Chapter 25

Making the Residents of Kāśī Vaiṣṇavas, and the Return to Nīlācala

(English translation from the Bengali, following the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition and the Anubhāṣya, 2026)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. A brāhmaṇa from Mahārāṣṭra was a servant of Mahāprabhu. Whenever he heard the Lord’s glory, he was filled with joy. One day he invited the sannyāsīs and Mahāprabhu, brought them together, and made the sannyāsīs fit to receive Mahāprabhu’s mercy; this is described in the seventh chapter of the Ādi-līlā. From that day the Lord’s greatness became known throughout the city of Vārāṇasī, and many of its residents became His followers. One of Prakāśānanda Sarasvatī’s disciples also became a follower of the Lord. When this disciple censured Māyāvāda and described the greatness of the teaching of pure devotion that Mahāprabhu had given, Prakāśānanda Svāmī defended his own position with many arguments. One day, after bathing at Pañcanada, Mahāprabhu began kīrtana with His devotees in the temple of Bindu-mādhava, and Prakāśānanda came there with his disciples. Prakāśānanda fell down and clasped Mahāprabhu’s feet, condemned his own past conduct, and asked about the truth of bhakti in harmony with Vedānta. Mahāprabhu taught him the unprecedented doctrine of devotion established in the Brahma-sampradāya, showed that the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the commentary on the Brahma-sūtra, and, explaining the Catuḥ-ślokī, set forth the whole truth. From that day the sannyāsīs became “devotees.” Mahāprabhu instructed Sanātana, told him to go to Vṛndāvana, and set out for Puruṣottama. After this Kavirāja Gosvāmī described something of the history of Śrī Rūpa, Śrī Sanātana and Subuddhi Rāya. Mahāprabhu set out with Balabhadra through Jhārikhaṇḍa and arrived in Śrī Puruṣottama. In the last part of this chapter Śrī Kavirāja Gosvāmī listed the subjects of every chapter of the Madhya-līlā and instructed all jīvas to read this Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

Gaurasundara turns the Māyāvādīs, averse to Kṛṣṇa, towards Kṛṣṇa —

1 The Lord made Vaiṣṇavas of the residents of Kāśī, headed by the sannyāsīs; He fully purified Sanātana, and then He went to Nīlādri.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Having made the sannyāsīs and the other residents of Kāśī "Vaiṣṇavas," and having performed the purificatory rite (saṁskāra) for Sanātana in the best way, the Lord came to Nīlādri.

Anubhāṣya.

2 Glory, glory to Śrī Caitanya! Glory to Nityānanda! Glory to Advaitacandra, and glory to all the devotees of Gaura![1]

For two months the Lord instructs Sanātana in Kāśī —

এই মত মহাপ্রভু দুই মাস পর্য্যন্ত ।

in this way Mahāprabhu two months for 3 In this way, for two months, Mahāprabhu taught him the conclusions of bhakti to their utmost depth.

Paramānanda Kīrtanīyā's service to the Lord —

4 Paramānanda Kīrtanīyā, the companion of Candraśekhara, would sing kīrtana for the Lord with great delight.

The Lord delivers the Māyāvādīs of Kāśī only to fulfil the wish of His devotees

সন্ন্যাসীর গণ প্রভুরে যদি উপেক্ষিল । ভক্ত-দুঃখ খণ্ডাইতে তারে কৃপা হৈল ॥ ৫ ॥

sannyāsīra gaṇa prabhure yadi upekṣila of the sannyāsīs the host the Lord when disregarded bhakta-duḥkha khaṇḍāite tāre kṛpā haila
the devotees' sorrow to dispel for them mercy arose

5 When the sannyāsīs disregarded the Lord, mercy towards them arose in Him, so that He might dispel the sorrow of His devotees.

The deliverance of the Māyāvādīs was described earlier, in the Ādi-līlā; now it is told again, briefly —

সন্ন্যাসীরে কৃপা পূর্ব্বে লিখিয়াছোঁ বিস্তারিয়া । উদ্দেশে কহিয়ে ইঁহা সংক্ষেপ করিয়া ॥ ৬ ॥

sannyāsīre kṛpā pūrve likhiyāchoṁ vistāriyā

by way of mention I tell here brief making (it)

6 I have described the Lord's mercy to the sannyāsīs before, in detail. Here I mention it again, briefly.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
"I have described this before in detail" — see Ādi 7.

The Māyāvādī sannyāsīs revile the Lord; the brāhmaṇa from Mahārāṣṭra reflects, pained at heart —

যাঁহা তাঁহা প্রভুর নিন্দা করে সন্ন্যাসীর গণ ।
শুনি' দুঃখে মহারাষ্ট্রীয় বিপ্র করয়ে চিন্তন ॥ ৭ ॥

yāṁhā tāṁhā prabhura nindā kare sannyāsīra gaṇa here there of the Lord blasphemy do of the sannyāsīs the host śuni' duḥkhe mahārāṣṭrīya vipra karaye cintana hearing in sorrow a Mahārāṣṭrian brāhmaṇa does reflection

7 Everywhere the sannyāsīs blasphemed the Lord. Hearing this, a brāhmaṇa from Mahārāṣṭra reflected sorrowfully:

The sign by which the Lord is known to be the Supreme Lord —

প্রভুর স্বভাব, — যেবা দেখে সন্নিধানে ।
'স্বরূপ' অনুভবি' তাঁরে 'ঈশ্বর' করি' মানে ॥ ৮ ॥

prabhura svabhāva, — yebā dekhe sannidhāne
the Lord's nature whoever sees near at hand
'svarūpa' anubhavi' tāṁre 'īśvara' kari' māne
His true nature perceiving Him as Īśvara taking accepts

8 "Whoever sees the Lord's nature at close hand perceives who He truly is and accepts Him as Īśvara, the Supreme Lord.

The wish to bring everyone together —

কোন প্রকারে পারোঁ যদি একত্র করিতে । ইহা দেখি' সন্ন্যাসিগণ হবে ইঁহার ভক্তে ॥ ৯ ॥ kona prakāre pāroṁ yadi ekatra karite by some means I can if together to bring ihā dekhi' sannyāsi-gaṇa habe iṁhāra bhakte

this seeing the sannyāsīs will become His devotees

9 If by some means I can bring them together, the sannyāsīs will see this and become His devotees.

বারাণসী-বাস আমার হয় সর্ব্বকালে । সর্ব্বকাল দুঃখ পাব, ইহা না করিলে ॥ ১০ ॥

vārāṇasī-vāsa āmāra haya sarva-kāle in Vārāṇasī residence my is at all times sarva-kāla duḥkha pāba, ihā nā karile at all times sorrow I will get this not if I do

10 I live in Vārāṇasī all the time. If I do not do this, I shall grieve for ever."

The Māyāvādī sannyāsīs are invited to his home —

এত চিন্তি' নিমন্ত্রিল সন্ন্যাসীর গণে । তবে সেই বিপ্র আইল মহাপ্রভুর স্থানে ॥ ১১ ॥ eta cinti' nimantrila sannyāsīra gaṇe so thinking he invited of the sannyāsīs the host tabe sei vipra āila mahāprabhura sthāne

then that brāhmaṇa came Mahāprabhu's to the place

11 Thinking thus, he invited all the sannyāsīs. Then that brāhmaṇa came to the place where Mahāprabhu was staying.

Candraśekhara and Tapana Miśra at the same time make the same appeal to the Lord —

হেনকালে নিন্দা শুনি' শেখর, তপন । দুঃখ পাঞা প্রভু-পদে কৈলা নিবেদন ॥ ১২ ॥

hena-kāle nindā śuni' śekhara, tapana at that time the blasphemy hearing Śekhara Tapana duḥkha pāñā prabhu-pade kailā nivedana sorrow feeling at the Lord's feet made a petition

12 At that time Candraśekhara and Tapana Miśra, pained to hear the blasphemy, made their appeal at the Lord's feet.

To fulfil the wish of His devotees, the Lord desires to bestow mercy —

ভক্ত-দুঃখ দেখি' প্রভু মনেতে চিন্তিল । সন্ন্যাসীর মন ফিরাইতে মন হইল ॥ ১৩ ॥

bhakta-duḥkha dekhi' prabhu manete cintila the devotees' sorrow seeing the Lord in His mind reflected sannyāsīra mana phirāite mana haila of the sannyāsīs the minds to turn the wish arose

13 Seeing His devotees' sorrow, the Lord reflected within Himself, and the wish arose in Him to turn the hearts of the sannyāsīs.

The brāhmaṇa from Mahārāṣṭra arrives and invites the Lord —

হেনকালে বিপ্র আসি' করিল নিমন্ত্রণ । অনেক দৈন্যাদি করি' ধরিল চরণ ॥ ১৪ ॥

hena-kāle vipra āsi' karila nimantraṇa at that time the brāhmaṇa coming made an invitation aneka dainyādi kari' dharila caraṇa much humility and so on showing clasped the feet

14 Just then the brāhmaṇa came and invited Him. With great humility he clasped the Lord's feet.

The Lord accepts the invitation —

তবে মহাপ্রভু তাঁর নিমন্ত্রণ মানিলা । আর দিন মধ্যাহ্ন করি' তাঁর ঘরে গেলা ॥ ১৫ ॥

tabe mahāprabhu tāṁra nimantraṇa mānilā then Mahāprabhu his invitation accepted āra dina madhyāhna kari' tāṁra ghare gelā
the next day midday duties performing to his house went 15 Mahāprabhu then accepted his invitation, and the next day, after His midday duties, He went to his house.

The deliverance of the Māyāvādī sannyāsīs was described earlier, in the seventh chapter of the Ādi-līlā —

তাঁহা যৈছে কৈলা প্রভু সন্ন্যাসী-নিস্তার । পঞ্চতত্ত্বাখ্যানে তাহা কৈরাছি বিস্তার ॥ ১৬ ॥

tāṁhā yaiche kailā prabhu sannyāsī-nistāra
there how made the Lord the deliverance of the sannyāsīs pañca-tattvākhyāne tāhā kairāchi vistāra in the account of the Pañca-tattva that I have made in detail

16 I have already told in detail, in the account of the Pañca-tattva, how the Lord delivered the sannyāsīs there.

Anubhāṣya.
Ādi 7: there this pastime is described in detail in the account of the Pañca-tattva.

The fear of repeating himself —

গ্রন্থ বাড়ে, পুনরপি হয় ত' কথন । তাঁহা যেন না লিখিলুঁ, তাহা করিয়ে লিখন ॥ ১৭ ॥

grantha bāḍe, punarapi haya ta' kathana the book grows again would be indeed a telling tāṁhā yena nā likhiluṁ, tāhā kariye likhana
there what not I wrote that I make writing

17 To tell it again would only lengthen the book; so here I write only what I did not write there.

From the day the Māyāvādīs received mercy, many logicians gather to debate with the Lord —

যে দিবস প্রভু সন্ন্যাসীরে কৃপা কৈল । সে দিবস হৈতে গ্রামে কোলাহল হৈল ॥ ১৮ ॥

ye divasa prabhu sannyāsīre kṛpā kaila on which day the Lord to the sannyāsīs mercy showed se divasa haite grāme kolāhala haila that day from in the town a clamour arose

18 From the day the Lord showed mercy to the sannyāsīs, the whole town was astir.

লোকের সংঘট্ট আইসে প্রভুরে দেখিতে । lokera saṅghaṭṭa āise prabhure dekhite

nānā śāstre paṇḍita āise śāstra vicārite in various scriptures scholars come scripture to discuss

19 Crowds of people came to see the Lord, and scholars learned in various scriptures came to discuss scripture with Him.

With irrefutable arguments full of the conclusions of pure devotion, the Lord demolishes everyone's false reasoning —

সর্ব্বশাস্ত্র খণ্ডি' প্রভু 'ভক্তি' করে সার । সযুক্তিক বাক্যে মন ফিরায় সবার ॥ ২০ ॥

sarva-śāstra khaṇḍi' prabhu 'bhakti' kare sāra all scriptures refuting the Lord bhakti makes the essence sa-yuktika vākye mana phirāya sabāra with well-reasoned words the minds turns of all

20 Refuting every rival reading of the scriptures, the Lord established bhakti as their essence, and with well-reasoned words He turned everyone's mind.

Everyone receives the Lord's teaching and sings the names of Hari —

উপদেশ লঞা করে কৃষ্ণ-সংকীর্ত্তন ।
সর্ব্বলোক হাসে, গায়, করয়ে নর্ত্তন ॥ ২১ ॥

21 Accepting His instruction, they performed kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtana; all the people laughed, sang and danced.

The sannyāsīs give up Māyāvāda and, among themselves, talk of Kṛṣṇa —

প্রভুরে প্রণত হৈল সন্ন্যাসীর গণ । আত্মমধ্যে গোষ্ঠী করে ছাড়ি' অধ্যয়ন ॥ ২২ ॥

prabhure praṇata haila sannyāsīra gaṇa

22 The sannyāsīs bowed down to the Lord. Giving up their studies, they held discussions among themselves.

Anubhāṣya.
The sannyāsīs gave up their own study of Vedānta, gathered among themselves, and began to talk about the path of bhakti that Mahāprabhu had shown.

*At an assembly, one of Prakāśānanda Sarasvatī's disciples, weighing the doctrines, recognises the Lord as Nārāyaṇa, praises His explanation of Vedānta as spiritual pastimes (cid-vilāsa), and condemns Śaṅkara's Māyāvāda interpretation —*

*The primary meaning of the word brahma —*

'ব্রহ্ম'-শব্দে কহে 'ষড়ৈশ্বর্য্যপূর্ণ ভগবান্' । তাঁরে 'নির্ব্বিশেষ' স্থাপি, 'পূর্ণতা' হয় হানি ॥ ৩৩ ॥

'brahma' śabde kahe 'ṣaḍ-aiśvarya-pūrṇa bhagavān'
'Brahman' by the word is meant full of the six opulences Bhagavān
tāṅhre 'nirviśeṣa' sthāpi, 'pūrṇatā' haya hāni
Him as without attributes establishing completeness suffers loss

33 The word ‘Brahman’ means Bhagavān, full of the six opulences. To establish Him as without attributes (nirviśeṣa) is to diminish His completeness.

Anubhāṣya.

To declare Bhagavān featureless (nirviśeṣa) is to deny His transcendental possession of attributes (saviśeṣatva), and so the fullness of His potencies is impaired. Featurelessness (nirviśeṣatva) is only the incomplete manifestation of one of His potencies.

*By the descending path (avaroha) the Śrutis and Purāṇas reveal transcendental spiritual pastimes (cid-vilāsa); to regard these spiritual pastimes beyond māyā as māyic pastimes of matter, following the ascending path of logic (āroha), is itself irreligion (pāṣaṇḍatā), or a great offence (mahāparādha) —*

শ্রুতি-পুরাণ কহে — কৃষ্ণের চিচ্ছক্তি-বিলাস । তাহা নাহি মানি’ পণ্ডিত করে উপহাস ॥ ৩৪ ॥

śruti-purāṇa kahe — kṛṣṇera cic-chakti-vilāsa the śrutis the Purāṇas say Kṛṣṇa’s of the spiritual potency the play tāhā nāhi māni’ paṇḍita kare upahāsa that not accepting the scholar makes mockery

34 The śrutis and the Purāṇas speak of the play of Kṛṣṇa’s spiritual potency (cic-chakti-vilāsa). Not accepting this, the scholar mocks it.

Anubhāṣya.

The Vedic scriptures and all the Purāṇas establish the supreme eternality of the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa’s spiritual potency (cic-chakti). The jñānī who fancies himself a paṇḍita, with his worldly learning full of the desire to enjoy, sinks ever deeper into self-conceit. Deluded by the false notion that “the spiritual potency cannot have pastimes; they are one of the forms of māyā-śakti,” he ridicules [them].

চিদানন্দ কৃষ্ণবিগ্রহে ‘মায়িক’ করি’ মানি । এই বড় ‘পাপ’, — সত্য চৈতন্যের বাণী ॥ ৩৫ ॥

cid-ānanda kṛṣṇa-vigrahe 'māyika' kari' māni spiritual and blissful Kṛṣṇa's form māyic taking to regard ei baḍa 'pāpa', — satya caitanyera vāṇī this a great sin true Caitanya's words

35 To regard Kṛṣṇa's form of spirit and bliss as māyic is a great sin. Caitanya's words are true.

Anubhāṣya.
The nirviśeṣa-vādī regards Kṛṣṇa's sac-cid-ānanda form as a form of Īśvara imagined and fashioned by māyā, and so he cannot understand Bhagavān's eternal possession of attributes. This arrogance, or atheism (nāstikatā), is itself the gravest offence. In the words of Śrīman Mahāprabhu, Kṛṣṇa's sac-cid-ānanda form, possessed of attributes, is full of eternal, true spiritual pastimes — that is the real truth.

*The form full of spiritual pastimes is supreme above the featureless form — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 3, Chapter 9, verses 3–4) —*

source of the elements and the senses. I have taken shelter of that form of Yours." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.9.3)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

"O Supreme! This form of Yours is bliss alone, free of all differentiation (avikalpa), radiant and beyond māyā. There is no form higher than the one I now behold. O Soul (ātmā)! You create the universe and yet are distinct from it. This form of Yours that I behold is the source of the elements and the senses; in it I take shelter (prapatti)."

Anubhāṣya.

Brahmā was born from the navel of Garbhodakaśāyī, yet he could not know that Puruṣa. So he entered the water and, performing austerities, began to offer prayers to Bhagavān. In the next two verses he describes how the sac-cid-ānanda form, possessed of attributes and full of spiritual pastimes, is superior to His featureless form.

*The nirviśeṣa-vādī regards the form of Bhagavān, the master of māyā, as "māyic" — and this leads to hell —*

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Fools disregard Me, who have assumed a human form: they regard My eternal spiritual body as dependent on māyā and so disregard it. For they do not know the supreme spiritual nature of My form as Kṛṣṇa, the Great Lord of all beings.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

52 Vyāsa overturned the six doctrines of the six schools, and in his sūtras he set forth the Vedānta.

*According to "Vedānta," Brahman is a form full of spiritual pastimes, possessed of attributes — that is, full of eternity, knowledge and bliss (sac-cid-ānanda) —*

'বেদান্ত'-মতে, — ব্রহ্ম 'সাকার' নিরূপণ ।
'নির্গুণ' ব্যতিরেকে তিঁহো হয় ত' 'সগুণ' ॥ ৫৩ ॥

'vedānta' mate, — brahma 'sākāra' nirūpaṇa of Vedānta in the view Brahman with form is defined
'nirguṇa' vyatireke tiṁho haya ta' 'saguṇa'
nirguṇa by negation He is indeed saguṇa

53 In the view of Vedānta, Brahman is defined as having form (sākāra), and the word nirguṇa, a negation, shows that He is in truth saguṇa — possessed of qualities.

Refuting the opinions of others, each tries to establish his own doctrine —

পরম কারণ ঈশ্বর কেহ নাহি মানে । স্ব-স্ব-মত স্থাপে পরমতের খণ্ডনে ॥ ৫৪ ॥

parama kāraṇa īśvara keha nāhi māne
as the supreme cause Īśvara no one not accepts sva-sva-mata sthāpe para-matera khaṇḍane
each his own doctrine establishes of others' doctrines by refutation

54 None of them accepts Īśvara as the supreme cause. Each establishes his own doctrine by refuting the doctrines of others.

*One should leave the six darśanas — paths of logic rooted in uncertainty and governed by the mind — and take shelter of the mahājana who follows the path of śruti, that is, of the pure devotee —*

তাতে ছয় দর্শন হৈতে ‘তত্ত্ব’ নাহি জানি । ‘মহাজন’ যেই কহে, সেই ‘সত্য’ মানি ॥ ৫৫ ॥

tāte chaya darśana haite ‘tattva’ nāhi jāni therefore the six philosophies from the truth not we know ‘mahājana’ yei kahe, sei ‘satya’ māni
the mahājanas whatever say that as truth we accept

55 So we do not come to know the truth from the six philosophies; we accept as truth what the mahājanas say.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Having heard the other sannyāsī's words, imbued with devotion, Prakāśānanda Sarasvatī says: “Śaṅkarācārya was excessively eager to establish advaita-vāda, and so he explained the sūtras in another way. If one accepts that there is Bhagavān (bhagavattā), advaita-vāda cannot remain. That is why the Ācārya tried to refute all the other scriptures that establish the truth of Bhagavān. To abandon the plain meaning of the scriptures in order to establish one's own opinion — that is the rule of every ‘doctrine’ (matavāda). Look: (1) The Mīmāṁsakas headed by Jaimini abandoned bhakti, the root purport of the Vedas, and made Īśvara ‘a limb of karma.’ (2) The godless (nirīśvara) authors of Sāṅkhya headed by Kapila abandoned the true meaning of the Vedas and declared prakṛti the cause of the world. (3) Gautama, Kaṇāda and others, in the scriptures of Nyāya and Vaiśeṣika, called the atoms the cause of the universe. (4) In the same way the Māyāvādīs headed by Aṣṭāvakra presented featureless Brahman as the cause of the world. (5) Rāja-yogīs such as Patañjali established as the ‘essential truth’ (svarūpa-tattva) the imaginary Īśvara described in his Yoga-śāstra. These ācāryas, devoted to their doctrines, rejected Svayam Bhagavān, established by the Vedas, and each set up an ‘opinion’ based on a partial (khaṇḍa) perception of Him. Śrī Vyāsadeva thoroughly examined the six opinions of the six darśanas, refuted each of them, and, relying on the Vedic statements that establish Bhagavān, composed the Vedānta-sūtra. According to Vedānta, Brahman is sac-cid-ānanda and possessed of form (sākāra). The nirviśeṣa-vādīs declare Brahman nirguṇa (without qualities), and in particular cases call Bhagavān saguṇa, that is, made of the three guṇas. In truth, however, the Absolute is not merely nirguṇa, merely beyond the three guṇas: He is a form ‘possessed of qualities’ (saguṇa), the abode of countless spiritual qualities. The adherents of these doctrines do not accept the supreme cause, Īśvara (Viṣṇu): none of them accepts Viṣṇu, the Lord of all lords and the cause of all causes, though each, refuting the opinions of others, has tried to establish his own. Therefore what the mahājana says must be known as ‘the truth.’”

Prakāśānanda declares that by touching the Lord's feet his offences are removed —

75 “His sins destroyed by the touch of the Lord’s beautiful feet, he gave up his serpent’s body and took the form honoured by the Vidyādharas.” (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.34.9)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

By the touch of Śrī Kṛṣṇa’s feet that serpent was freed from all inauspiciousness; he gave up the serpent’s body and regained his former form, honoured by the Vidyādharas.

Anubhāṣya.

Once in Vraja the king of the cowherds, Śrī Nanda, was performing with his kinsmen the rite of pilgrimage to a deity (deva-yātrā). He came to the bank of the river Sarasvatī, took a vow, and himself lay down to sleep in the forest. Just then a Gandharva named Sudarśana attacked Nanda: he had laughed at the sages of the Aṅgirasa line, and by their curse he had been born a serpent. At Nanda’s piteous cry Kṛṣṇa came, struck the serpent with His foot, and rescued Nanda from its jaws.

How the touch of Kṛṣṇa’s feet removed the serpent’s inauspiciousness, Śrī Śuka describes to Parīkṣit.

saḥ (the serpent) vai bhagavataḥ (of Kṛṣṇa) śrīmat-pāda-sparśa-hatāśubhaḥ (he whose inauspiciousness — the curse of the sages of the Aṅgirasa line, whom he had mocked on seeing their ugliness — was destroyed by the touch of the glorious foot) sarpa-vapuḥ (that is, his birth as a serpent) hitvā (giving up) vidyādharārcitam (honoured, worshipped among the Vidyādharas) rūpam bheje (attained).

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

"Tell it in brief": I have already heard from You the primary meaning of each sūtra. Now I wish to hear in brief the principal purport (mukhya-tātparya) of Vedānta.

*The Lord, who follows the path of śruti, in His humility regards Himself as a lowly jīva, a disciple, and honours Vyāsa as guru —* প্রভু কহে, — আমি 'জীব', অতি তুচ্ছ জ্ঞান !

the Lord says I a jīva very meagre knowledge

89 The Lord said, "I am a jīva, and My knowledge is very meagre. The meaning of the Vyāsa-sūtra is deep, and Vyāsa is Bhagavān.

For the good of the jīvas, Vyāsadeva, himself the author of the sūtras, became also their commentator; therefore their true purport is easy to grasp —

91 When the author of the sūtras himself explains them, people come to know their original meaning.

*The seed of the tree of the Vedas is the praṇava, the mother (the sprout) is the Gāyatrī, and the fruit is the Catuḥ-ślokī of the Bhāgavatam —*

94 Nārada told that meaning to Vyāsa, and hearing it, Veda-vyāsa reflected within himself:

*The resolve to expand the Catuḥ-ślokī, the commentary on the Brahma-sūtra — that is, to compose the Bhāgavatam —*

এই অর্থ — আমার সূত্রের ব্যাখ্যানুরূপ ।
'ভাগবত' করিব সূত্রের ভাষ্যস্বরূপ ॥ ৯৫ ॥

ei artha — āmāra sūtrera vyākhyānurūpa
this meaning of my sūtras accords with the explanation
'bhāgavata' kariba sūtrera bhāṣya-svarūpa the Bhāgavata I shall make of the sūtras the commentary in the form of

95 'This meaning accords with the explanation of my sūtras. I shall make the Bhāgavata the commentary on my sūtras.'[10]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The praṇava is the mahā-vākya (great statement) of all the Vedas. The meaning contained in the praṇava is also in the Gāyatrī, and that same meaning is unfolded in the Śrī Bhāgavatam in four verses, beginning with the verse aham evāsam evāgre. From Bhagavān to Brahmā, from Brahmā to Nārada, from Nārada to Śrī Vyāsa — in this way, through the succession of a true sampradāya, all the Vedas and their purport came into the Śrī Bhāgavatam. The Śrī Bhāgavatam itself is "the commentary on the Brahma-sūtra."

The essence of the Vedas and Upaniṣads is extracted —

চারিবেদ-উপনিষদে যত কিছু হয় । তার অর্থ লঞা ব্যাস করিলা সঞ্চয় ॥ ৯৬ ॥

cāri-veda-upaniṣade yata kichu haya in the four Vedas and the Upaniṣads as much anything there is tāra artha lañā vyāsa karilā sañcaya their meaning taking Vyāsa made a collection

96 Whatever there is in the four Vedas and the Upaniṣads, Vyāsa took its meaning and gathered it together.

*The very śruti mantras that are the source of the sūtras are set down in the Bhāgavatam in the form of verses —*

যেই সূত্রে যেই ঋক্ — বিষয়-বচন । ভাগবতে সেই ঋক্ শ্লোকে নিবন্ধন ॥ ৯৭ ॥

yei sūtre yei ṛk — viṣaya-vacana in which sūtra which ṛk the statement of the subject bhāgavate sei ṛk śloke nibandhana in the Bhāgavata that ṛk in a verse is set down

97 Whatever Vedic mantra (ṛk) states the subject of a sūtra, that same mantra is set down in a verse of the Bhāgavata.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Ṛk means a Vedic mantra; viṣaya-vacana means the statement of the subject (uddeśya). In the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam that ṛk is set down in the form of a verse.

*The same meaning of the Upaniṣadic mantras is expressed in the verses of the Bhāgavatam —*

অতএব ব্রহ্মসূত্রের ভাষ্য — শ্রীভাগবত । ভাগবত-শ্লোক, উপনিষৎ কহে ‘এক’মত ॥ ৯৮ ॥

ataeva brahma-sūtrera bhāṣya — śrī-bhāgavata therefore of the Brahma-sūtra the commentary is the Śrī Bhāgavata bhāgavata-śloka, upaniṣat kahe ‘eka’ mata
the Bhāgavata’s verses the Upaniṣads speak one doctrine

98 Therefore the Śrī Bhāgavata is the commentary on the Brahma-sūtra. The verses of the Bhāgavata and the Upaniṣads teach one and the same doctrine.

*An example. Everything is full of Viṣṇu, and there is nothing apart from Him. Giving up the notion that we are enjoyers, one should accept all objects with yukta-vairāgya, as related to Viṣṇu, that is, as what Viṣṇu enjoys — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 8, Chapter 1, verse 10)*

99 "This universe and whatever moves within it are pervaded by the Lord. Enjoy what He has allotted to you, and do not covet anyone else's wealth." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 8.1.10)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Whatever you see in this world — all of it, that is, this whole universe — is pervaded by the Ātmā. O jīvas, this Ātmā is your controller and protector. Use all the things of the world as things granted by His grace, and do not seize the wealth of others. The purport is this. The mantra of the Īśopaniṣad, īśāvāsyam idaṁ jagat, is a śruti-mantra, that is, a viṣaya-vacana on which the Brahma-sūtra rests. In the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam that ṛk (mantra) is set down in the form of a verse as ātmāvāsyam idam. In this way all the ṛks of all the sūtras are set down in the verses of the Bhāgavatam.

Anubhāṣya.

Parīkṣit heard the genealogy of Svāyambhuva Manu and asked about the other Manus and the deeds of the manvantara avatāras. Then Śrī Śuka first relates the words of Manu.

jagatyām (in the world) yat kiñcit jagat (whatever the conditioned jīvas enjoy — the transformation of māyā-śakti that gives pleasure to the senses), idaṁ viśvaṁ (all of it) ātmāvāsyam (is pervaded by the Ātmā, that is, by Bhagavān — by His being and consciousness; this is seen with transcendental vision, with the eyes of devotion anointed with the salve of prema). tena (therefore) tyaktena (by offering to Bhagavān out of the desire to serve) — or else: tena (by Īśvara) tyaktena (with whatever little wealth He has left, that is, given — as Bhagavān's remnants) — bhuñjīthāḥ (accept, that is, take). kasyasvit (of one attached to matter, thinking himself an enjoyer) dhanam (worldly objects of enjoyment and the like, for he sees māyā rather than Bhagavān) mā gṛdhaḥ (do not covet at all). So too the śruti says: īśāvāsyam idam — just like this verse.

*In the original Bhāgavatam, the Catuḥ-ślokī, sambandha, abhidheya and prayojana are defined —*

ভাগবতের সম্বন্ধ, অভিধেয়, প্রয়োজন ।

100 The sambandha, abhidheya and prayojana of the Bhāgavata are clearly defined in the Catuḥ-ślokī.

*Before Brahmā, Śrī Kṛṣṇa briefly explains the three truths of the Catuḥ-ślokī. To ascertain the form of Bhagavān, the object (viṣaya), is "jñāna," purely spiritual; the manifestation of Bhagavān in the experience of spiritual pastimes, which the one who takes shelter (āśraya) attains, is "vijñāna"; the secret, or prema, is the "prayojana"; and sādhana-bhakti, its limb, is the "abhidheya" —*

আমি — 'সম্বন্ধ'-তত্ত্ব, আমার জ্ঞান-বিজ্ঞান ।

101 'I am the truth of sambandha, and knowledge and realisation of Me belong to it as well. Sādhana-bhakti, the means of attaining Me, is called abhidheya.

সাধনের ফল — 'প্রেম' মূল-প্রয়োজন ।

102 The fruit of sādhana is prema, the chief goal (prayojana). By that love the jīva attains service to Me.

*Of the six verses, this one, apart from the Catuḥ-ślokī, describes sambandha, abhidheya and prayojana: jñāna and vijñāna are "sambandha," the secret is the "prayojana," and its limb is the "abhidheya" — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 2, Chapter 9, verse 30)*

*The beginning of the explanation of the Catuḥ-ślokī. In the first verse, the sambandha-tattva: the mark of "jñāna" of Kṛṣṇa, the possessor of the svarūpa-śakti, denoted by the word aham, whose form is eternal, true and everlasting —*

*The first verse of the Catuḥ-ślokī — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 2, Chapter 9, verse 32)*

অহমেবাসমেবাগ্রে নান্যদ্যৎ সদসৎপরম্ ।

111 "Before creation I alone existed; there was nothing else — neither effect, nor cause, nor That which is beyond them. After creation this whole world is not other than Me, and what remains after its dissolution is also I." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.32)[13]

*The purport of the verse — Kṛṣṇa's form is full of eternity, knowledge and bliss (sac-cid-ānanda-vigraha) —*

'অহমেব'-শ্লোকে 'অহম্' — তিনবার । পূর্ণৈশ্বর্য্য-বিগ্রহের স্থিতির নির্দ্ধার ॥ ১১২ ॥

'aham eva' śloke 'aham'-tina-bāra in the 'aham eva' verse 'aham' three times pūrṇaiśvarya-vigrahera sthitira nirdhāra of the form full of opulence of the existence the establishing 112 The word aham, 'I', appears three times in the verse aham eva. It establishes the existence of His form, full of all opulence.

Anubhāṣya.

In the verse aham eva the word aham occurs three times: in the first line in the words aham eva, in the third in the words paścād aham, and in the fourth in the words so 'smy aham. This establishes the personal form (vigraha) of Bhagavān: He is not merely featureless.

The refutation of one who teaches that He is formless —

যে 'বিগ্রহ' নাহি মানে, 'নিরাকার' মানে । তারে তিরস্করিবারে করিলা নির্দ্ধারণে ॥ ১১৩ ॥

ye 'vigraha' nāhi māne, 'nirākāra' māne who the form not accepts formless considers tāre tiraskaribāre karilā nirddhāraṇe him to rebuke has made the determination

113 This was set down to rebuke one who does not accept His form and holds Him to be formless.

Anubhāṣya.
The nirviśeṣa-vādī does not accept Bhagavān's personal form, possessed of attributes. To fix in the heart that his reasoning is full of error and must be rejected in every respect, the Lord said aham eva three times and so established the "sambandha."

*In the second verse, besides the "internal nature" (antaraṅga-svarūpa), the marks of the potencies of the "marginal jīva" and the "external guṇa-māyā," and a consideration of how they are perceived. To see the nature that lies beyond the jīva and guṇa-māyā, that is, the internal potency, is independent, pure realisation of the svarūpa, or "vijñāna"; to see the jīva or guṇa-māyā is not "seeing the svarūpa" —*

এই সব শব্দে হয় — 'জ্ঞান'-'বিজ্ঞান'-বিবেক । মায়া-কার্য্য, মায়া হৈতে আমি — ব্যতিরেক ॥ ১১৪ ॥

ei saba śabde haya — 'jñāna' 'vijñāna' viveka in these all words there is of jñāna of vijñāna the discernment māyā-kārya, māyā haite āmi — vyatireka māyā's works from māyā I am distinct

114 In all these words lies the discernment of jñāna and vijñāna: I am distinct from the works of māyā and from māyā itself.

*The sun, its reflection (ābhāsa) and darkness (tamaḥ) — an example of different perceptions of one and the same thing —*

যৈছে সূর্য্যের স্থানে ভাসয়ে ‘আভাস’ । yaiche sūryera sthāne bhāsaye ‘ābhāsa’

as of the sun in the place appears the reflection sūrya vinā svataḥ tāra nā haya prakāśa the sun without by itself its not is manifestation

115 Just as a reflection (ābhāsa) appears in place of the sun, yet has no manifestation of its own without the sun,

*The sambandha-tattva is defined through “jñāna” and “vijñāna” —*

মায়াতীত হৈলে হয় আমার ‘অনুভব’ । এই ‘সম্বন্ধ’-তত্ত্ব কহিলুঁ, শুন আর সব ॥ ১১৬ ॥

māyātīta haile haya āmāra ‘anubhava’ beyond māyā when one goes there is of Me realisation ei ‘sambandha’-tattva kahiluṁ, śuna āra saba this sambandha truth I have told hear the rest all 116 so one realises Me only on going beyond māyā. I have told you the truth of sambandha; now hear all the rest.

Anubhāṣya.

Jñāna is the meaning of the scriptures; vijñāna is realisation (anubhava). Discrimination (viveka) that comes from any source other than the guru or the scriptures is often a product of the mind (manodharma) or leans towards the featureless. When discrimination dawns from one’s own realisation, one perceives the form of Bhagavān. Bhagavān’s own form is distinct from māyā and from māyic activity. Until vijñāna arises, the jīva has no such understanding. The rays are manifest in the sun, yet the rays are distinct from the sun, and without the sun the rays cannot manifest on their own. In the same way Bhagavān and māyā are two different (heterogeneous) perceptions. Unless the jīva has gone beyond māyā, he does not realise this: with an intellect confined within māyā, the form of Bhagavān cannot be understood.

*The second verse of the Catuḥ-ślokī — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 2, Chapter 9, verse 33)*

ঋতেঽর্থং যৎ প্রতীয়েত ন প্রতীয়েত চাত্মনি ৷

117 "Whatever appears to exist apart from Me, the Reality, and does not appear in Me, know that to be My māyā, like a reflection and like darkness." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.33)[14]

*In the third verse — a consideration of how, on the path of śruti, the abhidheya, sādhana-bhakti, is necessary regardless of place, time, person and circumstance —*

118 Now hear the consideration of abhidheya, sādhana-bhakti, which extends to all people in every place, time and circumstance.

Anubhāṣya.

The abhidheya, "sādhana-bhakti," extends to all persons, places, times and circumstances.

*The abhidheya, sādhana-bhakti, is beyond the four aims of life (catur-varga) —*

ধর্ম্মাদি' বিষয়ে যৈছে এ 'চারি' বিচার । সাধন-ভক্তি — এই চারি বিচারের পার ॥ ১১৯ ॥

'dharmādi' viṣaye yaiche e 'cāri' vicāra in dharma and the rest in matters as these four considerations sādhana-bhakti-ei cāri vicārera pāra sādhana-bhakti these four considerations beyond

119 In matters of dharma and the rest, people weigh the four aims of life; but sādhana-bhakti lies beyond all four.[15]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

In the dharma-śāstras, for the sake of learning from the guru, four truths are examined: dharma, artha, kāma and mokṣa. In the same way the scriptures on the Truth (tattva-śāstras), to examine it in like manner, give instruction on "jñāna," "vijñāna," "tad-aṅga" (its limb) and "tad-rahasya" (its secret). But here it should be noted that the four subjects beginning with dharma follow the ordinary laws of worldly life. With the four subjects of the Truth (jñāna and the rest) the matter is different: even sādhana-bhakti, the first of them, stands above the four truths beginning with dharma — that is, it is superior to them.

Serving a genuine guru and inquiring from him, one must, along with divine knowledge, hear about the truth of pure devotion —

সর্ব্ব-দেশ-কাল-দশায় জনের কর্ত্তব্য ।
গুরু-পাশে সেই ভক্তি প্রষ্টব্য, শ্রোতব্য ॥ ১২০ ॥

120 In every place, time and circumstance it is the duty of all people to ask the guru about that bhakti and to hear of it from him.

*The fourth verse describes the "secret," the whole of which the abhidheya is a limb — that is, the prayojana. In the devotee's heart is Bhagavān, conquered by the devotee's love; in Bhagavān's heart is the devotee, conquered by love for Bhagavān: their forms are joined together, locked in embrace.*

Anubhāṣya.
As the five elements are within and without living beings, so I am manifest within and without My devotees. The devotees know themselves to be forms that are instruments (upakaraṇa-vigrahas) for serving Bhagavān with love, and they know everything other than the devotees, too, simply as instruments for serving Bhagavān with love.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Hari destroys all sins even when His name is uttered unwittingly. He does not leave the heart of one in whose heart His lotus feet are bound with the rope of love (praṇaya); such a person is "the foremost of bhāgavatas."

Anubhāṣya.
When Nimi, the king of Videha, asked about the marks, conduct and gradations of the three kinds of devotees, or bhāgavatas, Havi Ṛṣi, one of the nine Yogendras, said in reply:

128 "Singing loudly of Him alone, the gopīs searched together from forest to forest like madwomen. They asked the trees about that Person who, like the sky, is present within and without all beings." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.30.4)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Gathered together, the gopīs sang loudly of Kṛṣṇa's qualities and, as if mad, began to search for Him from forest to forest. They began to ask the trees (vanaspatis) about that Supreme Person, Kṛṣṇa, who like the sky is present outside and within all beings.

Anubhāṣya.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa suddenly vanished from the place of the rāsa together with Śrī Rādhā. The gopīs, their minds absorbed in Kṛṣṇa, full of Kṛṣṇa, began to imitate Kṛṣṇa's various deeds and, tormented by separation, searched for Him everywhere. Śrī Śukadeva sings of this before Parīkṣit.

Here another reading quotes two more verses.[37] (1) Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.5.23: "Before creation Bhagavān alone existed — the Ātmā and Lord of all souls. When His desire [to create] was withdrawn into Himself, He, the Ātmā, remained alone, marked by many attributes." That is, before creation this universe was one with Bhagavān. He is the goal (artha) of the jīvas and is marked by the attributes of manifold opulences such as Vaikuṇṭha; at that time the desire to create and the like lay merged in Him, and that Bhagavān abode as the nondual Truth. (2) Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.3.28: "All these (avatāras) are portions (aṁśa) and parts of portions (kalā) of the Puruṣa, but Kṛṣṇa is Bhagavān Himself. Age after age They bring happiness to the world when it is troubled by the enemies of Indra."

*Everywhere in the Bhāgavatam the truths of sambandha, abhidheya and prayojana are described —*

Here, as one can see, a variant reading quotes two more verses. (1) Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.14.20: "O Uddhava, neither yoga nor sāṅkhya, neither dharma nor study of the Vedas, neither austerity nor renunciation can win Me as intense devotion to Me does" (see Ādi 17.76). (2) Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.2.37: "For one who has turned away from the Lord, fear arises from absorption in what is other than Him; by His māyā come forgetfulness of the Lord and a false idea of oneself. Therefore the wise, seeing the guru as his worshipful deity and his very self, should worship the Lord with exclusive devotion" (see Madhya 20.119).

134 “Remembering Hari, who takes away hosts of sins, and reminding one another of Him, they bear bodies thrilled by the devotion (prema-bhakti) born of devotion (sādhana-bhakti).” (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Remembering Hari, who destroys masses of sin, and reminding one another of Him, they bear bodies whose hair stands on end through prema-bhakti born of sādhana-bhakti.

Anubhāṣya.

While describing the bhāgavata-dharma to Vasudeva, Śrī Nārada recounts the dialogue between Nimi, the king of Videha, and the nine Yogendras. Nimi asked, “How can people who lack understanding and take themselves to be the body easily conquer māyā?” In answer, Prabuddha Ṛṣi, one of the nine Yogendras, describes what the conditioned soul attains. Taking shelter at the lotus feet of the guru, he practices without offence the devotion called kīrtana; thus he is freed from anarthas and then attains the goal of practice, bhāva-bhakti.

(Of the sādhakas who live in this way,) bhaktyā (by sādhana-bhakti) sañjātayā (attained) bhaktyā (by devotion whose mark is prema) aghaugha-haraṁ (who destroys heaps of sins) hariṁ smarantaḥ mithaḥ (to one another) smārayantaḥ (chanting together) ca (these devotees) utpulakāṁ (with hair standing on end) tanuṁ bibhrati (bear).

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
This Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the meaning of the Brahma-sūtra, the settled purport of the Mahābhārata and a commentary on the Gāyatrī; the meaning of all the Vedas enriches it. The Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam contains 18,000 verses.

Anubhāṣya.

Here a variant reading quotes one more verse: "Among the Purāṇas it is the Sāma[-veda]; it was spoken by Bhagavān Himself; it has twelve cantos and a hundred divisions."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam may be called the essence of Vedānta. One who is satisfied by the nectar of the Bhāgavatam's rasa finds no taste (rati) in any other scripture.

Anubhāṣya.

The mahā-bhāgavata Śrī Sūta finished narrating the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam before the sages headed by Śaunaka and stated the number of verses in the eighteen mahā-purāṇas. Then, concluding, he again glorifies the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam:

satyaṁ paraṁ (the Supreme Truth) — sambandha dhīmahi (let us meditate) — in sādhana (abhidheya) prayojana

140 This book begins with the meaning of the Gāyatrī: “satyaṁ param” (the Supreme Truth) is the sambandha, and “dhīmahi” (let us meditate) is both the practice (sādhana) and the goal (prayojana).

Anubhāṣya.
The meaning of the Gāyatrī is contained already in the first verse of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. The Supreme Truth is the sambandha; the effort of meditation, that is, the practice of sādhana-bhakti, is the abhidheya; and the fruit obtained — meditation, that is, prema-bhakti — is the prayojana, the fruit to which the abhidheya leads.

143 The Śrī Bhāgavatam is the very form of the rasa of devotion to Kṛṣṇa; therefore its greatness surpasses that of the Vedic scriptures.

Anubhāṣya.
The Śrī Bhāgavatam is the very form of the rasa of devotion to Kṛṣṇa. The Vedic scriptures, made of the words of Bhagavān, are like a tree, and the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the ripe fruit of that tree. So when they are compared by degree, it stands far above the Vedas.

"Enriched by the meaning of the Vedas" — the ripe fruit of the Vedas —

144 "O rasikas, O bhāvukas on earth! Again and again drink the Bhāgavatam, the ripe fruit fallen from the wish-fulfilling tree of the Vedas, filled with nectarean juice from the mouth of Śuka: drink its rasa, which embraces even the bliss of liberation." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.3)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
This scripture, the Bhāgavatam, is the fruit fallen from the wish-fulfilling tree of the Vedas, joined with the nectarean juice from Śukadeva's mouth. O rasikas, always drink this fruit, which is rasa itself! O bhāvukas, until you are fully absorbed (parama-laya) in the truth of rasa, that is, until you are immersed in it, relish the Bhāgavatam in this world (as transcendental bhāvukas); and even when immersed, you will go on drinking this supreme rasa again and again, eternally.

Anubhāṣya.
In the third verse of the first chapter of the first canto of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, [the author] offers a maṅgalācaraṇa in the form of a blessing:

aho (O) rasikāḥ (knowers of the rasa of service to Bhagavān), bhāvukāḥ (adept at contemplating particular rasas), śuka-mukhāt (from the mouth of Śuka — in the succession of Vyāsa's disciples and their disciples) bhuvi (to the earth) galitam (descended whole and unbroken; fallen of itself because it is ripe, not plucked by force) amṛta-drava-saṁyutam (joined with, marked by, the juice — the rasa that is nectar, supreme bliss) nigama-kalpa-taroḥ (of the wish-fulfilling tree of the Vedas) rasam (free of hard, useless parts — rind, stones and the like — consisting of rasa alone) phalaṁ bhāgavatam ā-layam (up to and including the bliss of liberation) muhuḥ pibata (relish with the greatest reverence).

145 "We are never satiated with the exploits of Uttamaśloka, for to those who know rasa and hear of them they grow sweeter and sweeter at every step." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.19)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
The more we hear of the exploits of Kṛṣṇa, Uttamaśloka, the more our thirst grows; the satisfaction that would quench it never comes. For to listeners who know rasa, the accounts of Kṛṣṇa yield a [new] taste at every step.

Anubhāṣya.
In Naimiṣāraṇya the sages headed by Śaunaka, seating the mahā-bhāgavata Śrīla Sūta Gosvāmī before them, ask him to tell of Śrī Hari's pastimes and His avatāras, and describe their ever-growing thirst to hear:

yat (whose exploits) śṛṇvatāṁ (of those who hear) rasa-jñānāṁ (of the rasikas) pade pade (at every moment) svādu svādu (become sweeter than sweet — this must be supplied), tasmin uttamaḥśloka-vikrame (in the exploits of Kṛṣṇa — in the accounts of His qualities, His prowess and so on; His fame (śloka) is such that darkness (tamas) departs (ud-gacchati) from it, and this is what uttama means) vayaṁ tu (let others be satisfied if they will) na vitṛpyāmaḥ (are not fully satisfied, that is, we never think, "Enough").

*The purport of the Śruti lies in the Bhāgavatam alone —*

146 Therefore study the Bhāgavatam carefully: from it you will gain the essential meaning of the sūtras and the śruti.

Anubhāṣya.
If you study the Bhāgavatam, you will understand the true meaning, the essence, of the Brahma-sūtra and the Upaniṣads. Whoever wants to read Vedānta or grasp the meaning of the Upaniṣads without studying the Bhāgavatam will inevitably end up with an empty meaning.

‘ekaṣaṣṭi’ artha prabhu vivari’ kahila sixty-one meanings the Lord unfolding told

155 Then everyone insisted on hearing them, and the Lord unfolded the sixty-one meanings in detail.

The Lord’s learning amazes everyone, and they recognise Him as the Supreme Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa —

শুনিয়া লোকের বড় চমৎকার হৈল ।
চৈতন্যগোসাঞি — ‘শ্রীকৃষ্ণ’, নির্দ্ধারিল ॥ ১৫৬ ॥

śuniyā lokera baḍa camatkāra haila hearing of the people great amazement arose caitanya-gosāñi — 'śrī-kṛṣṇa', nirddhārila
Caitanya Gosāñi — Śrī Kṛṣṇa they concluded

156 Hearing them, the people were struck with wonder and concluded that Caitanya Gosāñi is Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself.

The Lord returns to His residence —

এত কহি' উঠিয়া চলিলা গৌরহরি । নমস্কার করে লোক হরিধ্বনি করি' ॥ ১৫৭ ॥ eta kahi' uṭhiyā calilā gaurahari

thus having spoken rising went Gaurahari namaskāra kare loka hari-dhvani kari' obeisances offer the people the sound of 'Hari' making

157 Having said this, Gaurahari rose and left, and the people bowed down to Him, calling out the name of Hari.

A flood of kīrtana in Kāśī —

সব কাশীবাসী করে নামসংকীর্ত্তন ।
প্রেমে হাসে, কাঁদে, গায়, করয়ে নর্ত্তন ॥ ১৫৮ ॥

saba kāśī-vāsī kare nāma-saṁkīrtana all of Kāśī the residents perform saṅkīrtana of the Name preme hāse, kāṁde, gāya, karaye nartana in love laugh weep sing perform dance

158 All the residents of Kāśī took up the saṅkīrtana of the Name; in love they laughed, wept, sang and danced.

The Lord delivers Kāśī —

সন্ন্যাসী পণ্ডিত করে ভাগবত বিচার । বারাণসীপুর প্রভু করিলা নিস্তার ॥ ১৫৯ ॥

sannyāsī paṇḍita kare bhāgavata vicāra
the sannyāsīs the paṇḍitas do of the Bhāgavata study vārāṇasī-pura prabhu karilā nistāra
Vārāṇasī the city the Lord made deliverance

159 The sannyāsīs and paṇḍitas began to study the Bhāgavatam. Thus the Lord delivered the city of Vārāṇasī.

With the Lord's coming, Kāśī resounds with the tumult of Kṛṣṇa's names —

নিজ-লোক লঞা প্রভু আইলা বাসাঘর । বারাণসী হৈল দ্বিতীয় নদীয়া-নগর ॥ ১৬০ ॥

nija-loka lañā prabhu āilā vāsāghara
His own people taking the Lord came to His lodging vārāṇasī haila dvitīya nadīyā-nagara
Vārāṇasī became a second Nadīyā town

160 Taking His own people with Him, the Lord came back to His lodging. Vārāṇasī had become a second Nadīyā.

At the devotees' urging, the Lord distributes to the people of Kāśī — gripped by Māyāvāda and averse to Kṛṣṇa's name and to prema — without regard to qualification and for the trifling price of faith, His inexhaustible treasury of the name and prema, rare even for Brahmā —

নিজগণ লঞা প্রভু কহে হাস্য করি' । কাশীতে আমি আইলাঙ বেচিতে ভাবকালি ॥ ১৬১ ॥

nija-gaṇa lañā prabhu kahe hāsya kari'
His own associates with the Lord says a smile making kāśīte āmi āilāṅa vecite bhāvakāli to Kāśī I came to sell the wares of bhāva

161 Surrounded by His own associates, the Lord said with a smile, "I came to Kāśī to sell My wares of ecstatic feeling (bhāva).

কাশীতে গ্রাহক নাহি, বস্তু না বিকায় । পুনরপি দেশে বহি' লওয়া নাহি যায় ॥ ১৬২ ॥

kāśīte grāhaka nāhi, vastu nā vikāya in Kāśī a buyer there is not the goods not sell punarapi deśe vahi' laoyā nāhi yāya again to My country carrying to take not is possible

162 In Kāśī there were no buyers, and the goods would not sell; yet they could not be carried back home again.

আমি বোঝা বহিমু, তোমা-সবার দুঃখ হইল । তোমা-সবার ইচ্ছায় বিনামূল্যে বিলাইল ॥ ১৬৩ ॥

āmi bojhā vahimu, tomā-sabāra duḥkha haila
I the load would carry of you all sorrow arose tomā-sabāra icchāya vinā-mūlye bilāila of you all by the wish without price I distributed

163 I would have carried the load back, but you were all grieved; so, by your wish, I have given it away free of charge."

All the devotees speak of the flood of prema in Kāśī and praise the Lord —

সবে কহে, — লোক তারিতে তোমার অবতার ।
'পূর্ব্ব' 'দক্ষিণ' 'পশ্চিম' করিলা নিস্তার ॥ ১৬৪ ॥

sabe kahe, — loka tārite tomāra avatāra
all say — the people to deliver Your descent
'pūrva' 'dakṣiṇa' 'paścima' karilā nistāra
the east the south the west You have made deliverance

164 Everyone said, "You have descended to deliver the people. You have delivered the east, the south and the west.

'এক' বারাণসী ছিল তোমাতে বিমুখ । তাহা নিস্তারিয়া কৈলা আমা-সবার সুখ ॥ ১৬৫ ॥

'eka' vārāṇasī chila tomāte vimukha only one Vārāṇasī was from You turned away tāhā nistāriyā kailā āmā-sabāra sukha
it having delivered You made of us all happiness

165 Vārāṇasī alone was turned away from You; by delivering it, You have made us all happy."

Countless people gather every day; in the cramped place they cannot see the Lord —

বারাণসী-গ্রামে যদি কোলাহল হইল । শুনি' গ্রামী দেশী লোক আসিতে লাগিল ॥ ১৬৬ ॥ vārāṇasī-grāme yadi kolāhala haila in Vārāṇasī town when an uproar arose śuni' grāmī deśī loka āsite lāgila hearing villagers country people to come began

166 When the uproar arose in the town of Vārāṇasī, people from the villages and the countryside heard of it and began to come.

লক্ষ কোটি লোক আইসে, নাহিক গণন । সঙ্কীর্ণস্থানে প্রভুর না পায় দরশন ॥ ১৬৭ ॥

lakṣa koṭi loka āise, nāhika gaṇana lakhs crores of people come there is no counting saṅkīrṇa-sthāne prabhura nā pāya daraśana in the cramped place of the Lord not get sight

167 People came in hundreds of thousands, in millions, beyond counting; in that cramped place they could not get a sight of the Lord.

When the Lord goes to see Viśveśvara, countless thirsting people get to see

Him —

প্রভু যবে স্নানে যান বিশ্বেশ্বর-দরশনে । দুইদিকে লোক করে প্রভু বিলোকনে ॥ ১৬৮ ॥

prabhu yabe snāne yāna viśveśvara-daraśane
the Lord when to bathe goes to see Viśveśvara dui dike loka kare prabhu vilokane on two sides the people make of the Lord beholding

168 Whenever the Lord went to bathe or to see Viśveśvara, people lined both sides of the way to behold Him.

Everyone calls out "Hari bol!" —

বাহু তুলি' প্রভু কহে — বল 'কৃষ্ণ' 'হরি' । দণ্ডবৎ করে লোকে হরিধ্বনি করি' ॥ ১৬৯ ॥

bāhu tuli' prabhu kahe — bala 'kṛṣṇa' 'hari' arms raising the Lord says — say 'Kṛṣṇa' 'Hari' daṇḍavat kare loke hari-dhvani kari' prostrated obeisances offer the people the sound of 'Hari' making 169 Raising His arms, the Lord would say, "Say 'Kṛṣṇa!' Say 'Hari!'" and the people fell down before Him, calling out the name of Hari.

After five days in Kāśī the Lord sets out for Purī —

এইমত দিন পঞ্চ লোক নিস্তারিয়া । আর দিন চলিলা প্রভু উদ্বিগ্ন হঞা ॥ ১৭০ ॥

ei mata dina pañca loka nistāriyā in this way days five the people delivering āra dina calilā prabhu udvigna hañā the next day departed the Lord uneasy becoming 170 In this way the Lord delivered the people for five days; the next day He set out, His heart uneasy.

Five devotees follow the Lord —

রাতে উঠি' প্রভু যদি করিলা গমন । পাছে লাগ্ লইলা তবে ভক্ত পঞ্চজন ॥ ১৭১ ॥

rāte uṭhi' prabhu yadi karilā gamana at night rising the Lord when made departure pāche lāg lailā tabe bhakta pañca jana behind following took then devotees five persons

171 When the Lord rose at night and set off, five devotees followed close behind Him:

The names of the five devotees —

তপন মিশ্র, রঘুনাথ, মহারাষ্ট্রীয় ব্রাহ্মণ । চন্দ্রশেখর, কীর্ত্তনীয়া-পরমানন্দ — পঞ্চজন ॥ ১৭২ ॥

tapana miśra, raghunātha, mahārāṣṭrīya brāhmaṇa Tapana Miśra Raghunātha the Mahārāṣṭrian brāhmaṇa candraśekhara, kīrtanīyā-paramānanda — pañca jana Candraśekhara Paramānanda the kīrtana singer — five persons 172 Tapana Miśra, Raghunātha, the brāhmaṇa from Mahārāṣṭra, Candraśekhara and Paramānanda the kīrtana singer — these were the five.

All want to go with the Lord to Purī, but He bids them farewell —

সবে চাহে প্রভু-সঙ্গে নীলাচল যাইতে । সবারে বিদায় দিলা প্রভু যত্ন-সহিতে ॥ ১৭৩ ॥

sabe cāhe prabhu-saṅge nīlācala yāite all wish with the Lord to Nīlācala to go sabāre vidāya dilā prabhu yatna-sahite to all leave gave the Lord with care

173 All of them wished to go to Nīlācala with the Lord, but He took leave of them all with loving care:

[The Lord] wishes to go to Purī alone, by the Jhārikhaṇḍa road —

যাঁর ইচ্ছা, পাছে আইস আমারে দেখিতে । এবে আমি একা যাব ঝারিখণ্ড পথে ॥ ১৭৪ ॥

yāṁra icchā, pāche āisa āmāre dekhite whose wish later come Me to see ebe āmi ekā yāba jhārikhaṇḍa pathe
now I alone shall go of Jhārikhaṇḍa by the path

174 "Whoever wishes may come later to see Me; now I shall go alone by the path through Jhārikhaṇḍa."

[The Lord] sends Sanātana to Vṛndāvana, to Rūpa and Anupama —

সনাতনে কহিলা, — তুমি যাহ' বৃন্দাবন । তোমার দুই ভাই তথা কৈরাছে গমন ॥ ১৭৫ ॥

sanātane kahilā, — tumi yāha' vṛndāvana to Sanātana He said — you go to Vṛndāvana tomāra dui bhāi tathā kairāche gamana your two brothers there have made their way

175 To Sanātana He said, "Go to Vṛndāvana. Your two brothers have already gone there.

In a voice full of compassion, Bhagavān, who loves His devotees, instructs Sanātana to look after the happiness of His devotees who travel to Vṛndāvana

কাঁথা-করঙ্গিয়া মোর কাঙ্গাল ভক্তগণ । বৃন্দাবনে আইলে তাঁদের করিহ পালন ॥ ১৭৬ ॥

kāṁthā-karaṅgiyā mora kāṅgāla bhakta-gaṇa with a patched quilt and a water pot My penniless devotees vṛndāvane āile tāṁdera kariha pālana to Vṛndāvana when they come them do take care of 176 My penniless devotees, who own only a patched quilt and a water pot — when they come to Vṛndāvana, take care of them."

Embracing everyone, the detached Lord departs; the devotees fall unconscious —

এত বলি' চলিলা প্রভু সবা আলিঙ্গিয়া । সবেই পড়িলা তথা মূর্চ্ছিত হঞা ॥ ১৭৭ ॥ eta bali' calilā prabhu sabā āliṅgiyā thus saying went the Lord all embracing sabei paḍilā tathā mūrcchita hañā all fell there unconscious becoming 177 Saying this, the Lord embraced them all and departed, and they all fell to the ground unconscious.

The five devotees return to Kāśī, and Sanātana sets out for Vṛndāvana —

কতক্ষণে উঠি' সবে দুঃখে ঘরে আইলা । সনাতন-গোসাঞি বৃন্দাবনেরে চলিলা ॥ ১৭৮ ॥

kata-kṣaṇe uṭhi' sabe duḥkhe ghare āilā after a while rising all in sorrow home came sanātana-gosāñi vṛndāvanere calilā
Sanātana Gosāñi for Vṛndāvana set out

178 After a while they got up and returned home in sorrow, and Sanātana Gosāñi set out for Vṛndāvana.

Rūpa Gosvāmī meets Subuddhi Rāya —

179 Meanwhile, when Rūpa Gosāñi came to Mathurā, Subuddhi Rāya met him at Dhruva-ghāṭa.

The earlier history of Subuddhi Rāya and Husain Shāh —

180 Formerly, when Subuddhi Rāya was a governor (adhikārī) in Gauḍa, Saiyad Husain Khān was in his service.

a fault finding Rāya him with a whip struck

181 Rāya put him in charge (munsīph) of digging a large pond; finding a fault in his work, Rāya struck him with a whip.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Munsīph: the word munsīph comes from the word insāph (justice). One who takes charge of some matter on behalf of the principal owner is called a munsīph. Chidra pāñā — finding a fault.

পাছে যবে হুসেন-খাঁ গৌড়ে 'রাজা' হইল ।

182 Later, when Husain Khān became king of Gauḍa, he greatly advanced Subuddhi Rāya.

subuddhi rāyere mārite kahe rājā-sthāne
Subuddhi Rāya to kill says to the king

183 His wife saw the marks of the whipping on his body and urged the king to have Subuddhi Rāya killed.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
"His wife" — Husain Shāh's begum. "The mark of the blow" — the mark of the whip with which Subuddhi Rāya had struck him.

রাজা কহে, — আমার পোষ্টা রায় হয় 'পিতা' ।

tāhāre māriba āmi, — bhāla nahe kathā

184 The king said, "Rāya has been my patron; he is a father to me. That I should kill him — such talk is not right."

স্ত্রী কহে, — ‘জাতি’ লহ’, যদি প্রাণে না মারিবে । রাজা কহে, — জাতি নিলে ইঁহো নাহি জীবে ॥ ১৮৫ ॥

rājā kahe, — jāti nile iṁho nāhi jībe

185 His wife said, “If you will not take his life, then take his caste.” The king said, “If his caste is taken, he will not survive.”

স্ত্রী মরিতে চাহে, রাজা সঙ্কটে পড়িল ।

strī marite cāhe, rājā saṅkaṭe paḍila the wife to die wishes the king into a dilemma fell karoṁyāra pāni tāra mukhe deoyāila from a karoyā water his into the mouth had put 186 His wife threatened to die, and the king was caught in a dilemma. At last he had water from a Muslim’s water pot (karoyā) put into Subuddhi Rāya’s mouth.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Karoyāra pāni: a karoyā is the vessel in which Muslims keep water. From such a karoyā, water touched by Muslims was put into Subuddhi Rāya’s mouth.

Subuddhi Rāya comes alone to Kāśī —

তবে সুবুদ্ধি-রায় সেই ‘ছদ্ম’ পাঞা । বারাণসী আইলা, সব বিষয় ছাড়িয়া ॥ ১৮৭ ॥

tabe subuddhi-rāya sei ‘chadma’ pāñā then Subuddhi Rāya that pretext obtaining vārāṇasī āilā, saba viṣaya chāḍiyā to Vārāṇasī came all worldly affairs giving up

187 Taking this as his pretext (chadma), Subuddhi Rāya gave up all his worldly affairs and came to Vārāṇasī.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Chadma — a pretext. Subuddhi Rāya had already wished to give up worldly affairs; on the pretext of the loss of caste he left his family.

*He asks the smārta paṇḍitas what atonement to perform, and different people prescribe different things —*

they say — boiling ghee drinking give up your life

188 He asked the paṇḍitas what atonement he should perform. They said, “Drink boiling ghee and give up your life.”

Subuddhi Rāya doubts the atonements prescribed to him —

কেহ কহে, — এই নহে, ‘অল্প’ দোষ হয় । শুনিয়া রহিলা রায় করিয়া সংশয় ॥ ১৮৯ ॥

keha kahe, — ei nahe, ‘alpa’ doṣa haya

śuniyā rahilā rāya kariyā saṁśaya

189 Another said, “Not so: the fault is slight.” Hearing this, Rāya was left in doubt.

When the Lord comes to Kāśī, [Subuddhi Rāya] tells Him everything and asks what atonement he should perform —

তবে যদি মহাপ্রভু বারাণসী আইলা ।

190 Then, when Mahāprabhu came to Vārāṇasī, Rāya met Him and told Him his story.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Subuddhi Rāya met Mahāprabhu when the Lord came to Vārāṇasī before going to Mathurā.

The Lord gives the best of all prescriptions and instructs Subuddhi Rāya —

প্রভু কহে, — ইঁহা হৈতে যাহ' বৃন্দাবন । নিরন্তর কর কৃষ্ণনামসংকীর্ত্তন ॥ ১৯১ ॥

the Lord says — from here go to Vṛndāvana nirantara kara kṛṣṇa-nāma-saṁkīrtana constantly do saṅkīrtana of Kṛṣṇa's name

191 The Lord said, "Go from here to Vṛndāvana and always chant the name of Kṛṣṇa in saṅkīrtana.

*The different fruits of nāmābhāsa and of the pure name —*

এক 'নামাভাসে' তোমার পাপ-দোষ যাবে ।

by one semblance of the Name (nāmābhāsa) your sins and faults will go āra 'nāma' laite kṛṣṇa-caraṇa pāibe and the Name taking Kṛṣṇa's feet you will attain

192 By the mere semblance of the holy name (nāmābhāsa) your sin and its taint will go; and by chanting the Name itself you will attain Kṛṣṇa's feet.

আর কৃষ্ণনাম লৈতে কৃষ্ণস্থানে স্থিতি ।

193 Chanting Kṛṣṇa's name further, you will dwell in Kṛṣṇa's abode. This is the atonement even for the greatest sins."

gaṅgā-tīra-pathe prabhu prayāgere āilā by the Gaṅgā bank path the Lord to Prayāga came tāhā śuni' dui bhāi se pathe calilā that hearing the two brothers by that path went

202 The Lord had come to Prayāga by the path along the bank of the Gaṅgā; hearing this, the two brothers went by that same path.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
"Hearing of this": in Mathurā Rūpa Gosvāmī heard that earlier Mahāprabhu had gone to Mathurā by the road along the Gaṅgā; now, eager to see that road, he came the same way with Anupama.

Meanwhile Sanātana comes from Prayāga to Mathurā —

এথা সনাতন গোসাঞি প্রয়াগে আসিয়া । মথুরা আইলা সনাতন রাজপথ দিয়া ॥ ২০৩ ॥

ethā sanātana gosāñi prayāge āsiyā meanwhile Sanātana Gosāñi to Prayāga coming mathurā āilā sanātana rāja-patha diyā to Mathurā came Sanātana the royal road by 203 Meanwhile Sanātana Gosāñi, having come to Prayāga, went on to Mathurā by the royal road.

In Mathurā [Sanātana] meets Rāya and hears about Rūpa and Anupama —

মথুরাতে সুবুদ্ধি-রায় তাঁহারে মিলিলা । রূপ-অনুপম-কথা সকলি কহিলা ॥ ২০৪ ॥

mathurāte subuddhi-rāya tāṁhāre mililā in Mathurā Subuddhi Rāya him met rūpa-anupama-kathā sakali kahilā of Rūpa and Anupama the news all told

204 In Mathurā Subuddhi Rāya met him and told him all the news of Rūpa and Anupama.

Why the three brothers did not meet —

গঙ্গাপথে দুইভাই রাজপথে সনাতন । অতএব তাঁহা সনে না হৈল মিলন ॥ ২০৫ ॥

gaṅgā-pathe dui bhāi rāja-pathe sanātana by the Gaṅgā path the two brothers by the royal road Sanātana ataeva tāṁhā sane nā haila milana therefore with them together not took place meeting

205 The two brothers went by the Gaṅgā path and Sanātana by the royal road; that is why he did not meet them.

Rāya treats Sanātana as was fitting before his renunciation; Sanātana does not welcome it and stays indifferent —

সুবুদ্ধি-রায় বহু স্নেহ করে সনাতনে । ব্যবহার-স্নেহ সনাতন নাহি মানে ॥ ২০৬ ॥

subuddhi-rāya bahu sneha kare sanātane Subuddhi Rāya much affection shows to Sanātana vyavahāra-sneha sanātana nāhi māne of worldly relations affection Sanātana not accepts

206 Subuddhi Rāya showed Sanātana great affection, but Sanātana would not accept an affection rooted in worldly relationships (vyavahārasneha).

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Vyavahāra-sneha — affection rooted in worldly relationships.

Sanātana Prabhu, the great renunciant, searching for Kṛṣṇa —

মহা-বিরক্ত সনাতন ভ্রমেন বনে বনে ।
প্রতিবৃক্ষে, প্রতিকুঞ্জে রহে রাত্রি-দিনে ॥ ২০৭ ॥

mahā-virakta sanātana bhramena vane vane greatly renounced Sanātana wanders in forest after forest prati-vṛkṣe, prati-kuñje rahe rātri-dine under every tree in every grove stays night and day

207 Supremely renounced, Sanātana wandered from forest to forest, staying night and day now under one tree, now in another grove.

Sanātana performs the work of an ācārya of the sampradāya —

মথুরামাহাত্ম্য-শাস্ত্র সংগ্রহ করিয়া । লুপ্ততীর্থ প্রকট কৈলা বনেতে ভ্রমিয়া ॥ ২০৮ ॥

mathurā-māhātmya-śāstra saṅgraha kariyā on the glory of Mathurā of scriptures collection making lupta-tīrtha prakaṭa kailā vanete bhramiyā lost holy places manifest made in the forests wandering

208 He collected the scriptures on the glories of Mathurā and, wandering through the forests, brought the lost holy places to light.

Sanātana stays in Vṛndāvana, while Rūpa and Anupama stay in Kāśī —

এইমত সনাতন বৃন্দাবনেতে রহিলা । রূপ-গোসাঞি দুইভাই কাশীতে আইলা ॥ ২০৯ ॥

ei mata sanātana vṛndāvanete rahilā in this way Sanātana in Vṛndāvana stayed rūpa-gosāñi dui bhāi kāśīte āilā Rūpa Gosāñi the two brothers to Kāśī came

209 Thus Sanātana stayed in Vṛndāvana, while the two brothers, Rūpa Gosāñi and Anupama, came to Kāśī.

In Kāśī they meet the three devotees —

মহারাষ্ট্রীয় দ্বিজ, শেখর, মিশ্রতপন । তিনজন-সহ রূপ করিলা মিলন ॥ ২১০ ॥

mahārāṣṭrīya dvija, śekhara, miśra-tapana
the Mahārāṣṭrian brāhmaṇa Śekhara Tapana Miśra tina-jana-saha rūpa karilā milana with three persons Rūpa made meeting

210 There Rūpa met the three — the brāhmaṇa from Mahārāṣṭra, Candraśekhara and Tapana Miśra.

Śrī Rūpa and his younger brother also lodge in Śekhara's house and take their meals in Tapana Miśra's house —

শেখরের ঘরে বাসা, মিশ্র ঘরে ভিক্ষা । মিশ্রমুখে শুনে সনাতনে প্রভুর 'শিক্ষা' ॥ ২১১ ॥

śekharera ghare vāsā, miśra ghare bhikṣā in Śekhara's house lodging in Miśra's house meals miśra-mukhe śune sanātane prabhura 'śikṣā'
from Miśra's mouth hears to Sanātana the Lord's teachings

211 He lodged in Candraśekhara's house and took his meals in Miśra's house, and from Miśra he heard the teachings the Lord had given Sanātana.

[Śrī Rūpa] rejoices to hear how the Lord instructed Sanātana in Kāśī and delivered the Māyāvādī sannyāsīs —

কাশীতে প্রভুর চরিত্র শুনি' তিনের মুখে । সন্ন্যাসীরে কৃপা শুনি' পাইলা বড় সুখে ॥ ২১২ ॥

kāśīte prabhura caritra śuni' tinera mukhe in Kāśī the Lord's deeds hearing of the three from the mouths sannyāsīre kṛpā śuni' pāilā baḍa sukhe to the sannyāsīs mercy hearing he felt great happiness

212 Hearing from the three about the Lord's deeds in Kāśī, and of His mercy to the sannyāsīs, he was overjoyed.

Śrī Rūpa is happy to see the people's devotion to the Lord and to hear their kīrtana —

মহাপ্রভুর উপর লোকের প্রণতি দেখিয়া । সুখী হৈলা লোকমুখে কীর্ত্তন শুনিয়া ॥ ২১৩ ॥

mahāprabhura upara lokera praṇati dekhiyā towards Mahāprabhu of the people reverence seeing happy became from the people's mouths kīrtana hearing

213 Seeing the people's reverence for Mahāprabhu and hearing kīrtana from their lips, he rejoiced.

After ten days in Kāśī, Śrī Rūpa and his brother set out for Gauḍa —

দিন দশ রহি' রূপ গৌড়ে যাত্রা কৈল । সনাতন-রূপের এই চরিত্র কহিল ॥ ২১৪ ॥

dina daśa rahi' rūpa gauḍe yātrā kaila

sanātana-rūpera ei caritra kahila of Sanātana and Rūpa this account I have told

214 After staying ten days, Rūpa set out for Gauḍa. Thus I have told the story of Sanātana and Rūpa.

With His companion Balabhadra, the Lord, striving to find Kṛṣṇa, goes to Purī by the Jhārikhaṇḍa road as before —

এথা মহাপ্রভু যদি নীলাদ্রি চলিলা । নির্জ্জন বনপথে মহা-সুখ পাইলা ॥ ২১৫ ॥

215 Meanwhile, as Mahāprabhu went towards Nīlādri, He felt great joy on the solitary forest path.

as before with the deer and others together made various sports

216 Happily the Lord journeyed on with Balabhadra and, as before, sported in many ways with the deer and other creatures.

Arriving at Āṭhāranālā, [the Lord] sends Balabhadra to call the devotees in Purī —

আঠারনালাতে আসি' ভট্টাচার্য্য ব্রাহ্মণে । পাঠাঞা বোলাইলা নিজ-ভক্তগণে ॥ ২১৭ ॥

āṭhāranālāte āsi' bhaṭṭācārya brāhmaṇe sending summoned His own devotees

217 Coming to Āṭhāranālā, He sent the brāhmaṇa Bhaṭṭācārya ahead to call His devotees.

*Hearing of the Lord's arrival, the devotees seem to receive the mantra that revives the dead (mṛta-sañjīvanī) —*

শুনিয়া ভক্তের গণ যেন পুনরপি জীলা ৷
দেহে প্রাণ আইলে, — যেন ইন্দ্রিয় উঠিলা ॥ ২১৮ ॥

218 Hearing the news, the devotees seemed to come back to life — as the senses rise up when life returns to the body.

Coming to Narendra-sarovara, everyone sees the Lord —

আনন্দে বিহ্বল ভক্তগণ ধাঞা আইলা ৷

219 Overwhelmed with bliss, the devotees came running; at Narendra lake they all met the Lord.

The devotees and the Lord greet one another fittingly, with obeisances, embraces and so on —

225 Seeing Jagannātha, the Lord was overwhelmed with love, and for a long time He danced and sang with the devotees.

*[The Lord] receives Jagannātha's garland and prasāda; the paḍichā bows to Him —*

226 A servant of Jagannātha brought a garland and prasāda and gave them to Him, and Tulasī, the paḍichā, came and bowed at His feet.

The news of the Lord's arrival spreads everywhere; Rāya and the Bhaṭṭācārya come from Kaṭaka and see the Lord —

227 The town was in an uproar: "Mahāprabhu has come!" Sārvabhauma, Rāmānanda and Vāṇīnātha came to meet Him.[30]

The Lord stays in Kāśī Miśra's house; Sārvabhauma invites Him —

Wishing to honour prasāda with the devotees, [the Lord] has the prasāda brought —

A survey of the Madhya-līlā: for six of the 24 years [the Lord] travels through Bhārata, preaching the name and prema —

233 Thus I have given a brief survey of the Madhya-līlā — how for six years the Lord travelled away and came back.

The remaining 18 years [the Lord] rejoices in kīrtana with the devotees in Purī —

শেষ অষ্টাদশ বৎসর নীলাচলে বাস ।

234 The last eighteen years He lived in Nīlācala, enjoying the pastimes of kīrtana with His devotees.

*Following Vyāsa's practice in the Bhāgavatam, [the author] reviews the Madhya-līlā again by briefly describing its chapters —*

Kṛṣṇa-līlā and Caitanya-līlā are one undivided river of nectar, to be relished only by a devotee whose heart is pure —

কৃষ্ণলীলা অমৃত-সার, তার শত শত ধার,

264 Kṛṣṇa's līlā is the essence of nectar, and Caitanya's līlā is the inexhaustible lake from which it flows in hundreds upon hundreds of streams in all ten directions. Let the swan of your mind glide upon it.

The author's humble prayer —

ভক্তগণ, শুন মোর দৈন্য-বচন ।

265 O devotees, hear my humble words. Adorning my body with the dust of your feet, I lay a petition before you.[32]

[The author] asks the devotees to relish the conclusions of devotion and the rasa of love for Kṛṣṇa —

কৃষ্ণভক্তিসিদ্ধান্তগণ, যাতে প্রফুল্ল পদ্মবন,

266 In that lake the conclusions of devotion to Kṛṣṇa are a forest of blossoming lotuses: relish their honey. And the rasa of prema is a forest of kumuda lilies blooming night and day: there let the bees of your mind roam.

Anubhāṣya.

Kṛṣṇa-līlā alone is "the essence of nectar" (amṛta-sāra-vastu); everything else is "without essence" (asāra). Hundreds of streams of the essence of the nectar of Kṛṣṇa-līlā flow in all ten directions from the nectar of Kṛṣṇa-līlā. And the essence of the nectar of Kṛṣṇa-līlā is, in turn, Śrī Caitanya-līlā.

In our time, regarding Caitanya-līlā as separate from Kṛṣṇa-līlā, people are trying to create new doctrines — "Nadīyā-nāgarī," the "Gaura-nāgarī līlā" and others — produced by ever newer fancies. Some members of the Theosophical Society, and some of the other groups hostile to devotion, the prākṛta Bāuls and the Sahajiyās, cast Śrī Gaurāṅga in the mold of their own unruly worldly tendencies.

Some imagine Him a political leader, others a worshipper of Śakti, still others a libertine with illicit lovers (nāgarīs).

The eternal līlā of Goloka rises in the material world at the time of the Lord's manifestation. Yet at that time none of the associates of Gaura's līlā, headed by Śrī Rūpa, ever saw or knew of any "Gaura-nāgara-līlā"; so it is certainly not Caitanya-līlā. Devotion to Gaura must be practiced only by following in the footsteps of a Vaiṣṇava guru who follows Śrī Rūpa. There is no gain at all in plunging into the lake of fancy and forming "the party of the new Gorā"[39].

Caitanya-līlā is the inexhaustible lake; the conclusions of devotion to Kṛṣṇa are the lotus forest of that lake, the rasa of prema is the forest of kumuda lilies, and the devotees' minds are the bees.

The varieties of Kṛṣṇa's pastimes are the very life of the devotees —

নানা-ভাবের ভক্তজন, হংস-চক্রবাকগণ, যাতে সবে করেন বিহার ।
কৃষ্ণকেলি-মৃণাল, যাহা পাই' সর্ব্বকাল, ভক্ত-হংস করয়ে আহার ॥ ২৬৭ ॥

nānā-bhāvera bhakta-jana, haṁsa-cakravāka-gaṇa, of various bhāvas the devotees swans cakravākas
yāte sabe karena vihāra
in which all make sport
kṛṣṇa-keli-mṛṇāla, yāhā pāi' sarva-kāla, of Kṛṣṇa's play the lotus stems which finding at all times
bhakta-haṁsa karaye āhāra
the devotee swans make their food

267 Devotees of various bhāvas are the swans and cakravāka birds who all sport in its waters, and Kṛṣṇa's pastimes are the tender lotus stalks that the devotee-swans find at all times and feed upon.

Anubhāṣya.

The lotus stems of Kṛṣṇa's pastimes are the "food" of the swanlike devotees. The pastimes of Kṛṣṇacandra, the embodiment of the rasa of eternal sambhoga, are the food of the eternal servants who have taken shelter of Śrī Gaurasundara — the embodiment of the eternal rasa of vipralambha, whose body is nondifferent from Kṛṣṇa.

By such relishing, the joy of prema grows —

সেই সরোবরে গিয়া, হংস-চক্রবাক হঞা, সদা তাঁহা করহ বিলাস ।
খণ্ডিবে সকল দুঃখ, পাইবা পরম সুখ, অনায়াসে হবে প্রেমোল্লাস ॥ ২৬৮ ॥

sei sarovare giyā, haṁsa-cakravāka hañā, to that lake going swans cakravākas becoming sadā tāṁhā karaha vilāsa always there do enjoy khaṇḍibe sakala duḥkha, pāibā parama sukha, will be cut off all sorrows you will attain supreme happiness
anāyāse habe premollāsa
without effort there will be the elation of prema

268 Go to that lake, become swans and cakravākas, and sport there for ever. All your sorrows will be cut away, you will attain the highest happiness, and the elation of prema will come without effort.

Anubhāṣya.
O devotees of Gaura, plunge into the lake of Caitanya-līlā and, eternally serving Kṛṣṇa as swans and cakravākas sheltered at Śrī Gaura's feet, sport in the lake of worship of Śrī Gaura. Then you will not have to suffer the "sorrow" of serving someone other than Kṛṣṇa, which comes from imagining Gaurāṅga, as the "Nadīyā-nāgarī" do, to be some material object of enjoyment. You will attain the supreme happiness, service to Kṛṣṇa, and become intoxicated with the joy of love for Kṛṣṇa.

The pure devotees distribute to the people of the world the nectar of the pastimes of Gaura and Kṛṣṇa —

এই অমৃত অনুক্ষণ, সাধু মহান্ত-মেঘগণ, বিশ্বোদ্যানে করে বরিষণ ।
তাতে ফলে অমৃত-ফল, ভক্ত খায় নিরন্তর, তার প্রেমে জীয়ে জগজন ॥ ২৬৯ ॥

ei amṛta anukṣaṇa, sādhu mahānta-megha-gaṇa, this nectar constantly the sādhus great souls clouds viśvodyāne kare variṣaṇa
on the garden of the world make showering tāte phale amṛta-phala, bhakta khāya nirantara, by that grow nectarean fruits the devotees eat constantly tāra preme jīye jaga-jana
by their love live the people of the world

269 The sādhus and great souls, like clouds, constantly shower this nectar on the garden of the world. From it grow nectarean fruits. The devotees feast on them without cease, and the whole world lives by the love of these devotees.

Anubhāṣya.
The saintly mahāntas sheltered at Gaura's feet, like clouds, always shower the nectar of Kṛṣṇa-līlā on the garden of this world. This watering by streams of rain yields fruits — the nectar of prema; the devotees eat them constantly, and the people of the world live by that prema.

*Gaura-līlā is a filling of thickened milk, and Kṛṣṇa-līlā in it is fine camphor; one can relish them by the path of śruti, by the mercy of Hari, the guru and the Vaiṣṇavas —*

চৈতন্যলীলা — অমৃতপূর, কৃষ্ণলীলা — সুকর্পূর, দুহে মিলি' হয় সুমাধুর্য্য ।
সাধু-গুরু-প্রসাদে, তাহা যেই আস্বাদে, সেই জানে মাধুর্য্য-প্রাচুর্য্য ॥ ২৭০ ॥

caitanya-līlā — amṛta-pūra, kṛṣṇa-līlā — sukarpūra, Caitanya's līlā — a filling of nectar Kṛṣṇa's līlā — fine camphor duhe mili' haya sumādhurya
the two combining become exquisite sweetness sādhu-guru-prasāde, tāhā yei āsvāde, of the sādhus and guru by the grace that whoever relishes
sei jāne mādhurya-prācurya
he knows of sweetness the abundance

270 Caitanya's līlā is a filling of nectar (amṛta-pūra), and Kṛṣṇa's līlā is fine camphor; combined, the two become an exquisite sweetness. Whoever relishes it by the grace of the sādhus and the Guru knows the abundance of that sweetness.

Anubhāṣya.

The nectar of Caitanya-līlā is like the pūra, the filling made of that nectar of prema, and Kṛṣṇa-līlā is like fine camphor; only when these two nectars are joined is there excellent sweetness. The sweetness of Kṛṣṇa-līlā, nourished by the nectar of Caitanya-līlā, has become full of excellent sweetness.

The band of asuras hostile to Gaura do not accept Gaura's līlā or the Gaura-mantra; so they have no chance of tasting the sweetness of Kṛṣṇa-līlā. The band of daityas hostile to Kṛṣṇa, on the other hand, are indifferent to the nectar of Kṛṣṇa-līlā. Imagining themselves nāgarīs and following the "Nadīyā-nāgarī," they separate from Kṛṣṇa Gaura — the embodiment of the rasa of vipralambha, whose body is nondifferent from Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa — that is, they make Him an embodiment of the rasa of sambhoga; thus they uproot the sweetness of the variety of Gaura's līlā.

Abundant sweetness is relished only by joining the two līlās — when, by the mercy of sādhus and gurus who follow Śrī Rūpa, that is, by following Śrī Rūpa, one knows the nectar of Gaura-līlā and the nectar of Kṛṣṇa-līlā to be nondifferent from each other. A follower of Śrī Rūpa firmly believes in this alone.

*The nectar of these two līlās is the devotee's food; the two are inseparably*

one —

যে লীলামৃত বিনে, খায় যদি অন্নপানে, তবে ভক্তের দুর্ব্বল জীবন ৷ যার একবিন্দু-পানে, উৎফুল্লিত তনুমনে, ye līlāmṛta vine, khāya yadi anna-pāne, which the nectar of līlā without eats if food and drink tabe bhaktera durbala jīvana then of the devotee feeble the life yāra eka-bindu-pāne, utphullita tanu-mane, whose of a single drop by drinking blossoming in body and mind hāse, gāya, karaye nartana laughs sings does dancing

271 If a devotee takes food and drink without the nectar of this līlā, his life grows feeble; but by drinking a single drop of it he blossoms in body and mind, and laughs, sings and dances.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

People are nourished by food and drink. The devotees, though they too take food and drink as those averse to God do, grow weak if they do not drink the nectar of Caitanya-līlā mixed with Kṛṣṇa-līlā.

Anubhāṣya.

A variant reading: khāya yadi anupāne (“if he takes [food] with a drink”).

This nectar is hard to obtain by the path of reasoning —

এ অমৃত কর পান, যার সম নাহি আন, চিত্তে করি’ সুদৃঢ় বিশ্বাস ৷
না পড়’ কুতর্ক-গর্ত্তে, অমেধ্য কর্কশ আবর্ত্তে, যাতে পড়িলে হয় সর্ব্বনাশ ॥ ২৭২ ॥

nā paḍa' kutarka-garte, amedhya karkaśa āvarte, not fall into the pit of false argument into the impure harsh whirlpool yāte paḍile haya sarva-nāśa into which having fallen there is total ruin

272 Drink this nectar, which has no equal, with firm faith in your heart. Do not fall into the pit of false argument, into its impure and harsh whirlpool: whoever falls there meets total ruin.

Anubhāṣya.
If, regarding the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa and of Gaura as different from each other, one is swept along by the impure, harsh whirlwind rooted in false arguments, and gives up worship of Kṛṣṇa to worship Gaura, or gives up service to Gaura to serve Kṛṣṇa, the deluded jīva is utterly ruined.

Indifferent to the blame and praise of non-devotees, the author considers himself fulfilled by the devotees' happiness alone —

276 This most secret nectar of Gaura's līlā is surely not honoured by the common crowd: it lies beyond their reach. What loss is that to me? Relished on every side by the large-hearted and noble-minded, it increases their joy.[33]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

This most confidential nectar of Gaura's pastimes is the treasure of a devotee's life, but the unqualified will certainly not value it. That is no loss to me. On the contrary, all good-hearted sādhus have fully relished the nectar of these pastimes; may this book increase the joy of those great souls.

Thus ends the twenty-fifth chapter of the "Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya."

Anubhāṣya.
