১ ॥

svarūpera ucca-gāna prabhure sadā bhāya Svarūpa's loud singing to the Lord always is pleasing ānande uddaṇḍa nṛtya kare gaurarāya
in bliss leaping dance does Gaurarāya

141 Svarūpa's loud singing always delighted the Lord, and Gaurarāya danced in bliss, leaping high.

Rest after the dance —

এইমত কতক্ষণ নৃত্য যে করিয়া । বিশ্রাম করিলা প্রভু সময় জানিয়া ॥ ১৪২ ॥

ei-mata kata-kṣaṇa nṛtya ye kariyā
in this way for some time dance indeed having done viśrāma karilā prabhu samaya jāniyā rest took the Lord the time knowing

142 After dancing like this for some time, the Lord, aware of the hour, stopped to rest.

The Lord tells Gopāla, Advaita's son, to dance —

আচার্য্য-গোসাঞির পুত্র শ্রীগোপাল-নাম । নৃত্য করিতে তাঁরে আজ্ঞা দিল গৌরধাম ॥ ১৪৩ ॥

ācārya-gosāñira putra śrī-gopāla-nāma of Ācārya Gosāñi the son Śrī Gopāla by name
nṛtya karite tāṁre ājñā dila gauradhāma
dance to do to him the order gave Gauradhāma

143 Ācārya Gosāñi had a son named Śrī Gopāla, and the Lord, Gauradhāma, ordered him to dance.

Anubhāṣya.
On Śrī Gopāla, see Ādi 12.19–26.

From dancing Gopāla loses consciousness —

প্রেমাবেশে নৃত্য করি' হইলা মূর্চ্ছিতে । অচেতন-হঞা তেঁহ পড়িলা ভূমিতে ॥ ১৪৪ ॥

premāveśe nṛtya kari' hailā mūrcchite absorbed in love dance having done he became faint acetana hañā teṁha paḍilā bhūmite unconscious becoming he fell to the ground

144 Dancing in the absorption of love, he fainted and fell unconscious to the ground.

The Ācārya's alarm —

আস্তে-ব্যস্তে আচার্য্য তাঁরে কৈল কোলে । শ্বাস-রহিত দেখি' আচার্য্য হৈলা বিকলে ॥ ১৪৫ ॥

āste-vyaste ācārya tāṁre kaila kole
in haste the Ācārya him took on his lap
śvāsa-rahita dekhi' ācārya hailā vikale breathless seeing the Ācārya became distraught

145 The Ācārya hastily took him on his lap, and seeing that he was not breathing, he became distraught.

With the mantra of Nṛsiṁha, Advaita tries to bring his son back to consciousness —

নৃসিংহের মন্ত্র পড়ি' মারে জল-ছাঁটি । হুঙ্কারের শব্দে ব্রহ্মাণ্ড যায় ফাটি' ॥ ১৪৬ ॥

nṛsiṁhera mantra paḍi' māre jala-chāṁṭi Nṛsiṁha's mantra reciting he casts sprinkles of water huṅkārera śabde brahmāṇḍa yāya phāṭi'
of the roar by the sound the universe goes bursting

146 Reciting the mantra of Nṛsiṁha, he sprinkled him with water, and at the sound of his roar the universe seemed to burst apart.

Gopāla still does not come to; the Ācārya and the other devotees grieve —

অনেক করিল, তবু না হয় চেতন । আচার্য্য কান্দেন, কান্দে সব ভক্তগণ ॥ ১৪৭ ॥

aneka karila, tabu nā haya cetana
much he did still not comes consciousness ācārya kāndena, kānde saba bhakta-gaṇa
the Ācārya weeps weep all the devotees

147 He tried many things, yet the boy did not regain consciousness. The Ācārya wept, and all the devotees wept with him.

By Śrī Caitanya's mercy Gopāla regains consciousness; the devotees rejoice —

তবে মহাপ্রভু তাঁর বুকে হস্ত দিল ।
'উঠহ গোপাল' বলি' উচ্চৈঃস্বরে কহিল ॥ ১৪৮ ॥

tabe mahāprabhu tāṁra buke hasta dila
then Mahāprabhu his on the chest hand placed
'uṭhaha gopāla' bali' uccaiḥsvare kahila
"Rise up Gopāla" saying in a loud voice He spoke

148 Then Mahāprabhu placed His hand on the boy's chest and called out loudly, "Rise up, Gopāla!"

শুনিতেই গোপালের হইল চেতন ।
'হরি' বলি' নৃত্য করে সর্ব্বভক্তগণ ॥ ১৪৯ ॥

śunitei gopālera haila cetana
on just hearing Gopāla's came consciousness
'hari' bali' nṛtya kare sarva-bhakta-gaṇa
"Hari" saying dance do all the devotees

149 As soon as he heard this, Gopāla regained consciousness, and all the devotees danced, calling out "Hari!"

Ṭhākura Vṛndāvana dāsa has described this pastime —

এই লীলা বর্ণিয়াছেন দাস-বৃন্দাবন । অতএব সংক্ষেপে করি' করিলুঁ বর্ণন ॥ ১৫০ ॥

ei līlā varṇiyāchena dāsa-vṛndāvana
this pastime has described Vṛndāvana dāsa ataeva saṅkṣepe kari' kariluṁ varṇana
therefore brief making (it) I have made the description

150 Vṛndāvana dāsa has described this pastime, and so I have told it only briefly.

Anubhāṣya.
This account of Gopāla is not found in the Śrī Caitanya-bhāgavata.

The Lord bathes with the devotees —

তবে মহাপ্রভু ক্ষণেক বিশ্রাম করিয়া । স্নান করিবারে গেলা ভক্তগণ লঞা ॥ ১৫১ ॥

tabe mahāprabhu kṣaṇeka viśrāma kariyā
then Mahāprabhu a little while rest having taken snāna karibāre gelā bhakta-gaṇa lañā bathing to do went the devotees taking

151 Then, after resting a little, Mahāprabhu went with the devotees to bathe.

After bathing, the Lord bows to Nṛsiṁha, goes to the garden and sits down —

তীরে উঠি' পরেন প্রভু শুষ্ক বসন । নৃসিংহ-দেবে নমস্করি' গেলা উপবন ॥ ১৫২ ॥

tīre uṭhi' parena prabhu śuṣka vasana
on the bank climbing up puts on the Lord dry cloth nṛsiṁha-deve namaskari' gelā upavana
to Nṛsiṁhadeva bowing down He went to the garden

152 Coming up onto the bank, the Lord put on dry cloth, bowed down to Nṛsiṁhadeva, and went into the garden.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The Indradyumna pond is near the Guṇḍicā-bāḍī. The Lord bathed in that pond, bowed to Nṛsiṁhadeva and went to the garden.

Vāṇīnātha brings prasāda —

উদ্যানে বসিলা প্রভু ভক্তগণ লঞা । তবে বাণীনাথ আইলা মহাপ্রসাদ লঞা ॥ ১৫৩ ॥

udyāne vasilā prabhu bhakta-gaṇa lañā
in the garden sat the Lord the devotees with tabe vāṇīnātha āilā mahā-prasāda lañā then Vāṇīnātha came mahā-prasāda bringing 153 The Lord sat down in the garden with the devotees, and then Vāṇīnātha arrived with mahā-prasāda.

*Kāśī Miśra and Tulasī the paḍichā send prasāda measured for five hundred people —*

কাশীমিশ্র, তুলসী-পড়িছা — দুইজন । পঞ্চশত লোকে যত করয়ে ভোজন ॥ ১৫৪ ॥

kāśī-miśra, tulasī-paḍichā — dui-jana Kāśī Miśra Tulasī the temple superintendent the two pañca-śata loke yata karaye bhojana
five hundred people as much as would eat

154 Kāśī Miśra and Tulasī, the temple superintendent (paḍichā), had sent as much food as five hundred people could eat:

তত অন্ন-পিঠা-পানা, সব পাঠাইল ।
দেখি' মহাপ্রভুর মনে সন্তোষ হইল ॥ ১৫৫ ॥

tata anna-piṭhā-pānā, saba pāṭhāila that much rice, cakes and sweet drinks all they sent
dekhi' mahāprabhura mane santoṣa haila
seeing in Mahāprabhu's mind satisfaction arose

155 all that rice, all those cakes and sweet drinks. Seeing it, Mahāprabhu was very pleased.

The Lord and His associates sit down to honour prasāda —

পুরী-গোসাঞি, মহাপ্রভু, ভারতী ব্রহ্মানন্দ । অদ্বৈত-আচার্য্য, আর প্রভু নিত্যানন্দ ॥ ১৫৬ ॥

purī-gosāñi, mahāprabhu, bhāratī brahmānanda
Purī Gosāñi Mahāprabhu Bhāratī Brahmānanda
advaita-ācārya, āra prabhu-nityānanda
Advaita Ācārya and Prabhu Nityānanda

156 Purī Gosāñi, Mahāprabhu, Brahmānanda Bhāratī, Advaita Ācārya and Nityānanda Prabhu;

আচার্য্যরত্ন, আচার্য্যনিধি, শ্রীবাস, গদাধর । শঙ্কর, নন্দনাচার্য্য, আর রাঘব, বক্রেশ্বর ॥ ১৫৭ ॥

ācāryaratna, ācāryanidhi, śrīvāsa, gadādhara
Ācāryaratna Ācāryanidhi Śrīvāsa Gadādhara
śaṅkara, nandanācārya, āra rāghava, vakreśvara
Śaṅkara Nandanācārya and Rāghava Vakreśvara

157 Ācāryaratna, Ācāryanidhi, Śrīvāsa, Gadādhara, Śaṅkara, Nandanācārya, Rāghava and Vakreśvara —

প্রভু-আজ্ঞা পাঞা বৈসে আপনে সার্ব্বভৌম । পিণ্ডার উপরে প্রভু বৈসে লঞা ভক্তগণ ॥ ১৫৮ ॥

prabhu-ājñā pāñā vaise āpane sārvabhauma
the Lord's order receiving sits himself Sārvabhauma piṇḍāra upare prabhu vaise lañā bhakta-gaṇa
the wooden seat upon the Lord sits with the devotees

158 at the Lord's bidding Sārvabhauma, too, sat down; and the Lord sat on a raised wooden seat (piṇḍā) together with these devotees.

Anubhāṣya.

Piṇḍā (in the language of Utkala): a wooden seat; in Bengali, pĩṛi.

তার তলে, তার তলে করি' অনুক্রম । উদ্যান ভরি' বৈসে ভক্ত করিতে ভোজন ॥ ১৫৯ ॥

tāra tale, tāra tale kari' anukrama
below that below that making in order udyāna bhari' vaise bhakta karite bhojana
the garden filling sit the devotees to do eating

159 Below them, row after row, the devotees sat down to eat, filling the whole garden.

The Lord calls Haridāsa —

'হরিদাস' বলি' প্রভু ডাকে ঘনে ঘন । দূরে রহি' হরিদাস করে নিবেদন ॥ ১৬০ ॥

'haridāsa' bali' prabhu ḍāke ghane ghana
"Haridāsa" saying the Lord calls again and again
dūre rahi' haridāsa kare nivedana
at a distance remaining Haridāsa makes a humble submission

160 The Lord called again and again, "Haridāsa!" But Haridāsa stayed at a distance and humbly submitted:

Haridāsa's natural humility and his reverence for pure devotees —

ভক্ত-সঙ্গে প্রভু করুন প্রসাদ অঙ্গীকার । এ-সঙ্গে বসিতে যোগ্য নহি মুঞি ছার ॥ ১৬১ ॥

bhakta-saṅge prabhu karuna prasāda aṅgīkāra with the devotees the Lord may He make of prasāda acceptance
e-saṅge vasite yogya nahi muñi chāra
in this company to sit fit am not I worthless

161 “Let the Lord take prasāda with the devotees. Worthless as I am, I am not fit to sit in this company.

Haridāsa wishes to take prasāda after everyone else; the Lord agrees —

পাছে মোরে প্রসাদ গোবিন্দ দিবে বহির্দ্বারে । মন জানি’ প্রভু পুনঃ না বলিল তাঁরে ॥ ১৬২ ॥

pāche more prasāda govinda dibe bahirdvāre
later to me prasāda Govinda will give outside the gate mana jāni’ prabhu punaḥ nā balila tāṁre
the mind knowing the Lord again not called to him

162 Later Govinda will give me prasāda outside the gate.” Knowing his mind, the Lord did not call him again.

While prasāda is honoured, the cry of “Hari!” resounds —

স্বরূপ-গোসাঞি, জগদানন্দ, দামোদর ।
কাশীশ্বর, গোপীনাথ, বাণীনাথ, শঙ্কর ॥ ১৬৩ ॥

পরিবেশন করে তাঁহা এই সাতজন । মধ্যে মধ্যে হরিধ্বনি করে ভক্তগণ ॥ ১৬৪ ॥

svarūpa-gosāñi, jagadānanda, dāmodara
Svarūpa Gosāñi Jagadānanda Dāmodara
kāśīśvara, gopīnātha, vāṇīnātha, śaṅkara
Kāśīśvara Gopīnātha Vāṇīnātha Śaṅkara
pariveśana kare tāṁhā ei sāta-jana serving do there these seven people madhye madhye hari-dhvani kare bhakta-gaṇa
from time to time the sound of “Hari” make the devotees

163–164 Svarūpa Gosāñi, Jagadānanda, Dāmodara, Kāśīśvara, Gopīnātha, Vāṇīnātha and Śaṅkara — these seven served the food there, while from time to time the devotees called out “Hari!”

Anubhāṣya.

Hari-dhvani: see Madhya 11.209.

The remembrance of Kṛṣṇa's riverbank picnic in the Dvāpara-yuga awakens —

পুলিন-ভোজন কৃষ্ণ পূর্ব্বে যৈছে কৈল । সেই লীলা মহাপ্রভুর মনে স্মৃতি হৈল ॥ ১৬৫ ॥

pulina-bhojana kṛṣṇa pūrve yaiche kaila
the meal on the riverbank Kṛṣṇa formerly as made sei līlā mahāprabhura mane smṛti haila
that pastime in Mahāprabhu's mind remembrance arose

165 Mahāprabhu remembered the pastime of long ago when Kṛṣṇa ate with His friends on the riverbank (pulina-bhojana).

The Lord composes Himself and restrains His feelings —

যদ্যপি প্রেমাবেশে প্রভু হইলা অস্থির । সময় বুঝিয়া প্রভু হৈলা কিছু ধীর ॥ ১৬৬ ॥

yadyapi premāveśe prabhu hailā asthira
although in the absorption of love the Lord became unsteady samaya bujhiyā prabhu hailā kichu dhīra
the occasion understanding the Lord became somewhat composed 166 Though the Lord grew restless, absorbed in love, He saw that it was not the time and composed Himself a little.

The Lord's pastime of renunciation —

প্রভু কহে, — মোরে দেহ' লাফ্রা-ব্যঞ্জনে । পিঠা-পানা, অমৃত-গুটিকা দেহ' ভক্তগণে ॥ ১৬৭ ॥

prabhu kahe, — more deha' lāphrā-vyañjane
the Lord says to Me give lāphrā vegetables
piṭhā-pānā, amṛta-guṭikā deha' bhakta-gaṇe cakes and sweet drinks amṛta-guṭikā give to the devotees

167 The Lord said, “Give Me the lāphrā, the plain mixed vegetables, and give the devotees the cakes, sweet drinks and amṛta-guṭikā.”[8]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Lāphrā-vyañjana: a vegetable dish, something like a plain caccaḍi. It is mixed with rice and served to the poor. Amṛta-guṭikā: thick purīs dipped in thickened milk (kṣīra), commonly called “amṛta-rasāvalī.”

Anubhāṣya.
See Madhya 6.43–44.

Through Svarūpa the Lord gives each devotee the prasāda he likes —

সর্ব্বজ্ঞ প্রভু জানেন, যাঁরে যেই ভায় । তাঁরে তাঁরে সেই দেওয়ায় স্বরূপ-দ্বারায় ॥ ১৬৮ ॥

sarvajña prabhu jānena, yāṁre yei bhāya
all-knowing the Lord knows whom what pleases tāṁre tāṁre sei deoyāya svarūpa-dvārāya
to each one that He has given through Svarūpa

168 The all-knowing Lord knew what each person liked, and through Svarūpa He had each one served just that.

An example of Jagadānanda’s love for the Lord —

জগদানন্দ বেড়ায় পরিবেশন করিতে । প্রভুর পাতে ভাল-দ্রব্য দেন আচম্বিতে ॥ ১৬৯ ॥

jagadānanda beḍāya pariveśana karite Jagadānanda goes about serving to do prabhura pāte bhāla-dravya dena ācambite
on the Lord’s plate choice things he puts unexpectedly

169 Jagadānanda went about serving, and now and then he would unexpectedly put some choice item on the Lord’s plate.

Even when the Lord does not want it, Jagadānanda gives Him the best and is pleased —

যদ্যপি দিলে প্রভু তাঁরে করেন রোষ । বলে-ছলে তবু দেন, দিলে সে সন্তোষ ॥ ১৭০ ॥

yadyapi dile prabhu tāṁre karena roṣa
although when given the Lord at him shows anger bale-chale tabu dena, dile se santoṣa
by force or by trick still he gives having given he is satisfied

170 Though the Lord grew angry with him for it, Jagadānanda still gave Him such things, by force or by trick, and only when he had given them was he satisfied.

Fearing Jagadānanda's sulking, the Lord eats a little at a time —

পুনরপি সেই দ্রব্য করে নিরীক্ষণ । তাঁর ভয়ে প্রভু কিছু করেন ভক্ষণ ॥ ১৭১ ॥

punarapi sei dravya kare nirīkṣaṇa
once more that food he makes watching tāṁra bhaye prabhu kichu karena bhakṣaṇa of him out of fear the Lord a little does eating

171 Then Jagadānanda would keep his eye on that food, and for fear of him the Lord would take a few bites.[9]

না খাইলে জগদানন্দ করিবে উপবাস । তাঁর আগে কিছু খা'ন — মনে ঐ ত্রাস ॥ ১৭২ ॥

nā khāile jagadānanda karibe upavāsa not if He eats Jagadānanda will make a fast
tāṁra āge kichu khā'na — mane ai trāsa of him in front a little He eats in the mind this fear

172 If He did not eat, Jagadānanda would fast. With this fear in His mind, the Lord would eat a little in front of him.

Svarūpa serves the Lord sweet prasāda —

স্বরূপ-গোসাঞি ভাল মিষ্টপ্রসাদ লঞা । প্রভুকে নিবেদন করে আগে দাণ্ডাঞা ॥ ১৭৩ ॥

svarūpa-gosāñi bhāla miṣṭa-prasāda lañā Svarūpa Gosāñi choice sweet prasāda taking prabhuke nivedana kare āge dāṇḍāñā
to the Lord offering makes in front standing

173 Svarūpa Gosāñi would take some choice sweet prasāda, stand before the Lord and offer it to Him:

এই মহাপ্রসাদ অল্প করহ আস্বাদন । দেখ, জগন্নাথ কৈছে কর্য্যাছেন ভোজন ॥ ১৭৪ ॥

ei mahā-prasāda alpa karaha āsvādana
this mahā-prasāda a little make tasting dekha, jagannātha kaiche karyāchena bhojana
look Jagannātha how has made eating

174 "Taste a little of this mahā-prasāda. See how Jagannātha has eaten of it!"

The Lord fulfils Svarūpa's wish —

এত বলি' আগে কিছু করে সমর্পণ । তাঁর স্নেহে প্রভু কিছু করেন ভোজন ॥ ১৭৫ ॥

eta bali' āge kichu kare samarpaṇa
so saying in front a little he makes offering tāṁra snehe prabhu kichu karena bhojana of him out of affection the Lord a little does eating 175 Saying this, he would set a little before Him, and out of affection for him the Lord would eat some.

The Lord is won over by the wonderful love of Svarūpa and Jagadānanda —

এই মত দুইজন করে বারবার । বিচিত্র এই দুই ভক্তের স্নেহ-ব্যবহার ॥ ১৭৬ ॥

ei mata duijana kare bārabāra
in this way the two do again and again
vicitra ei dui bhaktera sneha-vyavahāra wonderful of these two devotees the loving dealings

176 The two of them did this again and again. Wonderful were the loving dealings of these two devotees!

Seeing the love of both for the Lord, Sārvabhauma laughs —

সার্ব্বভৌমে প্রভু বসাঞাছেন বাম-পাশে । দুই ভক্তের স্নেহ দেখি' সার্ব্বভৌম হাসে ॥ ১৭৭ ॥

sārvabhaume prabhu vasāñāchena vāma-pāśe
dui bhaktera sneha dekhi' sārvabhauma hāse
of the two devotees the affection seeing Sārvabhauma smiles

177 The Lord had seated Sārvabhauma at His left side, and seeing the affection of the two devotees, Sārvabhauma smiled.

The Lord's affection for Sārvabhauma —

সার্ব্বভৌমে দেয়ান প্রভু প্রসাদ উত্তম । স্নেহ করি' বারবার করান ভোজন ॥ ১৭৮ ॥

sārvabhaume deyāna prabhu prasāda uttama to Sārvabhauma has given the Lord prasāda the best sneha kari' bāra bāra karāna bhojana affection showing again and again He makes eat

178 The Lord had the best prasāda served to Sārvabhauma, and out of affection He made him eat again and again.

At the Lord's order Gopīnātha gives the Bhaṭṭācārya the best prasāda —

গোপীনাথাচার্য্য উত্তম মহাপ্রসাদ আনি' । সার্ব্বভৌমে দিয়া কহে সুমধুর বাণী ॥ ১৭৯ ॥

gopīnāthācārya uttama mahā-prasāda āni' Gopīnātha Ācārya excellent mahā-prasāda bringing sārvabhaume diyā kahe sumadhura vāṇī
to Sārvabhauma giving speaks very sweet words

179 Gopīnātha Ācārya brought excellent mahā-prasāda, gave it to Sārvabhauma, and spoke very sweet words:

Sārvabhauma's former and present conduct compared —

কাঁহা ভট্টাচার্য্যের পূর্ব্ব জড়-ব্যবহার । কাঁহা এই পরমানন্দ, — করহ বিচার ॥ ১৮০ ॥

kāṁhā bhaṭṭācāryera pūrva jaḍa-vyavahāra
where the Bhaṭṭācārya's former worldly dealings kāṁhā ei paramānanda, — karaha vicāra
where this supreme bliss make consideration

180 "Just consider: where were the Bhaṭṭācārya's former worldly dealings, and where is this supreme bliss now!"

Anubhāṣya.

Formerly Śrī Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya held to the reasoning of the smārtas and to mundane, materialistic beliefs. He had no transcendental faith in prasāda, in the name of Govinda or in the Vaiṣṇavas. Now, by Mahāprabhu's mercy, he gained faith in transcendental vision and found supreme bliss in honouring prasāda and the like. This is what is to be considered here.

The Bhaṭṭācārya's humility and his gratitude to Gopīnātha —

সার্ব্বভৌম কহে, — আমি তার্কিক কুবুদ্ধি । তোমার প্রসাদে মোর এ সম্পৎ-সিদ্ধি ॥ ১৮১ ॥

sārvabhauma kahe, — āmi tārkika kubuddhi Sārvabhauma says I a logician of crooked intellect tomāra prasāde mora e sampat-siddhi
by your grace my this attainment of wealth

181 Sārvabhauma said, "I was a logician of crooked intellect. It is by your grace that I have gained this wealth.

The glory of the Lord's causeless mercy —

মহাপ্রভু বিনা কেহ নাহি দয়াময়। কাকেরে গরুড় করে, — ঐছে কোন্ হয় ॥ ১৮২ ॥

mahāprabhu vinā keha nāhi dayāmaya Mahāprabhu apart from anyone is not merciful kākere garuḍa kare, — aiche kon haya
the crow into Garuḍa He makes such who is 182 No one is as merciful as Mahāprabhu. He turns a crow into a Garuḍa. Who else is like that?

Sārvabhauma compares his former and present state —

তার্কিক-শৃগাল-সঙ্গে ভেউ-ভেউ করি। সেই মুখে এবে সদা কহি 'কৃষ্ণ' 'হরি' ॥ ১৮৩ ॥

tārkika-śṛgāla-saṅge bheu-bheu kari with the logician-jackals howling I made sei mukhe ebe sadā kahi 'kṛṣṇa' 'hari'
with that mouth now always I say "Kṛṣṇa" "Hari"

183 I used to howl with the jackals of logic, and now with that same mouth I always say 'Kṛṣṇa!' and 'Hari!'

কাঁহা বহির্ম্মুখ তার্কিক-শিষ্যগণ সঙ্গে। কাঁহা এই সঙ্গসুধা-সমুদ্র-তরঙ্গে ॥ ১৮৪ ॥

kāṁhā bahirmukha tārkika-śiṣyagaṇa-saṅge
where averse to the Lord with logician disciples company
kāṁhā ei saṅga-sudhā-samudra-taraṅge
where this of company's nectar of the ocean in the waves

184 Where was I then, among my logician disciples who had turned away from the Lord, and where am I now, amid the waves of this nectar ocean of holy company!"

Anubhāṣya.

Bahirmukha (turned outward): those who think themselves enjoyers of external forms, tastes and the like, who are busy gratifying their own senses and are averse to serving Kṛṣṇa — they are bahirmukha. (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 7.5.31)[14]: "Those vowed to household life, whose senses are uncontrolled, who enter darkness, chewing the chewed again and again, do not turn their minds to Kṛṣṇa — not by the instruction of others, not by themselves, not together. They do not know that their own goal is Viṣṇu. With wicked hopes, taking external things to be of value, they are like the blind led by the blind: they too are bound by the long rope of the Lord's law." Knowledge devoted to enjoying material objects does not reveal the true nature of service to Kṛṣṇa. This Devī-dhāma, the realm of Durgā, lies on the outer border of the transcendental kingdom, and everything in this realm is material. Yet the conditioned soul, confused about his own nature, sees in it something worth serving.

The Lord, who honours others, praises Sārvabhauma —

প্রভু কহে, — পূর্ব্বে সিদ্ধ কৃষ্ণে তোমার প্রীতি । তোমা-সঙ্গে আমা-সবার হৈল কৃষ্ণে মতি ॥ ১৮৫ ॥

prabhu kahe, — pūrve siddha kṛṣṇe tomāra prīti
the Lord says formerly perfected for Kṛṣṇa your love
tomā-saṅge āmā-sabāra haila kṛṣṇe mati
in your company of us all arose for Kṛṣṇa the mind

185 The Lord said, "Your love for Kṛṣṇa was perfect long before. In your company all of us have turned our minds to Kṛṣṇa."

In glorifying the devotees, Bhagavān Śrī Caitanya has no equal —

ভক্ত-মহিমা বাড়াইতে, ভক্তে সুখ দিতে । মহাপ্রভু বিনা অন্য নাহি ত্রিজগতে ॥ ১৮৬ ॥

bhakta-mahimā bāḍāite, bhakte sukha dite
the devotees' glory to increase to devotees happiness to give mahāprabhu vinā anya nāhi trijagate
Mahāprabhu apart from another there is not in the three worlds

186 In all the three worlds there is no one but Mahāprabhu who so increases the glory of His devotees and gives them such happiness.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 3, Chapter 16, should be considered in this connection.

Prasāda* is given to all the devotees —*

তবে প্রভু প্রত্যেকে, সব ভক্তের নাম লঞা ।

then the Lord to each one of all the devotees the names taking piṭhā-pānā deoyāila prasāda kariyā cakes and sweet drinks had given as prasāda making

187 Then the Lord, calling each devotee by name, had cakes and sweet drinks given to all as His prasāda.

188 Advaita and Nityānanda were sitting together, and right there a playful quarrel broke out between the two of them.

Advaita opens the exchange —

189 Advaita said, "I have eaten in the same row as an avadhūta! I do not know what will become of Me.

I indeed a householder brāhmaṇa my a place for fault

191 ‘An ascetic is not tainted by faults in food’ — this is the evidence of scripture. But I am a householder brāhmaṇa: for Me it is a cause of fault.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
“A sannyāsī (maskarī) is not defiled by faults in food” — that is, the defilement of food does not cling to a sannyāsī.

*Calling himself a “householder brāhmaṇa,” Advaita pretends to follow the worldly society of smārtas —*

*Nityānanda condemns the doctrine of kevala-advaita —*

নিত্যানন্দ কহে, — তুমি অদ্বৈত-আচার্য্য ।
‘অদ্বৈত-সিদ্ধান্তে’ বাধে শুদ্ধভক্তিকার্য্য ॥ ১৯৩ ॥

Nityānanda says You Advaita Ācārya ‘advaita-siddhānte’ bādhe śuddha-bhakti-kārya
by the “doctrine of non-duality” is obstructed the work of pure devotion

193 Nityānanda replied, “You are Advaita Ācārya, the teacher of non-duality! The ‘doctrine of non-duality’ obstructs the practice of pure devotion.[10]

Under the guise of censuring Advaita, Nityānanda describes the glory of nondual knowledge —

তোমার সিদ্ধান্ত-সঙ্গ করে যেই জনে ।
‘এক’ বস্তু বিনা সেই ‘দ্বিতীয়’ নাহি মানে ॥ ১৯৪ ॥

tomāra siddhānta-saṅga kare yei jane
Your doctrine's company makes whatever person
‘eka’ vastu vinā sei ‘dvitīya’ nāhi māne
“one” reality apart from he a “second” not accepts

194 Whoever keeps company with Your doctrine accepts nothing ‘second’ besides the ‘one’ reality.

Anubhāṣya.

“Advaita-siddhānta”: the Advaitavādīs do not accept that the pastimes of the one served and His servant are eternally true. They regard the transcendental activity of bhakti — service to Kṛṣṇa — as one more worldly attempt to enjoy sense objects: the experience of happiness and distress born of lust and other movements of the human senses, or enjoyment within the fruits of karma. Therefore such a siddhānta obstructs the pure activity of bhakti, which is service to the variety of name, form, qualities and pastimes non-different from Bhagavān.

Ādi 1.7 should be especially considered here. To bewilder the asuras, Śrī Nityānanda Prabhu speaks as if censuring Śrī Advaita Prabhu. To the external vision of worldly people it seems at first that the pure nondual knowledge preached by Śrī Advaita Prabhu is “one” with the “advaita-siddhānta” of the Māyāvādī kevala-advaitavādīs, that is, with the doctrine of merging into Brahman without distinction (nirbheda-brahma-sāyujya). But in truth Śrī Advaita Prabhu is a form non-different from Śrī Hari, and he bears the title “Ācārya” precisely because he “proclaims pure bhakti.” His “advaita-siddhānta” is nothing but the worship of nondual knowledge, that is, pure bhakti. So Śrī Nityānanda Prabhu, seeing Śrī Advaita Prabhu as one who sings the glory of devotion to Gaura-Kṛṣṇa, offered him “veiled praise” (vyāja-stuti) under the guise of censure.

Pure Vaiṣṇavas, that is, those on the path of pure bhakti, firmly believe in scriptural statements such as “Knowers of the truth call the Truth that nondual knowledge which is called Brahman, Paramātmā and Bhagavān” (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.2.11) or “One without a second” (Chāndogya Upaniṣad 6.2.1). They accept that the Truth has no equal and no superior. Yet they do not call it merely impersonal pure consciousness — “Brahman,” the “bhūmā” (fullness) of being and consciousness, or the “virāṭ.” They designate that one Truth by the words “Bhagavān, who enjoys spiritual pastimes and is full of rasa.” They accept that although the possessor of energy is the one “nondual knowledge,” there are in Him many distinctions, a variety, through the working of His one energy. In Him eternally exist distinctions within Himself, with what is like Him and with what is unlike Him (svagata, sajātīya and vijātīya) — the three states of the known, knowledge and the knower. In Him eternally exist His name, form, qualities, pastimes and distinctive associates, non-different from His own form. Therefore the Vaiṣṇavas of the path of bhakti are never Māyāvādīs who worship themselves as God (ahaṅgrahopāsakas). Needless to say, if the known and the knower have no separate existence, there is no mutual knowledge, no pastime, no variety of rasa. So the kevala-advaita-siddhānta is nothing but a disguised, non-Vedic atheism (nāstikya-vāda). It is this that Śrī Nityānanda Prabhu condemned. The supreme reality is the one Śrī Kṛṣṇa; to perceive a “second” in anything apart from Him is māyā. Māyā is of two kinds, “jīva-māyā” and “guṇa-māyā”; guṇa-māyā too is of two kinds, “prakṛti” and “pradhāna.” Where Kṛṣṇa is perceived, there is no perception of a “second” (māyā) (see the Gauḍīya-bhāṣya on Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 2.9.33 and 11.3.45[15]). Then comes the state of the mahā-bhāgavata: like the pure devotee Prahlāda, he perceives only the “one” Kṛṣṇa — “his heart seized by Kṛṣṇa as if by a spirit, he did not notice this world” (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 7.4.37). So for him there is no death or fear born of absorption in a “second” — that is, no round of birth and death (Bṛhad-āraṇyaka Upaniṣad 1.4.2). Śrī Advaita Prabhu as ācārya, on the basis of this “vision of nondual knowledge,” “proclaimed only pure bhakti.” And Śrī Nityānanda Prabhu, rebuking the materialistic dualist absorbed in a “second” and given to enjoyment, praised precisely this vision of nondual knowledge in Śrī Advaita Prabhu.

A hint that one must not associate with materialistic dualists or Māyāvādīs, opponents of nondual knowledge —

হেন তোমার সঙ্গে মোর একত্রে ভোজন । না জানি, তোমার সঙ্গে কৈছে হয় মন ॥ ১৯৫ ॥

hena tomāra saṅge mora ekatre bhojana such You with My together eating nā jāni, tomāra saṅge kaiche haya mana not I know in Your company how becomes the mind

195 And here I am eating together with such a person as You! I do not know what will happen to My mind in Your company."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Nityānanda said, "You are Advaita Ācārya. All your siddhāntas are like advaita-vāda, which obstructs the activity of pure bhakti. Whoever is attached to your siddhānta sees nothing but the one substance, Brahman (cid-vilāsa). A dvaita-vādī ought to avoid such association with you, and yet I find myself eating with you — my mind cannot accept this."

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Rūpa Prabhu says in the Upadeśāmṛta: "Giving and accepting gifts, revealing one's secrets and inquiring, eating and feeding — these are the six signs of love."[16] Therefore a pure devotee must strictly observe the rules of association, including those about eating. By this Nityānanda Prabhu also hinted that a pure devotee should never eat together with a disguised Māyāvādī or a prākṛta-sahajiyā absorbed in a "second."

Under the guise of censure, the two Prabhus praise each other —

এইমত দুইজনে করে বলাবলি । ব্যাজ-স্তুতি করে দুঁহে, যেন গালাগালি ॥ ১৯৬ ॥

ei-mata dui jane kare balābali
in this way the two make exchange of words vyāja-stuti kare duṁhe, yena gālāgāli
veiled praise make both as if abuse

196 In this way the two of them bandied words: each praised the other in the guise of abuse.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Vyāja-stuti: masked praise (chala-stuti), that is, words outwardly censuring but inwardly pointing to greatness.

Anubhāṣya.
On the playful quarrel of the two, see Madhya 3.93–101.

The Lord gives mahā-prasāda to all the devotees —

তবে প্রভু সর্ব্ব-বৈষ্ণবের নাম লঞা ।

tabe prabhu sarva-vaiṣṇavera nāma lañā
then the Lord of all Vaiṣṇavas the names taking

mahā-prasāda He gives great nectar sprinkling

197 Then the Lord, calling out the names of all the Vaiṣṇavas, gave out mahā-prasāda, sprinkling it with supreme nectar.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Mahāprabhu had mahā-prasāda given to the Vaiṣṇavas. It was sprinkled with the nectar of the Lord's mercy and so became even more delicious.

Having honoured prasāda, everyone rises with cries of "Hari!" and rinses his mouth —

ভোজন করি' উঠে সবে হরিধ্বনি করি' । হরিধ্বনি উঠিল সব স্বর্গমর্ত্ত্য ভরি' ॥ ১৯৮ ॥

bhojana kari' uṭhe sabe hari-dhvani kari' eating having done rise all the sound of "Hari" making hari-dhvani uṭhila saba svarga-martya bhari'
the sound of "Hari" arose all heaven and earth filling

198 When they had eaten, everyone rose, calling out "Hari!" and the sound of "Hari" rose up and filled heaven and earth.

With His own hand the Lord gives the devotees garlands and sandal paste —

তবে মহাপ্রভু সব নিজ-ভক্তগণে ।

tabe mahāprabhu saba nija-bhakta-gaṇe
then Mahāprabhu all His own devotees

to everyone with His own hand gave garlands and sandal paste

199 Then, with His own hand, Mahāprabhu gave garlands and sandal paste to all His devotees.

200 Then the servers, the seven headed by Svarūpa, ate prasāda inside the house.

With Govinda's help Haridāsa receives the remnants of the Lord's meal —

201 Govinda had kept aside the Lord's remnants, and he took some of that food and gave it to Haridāsa.

Govinda receives the Lord's remnants last of all —

202 The devotees begged a little of it from Govinda, and what remained of that prasāda Govinda took himself.

*Another name for the pastime of cleaning the Guṇḍicā: the "dhoyā-pākhalā" —*

203 Independent and supreme, the Lord plays many kinds of games. This one pastime He called "washing and scrubbing" (dhoyā-pākhalā).

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Dhoyā-pākhalā: in the language of Utkala this pastime of cleaning the Guṇḍicā is called "dhoyā-pākhalā."

*After the anavasara, the Netrotsava, the festival of the aṅga-rāga —*

mahotsava haila bhaktera prāṇa-samāna
a great festival took place to the devotees equal to life

204 The next day came Jagannātha's great festival called Netrotsava, as dear to the devotees as life itself.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

"Netrotsava": during the bathing (the Snāna-yātrā) Jagannātha's paint is washed off, and during the "anavasara" period the paint on the bodies of the three Deities (the "aṅga-rāga") is renewed. On the very morning of the "Nava-yauvana" the netrotsava takes place, that is, the painting of the eyes.

sight having had the people happiness found in the mind

205 For a fortnight the people had grieved at not seeing the Lord; now, seeing Him again, they rejoiced at heart.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Pakṣa-dina: fifteen days.

Anubhāṣya.

After the Snāna-yātrā on the full moon, for fifteen days the Deity of Śrī Jagannātha is not a delight to the eyes of those who come for darśana. On the day when, after the fortnight of anavasara, those longing for darśana see Śrī Bhagavān and their eyes find their fulfilment — that first darśana after the fortnight of separation is called the "Netrotsava" ("festival of the eyes").

The Lord goes with the devotees for Jagannātha's darśana —

মহাপ্রভু সুখে লঞা সব ভক্তগণ ।
জগন্নাথ-দরশনে করিলা গমন ॥ ২০৬ ॥

206 Happily Mahāprabhu took all the devotees and went to see Jagannātha.

207 Kāśīśvara went in front, holding back the crowd, and behind came Govinda, carrying a water pot.

Anubhāṣya.

Karaṅga: the water pot of a sannyāsī, one in the fourth āśrama.

Before the Lord, Purī and Bhāratī; beside them, Svarūpa and Advaita —

প্রভুর আগে পুরী, ভারতী, — দুঁহার গমন ।
স্বরূপ, অদ্বৈত, — দুঁহের পার্শ্বে দুইজন ॥ ২০৮ ॥

prabhura āge purī, bhāratī, — duṁhāra gamana
the Lord's in front Purī Bhāratī of both the going svarūpa, advaita, — duṁhera pārśve dui-jana Svarūpa Advaita of both at the side the two 208 In front of the Lord walked Purī and Bhāratī, and beside the two of them walked Svarūpa and Advaita.

Behind, the other devotees —

পাছে পাছে চলি' যায় আর ভক্তগণ । উৎকণ্ঠাতে গেলা সব জগন্নাথ-ভবন ॥ ২০৯ ॥

pāche pāche cali' yāya āra bhakta-gaṇa
behind behind walking go the other devotees utkaṇṭhāte gelā saba jagannātha-bhavana
in eagerness went all to Jagannātha's temple

209 The other devotees walked behind, and all of them went eagerly to Jagannātha's temple.

Longing to see the Lotus-eyed One, the devotees out of love transgress the rules —

দর্শন-লোভেতে করি' মর্য্যাদা লঙ্ঘন । ভোগ-মণ্ডপে যাঞা করে শ্রীমুখ দর্শন ॥ ২১০ ॥

darśana-lobhete kari' maryādā laṅghana of seeing out of longing making of the rules a breach bhoga-maṇḍape yāñā kare śrī mukha darśana into the bhoga-maṇḍapa going they make of the beautiful face the sight

210 In their longing to see Him they set aside the rules, went into the bhoga-maṇḍapa, and gazed on His beautiful face.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
"Transgressing the maryādā": the scriptural rule by which one is to take darśana of the Deity is called the "maryādā." Eager for darśana, many transgressed this maryādā and went for the darśana of the Nava-yauvana.

*The Lord, absorbed in Rādhā's bhāva, gazes at Kṛṣṇa's face with unblinking eyes —*

তৃষার্ত্ত প্রভুর নেত্র — ভ্রমর-যুগল । গাঢ় তৃষ্ণায় পিয়ে কৃষ্ণের বদন কমল ॥ ২১১ ॥

tṛṣārta prabhura netra — bhramara-yugala thirsty the Lord's eyes of bees a pair gāḍha tṛṣṇāya piye kṛṣṇera vadana-kamala with deep thirst drink of Kṛṣṇa the face-lotus

211 The Lord's thirsting eyes, like a pair of bees, drank deeply from the lotus of Kṛṣṇa's face.

Anubhāṣya.

Śrī Mahāprabhu always took darśana of Śrī Jagannātha from the edge of the Jagamohana, from behind the Garuḍa pillar. But for a fortnight He had not had darśana, and under the force of intense separation (vipralambha) He passed beyond the Jagamohana, went into the bhoga-maṇḍapa and gazed at the holy face. Coming very close to the object of worship is what is to be understood as transgressing the maryādā. A bee tormented by thirst strives with all its might for the honey of a flower. So the Lord's two eyes are likened to two bees, and Jagannātha's holy face to a lotus flower. Seized by deep thirst, the Lord drank, as it were, by gazing at Kṛṣṇa's lotus face, and this revealed His boundless thirst.

The incomparable, ever-new and ever-increasing sweetness of the Śrī Vigraha

প্রফুল্ল-কমল জিনি' নয়ন যুগল । নীলমণি-দর্পণ-কান্তি গণ্ড ঝলমল ॥ ২১২ ॥

praphulla-kamala jini' nayana-yugala
full-blown lotuses surpassing of eyes the pair nīlamaṇi-darpaṇa-kānti gaṇḍa jhalamala
with a sapphire mirror's lustre the cheeks glisten

212 His eyes surpassed full-blown lotuses, and His cheeks glistened with the lustre of a sapphire mirror.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Nīlamaṇi: that is, Jagannāthadeva's cheeks glittered like a mirror made of sapphire (indranīla-maṇi).

Thus ends the twelfth chapter of the "Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya."

বান্ধুলীর ফুল জিনি' অধর সুরঙ্গ ।

īṣat hasita kānti — amṛta-taraṅga
of the gentle smile the radiance waves of nectar

213 His bright red lips surpassed the bāndhulī flower, and the radiance of His gentle smile was a wave of nectar.

Anubhāṣya.
Bāndhulī: here a red flower of that kind is to be understood; suraṅga: the colour of vermilion (hiṅgula).

the bee-eyes of millions of devotees make the drinking of honey

214 Moment by moment the lovely lustre of His beautiful face grew, and the bee-like eyes of millions of devotees drank its honey.

যত পিয়ে, তত তৃষ্ণা বাঢ়ে নিরন্তর । মুখাম্বুজ ছাড়ি' নেত্র না যায় অন্তর ॥ ২১৫ ॥

mukhāmbuja chāḍi' netra nā yāya antara
the face-lotus leaving the eyes not go elsewhere

215 The more they drank, the more their thirst grew without end; the eyes would not leave that lotus face to go elsewhere.

Anubhāṣya.
The longer Śrī Mahāprabhu gazed at the holy face, the more His thirst to see it grew. Between the Lord's eyes and Kṛṣṇa's lotus face there remained no difference and no barrier.

Anubhāṣya.

On the sweetness of the Śrī Vigraha, Śrī Rūpa Prabhu writes in the Śrī Laghu-bhāgavatāmṛta: "The son of the king of the cowherds is an ocean of nectar whose waves are a sweetness without equal or superior; His form delights both the moving and the nonmoving." In the Tantra it is said: "I shall tell of the supreme meditation on the son of Nanda. The beauty of countless millions of Kandarpas offers ārati to the edge of the nails of His lotus feet, and a charming radiance like His has never been seen or heard of anywhere." See Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.29.14.

Until midday, the pastime of gazing at the holy face —

এইমত মহাপ্রভু লঞা ভক্তগণ । মধ্যাহ্ন পর্য্যন্ত কৈল শ্রীমুখ দরশন ॥ ২১৬ ॥

ei-mata mahāprabhu lañā bhakta-gaṇa
in this way Mahāprabhu with the devotees
madhyāhna paryanta kaila śrī mukha daraśana
midday until made of the beautiful face the sight

216 In this way Mahāprabhu and the devotees gazed on His beautiful face until midday.

*Though overcome by bhāva, the Lord restrains Himself and relishes the joy of serving by gazing —*

স্বেদ, কম্প, অশ্রু-জল বহে সর্ব্বক্ষণ । দর্শনের লোভে প্রভু করে সম্বরণ ॥ ২১৭ ॥

darśanera lobhe prabhu kare saṁvaraṇa
of seeing out of longing the Lord makes restraint

217 Perspiration and tears flowed from Him, and He trembled all the while; but in His longing to see, the Lord held Himself back.

Anubhāṣya.

Ādi 4.201–203 should be especially considered.

*The Lord's darśana and kīrtana during the offering of bhoga —*

মধ্যে মধ্যে ভোগ লাগে, মধ্যে দরশন । ভোগের সময়ে প্রভু করেন কীর্ত্তন ॥ ২১৮ ॥

madhye madhye bhoga lāge, madhye daraśana
from time to time offerings are made in between sight bhogera samaye prabhu karena kīrtana
of the offering at the time the Lord does kīrtana

218 From time to time food was offered, and in between there was darśana; during the offerings the Lord performed kīrtana.

In the joy of serving Kṛṣṇa by gazing at Him the Lord forgets Himself; at last He returns home —

দর্শন-আনন্দে প্রভু সব পাসরিলা । ভক্তগণ মধ্যাহ্নেতে প্রভুরে লঞা গেলা ॥ ২১৯ ॥

219 In the bliss of seeing Him, the Lord forgot everything, and at midday the devotees took Him home.

By hearing of the pastime of cleaning the Guṇḍicā even the impure become pure in heart —

Notes

1. The same verse as Madhya 4.2 (the refrain of Ādi 4.2 with gauracandra in the first line); translation as there. ↩
2. The first line is the same as Ādi 9.3; translation as there. ↩
3. Verses 20–21 are the king's own words (first person in the Bengali: muñi, "I"), which Nityānanda repeats. ↩
4. The Bengali has a singular verb (chāḍileka) and "before her husband" (pati-āge): according to Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.23.34, one of the wives, held back by her husband, gave up her body. ↩

5. The edition reads tāhā pāñā prāṇa rākhe, tomāra āśā dhari' (with a comma after rākhe); the Bengali and the transliteration follow the edition. ↩
6. The edition reads eka 'rājā' nāma (without a hyphen); the Bengali and the transliteration follow the edition. ↩
7. Pānā is a sweet drink (cf. Madhya 6.44). ↩
8. The first line is the same as in Madhya 6.43. ↩
9. The subject of the first line is not named; from 170 and 172 (tāṅra āge, "in front of him") it is Jagadānanda, watching whether the Lord eats. ↩
10. The words play on Advaita's name. ↩
11. The edition gives no source; cf. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.84.13 (bhauma ijya-dhīḥ). ↩
12. The edition names only the Kaṭha and Muṇḍaka Upaniṣads, without numbers; these are Kaṭha Upaniṣad 1.2.23 and Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad 3.2.3. ↩
13. The edition gives no source; this is Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu 1.1.11. ↩
14. So in the edition; two verses are quoted, 7.5.30–31. ↩
15. So in the edition (11.3.45); by the sense, 11.2.45 (the marks of the highest devotee) may be meant. ↩
16. The edition names the Upadeśāmṛta without a verse number; this is Upadeśāmṛta 4. ↩
