“Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta”

Madhya-līlā

Chapter 19

The Mercy Shown to Śrī Rūpa

(English translation from the Bengali, following the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition and the Anubhāṣya, 2026)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya

Summary. After seeing Mahāprabhu in the village of Rāmakeli, Rūpa and Sanātana began to seek a way to give up their worldly affairs. To gain shelter at Caitanya’s feet, they had two puraścaraṇas of the “Kṛṣṇa mantra” performed. Rūpa Gosvāmī left ten thousand coins in Gauḍa, loaded all his accumulated wealth onto a boat and went to Bākalā-Candradvīpa. There he divided the money among the brāhmaṇas, the Vaiṣṇavas and his relatives, and set part of it aside to avert punishment and imprisonment. To learn on what day Mahāprabhu would set out for Vṛndāvana by the forest path, he sent two messengers to Puruṣottama-kṣetra. Meanwhile Śrī Sanātana Gosvāmī stayed at home on the pretext of illness and began to discuss the Bhāgavatam and other scriptures with paṇḍitas. The ruler of Gauḍa, the emperor Husain Shāh, first through a physician and then by seeing for himself, understood that Sanātana had given up the royal service on that pretext. He confined Sanātana in jail (prison) and himself marched to war against Orissa. When Mahāprabhu set out by the forest path, Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī, leaving home, sent word to Sanātana Gosvāmī and went with his brother Anupama Mallika to find Mahāprabhu. Reaching Prayāga, he stayed near Mahāprabhu for ten days. Meanwhile Vallabha Bhaṭṭa invited Mahāprabhu and showed Him special honour, and Mahāprabhu introduced Śrī Rūpa to Vallabha Bhaṭṭa. After that Raghupati Upādhyāya arrived there and had many conversations with Mahāprabhu about rasa. At this point Kavirāja Gosvāmī partly describes the life of Śrī Rūpa and Śrī Sanātana in Vraja. During the ten days in Prayāga Mahāprabhu taught Śrī Rūpa the truth of bhakti-rasa in the form of sūtras and ordered him to compose the Rasāmṛta-sindhu. Sending Śrī Rūpa from there to Vṛndāvana, Mahāprabhu went to Kāśī and stayed at the house of Candraśekhara.

Gaurasundara reveals through Śrī Rūpa the truth of Vraja's pastimes full of rasa —

বৃন্দাবনীয়াং রসকেলিবার্ত্তাং কালেন লুপ্তাং নিজশক্তিমুৎকঃ ।
সঞ্চার্য্য রূপে ব্যতনোৎ পুনঃ স প্রভুর্বিধৌ প্রাগিব লোকসৃষ্টিম্ ॥ ১ ॥

vṛndāvanīyāṁ rasa-keli-vārtāṁ of Vṛndāvana of the playful pastimes full of rasa the account
kālena luptāṁ nija-śaktim utkaḥ
by time lost His own power eager sañcārya rūpe vyatanot punaḥ sa having infused into Rūpa He spread again He prabhur vidhau prāg iva loka-sṛṣṭim
the Lord into Brahmā before as the creation of the world

1 Eager to restore the account of Vṛndāvana's pastimes full of rasa, which had been lost over time, the Lord infused His own power into Rūpa and spread it anew, just as long ago He had infused His power into Brahmā and so brought forth the creation of the world.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Before creation the Lord inspired in Brahmā's heart the truth about Bhagavān, comprising sambandha, abhidheya and prayojana. In the same way, full of eagerness, He infused His own power into Rūpa Gosvāmī and spread anew the account of Vṛndāvana's pastimes full of rasa, an account that had been lost over time.

Anubhāṣya.

saḥ prabhuḥ (Śrī Gaura) utkaḥ (being eager) loka-sṛṣṭim prāk (before the creation of the universe and so on) vidhau (into the Creator, Brahmā) iva rūpe (into Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī) nija-śaktim sañcārya (placing) kālena (by the course of time) luptāṁ (vanished) vṛndāvanīyāṁ rasa-keli-vārtāṁ (the account of the pastimes of the son of the King of Vraja in Vṛndāvana) punaḥ vyatanot (revealed).

জয় জয় শ্রীচৈতন্য জয় নিত্যানন্দ । জয়াদ্বৈতচন্দ্র জয় গৌরভক্তবৃন্দ ॥ ২ ॥

jaya jaya śrī-caitanya jaya nityānanda glory glory to Śrī Caitanya glory to Nityānanda jayādvaita-candra jaya gaura-bhakta-vṛnda glory to Advaitacandra glory of Gaura the devotees to the multitude

2 Glory, glory to Śrī Caitanya! Glory to Nityānanda! Glory to Advaitacandra! Glory to all the devotees of Gaura![1]

Having met the Lord, Rūpa and Sanātana return home —

শ্রীরূপ-সনাতন রহে রামকেলি-গ্রামে । প্রভুরে মিলিয়া, গেলা আপন-ভবনে ॥ ৩ ॥

śrī-rūpa-sanātana rahe rāmakeli-grāme Śrī Rūpa and Sanātana stayed in Rāmakeli village prabhure miliyā, gelā āpana-bhavane
with the Lord having met went to their own homes

3 Śrī Rūpa and Sanātana were staying in the village of Rāmakeli. Having met the Lord there, they returned to their own homes.

To give up worldly life and attain the Lord, the two brothers have puraścaraṇa performed —

দুইভাই বিষয়-ত্যাগের উপায় সৃজিল । বহুধন দিয়া দুই ব্রাহ্মণে বরিল ॥ ৪ ॥

duibhāi viṣaya-tyāgera upāya sṛjila
the two brothers of worldly affairs of giving up a means devised bahu-dhana diyā dui brāhmaṇe varila much wealth giving two brāhmaṇas they engaged

4 The two brothers devised a way to give up their worldly affairs: they engaged two brāhmaṇas and gave them much wealth.

কৃষ্ণমন্ত্রে করাইল দুই পুরশ্চরণ । অচিরাৎ পাইবারে চৈতন্য-চরণ ॥ ৫ ॥

kṛṣṇa-mantre karāila dui puraścaraṇa
with the mantra of Kṛṣṇa had performed two puraścaraṇas acirāt pāibāre caitanya-caraṇa
soon to attain Caitanya's feet

5 These brāhmaṇas performed two puraścaraṇas for them with the Kṛṣṇa mantra, so that the brothers might soon attain the feet of Caitanya.

Anubhāṣya.
Puraścaraṇa: see Madhya 15.108.

Śrī Rūpa comes home to Phateyābāda —

শ্রীরূপ গোসাঞি তবে নৌকাতে ভরিয়া । আপনার ঘরে আইলা বহুধন লঞা ॥ ৬ ॥

śrī-rūpa gosāñi tabe naukāte bhariyā Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī then a boat loading āpanāra ghare āilā bahu-dhana laña
to his own home came much wealth taking

6 Then Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī loaded a boat and came to his own home, bringing great wealth with him.

He gives half his wealth to brāhmaṇas and Vaiṣṇavas and a quarter to his relatives —

ব্রাহ্মণ-বৈষ্ণবে দিলা তার অর্দ্ধ-ধনে । এক চৌঠি ধন দিলা কুটুম্ব-ভরণে ॥ ৭ ॥

brāhmaṇa-vaiṣṇave dilā tāra ardha-dhane to brāhmaṇas and Vaiṣṇavas he gave of it half the wealth
eka cauṭhi dhana dilā kuṭumba-bharaṇe
one quarter of the wealth he gave for the support of his relatives

7 He gave half of that wealth to brāhmaṇas and Vaiṣṇavas, and a quarter for the support of his relatives.

He keeps a quarter of his wealth to escape future calamity —

দণ্ডবন্ধ লাগি' চৌঠি সঞ্চয় করিলা । ভাল-ভাল বিপ্র-স্থানে স্থাপ্য রাখিলা ॥ ৮ ॥

daṇḍa-bandha lāgi' cauṭhi sañcaya karilā punishment and imprisonment against a quarter savings he made bhāla-bhāla vipra-sthāne sthāpya rākhilā with trustworthy brāhmaṇas in deposit he kept

8 The remaining quarter he saved against punishment and imprisonment, leaving it on deposit with trustworthy brāhmaṇas.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Daṇḍa-bandha: to avert an impending calamity, such as royal punishment or imprisonment.

He leaves ten thousand coins in Gauḍa with Sanātana —

গৌড়ে রাখিল মুদ্রা দশ-হাজারে । সনাতন ব্যয় করে, রাখে মুদি-ঘরে ॥ ৯ ॥

gauḍe rākhila mudrā daśa-hājāre
in Gauḍa he left coins ten thousand sanātana vyaya kare, rākhe mudi-ghare
Sanātana spending makes keeps in a grocer's house

9 In Gauḍa he left ten thousand coins in the keeping of a grocer, for Sanātana to spend.

He hears that the Lord has gone to Purī and is preparing to go to Vṛndāvana —

শ্রীরূপ শুনিল প্রভুর নীলাদ্রি-গমন । বনপথে যাবেন প্রভু শ্রীবৃন্দাবন ॥ ১০ ॥

śrī-rūpa śunila prabhura nīlādri-gamana Śrī Rūpa heard the Lord's to Nīlādri going vana-pathe yābena prabhu śrī-vṛndāvana
by the forest path will go the Lord to Śrī Vṛndāvana

10 Śrī Rūpa heard that the Lord had gone to Nīlādri and would go to Śrī Vṛndāvana by the forest path.

For that he sends two messengers —

রূপ-গোসাঞি নীলাচলে পাঠাইল দুইজন । প্রভু যবে বৃন্দাবন করেন গমন ॥ ১১ ॥

rūpa-gosāñi nīlācale pāṭhāila duijana Rūpa Gosvāmī to Nīlācala sent two men prabhu yabe vṛndāvana karena gamana
the Lord when to Vṛndāvana makes departure

11 Rūpa Gosvāmī sent two men to Nīlācala to learn when the Lord would set out for Vṛndāvana.

শীঘ্র আসি' মোরে তাঁর দিবা সমাচার । শুনিয়া তদনুরূপ করিব ব্যবহার ॥ ১২ ॥

śīghra āsi' more tāṁra dibā samācāra quickly coming to me of Him you will give news
śuniyā tad-anurūpa kariba vyavahāra hearing in accordance with that I will make arrangements

12 "Come back quickly and bring me news of Him. When I hear it, I shall act accordingly."

Śrī Sanātana looks for a chance to retire from the royal service —

এথা সনাতন-গোসাঞি ভাবে মনে মন । রাজা মোরে প্রীতি করে, সে — মোর বন্ধন ॥ ১৩ ॥

ethā sanātana-gosāñi bhāve mane mana here Sanātana Gosvāmī thinks in his mind to himself
rājā more prīti kare, se — mora bandhana
the king me affection shows that my bondage

13 Meanwhile Sanātana Gosvāmī thought to himself: "The king is fond of me, and that is my bondage.

He tries to incur the king's displeasure —

কোন মতে রাজা যদি মোরে ক্রুদ্ধ হয়। তবে অব্যাহতি হয়, করিলুঁ নিশ্চয় ॥ ১৪ ॥

kona mate rājā yadi more kruddha haya
by some means the king if with me angry becomes tabe avyāhati haya, karilum̐ niścaya
then release will be I have made decision

14 If somehow the king grows angry with me, I shall be released. That is my resolve."

The pretext of illness —

অস্বাস্থ্যের ছদ্ম করি' রহে নিজ-ঘরে। রাজকার্য্য ছাড়িলা, না যায় রাজদ্বারে ॥ ১৫ ॥

asvāsthyera chadma kari' rahe nija-ghare
of illness pretext making stays in his own house
rājakārya chāḍilā, nā yāya rāja-dvāre
the king's business he gave up not goes to the king's court

15 Pretending to be ill, he stayed at home. He gave up the king's business and no longer went to the court.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Chadma: a pretext.

Discussing the Bhāgavatam at home —

লোভী কায়স্থগণ রাজকার্য্য করে । আপনে স্বগৃহে করে শাস্ত্রের বিচারে ॥ ১৬ ॥

lobhī kāyastha-gaṇa rāja-kārya kare greedy kāyastha officials the king's business carry on āpane svagṛhe kare śāstrera vicāre
he himself in his own home makes of the scriptures study

16 Greedy kāyastha officials carried on the king's business, while he himself studied the scriptures at home.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

When Sanātana Gosvāmī was the royal minister, several "Kāyastha" officials served under him. Seeing Sanātana's mood of renunciation, some of them, hoping to get his post, began to show special diligence in the royal business. Tradition says that when Sanātana Gosvāmī resigned, his subordinate, the well-known official Purandara Khān, received that post.

ভট্টাচার্য্য পণ্ডিত বিশ ত্রিশ লঞা । ভাগবত বিচার করেন সভাতে বসিয়া ॥ ১৭ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya paṇḍita biśa triśa lañā bhaṭṭācāryas paṇḍitas twenty thirty gathering bhāgavata vicāra karena sabhāte vasiyā
the Bhāgavata study makes in the assembly sitting

17 Gathering twenty or thirty learned bhaṭṭācāryas and paṇḍitas, he would sit in assembly with them and study the Bhāgavata.

Anubhāṣya.

Bhāgavata-vicāra: discussing the Bhāgavatam. Knowledge is of "two" kinds (Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad 1.1.4–5): "The knowers of Brahman, as is well known, say that two kinds of knowledge are to be known, the higher and the lower. Of these, the lower is the Ṛg Veda, the Yajur Veda, the Sāma Veda, the Atharva Veda, śikṣā, kalpa, vyākaraṇa, nirukta, chandas and jyotiṣa. And the higher is that by which the Imperishable is attained." The higher knowledge is spoken of in the Brahma-sūtra, or Vedānta. Vedāntists who desire liberation are as full of deceit (kaitava) as those who desire dharma, artha and kāma. Therefore everything the scriptures of the lower and the higher knowledge say with an intent towards liberation, which opposes pure bhakti, is full of deceit. But the scripture Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is not like that. Karmīs liable to Yama's punishment, or ahaṅgrahopāsakas (who worship themselves as God), are wholly unfit to discuss the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. Only the Vaiṣṇavas, discussing the Bhāgavatam, are freed from saṁsāra by the power of bhakti. "The Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the spotless Purāṇa, dear to the Vaiṣṇavas. In it is sung the one pure, supreme knowledge of the paramahaṁsas. In it freedom from karma (naiṣkarmya) is revealed, together with knowledge, renunciation and bhakti. A person who hears it with devotion, reads it properly and reflects on it is liberated." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 12.13.18)

One day the emperor suddenly arrives —

আর দিন গৌড়েশ্বর, সঙ্গে একজন । আচম্বিতে গোসাঞি-সভাতে কৈল আগমন ॥ ১৮ ॥

āra dina gauḍeśvara, saṅge eka-jana another day the ruler of Gauḍa with him one person ācambite gosāñi-sabhāte kaila āgamana
suddenly into the Gosvāmī's assembly made arrival

18 One day the ruler of Gauḍa, with one companion, suddenly came into the Gosvāmī's assembly.

Anubhāṣya.
The ruler of Gauḍa, ʿAlāʾ-ud-dīn Sayyid Husain Shāh, the Sharif of Mecca, occupied the throne of Gauḍa from Śaka 1420 to Śaka 1443. Thus in Śaka 1424[19] it was this same Husain Shāh who came to Śrī Sanātana's assembly.

Everyone respectfully receives the emperor —

পাৎসাহ দেখিয়া সবে সম্ভ্রমে উঠিলা । সম্ভ্রমে আসন দিয়া রাজারে বসাইলা ॥ ১৯ ॥

pātsāha dekhiyā sabe sambhrame uṭhilā
the emperor seeing all respectfully rose sambhrame āsana diyā rājāre vasāilā respectfully a seat giving the king they seated

19 Seeing the emperor, everyone rose in awe, and with due respect they offered the king a seat.

The emperor speaks and asks Sanātana his intention —

রাজা কহে, — তোমার স্থানে বৈদ্য পাঠাইলুঁ । বৈদ্য কহে, — ব্যাধি নাহি, সুস্থ যে দেখিলুঁ ॥ ২০ ॥

rājā kahe, — tomāra sthāne vaidya pāṭhāiluṅ̃
the king says to you a physician I sent vaidya kahe, — vyādhi nāhi, sustha ye dekhiluṅ̃
the physician says illness there is none healthy that I saw

20 The king said: "I sent my physician to you, and he says, 'There is no illness; I found him healthy.'

আমার যে কিছু কার্য্য, সব তোমা লঞা । কার্য্য ছাড়ি' রহিলা তুমি ঘরেতে বসিয়া ॥ ২১ ॥

āmāra ye kichu kārya, saba tomā lañā
my whatever business all rests with you kārya chāḍi' rahilā tumi gharete vasiyā business leaving have stayed you at home sitting

21 Whatever business I have rests entirely on you, yet you have left your work and sit at home.

মোর যত কার্য্য কাম, সব কৈলা নাশ । কি তোমার হৃদয়ে আছে, কহ মোর পাশ ॥ ২২ ॥

mora yata kārya kāma, saba kailā nāśa
my all affairs undertakings all you have made ruin ki tomāra hṛdaye āche, kaha mora pāśa
what in your heart is tell to me

22 You have ruined all my affairs and undertakings. What is in your heart? Tell me."

Sanātana declares his unwillingness to do the royal work —

সনাতন কহে, — নহে আমা হৈতে কাম । আর একজন দিয়া কর সমাধান ॥ ২৩ ॥

sanātana kahe, — nahe āmā haite kāma Sanātana says will not be from me the work
āra eka-jana diyā kara samādhāna
another one person through make arrangement

23 Sanātana said: "The work can no longer be done by me. Have someone else see to it."

The emperor's angry words —

তবে ক্রুদ্ধ হঞা রাজা কহে আরবার । তোমার 'বড় ভাই' করে দস্যুব্যবহার ॥ ২৪ ॥

tabe kruddha hañā rājā kahe āra-bāra
then angry becoming the king says again
tomāra 'baḍa bhāi' kare dasyu-vyavahāra
your 'elder brother' does the conduct of a robber

24 Then the king grew angry and spoke again: "Your 'elder brother' behaves like a robber.[2]

জীব-পশু মারি' কৈল চাক্লা সব নাশ । এথা তুমি কৈলা মোর সর্ব্ব কার্য্য নাশ ॥ ২৫ ॥

jīva-paśu māri' kaila cāklā saba nāśa living beings and animals killing he has made the districts all ruin ethā tumi kailā mora sarva kārya nāśa
here you have made my all affairs ruin

25 Killing living beings and animals, he has laid waste all the districts, and here you have ruined all my affairs."

Sanātana asks to be punished with dismissal —

সনাতন কহে, — তুমি স্বতন্ত্র গৌড়েশ্বর । যে যেই দোষ করে, দেহ' তার ফল ॥ ২৬ ॥

sanātana kahe, — tumi svatantra gauḍeśvara Sanātana says you independent ruler of Gauḍa ye yei doṣa kare, deha' tāra phala
whoever whatever fault commits give him its fruit

26 Sanātana said: "You are the independent ruler of Gauḍa. Whatever fault anyone commits, give him its fruit."[3]

By the emperor's order Sanātana is imprisoned —

এত শুনি' গৌড়েশ্বর উঠি' ঘরে গেলা । পলাইব বলি' সনাতনেরে বান্ধিলা ॥ ২৭ ॥

eta śuni' gauḍeśvara uṭhi' ghare gelā
this hearing the ruler of Gauḍa rising home went palāiba bali' sanātanere bāndhilā
he will flee thinking Sanātana he put in confinement

27 Hearing this, the ruler of Gauḍa rose and went back to his palace. Fearing that Sanātana would flee, he had him put in confinement.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

It is said that the emperor Husain Shāh regarded Sanātana Gosvāmī as his "younger brother." When Sanātana showed his firm resolve to give up his post, Husain Shāh said in loving anger: "I am your 'elder brother.' I do not govern the kingdom at all: I merely go about with my army, plundering one country after another in war, and, being a 'Yavana' by birth, I hunt in the districts of Gauḍa and destroy many living beings and beasts, and that is all. You are my only support. If I, your elder brother, am occupied only in plunder and in destroying living beings, and you, my younger brother, also give up your work and ruin everything, how will the kingdom go on?" Sanātana replied with a hidden meaning: "You are the ruler of Gauḍa, an independent king, the dispenser of punishment. Whoever has committed a fault, give him its fruit." These words hold a deep secret. The king himself behaves like a bandit, so let him take the fruit of that. And when the minister (that is, I) is idle in his work, let him (me) receive the fruit of dismissal. Understanding from this what Sanātana wanted, the ruler of Gauḍa got up and left.

The emperor marches on Orissa and calls Sanātana to come with him —

হেনকালে গেল রাজা ওড়িয়া মারিতে । সনাতনে কহে, — তুমি চল মোর সাথে ॥ ২৮ ॥

hena-kāle gela rājā oḍiyā mārite
at that time went the king the Oriyās to attack
sanātane kahe, — tumi cala mora sāthe
to Sanātana says you come with me

28 At that time the king set out to attack the Oriyās, and he said to Sanātana: "Come with me."

Anubhāṣya.

In Śaka 1424[20] Husain Shāh subdued the vassal kings of Utkala.

Sanātana refuses to cooperate in work hostile to Viṣṇu —

তেঁহো কহে, — যাবে তুমি দেবতায় দুঃখ দিতে । মোর শক্তি নাহি, তোমার সঙ্গে যাইতে ॥ ২৯ ॥

teṁho kahe, — yābe tumi devatāya duḥkha dite he says you will go to the Deity pain to give mora śakti nāhi, tomāra saṅge yāite
my strength there is not with you to go

29 He replied: “You are going to bring pain to the Deity. I have no strength to go with you.”

The emperor sets out, and the Lord too sets out from Purī for Vṛndāvana —

তবে তাঁরে বান্ধি’ রাখি’ করিলা গমন । এথা নীলাচল হৈতে প্রভু চলিলা বৃন্দাবন ॥ ৩০ ॥

tabe tāṁre bāndhi’ rākhi’ karilā gamana
then him in confinement keeping he made departure ethā nīlācala haite prabhu calilā vṛndāvana
meanwhile Nīlācala from the Lord set out for Vṛndāvana

30 Then the king departed, leaving him in confinement. Meanwhile the Lord set out from Nīlācala for Vṛndāvana.

The two messengers bring Śrī Rūpa the news of the Lord’s departure for Vṛndāvana —

তবে সেই দুই চর রূপ-ঠাঞি আইল । বৃন্দাবন চলিলা প্রভু — আসিয়া কহিল ॥ ৩১ ॥

tabe sei dui cara rūpa-ṭhāñi āila then those two messengers to Rūpa came vṛndāvana calilā prabhu — āsiyā kahila
to Vṛndāvana has set out the Lord coming they said

31 Then the two messengers came back to Rūpa and told him: “The Lord has set out for Vṛndāvana.”

In a letter Rūpa tells Sanātana that he and his younger brother are setting out to see the Lord, and calls him to come by any means —

শুনিয়া শ্রীরূপ লিখিল সনাতন-ঠাঁঞি । বৃন্দাবন চলিলা শ্রীচৈতন্য-গোসাঞি ॥ ৩২ ॥

śuniyā śrī-rūpa likhila sanātana-ṭhāṁñi hearing Śrī Rūpa wrote to Sanātana vṛndāvana calilā śrī-caitanya-gosāñi
to Vṛndāvana has set out Śrī Caitanya Gosāñi

32 Hearing this, Śrī Rūpa wrote to Sanātana: "Śrī Caitanya Gosāñi has set out for Vṛndāvana.

আমি-দুইভাই চলিলাঙ তাঁহারে মিলিতে । তুমি যৈছে তৈছে ছুটি' আইস তাঁহা হৈতে ॥ ৩৩ ॥

āmi-dui-bhāi calilāṅa tāṁhāre milite
we two brothers have set out Him to meet tumi yaiche taiche chuṭi' āisa tāṁhā haite
you in whatever way getting free come from there

33 We two brothers are setting out to meet Him. Get free in whatever way you can and come away from there.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Āmi dui bhāi ("we two brothers"): I, Rūpa, and my (younger) brother Anupama, or Vallabha.

He advises Sanātana to free himself from bondage with the ten thousand coins kept in Gauḍa —

দশসহস্র মুদ্রা তথা আছে মুদি-স্থানে । তাহা দিয়া কর শীঘ্র আত্ম-বিমোচনে ॥ ৩৪ ॥

daśa-sahasra mudrā tathā āche mudi-sthāne
ten thousand coins there are with the grocer
tāhā diyā kara śīghra ātma-vimocane
with them paying make quickly your own release

34 Ten thousand coins are there with the grocer. Use them to free yourself quickly.

যৈছে তৈছে ছুটি' তুমি আইস বৃন্দাবন । এত লিখি' দুই-ভাই করিলা গমন ॥ ৩৫ ॥

yaiche taiche chuṭi' tumi āisa vṛndāvana
in whatever way getting free you come to Vṛndāvana eta likhi' dui-bhāi karilā gamana
this having written the two brothers made departure

35 Get free in whatever way you can and come to Vṛndāvana." Having written this, the two brothers set out.

Who Anupama was —

অনুপম মল্লিক, তাঁর নাম — 'শ্রীবল্লভ' । রূপ-গোসাঞির ছোটভাই — পরম-বৈষ্ণব ॥ ৩৬ ॥

anupama mallika, tāṁra nāma — 'śrī-vallabha' Anupama Mallika his name 'Śrī Vallabha' rūpa-gosāñira choṭa-bhāi — parama-vaiṣṇava
Rūpa Gosvāmī's younger brother a great Vaiṣṇava

36 Anupama Mallika, whose name was Śrī Vallabha, was Rūpa Gosvāmī's younger brother and a great Vaiṣṇava.

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 10.84.

The brothers come to Prayāga and rejoice to hear that the Lord is there —

তাঁহারে লঞা রূপ-গোসাঞি প্রয়াগে আইলা । মহাপ্রভু তাঁহা, শুনি' আনন্দিত হৈলা ॥ ৩৭ ॥

tāṁhāre lañā rūpa-gosāñi prayāge āilā him taking Rūpa Gosvāmī to Prayāga came mahāprabhu tāṁhā, śuni' ānandita hailā
Mahāprabhu there hearing he became joyful

37 Taking him along, Rūpa Gosvāmī came to Prayāga, and he rejoiced to hear that Mahāprabhu was there.

In Prayāga the Lord goes to see Bindu-Mādhava; crowds gather —

প্রভু চলিয়াছেন বিন্দুমাধব-দরশনে । লক্ষ লক্ষ লোক আইসে প্রভুর মিলনে ॥ ৩৮ ॥

prabhu caliyāchena bindu-mādhava-daraśane
the Lord had gone for darśana of Bindu-mādhava
lakṣa lakṣa loka āise prabhura milane
hundreds of thousands of people come the Lord to meet

38 The Lord had gone for darśana of Bindu-mādhava, and hundreds of thousands of people came to meet Him.

কেহ কান্দে, কেহ হাসে, কেহ নাচে, গায় ।
'কৃষ্ণ' 'কৃষ্ণ' বলি' কেহ পড়াগড়ি যায় ॥ ৩৯ ॥

keha kānde, keha hāse, keha nāce, gāya
some weep some laugh some dance sing
'kṛṣṇa' 'kṛṣṇa' bali' keha paḍāgaḍi yāya
'Kṛṣṇa' 'Kṛṣṇa' crying some on the ground roll

39 Some wept, some laughed, some danced and sang, and some rolled on the ground, crying, "Kṛṣṇa! Kṛṣṇa!"

Prayāga drowns in a flood of prema —

গঙ্গা-যমুনা প্রয়াগ নারিল ডুবাইতে । প্রভু ডুবাইল কৃষ্ণপ্রেমের বন্যাতে ॥ ৪০ ॥

gaṅgā-yamunā prayāga nārila ḍubāite
the Gaṅgā and the Yamunā Prayāga could not flood prabhu ḍubāila kṛṣṇa-premera vanyāte
the Lord flooded of love for Kṛṣṇa with the deluge

40 The Gaṅgā and the Yamunā could not flood Prayāga, but the Lord flooded it with the deluge of love for Kṛṣṇa.

The brothers stay a little apart —

ভিড় দেখি' দুইভাই রহিলা নির্জ্জনে । প্রভুর আবেশ হৈল মাধব-দরশনে ॥ ৪১ ॥

bhiḍa dekhi' duibhāi rahilā nirjane
the crowd seeing the two brothers stayed in a secluded place prabhura āveśa haila mādhava-daraśane
the Lord's ecstasy arose of Mādhava at the sight

41 Seeing the crowd, the two brothers stayed apart in a secluded place. At the sight of Mādhava the Lord was overwhelmed with ecstasy.

The Lord's state at that time —

প্রেমাবেশে নাচে প্রভু হরিধ্বনি করি' । ঊর্দ্ধবাহু করি' বলে — বল 'হরি' 'হরি' ॥ ৪২ ॥

premāveśe nāce prabhu hari-dhvani kari' in loving ecstasy dances the Lord the sound of Hari's name making ūrddhva-bāhu kari' bale — bala 'hari' 'hari'
His arms raised making He says say 'Hari' 'Hari'

42 Absorbed in love, the Lord danced, calling out the name of Hari. Raising His arms, He said: "Say 'Hari! Hari!'"

প্রভুর মহিমা দেখি' লোকে চমৎকার । প্রয়াগে প্রভুর লীলা নারি বর্ণিবার ॥ ৪৩ ॥

prabhura mahimā dekhi' loke camatkāra
the Lord's greatness seeing the people were amazed prayāge prabhura līlā nāri varṇibāra
in Prayāga the Lord's pastimes I cannot describe

43 Seeing the Lord's greatness, the people were amazed. I cannot describe the Lord's pastimes in Prayāga.

The Lord takes His meal at the house of a South Indian brāhmaṇa —

দাক্ষিণাত্য-বিপ্র-সনে আছে পরিচয় । সেই বিপ্র নিমন্ত্রিয়া নিল নিজালয় ॥ ৪৪ ॥

dākṣiṇātya-vipra-sane āche paricaya with a brāhmaṇa from the South there was acquaintance sei vipra nimantriyā nila nijālaya
that brāhmaṇa inviting took to his home

44 The Lord was acquainted with a brāhmaṇa from the South, and that brāhmaṇa invited Him and took Him to his home.

The brothers meet the Lord in private —

বিপ্র-গৃহে আসি' প্রভু নিভৃতে বসিলা । শ্রীরূপ-বল্লভ দুঁহে আসিয়া মিলিলা ॥ ৪৫ ॥

vipra-gṛhe āsi' prabhu nibhṛte vasilā to the brāhmaṇa's house coming the Lord in seclusion sat
śrī-rūpa-vallabha duṁhe āsiyā mililā
Śrī Rūpa and Vallabha both coming met

45 The Lord came to the brāhmaṇa's house and sat in seclusion, and there Śrī Rūpa and Vallabha both came to meet Him.

Both speak humbly of themselves —

দুইগুচ্ছ তৃণ দুঁহে দশনে ধরিয়া । প্রভু দেখি' দূরে পড়ে দণ্ডবৎ হঞা ॥ ৪৬ ॥

dui-guccha tṛṇa duṁhe daśane dhariyā
two bunches of straw both in their teeth holding prabhu dekhi' dūre paḍe daṇḍavat hañā
the Lord seeing from a distance they fall like rods becoming 46 Each holding a bunch of straw between his teeth, the two of them saw the Lord from afar and fell flat on the ground like rods.

নানা শ্লোক পড়ি' উঠে, পড়ে বার বার । প্রভু দেখি' প্রেমাবেশ হইল দুঁহার ॥ ৪৭ ॥

nānā śloka paḍi' uṭhe, paḍe bāra bāra various verses reciting they rise fall again and again
prabhu dekhi' premāveśa haila duṁhāra
the Lord seeing loving ecstasy arose in both

47 Reciting various verses, they rose and fell again and again. At the sight of the Lord both were overwhelmed with love.

The Lord is pleased to see them —

শ্রীরূপে দেখিয়া প্রভুর প্রসন্ন হৈল মন ।
'উঠ, উঠ, রূপ, আইস', বলিলা বচন ॥ ৪৮ ॥

śrī-rūpe dekhiyā prabhura prasanna haila mana Śrī Rūpa seeing the Lord's pleased became mind uṭha, uṭha, rūpa, āisa, balilā vacana get up get up Rūpa come He spoke the words

48 Seeing Śrī Rūpa, the Lord was pleased at heart. "Get up, get up, Rūpa! Come here!" He said.

The Lord describes how by Kṛṣṇa's mercy the jīva is freed from saṁsāra —

কৃষ্ণের করুণা কিছু না যায় বর্ণনে । বিষয়কূপ হৈতে তোমা কাড়িল দুইজনে ॥ ৪৯ ॥

kṛṣṇera karuṇā kichu nā yāya varṇane Kṛṣṇa's mercy at all not can be described viṣaya-kūpa haite tomā kāḍila dui-jane from the well of worldly life out of you He has pulled both

49 "Kṛṣṇa's mercy cannot be described at all. He has pulled you both out of the well of worldly life."

A Vaiṣṇava, in whatever family he is born, is in every way worthy of worship by all, like Bhagavān — (Hari-bhakti-vilāsa 10.91) (words of the Itihāsa-samuccaya) —

ন মেঽভক্তশ্চতুর্ব্বেদী মদ্ভক্তঃ শ্বপচঃ প্রিয়ঃ । তস্মৈ দেয়ং ততো গ্রাহ্যং স চ পূজ্যো যথা হ্যহম্ ॥ ৫০ ॥

na me 'bhaktaś catur-vedī not to Me a nondevotee a knower of the four Vedas mad-bhaktaḥ śva-pacaḥ priyaḥ
My devotee a dog-eater dear
tasmai deyaṁ tato grāhyaṁ
to him should be given from him should be accepted
sa ca pūjyo yathā hy aham
he and is to be worshipped as indeed I

50 "Even a knower of the four Vedas is not dear to Me if he is not devoted to Me, but My devotee is dear to Me even if he was born a dog-eater. One should give to him and accept from him; he is to be worshipped just as I am." (Itihāsa-samuccaya, quoted in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 10.91)[4]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

One who reads the four Vedas, that is, a Caube brāhmaṇa, does not become a "devotee" just by being so. My devotee is dear to Me even if he is a caṇḍāla. Only a devotee is truly a worthy recipient of gifts and truly a worthy giver from whom one may accept. Every devotee is as worthy of worship as I am.

Anubhāṣya.

abhaktaḥ (devoid of pure bhakti) catur-vedī (a brāhmaṇa expert in the four Vedas) me (to Me) priyaḥ na (is not); mad-bhaktaḥ śva-pacaḥ (even if born in the very lowest family) me priyaḥ (is); tasmai (to such a pure devotee, even a dog-eater of low birth, the brāhmaṇas and others expert in the four Vedas themselves should offer honour and so on) deyaṁ; tataḥ (from him, from the pure devotee, even a dog-eater of low birth) grāhyaṁ (one should accept his remnants and so on); yathā aham (Śrī Bhagavān Viṣṇu, the Lord of all lords) pūjyaḥ, (so) saḥ (the devotee, even if born in a family of dog-eaters, by all, the brāhmaṇas and others, who stand as his disciples) pūjyaḥ ca.

The Lord embraces both and places His feet on their heads —

এই শ্লোক পড়ি' দুঁহারে কৈলা আলিঙ্গন । কৃপাতে দুঁহার মাথায় ধরিলা চরণ ॥ ৫১ ॥

ei śloka paḍi' duṁhāre kailā āliṅgana
this verse reciting both He embraced kṛpāte duṁhāra māthāya dharilā caraṇa
in mercy of both on the heads He placed His feet

51 Reciting this verse, He embraced them both, and in His mercy He placed His feet on their heads.

The brothers' prayer to the Lord —

প্রভু-কৃপা পাঞা দুঁহে দুইহাত যুড়ি' । দীন হঞা স্তুতি করে বিনয়-আচরি' ॥ ৫২ ॥

prabhu-kṛpā pāñā duṁhe dui hāta yuḍi'
the Lord's mercy receiving both two hands joining dīna hañā stuti kare vinaya-ācari'
humble becoming prayers offer meekness showing

52 Having received the Lord's mercy, the two of them joined their palms and, humble and meek, offered prayers:

Obeisance to Śrī Gaura, full of His own nature, name, form, qualities and pastimes, the Lord of sambandha, abhidheya and prayojana —

নমো মহাবদান্যায় কৃষ্ণপ্রেমপ্রদায় তে । কৃষ্ণায় কৃষ্ণচৈতন্যনাম্নে গৌরত্বিষে নমঃ ॥ ৫৩ ॥

namo mahā-vadānyāya
obeisances to the most munificent kṛṣṇa-prema-pradāya te love for Kṛṣṇa to the giver to You kṛṣṇāya kṛṣṇa-caitanyato Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa Caitanya
nāmne gaura-tviṣe namaḥ
named of golden complexion obeisances

53 "Obeisances to You, the most munificent, the giver of love for Kṛṣṇa! Obeisances to Kṛṣṇa Himself, who bears the name Kṛṣṇa Caitanya and shines with a golden complexion."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
O Lord, most magnanimous, giver of love for Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Himself, bearing the name Kṛṣṇa Caitanya and the form of Gaurāṅga, I offer obeisance to You.

Anubhāṣya.
mahā-vadānyāya (full of incomparable supreme compassion) kṛṣṇa-prema-pradāya (the best of givers of love for Kṛṣṇa, which is hard to attain even for Śiva and Brahmā) kṛṣṇa-caitanya-nāmne (named Kṛṣṇa Caitanya) gaura-tviṣe (possessing a golden lustre adorned with the lustre of Śrī Rādhā) kṛṣṇāya (to Govinda, the beloved of the gopīs) te (to You) namaḥ.

The author's obeisance to Gaura — (Govinda-līlāmṛta 1.2: the author's words)

—

যোঽজ্ঞানমত্তং ভুবনং দয়ালু- রুল্লাঘয়ন্নপ্যকরোৎ প্রমত্তম্ ।
স্বপ্রেমসম্পৎসুধয়াদ্ভুতেঽহং শ্রীকৃষ্ণচৈতন্যমমুং প্রপদ্যে ॥ ৫৪ ॥

yo 'jñāna-mattaṁ bhuvanaṁ dayālur
who by ignorance maddened the world merciful ullāghayann apy akarot pramattam curing yet made maddened
sva-prema-sampat-sudhayādbhute 'haṁ with the nectar of the treasure of His own love the doer of wondrous deeds I śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanyam amuṁ prapadye
Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya to Him take refuge

54 "I take refuge in Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, the doer of wondrous deeds, who in His mercy cured the world maddened by ignorance and then made it mad with the nectar of His own treasure of love." (Govinda-līlāmṛta, 1.2)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
That merciful Lord cured the world, maddened by ignorance, of the disease of ignorance and intoxicated it with the nectar of the treasure of His love. I take shelter of that Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, whose deeds are wonderful.

Anubhāṣya.
yaḥ dayāluḥ (the embodiment of mercy) ajñāna-mattaṁ (maddened by ignorance, bewildered by the paths of Māyāvāda, enjoyment of the fruits of karma and so on) bhuvanaṁ (the world) sva-prema-sampat-sudhayā (with the nectar of His own treasure, love for Kṛṣṇa: that treasure is itself the nectar) ullāghayan (quelling all such knowledge and so on) pramattam (free from seeking worldly objects such as enjoyment and liberation, and constantly attached to the cultivation of Kṛṣṇa) akarot, amuṁ (Him) adbhutehaṁ[21] (whose deeds were never heard of before) śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanyam (I) prapadye (take shelter).

The Lord asks Śrī Rūpa about Sanātana —

তবে মহাপ্রভু তাঁরে নিকটে বসাইলা ।
'সনাতনের বার্ত্তা কহ' — তাঁহারে পুছিলা ॥ ৫৫ ॥

tabe mahāprabhu tāṁre nikaṭe vasāilā
then Mahāprabhu him near seated sanātanera vārtā kaha — tāṁhāre puchilā of Sanātana the news tell him He asked

55 Then Mahāprabhu seated him close by and asked him: “Tell Me the news of Sanātana.”

Rūpa tells Him that Sanātana is imprisoned —

রূপ কহেন, — তেঁহো বন্দী হয় রাজ-ঘরে । তুমি যদি উদ্ধার’, তবে হইবে উদ্ধারে ॥ ৫৬ ॥

rūpa kahena, — teṁho bandī haya rāja-ghare Rūpa says he a prisoner is in the king’s house
tumi yadi uddhāra’, tabe haibe uddhāre
You if deliver then he will be delivered

56 Rūpa said: “He is a prisoner in the king’s house. If You deliver him, then he will be delivered.”

The Lord tells him that Sanātana has been freed —

প্রভু কহে, — সনাতনের হঞাছে মোচন । অচিরাৎ আমা-সহ হইবে মিলন ॥ ৫৭ ॥

prabhu kahe, — sanātanera hañāche mocana
the Lord says of Sanātana has taken place the release
acirāt āmā-saha haibe milana
soon with Me will be the meeting

57 The Lord said: “Sanātana has already been released, and he will soon meet Me.”

Both stay there that day —

মধ্যাহ্ন করিতে বিপ্র প্রভুরে কহিলা । রূপ-গোসাঞি সে-দিবস তথাঞি রহিলা ॥ ৫৮ ॥ madhyāhna karite vipra prabhure kahilā

the midday meal to take the brāhmaṇa to the Lord said
rūpa-gosāñi se-divasa tathāñi rahilā Rūpa Gosvāmī that day there stayed

58 The brāhmaṇa asked the Lord to take His midday meal, and Rūpa Gosvāmī stayed there that day.

Both receive the remnants of the Lord's meal —

ভট্টাচার্য্য দুই ভাইয়ে নিমন্ত্রণ কৈল । প্রভুর শেষপ্রসাদ-পাত্র দুইভাই পাইল ॥ ৫৯ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya dui bhāiye nimantraṇa kaila
the Bhaṭṭācārya the two brothers invitation made prabhura śeṣa prasāda-pātra duibhāi pāila of the Lord's remnants of prasāda the plate the two brothers received

59 The Bhaṭṭācārya invited the two brothers as well, and they received the plate with the remnants of the Lord's prasāda.[5]

Both settle near the Lord's lodging —

ত্রিবেণী-উপর প্রভুর বাসা-ঘর স্থান । দুইভাই বাসা কৈল প্রভু-সন্নিধান ॥ ৬০ ॥

triveṇī-upara prabhura vāsā-ghara sthāna
at Triveṇī the Lord's of the lodging the place
duibhāi vāsā kaila prabhu-sannidhāna
the two brothers lodging made near the Lord

60 The Lord was staying at Triveṇī, and the two brothers took lodging near Him.

Vallabha Bhaṭṭa meets the Lord —

সে-কালে বল্লভ-ভট্ট রহে আড়াইল-গ্রামে ।
'মহাপ্রভু আইলা' শুনি' আইল তাঁর স্থানে ॥ ৬১ ॥

se-kāle vallabha-bhaṭṭa rahe āḍāila-grāme at that time Vallabha Bhaṭṭa lived in the village of Āḍāila
'mahāprabhu āilā' śuni' āila tāṁra sthāne
'Mahāprabhu has come' hearing came to Him

61 At that time Vallabha Bhaṭṭa was living in the village of Āḍāila. Hearing that Mahāprabhu had come, he came to Him.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Vallabha Bhaṭṭa was a Vaiṣṇava paṇḍita. At first he entered Śrī Mahāprabhu's sampradāya, but, not receiving much honour there, he became an ācārya in the Viṣṇusvāmī sampradāya. It is he whom people call "Vallabhācārya." He has great influence in Gokula and in the Bombay region. He wrote many books, such as the Anubhāṣya and the Ṣoḍaśa-grantha.

Āḍāila-grāma: the village of Aḍelī, or Āḍāila, on the other bank of the Yamunā near the confluence (about a mile away). An ancient Viṣṇu temple of the "Vallabhī" sampradāya still stands there.

Anubhāṣya.

Vallabha Bhaṭṭa was the son of Lakṣmaṇa Dīkṣita of the village of Kāṅkaḍavāḍa, or Kākŭrapāḍa, 16 miles from Niḍāḍāvalu railway station in the land of Trailaṅga. The Āndhra brāhmaṇas have five divisions: Vellanāṭī, Vegī-nāṭī, Muraki-nāṭī, Telagu-nāṭī and Kāśala-nāṭī. Of these, Śrī Vallabhācārya was born in a family of Vellanāṭī Āndhra brāhmaṇas in Śaka 1400. Some say that even before Vallabha's birth his father took sannyāsa and left home, and later returned home again and obtained Vallabhācārya as his son.

According to another view, in Vikrama Saṁvat 1535, that is, Śaka 1400, on the dark ekādaśī of the month of Caitra, Vallabhācārya appeared in "Campakāraṇya" as the son of Lakṣmaṇa Bhaṭṭa Dīkṣita, who belonged to a Vellanāṭī brāhmaṇa family of the land of Trailaṅga and bore the title "Khambhampāṭīvāru." According to yet another view, he appeared in the village of Cāp̃ājhāra near Rājima station on the B. N. R. line in Madhya Pradesh. He lived in Kāśī until the age of eleven, and when, his studies completed, he was returning home, on the way, at Śeṣādri, he heard of his father's death. Leaving his brother and mother at home, he went to Vidyānagara on the bank of the Tuṅgabhadrā and delighted Kṛṣṇadeva, the grandson of King Bukka. After this he spent eighteen years in three digvijayas of six years each. At the age of thirty, in Kāśī, he married a brāhmaṇa girl of his own caste named "Mahālakṣmī." After installing a Deity on the plateau of Govardhana Hill, he settled in the village of Āḍāila near Prayāga. He had two sons, Gopīnātha and Viṭhṭhaleśvara. In his last years he accepted tridaṇḍi-sannyāsa, and in Śaka 1452 he left this world in Vārāṇasī. Besides a few of Vallabha's books, such as the Ṣoḍaśa-grantha, the Anubhāṣya on the Brahma-sūtra and the Subodhinī commentary on the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, there are many more books of his.

Vallabha Bhaṭṭa bows to the Lord; they talk about Kṛṣṇa —

তেঁহো দণ্ডবৎ কৈল, প্রভু কৈলা আলিঙ্গন । দুইজনে কৃষ্ণকথা হৈল কতক্ষণ ॥ ৬২ ॥

teṁho daṇḍavat kaila, prabhu kailā āliṅgana
he prostrated obeisances made the Lord embraced dui jane kṛṣṇa-kathā haila kata-kṣaṇa between the two talk of Kṛṣṇa there was for some time

62 He fell before the Lord in obeisance, and the Lord embraced him. Then the two of them spoke about Kṛṣṇa for some time.

The Lord is filled with prema, but, regarding Vallabha as an outsider, conceals it —

কৃষ্ণকথায় প্রভুর মহাপ্রেম উথলিল । ভট্টের সংকোচে প্রভু সম্বরণ কৈল ॥ ৬৩ ॥

kṛṣṇa-kathāya prabhura mahā-prema uthalila
in the talk of Kṛṣṇa the Lord's great love surged up bhaṭṭera saṅkoce prabhu samvaraṇa kaila
before Bhaṭṭa out of reserve the Lord restraint made

63 As they spoke of Kṛṣṇa, great love surged up in the Lord, but out of reserve before Bhaṭṭa He held it back.[6]

Vallabha is amazed to see the Lord's ecstasy of love —

অন্তরে গর-গর প্রেম, নহে সম্বরণ । দেখি' চমৎকার হৈল বল্লভ-ভট্টের মন ॥ ৬৪ ॥

antare gara-gara prema, nahe samvaraṇa
within surging love not restrained dekhi' camatkāra haila vallabha-bhaṭṭera mana seeing amazed became Vallabha Bhaṭṭa's mind

64 Yet within, His love was seething and could not be restrained, and Vallabha Bhaṭṭa was amazed at heart to see it.

The Bhaṭṭa invites the Lord; the Lord introduces the two brothers to the Bhaṭṭa

—

তবে ভট্ট মহাপ্রভুরে নিমন্ত্রণ কৈলা । মহাপ্রভু দুইভাই তাঁহারে মিলাইলা ॥ ৬৫ ॥

tabe bhaṭṭa mahāprabhure nimantraṇa kailā
then Bhaṭṭa Mahāprabhu invitation made mahāprabhu duibhāi tāṁhāre milāilā Mahāprabhu the two brothers with him introduced

65 Then Bhaṭṭa invited Mahāprabhu for a meal, and Mahāprabhu introduced the two brothers to him.

Seeking no honour for themselves, both honour Vallabha —

দুইভাই দূর হৈতে ভূমিতে পড়িয়া । ভট্টে দণ্ডবৎ কৈলা অতি দীন হঞা ॥ ৬৬ ॥

duibhāi dūra haite bhūmite paḍiyā
the two brothers from a distance on the ground falling bhaṭṭe daṇḍavat kailā ati dīna hañā to Bhaṭṭa obeisances made very humble becoming 66 From a distance the two brothers fell to the ground and, in great humility, offered obeisances to Bhaṭṭa.

When the Bhaṭṭa tries to embrace them, both draw back —

ভট্ট মিলিবারে যায়, দুঁহে পলায় দূরে ।
'অস্পৃশ্য পামর মুঞি, না ছুঁইহ মোরে' ॥ ৬৭ ॥

bhaṭṭa milibāre yāya, duṁhe palāya dūre Bhaṭṭa to meet goes both draw back far away aspṛśya pāmara muñi, nā chuṁiha more untouchable sinful I not touch me

67 When Bhaṭṭa went to embrace them, they both drew far back: "I am untouchable and sinful. Do not touch me!"

Regarding Vallabha, proud of his high birth and learning, as an outsider, the Lord gives him mundane honour, that is, deludes him —

ভট্টের বিস্ময় হৈল, প্রভুর হর্ষ মন । ভট্টেরে কহিলা প্রভু তাঁর বিবরণ ॥ ৬৮ ॥

bhaṭṭera vismaya haila, prabhura harṣa mana Bhaṭṭa's astonishment arose the Lord's joyful mind
bhaṭṭere kahilā prabhu tāṁra vivaraṇa to Bhaṭṭa told the Lord about him an account

68 Bhaṭṭa was astonished, and the Lord was pleased at heart. Then the Lord told Bhaṭṭa about Rūpa:

'ইঁহো না স্পর্শিহ, ইঁহো জাতি অতি-হীন !
বৈদিক, যাজ্ঞিক তুমি কুলীন প্রবীণ !' ॥ ৬৯ ॥

iṁho nā sparśiha, iṁho jāti ati-hīna!
him not touch he by birth very low vaidika, yājñika tumi kulīna pravīṇa!
a Vedic scholar a performer of sacrifices you of noble family learned

69 "Do not touch him; he is of very low birth! And you are a Vedic scholar, a performer of sacrifices, learned and of noble family!"

Hearing both constantly chant Kṛṣṇa's name, the Bhaṭṭa is amazed and recognises them as the best of all —

ইঁহার মুখে নিরন্তর কৃষ্ণনাম শুনি' । ভট্ট কহে, প্রভুর কিছু ইঙ্গিত-ভঙ্গী জানি' ॥ ৭০ ॥

iṁhāra mukhe nirantara kṛṣṇa-nāma śuni'
from his mouth constantly the name of Kṛṣṇa hearing
bhaṭṭa kahe, prabhura kichu iṅgita-bhaṅgī jāni' Bhaṭṭa says the Lord's something of the hints understanding

70 Hearing the name of Kṛṣṇa constantly from Rūpa's mouth, and grasping something of the Lord's hint, Bhaṭṭa said:

'দুঁহার মুখে কৃষ্ণনাম করিছে নর্ত্তন । এই দুই 'অধম' নহে, হয় 'সর্ব্বোত্তম' ॥ ৭১ ॥

duṁhāra mukhe kṛṣṇa-nāma kariche nartana of both in the mouths the name of Kṛṣṇa is doing dance ei dui 'adhama' nahe, haya 'sarvottama'
these two 'lowly' are not are 'the best of all'

71 "The name of Kṛṣṇa is dancing in the mouths of both. These two are not 'lowly' — they are 'the best of all.'"

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 3.33.7)

অহো বত শ্বপচোঽতো গরীয়ান্
যজ্জিহ্বাগ্রে বর্ত্ততে নাম তুভ্যম্ ।
তেপুস্তপস্তে জুহুবুঃ সস্নুরার্য্যা ব্রহ্মানূচুর্নাম গৃণন্তি যে তে ॥ ৭২ ॥

aho bata śva-paco 'to garīyān
oh how wonderful a dog-eater therefore most worthy yaj-jihvāgre vartate nāma tubhyam on the tip of whose tongue is present the name Your tepus tapas te juhuvuḥ sasnur āryā have performed austerities they have offered sacrifice have bathed (in all holy waters) noble ones brahmānūcur nāma gṛṇanti ye te have recited the Vedas the name utter who Your

72 "Oh, how wonderful! Even a dog-eater is worthy of the highest honour if Your name is on the tip of his tongue. Those who utter Your name have already performed austerities and offered sacrifices; they have bathed in all the holy waters, they are truly noble, and they have studied the Vedas." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.33.7)[7]

Anubhāṣya.
See Madhya 11.192.

Seeing the Bhaṭṭa's good sense and hearing his sound conclusions, the Lord praises him —

শুনি' মহাপ্রভু তাঁরে বহু প্রশংসিলা । প্রেমাবিষ্ট হঞা শ্লোক পড়িতে লাগিলা ॥ ৭৩ ॥

śuni' mahāprabhu tāṁre bahu praśaṁsilā hearing Mahāprabhu him much praised premāviṣṭa hañā śloka paḍite lāgilā overwhelmed with love becoming verses to recite began

73 Hearing this, Mahāprabhu praised him highly and, overwhelmed with love, began to recite verses:

A devotee of Hari, even if born in a low family, is worthy of worship, while a non-devotee brāhmaṇa in name only, even if he knows the Vedas, is contemptible — (Hari-bhakti-sudhodaya 3.11–12) —

শুচিঃ সদ্ভক্তিদীপ্তাগ্নিদগ্ধদুর্জাতিকল্মষঃ ।
শ্বপাকোঽপি বুধৈঃ শ্লাঘ্যো ন বেদজ্ঞোঽপি নাস্তিকঃ ॥ ৭৪ ॥

śuciḥ sad-bhakti-dīptāgnipure by the blazing fire of true devotion dagdha-durjāti-kalmaṣaḥ burned is the taint of low birth śva-pāko 'pi budhaiḥ ślāghyo
a dog-cooker even by the wise is praised na veda-jño 'pi nāstikaḥ
not a knower of the Vedas even an unbeliever

74 "One in whom the blazing fire of true devotion has burned away the taint of low birth is pure; even if born a dog-cooker, he is praised by the wise. But an unbeliever is not praised, even if he knows the Vedas." (Hari-bhakti-sudhodaya, 3.11)

Anubhāṣya.

sad-bhakti-dīptāgni-dagdha-durjāti-kalmaṣaḥ (one in whom true, exclusive bhakti for Kṛṣṇa, a blazing fire, has burned to nothing the taint, that is, the sins that have begun to bear fruit (prārabdha), such as low birth; therefore, through service to Kṛṣṇa alone, he is) śuciḥ (pure in conduct), śva-pākaḥ (born in the very lowest family) api budhaiḥ (by the wise) ślāghyaḥ (is honoured); (but) nāstikaḥ (one averse to the service of Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa) veda-jñaḥ (a brāhmaṇa who has mastered the Vedas and śāstras) api na (is not honoured: because of the bad association he brings, the traveller on the path to the supreme goal must reject him in every way; this is the meaning).

ভগবদ্ভক্তিহীনস্য জাতিঃ শাস্ত্রং জপস্তপঃ । অপ্রাণস্যেব দেহস্য মণ্ডনং লোকরঞ্জনম্ ॥ ৭৫ ॥

bhagavad-bhakti-hīnasya
of one devoid of devotion to the Lord
jātiḥ śāstraṁ japas tapaḥ birth scripture japa austerity aprāṇasyaiva dehasya
of a lifeless just body
maṇḍanaṁ loka-rañjanam decoration pleasing the people

75 "For one devoid of devotion to the Lord, high birth, learning in scripture, japa and austerity are like ornaments on a lifeless body: they only please the people." (Hari-bhakti-sudhodaya, 3.12)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
One whose conduct is pure, whose taint of low birth has been burned up by the blazing fire of true bhakti, even if he is a caṇḍāla, is honoured by paṇḍitas. But an atheist, even one who knows the Vedas, is not worthy of honour. The noble birth, scriptural knowledge, japa and austerity of one devoid of devotion to Bhagavān are like ornaments on a dead body: they serve no purpose and merely please people.

Anubhāṣya.
bhagavad-bhakti-hīnasya (of one averse to Kṛṣṇa's service) jātiḥ (birth in a high family and so on, gained by the force of past pious merit) śāstraṁ (Vedic study and so on) japaḥ (uttering mantras and so on) tapaḥ (sādhana and other practices): (all this is) aprāṇasya (of a lifeless) dehasya maṇḍanam (like decoration, useless and accomplishing nothing) loka-rañjanam (conventional, as if pleasing worldly people only by its outward look; fruitless, that is the meaning).

Seeing the Lord's love, His power, beauty and so on, the Bhaṭṭa is amazed —

প্রভুর প্রেমাবেশ, আর প্রভাব ভক্তিসার । সৌন্দর্য্যাদি দেখি' ভট্টের হৈল চমৎকার ॥ ৭৬ ॥

prabhura premāveśa, āra prabhāva bhakti-sāra
the Lord's absorption in love and power the essence of devotion saundaryādi dekhi' bhaṭṭera haila camatkāra beauty and the rest seeing Bhaṭṭa's there was amazement

76 Seeing the Lord's absorption in love, His power, which is the very essence of devotion, and His beauty and other qualities, Bhaṭṭa was amazed.

With the Lord and His associates they cross the river —

সগণে প্রভুরে ভট্ট নৌকাতে চড়াঞা । ভিক্ষা দিতে নিজ-ঘরে চলিলা লঞা ॥ ৭৭ ॥

sagaṇe prabhure bhaṭṭa naukāte caḍāñā with His companions the Lord Bhaṭṭa on a boat seating bhikṣā dite nija-ghare calilā lañā
a meal to offer to his own house set out taking 77 Bhaṭṭa seated the Lord and His companions in a boat and set out with them for his own home to offer Him a meal.

Seeing the dark-blue water of the Yamunā, which awakens the remembrance of Kṛṣṇa, the Lord is overwhelmed with prema —

যমুনার জল দেখি' চিক্কণ শ্যামল । প্রেমাবেশে মহাপ্রভু হইলা বিহ্বল ॥ ৭৮ ॥

yamunāra jala dekhi' cikkaṇa śyāmala of the Yamunā the water seeing glossy dark premāveśe mahāprabhu hailā vihvala
in loving ecstasy Mahāprabhu became overwhelmed

78 Seeing the glossy dark water of the Yamunā, Mahāprabhu was overwhelmed with love.

The Lord leaps into the Yamunā; everyone is terrified —

হুঙ্কার করি' যমুনার জলে দিলা ঝাঁপ । প্রভু দেখি' সবার মনে হৈল ভয়-কাঁপ ॥ ৭৯ ॥

huṅkāra kari' yamunāra jale dilā jhāṁpa
a roar making into the Yamunā's water He made a leap prabhu dekhi' sabāra mane haila bhaya-kāṁpa
the Lord seeing in everyone's mind arose trembling fear

79 With a loud roar He leaped into the water of the Yamunā. Seeing this, everyone trembled with fear.

They lift the Lord into the boat; the Lord dances —

আস্তে-ব্যস্তে সবে ধরি' প্রভুরে উঠাইল । নৌকার উপরে প্রভু নাচিতে লাগিল ॥ ৮০ ॥

āste-vyaste sabe dhari' prabhure uṭhāila
in great haste all catching hold the Lord lifted out naukāra upare prabhu nācite lāgila
on the boat the Lord to dance began

80 In great haste they all caught hold of the Lord and lifted Him out, and on the boat the Lord began to dance.

His dancing nearly capsizes the boat —

মহাপ্রভুর ভরে নৌকা করে টলমল । ডুবিতে লাগিল নৌকা, ঝলকে ভরে জল ॥ ৮১ ॥

mahāprabhura bhare naukā kare ṭalamala Mahāprabhu's under the weight the boat makes rocking ḍubite lāgila naukā, jhalake bhare jala
to sink began the boat in gushes fills water

81 Under Mahāprabhu's weight the boat rocked to and fro, and as water gushed in, it began to sink.

Though the Lord tries to restrain Himself near the outsider Bhaṭṭa, He is maddened with prema —

যদ্যপি ভট্টের আগে প্রভুর ধৈর্য্য হৈল মন । দুর্ব্বার উদ্ভট প্রেম নহে সম্বরণ ॥ ৮২ ॥

yadyapi bhaṭṭera āge prabhura dhairya haila mana although Bhaṭṭa's before the Lord's steady became mind
durvāra udbhaṭa prema nahe samvaraṇa irresistible mighty love is not restrained

82 Although in Bhaṭṭa's presence the Lord had steadied His mind, His irresistible, mighty love could not be held back.

Anubhāṣya.
Durvāra: that whose manifestation cannot be checked, that is, stopped. Uddhaṭa: generous, excellent, unprecedented, wonderful, renowned, extraordinary, mighty.

The Lord regains composure; they land on the other shore —

দেশ-পাত্র দেখি' মহাপ্রভু ধৈর্য্য হইল । আড়াইলের ঘাটে নৌকা আসি' উত্তরিল ॥ ৮৩ ॥

deśa-pātra dekhi' mahāprabhu dhairya haila
the place and the people seeing Mahāprabhu composed became āḍāilera ghāṭe naukā āsi' uttarila
at Āḍāila's ghāṭa the boat coming landed

83 Considering the place and the people, Mahāprabhu became composed, and the boat came to land at the ghāṭa of Āḍāila.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
That region was largely devoid of prema, and Vallabha Bhaṭṭa, who was present, was a man much given to argument. Seeing this, Mahāprabhu restrained Himself.

Anubhāṣya.
Deśa-pātra ("the place and the people"): on a boat that is nearly sinking, dancing and the like are not convenient. Moreover, near a paṇḍita poor in prema, such as Vallabha Dīkṣita, the sāttvika-bhāvas do not blossom.

After bathing, Vallabha brings the Lord to his home —

ভয়ে ভট্ট সঙ্গে রহে, মধ্যাহ্ন করাঞা । নিজ-গৃহে আনিলা প্রভুরে সঙ্গেতে লঞা ॥ ৮৪ ॥

bhaye bhaṭṭa saṅge rahe, madhyāhna karāñā out of fear Bhaṭṭa near stays the midday bath having Him take nija-gṛhe ānilā prabhure saṅgete lañā to his own house brought the Lord with him taking 84 Out of fear Bhaṭṭa stayed close by the Lord. After seeing to His midday bath, he took the Lord with him to his own house.

Vallabha washes the Lord's feet with his own hands and with his whole family honours the water from His feet —

আনন্দিত হঞা ভট্ট দিল দিব্যাসন । আপনে করিল প্রভুর পাদপ্রক্ষালন ॥ ৮৫ ॥

ānandita hañā bhaṭṭa dila divyāsana joyful becoming Bhaṭṭa gave a fine seat
āpane karila prabhura pāda-prakṣālana himself performed the Lord's washing of the feet

85 Joyfully Bhaṭṭa offered Him a fine seat and himself washed the Lord's feet.

He gives the Lord new clothes —

সবংশে সেই জল মস্তকে ধরিল । নূতন কৌপীন-বহির্ব্বাস পরাইল ॥ ৮৬ ॥

savaṁśe sei jala mastake dharila with his whole family that water on the head placed nūtana kaupīna-bahirvāsa parāila
new kaupīna and outer cloth dressed Him in 86 With his whole family he placed that water on his head, and he dressed the Lord in a new kaupīna and outer cloth.

Worship of the Lord; Balabhadra cooks —

গন্ধ-পুষ্প-ধূপ-দীপে মহাপূজা কৈল । ভট্টাচার্য্যে মান্য করি' পাক করাইল ॥ ৮৭ ॥

gandha-puṣpa-dhūpa-dīpe mahā-pūjā kaila with sandal paste, flowers, incense and lamps great worship made bhaṭṭācārye mānya kari' pāka karāila
to the Bhaṭṭācārya respect showing cooking had done

87 He worshipped the Lord grandly with sandal paste, flowers, incense and lamps, and with due respect he had Balabhadra Bhaṭṭācārya do the cooking.[8]

The Lord and the two brothers take their meal at Vallabha's home —

ভিক্ষা করাইল প্রভুরে সস্নেহ যতনে । রূপগোসাঞি-দুইভাইয়ে করাইল ভোজনে ॥ ৮৮ ॥

bhikṣā karāila prabhure sasneha yatane
the meal he had (Him) take the Lord with affection with care rūpagosāñi-duibhāiye karāila bhojane
Rūpa Gosvāmī and his brother had eat

88 With affection and care he fed the Lord, and he also fed the two brothers, Rūpa Gosvāmī and Anupama.

Śrī Rūpa and Kṛṣṇadāsa receive the Lord's remnants —

ভট্টাচার্য্য শ্রীরূপে দেওয়াইল 'অবশেষ' । তবে সেই প্রসাদ কৃষ্ণদাস পাইল শেষ ॥ ৮৯ ॥

bhaṭṭācārya śrī-rūpe deoyāila 'avaśeṣa'
the Bhaṭṭācārya to Śrī Rūpa had given the remnants
tabe sei prasāda kṛṣṇadāsa pāila śeṣa
then that prasāda Kṛṣṇadāsa received the rest

89 The Bhaṭṭācārya had the Lord's remnants given to Śrī Rūpa, and Kṛṣṇadāsa then received what remained of that prasāda.

Vallabha massages the Lord's feet —

মুখবাস দিয়া প্রভুরে করাইল শয়ন । আপনে ভট্ট করেন প্রভুর পাদ-সম্বাহন ॥ ৯০ ॥

mukha-vāsa diyā prabhure karāila śayana mouth-freshening spices giving the Lord had lie down āpane bhaṭṭa karena prabhura pāda-samvāhana himself Bhaṭṭa does the Lord's massaging of the feet

90 He gave the Lord spices to freshen His mouth and had Him lie down to rest, and Bhaṭṭa himself massaged the Lord's feet.

Having eaten, Vallabha returns —

প্রভু পাঠাইল তাঁরে করিতে ভোজনে । ভোজন করি' আইলা তেঁহো প্রভুর চরণে ॥ ৯১ ॥

prabhu pāṭhāila tāṁre karite bhojane
the Lord sent him to take his meal
bhojana kari' āilā teṁho prabhura caraṇe
the meal having taken came he to the Lord's feet

91 The Lord sent him to take his meal, and after eating he came back to the Lord's feet.

Raghupati Upādhyāya, a paṇḍita from Trihuta, arrives —

হেনকালে আইলা রঘুপতি উপাধ্যায় । তিরুহিতা পণ্ডিত, বড় বৈষ্ণব, মহাশয় ॥ ৯২ ॥

hena-kāle āilā raghupati upādhyāya
at that time came Raghupati Upādhyāya
tiruhitā paṇḍita, baḍa vaiṣṇava, mahāśaya
of Tirhut a paṇḍita a great Vaiṣṇava a noble soul

92 At that time Raghupati Upādhyāya arrived, a paṇḍita from Tirhut, a great Vaiṣṇava and a noble soul.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Several ślokas composed by Raghupati Upādhyāya are found in the Padyāvalī. He lived in Tirhut, that is, in the land of Mithilā.

Anubhāṣya.

"Tiruṭiyā," or "Tirahuṭiyā": today four districts, Sāraṇa, Campāraṇa, Majaḥpharapura (Muzaffarpur) and Dvārabhāṅgā (Darbhanga), belong to the Tirhut division. An inhabitant of this region is called a "Tiruṭiyā."

He bows to the Lord; the Lord blesses him —

আসি' তেঁহো কৈল প্রভুর চরণ বন্দন ।
'কৃষ্ণে মতি রহু' বলি' প্রভুর বচন ॥ ৯৩ ॥

āsi' teṁho kaila prabhura caraṇa vandana coming he made the Lord's feet obeisance
'kṛṣṇe mati rahu' bali' prabhura vacana
'in Kṛṣṇa the mind may it rest' saying the Lord's words

93 He came and bowed at the Lord's feet, and the Lord said to him: "May your mind rest in Kṛṣṇa."

The Lord tells the Upādhyāya to describe Kṛṣṇa —

শুনি' আনন্দিত হৈল উপাধ্যায়ের মন । প্রভু তাঁরে কহিল, — 'কহ কৃষ্ণের বর্ণন' ॥ ৯৪ ॥

śuni' ānandita haila upādhyāyera mana hearing joyful became Upādhyāya's mind
prabhu tāṁre kahila, — kaha kṛṣṇera varṇana
the Lord to him said tell of Kṛṣṇa a description

94 Hearing this, Upādhyāya was delighted at heart. The Lord said to him: "Describe Kṛṣṇa to Me."

The Upādhyāya recites his own śloka; the Lord is overwhelmed with prema —

নিজ-কৃত কৃষ্ণলীলা-শ্লোক-পড়িল । শুনি' মহাপ্রভুর মহা-প্রেমাবেশ হৈল ॥ ৯৫ ॥

nija-kṛta kṛṣṇa-līlā-śloka-paḍila of his own composition about Kṛṣṇa's pastimes a verse he recited śuni' mahāprabhura mahā-premāveśa haila hearing Mahāprabhu's great absorption in love came

95 He recited a verse of his own about Kṛṣṇa's pastimes, and hearing it, Mahāprabhu was overwhelmed with great love.

Obeisance to Śrī Nanda — (Padyāvalī 126, in the first part) —

শ্রুতিমপরে স্মৃতিমিতরে ভারতমন্যে ভজন্তু ভব-ভীতাঃ । অহমিহ নন্দং বন্দে যস্যালিন্দে পরং ব্রহ্ম ॥ ৯৬ ॥

śrutim apare smṛtim itare bhāratam anye bhajantu bhava-bhītāḥ
the śruti some the smṛti others the Mahābhārata still others let worship afraid of worldly existence
aham iha nandaṁ vande yasyālinde paraṁ brahma
I here Nanda worship in whose courtyard the Supreme Brahman

96 "Let those who fear worldly existence worship — some the śruti, others the smṛti, still others the Mahābhārata. But here I bow to Nanda, in whose courtyard the Supreme Brahman plays." (Padyāvalī, 126)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Let those who fear worldly existence worship, some the śruti, some the smṛti, and others the Mahābhārata. But I (here) honour Śrī Nanda alone, on whose veranda (alinda) the Supreme Brahman, Kṛṣṇa, plays.

Anubhāṣya.
bhava-bhītāḥ (those afraid of saṁsāra) apare (some who are not servants of Hari, but seekers of liberation) śrutim (the Vedic scriptures), itare (others, some who are not servants of Hari, karmīs who desire fruits) smṛtim (scriptures devoted to worldly rites), anye (people of saṁsāra) bhāratam (the Mahābhārata and other books that everyone enjoys reading) bhajantu; aham tu iha (in this world) (that)

nandaṁ (the King of Vraja) vande, yasya (of Nanda) alinde (in the courtyard before the entrance) paraṁ brahma (Śrī Kṛṣṇa abides).

'আগে কহ' — প্রভু-বাক্যে উপাধ্যায় কহিল । রঘুপতি উপাধ্যায় নমস্কার কৈল ॥ ৯৭ ॥

'āge kaha' — prabhu-vākye upādhyāya kahila
'further speak' at the Lord's word Upādhyāya spoke raghupati upādhyāya namaskāra kaila Raghupati Upādhyāya obeisance made

97 When the Lord said, "Speak on," Upādhyāya continued, and Raghupati Upādhyāya bowed down before Him.[9]

Kṛṣṇa, who sports in the groves of the Yamunā — (Padyāvalī 98) —

কম্প্রতি কথয়িতুমীশে সম্প্রতি কো বা প্রতীতিমায়াতু । গোপতি-তনয়াকুঞ্জে গোপবধূটী-বিটং ব্রহ্ম ॥ ৯৮ ॥

kaṁ prati kathayitum īśe samprati ko vā pratītim āyātu to whom addressing to tell am I able now who or belief would come to go-pati-tanayā-kuñje gopa-vadhūṭī-viṭaṁ brahma
in the grove of the daughter of the Sun the lover of the young cowherd girls Brahman

98 "To whom can I tell it, and who would believe it now, that in the groves of the daughter of the Sun, the Yamunā, Brahman is the lover of the young cowherd girls?" (Padyāvalī, 98)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
To whom can I say it, and who now will believe, that in the groves of the Sun's daughter the Supreme Brahman, the lover (lampaṭa) of the cowherd wives, performs His pastimes?

Anubhāṣya.
go-pati-tanayā-kuñje (Gopati is the sun; his daughter is Kālindī; in a grove on her bank) (engaged in pastimes) gopa-vadhūṭī-viṭaṁ (gopa-vadhūṭīs are young, very youthful cowherd women: the suffix ī is here diminutive; their lover, viṭa, lampaṭa)

(the supreme) brahma (is Śrī Kṛṣṇa: this) samprati kaṁ (to what person) prati kathayitum īśe (am I able), kaḥ vā pratītim (faith) āyātu (will come to)?

As Raghupati recites the śloka, the Lord is overwhelmed with prema —

প্রভু কহেন, — কহ, তেঁহো পড়ে কৃষ্ণলীলা । প্রেমাবেশে প্রভুর দেহ-মন আলুয়াইলা ॥ ৯৯ ॥

prabhu kahena, — kaha, teṁho paḍe kṛṣṇa-līlā
the Lord says speak he recites Kṛṣṇa's pastimes
premāveśe prabhura deha-mana āluyāilā
in loving ecstasy the Lord's body and mind were thrown into turmoil

99 The Lord said, "Go on," and he recited verses on Kṛṣṇa's pastimes. In the ecstasy of love the Lord's body and mind were thrown into turmoil.

Anubhāṣya.
Āluyāilā: became disordered. The mind, free of worldly deliberation, became indifferent, and therefore even the actions of the body slackened.

The Upādhyāya is amazed and understands the Lord to be "Kṛṣṇa" —

প্রেম দেখি' উপাধ্যায়ের হৈল চমৎকার ।
'মনুষ্য নহে, ইঁহো' — 'কৃষ্ণ' করিল নির্দ্ধার ॥ ১০০ ॥

prema dekhi' upādhyāyera haila camatkāra
the love seeing Upādhyāya's there was amazement
'manuṣya nahe, iṁho' — 'kṛṣṇa' karila nirddhāra
'a human being is not He' 'Kṛṣṇa' he made conclusion

100 Seeing such love, Upādhyāya was amazed. "He is not a human being," he concluded. "He is Kṛṣṇa."

The conversation of the Lord and Raghupati: the Lord asks and the Upādhyāya answers. (1) Kṛṣṇa's form as "Śyāma" is the best — প্রভু কহে, — উপাধ্যায়, শ্রেষ্ঠ মান' কায় ?

'শ্যামমেব পরং রূপং' — কহে উপাধ্যায় ॥ ১০১ ॥

prabhu kahe, — upādhyāya, śreṣṭha māna' kāya?
the Lord says Upādhyāya the best consider whom
'śyāmam eva paraṁ rūpaṁ' — kahe upādhyāya
'the dark indeed supreme form' says Upādhyāya

101 The Lord said: "Upādhyāya, whom do you consider the best?" "Śyāmam eva paraṁ rūpam — the dark form is the supreme form," said Upādhyāya.

Anubhāṣya.

The Lord asked Raghupati: "Bhagavān has countless forms, such as Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa, Rāma and Nṛsiṁha. Which of these forms do you consider the best?"

(2) Mathurā is the best abode —

শ্যাম-রূপের বাসস্থান শ্রেষ্ঠ মান' কায় ?
'পুরী মধুপুরী বরা' — কহে উপাধ্যায় ॥ ১০২ ॥

śyāma-rūpera vāsa-sthāna śreṣṭha māna' kāya?
of the dark form the abode the best consider which
'purī madhu-purī varā' — kahe upādhyāya
'city Madhupurī the best' says Upādhyāya

102 "Which abode of that dark form do you consider the best?" "Purī madhu-purī varā — Madhupurī is the best of cities," said Upādhyāya.

Anubhāṣya.

Kṛṣṇa resides sometimes in Mathurā-maṇḍala and sometimes in Dvārakā, in Paravyoma. Here it is said that of these two Madhupurī is the best. Śrī Rūpapāda says in the Upadeśāmṛta: "Madhupurī is superior to Vaikuṇṭha, because there the Lord took birth"[22] and so on.

(3) The age of kaiśora alone is to be worshipped —

বাল্য, পৌগণ্ড, কৈশোরে, শ্রেষ্ঠ মান' কায় ?
'বয়ঃ কৈশোরকং ধ্যেয়ং' — কহে উপাধ্যায় ॥ ১০৩ ॥

bālya, paugaṇḍa, kaiśore, śreṣṭha māna' kāya?
childhood boyhood youth (of these) the best consider which
'vayaḥ kaiśorakaṁ dhyeyaṁ' — kahe upādhyāya
'the age of youth to be meditated on' says Upādhyāya

103 "Of childhood, boyhood and youth, which do you consider the best?" "Vayaḥ kaiśorakaṁ dhyeyam — youth is the age to meditate on," said Upādhyāya.

Anubhāṣya.
Which of Kṛṣṇa's three ages do you consider most worthy of acceptance?

(4) The transcendental śṛṅgāra-rasa is the highest of all and the best object of worship —

রসগণ-মধ্যে তুমি শ্রেষ্ঠ মান' কায় ?
'আদ্য এব পরো রসঃ' — কহে উপাধ্যায় ॥ ১০৪ ॥

rasa-gaṇa-madhye tumi śreṣṭha māna' kāya?
of the rasas among you the best consider which
'ādya eva paro rasaḥ' — kahe upādhyāya
'the original indeed supreme rasa' says Upādhyāya

104 "Among all the rasas, which do you consider the best?" "Ādya eva paro rasaḥ — the original rasa is the highest," said Upādhyāya.

The Lord's joy —

প্রভু কহে, — ভাল তত্ত্ব শিখাইলা মোরে । এত বলি' শ্লোক পড়ে গদগদ-স্বরে ॥ ১০৫ ॥

prabhu kahe, — bhāla tattva śikhāilā more the Lord says an excellent truth you have taught Me eta bali' śloka paḍe gadagada-svare
so saying a verse He recites in a choked voice

105 The Lord said: "You have taught Me an excellent truth." Saying this, He recited the verse in a voice choked with emotion:

(Padyāvalī 82: a śloka of Mādhavendra Purī)

শ্যামমেব পরং রূপং পুরী মধুপুরী বরা । বয়ঃ কৈশোরকং ধ্যেয়মাদ্য এব পরো রসঃ ॥ ১০৬ ॥

śyāmam eva paraṁ rūpaṁ
the dark indeed supreme form purī madhu-purī varā city Madhupurī the best
vayaḥ kaiśorakaṁ dhyeyam
the age of youth to be meditated on ādya eva paro rasaḥ
the original indeed supreme rasa

106 "The dark form is the supreme form; Madhupurī is the best of cities; youth (kaiśora) is the age to meditate on; and the original rasa, śṛṅgāra, is the highest rasa." (Padyāvalī, 82)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Śyāma's form is the best of forms, Madhupurī the best of cities, the age of kaiśora is the one to meditate upon, and the original rasa, that is, śṛṅgāra, is the best of rasas.

Anubhāṣya.
(Among the forms of Bhagavān, that is, His images differing in colour and shape) śyāmam (the form of Śyāmasundara, the son of Nanda, with a body like a cloud) rūpam eva param (is the best); (among cities such as Vaikuṇṭha and Mathurā) madhu-purī purī (Mathurā alone) varā (is the best); (among the ages of childhood, boyhood and kaiśora) kaiśorakaṁ vayaḥ (preceding youth, befitting a dhīra-lalita hero) (alone) dhyeyam (is to be worshipped constantly); (among the varieties of spiritual rasa) ādyaḥ (the sweet śṛṅgāra) rasaḥ eva paraḥ (is the best).

The Lord embraces the Upādhyāya; the Upādhyāya dances —

প্রেমাবেশে প্রভু তাঁরে কৈলা আলিঙ্গন । প্রেমে মত্ত হঞা তেঁহো করেন নর্ত্তন ॥ ১০৭ ॥

premāveśe prabhu tāṁre kailā āliṅgana in loving ecstasy the Lord him embraced preme matta hañā teṁho karena nartana
with love intoxicated becoming he does dancing

107 In His rapture the Lord embraced him, and Upādhyāya, intoxicated with love, began to dance.

Vallabha is amazed and offers his son at the Lord's feet —

দেখি' বল্লভ-ভট্ট মনে চমৎকার হৈল । দুই পুত্র আনি' প্রভুর চরণে পাড়িল ॥ ১০৮ ॥

dekhi' vallabha-bhaṭṭa mane camatkāra haila seeing Vallabha Bhaṭṭa in mind amazement there was dui putra āni' prabhura caraṇe pāḍila
two sons bringing at the Lord's feet he made fall

108 Seeing this, Vallabha Bhaṭṭa was amazed. He brought his two sons and had them fall at the Lord's feet.

Anubhāṣya.
The two sons were Gopīnātha and Viṭhṭhaleśvara. Śrī Mahāprabhu came to Prayāga in Śaka 1434 or 1435; at that time Viṭhṭhala had not yet been born. See Madhya 8.47[23].

The residents of the village of Āḍāila see the Lord and become Vaiṣṇavas —

প্রভু দেখিবারে গ্রামের সব-লোক আইল । প্রভু-দরশনে সব-লোক 'কৃষ্ণভক্ত' হইল ॥ ১০৯ ॥

prabhu dekhibāre grāmera saba-loka āila
the Lord to see of the village all the people came prabhu-daraśane saba-loka 'kṛṣṇa-bhakta' haila on seeing the Lord all the people 'devotees of Kṛṣṇa' became 109 All the people of the village came to see the Lord, and on seeing Him they all became devotees of Kṛṣṇa.

The brāhmaṇas invite the Lord; Vallabha stops them —

ব্রাহ্মণসকল করেন প্রভুর ‘নিমন্ত্রণ’ । বল্লভ-ভট্ট তাঁ সবারে করেন নিবারণ ॥ ১১০ ॥

brāhmaṇa-sakala karena prabhura ‘nimantraṇa’
the brāhmaṇas all make the Lord’s ‘invitation’
vallabha-bhaṭṭa tāṁ sabāre karena nivāraṇa
Vallabha Bhaṭṭa them all makes restraint

110 All the brāhmaṇas wanted to invite the Lord, but Vallabha Bhaṭṭa held them all back:

‘প্রেমোন্মাদে পড়ে গোসাঞি মধ্য-যমুনাতে । প্রয়াগে চালাইব, ইঁহা না দিব রহিতে ॥ ১১১ ॥

premonmāde paḍe gosāñi madhya-yamunāte in the madness of love throws Himself Gosāñi into the middle of the Yamunā prayāge cālāiba, iṁhā nā diba rahite to Prayāga I will take here not I will let stay

111 “In the madness of love Gosāñi throws Himself into the middle of the Yamunā. I will take Him to Prayāga; I will not let Him stay here.

যাঁর ইচ্ছা, প্রয়াগে যাঞা করিবে নিমন্ত্রণ’ । এত বলি’ প্রভু লঞা করিল গমন ॥ ১১২ ॥

yāṁra icchā, prayāge yāñā karibe nimantraṇa whose wish to Prayāga going will make invitation eta bali’ prabhu lañā karila gamana
so saying the Lord taking he made departure

112 Whoever wishes may go to Prayāga and invite Him there.” Saying this, he took the Lord and set out.

Vallabha takes the Lord by boat to the other shore, to Prayāga —

গঙ্গা-পথে মহাপ্রভুরে নৌকাতে বসাঞা । প্রয়াগে আইলা ভট্ট গোসাঞিরে লঞা ॥ ১১৩ ॥

gaṅgā-pathe mahāprabhure naukāte vasāñā
by the Gaṅgā route Mahāprabhu in a boat seating prayāge āilā bhaṭṭa gosāñire lañā to Prayāga came Bhaṭṭa Gosāñi taking 113 Seating Mahāprabhu in a boat, Bhaṭṭa brought Gosāñi to Prayāga by way of the Gaṅgā.

In private, at Daśāśvamedha-ghāṭa, the Lord infuses power into Śrī Rūpa and instructs him —

লোক-ভিড়-ভয়ে প্রভু 'দশাশ্বমেধে' যাঞা । রূপ-গোসাঞিরে শিক্ষা করা'ন শক্তি সঞ্চারিয়া ॥ ১১৪ ॥

loka-bhiḍa-bhaye prabhu 'daśāśvamedhe' yāñā of the crowds of people out of fear the Lord to 'Daśāśvamedha' going rūpa-gosāñire śikṣā karā'na śakti sañcāriyā
Rūpa Gosvāmī teaching gives power infusing

114 Fearing the crowds, the Lord went to Daśāśvamedha, and there He taught Rūpa Gosvāmī, infusing him with His power.

Anubhāṣya.

Bhagavān possesses unlimited energies. A jīva who has pious merit (sukṛti) receives the energy of mercy from Bhagavān, the possessor of energies. Fallen into the jaws of māyā, the jīva, because of ignorance, that is, aversion to Kṛṣṇa, remains uninitiated into the truth of sambandha, abhidheya and prayojana. Bhagavān Gaurahari mercifully first bestowed on Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī the power to understand the truth and then taught him the truth.

The Lord teaches the limits of the truths of Kṛṣṇa, of bhakti and of rasa —

কৃষ্ণতত্ত্ব-ভক্তিতত্ত্ব, রসতত্ত্ব-প্রান্ত । সব শিখাইল প্রভু ভাগবত-সিদ্ধান্ত ॥ ১১৫ ॥

kṛṣṇa-tattva-bhakti-tattva, rasa-tattva-prānta
the truth of Kṛṣṇa the truth of devotion of the truth of rasa the furthest limit saba śikhāila prabhu bhāgavata-siddhānta
all taught the Lord the conclusions of the Bhāgavata

115 The Lord taught him everything: the truth of Kṛṣṇa, the truth of devotion and the truth of rasa to its furthest limit — the conclusions of the Bhāgavata.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Prānta: the limit.

The Lord imparts to Śrī Rūpa the conclusions about bhakti that Rāmānanda had expounded —

রামানন্দ-পাশে যত সিদ্ধান্ত শুনিলা । রূপে কৃপা করি' তাহা সব সঞ্চারিলা ॥ ১১৬ ॥

rāmānanda-pāśe yata siddhānta śunilā
from Rāmānanda all conclusions He had heard rūpe kṛpā kari' tāhā saba sañcārilā into Rūpa mercy showing them all He infused

116 All the conclusions He had heard from Rāmānanda He mercifully infused into Rūpa.

All truths manifest in Śrī Rūpa's heart —

শ্রীরূপ-হৃদয়ে প্রভু শক্তি সঞ্চারিলা । সর্ব্বতত্ত্ব নিরূপিয়া 'প্রবীণ' করিলা ॥ ১১৭ ॥

śrī-rūpa-hṛdaye prabhu śakti sañcārilā into Śrī Rūpa's heart the Lord power infused sarva-tattva nirūpiyā 'pravīṇa' karilā
all truths revealing 'expert' He made

117 The Lord infused His power into Śrī Rūpa's heart and, revealing every truth to him, made him a master of them all.

Kavi Karṇapūra mentions the instructions to Śrī Rūpa in his own book —

শিবানন্দ-সেনের পুত্র 'কবিকর্ণপূর' ।
'রূপের মিলন' স্ব-গ্রন্থে লিখিয়াছেন প্রচুর ॥ ১১৮ ॥

śivānanda-senera putra 'kavi-karṇapūra'
of Śivānanda Sena the son 'Kavi-karṇapūra'
'rūpera milana' sva-granthe likhiyāchena pracura
'the meeting with Rūpa' in his own book has written at length

118 Kavi-karṇapūra, the son of Śivānanda Sena, has written at length in his book about the Lord's meeting with Rūpa.

Through Śrī Rūpa and Sanātana the Lord reveals the account of His pastimes in Vraja — (Śrī Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka 9.38) —

কালেন বৃন্দাবনকেলিবার্ত্তা লুপ্তেতি তাং খ্যাপয়িতুং বিশিষ্য ।
কৃপামৃতেনাভিষিষেচ দেব-স্তত্রৈব রূপঞ্চ সনাতনঞ্চ ॥ ১১৯ ॥

kālena vṛndāvana-keli-vārtā
by time of the pastimes of Vṛndāvana the account lupteti tāṁ khyāpayituṁ viśiṣya
lost therefore it to make known in a special way kṛpāmṛtenābhiṣiṣeca devas with the nectar of mercy sprinkled the Lord tatraiva rūpaṁ ca sanātanaṁ ca
there indeed Rūpa and Sanātana and 119 "Since over time the account of the pastimes of Vṛndāvana had been lost, the Lord, to make it known in a special way, sprinkled Rūpa and Sanātana there with the nectar of His mercy." (Caitanya-candrodaya, 9.38)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Over time the account of the pastimes of Vṛndāvana had been lost. To spread those pastimes in a special way, Śrī Gaurāṅgadeva there and then anointed Śrī Rūpa and Śrī Sanātana with the nectar of His mercy.

Anubhāṣya.

kālena (by the force of time, that is, of Bhagavān's will) vṛndāvana-keli-vārtā (the account of the pastimes full of rasa connected with Vṛndāvana) luptā (had become covered) iti (therefore) tāṁ (that account) viśiṣya (making it special) khyāpayituṁ (to reveal) devaḥ (Śrī Gaurahari) tatra eva (in Vṛndāvana) rūpaṁ ca sanātanaṁ ca kṛpāmṛtena (with the water of the nectar of compassion) abhiṣiṣeca (anointed).

The Lord bestows His grace on Śrī Rūpa — (Śrī Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka 9.29) —

যঃ প্রাগেব প্রিয়গুণগণৈর্গাঢ়বদ্ধোঽপি মুক্তো গেহাধ্যাসাদ্রস ইব পরো মূর্ত্ত এবাপ্যমূর্ত্তঃ ৷
প্রেমালাপৈর্দৃঢ়তরপরিষ্বঙ্গরঙ্গৈঃ প্রয়াগে তং শ্রীরূপং সমমনুপমেনানুজগ্রাহ দেবঃ ॥ ১২০ ॥

yaḥ prāg eva priya-guṇa-gaṇair gāḍha-baddho 'pi mukto who before already by the multitude of the Beloved's qualities tightly bound though freed

gehādhyāsād rasa iva paro mūrta evāpy amūrtaḥ from attachment to home rasa like supreme embodied indeed though intangible

premālāpair dṛḍhatara-pariṣvaṅga-raṅgaiḥ prayāge with loving talks with the joys of the tightest embraces in Prayāga

taṁ śrī-rūpaṁ samam anupamenānujagrāha devaḥ him Śrī Rūpa together with Anupama favoured the Lord

120 "Though Śrī Rūpa had long been bound fast by the many qualities of his Beloved, he was free from attachment to home. The Lord is like the supreme rasa, which, though intangible, has taken on a visible form. In Prayāga He favoured Rūpa and his younger brother Anupama with loving talks and the joy of the tightest embraces." (Caitanya-candrodaya, 9.29)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Śrī Rūpa had previously been tightly bound by many qualities dear to him, yet he became free from household life. Gaurāṅgadeva Himself — like rasa: intangible, as rasa is, yet the supreme embodied one — favoured him in Prayāga together with his younger brother Anupama with loving conversations and firm embraces.

Anubhāṣya.

yaḥ (Śrī Rūpa) prāg eva priya-guṇa-gaṇaiḥ (by the many qualities of the Beloved, Gaura) gāḍha-baddhaḥ (tightly bound, that is, extremely attached) api gehādhyāsāt (from attachment to home, enacted for the sake of līlā) muktaḥ (having lost all desire for it) (was), taṁ (him) śrī-rūpaṁ anupamena (with his younger brother) samam (together) amūrtaḥ api paraḥ mūrtaḥ rasaḥ iva (manifesting His own form) devaḥ (Gaura) prayāge (at the confluence of the Gaṅgā and the Yamunā) premālāpaiḥ dṛḍhatara-pariṣvaṅga-raṅgaiḥ (with the play of firm embraces) anujagrāha (showed mercy).

Through Śrī Rūpa, His second self and His all in all, the Lord spreads the scriptures on the truth of bhakti-rasa — (Śrī Caitanya-candrodaya-nāṭaka, act 9: Sārvabhauma's words) —

প্রিয়স্বরূপে দয়িতস্বরূপে প্রেমস্বরূপে সহজাভিরূপে । নিজানুরূপে প্রভুরেকরূপে ততান রূপে স্ববিলাসরূপে ॥ ১২১ ॥

priya-svarūpe dayita-svarūpe
dear by nature beloved by nature
prema-svarūpe sahajābhirūpe
the embodiment of love naturally beautiful nijānurūpe prabhur eka-rūpe
like Himself the Lord the principal form
tatāna rūpe sva-vilāsa-rūpe spread through Rūpa the form of His own pastimes

121 "Rūpa is dear to the Lord by his very nature and beloved by Him; he is love embodied, and his form is naturally beautiful. He is like the Lord Himself, His principal form and the form of His own pastimes. Through such a Rūpa the Lord spread the scriptures of bhakti-rasa." (Caitanya-candrodaya, 9.30)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī is dear to the Lord by his very nature, beloved by nature, prema embodied, endowed with natural captivating beauty, the principal form, like the Lord Himself: he is the Lord's own vilāsa. Through such a Śrī Rūpa the Lord spread (the scriptures of bhakti-rasa).

Anubhāṣya.
priya-svarūpe (priya means a devotee; in one whose svarūpa is such, that is, in the form of a devotee) dayita-svarūpe (in one to whom [the Lord] gave His own self) prema-svarūpe (in a form full of prema and nondifferent from Himself) sahajābhirūpe (in one whose form is naturally, by nature, beautiful and captivating) nijānurūpe (in one whose form resembles [the Lord's], because it reveals prema) eka-rūpe (in one whose form is unique, that is, principal) sva-vilāsa-rūpe (in one whose form is the vilāsa of the Lord's own svarūpa, a form for līlā) rūpe (in Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī) prabhuḥ (Śrī Mahāprabhu) tatāna (spread: through Śrī Rūpa alone He revealed the scriptures of bhakti-rasa).

এইমত কর্ণপূর লিখে স্থানে-স্থানে । প্রভু কৃপা কৈলা যৈছে রূপ-সনাতনে ॥ ১২২ ॥

ei-mata karṇapūra likhe sthāne-sthāne
in this way Karṇapūra writes in various places
prabhu kṛpā kailā yaiche rūpa-sanātane
the Lord mercy showed how to Rūpa and Sanātana

122 In this way Karṇapūra writes in various places how the Lord showed His mercy to Rūpa and Sanātana.

Anubhāṣya.
Sthāne-sthāne ("in various places"): in various places of the book Śrī Caitanya-candrodaya.

Śrī Rūpa and Sanātana are the dearest of all to Gaura's devotees —

মহাপ্রভুর যত বড় বড় ভক্ত মাত্র । রূপ-সনাতন — সবার কৃপা-গৌরব-পাত্র ॥ ১২৩ ॥

mahāprabhura yata baḍa baḍa bhakta mātra Mahāprabhu's as many great great devotees all rūpa-sanātana — sabāra kṛpā-gaurava-pātra
Rūpa and Sanātana of all of affection and esteem the objects

123 Every one of Mahāprabhu's great devotees held Rūpa and Sanātana in affection and esteem.

An example of how all valued them: those who had seen Vṛndāvana were eagerly asked about Rūpa and Sanātana —

কেহ যদি দেশে যায় দেখি' বৃন্দাবন । তাঁরে প্রশ্ন করেন প্রভুর পারিষদগণ ॥ ১২৪ ॥

keha yadi deśe yāya dekhi' vṛndāvana
anyone if home goes having seen Vṛndāvana
tāṁre praśna karena prabhura pāriṣada-gaṇa
to him questions put the Lord's associates

124 Whenever anyone returned home after seeing Vṛndāvana, the Lord's associates would ask him:

“কহ, — তাঁহা কৈছে রহে রূপ-সনাতন ?
কৈছে রহে, কৈছে বৈরাগ্য, কৈছে ভোজন ? ॥ ১২৫ ॥

kaha, — tāṁhā kaiche rahe rūpa-sanātana?
tell there how live Rūpa and Sanātana kaiche rahe, kaiche vairāgya, kaiche bhojana?
how they live how renunciation how eating

125 “Tell us, how are Rūpa and Sanātana faring there? How do they live, what is their renunciation like, what do they eat?

কৈছে অষ্টপ্রহর করেন শ্রীকৃষ্ণ-ভজন ?”
তবে প্রশংসিয়া কহে সেই ভক্তগণ ॥ ১২৬ ॥

kaiche aṣṭa-prahara karena śrī-kṛṣṇa-bhajana?
how all day and night they do worship of Śrī Kṛṣṇa
tabe praśaṁsiyā kahe sei bhakta-gaṇa
then praising say those devotees

126 How do they worship Śrī Kṛṣṇa all day and night?” Then those devotees would answer with praise:

A description of the renunciation of Śrī Rūpa and Sanātana and of their intoxication with the taste of bhakti-rasa —

“অনিকেত দুঁহে, বনে যত বৃক্ষগণ । এক এক বৃক্ষের তলে এক এক রাত্রি শয়ন ॥ ১২৭ ॥

aniketa duṁhe, vane yata vṛkṣa-gaṇa
without dwelling both in the forest as many trees
eka eka vṛkṣera tale eka eka rātri śayana
one one tree under one one night sleeping

127 “They have no dwelling. They sleep under the trees of the forest, under each tree for one night only.

‘বিপ্রগৃহে’ স্থূলভিক্ষা, কাঁহা মাধুকরী ।
শুষ্ক রুটী-চানা চিবায় ভোগ পরিহরি’ ॥ ১২৮ ॥

‘vipra-gṛhe’ sthūla-bhikṣā, kāṁhā mādhu-karī
‘in the homes of brāhmaṇas’ a full meal as alms somewhere mādhukarī śuṣka ruṭī-cānā civāya bhoga parihari’
dry bread and chickpeas they chew enjoyment rejecting 128 In the homes of brāhmaṇas they take a full meal as alms; elsewhere they gather mādhukarī. Rejecting all enjoyment, they chew dry bread and parched chickpeas.

Anubhāṣya.

Sthūla-bhikṣā: alms after which one need not beg any other food from others to fill the stomach.

Mādhukarī: a bee gathers honey from many flowers and carries it to the hive. In the same way some fill their stomach by gathering a little food in many places; their way of life is called “mādhukarī.”

Bhoga parihari (“giving up enjoyment”): for pleasure people use stimulating substances that increase sensual urges. Giving all that up, they kept themselves alive on dry bread and roasted chickpeas, to preserve a body fit for bhajana.

করোঁয়া-মাত্র হাতে, কাঁথা, ছিঁড়া-বহির্ব্বাস । কৃষ্ণকথা, কৃষ্ণনাম, নর্ত্তন-উল্লাস ॥ ১২৯ ॥

karoṁyā-mātra hāte, kāṁthā, chiṁḍā-bahirvāsa
a water pot only in the hand a patched quilt torn outer cloth
kṛṣṇa-kathā, kṛṣṇa-nāma, nartana-ullāsa
Kṛṣṇa talks Kṛṣṇa’s name of dancing jubilation

129 They carry nothing in their hands but a water pot; they have a patched quilt and a torn outer cloth. Talks of Kṛṣṇa, the name of Kṛṣṇa and jubilant dancing are their life.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Karoṅyā: the water pot that sannyāsīs carry in the hand.

অষ্টপ্রহর কৃষ্ণভজন, চারি দণ্ড শয়নে ।
নাম-সংকীর্ত্তন-প্রেমে, সেহ নহে কোন দিনে ॥ ১৩০ ॥

aṣṭa-prahara kṛṣṇa-bhajana, cāri daṇḍa śayane
eight praharas Kṛṣṇa worship four daṇḍas in sleep
nāma-saṁkīrtana-preme, seha nahe kona dine of the name saṅkīrtana in love even that is not on some days

130 Throughout the eight praharas of day and night they worship Kṛṣṇa, sleeping only four daṇḍas — and on some days, in their love for the congregational chanting of the name, not even that.

কভু ভক্তিরসশাস্ত্র করয়ে লিখন । চৈতন্যকথা শুনে, করে চৈতন্য-চিন্তন” ॥ ১৩১ ॥

kabhu bhakti-rasa-śāstra karaye likhana
sometimes on bhakti-rasa scriptures they do writing caitanya-kathā śune, kare caitanya-cintana”
about Caitanya talks they hear they do on Caitanya meditation

131 Sometimes they write scriptures on the rasa of devotion; they hear talks about Caitanya and meditate on Him.”

Anubhāṣya.
In such a life of renunciation they served Kṛṣṇa in various ways: sometimes by writing scriptures on bhakti-rasa, sometimes by nāma-saṅkīrtana, and sometimes by remembering Gaura’s pastimes, meditating on them and so on. Among the prākṛta-sahajiyās and the like there is a firm belief that the “sādhana” of bhakti is to give up writing, reading and other study of the scriptures on bhakti and, in order to cultivate one’s own ignorance, to stop studying the śāstras and so on. The true followers of Śrī Rūpa put no faith in such talk. But if a sādhaka writes and reads the śāstras and so on with some petty side goal, out of a desire to earn money, for gratifying the material senses, for worldly fame or worship, for gain or some other petty purpose, which is called the upaśākhās (side shoots), then such a person, given to fallen conduct, never attains any good. A genuine follower of Śrī Rūpa has no such karmic desires rooted in enjoying petty fruits.

The devotees are happy to hear of the bhajana of Rūpa and Sanātana —

এইকথা শুনি' মহান্তের মহাসুখ হয় ।
চৈতন্যের কৃপা যাঁহে, তাঁহে কি বিস্ময় ? ॥ ১৩২ ॥

eikathā śuni' mahāntera mahā-sukha haya
these words hearing of the great souls great happiness arises caitanyera kṛpā yāṁhe, tāṁhe ki vismaya?
Caitanya's mercy on whom in him what wonder

132 Hearing this, the great souls were overjoyed. What wonder is there in one on whom Caitanya's mercy rests?

In his Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu Śrī Rūpa describes the Lord's mercy —

চৈতন্যের কৃপা রূপ লিখিয়াছেন আপনে । রসামৃতসিন্ধু গ্রন্থের মঙ্গলাচরণে ॥ ১৩৩ ॥

caitanyera kṛpā rūpa likhiyāchena āpane Caitanya's mercy Rūpa has written himself
rasāmṛta-sindhu granthera maṅgalācaraṇe
Rasāmṛta-sindhu of the book in the auspicious invocation

133 Rūpa himself has written of Caitanya's mercy in the auspicious invocation (maṅgalācaraṇa) of his book Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu:

(Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Eastern Division, first wave, Bhakti-sāmānya-laharī, 2)

হৃদি যস্য প্রেরণয়া প্রবর্ত্তিতোঽহং বরাকরূপোঽপি । তস্য হরেঃ পদকমলং বন্দে চৈতন্যদেবস্য ॥ ১৩৪ ॥

hṛdi yasya preraṇayā pravartito 'haṁ varāka-rūpo 'pi in the heart whose by the prompting set to work I wretched by nature though tasya hareḥ pada-kamalaṁ vande caitanya-devasya of that Hari the lotus feet I worship of Caitanya-deva

134 "Though I am wretched, I have been set to this work by His prompting within my heart. I worship the lotus feet of that Hari, Śrī Caitanya-deva." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.2)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

I bow to the lotus feet of Śrī Caitanyadeva Hari, by whose inspiration in my heart I, a wretched pauper, have taken up the writing of a book on bhakti.

Anubhāṣya.

(Śrī Rūpa bows to Bhagavān Gaurahari, who impels him to serve Bhagavān and whose lotus feet are his shelter.) ahaṁ varāka-rūpaḥ (insignificant, wretched: the crest jewel of the line of Gosvāmīs himself says this only out of great humility) api yasya (of Gaura, the impeller) hṛdi (in the mind) preraṇayā (by the command addressed to the heart) pravartitaḥ (impelled), tasya caitanya-devasya hareḥ (of Gaurahari, Kṛṣṇa Caitanya) pada-kamalaṁ (lotus feet) aham vande.

For ten days in Prayāga the Lord instructs Rūpa —

এইমত দশদিন প্রয়াগে রহিলা । শ্রীরূপে শিক্ষা দিল শক্তি সঞ্চারিয়া ॥ ১৩৫ ॥

ei-mata daśadina prayāge rahilā
in this way ten days at Prayāga He stayed śrī-rūpe śikṣā dila śakti sañcāriyā to Śrī Rūpa instruction He gave power infusing

135 In this way the Lord stayed at Prayāga for ten days and taught Śrī Rūpa, infusing him with His power.

The instructions to Śrī Rūpa. In the form of sūtras the Lord describes the characteristics of bhakti-rasa —

প্রভু কহে, — শুন, রূপ, 'ভক্তিরসের লক্ষণ' । সূত্ররূপে কহি, বিস্তার না যায় বর্ণন ॥ ১৩৬ ॥

prabhu kahe, — śuna, rūpa, 'bhakti-rasera lakṣaṇa'
the Lord says hear Rūpa of bhakti-rasa the characteristics
sūtra-rūpe kahi, vistāra nā yāya varṇana in the form of sūtras I speak in full not can be described 136 The Lord said: "Listen, Rūpa, to the characteristics of bhakti-rasa. I shall speak of it briefly, in the form of sūtras; it cannot be described in full.

By the Lord's mercy Rūpa tastes a drop of the ocean of the nectar of bhakti-rasa —

পারাপার-শূন্য গভীর ভক্তিরস-সিন্ধু । তোমায় চাখাইতে তার কহি এক 'বিন্দু' ॥ ১৩৭ ॥

pārāpāra-śūnya gabhīra bhakti-rasa-sindhu
without near or far shore deep of bhakti-rasa the ocean tomāya cākhāite tāra kahi eka 'bindu'
you to give a taste of it I tell one drop 137 The ocean of bhakti-rasa is deep and has no shore on either side. To give you a taste of it, I shall tell you of a single drop.

Anubhāṣya.
Pārāpāra-śūnya ("without this shore or that"): pāra is one shore, apāra the other shore. That is, this ocean has no limit at either of its two shores.

First the Lord describes the conditioned jīvas of the universe: their great number —

এইমত ব্রহ্মাণ্ড ভরি' অনন্ত জীবগণ । চৌরাশী-লক্ষ যোনিতে করয়ে ভ্রমণ ॥ ১৩৮ ॥

ei-mata brahmāṇḍa bhari' ananta jīva-gaṇa
thus the universe filling countless jīvas caurāśī-lakṣa yonite karaye bhramaṇa
of eighty-four lakhs in species they do wandering

138 Countless jīvas fill the universe, wandering through the 8,400,000 species of life.

Anubhāṣya.

Caurāśī-lakṣa yoni: the eighty-four lakhs of species. (Viṣṇu Purāṇa): "Aquatics are nine lakhs, the immobile twenty lakhs, worms as many lakhs as there are Rudras,[24] birds ten lakhs, beasts thirty lakhs, and humans four lakhs."

The size of the jīvātmā, or of the jīva's svarūpa —

কেশাগ্র-শতেক-ভাগ পুনঃ শতাংশ করি । তার সম সূক্ষ্ম জীবের 'স্বরূপ' বিচারি ॥ ১৩৯ ॥

keśāgra-śateka-bhāga punaḥ śatāṁśa kari of the tip of a hair a hundredth part again into a hundred parts making tāra sama sūkṣma jīvera 'svarūpa' vicāri to that equal subtle of the jīva the own nature I consider 139 Divide the tip of a hair into a hundred parts, and one of these again into a hundred: as subtle as that, I consider, is the jīva's own nature (svarūpa).

Anubhāṣya.

Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad 3.1.9: "This ātmā is minute."

Scriptural evidence — (a śloka quoted in the commentary on the Śruti-stava) —

কেশাগ্রশতভাগস্য শতাংশসদৃশাত্মকঃ ।
জীবঃ সূক্ষ্মস্বরূপোঽযং সংখ্যাতীতো হি চিৎকণঃ ॥ ১৪০ ॥

keśāgra-śata-bhāgasya
of the tip of a hair of a hundredth part śatāṁśa-sadṛśātmakaḥ
to a hundredth part similar in nature
jīvaḥ sūkṣma-svarūpo 'yaṁ
the jīva of subtle nature this saṁkhyātīto hi cit-kaṇaḥ
beyond counting indeed a particle of spirit

140 "This jīva, subtle by nature, is like a hundredth part of a hundredth part of the tip of a hair. These particles of spirit are indeed beyond counting."

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

If the tip of a hair is divided into a hundred parts, and one of them again into a hundred, the minute svarūpa of the jīva is like such a part. The jīva is a particle of spirit (cit-kaṇa), and the jīvas are countless.

Anubhāṣya.

ayaṁ jīvaḥ hi keśāgra-śata-bhāgasya (of the extremely fine tip of a hair divided into a hundred parts, and then of such a supremely fine part) śatāṁśa-sadṛśātmakaḥ (like a hundredth part of it) sūkṣma-svarūpaḥ (by nature an atomic consciousness) cit-kaṇaḥ (a minute particle of spirit) saṁkhyātītaḥ (countless).

(A śloka following the mantra of the Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad)

বালাগ্রশতভাগস্য শতধা কল্পিতস্য চ । ভাগো জীবঃ স বিজ্ঞেয় ইতি চাহ পরা শ্রুতিঃ ॥ ১৪১ ॥

bālāgra-śata-bhāgasya
of the tip of a hair of a hundredth part śatadhā kalpitasya ca
a hundredfold divided and bhāgo jīvaḥ sa vijñeya
a part the jīva he is to be known iti cāha parā śrutiḥ
thus and says the supreme śruti

141 "The jīva should be known as a part of the tip of a hair divided into a hundred, and that hundredth divided again a hundredfold — so says the supreme śruti." (Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad, 5.9)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

If the hundredth part of the tip of a hair is divided many hundreds of times, the resulting part is minute, and the jīva is just as minute. So say the principal śrutis.

Anubhāṣya.

(yaḥ) bālāgra-śata-bhāgasya (of the tip of a hair divided into a hundred parts; then of that part) śatadhā kalpitasya (divided a hundredfold) ca bhāgaḥ (the part), saḥ (that alone) jīvaḥ (the form of the jīva's svarūpa) vijñeyaḥ (is to be known): iti ca parā (the best) śrutiḥ (headed by the Śvetāśvatara) āha.

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 11.16.11, third quarter)

সূক্ষ্মাণামপ্যহং জীবঃ ॥ ১৪২ ॥

sūkṣmāṇām apy ahaṁ jīvaḥ
of the subtle also I the jīva

142 "Of subtle things, I am the jīva." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.16.11)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Some manuscripts read thus, with Śrī Bhagavān's words to Uddhava in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam: "Among those possessing qualities I am the sūtra, among the great I am the mahat, among the subtle I am the jīva, among the hard to conquer I am the mind." Among the subtle I (Bhagavān) am the "jīva" (a manifestation of oneness and difference).

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Uddhava wished to hear about the opulences (vibhūtis) of Bhagavān, and Śrī Kṛṣṇa said to him: ahaṁ (Śrī Bhagavān, the Lord of spirit and matter, the embodiment of nondual knowledge) sūkṣmāṇām (among the atomic) api jīvaḥ (the jīvātmā).

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 10.87.30)

অপরিমিতা ধ্রুবাস্তনুভৃতো যদি সর্ব্বগতা- স্তর্হি ন শাস্যতেতি নিয়মো ধ্রুব নেতরথা ।
অজনি চ যন্ময়ং তদবিমুচ্য নিয়ন্তৃ ভবেৎ সমমনুজানতাং যদমতং মতদুষ্টতয়া ॥ ১৪৩ ॥

aparimitā dhruvās tanu-bhṛto yadi sarva-gatās
countless eternal the embodied if all-pervading tarhi na śāsyateti niyamo dhruva netarathā
then not subjection thus the law O Eternal not otherwise ajani ca yan-mayaṁ tad avimucya niyantṛ bhavet was born and from which that not leaving the controller is samam anujānatāṁ yad amataṁ mata-duṣṭatayā
as equal of those who regard which is not accepted because of the fault of the view

143 (The personified Vedas pray:) "O Eternal One! If the countless, eternal embodied beings were all-pervading, there would be no law that they are subject to You; yet it cannot be otherwise. That from which they are born, never leaving them, is their controller. The doctrine of those who regard them as equal to You is unacceptable, for it is flawed at its root." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.87.30)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

O Dhruva (Eternal One)! If the embodied jīvas were unlimited, eternal (dhruva) in the sense of supreme eternity, and all-pervading, there would be no law that they are subject to Your rule. Only if the jīva is accepted as "atomic" and "eternal" in the ordinary sense is it subject to You. The jīvas were born consisting of that cause; only by not abandoning them can it be their controller. Therefore the opinion of those who consider the jīva and You to be "one" is corrupted by "matavāda" (the fault of mere opinion).

Anubhāṣya.

In Janaloka, at the brahma-satra sacrifice, to the sages eager to hear, one of the Kumāras, the brahmarṣi Sanandana, recounts the hymn that the personified Śrutis offered to Bhagavān: dhruva (O shelter of all, O Eternal One)! aparimitāḥ (actually infinite) dhruvāḥ (eternal) tanu-bhṛtaḥ (embodied jīvas) yadi sarva-gatāḥ (were all-pervading, omnipresent), tarhi śāsyatā (their subjection to You): iti yaḥ (established by You) niyamaḥ (law), saḥ na (would not be); itarathā na (it cannot be otherwise, because the positions of the ruled and the Ruler are established). yan-mayaṁ (that of which the entity called jīva, an effect like sparks from fire and so on, consists) ajani (was born); (over those jīvas) niyantṛ (the ruler) bhavet; tat avimucya (the Paramātmā, the material cause, who does not abandon those jīvas) samam (as one with the truth of the jīva) anujānatām (of the kevalādvaita-vādīs, who consider) mata-duṣṭatayā (because of the corruption, that is, impurity, of their opinion) amatam eva (is practically unknown, being beyond their range).

By difference of form jīvas are of two kinds: (1) immobile, (2) mobile; the mobile are of three kinds: those that move in water, on land and in the sky —

তার মধ্যে 'স্থাবর', 'জঙ্গম' — দুই ভেদ । জঙ্গমে তির্য্যক্-জল-স্থলচর বিভেদ ॥ ১৪৪ ॥

tāra madhye 'sthāvara', 'jaṅgama' — dui bheda
of them among stationary moving two divisions
jaṅgame tiryak-jala-sthalacara vibheda
among the moving birds water- and land-dwellers the subdivision

144 Among them there are two divisions — the stationary and the moving; and the moving are divided into birds, water-dwellers and land-dwellers.

Anubhāṣya.
Tāra madhye ("among them"): among the conditioned jīvas within the universe.

Land-dwellers are superior; among them humans are the best of all; among humans, a comparison of the grades of karmī, jñānī and devotee —

তার মধ্যে মনুষ্য-জাতি অতি অল্পতর । তার মধ্যে ম্লেচ্ছ, পুলিন্দ, বৌদ্ধ, শবর ॥ ১৪৫ ॥

tāra madhye manuṣya-jāti ati alpatara of them among the human species very few tāra madhye mleccha, pulinda, bauddha, śabara
of them among mlecchas Pulindas Buddhists Śabaras

145 Among these, human beings are very few; and among humans there are mlecchas, Pulindas, Buddhists and Śabaras.

Anubhāṣya.
Tāra madhye ("among them"): among humans; these are the opposites of those faithful to the Vedas.

বেদনিষ্ঠ-মধ্যে অর্দ্ধেক বেদ 'মুখে' মানে । বেদনিষিদ্ধ পাপ করে, ধর্ম্ম নাহি গণে ॥ ১৪৬ ॥

veda-niṣṭha-madhye ardheka veda 'mukhe' māne of the faithful to the Vedas among half the Vedas with the mouth accept veda-niṣiddha pāpa kare, dharma nāhi gaṇe forbidden by the Vedas sins they commit dharma not regard

146 Of those faithful to the Vedas, half accept the Vedas only with their lips: they commit sins the Vedas forbid and have no regard for dharma.

Anubhāṣya.

Those who in words profess to be "faithful to the Vedas" but act against the Vedas are wilful "bad karmīs" (ku-karmī), or "those with other desires" (anyābhilāṣī).

ধর্ম্মাচারী-মধ্যে বহুত 'কর্ম্মনিষ্ঠ' । কোটি-কর্ম্মনিষ্ঠ-মধ্যে এক 'জ্ঞানী' শ্রেষ্ঠ ॥ ১৪৭ ॥

dharmācārī-madhye bahuta 'karma-niṣṭha'
of those who practise dharma among many devoted to karma
koṭi-karma-niṣṭha-madhye eka 'jñānī' śreṣṭha of millions devoted to karma among one jñānī the best 147 Among those who practise dharma, many are devoted to karma; among millions devoted to karma, one jñānī is best.

Even among the liberated a devotee of Kṛṣṇa is extremely rare —

কোটিজ্ঞানী-মধ্যে হয় একজন 'মুক্ত' । কোটিমুক্ত-মধ্যে 'দুর্ল্লভ' এক কৃষ্ণ-ভক্ত ॥ ১৪৮ ॥

koṭi-jñānī-madhye haya eka-jana 'mukta'
of millions jñānīs among is one person liberated
koṭi-mukta-madhye 'durlabha' eka kṛṣṇa-bhakta
of millions liberated among rare one Kṛṣṇa's devotee

148 Among millions of jñānīs, one is liberated (mukta); and among millions of the liberated, even one devotee of Kṛṣṇa is rare.

Anubhāṣya.

Karma-niṣṭha ("devoted to karma"). Some perform pious and other good deeds out of their own desire for enjoyment. Others, imagining themselves disinterested, offer their deeds [to God]. Among millions of such people devoted to karma, one who, though situated in sattva, in order to remove rajas and tamas withdraws from both states, worldly piety and sin, and, seeking the purity of the ātmā, searches for the undifferentiated Brahman beyond nature, is a jñānī. Among millions of jñānīs there is one who on the path of knowledge relies on the mode of sattva. He performs the six practices, śama, dama and the rest, and other good deeds based on mixed and adulterated bhakti. While performing them, in his dualistic understanding he rejects the means he has relied on as incomplete; he takes impermanent and untrue sādhana to be the cause of eternal perfection. As the fruit of such sādhana, he finally becomes free from the sense of his own bondage and fancies that he has attained liberation, that is, the svarūpa of brahma-bhūta; to that end he erases the distinction of "seer," "seeing" and "seen," or of "knower," "knowledge" and "known." Such a jñānī, who has gone beyond what is mixed with matter, an adherent of the doctrine of "pure consciousness" (kevala-cinmātra-vādī), is called "liberated" (mukta). Even among millions of such liberated persons a devotee of Kṛṣṇa is rare.

Why a devotee of Kṛṣṇa is extremely rare and the best of all —

কৃষ্ণভক্ত — নিষ্কাম, অতএব 'শান্ত' । ভুক্তি মুক্তি-সিদ্ধি-কামী, সকলি 'অশান্ত' ॥ ১৪৯ ॥

kṛṣṇa-bhakta — niṣkāma, ataeva 'śānta' Kṛṣṇa's devotee free from desire therefore peaceful bhukti mukti-siddhi-kāmī, sakali 'aśānta'
enjoyment liberation perfection desiring all restless

149 A devotee of Kṛṣṇa is free from desire, and therefore peaceful (śānta). Those who desire enjoyment, liberation or mystic perfections are all restless.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Jīvas are of two kinds: eternally liberated and eternally conditioned. The eternally conditioned are divided into the immobile and the mobile. Those who are motionless (such as trees) are "immobile" (sthāvara) jīvas, and those who move are "mobile" (jaṅgama). The mobile are of three kinds: beasts and birds, aquatics and land-dwellers. Among land-dwellers humans are very few. If from these few humans one excludes the mlecchas, pulindas, Buddhists and śabaras, those faithful to the Vedas remain. Those faithful to the Vedas are of two kinds: those who follow dharma and those who do not. Among those who follow dharma, many are devoted to karma and some are devoted to knowledge. Among millions devoted to knowledge only one is truly "liberated" (mukta); here those free from material understanding are called "liberated." And among these liberated, one who, endowed with faith, has turned to the service of Kṛṣṇa is a "devotee of Kṛṣṇa." A devotee of Kṛṣṇa has no desires. All the others, up to the "liberated" mentioned above, have desires. Those who follow dharma and those devoted to karma are "desirers of enjoyment" (bhukti-kāmī), the knowers up to the liberated are "desirers of liberation" (mukti-kāmī), and some of them also "desire siddhis," the fruits of yoga. As long as these three kinds of desire remain in their hearts, those desires give them no peace; therefore they are all "restless" (aśānta). Hence only the desireless devotee of Kṛṣṇa is peaceful (śānta), that is, has attained peace.

Anubhāṣya.

Only a devotee of Kṛṣṇa is free from all desires and devoted to Kṛṣṇa alone, and therefore he is peaceful (śānta). Karmīs who desire enjoyments such as heaven, jñānīs who desire liberation such as nirvāṇa, and yogīs who desire the eighteen siddhis such as aṇimā, are each under the sway of their own desire and are therefore restless. And even when their desire is fulfilled they are restless, because they have gained what is temporary (asat) and are not devoted to Kṛṣṇa.

Scriptural evidence — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 6.14.5) —

মুক্তানামপি সিদ্ধানাং নারায়ণপরায়ণঃ । সুদুর্ল্লভঃ প্রশান্তাত্মা কোটিষ্বপি মহামুনে ॥ ১৫০ ॥

muktānām api siddhānāṁ
of the liberated even of the perfected nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇaḥ Nārāyaṇa devoted to sudurlabhaḥ praśāntātmā
very rare of peaceful mind
koṭiṣv api mahā-mune
among millions even O great sage

150 "O great sage, even among millions of the liberated and the perfected, one devoted to Nārāyaṇa, whose mind is at peace, is very rare." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.14.5)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

O great sage, among many millions of the liberated and the perfected, a person devoted to Nārāyaṇa, peaceful in heart, is extremely rare.

Anubhāṣya.

muktānām (of those free from the bonds of ignorance) siddhānām (of those perfected in yoga) koṭiṣu api (even among millions) praśāntātmā (with a mind free from desires) nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇaḥ sudurlabhaḥ. The words of the Tantra: "Liberation is easily obtained through knowledge, and enjoyment through piety such as sacrifice. But this devotion to Hari is very hard to obtain even through thousands of practices."

Devotion is likened to a creeper; another name for devotion is kṛṣṇānurāga (attachment to Kṛṣṇa). A description of the path by which the conditioned jīva, step by step, attains loving service to Kṛṣṇa: at its root lies the sukṛti that bestows devotion, which is Kṛṣṇa's mercy; the fruit of that sukṛti is meeting a genuine guru; by his mercy, through hearing, comes the realisation of sambandha and faith awakens —

ব্রহ্মাণ্ড ভ্রমিতে কোন ভাগ্যবান্ জীব । গুরু-কৃষ্ণ-প্রসাদে পায় ভক্তিলতা-বীজ ॥ ১৫১ ॥

brahmāṇḍa bhramite kona bhāgyavān jīva
the universe wandering some fortunate jīva guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja of guru and Kṛṣṇa by the mercy obtains of the creeper of devotion the seed

151 Wandering through the universe, some fortunate jīva, by the mercy of guru and Kṛṣṇa, obtains the seed of the creeper of devotion (bhakti-latā).

Anubhāṣya.

"Brahmāṇḍa" means the fourteen worlds (see Ādi 5.98).

Bhāgyavān (fortunate) means a jīva endowed with sukṛti (pious merit). When a jīva unknowingly renders some service to Viṣṇu and the Vaiṣṇavas, sukṛti arises in him (see the story of Nārada's birth, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 1.5.23–30). Such sukṛti, which turns the jīva towards devotion, is not material activity: it is the first, still unblossomed stirring of the soul's own spiritual nature (cid-vṛtti). When through sukṛti faith appears, and through hearing comes knowledge of sambandha, real pure devotion begins.

Guru-prasāda (the guru's mercy): out of his mercy the guru grants his disciple the highest grace (anugraha) — devotion to Kṛṣṇa. For the highest good of one who has sukṛti and is fit for mercy, Śrī Bhagavān empowers the person dearest to Him and sends him into the world as the mahānta-guru, to distribute His power of mercy. Śrī Gurudeva grants the disciple his own grace — service to Kṛṣṇa.

Kṛṣṇa-prasāda (Kṛṣṇa's mercy): the gurudeva who gives the seed of the creeper of devotion is a manifestation of Bhagavān of the āśraya category (the vessel of love). Kṛṣṇa sends him to the disciple — that is Kṛṣṇa's mercy. By the guru's mercy one obtains Kṛṣṇa's mercy, and by Kṛṣṇa's mercy, the guru's mercy.

Bhakti-latā-bīja (the seed of the creeper of devotion) is the seed from which the creeper of service to Bhagavān grows. The cause of the creeper of devotion is the guru's mercy and Kṛṣṇa's mercy. From the seed of other desires (anyābhilāṣa), the seed of karma and the seed of jñāna grow their own kinds of trees. The seed of the creeper of devotion is different from all these seeds. One obtains it only when the guru and Kṛṣṇa are pleased. If they are displeased, one may get the seed of other desires, of karma or of jñāna, but the seed of pure devotion is lost. Those who lack true good fortune never receive the seed of the creeper of devotion. Only a jīva endowed with faith takes shelter at the lotus feet of the guru. The mantra of grace (anugraha-mantra) given by the genuine guru, and the path he shows, are the "path of devotion" (bhakti-mārga).

From that very moment the practice (abhidheya) begins: worship (bhajana) even while anarthas remain —

মালী হঞা করে সেই বীজ আরোপণ । শ্রবণ-কীর্ত্তন-জলে করয়ে সেচন ॥ ১৫২ ॥

mālī hañā kare sei bīja āropaṇa
a gardener becoming he does that seed planting śravaṇa-kīrtana-jale karaye secana
of hearing and chanting with the water he does watering

152 Becoming a gardener, he plants that seed and waters it with hearing and chanting.

Anubhāṣya.
To hear from the guru's lotus feet and then to chant what one has heard — that is the watering, and by it the seed gradually becomes a creeper.

Worship also when the anarthas are gone; the shelter of devotion full of rāga is Kṛṣṇa's sweetness (mādhurya), not the majesty of Brahmā or of Nārāyaṇa —

উপজিয়া বাড়ে লতা 'ব্রহ্মাণ্ড' ভেদি' যায় ।
'বিরজা', 'ব্রহ্মলোক' ভেদি' 'পরব্যোম' পায় ॥ ১৫৩ ॥

upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya sprouting grows the creeper the universe piercing goes
'virajā', 'brahma-loka' bhedi' 'para-vyoma' pāya
the Virajā Brahmaloka piercing the spiritual sky reaches 153 Sprouting, the creeper grows and pierces through the universe; passing beyond the Virajā and Brahmaloka, it reaches the spiritual sky (paravyoma).

Anubhāṣya.

Within the "brahmāṇḍa," that is, in the fourteen worlds, there is no tree that can support (shelter) the creeper of devotion. Devotion cannot be directed towards anything within the brahmāṇḍa. Beyond the brahmāṇḍa flows the river "Virajā." In it one sees the state of equilibrium of the three guṇas; this river washes away material impurity. Only after crossing it does one reach "Brahmaloka," the ideal of the jñānīs. Just as at the Virajā there is no tree fit to support the creeper of devotion, so at Brahmaloka there is no tree the creeper could serve. Finding no tree to lean on, the creeper, watered by hearing and chanting, grows on, passes beyond Brahmaloka and reaches the abode of "Paravyoma."

তবে যায় তদুপরি 'গোলোক-বৃন্দাবন' ।
'কৃষ্ণচরণ'-কল্পবৃক্ষে করে আরোহণ ॥ ১৫৪ ॥

tabe yāya tad-upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana'
then goes above that Goloka Vṛndāvana
'kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpa-vṛkṣe kare ārohaṇa
of Kṛṣṇa's feet the wish-fulfilling tree it does climbing

154 Then it goes higher still, to Goloka Vṛndāvana, and climbs the wish-fulfilling tree of Kṛṣṇa's feet.

Anubhāṣya.

On one side of Brahmaloka and the Virajā lies the brahmāṇḍa made of māyā — this is "Devī-dhāma." Devī-dhāma, or the "other sky" (itara-vyoma), exists in subjection to prakṛti. On the far side of prakṛti lies "Vaikuṇṭha," or "Paravyoma." There māyā is unable to "measure" anything. Above the wholly spiritual (brahma-maya) Vaikuṇṭha lies "Goloka Vṛndāvana." There the creeper of devotion takes shelter of the desire tree of Kṛṣṇa's feet. In Paravyoma the prescribed worship is offered to Śrī Nārāyaṇa, the Lord of Paravyoma, and in that worship one sees the rasas of śānta, dāsya and "half of sakhya." In Goloka Vṛndāvana, however, in the service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, five bhāvas blossom in full measure: śānta, dāsya, "half of sakhya marked by reverence (gaurava)" together with "half of sakhya marked by complete confidence (viśrambha)," vātsalya and madhura. Here alone the creeper of devotion finds shelter in every respect.

Attaining the goal (prayojana), love for Kṛṣṇa; in the stage of practice, always hearing and chanting —

তাঁহা বিস্তারিত হঞা ফলে প্রেম-ফল ।
ইঁহা মালী সেচে নিত্য শ্রবণকীর্ত্তনাদি-জল ॥ ১৫৫ ॥

tāṁhā vistārita hañā phale prema-phala
there spread out becoming it bears the fruit of prema iṁhā mālī sece nitya śravaṇa-kīrtanādi-jala
here the gardener sprinkles daily of hearing, chanting and the rest water

155 There it spreads and bears the fruit of prema, while here the gardener daily sprinkles it with the water of hearing, chanting and the rest.

Anubhāṣya.

Tāṅhā (there) means in Goloka Vṛndāvana. Prema-phala (the fruit of prema) is a wondrous transcendental thing, supremely desirable; at its root is the desire to please Kṛṣṇa's senses. It is the very own treasure of Kṛṣṇacandra, whose form is eternity, knowledge and bliss (sac-cid-ānanda); the material intelligence of the conditioned jīva, absorbed in enjoyment, cannot grasp it.

Ihāṅ (here) means in the material world. Remaining here, one must water the planted seed of the creeper of devotion with the water of hearing, chanting and so on — about Kṛṣṇa's eternal, transcendental name, form, qualities and pastimes.

In the unripe stage the chief "obstacle" on the path of practice is offence to a Vaiṣṇava —

যদি বৈষ্ণব-অপরাধ উঠে হাতী মাতা । উপাড়ে বা ছিণ্ডে, তার শুখি' যায় পাতা ॥ ১৫৬ ॥

yadi vaiṣṇava-aparādha uṭhe hātī mātā
if against a Vaiṣṇava an offence rises an elephant mad upāḍe vā chiṇḍe, tāra śukhi' yāya pātā
uproots or breaks its drying up go leaves

156 If an offence against a Vaiṣṇava rises up like a mad elephant, it uproots or breaks the creeper, and its leaves wither away.

Anubhāṣya.
An offence to a Vaiṣṇava is like a mad elephant. Aparādha (offence) means the ten offences to the holy name (see Ādi 8.24). Hātī mātā (a mad elephant) is a strong mood hostile to devotion, or an offence to a Vaiṣṇava in the form of disregard for the guru; it is this that destroys the creeper of devotion.

The key to one's welfare is to guard against offences to the holy name —

তাতে মালী যত্ন করি' করে আবরণ । অপরাধ হস্তীর যৈছে না হয় উদ্গম ॥ ১৫৭ ॥

tāte mālī yatna kari' kare āvaraṇa
therefore the gardener care taking makes a fence
aparādha hastīra yaiche nā haya udgama of offence of the elephant so that not may be the rising

157 Therefore the gardener carefully fences the creeper round, so that the elephant of offence may not rise up.

Anubhāṣya.
The creeper of devotion must be fenced in on all sides. The enclosure, or fence, is the effort to avoid the company of those who are not devoted to Kṛṣṇa. Without it, association with nondevotees gives birth to the mad elephant of offence, which may uproot the creeper of devotion, break it or trample it. A sādhaka must therefore be extremely careful that this does not happen. Śrī Rūpa Prabhu says in the

Upadeśāmṛta: “Devotion is ruined by six things: eating (or collecting) more than needed, overendeavor, idle talk, stubborn attachment to rules (or neglect of them), association with worldly people, and greed.”[25]

Things that look like devotion but are not devotion — kinds of non-devotion —

কিন্তু যদি লতার সঙ্গে উঠে ‘উপশাখা’ । ভুক্তি-মুক্তি-বাঞ্ছা, যত অসংখ্য তার লেখা ॥ ১৫৮ ॥

kintu yadi latāra saṅge uṭhe ‘upaśākhā’
but if the creeper together with rise side shoots bhukti-mukti-vāñchā, yata asaṅkhya tāra lekhā
for enjoyment, liberation desire as many countless their count

158 But side shoots (upaśākhā) may rise up together with the creeper — the desire for enjoyment and liberation; there is no counting them.

Anubhāṣya.
Upaśākhā (side shoots) are not the real creeper’s own branches but branches of another creeper that looks like it. They twine around the real creeper and seem to be “part” of it, but in fact they are not the real creeper. Bhukti is what those who preach enjoyment of the fruits of karma obtain; mukti is what the followers of jñāna obtain; vāñchā (desires) are the fruits of yoga that the followers of siddhi seek: mystic powers (vibhūti) and the like.

‘নিষিদ্ধাচার’, ‘কুটীনাটী’, ‘জীবহিংসন’ ।
‘লাভ’, ‘পূজা’, ‘প্রতিষ্ঠাদি’ যত উপশাখাগণ ॥ ১৫৯ ॥

‘niṣiddhācāra’, ‘kuṭīnāṭī’, ‘jīva-himsana’
forbidden conduct duplicity violence to living beings ‘lābha’, ‘pūjā’, ‘pratiṣṭhādi’ yata upaśākhā-gaṇa
gain honour prestige and the rest all the side shoots

159 Forbidden conduct, duplicity, violence to living beings, gain, honour, prestige and the rest — these are all side shoots.

Anubhāṣya.

Niṣiddhācāra (forbidden conduct) means conduct unbecoming a siddha, or conduct that obstructs perfection — that is, conduct by which devotion is lost. For example, when a jīva, thinking himself the enjoyer and absorbed in enjoyment, keeps company with women and with those not devoted to Kṛṣṇa, or looks at worldly people and at women.

Kuṭīnāṭī means play-acting full of crookedness, duplicity; ku-ṭī and nā-ṭī mean what opposes inner contentment (ātma-prasāda) — that is, discontent.

Jīva-himṡā (violence towards living beings) means hesitancy or stinginess in chanting and preaching the message of eternal welfare whose root is devotion to Kṛṣṇa — that is, indulging the Māyāvādīs, the karmīs and those with other desires (anyābhilāṣīs); it also means killing living beings, or causing anxiety or pain to any living being at all.

Lābha (gain) means the desire to obtain or amass wealth and the like in the world for the satisfaction of the material senses.

Pūjā (worship) means honour gained by adding fuel to the mental notions (mano-dharma) of worldly people.

Pratiṣṭhā (position) means hankering for worldly greatness, or love of one's own perishable fame among people.

If indulged, non-devotion flourishes, and devotion may weaken and be smothered —

সেকজল পাঞা উপশাখা বাড়ি' যায় । স্তব্ধ হঞা মূলশাখা বাড়িতে না পায় ॥ ১৬০ ॥

seka-jala pāñā upaśākhā bāḍi' yāya
sprinkled water receiving the side shoots growing go stabdha hañā mūla-śākhā bāḍite nā pāya stunted becoming the main branch to grow not is able 160 Receiving the water that is sprinkled, the side shoots grow, while the main branch is stunted and cannot grow.

Anubhāṣya.
Under the influence of watering with hearing, chanting and so on, the side shoots grow strong and spread, while the main creeper of devotion, unable to grow, comes to a halt. When hearing and chanting are practised not free from offences — that is, without giving up bad association, with offences — the jīvas gradually come to be known by many different names. They are devoted to enjoyment, eager to escape bondage, greedy for siddhis, given to deceit, debauched with women not lawfully theirs, supporters of false devotion or of the doctrine of the prākṛta-sahajiyās. Through the deception of status by seminal lineage they lay claim to spiritual status; they dwell in the five places that Parīkṣit gave to Kali; they see caste in Vaiṣṇavas. They make their living from the holy name, the mantra, the Deity and the Bhāgavatam, and are busy amassing wealth and the like by impure means. They seek honour by passing themselves off as those who "delight in solitary worship," seek fame by supporting the doctrine that reconciles spirit and matter, or else, as servants of a guru-bruva, submit to and support an ungodly varṇāśrama hostile to Viṣṇu and the Vaiṣṇavas. In other words, maddened by the urge to gratify their own senses, they cheat foolish people for the sake of perishable, extraneous things, not pure devotion, and long to be known in the world as "religious," "sādhus" or "great souls." But real pure servants of Hari they cannot become.

First of all the sādhaka must see to giving up bad association —

প্রথমেই উপশাখার করয়ে ছেদন । তবে মূলশাখা বাড়ি' যায় বৃন্দাবন ॥ ১৬১ ॥

prathamei upaśākhāra karaye chedana
first of all of the side shoots he does cutting tabe mūla-śākhā bāḍi' yāya vṛndāvana
then the main branch growing goes to Vṛndāvana

161 First of all the gardener cuts away the side shoots; then the main branch grows and reaches Vṛndāvana.

Anubhāṣya.

If, noticing that the sprouts of the "side shoots" mentioned above are appearing, one at once destroys them root and all, only then will the branch of the main creeper of devotion bear the transcendental fruit of prema in Vṛndāvana. Otherwise, when the side shoots prevail, it is inevitable that one gives up the service of Hari for good — that is, suffers within the brahmāṇḍa (in heaven and other higher worlds, in the world of mortals, or in hell).

Only then is it possible to reach the goal (prayojana), love for Kṛṣṇa —

‘প্রেমফল’ পাকি’ পড়ে, মালী আস্বাদয় ।
লতা অবলম্বি’ মালী ‘কল্পবৃক্ষ’ পায় ॥ ১৬২ ॥

‘prema-phala’ pāki’ paḍe, mālī āsvādaya
the fruit of prema ripening falls the gardener tastes latā avalambi’ mālī ‘kalpa-vṛkṣa’ pāya
the creeper holding to the gardener the wish-fulfilling tree reaches 162 The fruit of prema ripens and falls, and the gardener tastes it. Holding to the creeper, he reaches the wish-fulfilling tree.

Anubhāṣya.

Holding on to the creeper, the devotee-gardener reaches the tree of Kṛṣṇa’s lotus feet. When the fruit of prema in Goloka Vṛndāvana ripens and falls, the devotee living in the material world can taste it.

তাঁহা সেই কল্পবৃক্ষের করয়ে সেবন । সুখে প্রেমফল-রস করে আস্বাদন ॥ ১৬৩ ॥

tāṁhā sei kalpa-vṛkṣera karaye sevana
there that wish-fulfilling tree he does service sukhe prema-phala-rasa kare āsvādana in happiness of the fruit of prema the juice does tasting

163 There he serves that wish-fulfilling tree and happily tastes the juice (rasa) of the fruit of prema.

Anubhāṣya.

Tāṅhā (there) means in the transcendental Goloka Vṛndāvana. Sei kalpa-vṛkṣera (that desire tree) means the desire tree of Kṛṣṇa’s feet. Āsvādana (tasting): serving transcendentally, the devotee attains the transcendental happiness of service.

Love for Kṛṣṇa is the highest goal, which puts the four goals of life (caturvarga) to shame —

এইত পরম-ফল ‘পরম-পুরুষার্থ’ । যাঁর আগে তৃণ-তুল্য চারি পুরুষার্থ ॥ ১৬৪ ॥

eita parama-phala ‘parama-puruṣārtha’
this indeed the supreme fruit the supreme goal of life
yāṁra āge tṛṇa-tulya cāri puruṣārtha
of which before like straw the four goals of life

164 This is the supreme fruit, the supreme goal of life (parama-puruṣārtha), before which the four goals of life are like straw.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The jīvas, each following the thread of his own karma, wander through the brahmāṇḍa, taking birth in various species. Among them, one in whom good fortune dawns — sukṛti capable of giving birth to devotion — receives by the mercy of the guru and Kṛṣṇa the seed of the creeper of devotion, which is “faith” (śraddhā). Having received this seed, he becomes a gardener and plants it in the field of his heart. The planted seed sprouts, and the gardener waters that field with the water of hearing and chanting — of narrations about Bhagavān and about His devotees. The creeper of devotion springs up and grows and grows; it pierces this brahmāṇḍa made of māyā, pierces the Virajā and the effulgent Brahmaloka, and finds its place in Paravyoma. In Paravyoma the creeper spreads and rises still higher, up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, and climbs onto the desire tree of Kṛṣṇa’s feet. Only on the creeper of devotion that has climbed onto Kṛṣṇa’s feet does the “fruit of prema” grow. Until then the gardener keeps watering it with the water of hearing and chanting.

At this time, besides watering, there is one more task. After some days of watering, when the creeper begins to grow, some wicked animal may come and uproot or tear it, and the creeper withers. Here the wicked animal is offence to a Vaiṣṇava. It is offence to a Vaiṣṇava that, like a mad elephant, does all this damage. At this time, therefore, the gardener takes special care: he puts up a fence and makes an enclosure, and then the elephant of offence does not appear. The offences to a Vaiṣṇava, or offences to the holy name, are ten (see Ādi 8.24).

At this time there is one more trouble. As the creeper of devotion rises, side shoots may grow too much, and this does it harm. The side shoots are the desire for bhukti, the desire for mukti, forbidden conduct, duplicity (kuṭīnāṭī), the tendency to harm living beings, the craving for gain, and the hope for material honour or position. Unless one is especially careful, then from the water of hearing, chanting and so on the side shoots grow most of all, to the detriment of the main creeper, and the main shoot is checked and cannot grow. The gardener must therefore cut away these anarthas — the side shoots — from the very beginning, while he is still watering with hearing and chanting. Only then will the main shoot grow and reach Vṛndāvana. This prema is the jīva's highest goal (parama-puruṣārtha); beside it the four goals of life — dharma, artha, kāma and mokṣa — are worth no more than a blade of grass.

Anubhāṣya.

Tṛṇa-tulya (like a blade of grass) means insignificant, worthless by comparison. Before prema, the four goals of life — dharma, artha, kāma, mokṣa and the rest, which the karmīs, jñānīs, yogīs and others desire — are utterly unacceptable.

The bliss of serving in love for Kṛṣṇa puts the bliss of Brahman to shame — (Lalita-mādhava, Act 5, verse 2; words spoken offstage)

ঋদ্ধা সিদ্ধির্ব্রজ-বিজয়িতা সত্যধর্ম্মা সমাধি- ব্র্রহ্মানন্দো গুরুরপি চমৎকারয়ত্যেব তাবৎ ।
যাবৎ প্রেম্নাং মধুরিপু-বশীকার-সিদ্ধৌষধীনাং গন্ধোঽপ্যন্তঃকরণসরণী-পান্থতাং ন প্রয়াতি ॥ ১৬৫ ॥

ṛddhā siddhir vraja-vijayitā satya-dharmā samādhir rich perfection supremacy over the host dharma founded on truth samādhi brahmānando gurur api camatkārayaty eva tāvat
the bliss of Brahman great even astonish only so long yāvat premnāṁ madhu-ripu-vaśī-kāra-siddhauṣadhīnāṁ
as long as of prema of Madhu's foe subduing the perfect herbs
gandho 'py antaḥ-karaṇa-saraṇī-pānthatāṁ na prayāti
the fragrance even of the heart on the road wayfaring not attains

165 "Rich mastery over the host of mystic perfections, samādhi grounded in truth and dharma, even the great bliss of Brahman — these astonish one only so long as not even the fragrance of prema, the sovereign herb that brings Kṛṣṇa, the foe of Madhu, under control, has set out on the road of the heart." (Lalita-mādhava, 5.2)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

As long as not even a trace of prema — of dāsya and the other rasas, which act like a perfect herb for bringing Kṛṣṇa under control — has become a traveller on the path of the heart, so long the jīva is dazzled by the glitter of each of these: the supremacy of the rich siddhis, samādhi founded on dharma such as truthfulness, and the highest bliss of Brahman.

Anubhāṣya.

yāvat (so long as) madhu-ripu-vaśī-kāra-siddhauṣadhīnām (which are perfect herbs for subduing Madhuripu, Kṛṣṇa, and making Him obedient) premṇām (of prema — of śānta and the other rasas) gandha-leśo 'pi (even the slightest trace) antaḥ-karaṇa-saraṇī-pānthatām (the position of a traveller on the path of the heart) na prayāti (does not reach), ṛddhā (rich) siddhi-vraja-vijayitā (supremacy — that is, the position of victor — over the host of siddhis, mystic powers; this is the sense), satya-dharmā (founded on the dharma of truthfulness, cleanliness, charity and austerity) samādhiḥ (concentration of the mind), brahmānandaḥ (the highest happiness of Brahman) ca guruḥ (praiseworthy, great) api — tāvat (until then) eva camatkārayati (astonishes; the sense is: once the happiness of serving Kṛṣṇa is attained, the happiness of sense objects, kaivalya and the happiness of Brahman become insignificant).

The characteristics of pure devotion: (1) sādhana-bhakti —

'শুদ্ধভক্তি' হৈতে হয় 'প্রেমা' উৎপন্ন । অতএব শুদ্ধভক্তির কহিয়ে 'লক্ষণ' ॥ ১৬৬ ॥

'śuddha-bhakti' haite haya 'premā' utpanna
pure devotion from is prema born ataeva śuddha-bhaktira kahiye 'lakṣaṇa'
therefore of pure devotion I tell the characteristics

166 From pure devotion (śuddha-bhakti) prema is born; therefore I shall tell you the characteristics of pure devotion.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Prema does not arise from a semblance of devotion (bhakty-ābhāsa); prema arises only from pure devotion.

Anubhāṣya.

Śuddha-bhakti (pure devotion) is the highest (uttamā) devotion: it is beyond the three guṇas, unmixed with karma and jñāna, causeless (ahaitukī) and free from the guṇas (nirguṇā).

The essence of the whole Bhāgavatam — (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, first wave, verse 11)

অন্যাভিলাষিতা-শূন্যং জ্ঞান-কর্ম্মাদ্যনাবৃতম্ । আনুকূল্যেন কৃষ্ণানুশীলনং ভক্তিরুত্তমা ॥ ১৬৭ ॥

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ
of other desires devoid
jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam
by knowledge, karma and the rest uncovered ānukūlyena kṛṣṇānu-favourably of Kṛṣṇa
śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā
the cultivation devotion highest

167 "Devotion of the highest kind is the favourable cultivation of service to Kṛṣṇa, free from all other desires and unobscured by jñāna, karma and the like." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11)

Anubhāṣya.

This verse is not quoted in the Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya. Here is its translation.

The highest devotion is constant worship for Kṛṣṇa's sake — that is, connected with Kṛṣṇa or directed towards Kṛṣṇa. It is free from all desires rooted in immorality (such as unlawful association with women) that are hostile to the service of Kṛṣṇa; it is not covered by the desire for liberation or the desire for enjoyment; and it consists entirely of efforts favourable for pleasing Kṛṣṇa's senses.

(First its marginal characteristic, taṭastha-lakṣaṇa, is given:) anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyam (empty of, devoid of anyābhilāṣitā — desire rooted in immorality, such as association with women, which is hostile to performing worship of Kṛṣṇa), jñāna-

karmādy-anāvṛtam (not covered, not screened off [from Kṛṣṇa], not obstructed by jñāna, karma and so on: jñāna here means the search for undifferentiated Brahman, but not the search for knowledge of the One who is worshipped, since that is indispensable; karma means the daily and occasional duties (nitya-naimittika) and the like enjoined in the smṛti and other scriptures, but not service to the One who is worshipped and so on, since that is itself the cultivation [of devotion]; the word "and so on" (ādi) means renunciation, yoga, the study of sāṅkhya and the like), ānukūlyena (favourably: favorableness here means an inclination pleasing to Śrī Kṛṣṇa, for whom the worship is performed; unfavorableness is to be understood as its opposite, since it opposes worship; the instrumental case here is defining (viśeṣaṇa), not incidental (upalakṣaṇa), so favorableness too must be understood as part of the definition of devotion) kṛṣṇānuśīlanam (cultivation directed to Kṛṣṇa: the word "Kṛṣṇa" here should be understood to denote Bhagavān Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself, and also His forms and the others — all who are viṣṇu-tattva; anuśīlana, connected with Kṛṣṇa or done for Kṛṣṇa's sake, means activities of body, speech and mind directed to Him as the object of love (prīti) — that is, carrying out one service after another again and again, without slackness) eva uttamā bhaktiḥ (this alone is the highest devotion; this clearly states its excellence on both paths, vaidhī and rāgānugā, and in both stages, that of the sādhaka and that of the siddha).

The first two quarters give the "marginal" (taṭastha) characteristic, the last two the characteristic of the "essence" (svarūpa) of pure devotion —

অন্য-বাঞ্ছা, অন্য-পূজা ছাড়ি' 'জ্ঞান', 'কর্ম্ম' । আনুকূল্যে সর্ব্বেন্দ্রিয়ে কৃষ্ণানুশীলন ॥ ১৬৮ ॥

anya-vāñchā, anya-pūjā chāḍi' 'jñāna', 'karma'
other desires other worship giving up jñāna karma ānukūlye sarvendriye kṛṣṇānuśīlana favourably with all the senses the cultivation of Kṛṣṇa

168 Giving up other desires, the worship of others, jñāna and karma, one cultivates service to Kṛṣṇa with all the senses in a favourable spirit.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The characteristic of pure devotion is this. In pure devotion there can be no desire other than the desire for one's own advancement (on the path to spiritual perfection) for the sake of serving Kṛṣṇa. There can be no worship of any object of worship other than Kṛṣṇa — of Brahman, the Paramātmā or any other form — nor can jñāna and karma be present in their own forms. To be free of all this, to accept in life only what is favourable to devotion, and with all the senses to cultivate service to Kṛṣṇa (kṛṣṇānuśīlana) — this is called "pure devotion."

Anubhāṣya.

Anya-vāñchā (other desires) means desires other than for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Anya-pūjā (worship of others) means worship of anyone other than Kṛṣṇa. Karma means the pious acts prescribed for those who, having forgotten their true nature, thirst to enjoy the fruits. Jñāna means the endeavour of saṁvit alone, without its two eternally inseparable potencies, sandhinī and hlādinī; it is undertaken for self-elevation by those who, having forgotten their true nature, seek freedom from enjoyment (mukti). Ānukūlye kṛṣṇānuśīlana (cultivating service to Kṛṣṇa favourably) means serving Kṛṣṇa for Kṛṣṇa's pleasure: giving up the cultivation of [service to] māyā, which is other than Kṛṣṇa, and serving Kṛṣṇa in a favourable spirit. Sarvendriye (with all the senses) means with all the organs of sense. With the material senses one cultivates only [service to] māyā. The "material senses" are speech, hands, feet, anus and genitals, and eyes, ears, nose, tongue, skin and the "mind." If one serves māyā, which is other than Kṛṣṇa, with the material senses, it all ends in one's own enjoyment. For this reason, at the stage of sādhana-bhakti, sixty-four limbs (aṅgas) of devotion are prescribed. By the strength of this sādhana-bhakti the conditioned jīva escapes the clutches of material enjoyment, becomes free of anarthas and becomes qualified for transcendental service.

The goal (prayojana), love for Kṛṣṇa, comes only from the means (abhidheya), pure devotion; this is the view of the Sātvata-pañcarātra and the Bhāgavatam

—

এই 'শুদ্ধভক্তি' — ইহা হৈতে 'প্রেমা' হয় । পঞ্চরাত্রে, ভাগবতে এই লক্ষণ কয় ॥ ১৬৯ ॥

ei 'śuddha-bhakti' — ihā haite 'premā' haya
this pure devotion it from prema comes pañcarātre, bhāgavate ei lakṣaṇa kaya
in the Pañcarātra in the Bhāgavata this characteristic is told 169 This is pure devotion, and from it prema arises. The Pañcarātra and the Bhāgavata describe these characteristics.

Anubhāṣya.

The characteristics of pure devotion: the Pāñcarātrika and the Bhāgavata sampradāyas both establish the same meaning.

The view of the whole Pañcarātra — (words of the Śrī Nārada-pañcarātra quoted in the Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, first wave)

সর্ব্বোপাধিবিনির্ম্মুক্তং তৎপরত্বেন নির্ম্মলম্ । হৃষীকেণ হৃষীকেশ-সেবনং ভক্তিরুচ্যতে ॥ ১৭০ ॥

sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ
from all designations freed
tat-paratvena nirmalam
by devotion to Him pure
hṛṣīkeṇa hṛṣīkeśa-
with the senses of the master of the senses
sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate
the service devotion is called

170 "Service to the master of the senses (Hṛṣīkeśa) with one's senses, free from all designations and made pure by dedication to Him alone, is called devotion." (Nārada-pañcarātra, quoted in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.12)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Serving Hṛṣīkeśa with all the senses is called "devotion." This service (which constitutes the characteristic of essence, the svarūpa-lakṣaṇa) has two "marginal" (taṭastha) characteristics: such pure devotion remains free of all designations (upādhis), and, being directed to Kṛṣṇa alone, is itself pure.

Anubhāṣya.

sarvopādhi-vinirmuktam (free from all coverings of difference, devoid of other desires apart from Kṛṣṇa) tat-paratvena (with the sole aim of serving Kṛṣṇa, in a favourable spirit) nirmalam (free from the impurity of designations — the covering of karma, the bewilderment of jñāna and so on) hṛṣīkeṇa (with senses turned towards service) hṛṣīkeśa-sevanam (cultivation [of service] to Viṣṇu, the master of all the senses — this alone) bhaktiḥ ucyate (is called).

Kṛṣṇa is attained only through causeless, or exclusive (aikāntikī), pure devotion — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 3, Chapter 29, verses 11–14)

মদ্গুণশ্রুতিমাত্রেণ ময়ি সর্ব্বগুহাশয়ে ৷
মনোগতিরবিচ্ছিন্না যথা গঙ্গাম্ভসোঽম্বুধৌ ॥ ১৭১ ॥

লক্ষণং ভক্তিযোগস্য নির্গুণস্য হ্যুদাহৃতম্ ৷ অহৈতুক্যব্যবহিতা যা ভক্তিঃ পুরুষোত্তমে ॥ ১৭২ ॥

mad-guṇa-śruti-mātreṇa
of My qualities by the mere hearing

mayi sarva-guhāśaye
to Me dwelling in all hearts

mano-gatir avicchinnā
of the mind the flow unbroken

yathā gaṅgāmbhaso 'mbudhau
as of the Gaṅgā's waters into the ocean

lakṣaṇaṁ bhakti-yogasya
the mark of bhakti-yoga

nirguṇasya hy udāhṛtam
beyond the guṇas indeed is declared

ahaituky avyavahitā unmotivated uninterrupted

yā bhaktiḥ puruṣottame
which devotion to the Supreme Person

171–172 "Merely by hearing of My qualities the mind flows unbroken towards Me, who dwell in all hearts, as the waters of the Gaṅgā flow into the ocean. Such is the mark of bhakti-yoga beyond the guṇas (nirguṇa): devotion to the Supreme Person that is unmotivated and uninterrupted." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.29.11–12)[10]

সালোক্যসার্ষ্টিসারূপ্যসামীপ্যৈকত্বমপ্যুত ৷ দীয়মানং ন গৃহ্ণন্তি বিনা মৎসেবনং জনাঃ ॥ ১৭৩ ॥

sālokya-sārṣṭi-sārūpya-residence in My world equal opulence likeness of form sāmīpyaikatvam apy uta nearness oneness even and dīyamānaṁ na gṛhṇanti being given not accept vinā mat-sevanaṁ janāḥ
without My service the people

173 "My devotees accept nothing but service to Me — not even when they are offered residence in My world, opulence equal to Mine, a form like Mine, nearness to Me, or even oneness with Me." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.29.13)[11]

Anubhāṣya.
See Ādi 4.205–207.

স এব ভক্তিযোগাখ্য আত্যন্তিক উদাহৃতঃ ।
যেনাতিব্রজ্য ত্রিগুণং মদ্ভাবায়োপপদ্যতে ॥ ১৭৪ ॥

sa eva bhakti-yogākhya
that indeed called bhakti-yoga
ātyantika udāhṛtaḥ
the ultimate is declared
yenātivrajya tri-guṇaṁ
by which transcending the three guṇas mad-bhāvāyopapadyate
love for Me one attains

174 "That alone, called bhakti-yoga, is declared the ultimate goal; by it one transcends the three guṇas and attains love for Me." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.29.14)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Such devotion is called "absolute bhakti-yoga" (ātyantika-bhakti-yoga). By this bhakti-yoga the jīva transcends māyā, which is made of the guṇas, and attains pure love for Me.

Anubhāṣya.

The words of Bhagavān Śrī Kapiladeva to his mother Devahūti, who wished to hear about the path of pure bhakti-yoga:

saḥ (with the characteristics stated) bhakti-yogākhyaḥ (called bhakti-yoga) eva ātyantikaḥ (existing at the very end, at the limit of all — having reached the highest point) udāhṛtaḥ (is described), yena (by which — by absolute bhakti-yoga — a person) tri-guṇam (the cycle of birth and death, made of māyā) ativrajya (transcending) mad-bhāvāya (for directly seeing Me, for the state of brahma-bhūta) upapadyate (becomes able).

If there is cheating (kaitava) or offence, practice even for millions of births is all in vain —

ভুক্তি-মুক্তি আদি-বাঞ্ছা যদি মনে হয় । সাধন করিলে প্রেম উৎপন্ন না হয় ॥ ১৭৫ ॥

bhukti-mukti ādi-vāñchā yadi mane haya enjoyment, liberation and the rest desire if in the mind is sādhana karile prema utpanna nā haya sādhana though one performs prema born not is 175 If the desire for enjoyment, liberation and the like remains in the mind, then even though one practises sādhana, prema does not arise.[12]

Anubhāṣya.

If the heart holds the desire to enjoy the fruits of karma or the desire for liberation from the bondage of worldly existence, then however much a person who seeks such fruits performs the sixty-four kinds of sādhana-bhakti, such so-called mixed (viddha) worship will turn into mere karma or fruitless endeavours of jñāna. Therefore the fruit of sādhana-bhakti — attaining love for Kṛṣṇa — will not fall to his lot.

The witches of the desire for enjoyment and the desire for liberation destroy devotion — (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, second wave)

ভুক্তি-মুক্তি-স্পৃহা যাবৎ পিশাচী হৃদি বর্ত্ততে । তাবদ্ভক্তিসুখস্যাত্র কথমভ্যুদয়ো ভবেৎ ॥ ১৭৬ ॥

bhukti-mukti-spṛhā yāvat
for enjoyment and liberation the craving as long as piśācī hṛdi vartate
a witch in the heart remains tāvad bhakti-sukhasyātra
so long of the happiness of devotion here
katham abhyudayo bhavet
how the rise can be

176 "As long as the witch of craving for enjoyment and liberation remains in the heart, how can the happiness of devotion arise there?" (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.22)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
The desire for enjoyment and the desire for liberation are two witches (piśācīs). As long as they dwell in someone's heart, the happiness of devotion cannot dawn in that heart.

Anubhāṣya.
yāvat hṛdi (within the mind) bhukti-mukti-spṛhā (in the form of the desire for enjoyment and liberation) piśācī (a devouring witch) vartate, tāvat atra (in the heart) bhakti-sukhasya (of the bliss of service that pleases Kṛṣṇa) katham (how) abhyudayaḥ (manifestation) bhavet?

From sādhana-bhakti comes (2) bhāva-bhakti, or rati, and from rati comes (3) prema-bhakti —

সাধনভক্তি হৈতে হয় রতি'র উদয় । রতি গাঢ় হৈলে তার 'প্রেম' নাম কয় ॥ ১৭৭ ॥

sādhana-bhakti haite haya rati'ra udaya sādhana-bhakti from is of rati the rise
rati gāḍha haile tāra 'prema' nāma kaya rati intense when it becomes its prema name they call

177 From the practice of devotion (sādhana-bhakti) rati awakens; when rati deepens, it is called prema.

Anubhāṣya.

Sādhana-bhakti (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, second wave): "Devotion attained through the activity of the senses, whose goal is bhāva, is called sādhana. Its goal is to manifest in the heart the eternally perfect bhāva." Devotion performed with the senses that assist hearing, chanting and so on is called "sādhana-bhakti." To manifest the eternally perfect bhāva in the heart is "sādhana." It extends through faith (śraddhā), the company of sādhus (sādhu-saṅga: initiation and hearing), worship (bhajana: offenseless service to Viṣṇu and the Vaiṣṇavas), steadiness (niṣṭhā), taste (ruci) and up to attachment (āsakti). See Madhya 23.11–15.

Rati (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, third wave): "The sign of rati is a manifest softness seen within. If such softness appears in those who seek liberation and the like, it is not rati." When the softness that lies within becomes manifest, it is called "the sign of rati." If such softness appears in those who seek liberation or enjoyment, it cannot be called "rati."

Prema (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, fourth wave, 1): "When bhāva has fully softened the heart, is marked by an intense sense of 'mine,' and has become dense, the wise call it prema." When the heart has been thoroughly softened and bhāva full of the feeling "He is mine" grows dense, the learned call it "prema."

The varied degrees of the intensity of prema-bhakti; the highest is mahābhāva

—

প্রেম বৃদ্ধিক্রমে নাম — স্নেহ, মান প্রণয় । রাগ, অনুরাগ, ভাব, মহাভাব হয় ॥ ১৭৮ ॥

prema vṛddhi-krame nāma — sneha, māna praṇaya
prema of increase in the stages names sneha māna praṇaya
rāga, anurāga, bhāva, mahābhāva haya rāga anurāga bhāva mahābhāva are

178 As prema increases, its stages are called sneha, māna, praṇaya, rāga, anurāga, bhāva and mahābhāva.

Anubhāṣya.
Sneha (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Paścima-vibhāga, third wave): "Prema that grows dense and melts the heart is called sneha. It cannot tolerate separation even for a moment." When the melting of the heart becomes dense, prema is called "sneha." Then even a moment's separation is unbearable.

Māna — see Madhya 2.66.

Praṇaya — see Madhya 2.66.

Rāga (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Paścima-vibhāga, second wave): "Rāga is sneha in which even suffering clearly becomes happiness; in it, at even the slightest connection [with Him], one loves at the cost of life itself." Sneha in which suffering is clearly felt as "happiness" is "rāga." At the mere connection [with Him] there arises the urge to give pleasure to Śrī Kṛṣṇa even at the cost of one's own life.

Anurāga, bhāva and mahābhāva — see the discussion of adhirūḍha-mahābhāva in the Anubhāṣya on Madhya 6.13.

যৈছে বীজ, ইক্ষু, রস, গুড়, খণ্ড, সার । শর্করা, সিতা, মিছরি, উত্তম-মিছরি আর ॥ ১৭৯ ॥

yaiche bīja, ikṣu, rasa, guḍa, khaṇḍa, sāra
as the seed the sugarcane the juice molasses raw sugar refined sugar śarkarā, sitā, michari, uttama-michari āra white sugar sugar candy rock candy the finest rock candy and 179 It is like the seed, the sugarcane, its juice, molasses, raw sugar, refined sugar, white sugar, sugar candy, rock candy and the finest rock candy.

Rati runs through all of them —

এই সব কৃষ্ণভক্তি-রসের স্থায়িভাব । স্থায়িভাবে মিলে যদি বিভাব, অনুভাব ॥ ১৮০ ॥

ei saba kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasera sthāyibhāva
these all of Kṛṣṇa devotion of the rasa the sthāyibhāva sthāyibhāve mile yadi vibhāva, anubhāva
with the sthāyibhāva combine if vibhāva anubhāva

180 All these are the sthāyi-bhāva, the abiding emotion, of the rasa of devotion to Kṛṣṇa. When vibhāva and anubhāva combine with the sthāyi-bhāva,

Anubhāṣya.

Sthāyi-bhāva (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, first wave): "When this love for Kṛṣṇa (kṛṣṇa-rati), the sthāyi-bhāva, is made tasteable in the hearts of devotees through hearing and so on, by means of vibhāvas, anubhāvas, sāttvikas and vyabhicārīs, it becomes bhakti-rasa." Kṛṣṇa-rati is the sthāyi-bhāva. When through hearing and so on, combined with vibhāva, anubhāva, and the sāttvika and vyabhicārī bhāvas, it is brought to a tasteable state in the hearts of devotees, it becomes "bhakti-rasa."

Vibhāva (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, first wave): "Here the causes of tasting rati are to be known as vibhāvas. They are of two kinds: some are ālambanas, the others uddīpanas." The causes of tasting rati are called "vibhāva"; vibhāva is of two kinds, ālambana and uddīpana.

Anubhāva (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, second wave[26]): "Anubhāvas are what reveal the feelings that dwell in the mind; they are mostly outward transformations and are called udbhāsvara (radiant)." What reveals the radiant (udbhāsvara) feelings dwelling in the mind and displays outwardly actions resembling transformations — these are the "anubhāvas."

When four kinds of bhāva combine with rati, rasa arises —

সাত্ত্বিক, ব্যভিচারি-ভাবের মিলনে । কৃষ্ণভক্তি-রস হয় অমৃত আস্বাদনে ॥ ১৮১ ॥

sāttvika, vyabhicāri-bhāvera milane
sāttvika of the vyabhicārī-bhāvas in the union

kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa haya amṛta āsvādane
of Kṛṣṇa devotion rasa becomes nectar in the tasting

181 together with the sāttvika and vyabhicārī-bhāvas, then by their union the rasa of devotion to Kṛṣṇa becomes nectar to taste.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Devotion has three states: the state of practice (sādhana), the state of bhāva, and the state of prema. The nine limbs — hearing, chanting and the rest — are at first performed only in sādhana-bhakti. The more the anarthas mentioned above diminish as one hears and chants with faith, the higher faith itself (śraddhā-vṛtti) gradually rises, and it becomes known by the names niṣṭhā, ruci, āsakti, and bhāva or rati. Rati arises from sādhana-bhakti; the denser this rati grows through engagement (cultivation) in hearing, chanting and so on, the more it takes the names prema and the rest. (Gradually) prema, as it increases, rises to sneha, māna, praṇaya, rāga, anurāga, bhāva and mahābhāva. Here is an example. Sugarcane juice is like the seed corresponding to rati; the denser it grows, the further it passes through the stages of molasses (guḍa), then khaṇḍasāra, śarkarā, sitā-misri and the finest misri. Everything from rati to mahābhāva is known in kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa as sthāyi-bhāva; but everywhere it is rati above all that is called the sthāyi-bhāva.

When the four bhāvas — vibhāva, anubhāva, sāttvika and vyabhicārī — combine with the sthāyi-bhāva, rasa arises. When, in devotion to Kṛṣṇa, these ingredients join the sthāyi-bhāva, there is "kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa." The sthāyi-bhāva is the chief foundation on which rasa is kindled; with it the four ingredients — vibhāva and the rest — are combined. Thus the sthāyi-bhāva is the "root" of rasa, vibhāva its "cause," anubhāva its "effect," sāttvika-bhāva a special "effect," and the sañcārī or vyabhicārī bhāvas its "helpers." Vibhāva is divided into two kinds, ālambana and uddīpana. Ālambana is again divided into two, viṣaya and āśraya. In kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa the devotee is the āśraya, Kṛṣṇa is the viṣaya, and Kṛṣṇa's qualities[16] are the uddīpana.

The anubhāvas are of thirteen kinds: (1) dancing, (2) rolling on the ground, (3) singing, (4) loud crying, (5) stretching the body, (6) roaring (huṅkāra), (7) yawning, (8) heavy breathing, (9) disregard for public opinion, (10) drooling, (11) loud laughter, (12) reeling, (13) hiccups. Not all the signs of the anubhāvas appear at once: as the rasa works, now one sign and now another appears. The sāttvika-bhāvas are of eight kinds, and the sañcārī or vyabhicārī bhāvas number thirty-three (see the Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya on Madhya 14.167).

Anubhāṣya.
Sāttvika and vyabhicārī — see Madhya 3.162 and Madhya 14.167.

A comparison —

যৈছে দধি, সিতা, ঘৃত, মরীচ, কর্পূর । মিলনে, 'রসালা' হয় অমৃত মধুর ॥ ১৮২ ॥

yaiche dadhi, sitā, ghṛta, marīca, karpūra
as yogurt sugar candy ghee black pepper camphor milane, 'rasālā' haya amṛta madhura
in mixing rasālā becomes nectar sweet

182 It is like yogurt, sugar candy, ghee, black pepper and camphor: mixed together, they become rasālā, sweet as nectar.

Anubhāṣya.
Sitā means misri (crystallised sugar).

Five kinds of bhakti-rasa, according to the difference of rati —

ভক্তভেদে রতি-ভেদ পঞ্চ পরকার ।
শান্তরতি, দাস্যরতি, সখ্যরতি আর ॥ ১৮৩ ॥

বাৎসল্যরতি, মধুররতি, — এ পঞ্চ বিভেদ । রতিভেদে কৃষ্ণভক্তিরসে পঞ্চ ভেদ ॥ ১৮৪ ॥

bhakta-bhede rati-bheda pañca parakāra
by the difference of devotees of rati the difference five kinds śānta-rati, dāsya-rati, sakhya-rati āra śānta-rati dāsya-rati sakhya-rati and vātsalya-rati, madhura-rati, — e pañca vibheda vātsalya-rati madhura-rati these five divisions
rati-bhede kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rase pañca bheda
by the difference of rati in the rasa of devotion to Kṛṣṇa five kinds 183–184 According to the difference in devotees, rati is of five kinds — śānta-rati, dāsya-rati, sakhya-rati, vātsalya-rati and madhura-rati. And according to the difference in rati, the rasa of devotion to Kṛṣṇa is of five kinds.

Anubhāṣya.
Śānta-rati (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, fifth wave): "Freedom of the mind from wavering is called śama" — that is, a state of mind free from doubt and the like is called "śama." (The same:) "When, turning away from sense objects, one abides in one's own bliss, this is here called the nature of the self — śama. In those in whom śama predominates, there usually arises towards Kṛṣṇa as the Paramātmā śānta-rati, devoid of even a trace of the sense of 'mine.'" Abiding in one's own bliss after giving up the desire for sense objects is called the nature of "śama." In those in whom śama predominates, through realisation of the

Paramātmā, śānta-rati towards Kṛṣṇa arises, devoid of even a trace of the feeling "He is mine."

Dāsya-rati (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, fifth wave): "Those who are lower than He are considered recipients of Hari's mercy. Their rati, whose essence is [seeing Him as] the One to be worshipped, is called prīti. It creates attachment to Him and destroys love for everything else." When the jīva's rati is full of the consciousness of being lower than Śrī Bhagavān, he becomes a fit recipient of Hari's mercy. The rati called "prīti" — "Bhagavān is the One to be worshipped" — produces "attachment" (āsakti) to the worshipable Bhagavān Kṛṣṇacandra and destroys love for things of māyā other than Bhagavān.

Sakhya-rati (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, fifth wave): "Those who are equal to Mukunda are, in the view of the saintly, His friends. Their rati, whose nature is confidence (viśrambha) born of equality, is here called sakhya. It gives rise to joking, laughter and the like, and is free from restraint." In the view of the wise and the saintly, sakhās (friends) are those whose rati is full of the consciousness of equality with Mukunda. Rati full of trust, which, owing to mutual equality with Śrī Kṛṣṇa, shows itself as freedom from all constraint, is called "sakhya-rati." This sakhya-rati gives rise to joking, laughter and the like; it is called ayantraṇā — rati free of constraint.

Anubhāṣya.

Vātsalya-rati (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, fifth wave): "Those who are senior to this Hari are known as worthy of respect. Their rati, full of benevolence (anugraha), is called vātsalya. It shows itself in caring, wishing well, blessing, touching the chin and so on." Jīvas whose rati is full of the consciousness of their own seniority are "worthy of respect" to Bhagavān; their rati, full of benevolence, is called "vātsalya-rati." In this vātsalya-rati there are caring, looking after one's welfare, blessings, touching the chin and so on.

Madhura-rati (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, fifth wave): "The original cause of the mutual[27] enjoyment (sambhoga) of Hari and the doe-eyed ones is the rati called priyatā; its other name is madhurā. In it are sidelong glances, movements of the brows, tender words, smiles and the like." The original cause of the eight kinds of sambhoga — mutual remembrance, seeing one another and so on — between Śrī Bhagavān and the doe-eyed ones is priyatā, or madhurā-rati. In madhurā-rati there are sidelong glances, movements of the brows, tender words, sweet smiles and so on.

The five principal bhakti-rasas and the seven secondary ones —

শান্ত, দাস্য, সখ্য, বাৎসল্য, মধুর-রস নাম । কৃষ্ণভক্তি-রস-মধ্যে এ পঞ্চ প্রধান ॥ ১৮৫ ॥

śānta, dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya, madhura-rasa nāma
śānta dāsya sakhya vātsalya madhura-rasa by name kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-madhye e pañca pradhāna of devotion to Kṛṣṇa the rasas among these five principal

185 Their names are śānta, dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya and madhura-rasa; these five are the principal rasas of devotion to Kṛṣṇa.

Anubhāṣya.

Śānta-bhakti-rasa (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Paścima-vibhāga, first wave): "When the sthāyī — śānti-rati — through the vibhāvas and the rest that will be described, becomes tasteable to those endowed with śama, the wise call it śānta-bhakti-rasa. Here the yogīs' happiness is usually of the same kind as the happiness of their own self. But the happiness of the self is not dense, whereas the happiness full of the Lord (Īśa) is dense. Here too the chief cause is the experience of the Lord's form; charm of pastimes and the like are not considered [a cause] to the same degree as they are for servants and others." When the sthāyi-bhāva in the form of śānta-rati combines with the vibhāvas and the rest that will be described and becomes tasteable to śānta devotees — that is, takes on that form — then it becomes "śānta-bhakti-rasa." In śānta-rasa the yogīs attain happiness of the same kind as the bliss of impersonal Brahman, the foundation of all. But this bliss of the self is aghana, that is, meager; whereas the abundant happiness of service, when the sac-cid-ānanda form of Bhagavān manifests, is "dense." The śānta devotees do have greater happiness through direct vision, but they do not have such a taste for Bhagavān's charming pastimes as the servants and others do.

Dāsya-bhakti-rasa (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Paścima-vibhāga, second wave): "When prīti, through vibhāvas and the rest suited to it, is made tasteable in the hearts of devotees, it is considered prīta-bhakti-rasa. According to whether the recipient of mercy is a servant or one who is cared for, it is divided in two: sambhrama-prīta and gaurava-prīta." When, through suitable vibhāvas and the rest, prīti-rati becomes tasteable in the hearts of devotees, it becomes "prīti," or "dāsya-bhakti-rasa." Since the servants who are fit for mercy may be servants or those who are cared for, two kinds of prīti are seen in dāsya-rasa: sambhrama-dāsya (with awe) and gaurava-dāsya (with reverence for a superior).

Sakhya-bhakti-rasa (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Paścima-vibhāga, fourth wave): "When the sthāyi-bhāva, sakhya, through suitable vibhāvas and the rest, is brought to fullness in the hearts of the saintly, it is called the rasa of preyas." When the sthāyi-bhāva, sakhya-rati, through suitable vibhāvas and the rest, reaches fullness in the hearts of devotees, it becomes "preyo-rasa," or "sakhya-bhakti-rasa."

Vātsalya-bhakti-rasa (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Paścima-vibhāga, fourth wave): "When the sthāyī, vātsalya, reaches fullness through vibhāvas and the rest, the wise call it the bhakti-rasa named vatsala." When the sthāyi-bhāva, vātsalya-rati, reaches fullness in the devotee's heart through vibhāvas and the rest, learned devotees call it "vātsalya-bhakti-rasa."

Madhura-bhakti-rasa (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Paścima-vibhāga, fifth wave): "When madhurā rati, through vibhāvas and the rest suited to it, reaches fullness in the hearts of the saintly, it becomes the bhakti-rasa named madhura." When the sthāyi-bhāva, madhura-rati, reaches fullness in the heart of a true devotee through suitable vibhāvas and the rest, it is celebrated as "the bhakti-rasa called madhura."

(Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, the wave on sthāyi-bhāva, verse 116)

হাস্যোঽদ্ভুতস্তথা বীরঃ করুণো রৌদ্র ইত্যপি ৷ ভয়ানকঃ স বীভৎস ইতি গৌণশ্চ সপ্তধা ॥ ১৮৬ ॥

hāsyo 'dbhutas tathā vīraḥ laughter wonder also heroism
karuṇo raudra ity api compassion anger thus also bhayānakaḥ sa vībhatsa fear it disgust
iti gauṇaś ca saptadhā
thus secondary and sevenfold

186 "Laughter, wonder, heroism, compassion, anger, fear and disgust: thus the secondary rasa is sevenfold." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 2.5.116)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The "principal rasas" (mukhya-rasas) are of five kinds: śānta, dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya and madhura. Laughter (hāsya), wonder (adbhuta), heroism (vīra), compassion (karuṇa), anger (raudra), fear (bhayānaka) and disgust (bībhatsa) are the seven kinds of "secondary rasa" (gauṇa-rasa).

Anubhāṣya.

tathā hāsyaḥ, adbhutaḥ, vīraḥ, karuṇaḥ, raudraḥ, bhayānakaḥ, bībhatsaḥ — iti saptadhā gauṇa-rasaḥ ca api.

হাস্য, অদ্ভুত, বীর, করুণ, রৌদ্র, বীভৎস, ভয় । পঞ্চবিধ ভক্তে গৌণ সপ্তরস হয় ॥ ১৮৭ ॥

hāsya, adbhuta, vīra, karuṇa, raudra, vībhatsa, bhaya
hāsya adbhuta vīra karuṇa raudra bībhatsa bhaya

pañca-vidha bhakte gauṇa sapta-rasa haya
in the fivefold devotees secondary seven rasas are 187 Hāsya, adbhuta, vīra, karuṇa, raudra, bībhatsa and bhaya — these seven secondary rasas arise in the five kinds of devotees.

The five principal rasas are permanent (sthāyī); the seven secondary ones are occasional visitors (āgantuka) —

পঞ্চরস 'স্থায়ী' ব্যাপী রহে ভক্ত-মনে । সপ্ত গৌণ 'আগন্তুক' পাইয়ে কারণে ॥ ১৮৮ ॥

pañca-rasa 'sthāyī' vyāpī rahe bhakta-mane
the five rasas permanent pervading remain in the devotee's mind

sapta gauṇa 'āgantuka' pāiye kāraṇe
seven secondary incidental are found from a cause

188 The five rasas are permanent (sthāyī) and pervade the devotee's mind; the seven secondary ones are incidental (āgantuka), arising from some cause.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

The five principal rasas mentioned above abide in the devotee's heart permanently, as sthāyi-bhāvas. The secondary rasas — laughter, wonder and the rest — arise in the devotee's heart as visitors when a "cause" is present; they nourish the principal rasa and then subside.

Anubhāṣya.

Hāsya-bhakti-rasa (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Uttara-vibhāga, first wave): "When hāsa-rati, through the vibhāvas and the rest that will be described, reaches fullness, the wise call it hāsa-bhakti-rasa." When hāsa-rati (the rati of laughter), through the vibhāvas and the rest that will be described, reaches fullness, the learned call it "hāsya-bhakti-rasa."

Adbhuta-bhakti-rasa (the same, second wave): "When vismaya-rati, through vibhāvas and the rest suited to it, is made tasteable in the devotee's heart, it becomes adbhuta-bhakti-rasa." When, through suitable vibhāvas and the rest, "vismaya-rati" (the rati of wonder) becomes tasteable in the devotee's heart, there is "adbhuta-bhakti-rasa."

Vīra-bhakti-rasa (the same, third wave): "When that same utsāha-rati, the sthāyī, is made tasteable through vibhāvas and the rest suited to it, it becomes vīra-bhakti-rasa. The hero (vīra) is said to be of four kinds — in battle, in giving, in compassion and in dharma." When, through suitable vibhāvas and the rest, "utsāha-rati" (the rati of enthusiasm) becomes tasteable in the devotee's heart, there is "vīra-bhakti-rasa." According to four activities — "battle," "giving," "compassion" and "dharma" — four kinds of "hero" (vīra) are spoken of.

Karuṇa-bhakti-rasa (the same, fourth wave): "When śoka-rati, through vibhāvas and the rest suited to it, reaches fullness in the hearts of the saintly, it becomes the bhakti-rasa called karuṇa." When, through suitable vibhāvas and the rest, "śoka-rati" (the rati of sorrow) reaches fullness in the devotee's heart, it is called "karuṇa-bhakti-rasa."

Raudra-bhakti-rasa (the same, fifth wave): "When krodha-rati, through vibhāvas and the rest suited to it, reaches fullness in the devotee's heart, it becomes raudra-bhakti-rasa." When, through suitable vibhāvas and the rest, krodha-rati (the rati of anger) reaches fullness in the devotee's heart, there is "raudra-bhakti-rasa."

Bhayānaka-bhakti-rasa (the same, sixth wave): "When bhaya-rati, through the vibhāvas and the rest that will be described, reaches fullness, the wise call it the bhakti-rasa named bhayānaka." When bhaya-rati (the rati of fear), through the vibhāvas and the rest that will be described, reaches fullness, the learned call it "bhayānaka-bhakti-rasa."

Bībhatsa-bhakti-rasa (the same, seventh wave): "When jugupsā-rati, through its own vibhāvas and the rest, reaches fullness, the wise call this bhakti-rasa bībhatsa." When, through suitable vibhāvas and the rest, "jugupsā," or "ghṛṇā-rati" (the rati of disgust), reaches fullness in the devotee's heart, the learned call it "bībhatsa-bhakti-rasa."

Pañca-vidha bhakte (in the five kinds of devotees): in the devotees of the five permanent rasas — śānta, dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya and madhura — the seven secondary rasas, beginning with laughter, manifest when there is a "cause" for them.

The names of the devotees in śānta-rasa and dāsya-rasa —

শান্তভক্ত — নব-যোগেন্দ্র, সনকাদি আর । দাস্যভাব-ভক্ত — সর্ব্বত্র সেবক অপার ॥ ১৮৯ ॥

śānta-bhakta — nava-yogendra, sanakādi āra śānta devotees the nine Yogendras Sanaka and the others and dāsya-bhāva-bhakta — sarvatra sevaka apāra devotees in dāsya-bhāva everywhere servants countless 189 The devotees in śānta are the nine Yogendras, and also Sanaka and the others; the devotees in the mood of servitude are countless servants everywhere.

Anubhāṣya.

The nine great yogīs (nava-yogendras; Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam 5.4.11 and 11.2.21): (1) Kavi, (2) Havi, (3) Antarīkṣa, (4) Prabuddha, (5) Pippalāyana, (6) Āvirhotra, (7) Draviḍa (Drumila), (8) Camasa and (9) Karabhājana.

Sanaka and the others: (1) Sanaka, (2) Sananda, (3) Sanat-kumāra, (4) Sanātana.

The devotees in the mood of servitude (dāsya): (1) the servants in Gokula — Raktaka, Citraka, Patraka and others; (2) the servants in the city of Dvārakā — Dāruka and others; (3) the servants in Vaikuṇṭha; (4) the servants in the pastimes — Hanumān and others.

The names of the devotees in sakhya-rasa and vātsalya-rasa —

সখ্য-ভক্ত — শ্রীদামাদি, পুরে ভীমার্জ্জুন । বাৎসল্য-ভক্ত — মাতা পিতা, যত গুরুজন ॥ ১৯০ ॥

sakhya-bhakta — śrīdāmādi, pure bhīmārjuna devotees in sakhya Śrīdāmā and others in the city Bhīma and Arjuna vātsalya-bhakta — mātā pitā, yata guru-jana devotees in vātsalya mother father all elders

190 The devotees in sakhya are Śrīdāmā and the others, and in the city, Bhīma and Arjuna; the devotees in vātsalya are His mother and father and all His elders.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
"In Vraja," Śrīdāmā and others; "in the city," in the pastimes of Dvārakā, Bhīma and Arjuna.

The devotees in madhura-rasa — the beloveds in the city and the beloveds in Vraja —

মধুর-রসে ভক্তমুখ্য — ব্রজে গোপীগণ । মহিষীগণ, লক্ষ্মীগণ, অসংখ্য গণন ॥ ১৯১ ॥

madhura-rase bhakta-mukhya — vraje gopī-gaṇa
in madhura-rasa among devotees the foremost in Vraja the gopīs mahiṣī-gaṇa, lakṣmī-gaṇa, asaṅkhya gaṇana
the queens the Lakṣmīs countless in number

191 In madhura-rasa the foremost devotees are the gopīs of Vraja; then come the queens and the Lakṣmīs, countless in number.

Madhura-rati is of two kinds: (1) mixed with majesty (aiśvarya) and (2) kevalā (pure) —

পুনঃ কৃষ্ণরতি হয় দুইত প্রকার । ঐশ্বর্য্যজ্ঞানমিশ্রা, কেবলা-ভেদ আর ॥ ১৯২ ॥

punaḥ kṛṣṇa-rati haya duita prakāra again for Kṛṣṇa rati is two kinds aiśvarya-jñāna-miśrā, kevalā-bheda āra with awareness of majesty mixed pure (kevalā) kind and 192 Again, rati for Kṛṣṇa is of two kinds: mixed with awareness of His majesty (aiśvarya), and pure (kevalā).

In Gokula rati is kevalā; in Vaikuṇṭha, Mathurā and Dvārakā it is rati "in which majesty predominates" —

গোকুলে 'কেবলা' রতি — ঐশ্বর্য্যজ্ঞানহীন । পুরীদ্বয়ে, বৈকুণ্ঠাদ্যে — 'ঐশ্বর্য্য' প্রবীণ ॥ ১৯৩ ॥

gokule 'kevalā' rati — aiśvarya-jñāna-hīna in Gokula pure rati awareness of majesty devoid of purī-dvaye, vaikuṇṭhādye — 'aiśvarya' pravīṇa
in the two cities in Vaikuṇṭha and elsewhere majesty predominant

193 In Gokula rati is pure, devoid of awareness of majesty; in the two cities and in Vaikuṇṭha and the other abodes, majesty predominates.

In rati where majesty predominates, rāga is contracted; in kevalā there is no awareness of majesty —

ঐশ্বর্য্যজ্ঞানপ্রাধান্যে সঙ্কুচিত প্রীতি । দেখিলে না মানে ঐশ্বর্য্য, — কেবলার রীতি ॥ ১৯৪ ॥

aiśvarya-jñāna-prādhānye saṅkucita prīti of awareness of majesty where it predominates constricted love
dekhile nā māne aiśvarya, — kevalāra rīti
even seeing not heeds majesty of the pure kind the way

194 Where awareness of majesty predominates, love is constricted. Not to heed majesty even when one sees it — that is the way of pure love.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Kṛṣṇa-rati is of two kinds: mixed with awareness of majesty (aiśvarya), and kevalā — that is, devoid of awareness of majesty. In the "two cities" — Dvārakā and Mathurā — and in Vaikuṇṭha and other abodes, devotion is mixed with awareness of majesty. Therefore prema there is contracted. But in Gokula the cowherd men and women, whose rati is kevalā, do not wish to acknowledge Kṛṣṇa's majesty even when they see it.

Though in Vraja there is awareness of majesty here and there in śānta and dāsya, it does not manifest in sakhya, vātsalya and madhura-rasa —

শান্ত-দাস্য-রসে ঐশ্বর্য্য কাঁহা উদ্দীপন । সখ্যে, বাৎসল্যে, মধুর-রসে সঙ্কোচন ॥ ১৯৫ ॥

śānta-dāsya-rase aiśvarya kāṁhā uddīpana
in śānta and dāsya-rasa majesty at times a stimulus sakhye, vātsalye, madhura-rase saṅkocana
in sakhya in vātsalya in madhura-rasa constriction

195 In śānta and dāsya-rasa majesty is at times a stimulus (uddīpana) to love; in sakhya, vātsalya and madhura-rasa it constricts love.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Kāṅhā (somewhere) means in certain places.

Anubhāṣya.
In śānta, dāsya and gaurava-sakhya, a predominance of majesty is seen here and there; in viśrambha-sakhya, vātsalya and madhura-rasa the mood in which majesty predominates is contracted.

In rati mixed with majesty, the devotee regards himself as "lowly" and Kṛṣṇa as "Master": (1) in vātsalya-rati — Vasudeva and Devakī —

বসুদেব-দেবকীর কৃষ্ণ চরণ বন্দিল । ঐশ্বর্য্যজ্ঞানে দুঁহার মনে ভয় হৈল ॥ ১৯৬ ॥

vasudeva-devakīra kṛṣṇa caraṇa vandila of Vasudeva and Devakī Kṛṣṇa the feet honoured
aiśvarya-jñāne duṁhāra mane bhaya haila
from awareness of majesty of both in the mind fear arose

196 When Kṛṣṇa bowed at the feet of Vasudeva and Devakī, fear arose in both their minds, for they were aware of His majesty.

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 10, Chapter 44, verse 51)

দেবকী বসুদেবশ্চ বিজ্ঞায় জগদীশ্বরৌ । কৃতসংবন্দনৌ পুত্রৌ সস্বজাতে ন শঙ্কিতৌ ॥ ১৯৭ ॥

devakī vasudevaś ca Devakī Vasudeva and
vijñāya jagad-īśvarau
knowing the two Lords of the universe
kṛta-saṁvandanau putrau
who had bowed to them the two sons sasvajāte na śaṅkitau embraced not being apprehensive

197 "Knowing their two sons to be the Lords of the universe, Devakī and Vasudeva were filled with apprehension and did not embrace Them, though They had bowed to them." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.44.51)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Devakī and Vasudeva, knowing Baladeva and Śrī Kṛṣṇa to be the "Lords of the universe," became afraid and could not embrace Them.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Kṛṣṇa killed Kaṁsa and the wrestlers he had engaged, freed His mother Devakī and father Vasudeva from their fetters and bowed down to them. Then Devakī and Vasudeva did not feel as Yaśodā and Nanda would; instead a predominance of the mood of majesty is seen in them:

devakī vasudevaś ca (the mother and the father) putrau (their sons — Rāma and Kṛṣṇa) jagad-īśvarau iti vijñāya (knowing) śaṅkitau (being afraid) kṛta-saṁvandanau (who had bowed to them) api tau na sasvajāte (did not embrace; instead they stood bowed, with joined palms, offering prayers).

(2) In sakhya-rati — Arjuna —

কৃষ্ণের বিশ্বরূপ দেখি’ অর্জ্জুনের হৈল ভয় । সখ্যভাবে ধার্ষ্ট্য ক্ষমাপয় করিয়া বিনয় ॥ ১৯৮ ॥

kṛṣṇera viśva-rūpa dekhi’ arjunera haila bhaya Kṛṣṇa’s universal form seeing in Arjuna arose fear sakhya-bhāve dhārṣṭya kṣamāpaya kariyā vinaya
in the mood of friendship boldness begs pardon for showing humility

198 Seeing Kṛṣṇa’s universal form, Arjuna was afraid, and humbly begged pardon for the boldness he had shown in his friendship.

(Bhagavad-gītā 11.41–42)

সখেতি মত্বা প্রসভং যদুক্তং
হে কৃষ্ণ হে যাদব হে সখেতি ।
অজানতা মহিমানং তবেদং
ময়া প্রমাদাৎ প্রণয়েন বাপি ॥ ১৯৯ ॥

যচ্চাবহাসার্থমসৎকৃতোঽসি
বিহার-শয্যাসন-ভোজনেষু ।
একোঽথবাপ্যচ্যুত তৎসমক্ষং তৎ ক্ষাময়ে ত্বামহমপ্রমেয়ম্ ॥ ২০০ ॥

sakheti matvā prasabhaṁ yad uktaṁ
as a friend thinking rashly what was said
he kṛṣṇa he yādava he sakheti O Kṛṣṇa O Yādava O friend thus ajānatā mahimānaṁ tavedaṁ
by one unaware greatness Your this mayā pramādāt praṇayena vāpi
by me out of carelessness out of love or even yac cāvahāsārtham asat-kṛto 'si and that for a jest disrespected You were vihāra-śayyāsana-bhojaneṣu
at play, in bed, in sitting, at meals
eko 'tha vāpy acyuta tat-samakṣaṁ alone or even O Acyuta in the presence of others
tat kṣāmaye tvām aham aprameyam
for that beg forgiveness You I immeasurable

199–200 "Whatever I said rashly, thinking of You as my friend — 'O Kṛṣṇa! O Yādava! O friend!' — unaware of this greatness of Yours, out of carelessness or out of love; and whatever disrespect I showed You in jest, at play, in bed, in sitting or at meals, alone or in the presence of others, O Acyuta — for all that I beg forgiveness of You, the immeasurable." (Bhagavad-gītā, 11.41–42)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Thinking of You as a friend and not knowing Your greatness, out of carelessness or out of love I rashly said to You, "O Kṛṣṇa, O Yādava, O friend!" For all that I said in this way, and for all the disrespect I showed You in jest — while eating, at play, lying down or sitting, alone or before everyone — for all this, O You whose nature is immeasurable, I beg forgiveness.

Anubhāṣya.

tava mahimānam (greatness) ajānatā (not realising) mayā pramādāt (out of carelessness) praṇayena (out of friendly affection) vā api sakhā iti matvā (to You) prasabham (rashly) he kṛṣṇa, he yādava, he sakhe iti yat uktam (was said), tat idam; he acyuta! vihāra-śayyāsana-bhojaneṣu (in play, lying down, sitting, eating and so on) ekaḥ (alone) vā (or) tat-samakṣam (before friends)

avahāsārtham (in jest) asat-kṛtaḥ (treated with disrespect) asi iti yat, tat ca aham aprameyam (whose power is inconceivable) tvām kṣāmaye (beg to forgive; the sense is: forgive all offences, whether in words or in disrespect).

(3) In madhura-rati — Rukmiṇī —

কৃষ্ণ যদি রুক্মিণীরে কৈলা পরিহাস ।
'কৃষ্ণ ছাড়িবেন' — জানি' রুক্মিণীর হৈল ত্রাস ॥ ২০১ ॥

kṛṣṇa yadi rukmiṇīre kailā parihāsa Kṛṣṇa when with Rukmiṇī made a jest
'kṛṣṇa chāḍibena' — jāni' rukmiṇīra haila trāsa
Kṛṣṇa will leave thinking in Rukmiṇī arose terror

201 When Kṛṣṇa jested with Rukmiṇī, she was terrified, thinking that Kṛṣṇa would leave her.

The evidence — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 10, Chapter 60, verse 24)

তস্যাঃ সুদুঃখভয় শোক-বিনষ্ট-বুদ্ধে- র্হস্তাচ্ছ্লথদ্বলয়তো ব্যজনং পপাত ।
দেহশ্চ বিক্লবধিয়ঃ সহসৈব মুহ্যন্ রম্ভেব বাতবিহতা প্রবিকীর্য্য কেশান্ ॥ ২০২ ॥

tasyāḥ su-duḥkha-bhaya śoka-vinaṣṭa-buddher
her with great sorrow, fear grief bewildered in mind hastāc chlathad-valayato vyajanaṁ papāta
from the hand with its slipping bracelets the fan fell dehaś ca viklava-dhiyaḥ sahasaiva muhyan
the body and of her whose mind was distraught suddenly fainting rambheva vāta-vihatā pravikīrya keśān
like a plantain tree by the wind struck down scattering her hair

202 "Overwhelmed by grief, fear and sorrow, she lost her wits: the fan fell from her hand as her bracelets slipped, and, her mind failing, she suddenly fell senseless, her hair scattered, like a plantain tree blown down by the wind." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.60.24)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

When in Dvārakā Kṛṣṇa teased Rukmiṇī, her reason was lost through intense pain, fear and grief: the fan fell from her hand, from which the bracelets were slipping; her hair came loose; and her body, like a banana tree struck by the wind, suddenly gave way and she fainted.

Anubhāṣya.

Once, in her own home, Rukmiṇī began to serve Śrī Kṛṣṇa with her own hands. Śrī Kṛṣṇa, wishing to test her attachment, jokingly described Himself as poor, possessionless (niṣkiñcana) and indifferent, and so entirely unworthy of Rukmiṇī's love, and told her to leave Śrī Kṛṣṇa's company and give her love to someone else. On hearing this, Rukmiṇī, whose very life is Kṛṣṇa alone, fell into this condition:

suduḥkha-bhaya-śoka-vinaṣṭa-buddheḥ (of her, Rukmiṇī, whose reason was lost through intense pain — from hearing something unpleasant — through fear of being abandoned, and through grief, that is, remorse) ślathad-valayataḥ (from which bracelets were slipping and falling) hastāt vyajanam (the fan) papāta; viklava-dhiyaḥ (of her whose mind was overwhelmed, out of control) dehaḥ ca sahasā eva muhyan (fainting) keśān pravikīrya (scattering them in all directions) vāta-vihatā (struck by the wind) rambhā (a banana tree) iva papāta (fell).

In Vraja, in kevalā-rati, devoid of majesty, Kṛṣṇa is regarded as one's own, subject to oneself —

'কেবলা'র শুদ্ধপ্রেম 'ঐশ্বর্য্য' না জানে । ঐশ্বর্য্য দেখিলেও নিজ-সম্বন্ধ সে মানে ॥ ২০৩ ॥

'kevalā'ra śuddha-prema 'aiśvarya' nā jāne
of the pure kind pure love majesty not knows aiśvarya dekhileo nija-sambandha se māne majesty even seeing its own relationship it heeds

203 Pure love of the kevalā kind does not know majesty; even when it sees majesty, it heeds only its own relationship with Kṛṣṇa.

Anubhāṣya.

A devotee in whom majesty predominates cannot understand the greatness of the pure prema of kevalā. Even when seeing Bhagavān's majesty, a devotee wholly given to kevalā-rati acknowledges only his own relationship [with Him].

(1) Yaśodā regards Svayaṁ Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa as her own son — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 10, Chapter 8, verse 45)

ত্রয়্যা চোপনিষদ্ভিশ্চ সাংখ্যযোগৈশ্চ সাত্বতৈঃ । উপগীয়মানমাহাত্ম্যং হরিং সাঽমন্যতাত্মজম্ ॥ ২০৪ ॥

trayyā copaniṣadbhiś ca
by the three Vedas and by the Upaniṣads and sāṁkhya-yogaiś ca sātvataiḥ
by Sāṅkhya and yoga and by the Sātvatas upagīyamāna-māhātmyaṁ whose glory is sung
hariṁ sā 'manyatātmajam
Hari she considered her son

204 "She looked upon Hari, whose glory is sung by the three Vedas, the Upaniṣads, the works on Sāṅkhya and yoga and the Sātvata scriptures, as her own son." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.8.45)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Kṛṣṇa, whose greatness is sung by the three Vedas, the Upaniṣads, sāṅkhya-yoga and the scriptures on devotion — Yaśodā knows Him as her "son."

Anubhāṣya.

When Yaśodā saw in Śrī Kṛṣṇa's mouth the universal form full of majesty, knowledge of the truth (tattva-jñāna) awakened awe (sambhrama) in her. But at once, by Kṛṣṇa's will, in her heart, in which natural mamatā (the feeling "he is mine") is strong, her love for Kṛṣṇa grew still deeper and increased:

trayyā (by the three Vedas — the Ṛg, Yajur and Sāma — consisting of karma and upāsanā, as Indra and others), upaniṣadbhiḥ (by the śrutis forming the jñāna-kāṇḍa, the higher part of the Vedas, as "Brahman"), sāṅkhyaiḥ (as "the Puruṣa"), yogaiḥ (as "the Paramātmā"), sātvataiḥ (by the Pañcarātras and āgamas, as "Bhagavān") upagīyamāna-māhātmyam (whose greatness is sung and praised) harim sā (Yaśodā, endowed with kevalā-rati) ātmajam (as her son) amanyata (regarded).

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 10, Chapter 9, verse 14)

তং মত্বাত্মজমব্যক্তং মর্ত্যলিঙ্গমধোক্ষজম্ । গোপীকোলূখলে দাম্না ববন্ধ প্রাকৃতং যথা ॥ ২০৫ ॥

taṁ matvātmajam avyaktaṁ
Him thinking her son the unmanifest
martya-liṅgam adhokṣajam appearing as a mortal beyond the senses
gopīkolūkhale dāmnā
the gopī to the mortar with a rope
babandha prākṛtaṁ yathā bound an ordinary child like

205 "Thinking the unmanifest Lord, who is beyond the senses and had appeared in human form, to be her own son, the gopī tied Him to the mortar with a rope, as if He were an ordinary child." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.9.14)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Him who is unmanifest and beyond the senses — Adhokṣaja, who appeared as if in a human body — Yaśodā, thinking Him her son, bound with a rope to the mortar like an ordinary child.

Anubhāṣya.
To see His mother's love, playful Kṛṣṇa broke a pot of yogurt in Yaśodā's house and began secretly eating fresh butter. This describes what the angry Yaśodā did:

avyaktam (beyond the reach of the material senses and so on) adhokṣajam (Bhagavān Himself, who has surpassed akṣaja, knowledge born of the senses) martya-liṅgam (who out of compassion for the jīvas had accepted a human body) ātmajam (her son) matvā gopikā (Yaśodā), yathā (as a mother) prākṛtam (an ordinary child), [so] dāmnā (with a rope) ulūkhale (to the mortar) babandha (tried to bind).

(2) Śrīdāmā and the others regard Svayaṁ Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa as their friend —

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 10, Chapter 18, verse 24)

উবাহ ভগবান্ কৃষ্ণঃ শ্রীদামানং পরাজিতঃ । বৃষভং ভদ্রসেনস্তু প্রলম্বো রোহিণীসুতম্ ॥ ২০৬ ॥

uvāha bhagavān kṛṣṇaḥ carried the Lord Kṛṣṇa
śrīdāmānaṁ parājitaḥ Śrīdāmā defeated
vṛṣabhaṁ bhadrasenas tu Vṛṣabha Bhadrasena and pralambo rohiṇī-sutam
Pralamba Rohiṇī's son

206 "Defeated, the Lord Kṛṣṇa carried Śrīdāmā; Bhadrasena carried Vṛṣabha, and Pralamba carried the son of Rohiṇī." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.18.24)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, having lost, carried Śrīdāmā on His shoulders; Bhadrasena carried Vṛṣabha, and Pralamba carried Rohiṇī's son Baladeva.

Anubhāṣya.
Once, in the forests of Vraja, while the cows were grazing, Kṛṣṇa saw that the demon Pralamba had come disguised as a cowherd boy to carry off Rāma and Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa bewildered him and, still herding the cows, absorbed the friends on Śrī Kṛṣṇa's side and on Śrī Rāma's side in a competitive game and came with them to Bhāṇḍīravana. The friends on Śrī Kṛṣṇa's side lost and, as agreed, had to carry the friends on Śrī Rāma's side. This describes how they carried them:

bhagavān kṛṣṇaḥ parājitaḥ (having lost) śrīdāmānam, bhadrasenaḥ vṛṣabham, pralambaḥ (the deceitful demon in the guise of a cowherd boy) rohiṇī-sutam (Baladeva, who was soon to be his death) uvāha (carried).

(3) Śrī Rādhā regards Kṛṣṇa as a lover subject to herself — (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 10, Chapter 30, verses 37–39)

সা চ মেনে তদাত্মানং বরিষ্ঠাং সর্ব্বযোষিতাম্ । হিত্বা গোপীঃ কামযানা মামসৌ ভজতে প্রিয়ঃ ॥ ২০৭ ॥

sā ca mene tadātmānaṁ
She and considered then Herself
variṣṭhāṁ sarva-yoṣitām
the best of all women
hitvā gopīḥ kāma-yānā leaving the gopīs desirous mām asau bhajate priyaḥ
Me He serves the Beloved

207 "And She then thought Herself the best of all women: 'My Beloved has left the other gopīs, who long for Him, and serves Me.'" (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.30.37)[13]

ততো গত্বা বনোদ্দেশং দৃপ্তা কেশবমব্রবীৎ । ন পারয়েঽহং চলিতুং নয় মাং যত্র তে মনঃ ॥ ২০৮ ॥

tato gatvā vanoddeśaṁ
then going to a place in the forest
dṛptā keśavam abravīt proud to Keśava She said
na pāraye 'haṁ calituṁ not am able I to walk
naya māṁ yatra te manaḥ carry Me where Your mind

208 "Then, coming to a part of the forest, She said proudly to Keśava: 'I cannot walk any further. Carry Me wherever You wish.'" (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.30.38)

এবমুক্তঃ প্রিয়ামাহ স্কন্ধমারুহ্যতামিতি । ততশ্চান্তর্দ্দধে কৃষ্ণঃ সা বধূরন্বতপ্যত ॥ ২০৯ ॥

evam uktaḥ priyām āha
thus addressed to His beloved He said
skandham āruhyatām iti on My shoulder climb thus tataś cāntardadhe kṛṣṇaḥ
then and disappeared Kṛṣṇa
sā vadhūr anvatapyata
that young woman was filled with remorse

209 "So addressed, He said to His beloved, 'Climb onto My shoulder.' But then Kṛṣṇa vanished, and the young gopī was filled with remorse." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.30.39)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
"Leaving the gopīs who long for Him, this beloved Kṛṣṇa lovingly serves me" — with such pride (Rādhikā thought herself the best of all the gopīs, and at last), going into the forest, Rādhikā said to Śrī Kṛṣṇa, "O Kṛṣṇa, I can't walk any further; carry me wherever You like." When Rādhikā said this, Kṛṣṇa replied, "Climb onto My shoulders." Having said this, Kṛṣṇa vanished, and Rādhikā, Kṛṣṇa's beloved, began to lament.

Anubhāṣya.
Śrī Kṛṣṇa vanished from the rāsa dance, taking with Him Śrīmatī Rādhikā alone. Then pride arose in Śrīmatī, and these are her proud words:

(asau priyaḥ kṛṣṇaḥ — this beloved Kṛṣṇa) kāmayānāḥ (for whom desire is the "vehicle," what brought them to Him) gopīḥ (all the gopīs) hitvā (leaving) mām (me, Rādhikā) bhajate (serves; proud of this) sā (Rādhikā) ātmānam (herself) sarva-yoṣitām (among all the gopīs) variṣṭhām (the best) mene (considered); tataḥ (after such self-esteem) vanoddeśam (to a certain part of the forest) gatvā: "aham calitum na pāraye (am unable), so yatra (wherever) te (Your) manaḥ (desire) [to go], (there, O Keśava,) mām naya (carry)," iti sā keśavam abravīt; evam uktaḥ (on hearing this, Śrī Kṛṣṇa) priyām (to His beloved, Rādhikā) "(onto My) skandham (shoulder) ārūhyatām (climb)" iti āha; tataḥ kṛṣṇaḥ (who delights in pastimes) ca antardadhe (vanished); (seeing this,) sā vadhūḥ (Rādhikā) ca anvatapyata (began to lament).

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 10, Chapter 31, verse 16)

পতিসুতান্বয়ভ্রাতৃবান্ধবা- নতিবিলঙ্ঘ্য তেঽন্ত্যচ্যুতাগতাঃ ।
গতিবিদস্তবোদ্গীতমোহিতাঃ কিতব যোষিতঃ কস্ত্যজেন্নিশি ॥ ২১০ ॥

pati-sutānvaya-bhrātṛ-bāndhavān
husbands, sons, kin, brothers and relatives

ativilaṅghya te 'nty acyutāgatāḥ wholly disregarding Your to the side O Acyuta come

gati-vidas tavodgīta-mohitāḥ
knowing our purpose by Your song enchanted

kitava yoṣitaḥ kas tyajen niśi
O cheat women who would abandon at night

210 "Disregarding husbands, sons, kin, brothers and relatives, we have come to Your side, O Acyuta, enchanted by Your song. You know why we have come. O cheat, who would abandon women at night?" (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.31.16)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
O Kṛṣṇa, we have come to You, disregarding everyone — husbands, sons, kinsmen, brothers and friends. You know why we have come: we came enchanted by Your song. O rogue, who abandons women like this at night?

Anubhāṣya.
During the rāsa dance with the gopīs Śrī Kṛṣṇa suddenly vanished, and the gopīs, pining in separation, sang a lament addressed to Kṛṣṇa:

he acyuta, gati-vidaḥ (You who know why we have come, or who know the courses of melodies; or else gati-vidaḥ refers to us) tava udgīta-mohitāḥ (we gopīs, enchanted by Your udgīta, Your loud song) pati-sutānvaya-bhrātṛ-bāndhavān (husbands, sons, anvaya — the descendants related to them — brothers and all friends) ativilaṅghya (disregarding) te (Your) anti (nearness) āgatāḥ; he kitava (deceiver, rogue), niśi evam-bhūtāḥ yoṣitaḥ (such women, who came of their own accord; except You) kaḥ tyajet — no one; this is the sense.

The qualities and nature of śānta-rasa —

শান্তরসে — ‘স্বরূপবুদ্ধ্যে কৃষ্ণৈকনিষ্ঠতা’ । “শমো মন্নিষ্ঠতা বুদ্ধেঃ” ইতি শ্রীমুখ-গাথা ॥ ২১১ ॥

śānta-rase — ‘svarūpa-buddhye kṛṣṇaika-niṣṭhatā’
in śānta-rasa by understanding of His svarūpa on Kṛṣṇa alone fixedness “śamo man-niṣṭhatā buddheḥ” iti śrī-mukha-gāthā
śama on Me fixedness of the intellect thus from His own lips the saying 211 In śānta-rasa, through awareness of one’s own true nature (svarūpa), one is fixed on Kṛṣṇa alone. ‘Śama is the fixing of the intellect on Me’ — so the Lord has said with His own lips.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

From awareness fixed on Me (man-niṣṭhatā-buddhi) the quality of śama arises; from śama, śānta-rasa. Therefore in śānta-rasa one sees this firm conviction (niṣṭhā): “Kṛṣṇa alone is the supreme truth; the whole universe (though it rests on Kṛṣṇa, it is distinct from Kṛṣṇa, other) is an ‘other’ thing.”

Anubhāṣya.

In śānta-rasa, once the notion of material enjoyment has been removed, awareness of one’s true nature (svarūpa-buddhi) dawns in the jīva. Its eternal nature is endowed with the property of eternal, exclusive devotion to Kṛṣṇa. Śrī Bhagavān Himself told Uddhava that the word śama means “exclusive devotion to Kṛṣṇa.”

(Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, the wave on śānta-bhakti-rasa, verse 21)

শমো মন্নিষ্ঠতা বুদ্ধেরিতি শ্রীভগবদ্বচঃ ।
তন্নিষ্ঠা দুর্ঘটা বুদ্ধেরেতাং শান্তরতিং বিনা ॥ ২১২ ॥

śamo man-niṣṭhatā buddher
śama on Me fixedness of the intellect
iti śrī-bhagavad-vacaḥ
thus Śrī Bhagavān's words
tan-niṣṭhā durghaṭā buddher
on Him fixedness is hard to achieve of the intellect etāṁ śānta-ratiṁ vinā
this śānta-rati without

212 "'Śama is the fixing of the intellect on Me' — so says Śrī Bhagavān. Without this śānta-rati, such fixing of the intellect on Him is hard to achieve." (Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 2.5.21)[14]

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
From the words of Bhagavān — "the quality of śama comes from awareness fixed on Me" — one should understand that without śānta-rati such fixity (niṣṭhā) is hard to achieve.

Anubhāṣya.
buddheḥ man-niṣṭhatā (exclusive devotion to Kṛṣṇa) is "śamaḥ" — iti śrī-bhagavad-vacaḥ (the words of Śrī Kṛṣṇa to Uddhava); etām śānta-ratim vinā buddheḥ tan-niṣṭhā (fixity on Bhagavān) durghaṭā (is hard to achieve).

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 11, Chapter 19, verse 36)

শমো মন্নিষ্ঠতা বুদ্ধের্দম ইন্দ্রিয়সংয়মঃ ৷ তিতিক্ষা দুঃখসংমর্ষো জিহ্বোপস্থজয়ো ধৃতিঃ ॥ ২১৩ ॥

śamo man-niṣṭhatā buddher
śama on Me fixedness of the intellect
dama indriya-saṁyamaḥ
dama of the senses restraint
titikṣā duḥkha-saṁmarṣo
titikṣā of suffering forbearance
jihvopastha-jayo dhṛtiḥ
of tongue and genitals conquest dhṛti

213 "Śama is the fixing of the intellect on Me; dama, restraint of the senses; titikṣā, patient endurance of suffering; dhṛti, conquest of the tongue and the genitals." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.19.36)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Awareness fixed on Me is the quality of śama; control of the senses is dama; bearing suffering is called titikṣā; and conquest of the tongue and genitals is called dhṛti.

Anubhāṣya.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa's answer to Uddhava's question:

buddheḥ man-niṣṭhatā (not mere peace) is "śamaḥ"; indriya-saṁyamaḥ (not the subduing of thieves and the like) is "damaḥ"; duḥkha-saṁmarṣaḥ (tolerance — bearing the results of one's own actions or prescribed suffering, not burdens and the like) is "titikṣā"; jihvopastha-jayaḥ (conquest of the tongue and genitals — restraining their urges, not merely being unagitated) is "dhṛtiḥ."

কৃষ্ণ বিনা তৃষ্ণা-ত্যাগ — তার কার্য্য মানি । অতএব 'শান্ত' কৃষ্ণভক্ত এক জানি ॥ ২১৪ ॥

kṛṣṇa vinā tṛṣṇā-tyāga — tāra kārya māni Kṛṣṇa except of thirst the giving up its function I consider ataeva 'śānta' kṛṣṇa-bhakta eka jāni
therefore peaceful Kṛṣṇa's devotee alone I know

214 Giving up thirst for everything but Kṛṣṇa — that, I consider, is its function. Therefore I know only the devotee of Kṛṣṇa to be truly peaceful (śānta).

Anubhāṣya.

The absence of craving for anything but Kṛṣṇa is acknowledged as the effect of śānta-rasa; therefore only a devotee of Kṛṣṇa is śānta (peaceful).

স্বর্গ মোক্ষ কৃষ্ণভক্ত 'নরক' করি' মানে । কৃষ্ণনিষ্ঠা, তৃষ্ণা-ত্যাগ — শান্তের 'দুই' গুণে ॥ ২১৫ ॥

svarga mokṣa kṛṣṇa-bhakta 'naraka' kari' māne heaven liberation Kṛṣṇa's devotee hell as regards
kṛṣṇa-niṣṭhā, tṛṣṇā-tyāga — śāntera 'dui' guṇe fixedness on Kṛṣṇa giving up of thirst of śānta two qualities

215 A devotee of Kṛṣṇa regards heaven and liberation as hell. Fixedness on Kṛṣṇa and the giving up of thirst — these are the two qualities of śānta.

Anubhāṣya.
Dui guṇe (by the two qualities) means by exclusive devotion to Kṛṣṇa and by giving up greed for things or objects other than Kṛṣṇa.

(Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Canto 6, Chapter 17, verse 28)

নারায়ণপরাঃ সর্ব্বে ন কুতশ্চন বিভ্যতি । স্বর্গাপবর্গনরকেষ্বপি তুল্যার্থদর্শিনঃ ॥ ২১৬ ॥

nārāyaṇa-parāḥ sarve devoted to Nārāyaṇa all na kutaścana bibhyati
not from anywhere fear
svargāpavarga-narakeṣv
in heaven, liberation and hell api tulyārtha-darśinaḥ
even the same value seeing

216 "Those who are devoted to Nārāyaṇa fear nothing from any quarter; in heaven, in liberation and even in hell they see the same worth." (Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.17.28)[15]

Anubhāṣya.
See Madhya 9.270.

Śānta-rasa runs through all the devotees of Bhagavān —

এই দুই গুণ ব্যাপে সব ভক্তজনে । আকাশের 'শব্দ'-গুণ যেন ভূতগণে ॥ ২১৭ ॥

ei dui guṇa vyāpe saba bhakta-jane these two qualities pervade all devotees ākāśera 'śabda'-guṇa yena bhūta-gaṇe
of ether sound the quality as the elements

217 These two qualities pervade all devotees, just as sound, the quality of ether, pervades all the elements.

Anubhāṣya.
Saba bhakta-jane (in all devotees) means that they are present in all five kinds of devotees: śānta, dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya and madhura.

"The quality of ether is sound": for a detailed explanation see Madhya 8.85–87.

In śānta-rasa, a detached (nirapekṣa) attitude towards Kṛṣṇa —

শান্তের স্বভাব — কৃষ্ণে মমতা-গন্ধ হীন ।
'পরংব্রহ্ম'-'পরমাত্মা'-জ্ঞান-প্রবীণ ॥ ২১৮ ॥

śāntera svabhāva — kṛṣṇe mamatā-gandha hīna of śānta the nature for Kṛṣṇa of possessiveness the scent devoid
'paraṁ-brahma'-'paramātmā'-jñāna-pravīṇa of the Supreme Brahman of the Supersoul in knowledge expert

218 The nature of śānta is to be devoid of even a trace of the sense that Kṛṣṇa is 'my own' (mamatā); in it knowledge of Him as the Supreme Brahman and the Supersoul (Paramātmā) predominates.

In dāsya-rasa — śānta-rasa and service —

কেবল 'স্বরূপ-জ্ঞান' হয় শান্ত-রসে ।
'পূর্ণৈশ্বর্য্যপ্রভু-জ্ঞান' অধিক হয় দাস্যে ॥ ২১৯ ॥

kevala 'svarūpa-jñāna' haya śānta-rase
only knowledge of His svarūpa is in śānta-rasa
'pūrṇaiśvarya-prabhu-jñāna' adhika haya dāsye
of the Master full of majesty knowledge more is in dāsya

219 In śānta-rasa there is only knowledge of His true nature (svarūpa); in dāsya there is more — knowledge of Him as the Master full of all majesty.

ঈশ্বরজ্ঞান, সম্ভ্রম-গৌরব প্রচুর ।
'সেবা' করি' কৃষ্ণে সুখ দেন নিরন্তর ॥ ২২০ ॥

īśvara-jñāna, sambhrama-gaurava pracura awareness of the Lord awe and reverence abundant
'sevā' kari' kṛṣṇe sukha dena nirantara service rendering to Kṛṣṇa happiness they give constantly

220 In it there is awareness of Him as the Lord, with abundant awe and reverence; and by their service the devotees constantly give Kṛṣṇa happiness.

শান্তের গুণ দাস্যে আছে, অধিক — 'সেবন' । অতএব দাস্যরসের এই 'দুই' গুণ ॥ ২২১ ॥

śāntera guṇa dāsye āche, adhika — 'sevana'
of śānta the quality in dāsya is in addition service
ataeva dāsya-rasera ei 'dui' guṇa
therefore of dāsya-rasa these two qualities

221 The quality of śānta is present in dāsya, and service besides; therefore dāsya-rasa has these two qualities.

In sakhya-rasa — śānta-rasa and dāsya-rasa taken into it, plus confidence (viśrambha) and mamatā —

শান্তের গুণ, দাস্যের সেবন — সখ্যে দুই হয় ।
দাস্যের 'সম্ভ্রম-গৌরব'-সেবা, সখ্যে 'বিশ্বাস'-ময় ॥ ২২২ ॥

śāntera guṇa, dāsyera sevana — sakhye dui haya of śānta the quality of dāsya the service in sakhya both are dāsyera 'sambhrama-gaurava'-sevā, sakhye 'viśvāsa'-maya of dāsya with awe and reverence service in sakhya with trust filled

222 The quality of śānta and the service of dāsya — both are present in sakhya. But whereas the service of dāsya is full of awe and reverence, in sakhya it is full of trust.

কান্ধে চড়ে, কান্ধে চড়ায়, করে ক্রীড়া-রণ । কৃষ্ণে সেবে, কৃষ্ণে করায় আপন-সেবন ॥ ২২৩ ॥

kāndhe caḍe, kāndhe caḍāya, kare krīḍā-raṇa
on the shoulders they climb on their shoulders they mount Him they do mock fighting kṛṣṇe seve, kṛṣṇe karāya āpana-sevana
Kṛṣṇa they serve Kṛṣṇa they make to serve them

223 They climb on His shoulders and carry Him on theirs, and play at fighting with Him. They serve Kṛṣṇa, and they make Kṛṣṇa serve them.

বিশ্রম্ভ-প্রধান সখ্য — গৌরব-সম্ভ্রম-হীন । অতএব সখ্য-রসের 'তিন' গুণ — চিহ্ন ॥ ২২৪ ॥

viśrambha-pradhāna sakhya — gaurava-sambhrama-hīna trust chiefly sakhya of reverence and awe devoid ataeva sakhya-rasera 'tina' guṇa — cihna
therefore of sakhya-rasa three qualities the marks

224 Sakhya is founded chiefly on intimate trust (viśrambha) and is free of reverence and awe; therefore sakhya-rasa is marked by three qualities.

'মমতা' অধিক, কৃষ্ণে আত্মসম জ্ঞান । অতএব সখ্যরসের বশ ভগবান্ ॥ ২২৫ ॥

'mamatā' adhika, kṛṣṇe ātma-sama jñāna possessiveness greater of Kṛṣṇa as equal to oneself the sense ataeva sakhya-rasera vaśa bhagavān
therefore by sakhya-rasa controlled the Lord

225 In it the sense of Kṛṣṇa as 'my own' is greater, and one regards Kṛṣṇa as one's equal; therefore the Lord is subdued by sakhya-rasa.

In vātsalya-rasa — dāsya-rasa and sakhya-rasa, plus the sense that Kṛṣṇa needs to be cared for —

বাৎসল্যে শান্তের গুণ, দাস্যের সেবন । সেই সেই সেবনের ইঁহা নাম — ‘পালন’ ॥ ২২৬ ॥

vātsalye śāntera guṇa, dāsyera sevana
in vātsalya of śānta the quality of dāsya the service sei sei sevanera iṁhā nāma — ‘pālana’
that very service’s here the name nurturing

226 In vātsalya there are the quality of śānta and the service of dāsya; but here that service is called nurturing (pālana).

সখ্যের গুণ — ‘অসঙ্কোচ’, ‘অগৌরব’-সার । মমতাধিক্যে তাড়ন-ভর্ৎসন-ব্যবহার ॥ ২২৭ ॥

sakhyera guṇa — ‘asaṅkoca’, ‘agaurava’-sāra of sakhya the quality freedom from restraint absence of reverence the essence mamatādhikye tāḍana-bhartsana-vyavahāra
from excess of possessiveness chastising and scolding behaviour

227 The quality of sakhya is there too — freedom from restraint, with no reverence at its core; and from an excess of the sense of Kṛṣṇa as ‘my own’, they chastise and scold Him.

আপনারে ‘পালক’-জ্ঞান, কৃষ্ণে ‘পাল্য’-জ্ঞান । ‘চারি’ গুণে বাৎসল্য রস — অমৃত-সমান ॥ ২২৮ ॥

āpanāre ‘pālaka’-jñāna, kṛṣṇe ‘pālya’-jñāna oneself as protector the sense Kṛṣṇa as dependent the sense ‘cāri’ guṇe vātsalya rasa — amṛta-samāna
with four qualities vātsalya rasa like nectar

228 They regard themselves as His protectors and Kṛṣṇa as their dependent. With these four qualities, vātsalya-rasa is like nectar.

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.

Exclusive devotion to Kṛṣṇa and (therefore) giving up craving for other things — these are the two qualities of śānta-rasa[17]. Just as sound, the sole quality of ether, pervades all the elements — air, fire, water and earth — so the qualities of śānta-rasa are present in dāsya, sakhya, vātsalya and madhura-rasa. Śānta-rasa has these two qualities, but it lacks mamatā (the property "He is mine"). Therefore the object of worship in this rasa is "Parabrahman," "the Paramātmā" and the like, and in this worship itself knowledge (jñāna) predominates. When mamatā is added to it — "This Paramātmā is my Master, and I am His eternal servant" — śānta-rasa blossoms and turns into dāsya; yet in it there is still abundant "awareness of the Lord" (īśvara-jñāna) and "reverence" (gaurava) in the form of awe. In śānta-rasa there is no service; service begins only in dāsya-rasa. In dāsya-rasa two qualities are seen: the quality of śānta, and mamatā.

Further, in sakhya-rasa the quality of śānta and the quality of dāsya are certainly present, but to them is added a little love full of trust. Trust is called viśrambha; in sakhya-rasa, where viśrambha predominates, there is no reverence or awe. Therefore sakhya-rasa has "three" qualities. The mamatā that was in dāsya has increased in sakhya: Kṛṣṇa is regarded as "equal to oneself" (ātma-sama). In vātsalya the quality of śānta and the service of dāsya turn into "nurturing" (pālana). Besides this, there are the qualities of sakhya — freedom from reserve and absence of reverence — and, from an excess of mamatā, punishing and scolding, as well as regarding oneself as the "protector" and Kṛṣṇa as the one "to be protected." Through such qualities of four rasas, vātsalya has become like nectar.

Anubhāṣya.

Those whose knowledge is dominated by majesty speak of Kṛṣṇa's quality of being subject to His own devotees[28].

সে অমৃতানন্দে ভক্ত সহ ডুবেন আপনে ।
'কৃষ্ণ — ভক্তবশ' গুণ কহে ঐশ্বর্য্য-জ্ঞানিগণে ॥ ২২৯ ॥

se amṛtānande bhakta saha ḍubena āpane
in that nectar-bliss the devotee with is immersed Himself
'kṛṣṇa — bhakta-vaśa' guṇa kahe aiśvarya-jñāni-gaṇe
Kṛṣṇa controlled by His devotees the quality speak of those who know His majesty

229 Kṛṣṇa Himself is immersed with His devotee in that nectar of bliss. Those who know His majesty speak of this quality: 'Kṛṣṇa is controlled by His devotees.'

(Padma Purāṇa, Dāmodarāṣṭaka)

ইতিদৃক্স্বলীলাভিরানন্দকুণ্ডে
স্বঘোষং নিমজ্জন্তমাখ্যাপয়ন্তম্ ।
তদীয়েশিতজ্ঞেষু ভক্তৈর্জিতত্বং পুনঃ প্রেমতস্তং শতাবৃত্তি বন্দে ॥ ২৩০ ॥

itidṛk-sva-līlābhir ānanda-kuṇḍe
by such pastimes of His own in a pool of bliss
sva-ghoṣaṁ nimajjantam ākhyāpayantam
His own cowherd village immersing proclaiming tadīyeśita-jñeṣu bhaktair jitatvaṁ to those who know His lordship by His devotees His being conquered punaḥ prematas taṁ śatāvṛtti vande
again with love Him a hundred times I worship

230 "By such pastimes He immerses His own cowherd village in a pool of bliss, and to those absorbed in knowledge of His lordship He proclaims that He is conquered by His devotees. Again, with love, I bow to Him a hundred times." (Dāmodarāṣṭaka, 3)

Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya.
O Bhagavān, I bow to You lovingly hundreds of times, for by such pastimes of Yours You immerse the gopīs in a lake of bliss and show the devotees who are aware of Your majesty that You are conquered by devotees.

The exclusive devotion to Kṛṣṇa (kṛṣṇa-niṣṭhā)[18] of śānta, the "abundant service" of dāsya, the "service without reserve" of sakhya, and the "nurturing from an excess of mamatā" of vātsalya — when to all these feelings is firmly added the "service of giving one's own body," which belongs to the mood of a beloved (kāntā-bhāva), there arises madhura-rasa, endowed with five qualities. In it all the bhāvas are combined. Therefore, as the fullness of taste increases, its supreme wonder is seen. Reflecting on the sūtras of this bhakti-rasa, told in brief, [Śrī Rūpa] will bring forth the scripture Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu.

Thus ends the nineteenth chapter of the "Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya."

Anubhāṣya.

iti (by this Dāmodara pastime) īdṛk (like the Dāmodara pastime) sva-līlābhiḥ (by His own pastimes, His sports) sva-ghoṣam (all His loving cowherds and others) ānanda-kuṇḍe nimajjantam (immersing — relishing a special supreme happiness) tadīyeśita-jñeṣu (to devotees absorbed in Bhagavān's majesty) bhaktaiḥ jitatvam (His being conquered by devotees) ākhyāpayantam (proclaiming) tvām (You, the Lord) prematah̤ (with special devotion) śatāvṛtti (so that it is a hundred times — a hundred times) aham vande.

In madhura-rasa — dāsya, sakhya and vātsalya taken into it, plus service with one's own body —

মধুর-রসে — কৃষ্ণনিষ্ঠা, সেবা অতিশয় ৷৷ সখ্যের অসঙ্কোচ, লালন-মমতাধিক্য হয় ॥ ২৩১ ॥

madhura-rase — kṛṣṇa-niṣṭhā, sevā atiśaya
in madhura-rasa fixedness on Kṛṣṇa service in abundance sakhyera asaṅkoca, lālana-mamatādhikya haya of sakhya the freedom from restraint of nurturing the excess of possessiveness are 231 In madhura-rasa there are fixedness on Kṛṣṇa and abundant service, the unreserved freedom of sakhya, and, in still greater measure, the sense of 'my own' that belongs to nurturing.

কান্তভাবে নিজাঙ্গ দিয়া করেন সেবন ৷৷ অতএব মধুর-রসের হয় 'পঞ্চ' গুণ ॥ ২৩২ ॥

kānta-bhāve nijāṅga diyā karena sevana
in the mood of a beloved one's own body giving they do service
ataeva madhura-rasera haya 'pañca' guṇa
therefore of madhura-rasa are five qualities

232 In the mood of His beloveds they serve Him with their own bodies; therefore madhura-rasa has five qualities.

Just as sound and the other qualities of ether and the other elements culminate in the quality of earth, smell, so in madhura-rasa the other four rasas are present throughout —

আকাশাদি গুণ যেন পর পর ভূতে । এক-দুই-তিন-চারি-ক্রমে পঞ্চ পৃথিবীতে ॥ ২৩৩ ॥

ākāśādi guṇa yena para para bhūte of ether and the rest the qualities as in each succeeding element
eka-dui-tina-cāri-krame pañca pṛthivīte
one, two, three, four in succession five in earth

233 It is like the qualities of ether and the other elements, which increase in each succeeding element — one, two, three, four — until all five are found in earth.

Anubhāṣya.
See Madhya 8.87.

এইমত মধুরে সব ভাব-সমাহার । অতএব আস্বাদাধিক্যে করে চমৎকার ॥ ২৩৪ ॥

ei-mata madhure saba bhāva-samāhāra
in this way in madhura all of the moods the gathering ataeva āsvādādhikye kare camatkāra
therefore by its abundance of taste does wonder

234 In the same way, all the moods are gathered together in madhura; therefore it astonishes by the abundance of its taste.

This brief survey by the Lord is set out in detail in the Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu

—

এই ভক্তিরসের করিলাঙ, দিগ্‌দরশন । ইহার বিস্তার মনে করিহ ভাবন ॥ ২৩৫ ॥

ei bhakti-rasera karilāṅa, dig-daraśana of this bhakti-rasa I have made an overview
ihāra vistāra mane kariha bhāvana
its elaboration in your mind do meditation

235 I have given you only an overview of bhakti-rasa; meditate in your mind on its full elaboration.

ভাবিতে ভাবিতে কৃষ্ণ স্ফুরয়ে অন্তরে । কৃষ্ণকৃপায় অজ্ঞ পায় রসসিন্ধু-পারে ॥ ২৩৬ ॥

bhāvite bhāvite kṛṣṇa sphuraye antare meditating meditating Kṛṣṇa manifests within kṛṣṇa-kṛpāya ajña pāya rasa-sindhu-pāre
by Kṛṣṇa's mercy an ignorant one reaches of the ocean of rasa the far shore

236 As one meditates on it again and again, Kṛṣṇa manifests within the heart, and by Kṛṣṇa's mercy even one who knows nothing reaches the far shore of the ocean of rasa."

The Lord sets out from Prayāga for Kāśī —

এত বলি' প্রভু তাঁরে কৈলা আলিঙ্গন । বারাণসী চলিবারে প্রভুর হৈল মন ॥ ২৩৭ ॥

eta bali' prabhu tāṁre kailā āliṅgana
this saying the Lord him made an embrace vārāṇasī calibāre prabhura haila mana to Vārāṇasī to go the Lord's arose mind

237 Saying this, the Lord embraced him, and then He made up His mind to go to Vārāṇasī.

প্রভাতে উঠিয়া যবে করিলা গমন । তবে তাঁর পদে রূপ করে নিবেদন ॥ ২৩৮ ॥

prabhāte uṭhiyā yabe karilā gamana
in the morning rising when He did departure
tabe tāṁra pade rūpa kare nivedana
then His at the feet Rūpa makes a submission

238 When the Lord rose in the morning and set out, Rūpa humbly made this request at His feet:

Śrī Rūpa asks permission to follow the Lord —

‘আজ্ঞা হয়, আসি মুঞি শ্রীচরণ-সঙ্গে ।
সহিতে না পারি মুঞি বিরহ-তরঙ্গে’ ॥ ২৩৯ ॥

‘ājñā haya, āsi muñi śrī-caraṇa-saṅge permission if there is may come I Your holy feet with sahite nā pāri muñi viraha-taraṅge’
to bear not am able I of separation the waves

239 “If You permit, I shall go with You. I cannot bear the waves of separation.”

The Lord tells Śrī Rūpa to go to Vṛndāvana and later come from there to meet Him in Purī —

প্রভু কহে, — তোমার কর্ত্তব্য, আমার বচন । নিকটে আসিয়াছ তুমি, যাহ বৃন্দাবন ॥ ২৪০ ॥

prabhu kahe, — tomāra kartavya, āmāra vacana
the Lord says your duty My word nikaṭe āsiyācha tumi, yāha vṛndāvana near have come you go to Vṛndāvana

240 The Lord said: “Your duty is to follow My word. You have come close to Vṛndāvana; go there.

বৃন্দাবন হৈতে তুমি গৌড়দেশ দিয়া । আমারে মিলিবা নীলাচলেতে আসিয়া ॥ ২৪১ ॥

vṛndāvana haite tumi gauḍa-deśa diyā Vṛndāvana from you Gauḍa-deśa by way of āmāre milibā nīlācalete āsiyā
Me you will meet to Nīlācala coming

241 Then from Vṛndāvana, by way of Gauḍa-deśa, you will come to Nīlācala and meet Me there."

The Lord boards the boat; Śrī Rūpa faints —

তাঁরে আলিঙ্গিয়া প্রভু নৌকাতে চড়িলা । মূর্চ্ছিতা হঞা তিঁহো তাহাঞি পড়িলা ॥ ২৪২ ॥

tāṁre āliṅgiyā prabhu naukāte caḍilā him embracing the Lord the boat boarded mūrcchitā hañā tiṁho tāhāñi paḍilā unconscious becoming he right there fell

242 Embracing him, the Lord boarded the boat, and Rūpa fell unconscious on the spot.

Śrī Rūpa and Anupama set out for Vṛndāvana —

দাক্ষিণাত্য-বিপ্র তাঁরে ঘরে লঞা গেলা । তবে দুই ভাই বৃন্দাবনেরে চলিলা ॥ ২৪৩ ॥

dākṣiṇātya-vipra tāṁre ghare lañā gelā
the South Indian brāhmaṇa him home taking went tabe dui bhāi vṛndāvanere calilā
then the two brothers to Vṛndāvana set out

243 The brāhmaṇa from the South took him to his home, and then the two brothers set out for Vṛndāvana.

The Lord arrives in Kāśī —

মহাপ্রভু চলি' চলি' আইলা বারাণসী । চন্দ্রশেখর মিলিলা গ্রামের বাহিরে আসি' ॥ ২৪৪ ॥

mahāprabhu cali' cali' āilā vārāṇasī Mahāprabhu walking walking came to Vārāṇasī candraśekhara mililā grāmera bāhire āsi'
Candraśekhara met Him of the town outside coming

244 Mahāprabhu travelled on and on and came to Vārāṇasī, where Candraśekhara came out of the town and met Him.

Vaidya Śekhara (Candraśekhara), as instructed in a dream, meets the Lord and brings Him home —

রাত্রে তিঁহো স্বপ্ন দেখে, — প্রভু আইলা ঘরে । প্রাতঃকালে আসি' রহে গ্রামের বাহিরে ॥ ২৪৫ ॥

rātre tiṁho svapna dekhe, — prabhu āilā ghare
at night he a dream sees the Lord has come to the house
prātaḥ-kāle āsi' rahe grāmera bāhire
in the morning coming waits of the town outside

245 At night he had dreamt that the Lord had come to his house; so in the morning he came out and waited outside the town.

আচম্বিতে প্রভু দেখি' চরণে পড়িলা । আনন্দিত হঞা নিজ-গৃহে লঞা গেলা ॥ ২৪৬ ॥

ācambite prabhu dekhi' caraṇe paḍilā unexpectedly the Lord seeing at His feet he fell ānandita hañā nija-gṛhe lañā gelā joyful becoming to his own house taking went

246 Seeing the Lord so unexpectedly, he fell at His feet, and full of joy he took Him to his own house.

Tapana Miśra invites the Lord, and Candraśekhara invites Balabhadra —

তপনমিশ্র শুনি' আসি' প্রভুরে মিলিলা । ইষ্টগোষ্ঠী করি' প্রভুর নিমন্ত্রণ কৈলা ॥ ২৪৭ ॥

tapana-miśra śuni' āsi' prabhure mililā Tapana Miśra hearing coming the Lord met iṣṭa-goṣṭhī kari' prabhura nimantraṇa kailā
a discussion holding of the Lord invitation made

247 Hearing of this, Tapana Miśra came and met the Lord. After talking with Him, he invited the Lord to take His meal.

নিজঘরে লঞা প্রভুরে ভিক্ষা করাইল । ভট্টাচার্য্যে চন্দ্রশেখর নিমন্ত্রণ কৈল ॥ ২৪৮ ॥

nija-ghare lañā prabhure bhikṣā karāila to his own house taking the Lord the meal had Him take bhaṭṭācārye candraśekhara nimantraṇa kaila
the Bhaṭṭācārya Candraśekhara invitation made

248 He took the Lord to his own house and fed Him, and Candraśekhara invited the Bhaṭṭācārya.

Miśra asks leave to feed the Lord for as long as He stays in Kāśī —

ভিক্ষা করাঞা মিশ্র কহে প্রভু-পায় ধরি' । এক ভিক্ষা মাগি, মোরে দেহ' কৃপা করি' ॥ ২৪৯ ॥

bhikṣā karāñā miśra kahe prabhu-pāya dhari'
the meal having fed Miśra says the Lord's feet holding eka bhikṣā māgi, more deha' kṛpā kari'
one alms I beg to me give mercy showing

249 After feeding Him, Miśra clasped the Lord's feet and said: "I beg You for one favour; be merciful and grant it:

‘যাবৎ তোমার হয় কাশীপুরে স্থিতি ৷
মোর ঘর বিনা ভিক্ষা না করিবা কতি’ ॥ ২৫০ ॥

‘yāvat tomāra haya kāśī-pure sthiti
as long as Your is in Kāśī stay mora ghara vinā bhikṣā nā karibā kati’
my house except meal not You will take anywhere

250 as long as You stay in Kāśī, take Your meals nowhere but in my house.”

Indicating that the company of Māyāvādī sannyāsīs is bad association, the Lord agrees to the devotee’s request —

প্রভু জানেন, দিন পাঁচ-সাত সে রহিব ৷ সন্ন্যাসীর সঙ্গে ভিক্ষা কাঁহা না করিব ॥ ২৫১ ॥

prabhu jānena, dina pāṁca-sāta se rahiba
the Lord knows days five or seven He will stay sannyāsīra saṅge bhikṣā kāṁhā nā kariba sannyāsīs with meals anywhere not will take

251 The Lord knew that He would stay only five or seven days, and that He would not take meals with the sannyāsīs anywhere.

The Lord takes His meals at Tapana Miśra’s house and stays at Candraśekhara’s house —

এত জানি’ তাঁর ভিক্ষা কৈলা অঙ্গীকার ৷ বাসা-নিষ্ঠা কৈলা চন্দ্রশেখরের ঘর ॥ ২৫২ ॥

eta jāni’ tāṁra bhikṣā kailā aṅgīkāra
this knowing his meals made acceptance vāsā-niṣṭhā kailā candraśekharera ghara residence fixed made Candraśekhara’s house

252 Knowing this, He accepted Miśra’s request to take His meals with him, and made Candraśekhara’s house His residence.

A brāhmaṇa from Mahārāṣṭra receives the Lord's mercy —

মহারাষ্ট্রীয় বিপ্র আসি' তাঁহারে মিলিলা । প্রভু তাঁরে স্নেহ করি' কৃপা প্রকাশিলা ॥ ২৫৩ ॥

mahārāṣṭrīya vipra āsi' tāṁhāre mililā
from Mahārāṣṭra a brāhmaṇa coming Him met prabhu tāṁre sneha kari' kṛpā prakāśilā
the Lord to him affection showing mercy revealed

253 A brāhmaṇa from Mahārāṣṭra came and met Him, and the Lord, out of affection, showed him His mercy.

মহাপ্রভু আইলা শুনি' শিষ্ট শিষ্ট জন । ব্রাহ্মণ, ক্ষত্রিয় আসি' করেন দরশন ॥ ২৫৪ ॥

mahāprabhu āilā śuni' śiṣṭa śiṣṭa jana Mahāprabhu has come hearing respectable respectable people brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya āsi' karena daraśana brāhmaṇas kṣatriyas coming do seeing

254 Hearing that Mahāprabhu had come, many respectable people — brāhmaṇas and kṣatriyas — came to see Him.

The teaching to Śrī Rūpa is described in brief —

শ্রীরূপ-উপরে প্রভুর যত কৃপা হৈল । অত্যন্ত-বিস্তার-কথা সংক্ষেপে কহিল ॥ ২৫৫ ॥

śrī-rūpa-upare prabhura yata kṛpā haila Śrī Rūpa upon the Lord's all mercy was atyanta-vistāra-kathā saṅkṣepe kahila
very extensive the account in brief I have told 255 All the mercy the Lord showed Śrī Rūpa is a vast story; I have told it in brief.

Whoever hears of the teaching to Śrī Rūpa attains prema-bhakti at the feet of Caitanya —

শ্রদ্ধা করি' এই কথা শুনে যেই জনে । প্রেমভক্তি পায় সেই চৈতন্য-চরণে ॥ ২৫৬ ॥

śraddhā kari' ei kathā śune yei jane faith with this account hears whatever person prema-bhakti pāya sei caitanya-caraṇe loving devotion obtains he at Caitanya's feet

256 Whoever hears this account with faith obtains loving devotion at the feet of Caitanya.

Anubhāṣya.
Thus ends the nineteenth chapter of the "Anubhāṣya."

শ্রীরূপ-রঘুনাথ-পদে যার আশ । চৈতন্যচরিতামৃত কহে কৃষ্ণদাস ॥ ২৫৭ ॥

śrī-rūpa-raghunātha-pade yāra āśa Śrī Rūpa's, Raghunātha's at the feet whose hope caitanya-caritāmṛta kahe kṛṣṇadāsa
"Caitanya-caritāmṛta" narrates Kṛṣṇadāsa

257 Praying at the feet of Śrī Rūpa and Śrī Raghunātha, I, Kṛṣṇadāsa, narrate the Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

Notes

1. The same verse as Ādi 4.2; translation as there. ↩
2. According to the Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya, the "elder brother" (in quotation marks in the edition) is the emperor himself: Husain Shāh regarded Sanātana as his "younger brother," and in loving anger he says of himself that he only marches against other lands and, being a yavana by birth, hunts and kills many living beings and animals in the districts of Gauḍa. ↩

3. According to the Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya, these words carry a hidden meaning: the king, who himself behaves like a robber, will reap the fruit of that, and the minister who has neglected his duties deserves the fruit of dismissal. ↩
4. Reference as in the edition's heading: Hari-bhakti-vilāsa 10.91, words of the Itihāsa-samuccaya. ↩
5. The Bhaṭṭācārya here is evidently Balabhadra Bhaṭṭācārya, the Lord's companion on the way to Vṛndāvana, who is so named in verse 87 (edition heading: "Balabhadra cooks the meal"); the host is the brāhmaṇa from the South (44). ↩
6. In this passage bhaṭṭa is Vallabha Bhaṭṭa; the Bhaṭṭācārya of verses 87 and 89 is Balabhadra Bhaṭṭācārya, the Lord's companion (Anubhāṣya on verse 87). ↩
7. The same verse as Madhya 11.192; translation as there. ↩
8. The name of Balabhadra follows the edition's heading: "Worship of the Lord; Balabhadra cooks the meal." ↩
9. The lines of this verse follow the order of the Gauḍīya Maṭha edition (p. 669): first "'āge kaha' — prabhu-vākye upādhyāya kahila," then "raghupati upādhyāya namaskāra kaila." Other editions print them in the reverse order. ↩
10. The same verses as Ādi 4.205–206; translation as there. ↩
11. The same verse as Ādi 4.207 (= Madhya 6.270, 9.268); translation as there, but in the order of this edition, which reads sārūpya-sāmīpya — first likeness of form, then nearness. ↩
12. The Gauḍīya Maṭha edition reads karile ("performing"; elsewhere karileo, "even performing"); the sense is the same. ↩
13. References in 207–209 as in the edition's heading: Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.30.37–39 (elsewhere numbered 10.30.36–38). ↩
14. Reference as in the edition's heading: Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, "Śānta-bhakti-rasa-laharī", verse 21 (the verse stands in the fifth wave of the Dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, among the descriptions of śānta-rati). ↩
15. The same verse as Madhya 9.270; translation as there. ↩
16. The edition reads guṇāguṇa (usually "merits and faults"); by sense, Kṛṣṇa's qualities. ↩
17. So in the edition (scan checked): "219–228"; by content the paragraph begins with the discussion of verses 214–218 (the qualities of śānta-rasa). ↩
18. In the edition this paragraph has no number and stands within section 230; by content it belongs to verses 231–236. ↩
19. So in the edition (checked against the scan). ↩
20. So in the edition (checked against the scan). ↩

21. So in the edition; the verse transliteration divides it as adbhute ’haṁ. The commentary reads one word (adbhuta-īha, “whose deeds are wonderful”) and supplies “I” in parentheses. ↩
22. Upadeśāmṛta 9. ↩
23. So in the edition (checked against the scan); by content, Madhya 18.47 (on Vallabha’s sons and Viṭhṭhala’s birth). ↩
24. There are eleven Rudras, i.e., eleven lakhs. A lakh is one hundred thousand; the total is 84 lakhs (8,400,000). ↩
25. Upadeśāmṛta 2. ↩
26. The numeral is unclear in the scan (broken type); by sense it is the second wave, which deals with the anubhāvas. ↩
27. The edition (scan checked) reads mithyā (“falsely”), evidently a misprint for mitho (“mutually”); the Bengali paraphrase that follows has “mutual.” ↩
28. So in the edition (scan checked): the note is numbered 228, but by content it belongs to verse 229. ↩